How then should we, who believe that God owns the cattle on a thousand hills, that life does not consist in the abundance of possessions, that we are not our own, that we are not strict owners, but mere stewards of talents, wealth, and grace, who will give to God an account of our stewardship—how should we think about capitalism?

DEFINING CAPITALISM

There are several different concepts of capitalism out there. We should first make sure which concept we are taking about. Then we should weigh how the biblical notions of property, stewardship, and identity come into play. Let us begin at the beginning.

Humans have basic needs and desire things they may or may not need. They take actions that they believe will meet such needs and desires. Sometimes these actions succeed; sometimes they do not. Needs, desires, rational action—these notions are often taken to be the axioms of economics. Economics is a social science that studies the issues that are involved whenever a group of people have to decide what gets produced and who gets how much of it.

In 1776 Adam Smith shaped the world economy and consciousness of his day and even our own by claiming that when individuals pursue their own interests, men and women are together led as if by an "invisible hand" to achieve the common good. Smith's idea is that the rational and voluntary actions of individuals combine in some yet undisclosed way to answer the two questions about what gets produced and who gets what.

His claim also raises the deeper question of who owns the property and productive capacities to begin with. Under pure capitalism, all property and wealth are privately owned. Individuals decide for themselves what gets produced, how to go about it, and what to do with the profits. Under pure socialism, by contrast, everything is collectively owned and representatives of that collective decide what gets produced and who gets what.

But neither pure capitalism nor pure socialism exists in any nation. The approach of every modern nation lies somewhere on the continuum as a combination of private and collectively-owned property. The United States is closer to the pure capitalism pole; China is closer to the pure socialism pole. Granting that at least some property and important economic decisions must be made by the state to provide for our roads, parks, and national defense, the crucial core of the concept of capitalism is that it is a mixed, private-property economy. This must be refined further.

CAPITALISM AND PRIVATE PROPERTY

While some people treat capitalism as categorically undesirable, what they have in mind is really something else—no matter how closely related it might seem. Capitalism in this other sense has become a word for misuse of private-property. It is a pejorative synonym for exploitation, greed, or oppression. This runs contrary to Scripture, which endorses private property in the form of individual stewardship of all the gifts of God, including one's talents and spiritual gifts. Since fallen people have these stewardship responsibilities, misuse and abuse is bound to occur and have collective effects. Therefore, a private-property economy must be viewed initially as a qualified good.

A private-property economy is a powerful social arrangement which, through the division of labor and specialization, has produced the highest standard of living in human history. To this extent, Adam Smith was right. Of course, not everyone on the globe benefits equally, nor do they exert effort and discipline equally. There are obvious disparities on both counts.

Furthermore, some people confuse the profit motive with greed, but this is a mistake. All laborers deserve their wages—including those entrepreneurs who labor to provide a product people need or legitimately desire. Our concerns are not to focus on bad stewardship, nor how to think about the disparities of wealth, nor with greed nor profit. Our concern must be limited to understanding the role of morality in the optimal operation of a mixed, private-property economy and to what extent it is rooted in Scripture and yet may be applied by those who reject Scripture as God's Word.

THREE CONCEPTS OF CAPITALISM

Three concepts of capitalism as a private-property economy compete for attention in our world.

There is naive capitalism, which holds that markets are "morally-free zones" of social interaction —"spheres of sanctity" that remain separate from the intrusion of others. The idea is that morality has no role in achieving the common good. Many judges, public policy makers, economists, teachers of economics, and ordinary people take Smith's "invisible hand" to mean that morality has no place in economic interaction as long as everyone follows the co-ordination conventions of a price mechanism. This concept is widespread but mistaken, not only from a biblical perspective of property and stewardship, but also in practice and in theory (W. Schultz, The Moral Conditions of Economic Efficiency).

Then there is rational egoist capitalism. This is a version that works only in theory by assuming that adverse effects of unethical behavior are absent. It obviously leaves no room for a biblically grounded view of the moral conditions underlying the achievement of the common good. Christians should repudiate the attitudes and practices of rational egoist capitalism, recovering a clear sense of the biblical view of property and the responsibilities and motives of a truly Christian stewardship.

Finally, there is what could be called responsible capitalism. This view holds that morality is essential to an efficient, private-property economy. Morality is effective only when people hold themselves and each other responsible. Only the latter view of capitalism is worthy of Christian acceptance—and, even then, our acceptance must be qualified. We must bring a biblical view of property and a biblical view of the motive and ends of stewardship to our economic theorizing and use of wealth. Responsible capitalism will work among any group of people advocating diverse moral or religious beliefs, providing they desire a democratic, private-property economy that consistently yields efficient outcomes of market interaction. Therefore, we all should repudiate naive capitalism and rational egoist capitalism in favor of responsible capitalism for all nations.

CAPITALISM TODAY

The turn away from theological ethics in seventeenth-and eighteenth-century British moral theory was more significant than many have appreciated. Adam Smith's deistic views effectively excluded a biblical view of property (Peter Minowitz, Profits, Priests and Princes: Adam Smith's Emancipation of Economics from Politics and Religion, chap. 7). Nevertheless, when agents share a biblical understanding of property and are motivated by such property stewardship, they too will possess the required internal incentive to comply with the rights that ensure economically efficient outcomes of market interaction.

While such a moral capitalism requires that agents be free to produce and purchase what they desire, providing benchmark procedures for aiding the poor, Christians are further constrained. We who belong to Jesus were bought with a price. In reality, we own nothing. What we possess and what we do for a living and how these affect our sense of identity is founded in these truths.

Our calling as Christ's followers is not to a life of self-indulgent consumerism. We are stewards of whatever talents, gifts, grace, and wealth God in his sovereign mercy has entrusted to us. Let us recommit to living our economic lives for the sake of the gospel, the kingdom, and his glory. Only then can we ensure our long-term prosperity and happiness.

WALTER J. SCHULTZ

10 Whatever exists was given its name long ago, † † and it is known what mankind is. But he is not able to contend with the one stronger than he. † 11 For when there are many words, they increase futility. †
What is the advantage for mankind? 12 For who knows what is good for anyone in life, in the few days of his futile life that he spends like a shadow? †
Who can tell anyone what will happen after him under the sun?

6:1 Or it is common among men 6:3 Lit how many years 6:7 Lit mouth 6:9 Or a feeding on wind, or an affliction of spirit 6:10 Lit name already

6:10 This may be an allusion to God's naming of various things in Genesis 1:5,8,10, which shows his sovereignty. Likewise, the human race cannot contend with his subjection of them to death and futility because of their sin (see following note).

WISE SAYINGS

7 A good name is better than fine perfume, † and the day of one's death is better than the day of one's birth. † 2 It is better to go to a house of mourning than to go to a house of feasting, since that is the end of all mankind, and the living should take it to heart. †
3 Grief is better than laughter, for when a face is sad, a heart may be glad. † 4 The heart of the wise is in a house of mourning, but the heart of fools is in a house of pleasure.
5 It is better to listen to rebuke from a wise person than to listen to the song of fools, †

6 for like the crackling of burning thorns under the pot, † so is the laughter of the fool.
This too is futile.

7 Surely, the practice of extortion turns a wise person into a fool, † and a bribe corrupts the mind. †

8 The end of a matter is better than its beginning; a patient spirit is better than a proud spirit. †

9 Don't let your spirit rush to be angry, for anger abides in the heart of fools. †

10 Don't say, "Why were the former days better than these? " † since it is not wise of you to ask this.

11 Wisdom is as good as an inheritance and an advantage to those who see the sun, 12 because wisdom is protection as silver is protection; but the advantage of knowledge is that wisdom preserves the life of its owner. †

13 Consider the work of God, † for who can straighten out what he has made crooked? †

14 In the day of prosperity be joyful, † but in the day of adversity, consider: God has made the one as well as the other, † so that no one can discover anything that will come after him.

AVOIDING EXTREMES

15 In my futile life † I have seen everything: † someone righteous perishes in spite of his righteousness, † and someone wicked lives long in spite of his evil. † 16 Don't be excessively righteous, and don't be overly wise. † Why should you destroy yourself? 17 Don't be excessively wicked, and don't be foolish. Why should you die before your time? † 18 It is good that you grasp the one and do not let the other slip from your hand. For the one who fears God will end up with both of them.

19 Wisdom makes the wise person stronger than ten rulers of a city. †

20 There is certainly no one righteous on the earth who does good and never sins. †

21 Don't pay attention † to everything people say, or you may hear your servant cursing you, † 22 for in your heart you know that many times you yourself have cursed others.

WHAT THE TEACHER FOUND

23 I have tested all this by wisdom. I resolved, "I will be wise," but it was beyond me. 24 What exists is beyond reach and very deep. † Who can discover it? 25 I turned my thoughts to know, explore, and examine wisdom † and an explanation for things, and to know that wickedness is stupidity and folly is madness. 26 And I find more bitter than death † the woman who is a trap: † her heart a net and her hands chains. The one who pleases God will escape her, but the sinner will be captured by her. 27 "Look," says the Teacher, "I have discovered this by adding one thing to another to find out the explanation, 28 which my soul continually searches for but does not find: I found one person in a thousand, but none of those was a woman. † 29 Only see this: I have discovered that God made people upright, † but they pursued many schemes."

7:13 This verse clarifies 1:15, which had said "what is crooked cannot be straightened." Now the reader knows with certainty that it is God who has made crooked, referring to his subjection of the world to futility and death (see the note on 1:2-3). This state of affairs cannot be altered by anyone except God (see previous note).

7:14 As explained at further length in 3:1-11, God's works include both the good days and the bad, and such works humans cannot fully understand (see 7:24; 8:17).

7:20 Although Ecclesiastes focuses on futility and death, this verse relates these to the universal sinfulness of the human race (see following note). As such, humans are not innocent sufferers but subjects of the just punishment of God (see Gn 3; Ps 90).

7:27-29 Building on the universal sinfulness of the human race as asserted in verse 20 (see also 1Kg 8:46; Ps 14:1-3), the speaker testified that his own experience also supported this (v. 28). Furthermore, this sinfulness is not the fault of God, who made people upright.

WISDOM, AUTHORITIES, AND INEQUITIES

WISDOM, AUTHORITIES, AND INEQUITIES

8 Who is like the wise person, and who knows the interpretation of a matter? A person's wisdom brightens his face, and the sternness of his face is changed. †

2 Keep † the king's command because of your oath made before God. † 3 Do not be in a hurry; leave his presence, † and don't persist in a bad cause, since he will do whatever he wants. 4 For the king's word is authoritative, and who can say to him, "What are you doing?" † 5 The one who keeps a command will not experience anything harmful, † and a wise heart knows the right time and procedure. 6 For every activity there is a right time and procedure, † even though a person's troubles are heavy on him. 7 Yet no one knows what will happen † because who can tell him what will happen? 8 No one has authority over the wind † to restrain it, † and there is no authority over the day of death; † no one is discharged during battle, and wickedness will not allow those who practice it to escape. 9 All this I have seen, applying my mind to all the work that is done under the sun, at a time when one person has authority over another to his harm.

10 In such circumstances, I saw the wicked buried. They came and went from the holy place, † and they were praised † in the city where they did those things. This too is futile. 11 Because the sentence against an evil act is not carried out quickly, † the heart of people is filled with the desire to commit evil. 12 Although a sinner does evil a hundred times and prolongs his life, † I also know that it will go well with God-fearing people, † for they are reverent before him. 13 However, it will not go well with the wicked, † and they will not lengthen their days like a shadow, † for they are not reverent before God.

14 There is a futility that is done on the earth: there are righteous people who get what the actions of the wicked deserve, † and there are wicked people who get what the actions of the righteous deserve. † I say that this too is futile. 15 So I commended enjoyment because there is nothing better for a person under the sun than to eat, drink, and enjoy himself, † for this will accompany him in his labor during the days of his life that God gives him under the sun.

16 When I applied my mind to know wisdom † and to observe the activity that is done on the earth (even though one's eyes do not close in sleep day or night), 17 I observed all the work of God and concluded that a person is unable to discover the work that is done under the sun. Even though a person labors hard to explore it, he cannot find it; † even if a wise person claims to know it, he is unable to discover it.

8:10-13 Injustice in the world has been repeatedly mentioned in Ecclesiastes (3:16; 4:1; 5:8; 7:15). The speaker here also expressed his confidence in God's reward of those who fear him and his righteous judgment of those who do not (3:17; 12:13-14). See "Biblical View of Crime and Punishment," p. 105.

8:15 See the note on 2:24-26.

8:16-17 The speaker confessed that despite his own effort to do so, humans cannot fully understand the work of God (3:11; 7:14,24).

ENJOY LIFE DESPITE DEATH

9 Indeed, I took all this to heart and explained it all: The righteous, the wise, and their works are in God's hands. † People don't know whether to expect love or hate. Everything lies ahead of them. 2 Everything is the same for everyone: † There is one fate for the righteous and the wicked, † for the good and the bad, † for the clean and the unclean, for the one who sacrifices and the one who does not sacrifice. As it is for the good, so also it is for the sinner; as it is for the one who takes an oath, so also for the one who fears an oath. 3 This is an evil in all that is done under the sun: there is one fate for everyone. In addition, the hearts of people are full of evil, and madness is in their hearts while they live; † after that they go to the dead. 4 But there is hope for whoever is joined † with all the living, since a live dog is better than a dead lion.
5 For the living know that they will die, but the dead don't know anything.
There is no longer a reward for them because the memory of them is forgotten. † 6 Their love, their hate, and their envy have already disappeared, and there is no longer a portion for them in all that is done under the sun.

7 Go, eat your bread with pleasure, and drink your wine with a cheerful heart, for God has already accepted your works. † 8 Let your clothes be white all the time, and never let oil be lacking on your head. † 9 Enjoy life with the wife you love all the days of your fleeting † life, † which has been given to you under the sun, all your fleeting days. For that is your portion in life and in your struggle † under the sun. 10 Whatever your hands find to do, do with all your strength, † because there is no work, planning, knowledge, or wisdom † in Sheol where you are going.

THE LIMITATIONS OF WISDOM

11 Again I saw under the sun that the race is not to the swift, † or the battle to the strong, † or bread to the wise, or riches to the discerning, or favor to the skillful; rather, time and chance happen to all of them. 12 For certainly no one knows his time: † like fish caught in a cruel net or like birds caught in a trap, † so people are trapped in an evil time † as it suddenly falls on them. † 13 I have observed that this also is wisdom under the sun, and it is significant to me: 14 There was a small city with few men in it. A great king came against it, surrounded it, and built large siege works against it. 15 Now a poor wise man was found in the city, † and he delivered the city by his wisdom. † Yet no one remembered that poor man. 16 And I said, "Wisdom is better than strength, † but the wisdom of the poor man is despised, and his words are not heeded."

17 The calm words of the wise are heeded more than the shouts of a ruler over fools.
18 Wisdom is better than weapons of war, but one sinner can destroy much good. †

9:2 LXX, Aq, Syr, Vg; MT omits and the bad 9:4 Alt Hb tradition reads chosen 9:9 Or futile
9:1 Dt 33:3 9:2 Jb 9:22 9:2 Ec 2:14 9:3 Ec 1:17 9:5 Ec 2:16 9:7 Ec 2:24; 3:13; 5:18; 8:15 9:8 Ps 23:5 9:9 Ec 6:12; 7:15 9:9 Ec 2:10 9:10 Rm 12:11; Col 3:23 9:10 Ec 9:5 9:11 Am 2:14-15 9:11 2Ch 20:15 9:12 Ec 8:7 9:12 Pr 7:23 9:12 Pr 29:6 9:12 Lk 21:34-35 9:15 Ec 4:13 9:15 2Sm 20:22 9:16 Ec 7:19 9:18 Jos 7:1

9:2-3 This common fate is death (see the notes on 2:13-16; 3:19-20).

9:7-10 This passage should be linked to related preceding ones (2:24-26; 3:12-13,22; 5:18-20; 8:15). The uniqueness of this passage is that not only is enjoyment of life by God's grace described and commended;

it is commanded (see also 11:9), and this because God has already accepted [our] works (v. 7). Such divine acceptance (presumably of the God-fearer) is thus the grounds for both joy and hard work, not the other way around. This strikingly corresponds to NT passages such as Romans 12:1-2; 1 Corinthians 15:58; and others.

9:11-12 The observation that time and chance happen to all recognizes that just rewards are not always given in this life (see the note on 8:10-13), a theme frequently dealt with in Job (see the note on Jb 4:6-8).

THE BURDEN OF FOLLY

10 Dead flies make a perfumer's oil ferment and stink; † so a little folly outweighs wisdom and honor.

2 A wise person's heart goes to the † right, but a fool's heart to the left.

3 Even when the fool walks along the road, his heart lacks sense, and he shows everyone he is a fool. †

4 If the ruler's anger rises against you, don't leave your post, † for calmness puts great offenses to rest. †

5 There is an evil I have seen under the sun, an error proceeding from the presence of the ruler:

6 The fool is appointed to great heights, † but the rich remain in lowly positions.

7 I have seen slaves on horses, †
but princes walking on the ground like slaves. †

8 The one who digs a pit may fall into it, † and the one who breaks through a wall may be bitten by a snake. †

9 The one who quarries stones may be hurt by them; the one who splits logs may be endangered by them.

10 If the ax is dull, and one does not sharpen its edge, then one must exert more strength; however, the advantage of wisdom is that it brings success.

11 If the snake bites before it is charmed, † then there is no advantage for the charmer. †

12 The words from the mouth of a wise person are gracious, † but the lips of a fool consume him. † 13 The beginning of the words from his mouth is folly, but the end of his speaking is evil madness; 14 yet the fool multiplies words.

No one knows what will happen, and who can tell anyone what will happen after him? †
15 The struggles of fools weary them, for they don't know how to go to the city.
16 Woe to you, land, when your king is a youth † and your princes feast in the morning.
17 Blessed are you, land, when your king is a son of nobles and your princes feast at the proper time — for strength and not for drunkenness. † 18 Because of laziness the roof caves in, and because of negligent hands the house leaks.
19 A feast is prepared for laughter, and wine makes life happy, † and money † is the answer for everything. † 20 Do not curse the king even in your thoughts, † and do not curse a rich person even in your bedroom, † for a bird of the sky may carry the message, and a winged creature may report the matter.

10:16-17 Like verses 5-7, these concern qualified leadership in society. Inexperienced, indulgent leaders will bring trouble; those with character will bring blessing.

10:20 If it was possible for even a secret thought or word to spread in ancient Israel, how much more so in today's online world of social media?

INVEST IN LIFE

11 Send your bread on the surface of the water, † for after many days you may find it.
2 Give a portion to seven or even to eight, † for you don't know what disaster may happen on earth.

3 If the clouds are full, they will pour out rain on the earth; whether a tree falls to the south or the north, the place where the tree falls, there it will lie.
4 One who watches the wind will not sow, and the one who looks at the clouds will not reap.
5 Just as you don't know the path of the wind, or how bones develop in † the womb of a pregnant woman, so also you don't know the work of God who makes everything. † 6 In the morning sow your seed, and at evening do not let your hand rest, because you don't know which will succeed, whether one or the other, or if both of them will be equally good.
7 Light is sweet, and it is pleasing for the eyes to see the sun. †
8 Indeed, if someone lives many years, let him rejoice in them all, and let him remember the days of darkness, † since they will be many.
All that comes is futile.
9 Rejoice, young person, while you are young, and let your heart be glad in the days of your youth.
And walk in the ways of your heart and in the desire of your eyes; † but know that for all of these things God will bring you to judgment.
10 Remove sorrow from your heart, and put away pain from your flesh, † because youth and the prime of life are fleeting.

11:1 The sending of bread on the surface of the water is difficult and has been interpreted variously, including almsgiving, trade by sea, or the apparently senseless act of actually putting bread in water.

11:5 The speaker returns to the theme of human inability to fully understand the work of God (3:11; 7:14,24; 8:17).

11:6 The present context highlights the limitations of human knowledge and uncertainty of the future (vv. 2,5; 10:14). In contrast with the despairing view of work in 2:18-23 (see note), the speaker here instead encourages diligence (see also 9:10; 10:18).

11:9–12:1 This time it is the young person who is directly instructed to rejoice and be glad (v. 9; see the note on 9:7-10). The reminder that God will bring . . . to judgment indicates that mere hedonism is not in view here. Rather, the youth enjoying himself is simultaneously to remember [his] Creator (12:1).

THE TWILIGHT OF LIFE

THE TWILIGHT OF LIFE

12 So remember your Creator in the days of your youth:
Before the days of adversity come, and the years approach when you will say, †
"I have no delight in them";
2 before the sun and the light are darkened, † and the moon and the stars, and the clouds return after † the rain; 3 on the day when the guardians of the house tremble, and the strong men stoop, the women who grind grain cease because they are few, and the ones who watch through the windows see dimly, † 4 the doors at the street are shut while the sound of the mill fades; † when one rises at the sound of a bird, and all the daughters of song grow faint.
5 Also, they are afraid of heights and dangers on the road; the almond tree blossoms, the grasshopper loses its spring, † and the caper berry has no effect; for the mere mortal is headed to his eternal home, † and mourners will walk around in the street; † 6 before the silver cord is snapped, † and the gold bowl is broken, † and the jar is shattered at the spring, and the wheel is broken into the well; 7 and the dust returns to the earth as it once was, and the spirit returns to God who gave it. †

8 "Absolute futility," says the Teacher. "Everything is futile." †

THE TEACHER'S OBJECTIVES AND CONCLUSION

9 In addition to the Teacher being a wise man, he constantly taught the people knowledge; he weighed, explored, and arranged many proverbs. † 10 The Teacher sought to find delightful sayings and write words of truth accurately.
11 The sayings of the wise are like cattle prods, † and those from masters of collections are like firmly embedded nails. † The sayings are given by one Shepherd. †

12 But beyond these, my son, be warned: there is no end to the making of many books, † and much study wearies the body. † 13 When all has been heard, the conclusion of the matter is this: fear God † and keep his commands, because this is for all † humanity. † 14 For God will bring every act to judgment, † including every hidden thing, whether good or evil.

12:7-8 Aging and death having been vividly described (vv. 1-6), and here the speaker again alludes to dust as in Genesis 2–3 (see the note on 3:19-20). Verse 8 is nearly identical to 1:2, which together frame the book (see following note).

12:13-14 Despite the numerous complaints over the futility of life because of death, despair is not the final word in Ecclesiastes. As mentioned above, God will make things right when he bring[s] every act into judgment (3:16-17; 11:9). Humans thus should not ultimately succumb to disillusionment, frustration, or anger but should fear God and live in right relationship with him (3:14; 5:7). In this there is joy even in this life (see notes on 2:24-26; 9:7-10) as well as the promise of eternal reward (8:12). See “Chief Purpose of Humanity,” p. 1464.

SONG OF SONGS

INTRODUCTION

The Song of Songs celebrates the love of Solomon and his bride, who is called Shulamith or the Shulammite (6:13). The excitement of courtship, the beauty of the wedding night, the sexuality of the first night and subsequent nights, as well as tender friendship—all of these elements make this book a celebration of romance and marital sensuality as God intended them.

CIRCUMSTANCES OF WRITING

AUTHOR: The Song claims authorship by Solomon in its title, "The Song of Songs, which is Solomon's." The church has long accepted this at face value, but modern critics raise objections to Solomon as author.

First, critics claim that the title did not originate with the Song but was added later by someone who wanted to attribute the work to the famous Solomon. However, no evidence supports this claim. Moreover, the structure of the book suggests that the title is integral to the book's composition and is thus original. Like other biblical writers, the writer often structured content with attention to certain numbers—three, seven, and ten being some of the most common. Within the Song, for example, the author designed seven sections (see below), a sevenfold praise (4:1-5), twice a tenfold praise (5:10-16; 7:1-5), and a tenfold occurrence of the abstract word for love (2:4-5,7; 3:5; 5:8; 7:6; 8:4,6-7). Apart from the title (1:1), he wove Solomon's name into six other places (1:5; 3:7,9,11; 8:11-12): two in the last section, three in the central, and one in the first. With the inclusion of "Solomon" in the title, the name appears a perfect seven times and is symmetrically balanced within the Song: twice in the first section balanced by twice in the last one, with three in the central. The title is thus as cleverly integrated with the lyrics as possible. It not only conforms to their melodic alliteration and meter, but it completes the sevenfold occurrence of "Solomon" and in a manner that artistically balances it throughout the Song. In fact, the tenfold occurrence of "love" joins the sevenfold appearance of "Solomon" to show the Song's subject and author. Hardly a later addition, the title seems to have been original, constituting its first verse.

Another common objection to Solomon's authorship is the king's well-known possession of seven hundred wives and three hundred concubines (1Kg 11:3). How could a man who lived like that write a song about devotion to one woman? It appears he could do so only because grace touched his heart. In this respect he foreshadowed other biblical writers who, except for God's grace and calling, were the least qualified to write Scripture. For example, Paul, the great apostle, wrote most eloquently of grace and his unworthiness (e.g., 1Tm 1:12-16). Solomon was a man immersed in power and pleasure, but God opened his eyes to true love. Solomon also authored the book of Proverbs. Just as he did not always follow the precepts he recorded there, so too he evidently composed a great love song despite his failure to live in accordance with its ideals.

BACKGROUND: A compelling historical reason to date the Song as coming from the time of Solomon is its nearest literary parallel—the Egyptian love songs. No one doubts their origin prior to or contemporaneous with the time of Solomon, and the Egyptian love songs are indisputably the Song's closest literary parallels.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE BIBLE

A beautiful love song inspires us like grace, creating within us a desire for its beauty. Like such an enchanting love song, Solomon's Song inspires a pursuit of the love it portrays. This romantic delight is not a modern fairytale or fantasy from the past, but reflects God's desire to form within us a pure and devoted love. We discover that there is a bliss in married love that is reflective of the greater love believers experience as the bride of Christ. As this book's imagery informs us of romantic love, it also helps us anticipate the full consummation of our relationship with Christ when he returns for his bride.

STRUCTURE

The Song of Songs is a poem whose components form a chiastic structure. A chiasm takes the form: A

where A and A´ mirror each other and where the central element, C, conveys the main point of the poem. The outline below shows the structure of the Song of Songs. The author intended to emphasize the central elements of the structure, the day and night of the wedding (section IV). When God inspired Solomon to write this song, he gave divine approval to romantic love.

The Hebrew text makes a distinction between the various speakers through a change in gender and number. The CSB text has added subheadings to clarify when the speakers change.

CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW ELEMENTS

TEACHINGS ABOUT GOD

God is not directly named in this book. None of his usual names are found, such as God, Lord, the Lord, or the Almighty. God is affirmed indirectly as the Creator who conceived of romantic love between husband and wife, as in the account of the first man and woman coming together as one flesh (Gn 2:18-25).

TEACHINGS ABOUT HUMANITY

Song of Songs celebrates the glory of wedded bliss possible for human beings, despite the many obstacles to true love. The climax of the book shows how strong and wonderful romantic love is: "A huge torrent cannot extinguish love; rivers cannot sweep it away. If a man were to give all his wealth for love, it would be utterly scorned" (8:7).

TEACHINGS ABOUT SALVATION

The book does not teach directly about redemption. If the love of a husband for his wife can be as rich and satisfying as the book describes, how much greater is the love of God for his beloved people (see Rv 21:9).

1 The Song of Songs, which is Solomon's. †

Woman

2 Oh, that he would kiss me with the kisses of his mouth!
For your caresses † are more delightful than wine. †
3 The fragrance of your perfume is intoxicating; † your name is perfume poured out. †
No wonder young women † adore you.

4 Take me with you † — let's hurry.
Oh, that the king would bring † me to his chambers.

Young Women

We will rejoice and be glad in you; we will celebrate your caresses more than wine.

Woman

It is only right that they adore you.

5 Daughters of Jerusalem, †
I am dark like the tents of Kedar, † yet lovely † like the curtains of Solomon.
6 Do not stare at me because I am dark, for the sun has gazed on me.
My mother's sons were angry with me; †
they made me take care of the vineyards. †
I have not taken care of my own vineyard.

7 Tell me, you whom I love: †
Where do you pasture your sheep? †
Where do you let them rest at noon? †
Why should I be like one who veils herself † beside the flocks of your companions? †

Man †

8 If you do not know, most beautiful of women, † follow † the tracks of the flock, and pasture your young goats near the shepherds' tents.

9 I compare you, my darling, † to a † mare among Pharaoh's chariots. †

10 Your cheeks are beautiful with jewelry, † your neck with its necklace.
11 We will make gold jewelry for you, accented with silver.

Woman

12 While the king is on his couch, † my perfume † releases its fragrance. † 13 The one I love is a sachet of myrrh to me, † spending the night between my breasts.
14 The one I love is a cluster of henna blossoms to me, † in the vineyards of En-gedi. †

Man

15 How beautiful you are, my darling.
How very beautiful!
Your eyes are doves. †

Woman

16 How handsome you are, my love. †
How delightful!
Our bed is verdant;
17 the beams of our house are cedars, and our rafters are cypresses. †

1:1 Song of Songs concerns romance, marriage (3:11), and sexual union. Interpreters have naturally sought to understand this book's relationship to the biblical canon. To begin with, Proverbs 5:18-19 and Ecclesiastes 9:9 commend enjoying life with one's spouse. A broader parallel is the frequent description of the relationship between God and Israel as "marriage" (e.g., Is 62:4-5; Ezk 16; Hs 1–3; Rv 21:2). Along these lines, the bride in the Song is likened to "the tower of David" (4:4) and to "Jerusalem" (6:4). Another connection is to the pursuit of wisdom, which is frequently associated with marriage in Proverbs (see the notes on Pr 1:20-21; 4:6-9; 8:1-10; 9:1-9). Edenic imagery is used in Proverbs 3:13-18 and seems latent in the many passages in Song of Songs concerning gardens, vineyards, trees, fruit, flowers, and wine (see also Is 5:1-7). The Hebrew text translated is Solomon's might indicate authorship, but it also might indicate a kind of dedication or association that one could translate "to Solomon" or "with reference to Solomon." Interestingly, at the end of the book (8:11-12), Solomon seems to be placed in a negative light. Perhaps this is to contrast the ideal of sex and marriage found in the book with Solomon's having many wives and concubines, which eventually led to the downfall of Israel.

1:2-4 Her lover's kisses are more pleasurable than wine (see also v. 4; 2:4; 5:1; 7:9; 8:2). This sentiment generally parallels Psalm 63:3 (your faithful love is better than life). The scent of his perfume (lit "oils") also brings great pleasure (v. 3; 4:10).

1:15-16 Following the man's praise of her beauty (v. 15), she responds in kind (v. 16; see also Is 33:17). She had expressed some insecurity in verses 5-6 and had also been praised for her beauty in verses 8-10.

2 I am a wildflower † of Sharon, a lily † of the valleys. †

Man

2 Like a lily among thorns, so is my darling among the young women.

Woman

3 Like an apricot † tree among the trees of the forest, so is my love among the young men.
I delight to sit in his shade, and his fruit is sweet to my taste.
4 He brought me to the banquet hall, † † and he looked on me with love. † † 5 Sustain me with raisins; refresh me with apricots, † for I am lovesick. †
6 May his left hand be under my head, and his right arm embrace me. †
7 Young women of Jerusalem, I charge you by the gazelles and the wild does of the field, do not stir up or awaken love until the appropriate time. † †

8 Listen! My love is approaching.
Look! Here he comes, leaping over the mountains, †
bounding over the hills.
9 My love is like a gazelle or a young stag. †
See, he is standing behind our wall, gazing through the windows, peering through the lattice.

10 My love calls to me:

Man

Arise, † my darling.
Come away, my beautiful one.
11 For now the winter is past; the rain has ended and gone away.
12 The blossoms appear in the countryside.
The time of singing † has come, and the turtledove's cooing is heard in our land. † 13 The fig tree ripens its figs; †
the blossoming vines give off their fragrance. †
Arise, my darling.
Come away, my beautiful one.

14 My dove, † in the clefts of the rock, † in the crevices of the cliff, let me see your face, † let me hear your voice; † for your voice is sweet, and your face is lovely. †

Woman †

15 Catch the foxes for us † — the little foxes that ruin the vineyards — for our vineyards are in bloom. †

Woman

16 My love is mine and I am his; † he feeds among the lilies.
17 Until the day breaks †
and the shadows flee, turn around, my love, and be like a gazelle or a young stag † on the divided mountains. † †

2:2-3 The loving exchange continues as each person expresses the uniqueness of the other.

2:5 Having associated her enjoyment of his love with "wine" in 1:2-4 , she compares it to eating sweet fruit.

2:7 As in 1:5, the woman again addressed the "daughters of Jerusalem" (lit). As elsewhere, she urges them not to rush romantic love (see also 3:5; 8:4). This wise warning is in a similar spirit to Proverbs 4:23: "Guard your heart above all else." Her mention of gazelles and wild does of the field (see also 3:5) appears to be a figurative reference to romantic love and its pleasures (vv. 9,17; 4:5; 7:3; 8:14).

2:15 The imperative verb catch is plural and as such seems to be a request for help from others in protecting their vineyards, which in turn relates to their intimate relationship (vv. 10-13; 7:11-13). Along these lines, the woman refers to her body twice as her "vineyard" (1:6; 8:12).

3 In my bed at night †
I sought the one I love; †
I sought him, but did not find him. † †

2 I will arise now and go about the city, through the streets and the plazas. †
I will seek the one I love.
I sought him, but did not find him.

3 The guards who go about the city found me. †
I asked them, "Have you seen the one I love? "

4 I had just passed them when I found the one I love.
I held on to him and would not let him go until I brought him to my mother's house † — to the chamber of the one who conceived me.

5 Young women of Jerusalem, I charge you by the gazelles and the wild does of the field, do not stir up or awaken love until the appropriate time. † †

3:4 The woman's longing for her beloved "at night" (v. 1) is vividly portrayed (see also 5:2-7). As elsewhere, the importance of their mothers is highlighted (see also v. 11; 1:6; 6:9; 8:1,2,5).

3:6-11 This entourage is on its way to Solomon's wedding (vv. 7-11). Its journey from the wilderness (v. 6) parallels the woman's similar ascent in 8:5. Such a starting point contrasts with frequent reference to lush gardens and vineyards (see the notes on 1:1; 2:15). The Hebrew phrase translated columns of smoke is found once elsewhere in Joel 2:30, in the context of the outpouring of the Holy Spirit and of the day of the Lord.

Man

4 How beautiful you are, my darling.
How very beautiful!
Behind your veil,
your eyes are doves. †
Your hair is like a flock of goats streaming down Mount Gilead. † 2 Your teeth are like a flock of newly shorn sheep coming up from washing, each one bearing twins, and none has lost its young. † †

3 Your lips are like a scarlet cord, † and your mouth † is lovely.
Behind your veil,
your brow † is like a slice of pomegranate. †

4 Your neck is like the tower of David, † constructed in layers.
A thousand shields are hung on it — all of them shields of warriors.

5 Your breasts are like two fawns, twins of a gazelle, † that feed among the lilies.

6 Until the day breaks †
and the shadows flee, †
I will make my way to the mountain of myrrh and the hill of frankincense. †

7 You are absolutely beautiful, † my darling; there is no imperfection in you.

8 Come with me from Lebanon, † † my bride; † come with me from Lebanon!
Descend from the peak of Amana, from the summit of Senir and Hermon, † from the dens of the lions, from the mountains of the leopards.

9 You have captured my heart, † my sister, † my bride.
You have captured my heart with one glance of your eyes, with one jewel of your necklace.

10 How delightful your caresses are, my sister, my bride.
Your caresses are much better than wine, † and the fragrance of your perfume than any balsam.

11 Your lips drip sweetness like the honeycomb, my bride. †
Honey and milk † are under your tongue.
The fragrance of your garments is like the fragrance of Lebanon.

12 My sister, my bride, you are a locked garden — a locked garden † and a sealed spring. †

13 Your branches are a paradise † of pomegranates with choicest fruits; † henna with nard, 14 nard and saffron, calamus and cinnamon, † with all the trees of frankincense, † myrrh and aloes, †
with all the best spices.
15 You are a garden spring, a well of flowing water † streaming from Lebanon.

Woman

16 Awaken, † north wind; come, south wind.
Blow on my garden,
and spread the fragrance of its spices.

4:1-7 The perfect beauty of the bride (vv. 1,7) parallels that of the new Jerusalem (Pss 48:2; 50:2; Is 52:1; Eph 5:27; Rv 19:7-8; 21:2). Myrrh was known for its fragrance (Pr 7:17; Est 2:12) and is associated with pleasure in Song of Songs (see 5:1,5,13).

4:10 The man's enjoyment of both his bride's caresses and fragrance echoes her words in 1:2-3.

4:11 The pairing of honey and milk is frequently found in reverse order with reference to the abundance of the promised land (e.g., Ex 3:8,17; Nm 14:8; Dt 6:3).

4:13-14 Some of the items listed here were also used in the sacred anointing oil (Ex 30:23-24) or are mentioned in Psalm 45, a messianic psalm (see vv. 6-8).

4:16 The Hebrew verb translated blow is the same one as is in verses 6 and 2:17, where it has been translated breaks (see footnotes; Gn 3:8)

A sound! My love was knocking! †

Man

Open to me, my sister, my darling, my dove, my perfect one.
For my head is drenched with dew, my hair with droplets of the night.

Woman

3 I have taken off my clothing. †
How can I put it back on?
I have washed my feet.
How can I get them dirty?
4 My love thrust his hand through the opening, and my feelings were stirred for him.
5 I rose to open for my love.
My hands dripped with myrrh, † my fingers with flowing myrrh on the handles of the bolt.
6 I opened to my love, but my love had turned and gone away.
My heart sank † because he had left. †
I sought him, but did not find him. †

5:1 As previously (3:6; 4:6), myrrh is associated with pleasure (vv. 1,5-6). The drinking of both wine and milk is also found in Genesis 49:12.

5:2-7 By the time the woman's feelings had been stirred (v. 4), he was gone, and she could not find him despite her search (vv. 6-7). The identity of the guards who go about the city (see also 3:3) is uncertain; some scholars opt to understand them figuratively.

5:10-16 The woman's detailed praise of her man's physical features corresponds to his praise of her in 4:1-7. The Hebrew word translated strong typically describes something red (see 2Kg 3:22; Is 63:2).

Both passages also mention that he feeds among the lilies.

6:4 This time he compares her beauty to that of a city (see the notes on 1:1; 5:2-7).

6:9 The praise of the woman by others parallels that of the virtuous woman in Proverbs 31:28.

8:4 A similar charge had been given twice earlier (see the note on 2:7).

8:6-7 This classic passage explains that love is as strong as death and cannot be extinguished even by a huge torrent of water.

8:11-12 As in 1:6, the woman's words play on the word vineyard. Hers is her own body (see the note on 2:15). These verses seem to be a repudiation of Solomon. The number one thousand may be an allusion to his many wives and concubines, who caused great ruin. In contrast, the Song praises fidelity and monogamy in God's ideal of a marriage relationship.

8:14 His comparison again to a gazelle or a young stag recalls 2:9,17.

ISAIAH

INTRODUCTION

Isaiah was an eighth-century BC prophet. His book is the first of the Prophets in the English canon and the first of the Latter Prophets in the Hebrew canon. Isaiah is powerful in its poetic imagination, intriguing in its prophetic vision, and complex in its structure. One can never read or study the book without gaining new insights into the nature of God and our relationship with him. The authors of the NT read the book of Isaiah in light of the coming of Christ and realized that this prophet anticipated Messiah's coming with remarkable clarity. For this reason they quoted Isaiah more than any other OT book.

AUTHOR: The book presents itself as the writing of one man, Isaiah son of Amoz. The superscription to the book dates his prophetic activity as spanning the reigns of four kings of Judah: Uzziah (783–742 BC, Isaiah's call is dated to this king's last year, 6:1); Jotham (742–735 BC); Ahaz (735–716 BC); and Hezekiah (716–686 BC). On Uzziah (Azariah) see 2Kg 15:1-7; 2Ch 26:1-23. On Jotham see Kg 15:32-38; 2Ch 27:1-9. On Ahaz see 2Kg 16:1-20; 2Ch 28:1-27. On Hezekiah see 2Kg 18:1–20:21; 2Ch 29:1–32:33. Not much is known about Isaiah apart from his prophecy.

Isaiah's authorship of the whole book has been vehemently contested in the modern period. Many scholars have argued that the historical Isaiah could not have written chapters 40–66. For those who believe that God knows the future and can reveal it to his servants, it is not problematic that God through Isaiah predicted the rise of Babylon, its victory against Judah, the exile, and the return.

BACKGROUND: Isaiah 6:1 records that Isaiah received his prophetic call in the last year of Uzziah's reign over Judah (ca 742 BC). Uzziah's reign was a particularly prosperous time in the history of Judah, but storm clouds were on the horizon. Assyria was on the rise again in the person of Tiglath-pileser III (745–727 BC). The Assyrian king threatened to engulf Syria and the northern kingdom of Israel. After the death of Tiglath-pileser, his successors, Shalmaneser and Sargon, defeated the northern kingdom in 722 BC and deported its citizens. This event brought Judah even more under the shadow of that great empire. Isaiah 37:38 suggests that the prophet lived until the death of Sennacherib in 681 BC.

Isaiah's vision extended beyond the eighth century, through the rest of the OT period and beyond. The NT authors cited Isaiah as finding fulfillment in the great events surrounding Jesus Christ, the Messiah and suffering servant.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE BIBLE

It might be argued that without Isaiah, the NT could not have been written. There as nowhere else in the OT the message is declared and the stage is set for the Davidic King to bring about a new exodus and establish God's kingdom on earth by means of the sin-bearing Servant.

STRUCTURE

The book of Isaiah is a combination of both prose and poetry. The prose is found primarily in chapters 36–39, a section that forms a bridge between the two sections of the book. Isaiah's poetry is rich and varied. He wrote hymns, wisdom poetry, and even poetry that resembles a love song (5:1-7). The richness is seen in Isaiah's vocabulary. He used over 2,200 different Hebrews words, far more variety than found in any other OT book.

CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW ELEMENTS

TEACHINGS ABOUT GOD

God expects his people to fulfill his requirements. He is outraged by sin and will judge it. Yet he is also the God of help and hope. Isaiah's portrait of God is thus one of tension that includes both judgment and comfort. The book is famous for its detailed prophecies about Christ, especially his birth (7:14; 9:6-7) and his death (chap. 53). The Spirit will empower both the Servant and the servants of the Lord (11:2; 32:15; 42:1; 44:3; 61:1).

TEACHINGS ABOUT HUMANITY

Aside from its general teachings that humans are fallen sinners whom God must redeem, the book provides personal glimpses into the lives of two persons whom God used. Isaiah shows that God may call and use someone who is well educated. The section on Hezekiah (chaps. 36–39) shows a ruler who valued trust in God more than military or economic success.

TEACHINGS ABOUT SALVATION

In Isaiah salvation is based on God's forgiveness of sins (1:18; 6:5-6). The passage on the Suffering Servant (52:13–53:12) is the most detailed biblical prophecy about Jesus's death as a substitute, and the NT writers quoted it often. Ultimately, however, salvation includes the restoration of Zion (chap. 62) as well as the nations (chap. 60). The goal is for the nations to "proclaim the praises of the LORD" (60:6). This will be brought to completion in the eternal state (65:17; cp. Rv 21:1).

ISAIAH TIMELINE

750–725 BC

Death of King Uzziah of Judah 740

Isaiah's call to be a prophet 740

Tiglath-pileser III's invasions of Israel 734–732

Pekah of Israel and Rezin of Damascus form a mutual defense alliance against Assyria and invite Ahaz of Judah to join them. 734

Ahaz refuses Isaiah's counsel and seeks protection from Assyria by paying tribute to them, creating a heavy financial burden on Judah for years to come. 734

Alliance between Syria and Israel collapses with the fall of Damascus (732) and the fall of Samaria. 722

Hezekiah of Judah initiates reforms and shows resistance to Assyria. 715–701

Hezekiah prepares for war against Assyria, strengthens Jerusalem's defenses, and receives Merodach-baladan's envoys from Babylon. 705–701

Sennacherib of Assyria defeats the Phoenicians, Philistines, and Egyptians; destroys most cities in Judah; and besieges Jerusalem. 701

God delivers Jerusalem from the Assyrian forces. 701

Manasseh succeeds his father Hezekiah as king of Judah. 687

Ashurbanipal (668–631) rules over a declining Assyrian Empire that experiences revolts in 642, contributed to the assassination of Amon of Judah (641) and the rise of his son Josiah (641–609).

Josiah killed by the Egyptians at Megiddo 609

Babylonians defeat Pharaoh Neco of Egypt at Carchemish. 605

Babylonians attack Jerusalem and take citizens of Judah into exile. 605, 597, 586

Cyrus captures Babylon without resistance. 539

Cyrus issues a decree allowing the Jews to return to Judah. 538

Work begins on rebuilding the temple in Jerusalem. 536–537

Renewed work on the temple 520–518

New temple dedicated 515

JUDAH ON TRIAL

2 Listen, heavens, and pay attention, earth, † for the LORD has spoken: “I have raised children † and brought them up, but they have rebelled against me. † 3 The ox knows its owner, and the donkey its master’s feeding trough, but Israel does not know;
my people do not understand.” †

4 Oh sinful nation, people weighed down with iniquity, † brood of evildoers, † depraved children!
They have abandoned † the LORD; they have despised † the Holy One of Israel; †

they have turned their backs on him.

5 Why do you want more beatings?
Why do you keep on rebelling?
The whole head is hurt,
and the whole heart is sick.
6 From the sole of the foot even to the head, † no spot is uninjured † — wounds, welts, and festering sores not cleansed, bandaged, or soothed with oil.

7 Your land is desolate, your cities burned down; † foreigners devour your fields right in front of you — a desolation, like a place demolished by foreigners.
8 Daughter Zion † is abandoned like a shelter in a vineyard, like a shack in a cucumber field, like a besieged city.
9 If the LORD of Armies † had not left us a few survivors, † we would be like Sodom, we would resemble Gomorrah. †

10 Hear the word of the LORD, †
you rulers of Sodom!
Listen to the instruction of our God,
you people of Gomorrah! † 11 "What are all your sacrifices to me? " asks the LORD.
"I have had enough of burnt offerings and rams and the fat of well-fed cattle;
I have no desire for the blood of bulls, lambs, or male goats. †
12 When you come to appear before me, who requires this from you — this trampling of my courts?

13 Stop bringing useless offerings. †
Your incense is detestable to me.
New Moons and Sabbaths, † and the calling of solemn assemblies † — I cannot stand iniquity † with a festival.
14 I hate your New Moons and prescribed festivals.
They have become a burden to me;
I am tired of putting up with them.
15 When you spread out your hands in prayer, †
I will refuse to look at you;
even if you offer countless prayers,
I will not listen. †
Your hands are covered with blood. †

PURIFICATION OF JERUSALEM

16 "Wash yourselves. Cleanse yourselves. †
Remove your evil deeds from my sight.
Stop doing evil. †
17 Learn to do what is good.
Pursue justice. †
Correct the oppressor. † Defend the rights of the fatherless.
Plead the widow's cause.

18 "Come, let us settle this," †
says the LORD.
"Though your sins are scarlet, they will be as white as snow; † though they are crimson red, they will be like wool.
19 If you are willing and obedient, you will eat the good things of the land. †
20 But if you refuse and rebel, you will be devoured by the sword." †

For the mouth of the LORD has spoken. †

21 The faithful town — what an adulteress † she has become!
She was once full of justice.
Righteousness once dwelt in her,
but now, murderers!
22 Your silver has become dross to be discarded, your beer † is diluted with water.
23 Your rulers are rebels, friends of thieves. †
They all love graft and chase after bribes. †
They do not defend the rights of the fatherless, and the widow's case never comes before them. †

24 Therefore the Lord GOD of Armies, the Mighty One of Israel, declares:
"Ah, I will get even with my foes;
I will take revenge against my enemies. † 25 I will turn my hand against you † and will burn away your dross completely; †
I will remove all your impurities. † 26 I will restore your judges † to what they were at first, † and your advisers to what they were at the start. † Afterward you will be called the Righteous City, †
a Faithful Town."

27 Zion will be redeemed by justice, those who repent, by righteousness. †
28 At the same time both rebels and sinners will be broken, and those who abandon the LORD will perish.
29 Indeed, they † will be ashamed of the sacred trees you desired, † and you will be embarrassed because of the garden shrines you have chosen. † 30 For you will become like an oak whose leaves are withered, and like a garden without water. †

31 The strong one will become tinder, and his work a spark; both will burn together, † with no one to extinguish the flames. †

1:1 The book of Isaiah is a vision that has been recorded and edited, along with historical narrative, as words on a scroll (see 29:11; Hab 2:2). Despite frequent changes of topic from judgment to hope and back again, this book carries a unified message of God's wrath against sinners and his ultimate salvation of Zion and the nations through the Messiah. This Son of David will rule forever (9:6-7) but will also suffer death related to his bearing of sins (53:3-12).

1:2-3 Despite having been raised like children by God, Israel did not know their Father and had become more foolish than farm animals who at least know to whom they belong (see also the notes on 5:13-16; 6:8-10).

1:4 Israel's status as a sinful nation was a tragic reversal of the "holy nation" that they were intended to be (Ex 19:6). The weight of iniquity is also mentioned in 24:20.

1:5-6 The Lord's discipline (beatings) had not taught Israel anything (see 9:13), and the nation was likened to a thoroughly wounded and sick body who has no hope of healing.

1:7-9 The consequences of their sin would be destruction and exile. There would, however, be a few survivors (10:22).

1:10-15 The addressing of Israel as Sodom and Gomorrah (see also 3:9) powerfully associates them with these notoriously sinful cities that experienced severe divine judgment (Gn 19; Jdg 19). Among their sins was their superficial worship (vv. 11-14; 29:13; see the note on Gn 4:2-5). Although the people of Israel were faithful with many sacrifices, burnt offerings, incense, Sabbaths, and festivals (vv. 11-14), these were only external actions. Their true heart was revealed by the fact that they were violent and their hands [were] covered with blood (v. 15).

1:16-18 Their violence (v. 15) included injustice and exploitation of the needy (v. 17). God called these things evil and saw Israel as needing cleansing from such defilement (v. 16). On a more encouraging note, such forgiveness was not only possible but actually would be enacted by God himself (v. 18; 4:3-4; 6:7; 43:25; 44:22; 53:5-6,11; see the notes on Dt 10:12-16; 30:1-6).

1:21-26 The so-called faithful town is Jerusalem. She should have been true but instead had become an adulteress (v. 21; see footnote B). The removal of her dross through smelting (vv. 22,25) indicates that God's judgment would ultimately have a purifying effect on the nation. Through this intense purification process, which would include the fall of the kingdom and exile (note judges and advisers instead of kings), the city would become Righteous and Faithful (v. 26).

1:27-28 Within Jerusalem was Mount Zion, on which the temple stood (2:3; 4:5; Pss 2:6; 20:2). If Jerusalem was the most important city in the country, Zion was the heartbeat of this city. The redemption of Zion and those who repent (59:20) continues the promise of salvation in verse 26b and serves as a resolution to the sacrilege in verses 11-15. This redemption, however, will not come easily but by justice (see also vv. 25-26,31); rebels and sinners should be warned (v. 28; see also v. 2; 24:20; 66:24).

1:29 Such trees related to some of their idolatrous practices (see 57:5).

THE CITY OF PEACE

2 The vision that Isaiah † son of Amoz saw concerning Judah and Jerusalem:

2 In † the last days †
the mountain of the LORD's house † will be established at the top of the mountains and will be raised above the hills.
All nations will stream to it, †
3 and many peoples will come and say, "Come, let us go up to the mountain of the LORD, to the house of the God of Jacob. †
He will teach us about his ways
so that we may walk in his paths."
For instruction will go out of Zion
and the word of the LORD from Jerusalem.
4 He will settle disputes among the nations and provide arbitration for many peoples.
They will beat their swords into plows and their spears into pruning knives. †
Nation will not take up the sword against nation, and they will never again train for war. †

THE DAY OF THE LORD

5 House of Jacob, come and let us walk in the LORD's light. † 6 For you have abandoned † your people, the house of Jacob, because they are full of divination from the East and of fortune-tellers † like the Philistines. †
They are in league † with foreigners.
7 Their † † land is full of silver and gold, and there is no limit to their treasures; their land is full of horses, and there is no limit to their chariots. † 8 Their land is full of idols; † they worship the work of their hands, what their fingers have made. † 9 So humanity is brought low, and each person is humbled.
Do not forgive them! † 10 Go into the rocks † and hide in the dust from the terror of the LORD † and from his majestic splendor. † 11 The pride of mankind † will be humbled, † and human loftiness will be brought low;
the LORD alone will be exalted on that day.

12 For a day belonging to the LORD of Armies is coming against all that is proud and lofty, † against all that is lifted up — it will be humbled — 13 against all the cedars of Lebanon, † lofty and lifted up, against all the oaks of Bashan, † 14 against all the high mountains, † against all the lofty hills, 15 against every high tower, † against every fortified wall,

16 against every ship of Tarshish, † and against every splendid sea vessel.
17 The pride of mankind will be brought low, and human loftiness will be humbled;
the LORD alone will be exalted on that day. †
18 The idols will vanish completely.

19 People will go into caves in the rocks † and holes in the ground, away from the terror of the LORD and from his majestic splendor,
when he rises to terrify the earth. †
20 On that day people will throw their silver and gold idols, † which they made to worship, to the moles and the bats.
21 They will go into the caves of the rocks and the crevices in the cliffs, away from the terror of the LORD and from his majestic splendor, †
when he rises to terrify the earth.
22 Put no more trust in a mere human, who has only the breath in his nostrils. †
What is he really worth?

2:2-4 This passage describes Zion when it is restored (see previous note). Such will take place in the last days, which is the time period in which the Messiah comes (see the notes on Gn 1:1; 49:1,8-12). This mountain will be exalted above all others (Dn 2:34-35,44-45) and will be sought out by all nations and many peoples because they seek God's direct instruction (see "A Biblical View of the Nations," p. 688). Some of these other mountains had been sites used for idolatry (57:7; 65:7), and all of these heights would be laid low (40:4). God will judge between them, and the people will live in peace forever (v. 4; 9:6-7; 11:3-9).

2:6-8 Israel's idolatry had been hinted at in 1:29 and is described in further detail here (see also v. 20).

2:9-17 The emphasis is on the humbling of human pride and the exaltation of God alone on that day (vv. 11-12,17). Such exaltation necessitates the abasements of everything that is tall, powerful, or valued (vv. 12-16). The humiliation of high mountains and lofty hills corresponds with the exaltation of Mount Zion in verse 2 (see 40:4). Regarding the ship[s] of Tarshish (v. 16), see the note on 23:1.

2:18-22 That day of judgment will reveal the uselessness of idols and will elicit terror of God's majestic splendor (vv. 19,21). Both idols and people are nothing compared to him (vv. 18,22).

JUDAH'S LEADERS JUDGED

3 Note this: The Lord GOD of Armies is about to remove from Jerusalem and from Judah every kind of security:
the entire supply of bread and water, 2 heroes and warriors, † judges and prophets, fortune-tellers and elders, 3 commanders of fifty and dignitaries, counselors, cunning magicians, † and necromancers. † 4 "I will make youths their leaders, † and unstable rulers † will govern them." 5 The people will oppress one another, † man against man, neighbor against neighbor; the young will act arrogantly toward the old, and the worthless toward the honorable.
6 A man will even seize his brother in his father's house, saying:
"You have a cloak — you be our leader!
This heap of rubble will be under your control."
7 On that day he will cry out, saying: "I'm not a healer.
I don't even have food or clothing in my house.
Don't make me the leader of the people! "
8 For Jerusalem has stumbled and Judah has fallen because they have spoken and acted against the LORD, † defying his glorious presence. † 9 The look on their faces testifies against them, and like Sodom, † they flaunt their sin; they do not conceal it.
Woe to them,

for they have brought disaster on themselves. †
10 Tell the righteous that it will go well for them, for they will eat the fruit of their labor.
11 Woe to the wicked — it will go badly for them, for what they have done will be done to them.
12 Youths oppress my people, † and women rule over them.
My people, your leaders mislead you;
they confuse the direction of your paths. †

13 The LORD rises to argue the case and stands to judge the people. †
14 The LORD brings this charge against the elders and leaders of his people: †
"You have devastated the vineyard.
The plunder from the poor is in your houses. †
15 Why do you crush my people and grind the faces of the poor? "
This is the declaration of the Lord GOD of Armies.

JERUSALEM'S WOMEN JUDGED

16 The LORD also says:

Because the daughters of Zion are haughty, † walking with heads held high and seductive eyes, prancing along,
jingling their ankle bracelets, 17 the Lord will put scabs on the heads of the daughters of Zion, and the LORD will shave their foreheads bare.

18 On that day † the Lord will strip their finery: ankle bracelets, headbands, crescents, † 19 pendants, bracelets, veils, 20 headdresses, ankle jewelry, sashes, perfume bottles, amulets, † 21 signet rings, nose rings, † 22 festive robes, capes, cloaks, purses, 23 garments, linen clothes, turbans, and shawls.

24 Instead of perfume there will be a stench; instead of a belt, a rope; instead of beautifully styled hair, † baldness; † instead of fine clothes, sackcloth; † instead of beauty, branding. † 25 Your men will fall by the sword, your warriors in battle.
26 Then her gates † will lament and mourn; deserted, she will sit on the ground. †

3:1 The cutting off of supplies of food and water recalls 1:19-20 (see also v. 10; 37:12).

3:2-7 The downfall of the kingship in Judah was predicted in 1:26, and the ensuing crisis of leadership is described here (see also v. 12). The patently unfit will be pressured to lead, and even he will confess that he is not a healer of the people and cannot take care of his own basic needs (vv. 6-7; see 1:6).

3:8-9 For a third time (see 1:9-10), God's people are likened to Sodom, this time because of their brazen sin. Such evil was all the more heinous because of its defiance of God's glorious presence in the people's midst (2:9-22).

3:13-15 Similar to 1:17,23, the elders and leaders were confronted for oppressing the poor.

3:16-23 These proud daughters of Zion (v. 16) decked out in finery will be brought low on that day (v. 18), in accordance with what had been decreed in 2:11-12,17. As in 2:7, their pride was related to their wealth.

3:25–4:1 The removal of the outward beauty of the arrogant "daughters of Zion" (v. 16) is linked to the judgment and destruction of the nation as a whole (vv. 25-26). Part of the disgrace of these women will be the scarcity of men for them to marry (4:1).

4 On that day seven women will seize one man, † saying, "We will eat our own bread and provide our own clothing.
Just let us bear your name.
Take away our disgrace." †

ZION'S FUTURE GLORY

2 On that day the Branch † of the LORD will be beautiful and glorious, † and the fruit of the land † will be the pride and glory † of Israel's survivors. †

3 Whoever remains in Zion and whoever is left in Jerusalem † will be called holy † — all in Jerusalem written in the book of life † † — 4 when the Lord has washed away the filth † of the daughters of Zion and cleansed the bloodguilt † from the heart of Jerusalem by a spirit of judgment † and a spirit of burning. † 5 Then the LORD will create † a cloud of smoke by day † and a glowing flame of fire by night over the entire site of Mount Zion and over its assemblies. For there will be a canopy over all the glory, † 6 and there will be a shelter for shade from heat by day, and a refuge and shelter from storm and rain. †

4:2-6 Whereas the superficial, fleeting beauty of the daughters of Zion will be stripped away on that day (3:16–4:1), the Messiah will be beautiful and glorious (4:2; see 2:11,17). The Hebrew word tsemach (Branch) is also used as a messianic title in Jeremiah 23:5; Zechariah 3:8; and 6:12. Israel's survivors, who will be holy (v. 3), are the same people as "those who repent" in 1:27 and "the righteous" in 3:10 (see also 7:3; 10:20-22). In answer to several problems raised in Isaiah 1, God himself will wash away their filth and bloodguilt through judgment and a spirit of burning (v. 4; see 1:15-16,18,25,27,31). The location, as before (see 1:27; 2:2-4), is Zion (vv. 3-5), and the use of the Hebrew verb bara' (create) with reference to cloud and fire both recalls the pillar of cloud and of fire of long ago (see the note on Ex 13:21-22) and looks forward to God's creating the new heavens and the new earth (65:17-18). Based on 25:4-5, the refuge in verse 6 is God himself.

SONG OF THE VINEYARD

5 I will sing about the one I love, a song about my loved one's vineyard: †
The one I love had a vineyard on a very fertile hill.

2 He broke up the soil, cleared it of stones, and planted it with the finest vines. †
He built a tower in the middle of it and even dug out a winepress there.
He expected † it to yield good grapes, but it yielded worthless grapes. †

3 So now, residents of Jerusalem and men of Judah, please judge between me and my vineyard.

4 What more could I have done for my vineyard than I did? †
Why, when I expected a yield of good grapes, did it yield worthless grapes?
5 Now I will tell you what I am about to do to my vineyard:

I will remove its hedge, † and it will be consumed;

I will tear down its wall, † and it will be trampled.

6 I will make it a wasteland. †
It will not be pruned or weeded;

thorns and briers will grow up. †
I will also give orders to the clouds that rain should not fall on it.

7 For the vineyard of the LORD of Armies is the house of Israel, † and the men † of Judah, the plant he delighted in.

He expected justice
but saw injustice;
he expected righteousness,
but heard cries of despair.

JUDAH'S SINS DENOUNCED

8 Woe to those who add house to house † and join field to field until there is no more room and you alone are left in the land.

9 I heard the LORD of Armies say:

Indeed, many houses † will become desolate, grand and lovely ones without inhabitants.

10 For a ten-acre † vineyard will yield only six gallons of wine, † and ten bushels † of seed will yield only one bushel of grain. †

11 Woe to those who rise early in the morning in pursuit of beer, † who linger into the evening, inflamed by wine.
12 At their feasts they have lyre, harp, tambourine, flute, and wine.
They do not perceive the LORD's actions, † and they do not see the work of his hands. †

13 Therefore my people will go into exile because they lack knowledge; † her † dignitaries are starving, and her masses are parched with thirst.
14 Therefore Sheol enlarges its throat and opens wide its enormous jaws, † and down go Zion's dignitaries, her masses, her crowds, and those who celebrate in her!
15 Humanity is brought low, each person is humbled, and haughty eyes are humbled. †
16 But the LORD of Armies is exalted by his justice, † and the holy God † shows that he is holy through his righteousness. † 17 Lambs will graze as if in † their own pastures, † and resident aliens † will eat among the ruins of the rich.

18 Woe to those who drag iniquity with cords of deceit † and pull sin along with cart ropes, 19 to those who say: "Let him hurry up and do his work quickly so that we can see it!
Let the plan † of the Holy One of Israel † take place so that we can know it! " 20 Woe to those who call evil good and good evil, † who substitute darkness for light and light for darkness, who substitute bitter for sweet and sweet for bitter.
21 Woe to those who consider themselves wise and judge themselves clever. † †
22 Woe to those who are heroes at drinking wine, who are champions at pouring beer, †

23 who acquit the guilty for a bribe † and deprive the innocent of justice.

24 Therefore, as a tongue of fire consumes straw and as dry grass shrivels in the flame, so their roots will become like something rotten and their blossoms will blow away like dust, for they have rejected † the instruction of the LORD of Armies, and they have despised the word of the Holy One of Israel. † 25 Therefore the LORD's anger burned † against his people.
He raised his hand against them and struck them; the mountains quaked, † and their corpses were like garbage in the streets.
In all this, his anger has not turned away, and his hand is still raised to strike. †

26 He raises a signal flag for the distant nations † and whistles † for them from the ends of the earth.
Look — how quickly and swiftly they come!
27 None of them grows weary or stumbles; † no one slumbers or sleeps.
No belt is loose
and no sandal strap broken.
28 Their arrows are sharpened, and all their bows strung.
Their horses' hooves are like flint;
their chariot wheels are like a whirlwind.
29 Their roaring is like a lion's; † they roar like young lions; † they growl and seize their prey and carry it off,
and no one can rescue it.
30 On that day they will roar over it, like the roaring of the sea.
When one looks at the land,
there will be darkness and distress;
light will be obscured by clouds. †

5:1-7 In this song, Israel is the vineyard allowed to become a wasteland because it did not bear fruit despite being given every opportunity to do so (see also 26:17-18; 27:2-6).

5:11-12 In addition to indulging in luxury and accumulating property excessively (v. 8; 2:7; 3:16-23), many were also drinking too much alcohol (see also v. 22; 24:6-11; 28:1,7). Their intoxication and revelry prevented them from understanding God's work (see also Eph 5:17-18).

5:13-16 As in 1:2-3, the people's sin is characterized as foolishness in verse 13 (they lack knowledge; Hs 4:6). In their exile, many will die (v. 14; see 1:9; 3:25-4:1). These two sobering realities will serve to humble man and exalt God (vv. 15-16), as first declared in 2:9,11,17. His exaltation and holiness is significantly linked here to his justice and righteousness (v. 16).

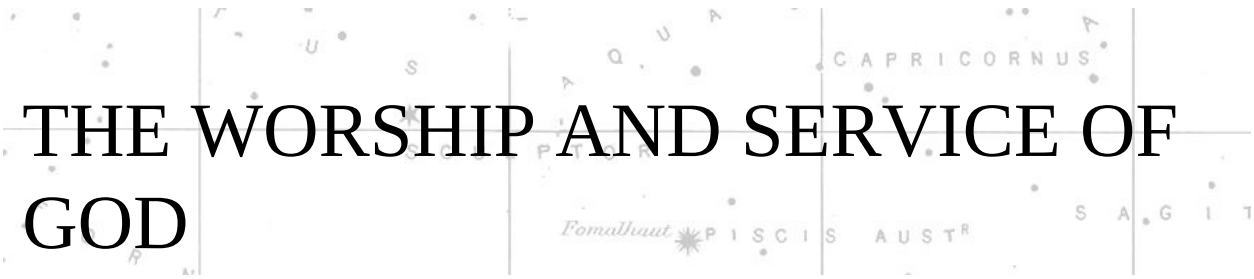
5:19 In light of the immediate context and verses 12-13, the expressed desire to see and know God's work and plan was probably insincere and manipulative.

5:24 The Lord's purging of evil is again compared to fire (e.g., 1:7,25; 4:4; 6:6). As in some passages (1:31; 5:5; 6:13), the burning of agriculture is likewise in view here. Furthermore, the rotten roots of the wicked are in contrast to the "root of Jesse" which is a messianic reference (11:1,10). As implied in 1:4,10, they had rejected the instruction of the LORD of Armies (see also 24:5; 30:9).

5:25 Despite striking his people and causing the mountains to shake, God was still justly angry. The repetition of the last sentence of this verse in Isaiah 9–10 serves to emphasize his seemingly unrelenting wrath all the more (see 9:12,17,21; 10:4; notes on 10:24-26; 12:1-2).

ISAIAH'S CALL AND MISSION

6 In the year that King Uzziah † died, I saw the Lord † seated on a high and lofty † throne, † and the hem of his robe filled the temple.



THE WORSHIP AND SERVICE OF GOD

Worship, though primary in the life of the church, is often elusive and misunderstood, even among Christians. Worship is ascribing worth to God with our voices, our minds, and our hearts. It is the act of bringing glory to God—which, of course, may be and should be applied to all of life. More specifically, though, the word refers to the act and activity of praising and glorifying God when Christians assemble in a local congregation.

If, as Christians, we are truly concerned with ascribing to God the supreme worth that he alone is worthy to receive, we must be cautious about allowing our worship to be shaped by our own felt needs rather than by Scripture and a healthy appreciation for our Christian heritage. Believers must recognize that worship is the active response to God the Father through the Son. Praise, prayer, preaching, the celebration of ordinances, confession, and giving are all Christ-centered, scripturally informed actions. The focus of the church's worship on the exalted Christ gives a Spirit-enabled depth and content to a gathering. Fitting and acceptable worship, in fact, can only be offered by and through the enabling ministry of the Holy Spirit.

Christians need to be hesitant to acknowledge one form of worship to be inherently better than another, but they should always seek to ground authentic worship in the teachings of Scripture. Perhaps, taking Acts 2 as a guide, Christians should expect variety in their worship. In that passage, some emphasize formal celebration in the temple and others prioritize informal gatherings in homes.

Genuine worship must include the proclamation of the whole counsel of God's Word (Ac 20:27) and the primacy of textually-grounded preaching. The gospel message forms the center and shape of worship. With that recognition, worship services need to seek to touch lives while creating worship experiences that simultaneously exalt God and edify his people. Anything less fails to be faithful to the NT teaching and the early church's pattern.

When genuine worship takes place, the entire body of Christ is enhanced and built up; moreover, the mission, service, and outreach of local churches are strengthened. The people of God who have worshiped him and who have been mutually strengthened are prepared to enter the world to touch lives, meet needs, counsel hurts, speak to injustices, and both bear witness to and proclaim the saving message of the gospel. Exalting God and serving others are hardly in conflict, especially for Christians who seek to understand and live out the Christian faith in a coherent manner. As a matter of fact, authentic service is built on genuine worship (see Is 6:1-8; Mt 28:16-20) and is focused on the church, the culture, and the world.

CHURCH

The church was inaugurated at Pentecost (Ac 2) as God's new society (Eph 2:15). It was founded on the finished work of Christ (Jn 19:30) and the baptizing work of the Spirit (1Co 12:13). The church was a mystery (Eph 3:9-11), was prophesied about by Christ (Mt 16:18), and was revealed at the Spirit's coming at Pentecost. The church was built on the foundation of Christ's apostles, with Christ Jesus himself serving as its cornerstone (Eph 2:20-21).

The true church is more than a human organization; it is a visible and tangible expression of the people who are related to Christ. As far as is possible, all Christians should involve and invest themselves in the visible, organized church of Jesus Christ. God gifts his people in the church in order to prepare them for works of service so that they will be strengthened and prepared for faithful living and ministry. The Spirit of God uses gifted leaders in the church to help bring maturity to other Christ-followers. They, in turn, will be able to proclaim Christ, admonishing and teaching others with great wisdom and engaging the culture and serving the world through both word and deed (Eph 4:11-13; Col 1:28).

CULTURE

Many people today reject the church and the Christian faith, not because they perceive it to be false, but because they believe it is superficial or trivial. People are looking for an authentic and integrated way of seeing life that brings coherence to all of life's experiences—some of which are confusing. In many ways, our post-Christian Western culture in general—and American culture in particular—resembles the pre-

Christian Athens of Paul's day (see Ac 17), particularly in its focus on the new, the novel, and the world of change as emphasized by the Epicureans. Our culture is similarly enthralled by novelty.

Truth and values in our culture seem to be of minimal concern or consequence. In the address by the apostle Paul in Acts 17, we find a model for how to lovingly and effectively combat such thinking. We learn how to engage culture in meaningful and relevant ways, as well as how to communicate and live this truth in an effective manner in the midst of an incredibly superficial world. The cultural trends that shape much of our society are similarly influenced by the rise of neopaganism and various and diverse forms of spirituality. Thus Paul is an insightful guide who enables thoughtful Christ-followers to respond to this changing post-Christian world.

Christians live in a world where English is the new common language in most discussions of globalization. The Spanish language, however, is the most frequently spoken tongue used by Christians around the world. We live in a context that points to the movement of the Christian base toward the Global South. Christ-followers in the West, therefore, must be willing to defer to non-Western opinions and ideas whenever our most basic Christian convictions are not at stake. Western wealth and isolation have at times kept us from understanding the real issues of the Majority World and those in the unevangelized belt. Similarly, we must recognize the importance that social justice plays in helping us understand and carry out the mission of God. We need to engage in the serious work that seeks to connect theology, education, justice, and missions together as partners rather than competitors.

Many Christians, particularly younger believers, comprehend the importance of providing homes for the homeless and food for the hungry. They understand that they are to work for justice while simultaneously taking the good news of the gospel to new areas of the world. We must recognize that we now live in a globally-connected context, with new faces representing the various contexts and cultures of our larger global family. We must recognize that what brings Christ-followers together is not our homogeneous characteristics, but our deep love for Jesus Christ. Our lives are to become an offering of thanks to Jesus. This is best expressed through compassion to the least of these in our world.

Christians should assume a posture of humility, listening to and learning from one another. The current climate of fear that characterizes the world around us will likely create a strong challenge, keeping many people from participating in new opportunities. A love for Jesus Christ and a desire to understand others will help to counter this fear, launching exciting global opportunities for the days ahead. We should think not only about international opportunities, but intercultural ones as well. The major cities across the United States now look as if the world has moved into these places.

Poverty, homelessness, drug abuse, and violence surround us. Our cities are multiethnic and intercultural. Christians, therefore, must grapple with our own insulation. We have the privilege of locally living out the global implications of our faith, joining with others to forge relevant ties for global service. We thus seek to know and exalt God, to think seriously and coherently about all aspects of life in order to serve others and to take the gospel to the ends of the earth. Let us not shy away from this task. Let us ask the Lord to raise up and develop a new generation of thoughtful, committed, convictional, and courageous Christ-followers who will go forth in wisdom, humility, and confidence to serve the church, engage the culture, and disciple the nations for the glory of the triune God.

DAVID S. DOCKERY

2 Seraphim † were standing above him; they each had six wings: † with two they covered their faces, with two they covered their feet, and with two they flew. † 3 And one called to another:

Holy, holy, holy is the LORD of Armies; his glory † fills the whole earth. †

4 The foundations of the doorways shook † at the sound of their voices, and the temple was filled with smoke.
5 Then I said:

Woe is me † for I am ruined † because I am a man of unclean lips and live among a people of unclean lips, † and because my eyes have seen the King, the LORD of Armies.

6 Then one of the seraphim flew to me, and in his hand was a glowing coal that he had taken from the altar † with tongs. 7 He touched my mouth † with it and said:

Now that this has touched your lips, your iniquity is removed and your sin is atoned for. †

8 Then I heard the voice of the Lord asking:

Who should I send?
Who will go for us?

I said:

Here I am. Send me.

9 And he replied:

Go! Say to these people:
Keep listening, but do not understand; † keep looking, but do not perceive.
10 Make the minds † of these people dull; deafen their ears and blind their eyes;

otherwise they might see with their eyes
and hear with their ears, understand with their minds, turn back, and be healed. †

11 Then I said, “Until when, Lord? ” † And he replied:

Until cities lie in ruins without inhabitants, † houses are without people, the land is ruined and desolate,
12 and the LORD drives the people far away, leaving great emptiness in the land.
13 Though a tenth will remain in the land, it will be burned again.
Like the terebinth or the oak that leaves a stump when felled, the holy seed † is the stump. †

6:1-3 The death of King Uzziah (called Azariah in 2Kg 15:1-7; see also 2Ch 26) exemplifies the weakness and inadequacy of man (2:22), especially in comparison to God. Whereas man is mortal and thus brought low (5:14-15), God is the eternal King, “sitting on a throne, high and lifted up” (lit v. 1; 2:9-17). The presence and proclamation of seraphim (“burning ones”) further emphasize his majesty, in particular his holiness (5:16). See “A Biblical View of Angels,” p. 1531.

6:5 Isaiah’s despairing response to his vision of the enthroned and holy Lord arose from an acute awareness that he was a man of unclean lips living among a people characterized by the same (see also 29:13; 59:3). Though he was privileged in one sense to have seen the King, he was also in deep trouble because the unclean and sinful cannot bear the presence of the Holy One (see also 35:8).

6:6-7 Isaiah’s genuine humility and confession (see previous note) led directly to the removal of his guilt and sin (1:27; 3:10; 57:15). Such provision came not from Isaiah, but was directly from God (see the note on 4:2-6). As before, this cleansing involved fire (see the note on 5:24). Whereas this fire would destroy the unrepentant wicked (1:30-31), it purified the penitent Isaiah.

6:8-10 Following his confession and forgiveness, Isaiah was commissioned as a prophet. For the immediate future (see vv. 11-13), his message would be one of judgment. Unlike Isaiah who had “seen” (v. 5; 1:1; 2:1), the stubborn and rebellious people would not understand, perceive, see, or hear (1:3; Dt 29:4). Isaiah’s ministry would in fact have a temporary hardening effect, which would result in judgment.

Afterward, they would experience the salvation of God (see the notes on 1:5-6; 3:2-7; 53:4-6). Isaiah thus functions as a kind of paradigm for Israel. Just as he was unclean, saw his sin, was cleansed, and then was sent on a mission, the people of Israel would recognize their sin, be purified in judgment, and afterward fulfill their mission of bringing God's truth and grace to the nations.

6:11-13 The people's spiritual dullness (vv. 9-10) would continue into the period of their exile (vv. 11-12; 1:7-8). Despite fierce judgment, a stump would auspiciously remain (v. 13; see 1:9; 4:2-3; 11:1).

THE MESSAGE TO AHAZ

7 This took place during the reign of Ahaz, son of Jotham, son of Uzziah king of Judah: † Aram's King Rezin and Israel's King Pekah son of Remaliah went to fight against Jerusalem, † but they were not able to conquer it.

2 When it became known to the house of David † that Aram had occupied Ephraim, † the heart of Ahaz † and the hearts of his people trembled like trees of a forest shaking in the wind.

3 The LORD said to Isaiah, "Go out with your son Shear-jashub † † to meet Ahaz at the end of the conduit of the upper pool, † by the road to the Launderer's Field. 4 Say to him: Calm down and be quiet. Don't be afraid or cowardly † because of these two smoldering sticks, the fierce anger of Rezin and Aram, and the son of Remaliah. 5 For Aram, along with Ephraim and the son of Remaliah, has plotted harm against you. They say, 6 'Let us go up against Judah, terrorize it, and conquer it for ourselves. Then we can install Tabeel's son as king in it.' "

7 This is what the Lord GOD says:

It will not happen; it will not occur. †

8 The † chief city of Aram is Damascus, the chief of Damascus is Rezin (within sixty-five years Ephraim will be too shattered to be a people), 9 the chief city of Ephraim is Samaria, and the chief of Samaria is the son of Remaliah.
If you do not stand firm in your faith, then you will not stand at all.

THE IMMANUEL PROPHECY

10 Then the LORD spoke again to Ahaz: 11 “Ask for a sign † from the LORD your God — it can be as deep as Sheol or as high as heaven.”
12 But Ahaz replied, “I will not ask. I will not test the LORD.”
13 Isaiah † said, “Listen, house of David! Is it not enough for you to try the patience of men? Will you also try the patience of my God? † 14 Therefore, the Lord himself will give you † a sign: See, the virgin will conceive, † have a son, and name him Immanuel. † † 15 By the time he learns to reject what is bad and choose what is good, † he will be eating curds † and honey. † 16 For before the boy knows to reject what is bad and choose what is good, the land of the two kings you dread will be abandoned. 17 The LORD will bring on you, your people, and your father’s house such a time as has never been since Ephraim separated from Judah: † He will bring the king of Assyria.” †

18 On that day †
the LORD will whistle † to flies at the farthest streams of the Nile and to bees in the land of Assyria.
19 All of them will come and settle in the steep ravines, in the clefts of the rocks, † in all the thornbushes, and in all the water holes.

20 On that day the Lord will use a razor † hired from beyond the Euphrates River — the king of Assyria † — to shave the hair on your heads, the hair on your legs, and even your beards.

21 On that day a man will raise a young cow and two sheep, 22 and from the abundant milk they give he will eat curds, for every survivor in the land will eat curds and honey. †

23 And on that day every place where there were a thousand vines, worth a thousand pieces of silver, will become thorns and briers. †
24 A man will go there with bow and arrows because the whole land will be thorns and briers.

25 You will not go to all the hills that were once tilled with a hoe, for fear of the thorns and briers.
Those hills will be places for oxen to graze and for sheep to trample.

7:3-9 Because Ahaz and the people of Judah were terrified of Aram and Israel to the point that they were "like trees of a forest shaking in the wind" (vv. 1-2; 1:30-31; 2:13; 6:13; 10:18-19), God sent Isaiah and his son (see the note on 10:20-22) to assure the troubled Davidic king. The Lord's supremacy over human kings is also evident through his reference to Rezin and Pekah, the son of Remaliah as smoldering sticks (v. 4; 6:5). He declared that their plot to conquer Judah and Jerusalem (vv. 1,6; 1:1; 2:1) would fail and both Aram and Israel would fall (vv. 7-9,16).

7:10-13 Despite God's assurances and offer of a sign, Ahaz stubbornly and pretentiously refused to trust in God (29:13). His wearying of God (v. 13) echoes 1:14 and brought judgment on the house of David and his people whom he represented and led (see vv. 2,17). This Davidic king's spiritual dullness accords with 6:9-10.

7:14-17 The Lord nevertheless declared that a sign relating to the virgin would be given. Although verses 16-17 could be taken to imply that Immanuel would be born in the immediate future (see also the note on 8:3-4), his diet of curds and honey in verse 15 matches that of those who survive the destruction of the land in verse 22 and thus suggests instead that he will be born after the exile (vv. 20-25; 30:20; Mt 1:22-23). This is consistent with the timeframe of the messianic era set forth in the Pentateuch through its strategic usage of the phrase, "in the last days" (see the notes on Gn 1:1; 49:8-12; Nm 24:14-19; Dt 4:25-31; 31:26-29). Also significant is the mention of Immanuel again in 8:8-10 (see note) and the names given to the Messiah in 9:6-7 (see note).

THE COMING ASSYRIAN INVASION

8 Then the LORD said to me, "Take a large piece of parchment † and write on it with an ordinary pen: † † Maher-shalal-hash-baz. † 2 I have appointed † trustworthy witnesses — the priest Uriah and Zechariah son of Jeberechiah." †
3 I was then intimate with the prophetess, and she conceived and gave birth to a son. The LORD said to me, "Name him Maher-shalal-hash-baz, 4 for before the boy knows how to call 'Father,' or 'Mother,' † the wealth of Damascus and the spoils of Samaria will be carried off to the king of Assyria." †

5 The LORD spoke to me again:

6 Because these people rejected the slowly flowing water of Shiloah and rejoiced with † Rezin and the son of Remaliah, † 7 the Lord will certainly bring against them the mighty rushing water of the Euphrates River — the king of Assyria and all his glory.
It will overflow its channels and spill over all its banks.
8 It will pour into Judah, flood over it, and sweep through, reaching up to the neck; † and its flooded banks † will fill your entire land, Immanuel! †

9 Band together, † peoples, and be broken; pay attention, all you distant lands;
prepare for war, and be broken;
prepare for war, and be broken.
10 Devise a plan; it will fail. †
Make a prediction; it will not happen.
For God is with us. † †

THE LORD OF ARMIES, THE ONLY REFUGE

11 For this is what the LORD said to me with great power, to keep † me from going the way of this people: †

12 Do not call everything a conspiracy these people say is a conspiracy. † Do not fear what they fear; † do not be terrified.
13 You are to regard only the LORD of Armies as holy. † Only he should be feared; † only he should be held in awe.
14 He will be a sanctuary; † but for the two houses of Israel, he will be a stone † to stumble over and a rock to trip over, † and a trap and a snare to the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

15 Many will stumble over these; † they will fall and be broken;
they will be snared and captured.

16 Bind up the testimony. †
Seal up the instruction † among my disciples.
17 I will wait for the LORD, † who is hiding his face from the house of Jacob. †
I will wait for him.

18 Here I am with the children the LORD has given me † to be signs and wonders in Israel from the LORD of Armies who dwells on Mount Zion. 19 When they say to you, "Inquire of the mediums and the spiritists who chirp and mutter," † shouldn't a people inquire of their God? † Should they inquire of the dead on behalf of the living? † 20 Go to God's instruction and testimony! † If they do not speak according to this word, there will be no dawn for them.
21 They will wander through the land, dejected and hungry. When they are famished, they will become enraged, and, looking upward, will curse their king and their God. 22 They will look toward the earth † and see only distress, darkness, and the gloom of affliction, and they will be driven into thick darkness.

8:3-4 Although the circumstances following the birth of this son seem to resemble those of Immanuel (v. 4; 7:16), two different boys are in view. Isaiah's wife (the prophetess) could not have been a virgin as mentioned in 7:14, since she had already given birth to Shear-jashub (7:3). Neither would there be involvement from any man, Isaiah or otherwise, in the conception of Immanuel, who would be given by God himself. The naming of Isaiah's second son relates to the impending destruction of Aram and Israel (v. 4), whom Ahaz so dreaded (7:1-9).

8:8-10 Assyria would be even worse than Aram and Israel (vv. 6-7; 7:16-25). Evidently, the land of Judah belongs to Immanuel (v. 8; see 14:2), lending further support to his being the Messiah. He not only provides assurance from the powerful Assyrians and from the desolation of the land (see the note on 7:14-17) but more broadly from peoples and distant lands (v. 9). Their "counsel" against Israel "will not stand" (lit v. 10; see 7:7) because God is with his people (i.e., "Immanuel"; see footnote A). The futility of the nations fighting against Israel and God who is with them is likewise described in Psalm 46:5-11.

8:14 The stone to stumble over is linked to the "precious cornerstone" of 28:16 and in 1 Peter 2:6-8 (see also Ps 118:22; 1Co 1:23-24). Romans 9:32-33 likewise takes this verse as a messianic prophecy.

8:16-20 The hiding of God's face and waiting for him relates to the period of time prior to his restoration of Israel (the house of Jacob), especially the exile (v. 17; see 6:9-13; 45:15). Nevertheless, the faithful and the Scriptures continued to serve as a testimony to Israel (vv. 16,18,20; 7:3,14; 8:3; 20:3; 45:19).

BIRTH OF THE PRINCE OF PEACE

9 Nevertheless, the gloom of the distressed land will not be like that of the former times when he humbled the land of Zebulun and the land of Naphtali. † But in the future he will bring honor to the way of the sea, to the land east of the Jordan, and to Galilee of the nations.

2 The people walking in darkness have seen a great light; † a light has dawned
on those living in the land of darkness. †
3 You have enlarged the nation and increased its joy. † †
The people have rejoiced before you as they rejoice at harvest time and as they rejoice when dividing spoils. † 4 For you have shattered their oppressive yoke † and the rod on their shoulders, the staff of their oppressor, just as you did on the day of Midian. † 5 For every trampling boot of battle and the bloodied garments of war will be burned as fuel for the fire.
6 For a child will be born for us, a son will be given to us, † and the government will be on his shoulders. †
He will be named Wonderful Counselor, † Mighty God, †
Eternal Father, † Prince of Peace. †

7 The dominion will be vast, and its prosperity will never end. †
He will reign on the throne of David and over his kingdom, to establish and sustain it with justice and righteousness from now on and forever.
The zeal of the LORD of Armies will accomplish this. †

THE HAND RAISED AGAINST ISRAEL

8 The Lord sent a message against Jacob; it came against Israel.
9 All the people — Ephraim and the inhabitants of Samaria † — will know it.
They will say with pride and arrogance:
10 "The bricks have fallen, but we will rebuild with cut stones;
the sycamores have been cut down,
but we will replace them with cedars."
11 The LORD has raised up Rezin's adversaries against him and stirred up his enemies.
12 Aram from the east and Philistia from the west have consumed Israel with open mouths.
In all this, his anger has not turned away, and his hand is still raised to strike. †

13 The people did not turn to him who struck them; they did not seek the LORD of Armies.
14 So the LORD cut off Israel's head and tail, † palm branch and reed in a single day.
15 The head is the elder, the honored one; † the tail is the prophet, the one teaching lies. † 16 The leaders of the people mislead them, and those they mislead are swallowed up. † 17 Therefore the Lord does not rejoice over † Israel's young men and has no compassion on its fatherless and widows, for everyone is a godless evildoer, †
and every mouth speaks folly.

In all this, his anger has not turned away, and his hand is still raised to strike.

18 For wickedness burns like a fire † that consumes thorns and briers and kindles the forest thickets so that they go up in a column of smoke.
19 The land is scorched by the wrath of the LORD of Armies, and the people are like fuel for the fire. †

No one has compassion on his brother. †

20 They carve meat on the right, but they are still hungry; † they have eaten on the left, but they are still not satisfied.

Each one eats the flesh of his own arm. †

21 Manasseh is with Ephraim, and Ephraim with Manasseh; together, both are against Judah. †

9:1-2 The mention of Zebulun and Naphtali foretells the inclusion of the northern kingdom in the future salvation. They had not only separated from Judah and the house of David but had opposed them (see 7:8,16-17; 8:4,14). Although rank godlessness would bring darkness (v. 2; 5:30; 8:19-22), great light, joy, and deliverance from enemies would come later (9:1-5).

9:6-7 As in 7:14, salvation centers on the birth of a son. The name Mighty God recalls the name Immanuel ("God with us"; see also 8:8-10) and implies that this child is divine. The success and wonder of his counsel contrasts with the failed plans of godless men in 7:5,7 and 8:10. Use of the Hebrew word shalom, or peace, twice in verses 6-7 (see Hb) echoes the end of "war" in 2:1-4. Rule on the throne of David eternally (v. 7) clearly indicates that the child in view is the Messiah. The justice and righteousness characteristic of his reign also characterizes God himself (5:16) and should have characterized Israel (5:7).

9:8-12 The destruction of Israel and Aram had also been the subject of 7:1-16. Ephraim's optimism is actually pride and arrogance (vv. 9-10). The Lord's unsatisfied anger, signified by his raised hand (v. 12) picks up the theme of 5:25.

9:13 Despite God's just discipline of his people, they did not turn to him (see also 1:5; 10:20-22).

9:14-17 The Lord's cutting off of Israel's leaders parallels that of Judah in 3:1-3. In both cases, the wickedness and pride of the people are the cause (vv. 9,17; 3:5,8-9).

9:21 The Israelites are self-destructing (see 7:17; 11:13). The repetition of his anger has not turned away, and his hand is still raised to strike (vv. 12,17,21; 5:25; 10:4) powerfully expresses the extent and seriousness of God's just wrath against sin (see also 10:24-26; 12:1).

10 2 Woe † to those enacting crooked statutes and writing oppressive laws to keep the poor from getting a fair trial and to deprive the needy among my people of justice, † so that widows can be their spoil and they can plunder the fatherless. † 3 What will you do on the day of punishment when devastation comes from far away?
Who will you run to for help?
Where will you leave your wealth?
4 There will be nothing to do except crouch among the prisoners or fall among the slain.
In all this, his anger has not turned away, and his hand is still raised to strike. †

ASSYRIA, THE INSTRUMENT OF WRATH

5 Woe to Assyria, the rod of my anger — the staff in their hands is my wrath.
6 I will send him against a godless nation; I will command him to go against a people destined for my rage, to take spoils, to plunder, † and to trample them down like clay † in the streets.
7 But this is not what he intends; this is not what he plans.
It is his intent to destroy and to cut off many nations.
8 For he says, "Aren't all my commanders kings?
9 Isn't Calno like Carchemish?
Isn't Hamath like Arpad?
Isn't Samaria † like Damascus? †
10 As my hand seized the idolatrous kingdoms, whose idols exceeded those of Jerusalem and Samaria, 11 and as I did to Samaria and its worthless images will I not also do to Jerusalem and its idols? " †

JUDGMENT ON ASSYRIA

12 But when the Lord finishes all his work against Mount Zion and Jerusalem, he will say, "I † will punish the king of Assyria for his arrogant acts and the proud look in his eyes." † 13 For he said:

I have done this by my own strength and wisdom, for I am clever.
I abolished the borders of nations and plundered their treasures; † like a mighty warrior, I subjugated the inhabitants. † † 14 My hand has reached out, as if into a nest, to seize the wealth of the nations.
Like one gathering abandoned eggs,
I gathered the whole earth.
No wing fluttered;
no beak opened or chirped.

15 Does an ax exalt itself above the one who chops with it?
Does a saw magnify itself above the one who saws with it?
It would be like a rod waving the one who lifts † it!
It would be like a staff lifting the one who isn't wood!
16 Therefore the Lord GOD of Armies will inflict an emaciating disease on the well-fed of Assyria, and he will kindle a burning fire under its glory.
17 Israel's Light will become a fire, and its Holy One, a flame. †
In one day it will burn and consume Assyria's thorns and thistles. † 18 He will completely destroy the glory of its forests and orchards as a sickness consumes a person.
19 The remaining trees of its forest will be so few in number that a child could count them.

THE REMNANT WILL RETURN

20 On that day the remnant of Israel and the survivors of the house of Jacob will no longer depend on the one who struck them, but they will faithfully depend on the LORD, the Holy One of Israel. †

21 The remnant will return, the remnant of Jacob, to the Mighty God.
22 Israel, even if your people were as numerous as the sand of the sea, only a remnant of them will return. † Destruction has been decreed; justice overflows.
23 For throughout the land the Lord GOD of Armies is carrying out a destruction that was decreed.

24 Therefore, the Lord GOD of Armies says this: "My people who dwell in Zion, do not fear Assyria, though they strike you with a rod and raise their staff over you as the Egyptians did. 25 In just a little while my wrath will be spent and my anger will turn to their destruction." 26 And the LORD of Armies will brandish a whip against him as he did when he struck Midian at the rock of Oreb; † and he will raise his staff over the sea as he did in Egypt.

GOD WILL JUDGE ASSYRIA

27 On that day his burden will fall from your shoulders, and his yoke from your neck.
The yoke will be broken because your neck will be too large. † † 28 Assyria has come to Aiath and has gone through Migron, storing their equipment at Michmash.
29 They crossed over at the ford, saying, "We will spend the night at Geba."
The people of Ramah are trembling;
those at Gibeah of Saul have fled.
30 Cry aloud, daughter of Gallim!
Listen, Laishah!
Anathoth is miserable.
31 Madmenah has fled.
The inhabitants of Gebim have sought refuge.
32 Today the Assyrians will stand at Nob, shaking their fists at the mountain of Daughter Zion, the hill of Jerusalem.
33 Look, the Lord GOD of Armies will chop off the branches with terrifying power, and the tall trees will be cut down, the high trees felled.

34 He is clearing the thickets of the forest with an ax, and Lebanon with its majesty will fall.

10:1-4 As in 1:17,23 and 3:13-15, this passage concerns injustice and oppression of the poor and needy (see also 5:7). Those guilty of enacting crooked statutes (v. 1) will not escape their just due (vv. 3-4).

10:5-12 Although Assyria was God's chosen instrument of judgment against his people (vv. 5-6; 7:17; 8:7), the pagan nation was motivated by greed and pride, implicitly boasting against God himself (vv. 7-12). The words in verses 8-11 fittingly resemble the taunts of Sennacherib in 36:18-20 and 37:11-13. Nevertheless, this mighty nation would also be brought low by God (v. 12; see 2:11-17). In a paradox of God's sovereignty and human responsibility, God would use Assyria's brutality as an instrument of judgment against Israel, but then punish Assyria for that same brutality.

10:15-19 Reaffirming the status of Assyria as a mere instrument of divine judgment (v. 5; see also 45:1-6), God likened their boasts (vv. 8-11,13-14) to an ax honoring itself more than the one who wields it (v. 15). Unlike Assyria, God would fully back up his words with action (vv. 16-17,32-34; 37:36-38). The description of this judgment as fire burning the glory of forests draws significantly on themes introduced already (see 1:30-31; 2:11-17; 4:2,5; 5:24; 6:1-6,13).

10:20-22 The phrase on that day links the following with other passages describing climactic divine acts (e.g., 2:11,17; 4:2). Whereas 9:13 said that the people did not "return" to God (lit), in the future a remnant would indeed depend on him and return . . . to the Mighty God (vv. 20-22; see 17:7-8). This divine title is the same one used of the Messiah in 9:6, and the phrase a remnant will return is identical to the meaning of the name of Isaiah's son in 7:3. This "remnant" theme had also appeared in 1:9; 4:2-3; 6:13; 8:16-18 (see also 1:27; 3:10).

10:24-26 Both God and his people dwell in Zion (v. 24; 8:18). The Lord's seemingly relentless wrath will eventually end (v. 25; see the notes on 5:25; 9:21; 12:1-2), and he will strike Assyria as he struck Midian long ago (v. 26; 9:4; Jdg 7:25). This future deliverance is twice likened to the exodus from Egypt (vv. 24,26; 11:16).

10:27 Along with the reference to Midian in verse 26, the breaking of an enemy yoke provides a possible connection to 9:4.

REIGN OF THE DAVIDIC KING

11 Then a shoot will grow from the stump of Jesse, † and a branch † from his roots will bear fruit.

2 The Spirit of the LORD will rest on him † — a Spirit of wisdom and understanding,
a Spirit of counsel and strength,
a Spirit of knowledge and of the fear of the LORD.
3 His delight will be in the fear of the LORD.
He will not judge
by what he sees with his eyes, † he will not execute justice by what he hears with his ears, 4 but he will judge the poor righteously † and execute justice for the oppressed of the land.
He will strike the land with a scepter † from his mouth, † and he will kill the wicked † with a command † from his lips. † 5 Righteousness will be a belt around his hips; † faithfulness will be a belt around his waist. † 6 The wolf will dwell with the lamb, † and the leopard will lie down with the goat.
The calf, the young lion, and the fattened calf will be together, and a child will lead them.
7 The cow and the bear will graze, their young ones will lie down together,
and the lion will eat straw like cattle.
8 An infant will play beside the cobra's pit, and a toddler will put his hand into a snake's den.
9 They will not harm or destroy each other on my entire holy mountain, for the land will be as full of the knowledge of the LORD as the sea is filled with water. †

ISRAEL REGATHERED

10 On that day the root of Jesse † will stand as a banner for the peoples. †

The nations will look to him for guidance, † and his resting place will be glorious. †

11 On that day † the Lord will extend his hand a second time to recover the remnant of his people who survive — from Assyria, Egypt, Pathros, Cush, Elam, Shinar, Hamath, and the coasts and islands of the west. †

12 He will lift up a banner for the nations and gather the dispersed of Israel; † he will collect the scattered of Judah from the four corners of the earth. † 13 Ephraim's envy will cease; †
Judah's harassing will end.
Ephraim will no longer be envious of Judah, and Judah will not harass Ephraim.
14 But they will swoop down on the Philistine flank to the west.
Together they will plunder the people of the east. †
They will extend their power over Edom and Moab, and the Ammonites will be their subjects. †
15 The LORD will divide † † the Gulf of Suez. †
He will wave his hand over the Euphrates with his mighty wind † and will split it into seven streams, letting people walk through on foot.
16 There will be a highway for the remnant of his people who will survive from Assyria, † as there was for Israel
when they came up from the land of Egypt. †

11:1-4 This prophecy depicts the coming of the Messiah as the sprouting of the stump of Jesse, the remainder of the Davidic family tree which had presumably been cut down. As such, it picks up on similar language used for the Messiah in 4:2 and the use of a "stump" related to the remnant after the destruction and exile in 6:13 (see also the notes on 10:20-22). Unlike Israel (5:2,4), this Davidic ruler will bear good fruit (v. 1; 4:2; 37:31). The resting of the Spirit on him (v. 2) links to 42:1. His righteous judgment (vv. 3-4) echoes 2:2-4 while contrasting with the injustice of the Israelites (see 5:7; note on 10:1-4).

11:6-9 The Messiah's rule will be characterized by unprecedented peace that surpasses even that of the garden of Eden, where harmony was disrupted by sin (see 9:6-7). Not only will nations cease from war (2:4), but humans and animals will live together harmoniously. The center of the kingdom will be his holy mountain (i.e., Zion; see 1:27; 2:2; 4:2-6), and the knowledge of the LORD will fill the earth (v. 9; 6:3). See also "A Biblical View of Recreation," p. 737.

11:10 This root of Jesse is the Messiah (see v. 1), whom all nations will seek (see 2:2-3). His exaltation as a banner broadly corresponds with the eschatological elevation of Zion in 2:2 (see also 52:13; Rm 15:12). His resting place will be glorious and was described in greater detail in 4:2,5-6. Its splendor far surpasses Solomon's temple or anything else man can build (66:1). For more on the phrase on that day, see the note on 10:20-22.

11:11-16 The Lord's gathering of his people to their land a second time is a reference to the return from exile; (the first time would have been the exodus from Egypt (v. 11; see v. 16; 10:24,26). This second exodus will bring the remnant back from all over the world (vv. 11-12; 14:1-2; 48:20-22; Ps 147:2). They will rally to a banner, the Messiah (cp. v. 10). Israel and Judah will be reunited (v. 13; see 7:17; 9:21), have victory over their enemies (v. 14), and miraculously cross bodies of water as their ancestors crossed the Red Sea (vv. 15-16). The bodies mentioned generally parallel the boundaries of the land promised to Abram (Gn 15:18).

A SONG OF PRAISE

12 On that day you will say: "I will give thanks to you, LORD, although you were angry with me.
Your anger has turned away, and you have comforted me. † 2 Indeed, God is my salvation; I will trust him and not be afraid, for the LORD, the LORD himself, is my strength and my song.
He has become my salvation." †
3 You will joyfully draw water † from the springs of salvation, 4 and on that day you will say: "Give thanks to the LORD; proclaim his name!
Make his works known among the peoples. † Declare that his name is exalted.
5 Sing to the LORD, for he has done glorious things. †

Let this be known throughout the earth.

6 Cry out and sing, citizen of Zion, for the Holy One of Israel † is among you in his greatness.”

12:1 Is 40:1 12:2 Ex 15:2; Ps 118:14 12:3 Jn 4:10; 7:37-38 12:4 1Ch 16:8; Ps 105:1; 145:4 12:5 Ex 15:1; Ps 98:1; Is 24:14; 42:10-11; 44:23 12:6 Is 1:4

12:1-2 On that day is used yet again eschatologically toward the end of Isaiah 1–12 (vv. 1,4; 10:20,27; 11:10-11), declaring God’s turning from anger to compassion (see the notes on 5:25; 9:21; 10:24-26). His salvation is celebrated in like manner to the exodus (v. 2; Ex 15:2), further emphasizing the “second exodus” theme (see the notes on 10:24-26; 11:11-16; 48:20-22).

12:4-6 The exaltation, glory, and greatness of God correspond with 2:11-17 and 6:1-4.

A PRONOUNCEMENT AGAINST BABYLON

13 A pronouncement † concerning Babylon † that Isaiah son of Amoz saw:

2 Lift up a banner on a barren mountain. †
Call out to them.
Signal with your hand, and they will go through the gates of the nobles.
3 I have commanded my consecrated ones; yes, I have called my warriors, who celebrate my triumph, to execute my wrath. †
4 Listen, a commotion on the mountains, like that of a mighty people!
Listen, an uproar among the kingdoms, like nations being gathered together!
The LORD of Armies is mobilizing an army for war.
5 They are coming from a distant land, from the farthest horizon — the LORD and the weapons of his wrath — to destroy the whole country. †

6 Wail! For the day of the LORD is near. †
It will come as destruction from the Almighty. †
7 Therefore everyone’s hands will become weak, and every man will lose heart. †
8 They will be horrified; pain and agony will seize them;

they will be in anguish like a woman in labor. †
They will look at each other,
their faces flushed with fear.
9 Look, the day † of the LORD is coming — cruel, with rage and burning anger — to make the earth a desolation and to destroy its sinners. † 10 Indeed, the stars of the sky and its constellations † will not give their light.
The sun will be dark when it rises, and the moon will not shine. † 11 I will punish the world for its evil, † and wicked people for their iniquities.
I will put an end to the pride of the arrogant † and humiliate the insolence of tyrants.
12 I will make a human more scarce than fine gold, and mankind more rare than the gold of Ophir. †
13 Therefore I will make the heavens tremble, and the earth will shake from its foundations † at the wrath of the LORD of Armies, on the day of his burning anger.
14 Like wandering gazelles and like sheep without a shepherd, † each one will turn to his own people, each one will flee to his own land.
15 Whoever is found will be stabbed, and whoever is caught will die by the sword.
16 Their children will be dashed to pieces before their eyes; † their houses will be looted, and their wives raped.
17 Look! I am stirring up the Medes against them, † who cannot be bought off with † silver and who have no desire for gold.
18 Their bows will cut young men to pieces.
They will have no compassion on offspring; they will not look with pity on children.

19 And Babylon, the jewel of the kingdoms, the glory of the pride of the Chaldeans, will be like Sodom and Gomorrah when God overthrew them. † 20 It will never be inhabited or lived in from generation to generation; † a nomad will not pitch his tent there, and shepherds will not let their flocks rest there.
21 But desert creatures will lie down there, and owls will fill the houses.
Ostriches will dwell there, and wild goats will leap about. † 22 Hyenas will howl in the fortresses, and jackals, in the luxurious palaces.
Babylon's time is almost up;
her days are almost over.

13:1 Isaiah 13–27 concern God's judgment and rule of the nations. Thus, these chapters further support the theme of his supremacy over all, which was so frequently sounded in Isaiah 1–12. The first such nation to be mentioned is Babylon, which had been godless since its beginning (Gn 11:1-9) and would defeat and exile Judah (39:6-7). Having already been mentioned indirectly in 11:11 (for the connection to "Shinar," see Gn 10:10; 11:2; 14:1,9), Babylon is also the subject of 21:9; 47:1; 48:20.

13:3-6 The combination of divine wrath, nations, kingdoms, war, and the day of the LORD suggest an eschatological battle (see vv. 10-13; Ps 46:6; Jl 2:1-6). The statement that the Lord will destroy the whole country may also be translated "the whole earth" (v. 5; 14:26).

13:10-13 The darkening of heavenly bodies and the shaking of heaven and earth (24:18-20) parallel other prophetic passages (e.g., Jl 2:10,30-31; Hg 2:21-22). The reason for this fearsome judgment is man's evil (v. 11; see 2:11-17).

13:17-18 Like Assyria (10:16-19,32-34), Babylon also would fall, though to the Medes (Dn 5:28-31).

13:19 Babylon's pride had characterized them from their inception (Gn 11:4). Unlike Israel (1:9), they would be utterly destroyed like Sodom and Gomorrah (see also 14:22).

ISRAEL'S RETURN

14 For the LORD will have compassion † on Jacob and will choose Israel again. † He will settle them on their own land. † The resident alien will join them and be united with the house of Jacob. † 2 The nations will escort Israel and bring it to its homeland. Then the house of Israel will possess them as male and female slaves in the LORD's land. † They will make captives of their captors and will rule over their oppressors.

DOWNFALL OF THE KING OF BABYLON

3 When the LORD gives you rest from your pain, † torment, and the hard labor † you were forced to do, 4 you will sing this song of contempt about the king of Babylon † and say:

How the oppressor has quieted down,
and how the raging † has become quiet!
5 The LORD has broken the staff of the wicked, the scepter of the rulers.
6 It struck the peoples in anger with unceasing blows.
It subdued the nations in rage with relentless persecution.
7 The whole earth is calm and at rest; people shout with a ringing cry.
8 Even the cypresses and the cedars of Lebanon rejoice over you: †
"Since you have been laid low, no lumberjack has come against us."

9 Sheol below is eager to greet your coming, stirring up the spirits of the departed for you — all the rulers † of the earth — making all the kings of the nations
rise from their thrones.
10 They all respond to you, saying, "You too have become as weak as we are;
you have become like us!
11 Your splendor has been brought down to Sheol, along with the music of your harps.
Maggots are spread out under you,
and worms cover you."

12 Shining morning star, † † how you have fallen from the heavens! †
You destroyer of nations,
you have been cut down to the ground.
13 You said to yourself, “I will ascend to the heavens; †
I will set up my throne above the stars of God. †
I will sit on the mount of the gods’ assembly, in the remotest parts of the North. † † 14 I will ascend above the highest clouds; I will make myself like the Most High.”
15 But you will be brought down to Sheol into the deepest regions of the Pit. †

16 Those who see you will stare at you; they will look closely at you:
“Is this the man who caused the earth to tremble, who shook the kingdoms, 17 who turned the world into a wilderness, † who destroyed its cities and would not release the prisoners to return home? ” 18 All the kings of the nations lie in splendor, each in his own tomb.
19 But you are thrown out without a grave, like a worthless branch, covered by those slain with the sword and dumped into a rocky pit like a trampled corpse.
20 You will not join them in burial, because you destroyed your land and slaughtered your own people.
The offspring of evildoers will never be mentioned again. †
21 Prepare a place of slaughter for his sons, because of the iniquity † of their fathers.
They will never rise up to possess a land or fill the surface of the earth with cities.

22 “I will rise up against them” — this is the declaration of the LORD of Armies — “and I will cut off from Babylon her reputation, remnant, offspring, and posterity” — this is the LORD’s declaration. 23 “I will make her a swampland and a region for herons, † and I will sweep her away with the broom of destruction.”

This is the declaration of the LORD of Armies.

ASSYRIA WILL BE DESTROYED

24 The LORD of Armies has sworn:

As I have purposed, so it will be;
as I have planned it, so it will happen. †
25 I will break Assyria † in my land; I will tread him down on my mountain.
Then his yoke will be taken from them,
and his burden will be removed from their shoulders.
26 This is the plan † prepared for the whole earth, and this is the hand stretched out against all the nations.
27 The LORD of Armies himself has planned it; therefore, who can stand in its way?
It is his hand that is outstretched,
so who can turn it back?

A PRONOUNCEMENT AGAINST PHILISTIA

28 In the year that King Ahaz died, † this pronouncement came: †

29 Don’t rejoice, all of you in Philistia, because the rod of the one who struck you † is broken.
For a viper will come from the root † of a snake, and from its egg comes a flying serpent. † 30 Then the firstborn † of the poor will be well fed, and the impoverished will lie down in safety, but I will kill your root with hunger, and your remnant will be slain.
31 Wail, you gates! † Cry out, city!
Tremble with fear, † all Philistia!
For a cloud of dust is coming from the north, † and there is no one missing from the invader’s ranks.

32 What answer will be given to the messengers from that nation?

The LORD has founded Zion, † and his oppressed people find refuge in her.

14:1-2 In sharp contrast with his devastation of Babylon, God will have compassion on Jacob (aka Israel; 30:18; 49:10). At other times, God had not shown them such favor (see 9:17; 27:11). Their resettlement in their own land relates to being regathered from exile (see 11:11-16). The traveling of the nations with Israel to the LORD's land recalls 2:2-3, and Israel's rule over their enemies parallels other passages (e.g., 17:12-14; 45:14; 49:22-23; Nm 24:17-19).

14:3 The prediction of rest from pain, torment, and hard labor parallels 9:4 and 10:27.

14:4-15 The pride, bloodthirst, and downfall of the king of Babylon parallels that of Assyria in 10:5-19,24-27. He who had felled lofty trees (v. 8) would himself be felled along with other human kings (vv. 9-11; see 10:33-34). Babylon's arrogance went so far as to intend to ascend to the heavens (v. 13; see the note on 13:1), just as their predecessors, the builders of the tower of Babel, had attempted (Gn 11:4). To desire the status of the Most High (v. 14) is the essence of sin itself (Gn 3:5).

14:19 The Hebrew word for branch (netser) is the same one used in 11:1. Whereas the king of Babylon is a worthless branch thrown away with corpses, the Messiah "will bear fruit" (11:1) and will be "glorious" (4:2).

14:22 Whereas Israel would be left a remnant (10:20-22; 11:11,16), Babylon would not (see also the note on 13:19; 14:30).

14:24-27 God's unstoppable plan to destroy Assyria and break its yoke (vv. 24-25) recalls earlier passages (7:7; 8:10; 9:4-7; 10:12-19,24-27,33-34). What he does to Assyria is a picture of what he will do to the whole earth and to all the nations (v. 26). Such an emphasis in Isaiah 13–27 balances the emphasis in Isaiah 1–12 on God's judgment of Israel.

14:28 The previous time Ahaz was mentioned, he was stubbornly resisting God (7:10-13). As a mere human king, his reign ended in death (see 6:1; 9:6-7).

14:32 While Philistia's "root" and "remnant" would be killed (v. 30; see the notes on v. 22; 13:19), Israel would endure because the LORD has founded Zion (see 28:16; 54:11).

A PRONOUNCEMENT AGAINST MOAB

15 A pronouncement concerning Moab: †

Ar in Moab is devastated, † destroyed in a night.
Kir in Moab is devastated,
destroyed in a night.
2 Dibon went up to its temple to weep at its high places.
Moab wails on Nebo and at † Medeba.
Every head is shaved;
every beard is chopped short.
3 In its streets they wear sackcloth; on its rooftops and in its public squares everyone wails, falling down and weeping.
4 Heshbon and Elealeh cry out; their voices are heard as far away as Jahaz. † Therefore the soldiers of Moab cry out, and they tremble. †
5 My heart cries out over Moab, whose fugitives flee as far as Zoar, † to Eglath-shelishiyah;
they go up the Ascent of Luhith weeping;
they raise a cry of destruction on the road to Horonaim.
6 The Waters of Nimrim † are desolate; the grass is withered, the foliage is gone, and the vegetation has vanished.
7 So they carry their wealth and belongings over the Wadi of the Willows. †
8 For their cry echoes throughout the territory of Moab.
Their wailing reaches Eglaim;
their wailing reaches Beer-elim.
9 The Waters of Dibon † are full of blood, † but I will bring on Dibon † even more than this — a lion for those who escape from Moab, and for the survivors in the land. †

15:5 Although it is God who brings severe judgment against Moab, his heart also cries out over them, just as they cry out from their anguish (vv. 4-5). His grief is expressed again in 16:9.

15:9 Even those who escape the initial wave of judgment would face a lion (see also 10:20-22; 14:22,30). In the end, Moab would have few survivors (16:14; see 10:19).

4 Let my refugees stay with you; be a refuge for Moab † from the aggressor.

When the oppressor has gone, destruction has ended, and marauders have vanished from the land, 5 a throne will be established in love, † and one will sit on it faithfully † in the tent of David, judging and pursuing what is right,
quick to execute justice.

6 We have heard of Moab's pride † — how very proud he is — his haughtiness, his pride, his arrogance, and his empty boasting.
7 Therefore let Moab wail; let every one of them wail for Moab.
You who are completely devastated, mourn for the raisin cakes † of Kir-hareseth. †

8 For Heshbon's terraced vineyards and the grapevines of Sibmah have withered.
The rulers of the nations have trampled its choice vines that reached as far as Jazer † and spread to the desert.
Their shoots spread out and reached the sea. †
9 So I join with Jazer to weep for the vines of Sibmah;
I drench Heshbon and Elealeh with my tears.
Triumphant shouts have fallen silent † over your summer fruit and your harvest.
10 Joy and rejoicing † have been removed from the orchard; no one is singing or shouting for joy in the vineyards. †
No one tramples grapes † in the winepresses.
I have put an end to the shouting.
11 Therefore I moan like the sound of a lyre for Moab, † as does my innermost being for Kir-heres.
12 When Moab appears and tires himself out on the high place † and comes to his sanctuary to pray, it will do him no good. †

13 This is the message that the LORD previously announced about Moab. 14 And now the LORD says, "In three years, as a hired worker counts years, † Moab's splendor will become an object of contempt, in spite of a very large population. And those who are left will be few and weak."

16:1-5 The Moabites would be in severe distress and would seek protection for their refugees from the ruler of the land in Zion" (vv. 1-4; 8:8; 14:2). His throne will be established in the tent of David (see Am 9:11) and characterized by justice and righteousness (v. 5; 9:7; 11:4-5). Thus, the salvation and refuge of the Moabites would also be in the Messiah (see 4:2-6; 14:32).

16:6 Like Israel, Assyria, and Babylon (3:8-9,16; 10:7-15; 14:13-14), a key part of Moab's guilt was their pride. All who live arrogantly set themselves up for humiliation and judgment by the exalted Lord (2:9-17).

16:12-14 Moab's idols will prove useless (v. 12; 2:18), and their splendor despised (lit v. 14). The people's only hope of salvation is in the Messiah (v. 5), whose glory alone will endure (4:2; 11:10).

A PRONOUNCEMENT AGAINST DAMASCUS

17 A pronouncement † concerning Damascus: †

Look, Damascus is no longer a city.
It has become a ruined heap.
2 The cities of Aroer are abandoned; they will be places for flocks.
They will lie down without fear.
3 The fortress disappears from Ephraim, † and a kingdom from Damascus.
The remnant of Aram will be like the splendor of the Israelites.

This is the declaration of the LORD of Armies.

JUDGMENT AGAINST ISRAEL

4 On that day the splendor of Jacob will fade, and his healthy body † will become emaciated. † 5 It will be as if a reaper had gathered standing grain — his arm harvesting the heads of grain — and as if one had gleaned heads of grain in the Valley of Rephaim. † 6 Only gleanings will be left in Israel, † as if an olive tree had been beaten — two or three olives at the very top of the tree, four or five on its fruitful branches.
This is the declaration of the LORD, the God of Israel.

7 On that day people will look to their Maker and will turn their eyes to the Holy One of Israel. † 8 They will not look to the altars † they made with their hands or to the Asherahs and shrines † † they made with their fingers.

9 On that day their strong cities will be like the abandoned woods and mountaintops that were abandoned because of the Israelites; there will be desolation.
10 For you have forgotten the God of your salvation, and you have failed to remember the rock of your strength; † therefore you will plant beautiful plants and set out cuttings from exotic vines.
11 On the day that you plant, you will help them to grow, and in the morning
you will help your seed to sprout, but the harvest will vanish on the day of disease and incurable pain.

JUDGMENT AGAINST THE NATIONS

12 Ah! The roar of many peoples — they roar like the roaring of the seas.
The raging of the nations — they rage like the rumble of rushing water. † 13 The nations rage like the rumble of a huge torrent. †
He rebukes them, and they flee far away, † driven before the wind like chaff on the hills † and like tumbleweeds before a gale.
14 In the evening — sudden terror!
Before morning — it is gone!
This is the fate of those who plunder us and the lot of those who ravage us.

17:1-6 Damascus was the capital of Aram and had been mentioned earlier in connection with the northern kingdom of Israel in Isaiah 7. As God had declared earlier (7:7-9,16; 8:4), Aram and Israel would fall. The mention of a remnant of Aram parallels the frequent reference to an Israelite “remnant” (see the note on 10:20-22).

17:7-8 Related to the judgment that will take place on that day (vv. 4,9), “mankind” (lit) will no longer look to idols but to their Maker (2:2-4,18; 16:12). Such a change of heart parallels what is described specifically for Israel in 10:20.

17:12-14 Like 14:26-27, this passage directly speaks of the nations in general and reminds the reader of God's sovereignty over all people. The association of enemy nations with raging seas is also found elsewhere in the OT (e.g., Pss 18:16-17; 46:3,6; Dn 7:1-3). Their comparison to chaff which is driven before the wind echoes Psalm 1:4.

THE LORD'S MESSAGE TO CUSH

18 Woe to the land of buzzing insect wings † beyond the rivers of Cush, †
2 which sends envoys by sea, in reed vessels over the water.

Go, swift messengers, to a nation tall and smooth-skinned,
to a people feared far and near,
a powerful nation with a strange language, † whose land is divided by rivers.
3 All you inhabitants of the world and you who live on the earth, when a banner is raised on the mountains, look!
When a trumpet sounds, listen!

4 For the LORD said to me:

I will quietly look out from my place, like shimmering heat in sunshine, like a rain cloud in harvest heat.
5 For before the harvest, when the blossoming is over and the blossom becomes a ripening grape, he will cut off the shoots with a pruning knife, and tear away and remove the branches.
6 They will all be left for the birds of prey on the hills and for the wild animals of the land.
The birds of prey will spend the summer feeding on them, and all the wild animals the winter.

7 At that time a gift will be brought to the LORD of Armies from † a people tall and smooth-skinned, † a people feared far and near, a powerful nation with a strange language, whose land is divided by rivers — to Mount Zion, the place of the name of the LORD of Armies.

18:1-3 The proclamation against Cush begins in the same way as 17:12-14. Like the previous passage, the judgment of this powerful, seafaring nation also concerns the world (v. 3; see following note).

18:7 The Lord's judgment of Cush will result in their bringing a gift to him in Zion (see v. 1; Pss 68:29; 76:11). As foretold in 2:2-4, the nations will turn to God (see also 14:32; 16:1-5; 17:7-8).

A PRONOUNCEMENT AGAINST EGYPT

19 A pronouncement † concerning Egypt: †

Look, the LORD rides on a swift cloud † and is coming to Egypt.
Egypt's idols will tremble before him, † and Egypt will lose heart. † † 2 I will provoke Egyptians against Egyptians; each will fight against his brother † and each against his friend, city against city, kingdom against kingdom. †
3 Egypt's spirit will be disturbed within it, and I will frustrate its plans.
Then they will inquire of idols, ghosts, and spiritists. †
4 I will hand over Egypt to harsh masters, † and a strong king will rule it.
This is the declaration of the Lord GOD of Armies.

5 The water of the sea will dry up, and the river will be parched and dry.
6 The channels will stink; they will dwindle, and Egypt's canals will be parched.
Reed and rush will wilt.
7 The reeds by the Nile, by the mouth of the river, and all the cultivated areas of the Nile will wither, blow away, and vanish.
8 Then the fishermen will mourn.

All those who cast hooks into the Nile will lament, and those who spread nets on the water will give up.
9 Those who work with flax will be dismayed; † those combing it and weaving linen will turn pale. † 10 Egypt's weavers † will be dejected; all her wage earners will be demoralized.

11 The princes of Zoan are complete fools; †
Pharaoh's wisest advisers give stupid advice!
How can you say to Pharaoh,
"I am one † of the wise, a student of eastern † kings"?
12 Where then are your wise men?
Let them tell you and reveal what the LORD of Armies has planned against Egypt.
13 The princes of Zoan have been fools; the princes of Memphis are deceived. †
Her tribal chieftains have led Egypt astray.
14 The LORD has mixed within her a spirit of confusion.
The leaders have made Egypt stagger in all she does, as a drunkard staggers in his vomit.
15 No head or tail, palm or reed, † will be able to do anything for Egypt.

EGYPT WILL KNOW THE LORD

16 On that day Egypt will be like women and will tremble with fear because of the threatening hand of the LORD of Armies when he raises it against them. 17 The land of Judah will terrify Egypt; whenever Judah is mentioned, Egypt will tremble because of what the LORD of Armies has planned † against it.
18 On that day five cities in the land of Egypt will speak the language of Canaan and swear loyalty to the LORD of Armies. One of the cities will be called the City of the Sun. † †
19 On that day there will be an altar to the LORD in the center of the land of Egypt and a pillar to the LORD near her border. † 20 It will be a sign and witness to the LORD of Armies in the land of Egypt. When they cry out to the LORD because of their oppressors, he will send them a savior and leader, and he will rescue them. † 21 The LORD will make himself known to Egypt, and Egypt will know the LORD on that day. They will offer sacrifices and offerings; † they will make vows to the LORD and fulfill them. 22 The LORD will strike Egypt, striking and healing. Then they will turn to the LORD and he will be receptive to their prayers and heal them.

23 On that day there will be a highway † from Egypt to Assyria. Assyria will go to Egypt, Egypt to Assyria, and Egypt will worship with Assyria.
24 On that day Israel will form a triple alliance with Egypt and Assyria — a blessing within the land. 25 The LORD of Armies will bless them, saying, "Egypt my people, Assyria my handiwork, † and Israel my inheritance are blessed." †

19:1-2 The Lord will judge Egypt and their idols (2:17-22; Ex 12:12). Their self-destruction mirrors that of other enemies of God and his people (Jdg 7:22; 2Ch 20:23; Zch 14:13).

19:4 The exact identity of the harsh masters and strong king is unclear.

19:5-7 Part of the judgment against Egypt would be the drying up of its waterways (see 11:15).

19:12 Whereas the "counsel" and wisdom of Egypt will fail (lit v. 3; vv. 11-15), God's "counsel" against them will prevail (lit vv. 12,17). The certain success of his plans had been mentioned in previous passages (9:6; 14:24,26).

19:16-22 In place of its own wisdom and idols, Egypt would instead tremble with fear from God (v. 16), swear loyalty to him (v. 18), and worship him out of genuine knowledge of him (vv. 19,21; Ex 7:5; 14:18). For his part, God would hear their cry and deliver them (vv. 20,22). In the process of his striking and healing them, the Egyptians would turn to the LORD (v. 22), much like the Israelites (5:25; 9:12; 10:20-22; 30:26).

19:23-25 This remarkable passage describes not only the conversion of Israel's ancient enemy, Egypt, but also their present one, Assyria (see 11:16; 52:4). As is already clear from passages such as 2:2-4 and 18:7 (see also 6:3; 16:1-5; 40:5; 49:6), the salvation of God extends beyond Israel to all nations. The word highway recalls 11:16.

NO HELP FROM CUSH OR EGYPT

20 In the year that the chief commander, † sent by King Sargon of Assyria, came to Ashdod † and attacked and captured it — 2 during that time the LORD had spoken through Isaiah † son of Amoz, saying, “Go, take off your sackcloth † and remove the sandals from your feet,” and he did that, going stripped and barefoot † — 3 the LORD said, “As my servant Isaiah has gone stripped and barefoot three years as a sign and omen against Egypt and Cush, † 4 so the king of Assyria will lead the captives of Egypt † and the exiles of Cush, young and old alike, stripped and barefoot, with bared buttocks — to Egypt’s shame. 5 Those who made Cush their hope and Egypt their boast will be dismayed and ashamed. † 6 And the inhabitants of this coastland will say on that day, ‘Look, this is what has happened to those we relied on and fled to for help to rescue us from the king of Assyria! Now, how will we escape? ’ ”

20:3-4 Egypt and Cush were in close proximity geographically and are addressed in succession in Isaiah 19–20. Such worldly powers would prove weak and unreliable (see 7:7-9; 8:5-7; 31:1-3).

A JUDGMENT ON BABYLON

21 A pronouncement † concerning the desert by the sea: †

Like storms that pass over the Negev, it comes from the desert, from the land of terror.
2 A troubling vision is declared to me: “The treacherous one acts treacherously, † and the destroyer destroys.
Advance, Elam! Lay siege, you Medes!
I will put an end to all the groaning.”

3 Therefore I am † filled with anguish.
Pain grips me, like the pain of a woman in labor. †
I am too perplexed to hear,

4 My heart staggers; horror terrifies me.

He has turned my last glimmer of hope † into sheer terror. †
5 Prepare a table, † and spread out a carpet!
Eat and drink!
Rise up, you princes, and oil the shields!

6 For the Lord has said to me, “Go, post a lookout;
let him report what he sees.
7 When he sees riders — pairs of horsemen, riders on donkeys, riders on camels —
he must pay close attention.”
8 Then the lookout † reported, “Lord, I stand on the watchtower all day, † and I stay at my post all night.
9 Look, riders come — horsemen in pairs.”
And he answered, saying, “Babylon has fallen, † has fallen.
All the images of her gods have been shattered on the ground.” †

10 My people who have been crushed on the threshing floor, †
I have declared to you what I have heard from the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel.

15 For they have fled from swords, from the drawn sword,

21:1-9 The identity of the desert by the sea (v. 1) is hinted at by its being attacked by Medes (v. 2; 13:17) and is made plain in verse 9. Babylon had already been the focus of 13:1–14:23, but this time the prophet himself is deeply disturbed by his vision (vv. 2-4,10). This is in keeping with the darker overall character of Isaiah 21–23 compared to Isaiah 13–20 (see 14:1-2,32; 16:1-5; 17:7-8; 18:7; 19:16-25). No hope had been expressed for Babylon in the earlier passage anyway (see 13:19-20; 14:22-23), and she and her idols will fall (v. 9; Rv 14:8).

21:11 Like 21:1 and 22:1, the subject of this oracle is also enigmatic. Dumah was one of the sons of Ishmael, as were "Kedar" and "Tema" (vv. 14,16; Gn 25:14-15; 1Ch 1:30). This suggests a close relation between this oracle and the following one. Seir is in Edom (Gn 32:3).

21:14-17 The mention of refugees (v. 14) recalls the distresses of Moab in 16:2-3. Like that of other peoples (10:18-19; 16:14), the glory of Kedar will come to an end (v. 16) and the "remnant" of their archers will be few (lit v. 17; see the notes on 10:20-22; 14:22,32).

A PRONOUNCEMENT AGAINST JERUSALEM

22 A pronouncement † concerning the Valley of Vision: †

What's the matter with you?
Why have all of you gone up to the rooftops? †
2 The noisy city, the jubilant town, † is filled with celebration.
Your dead did not die by the sword;
they were not killed in battle.
3 All your rulers have fled together, captured without a bow.
All your fugitives were captured together; they had fled far away.
4 Therefore I said, "Look away from me! Let me weep bitterly! †
Do not try to comfort me about the destruction of my dear † people." 5 For the Lord GOD of Armies had a day of tumult, trampling, and confusion † in the Valley of Vision — people shouting † and crying to the mountains; 6 Elam took up a quiver with chariots and horsemen, † and Kir † uncovered the shield.
7 Your best valleys were full of chariots, and horsemen were positioned at the city gates.
8 He removed the defenses of Judah.

On that day you looked to the weapons in the House of the Forest. † 9 You saw that there were many breaches in the walls of the city of David. † You collected water from the lower pool. † 10 You counted the houses of Jerusalem so that you could tear them down to fortify the wall. 11 You made a reservoir between the walls † for the water of the ancient pool, † but you did not look to the one who made it, or consider the one who created it long ago.

12 On that day the Lord GOD of Armies called for weeping, † for wailing, for shaven heads, and for the wearing of sackcloth.
13 But look: joy and gladness, butchering of cattle, slaughtering of sheep and goats, eating of meat, and drinking of wine — "Let us eat and drink, for tomorrow we die! " †
14 The LORD of Armies has directly revealed to me: †

“This iniquity will not be wiped out for you people as long as you live.” † †
The Lord GOD of Armies has spoken.

15 The Lord GOD of Armies said: “Go to Shebna, † that steward who is in charge of the palace, and say to him: 16 What are you doing here? Who authorized you to carve out a tomb for yourself here, carving your tomb on the height and cutting a resting place for yourself out of rock? † 17 Look, you strong man! The LORD is about to shake you violently. He will take hold of you, 18 wind you up into a ball, and sling you into a wide land. † There you will die, and there your glorious chariots will be — a disgrace to the house of your lord.
19 I will remove you from your office; you will be ousted from your position.
20 “On that day I will call for my servant, Eliakim son of Hilkiah. † 21 I will clothe him with your robe and tie your sash around him. I will hand your authority over to him, and he will be like a father to the inhabitants of Jerusalem and to the house of Judah. † 22 I will place the key † of the house of David on his shoulder; what he opens, no one can close; what he closes, no one can open. † 23 I will drive him, like a peg, into a firm place. He will be a throne of honor for his father’s family. 24 They will hang on him all the glory of his father’s family: the descendants and the offshoots — all the small vessels, from bowls to every kind of jar. 25 On that day” — the declaration of the LORD of Armies — “the peg that was driven into a firm place will give way, be cut off, and fall, and the load on it will be destroyed.” Indeed, the LORD has spoken.

22:1 The reader is met with another enigmatic geographical title, the Valley of Vision (see 21:1,11). As was the case in 21:1-9 (see note), its identity is gradually unveiled – first as a “city” (v. 2) and then clearly as Jerusalem (vv. 8-10). A similar Hebrew word for “vision” was used in 21:2.

22:2-3 Like Moab and Arabia (16:2-4; 21:14), Jerusalem would also have its fugitives (v. 3), who were trying to escape the siege (vv. 6-11).

22:4 The prophet was distraught over the certain destruction of his people. He had also been in anguish over the vision concerning Babylon (21:2-4).

22:6 Elam would also be involved in the downfall of Babylon (21:2).

22:8-14 On that day, Jerusalem looked to their own weaponry, water supplies, and fortifications (vv. 8-10) instead of the one who created (v. 11; 5:12; 17:7-8; 31:1). Compounded by brazen revelry instead of appropriate mourning and humility (vv. 12-13), their sin would never be atoned for "until [they] die" (lit v. 14). Direction revelation from the LORD of Armies in verse 14 parallels 21:10.

22:15-19 The judgment on Shebna (see 36:3,22; 37:2), at one point the steward of the palace, relates to the preceding judgment decreed against Jerusalem (vv. 1-14). His hewing of a tomb on the height was foolish (v. 16) because God would cast him into another land, where he would die far from it (vv. 17-18).

22:20-25 Shebna's successor, Eliakim, would enjoy great authority and power (vv. 20-24) before his fall. The Lord calling him my servant (v. 20), his authority related to Jerusalem, Judah, and David (vv. 21-23), his bearing of a heavy weight (v. 24), and even his being cut off (v. 25) echo passages about the Messiah (4:2-3; 9:6-7; 42:1; 53:8), who in contrast would successfully bear a heavy weight (53:4,11-12).

A PRONOUNCEMENT AGAINST TYRE

23 A pronouncement † concerning Tyre: †

Wail, ships of Tarshish, † for your haven has been destroyed.
Word has reached them from the land of Cyprus. † †
2 Mourn, inhabitants of the coastland, you merchants of Sidon; † your agents have crossed the sea † 3 over deep water.
Tyre's revenue was the grain from Shihor — the harvest of the Nile.
She was the merchant among the nations. † 4 Be ashamed, Sidon, the stronghold of the sea, for the sea has spoken:
"I have not been in labor or given birth.
I have not raised young men or brought up young women."
5 When the news reaches Egypt, they will be in anguish over the news about Tyre. †
6 Cross over to Tarshish; wail, inhabitants of the coastland!
7 Is this your jubilant city, whose origin was in ancient times, whose feet have taken her to reside far away?
8 Who planned this against Tyre, the bestower of crowns, whose traders are princes, whose merchants are the honored ones of the earth?

9 The LORD of Armies planned it, to desecrate all its glorious beauty, to disgrace all the honored ones of the earth.
10 Overflow † your land like the Nile, daughter of Tarshish; there is no longer anything to restrain you. † 11 He stretched out his hand over the sea; †
he made kingdoms tremble.
The LORD has commanded that the Canaanite fortresses be destroyed.
12 He said, "You will not celebrate anymore, ravished young woman, daughter of Sidon.
Get up and cross over to Cyprus † — even there you will have no rest! " 13 Look at the land of the Chaldeans — a people who no longer exist.
Assyria destined it for desert creatures.
They set up their siege towers and stripped its palaces.
They made it a ruin.
14 Wail, ships of Tarshish, because your fortress is destroyed!

15 On that day Tyre will be forgotten for seventy years — the life span of one king. At the end of seventy years, what the song says about the prostitute will happen to Tyre:

16 Pick up your lyre, stroll through the city, you forgotten prostitute.
Play skillfully,
sing many a song
so that you will be remembered.

17 And at the end of the seventy years, † the LORD will restore Tyre † and she will go back into business, prostituting herself with all the kingdoms of the world throughout the earth. 18 But her profits and wages will be dedicated to the LORD. They will not be stored or saved, for her profit will go to those who live in the LORD's presence, to provide them with ample food and sacred clothing.

23:1 Ships of Tarshish had been specifically named in 2:16 along with other proud and lofty things to be brought low by God (see also 60:9; 66:19). Tarshish and Cyprus (or, Kittim) share a common lineage (Gn 10:4; 1Ch 1:7). Numbers 24:24 predicted judgment on the latter long ago.

23:3-4 Tyre and Sidon were significant port cities that were important for seafaring trade (see also Ezk 27–28). As such, their influence reached the nations, including Egypt, Tarshish, and Cyprus (vv. 1,5-6,12).

23:8-9 The rhetorical question in verse 8 (lit "Who counseled this . . .?") paves the way for another affirmation of God's "counsel" (v. 9; see the notes on 9:6-7; 14:24-27; 19:12), which includes bringing down all the honored ones of the earth (see 2:11-17; 4:2).

23:17-18 Tyre's seventy-year period of humiliation is likened to "the life span of one king" (v. 15), after which she will go back into business. Her wages, however, will be dedicated to the LORD (see 18:7; 60:9).

THE EARTH JUDGED

24 Look, the LORD is stripping the earth bare and making it desolate.
He will twist its surface and scatter its inhabitants: 2 people and priest alike, servant and master,
female servant and mistress,
buyer and seller,
lender and borrower,
creditor and debtor.
3 The earth will be stripped completely bare and will be totally plundered, for the LORD has spoken this message. †

4 The earth mourns and withers; the world wastes away and withers;
the exalted people of the earth waste away.
5 The earth is polluted by its inhabitants, † for they have transgressed teachings, overstepped decrees, and broken the permanent covenant. †
6 Therefore a curse has consumed the earth, † and its inhabitants have become guilty;
the earth's inhabitants have been burned, and only a few survive.
7 The new wine mourns; †

the vine withers.
All the carousers now groan.
8 The joyful tambourines † have ceased.
The noise of the jubilant has stopped.
The joyful lyre has ceased.
9 They no longer sing and drink wine; beer is bitter to those who drink it.
10 The city of chaos is shattered; † every house is closed to entry. † 11 In the streets they cry † for wine.
All joy grows dark;
earth's rejoicing goes into exile.
12 Only desolation remains in the city; its gate has collapsed in ruins.
13 For this is how it will be on earth among the nations:
like a harvested olive tree, like a gleaning after a grape harvest. †

14 They raise their voices, they sing out; they proclaim in the west the majesty of the LORD.
15 Therefore, in the east honor the LORD!
In the coasts and islands of the west honor the name of the LORD, the God of Israel.
16 From the ends of the earth we hear songs: The Splendor of the Righteous One. †

But I said, "I waste away! I waste away! † Woe is me."
The treacherous act treacherously;
the treacherous deal very treacherously. †

17 Panic, pit, and trap await you † who dwell on the earth. † 18 Whoever flees at the sound of panic will fall into a pit, and whoever escapes from the pit will be caught in a trap.

For the windows on high are opened, † and the foundations of the earth are shaken. † 19 The earth is completely devastated; the earth is split open;
the earth is violently shaken.
20 The earth staggers like a drunkard † and sways like a hut.
Earth's rebellion weighs it down, and it falls, never to rise again.

21 On that day † the LORD will punish the army of the heights in the heights and the kings of the ground on the ground.
22 They will be gathered together like prisoners in a pit. †
They will be confined to a dungeon; † after many days they will be punished.
23 The moon will be put to shame and the sun disgraced, because the LORD of Armies will reign as king on Mount Zion in Jerusalem, and he will display his glory in the presence of his elders. †

24:1-4 The sequential declarations of God's judgment against various nations in Isaiah 13–23 naturally leads into Isaiah 24–27 and its concern with the earth generally (e.g., vv. 1,3-6,11,13,17-20). In keeping with the preceding chapters, God will judge the whole earth, including its exalted ones (v. 4; 2:11-17).

24:5-6 The people of the earth are all guilty and under a curse because of their wrongdoings, including breaking the permanent covenant (see 55:3; 61:8). Their having been burned recalls God's judgment by fire (see 1:25,30-31; 2:11-17; 4:4; 5:24; 6:6,13; 7:4; 9:5,19; 10:17-19).

24:10 The use of the Hebrew word tohu (shattered) to characterize the desolation of a city associates it with the state of the world in Genesis 1:2.

24:14-16 In contrast with the bleak picture of judgment preceding and following, people from all over the world instead are depicted as worshiping God with songs.

24:18-20 The shaking of the earth during eschatological judgment was also mentioned in 13:13 (see also Jl 2:10; Hg 2:7,21-22). Like Zion in 1:8, the reeling earth is compared in verse 20 to an unstable hut (Hb melunah). The weight of rebellion is so great that it causes the earth to fall, never to rise again (v. 20).

24:21-23 Such judgment encompasses not only earthly power but also heavenly ones (the army of the heights). The broader theme of imprisonment and subsequent punishment after many days (v. 22) resembles Revelation 20:1-10. The flip side of this gloom is the glorious reign of God on Mount Zion (v. 23; 2:2-4; 4:2-6; 6:3; 11:1-10; 14:32; 16:5; 18:7), where he will outshine the sun and moon (see Rv 22:5).

SALVATION AND JUDGMENT ON THAT DAY

25 LORD, you are my God; †
I will exalt you. I will praise your name, for you have accomplished wonders, plans formed long ago, with perfect faithfulness.
2 For you have turned the city into a pile of rocks, † a fortified city, into ruins;
the fortress of barbarians † is no longer a city; it will never be rebuilt.
3 Therefore, a strong people will honor you.
The cities of violent nations will fear you.
4 For you have been a stronghold for the poor person, a stronghold for the needy † in his distress, a refuge from storms and a shade from heat. †
When the breath of the violent is like a storm against a wall, 5 like heat in a dry land, you will subdue the uproar of barbarians.
As the shade of a cloud cools the heat of the day, so he will silence the song of the violent.

6 On this mountain, † † the LORD of Armies will prepare for all the peoples a feast of choice meat, † a feast with aged wine, prime cuts of choice meat, † fine vintage wine.
7 On this mountain he will destroy the burial shroud, the shroud over all the peoples, the sheet covering all the nations; †
8 he will destroy death forever. †
The Lord GOD will wipe away the tears from every face † and remove his people's disgrace † from the whole earth,
for the LORD has spoken.

9 On that day it will be said, “Look, this is our God;
we have waited for him, and he has saved us.
This is the LORD; we have waited for him.
Let us rejoice and be glad in his salvation.” †
10 For the LORD’s power will rest on this mountain.

But Moab † will be trampled in his place † as straw is trampled in a dung pile.
11 He will spread out his arms in the middle of it, as a swimmer spreads out his arms to swim.
His pride will be brought low, along with the trickery of his hands. †
12 The high-walled fortress will be brought down, thrown to the ground, to the dust. †

25:1-5 Thanksgiving to God from an individual, first-person perspective recalls 12:1-6. Both passages also reference the nations’ worship of him (v. 3; 12:4-5). Here the emphasis is on his judgment of the wicked (v. 2) and protection of the poor and needy (v. 4).

25:6-12 The repetition of on this mountain (vv. 6,7,10) focuses the reader’s attention on Mount Zion (2:2-4; 4:5-6; 11:9; 14:32; 18:7; 24:23). There God will prepare for all the peoples a feast (v. 6; 55:1-2), destroy death forever, and wipe away every tear (vv. 7-8; Rv 21:4). In keeping with the emphasis of Isaiah 24–27, the nations are again the focus (see the notes on 24:1-4,14-16; 25:1-5). Though his people must wait, God will prove true to his promises of salvation (v. 9). Moab is cited as a contrasting example of the proud who will be humiliated and punished (vv. 10-12; see 16:6).

THE SONG OF JUDAH

26 On that day this song will be sung in the land of Judah:
We have a strong city.
Salvation is established as walls and ramparts. †
2 Open the gates so a righteous nation can come in — one that remains faithful.
3 You will keep the mind that is dependent on you in perfect peace, † for it is trusting in you.

4 Trust in the LORD forever, because in the LORD, the LORD himself, is an everlasting rock! †

5 For he has humbled those who live in lofty places — an inaccessible city. †
He brings it down; he brings it down to the ground; he throws it to the dust.
6 Feet trample it, the feet of the humble, the steps of the poor.

GOD'S PEOPLE VINDICATED

7 The path of the righteous is level; † you clear a straight path for the righteous.
8 Yes, LORD, we wait for you in the path of your judgments.
Our desire is for your name and renown. †

9 I long for you in the night; †
yes, my spirit within me diligently seeks you, for when your judgments are in the land, the inhabitants of the world will learn righteousness.
10 But if the wicked man is shown favor, he does not learn righteousness.
In a righteous land he acts unjustly and does not see the majesty of the LORD.

11 LORD, your hand is lifted up to take action, but they do not see it.
Let them see your zeal for your people and be put to shame.
Let fire consume your adversaries.
12 LORD, you will establish peace for us, for you have also done all our work for us.

13 LORD our God, lords other than you have owned † us, but we remember your name alone. †

14 The dead do not live; departed spirits do not rise up.
Indeed, you have punished and destroyed them; you have wiped out all memory of them. †

15 You have added to the nation, LORD. †
You have added to the nation; you are honored.

You have expanded all the borders of the land. † 16 LORD, they went to you in their distress; † they poured out whispered prayers because your discipline fell on them. † 17 As a pregnant woman about to give birth writhes and cries out in her pains, † so we were before you, LORD.
18 We became pregnant, we writhed in pain; we gave birth to wind.
We have won no victories on earth,
and the earth's inhabitants have not fallen.

19 Your dead will live; their bodies † will rise. †
Awake and sing, you who dwell in the dust!
For you will be covered with the morning dew, † and the earth will bring out the departed spirits.

20 Go, my people, enter your rooms and close your doors behind you.
Hide for a little while until the wrath has passed. † 21 For look, the LORD is coming from his place † to punish the inhabitants of the earth for their iniquity. †
The earth will reveal the blood shed on it and will no longer conceal her slain.

26:1-2 The singing of this song in Judah (v. 1) parallels the music heard from the ends of the earth in 24:16 and recalls the song of salvation in Exodus 15. The individual's thanksgiving has become that of God's people as a whole (see also 25:9). The strong city here contrasts with the destroyed cities of 24:10-13 and 25:2 (see also 24:6,17). No ordinary city has salvation as its walls and ramparts (v. 1; 60:18). The nation that may enter is a righteous nation (v. 2; 35:8), certainly not the "sinful nation" with which this book began (1:4). Moreover, this nation may be taken to include not only humble Israelites but also the saved from every nation (19:25; 66:8; 1Pt 2:9).

26:3-4 The call to trust in God is based on the certainty of his plans and future salvation. Those who do so will enjoy peace (see v. 12; 9:6-7).

26:5-6 As in 25:10-12, the humiliation of the proud and the downfall of strongholds contrast with the salvation of those who humbly trust in God.

26:8-9 In contrast with verses 1-6, the perspective here is of waiting and longing for [God's] judgments

(see vv. 10-11; 62:6-7).

26:10-11 One of the marks of the wicked man is spiritual blindness. He sees neither the majesty nor the hand of God (see 5:12; 6:9-10).

26:17-18 Israel was supposed to be a "kingdom of priests" and a "holy nation" (Ex 19:6), whose obedience to God would bring him glory before the world (49:3; Dt 4:6). Their failure to bring such blessing (1:4; 5:2,4,7; 42:18-22) made them like a pregnant woman who gave birth to wind (33:11).

26:19 In contrast with the dead in verse 14, God's dead will live. Such resurrection accords with the destruction of death foretold in 25:7-8. Psalm 133:3 also associates dew (Hb tal) with eternal life.

LEVIATHAN SLAIN

27 On that day the LORD with his relentless, large, strong sword will bring judgment on Leviathan, † the fleeing serpent — Leviathan, the twisting serpent. He will slay the monster that is in the sea. †

THE LORD'S VINEYARD

2 On that day sing about a desirable vineyard: †

3 I am the LORD, who watches over it to water it regularly.
So that no one disturbs it,
I watch over it night and day.

4 I am not angry.

If only there were thorns and briers † for me to battle, I would trample them and burn them to the ground.

5 Or let it take hold of my strength; let it make peace with me — make peace with me.

6 In days to come, Jacob will take root. †

Israel will blossom and bloom † and fill the whole world with fruit.

7 Did the LORD strike Israel as he struck the one who struck Israel? †
Was Israel killed like those killed by the LORD?

8 You disputed with Israel by banishing and driving her away. †
He removed her with his severe storm on the day of the east wind.

9 Therefore Jacob's iniquity † will be atoned for in this way, and the result of the removal of his sin will be this: † when he makes all the altar stones like crushed bits of chalk, no Asherah poles or incense altars will remain standing.

10 For the fortified city will be desolate, pastures deserted and abandoned like a wilderness.
Calves will graze there,
and there they will spread out and strip its branches.
11 When its branches dry out, they will be broken off.
Women will come and make fires with them, for they are not a people with understanding. †
Therefore their Maker † will not have compassion on them, and their Creator will not be gracious to them.

12 On that day †
the LORD will thresh grain from the Euphrates River as far as the Wadi of Egypt, † and you Israelites will be gathered one by one.
13 On that day a great trumpet † will be blown, and those lost in the land of Assyria will come, as well as those dispersed in the land of Egypt; and they will worship the LORD at Jerusalem on the holy mountain.

27:1 The eschatological thrust of Isaiah 24–27 (see notes) continues with the predicted defeat of Leviathan. Its identity as a serpent recalls the infamous creature of Genesis 3:1. In line with the foretold judgment of evil spiritual powers in 24:21-23 (see note), the defeat of Satan is likely in view here, as in Genesis 3:15. For connections between Satan, Leviathan, and sea monsters, see the notes on Jb 3:8; 26:12-13; 41:1-11.

27:2-6 The vineyard metaphor had been used of rebellious Israel in 5:1-7. In contrast, God's vineyard in the future would no longer be subject to his judgment or being overrun by thorns and briers (vv. 2-4). Rather, his people will take root and bear much fruit (see 11:1; 37:31).

27:9-11 The purification process would involve destruction of the land and exile (vv. 9-10; 1:25-26). Israel's core problem is again described as foolishness, for they are not a people with understanding (v. 11; see 1:3; 6:9-10).

27:12-13 As in 11:15-16, the future salvation and regathering of God's people is expressed using the terms river, Egypt, and Assyria (see also 19:5,23-25).

WOE TO SAMARIA

28 Woe to the majestic crown of Ephraim's drunkards, † and to the fading flower of its beautiful splendor, which is on the summit above the rich valley.
Woe to those overcome with wine.
2 Look, the Lord has a strong and mighty one † — like a devastating hail storm, like a storm with strong flooding water.
He will bring it across the land with his hand.
3 The majestic crown of Ephraim's drunkards will be trampled underfoot.
4 The fading flower of his beautiful splendor, which is on the summit above the rich valley, will be like a ripe fig before the summer harvest. †
Whoever sees it will swallow it while it is still in his hand.
5 On that day the LORD of Armies will become a crown of beauty and a diadem of splendor † to the remnant of his people, 6 a spirit of justice to the one who sits in judgment, † and strength to those who repel attacks at the city gate.

7 Even these stagger because of wine and stumble under the influence of beer:
priest and prophet stagger because of beer, they are confused by wine. †
They stumble because of beer, they are muddled in their visions, they stumble in their judgments.
8 Indeed, all their tables are covered with vomit; there is no place without a stench.
9 Who is he trying to teach?
Who is he trying to instruct?
Infants † just weaned from milk?
Babies † removed from the breast?
10 "Law after law, law after law, line after line, line after line, a little here, a little there." † 11 For he will speak to this people with stammering speech and in a foreign language. † 12 He had said to them: "This is the place of rest; let the weary rest; †

this is the place of repose."
But they would not listen.

13 The word of the LORD will come to them: "Law after law, law after law, line after line, line after line,
a little here, a little there,"
so they go stumbling backward, to be broken, trapped, and captured. †

A DEAL WITH DEATH

14 Therefore hear the word of the LORD, † you scoffers † who rule this people in Jerusalem.
15 For you said, "We have made a covenant with Death, and we have an agreement with Sheol; when the overwhelming catastrophe † passes through, † it will not touch us, because we have made falsehood our refuge and have hidden behind treachery." 16 Therefore the Lord GOD said: "Look, I have laid a stone † in Zion, a tested stone, a precious cornerstone, a sure foundation; † the one who believes will be unshakable. † †
17 And I will make justice the measuring line and righteousness the mason's level." † Hail will sweep away the false refuge, and water will flood your hiding place.
18 Your covenant with Death will be dissolved, and your agreement with Sheol will not last.
When the overwhelming catastrophe passes through, you will be trampled.

19 Every time it passes through, it will carry you away;
it will pass through every morning —
every day and every night.
Only terror † will cause you to understand the message. † 20 Indeed, the bed is too short to stretch out on, and its cover too small to wrap up in.
21 For the LORD will rise up as he did at Mount Perazim. †
He will rise in wrath, as at the Valley of Gibeon, † to do his work, his unexpected work, and to perform his task, his unfamiliar task.
22 So now, do not scoff, or your shackles will become stronger.
Indeed, I have heard from the Lord GOD of Armies a decree of destruction for the whole land. †

GOD'S WONDERFUL ADVICE

23 Listen and hear my voice.
Pay attention and hear what I say.
24 Does the plowman plow every day to plant seed?
Does he continuously break up and cultivate the soil?
25 When he has leveled its surface, does he not then scatter black cumin and sow cumin?
He plants wheat in rows and barley in plots, with spelt as their border.
26 His God teaches him order; he instructs him.
27 Certainly black cumin is not threshed with a threshing board, and a cart wheel is not rolled over the cumin.
But black cumin is beaten out with a stick, and cumin with a rod.
28 Bread grain is crushed, but is not threshed endlessly.
Though the wheel of the farmer's cart rumbles, his horses do not crush it.
29 This also comes from the LORD of Armies.
He gives wondrous advice;
he gives great wisdom. †

28:1-7 In Isaiah 28–35, the focus shifts back to Israel, as it had been in Isaiah 1–12. Israel's pride and beauty is again contrasted with God's superior majesty and glory (vv. 1-5; see 3:16-4:2). The metaphor of flooding water (v. 2) had been used of Assyria in 8:7-8. Also mentioned again are Israel's love of alcohol (vv. 1,7; 5:11,22; 22:13) and God's justice (v. 6; 4:4).

28:9-13 It is natural to take this challenge in verse 9 as spoken by the drunken leaders in verses 7-8. Fittingly, their complaint about the prophetic message in verses 10 would be turned against them through the unintelligible speech of foreign enemies (vv. 11,13; 33:19). The four verbs at the end of verses 13 (i.e., stumble, break, trap, and capture) are repeated from 8:15, the context of which also concerns Israel's wide-scale rebellion against God (8:11-12).

28:14-19 Although they took refuge in a falsehood, the rulers in Jerusalem thought that they could escape death (vv. 14-15). They had rejected God's word (v. 12), and God would ensure that justice be served (vv. 17-19; see v. 2). The wise trust in the precious cornerstone God laid in Zion (v. 16; see the note on 30:15-18). According to 1 Peter 2:6-8, this "stone" is the Messiah and is identical to the "stone" of stumbling in 8:14 (see also Ps 118:22). Verses 9-13 (see note) have even more connections to Isaiah 8.

WOE TO JERUSALEM

29 Woe to Ariel, † Ariel, the city where David camped! † Continue year after year;
let the festivals recur.
2 I will oppress Ariel, and there will be mourning and crying, and she will be to me like an Ariel.
3 I will camp in a circle around you; I will besiege you with earth ramps, and I will set up my siege towers against you.
4 You will be brought down; you will speak from the ground, and your words will come from low in the dust.
Your voice will be like that of a spirit from the ground; † your speech will whisper from the dust.

5 Your many foes † will be like fine dust, † and many of the ruthless, like blowing chaff.
Then suddenly, in an instant, †
6 you will be punished by the LORD of Armies with thunder, earthquake, and loud noise, storm, tempest, and a flame of consuming fire. †

7 All the many nations † going out to battle against Ariel — all the attackers, the siege works against her, and those who oppress her — will then be like a dream, a vision in the night. † 8 It will be like a hungry one who dreams he is eating, then wakes and is still hungry;
and like a thirsty one who dreams he is drinking, then wakes and is still thirsty, longing for water.
So it will be for all the many nations who go to battle against Mount Zion.

9 Stop and be astonished; blind yourselves and be blind!
They are drunk, † but not with wine; they stagger, † but not with beer. † 10 For the LORD has poured out on you an overwhelming urge to † sleep; † he has shut your eyes (the prophets) and covered your heads (the seers). †

11 For you the entire vision will be like the words of a sealed document. † If it is given to one who can read and he is asked to read it, † he will say, “I can’t read it, because it is sealed.” 12 And if the document is given to one who cannot read and he is asked to read it, † he will say, “I can’t read.”
13 The Lord said:

These people approach me with their speeches † to honor me with lip-service † — yet their hearts are far from me, and human rules direct their worship of me. †
14 Therefore, I will again confound these people with wonder after wonder. † The wisdom of their wise will vanish, † and the perception of their perceptive will be hidden.

15 Woe to those who go to great lengths to hide their plans from the LORD. †
They do their works in the dark, and say, “Who sees us? Who knows us? ” †

16 You have turned things around, as if the potter were the same as the clay.
How can what is made say about its maker, “He didn’t make me”? †
How can what is formed say about the one who formed it,
“He doesn’t understand what he’s doing”?

17 Isn’t it true that in just a little while Lebanon will become an orchard, and the orchard will seem like a forest? † 18 On that day the deaf will hear † the words of a document, and out of a deep darkness
the eyes of the blind will see.
19 The humble will have joy after joy in the LORD, and the poor people will rejoice † in the Holy One of Israel. † 20 For the ruthless one will vanish, the scorner will disappear, † and all those who lie in wait with evil intent will be killed — 21 those who, with their speech, accuse a person of wrongdoing, who set a trap for the one mediating at the city gate and without cause deprive the righteous of justice. †

22 Therefore, the LORD who redeemed Abraham † says this about the house of Jacob:

Jacob will no longer be ashamed, and his face will no longer be pale.
23 For when he sees his children, the work of my hands within his nation, they will honor my name,
they will honor the Holy One of Jacob † and stand in awe of the God of Israel. †
24 Those who are confused will gain understanding, and those who grumble will accept instruction.

29:1-4 This city where David camped is Jerusalem (v. 1), which will be brought low by God (v. 4; 2:9-17; 27:9-11).

29:5-8 The deliverance of Israel from enemy nations parallels 8:9-10. Whereas God delivers in the present passage (v. 6), in 8:10 it is Immanuel.

29:9-12 Israel's spiritual blindness involved both its own willful choice and divine judgment (vv. 9-10; see the note on Ex 7:3-5). The result was that God's word to them was ineffective, like a document that could not be read either because it was sealed or given to an illiterate person to read (vv. 11-12). The strong suggestion is that they would not be able to understand their own Scriptures (see Jn 5:45-47).

29:13-14 One of Israel's problems was empty religion (see 1:11-15; 58:2-5), which honor [God] with lip-service (6:5) while the people's hearts remained insincere. Having abandoned God's word (vv. 11-12), they instead adhered to human rules. Their so-called wisdom would perish (see 5:21), and God would multiply wonder after wonder (28:29; 55:8-9).

29:17-24 Despite the situation described in verses 9-16, Israel will be restored in just a little while (v. 17). In contrast with the dismal situation just described, the deaf will hear the words of a document (v. 18; see vv. 11-12), out of a deep darkness blind eyes will see (v. 18; see vv. 9,15), and those who are confused will gain understanding (v. 24; see vv. 14-16).

CONDEMNATION OF THE EGYPTIAN ALLIANCE

30 Woe to the rebellious children! †
This is the LORD's declaration.

They carry out a plan, † but not mine; they make an alliance, but against my will,
piling sin on top of sin.

2 Without asking my advice they set out to go down to Egypt † in order to seek shelter under Pharaoh's protection and take refuge in Egypt's shadow. †

3 But Pharaoh's protection will become your shame, and refuge in Egypt's shadow your humiliation. †

4 For though his † princes are at Zoan † and his messengers reach as far as Hanes, 5 everyone will be ashamed because of a people who can't help.
They are of no benefit, they are no help; they are good for nothing but shame and disgrace. †

6 A pronouncement † concerning the animals of the Negev: †

Through a land of trouble and distress, of lioness and lion, of viper and flying serpent, † they carry their wealth on the backs of donkeys and their treasures on the humps of camels, to a people who will not help them.
7 Egypt's help is completely worthless; therefore, I call her:
Rahab Who Just Sits. †

8 Go now, write it on a tablet in their presence and inscribe it on a scroll;
it will be for the future,
forever and ever.
9 They are a rebellious people, deceptive children, † children who do not want to listen to the LORD's instruction.
10 They say to the seers, "Do not see,"
and to the prophets,
"Do not prophesy the truth to us.
Tell us flattering things. †
Prophesy illusions.
11 Get out of the way!
Leave the pathway.
Rid us of the Holy One of Israel." † 12 Therefore the Holy One of Israel says: "Because you have rejected this message and have trusted in oppression and deceit, and have depended on them, 13 this iniquity † of yours will be like a crumbling gap, a bulge in a high wall whose collapse will come in an instant — suddenly!

14 Its collapse will be like the shattering of a potter's jar, † crushed to pieces, so that not even a fragment of pottery will be found among its shattered remains — no fragment large enough to take fire from a hearth or scoop water from a cistern." 15 For the Lord GOD, the Holy One of Israel, has said: "You will be delivered by returning and resting; your strength will lie in quiet confidence.
But you are not willing."
16 You say, "No!
We will escape on horses" — therefore you will escape! — and, "We will ride on fast horses" — but those who pursue you will be faster. † 17 One thousand will flee at the threat of one, † at the threat of five you will flee, until you remain like a solitary pole on a mountaintop or a banner on a hill.

THE LORD'S MERCY TO ISRAEL

18 Therefore the LORD is waiting to show you mercy, and is rising up to show you compassion, † for the LORD is a just God.
All who wait patiently for him are happy.

19 For people will live on Zion in Jerusalem. You will never weep again; he will show favor to you at the sound of your outcry; as soon as he hears, he will answer you. 20 The Lord will give you meager bread and water during oppression, † but your Teacher † will not hide any longer. Your eyes will see your Teacher, 21 and whenever you turn to the right or to the left, your ears will hear this command behind you: "This is the way. Walk in it." † 22 Then you will defile your silver-plated idols and your gold-plated images. You will throw them away like menstrual cloths, and call them filth.
23 Then he will send rain for your seed that you have sown in the ground, and the food, the produce of the ground, will be rich and plentiful. On that day your cattle will graze in open pastures. † 24 The oxen and donkeys that work the ground will eat salted fodder scattered with winnowing shovel † and fork.

25 Streams flowing with water will be on every high mountain and every raised hill on the day of great slaughter when the towers fall. 26 The moonlight will be as bright as the sunlight, and the sunlight will be seven times brighter † — like the light of seven days — on the day † that the LORD bandages his people's injuries and heals the wounds he inflicted. †

ANNIHILATION OF THE ASSYRIANS

27 Look there! The LORD † is coming from far away, his anger burning and heavy with smoke. † His lips are full of fury, and his tongue is like a consuming fire.
28 His breath is like an overflowing torrent † that rises to the neck. †
He comes to sift the nations in a sieve of destruction and to put a bridle on the jaws of the peoples to lead them astray. † 29 Your singing will be like that on the night of a holy festival, and your heart will rejoice like one who walks to the music of a flute, going up to the mountain of the LORD, to the Rock of Israel. † 30 And the LORD will make the splendor of his voice heard and reveal his arm † striking in angry wrath and a flame of consuming fire, in driving rain, a torrent, and hailstones.
31 Assyria will be shattered by the voice of the LORD.
He will strike with a rod.
32 And every stroke of the appointed † staff that the LORD brings down on him will be to the sound of tambourines and lyres; he will fight against him with brandished weapons.
33 Indeed! Topheth has been ready † for the king for a long time.
Its funeral pyre is deep and wide,

with plenty of fire and wood.
The breath of the LORD, † like a torrent of burning sulfur, kindles it.

30:1-3 Much like the opening lines of the book (1:2,5), here the Israelites are called rebellious children. The particular sin in view is reliance on Egypt (20:5). Such an idea did not originate from God and would prove futile (see the notes on 19:16-22; 31:1-3). The thought here parallels 28:15-17, which confronts Israel's leaders for taking refuge in lies.

30:9-11 Israel's characterizations as a rebellious people and deceptive children again echo the opening verses of Isaiah (1:2-4; see previous note). Their unwillingness to listen to the LORD's instruction (v. 9; v. 15; 1:19-20; 5:24) is reflected in their rejection of prophetic truth and of God himself (vv. 10-11; 1:4; 2Tm 4:3-4).

30:15-18 Confidence in God is again contrasted with reliance on human means. The former manifests itself in quietness and patient waiting (vv. 15,18), and the latter in fear and hasty flight (vv. 16-17; Dt 32:30). This same theme is found in other passages in Isaiah (7:4-9; 28:16; 52:12).

30:19-22 Those "who wait patiently" for God will be blessed (v. 18; 40:31)—precisely because he will deliver them. A people will dwell on Zion, and they will weep no more (v. 19; 25:8; 28:16). In contrast with 1:15 and 8:17, God will hear their prayers and no longer hide himself. Instead of being blind and deaf (6:9), their eyes will see their teacher and their ears will hear his voice (vv. 20-21; 2:3). Idols will be thrown away like filthy garbage (v. 22; 2:20).

30:26 This day of restoration is described as one of "healing," in keeping with this theme (1:5-6; 3:7; 6:10). Although God had struck his people severely (5:25; 9:12; 27:7), he would bind them up.

30:27-33 The Lord's fierce judgment of the wicked in most of this passage contrasts sharply with the joyful songs of his people (see vv. 29,32; 24:14-16a; 2Ch 20:21-23; see "A Biblical View of Music," p. 727). His lips, tongue (v. 27), and breath (v. 33) bring forth his wrath, similar to 11:4. Fire, flood, and storm (vv. 27-28,30,33) have appeared in other passages expressing the wrath of God (e.g., 4:4-6; 25:4-5; 28:2). The representative destruction of mighty Assyria (v. 31) is coupled with the judgment of nations (v. 28) as in 14:24-27 (see note).

THE LORD, THE ONLY HELP

31 Woe to those who go down to Egypt for help † and who depend on horses!
They trust in the abundance of chariots and in the large number of horsemen. †

They do not look † to the Holy One of Israel and they do not seek the LORD.
2 But he also is wise and brings disaster. † He does not go back on what he says; †
he will rise up against the house of the wicked and against the allies of evildoers.
3 Egyptians are men, not God; their horses are flesh, not spirit.
When the LORD raises his hand to strike, the helper will stumble and the one who is helped will fall;
both will perish together.

4 For this is what the LORD said to me:

As a lion or young lion growls over its prey † when a band of shepherds is called out against it, and is not terrified by their shouting or subdued by their noise, so the LORD of Armies will come down to fight on Mount Zion and on its hill. †

5 Like hovering birds, so the LORD of Armies will protect Jerusalem † — by protecting it, he will rescue it, by sparing it, he will deliver it.

6 Return to the one the Israelites have greatly rebelled against. † 7 For on that day, every one of you will reject the silver and gold idols that your own hands have sinfully made. †

8 Then Assyria will fall, but not by human sword;
a sword will devour him,
but not one made by man. †
He will flee from the sword;
his young men will be put to forced labor. † 9 His rock † will pass away because of fear, † and his officers will be afraid because of the signal flag. †

This is the LORD's declaration — whose fire is in Zion and whose furnace is in Jerusalem. †

31:9 Perhaps the Assyrian king

31:1 Is 30:2,7; 36:6 31:1 Dt 17:16; Ps 20:7; 33:17; Is 2:7; 30:16; 36:9 31:1 Is 9:13; 17:7-8; Dn 9:13; Am 5:4-8 31:2 Is 45:7 31:2 Nm 23:19; Is 22:14; Jr 44:29 31:4 Nm 24:9; Hs 11:10; Am 3:8 31:4 Is 42:13; Zch 12:8 31:5 Dt 32:11; Ps 91:4 31:6 Is 1:5; 59:13 31:7 Is 2:20; 30:22 31:8 Is 37:7,36-38 31:8 Gn 49:15; Is 14:2 31:9 Dt 32:31,37 31:9 Is 5:26; 13:2; Jr 4:6,21; 51:12,27 31:9 Lv 10:2; Is 10:17; 30:33

31:1-3 Judah's reliance on Egypt was futile (see the note on 30:1-3) because the Egyptians and their military were nothing compared to the Holy One of Israel (v. 1), who alone is God (v. 3). These were just men and flesh, not spirit (v. 3; li 30:1). Because Judah did not look to God (v. 1; 9:13; 17:7), the nation would fall and perish (v. 3; 8:15; 28:13).

31:4-9 The Lord will defend Zion and Jerusalem (vv. 4-5; 29:8) from Assyria, and it will be evident that he himself destroyed their forces (v. 8; see previous note). This word is fulfilled in 37:33-36. Though the Israelites would be delivered in this instance, they too must turn to God from idols lest they be judged on that day (vv. 6-7; 2:5,20-21).

THE RIGHTEOUS KINGDOM ANNOUNCED

32 Indeed, a king will reign righteously, and rulers will rule justly. †
2 Each will be like a shelter from the wind, a refuge from the rain, † like flowing streams † in a dry land and the shade of a massive rock in an arid land.
3 Then the eyes of those who see will not be closed, and the ears of those who hear will listen. †
4 The reckless mind will gain knowledge, and the stammering tongue † will speak clearly and fluently.
5 A fool will no longer be called a noble, † nor a scoundrel said to be important.
6 For a fool speaks foolishness and his mind plots iniquity.
He lives in a godless way and speaks falsely about the LORD.
He leaves the hungry empty and deprives the thirsty of drink. † 7 The scoundrel's weapons are destructive; he hatches plots to destroy the needy with lies, even when the poor person says what is right.
8 But a noble person plans noble things; he stands up for noble causes.

9 Stand up, you complacent women; † listen to me.
Pay attention to what I say,
you overconfident daughters.
10 In a little more than a year you overconfident ones will shudder, for the grapes will fail and the harvest will not come.
11 Shudder, you complacent ones; tremble, you overconfident ones!
Strip yourselves bare † and put sackcloth around your waists.
12 Beat your breasts in mourning † for the delightful fields and the fruitful vines, † 13 for the ground of my people growing thorns and briers, † indeed, for every joyous house in the jubilant city.
14 For the palace will be deserted, the busy city abandoned.
The hill and the watchtower will become barren places forever, the joy of wild donkeys,
and a pasture for flocks,
15 until the Spirit † from on high is poured out on us. †
Then the desert will become an orchard,
and the orchard will seem like a forest. †
16 Then justice will inhabit the wilderness, and righteousness will dwell in the orchard.
17 The result of righteousness will be peace; † the effect of righteousness will be quiet confidence forever.
18 Then my people will dwell in a peaceful place, in safe and secure dwellings.
19 But hail will level the forest, † † and the city will sink into the depths. † 20 You will be happy as you sow seed beside abundant water, † and as you let oxen and donkeys range freely. †

32:1-2 This king who will reign righteously is the Messiah (9:7; 53:11). The pairing of judgment on Assyria (31:8-9) with messianic hope is also found in 10:24–11:5 (see also 8:7–9:7). The metaphor of shelter from the elements appeared in earlier messianic passages (see the notes on 4:2-6; 25:1-5).

32:3-5 The righteous rule of this king (vv. 1-2) will result in recovery of sight, hearing, and good sense (vv. 3-4). The restoration of eyes, ears, and the heart resolves the problem so poignantly expressed in 6:9-10 (see also 29:9-12,18). The ability of the tongue to speak clearly may be an allusion to 28:7-13. The Messiah's rule will also result in justice (v. 5; 11:4).

32:9-14 The confrontation of complacent women and overconfident daughters (vv. 9,11) echoes 3:16–4:1. Judgment and exile would humble them and their people.

32:15-17 The restoration of the land (see vv. 10-14) is directly related to the outpouring of the Spirit from on high (44:3). Such restoration will not only involve physical realities but will also include justice, righteousness, peace, and quiet confidence (9:7; 30:15).

32:19 The destruction of the forest by hail suggests God's judgment of the wicked (10:18-19,34; 28:2,17; 30:30). The downfall of the godless city had been foretold in 24:10-12; 25:2-3.

32:20 This blessed depiction of a well-watered land that is good for planting and for livestock parallels the lengthier and more clearly eschatological description in 30:23-26.

THE LORD RISES UP

33 Woe, you destroyer never destroyed, you traitor never betrayed!
When you have finished destroying,
you will be destroyed.
When you have finished betraying,
they will betray you. †

2 LORD, be gracious to us! We wait for you. †
Be our strength every morning and our salvation in time of trouble. † 3 The peoples flee at the thunderous noise; †
the nations scatter when you rise in your majesty.
4 Your spoil will be gathered as locusts are gathered; people will swarm over it like an infestation of locusts.
5 The LORD is exalted, for he dwells on high; he has filled Zion with justice and righteousness.

6 There will be times of security for you — a storehouse of salvation, wisdom, and knowledge.

The fear of the LORD is Zion's treasure. †

7 Listen! Their warriors cry loudly in the streets; the messengers of peace weep bitterly. †

8 The highways are deserted; travel has ceased.

An agreement has been broken, † cities † despised, and human life disregarded.

9 The land mourns and withers; †
Lebanon is ashamed and wilted.
Sharon is like a desert;
Bashan and Carmel shake off their leaves.

10 "Now I will rise up," † says the LORD.
"Now I will lift myself up.
Now I will be exalted.

11 You will conceive chaff; †
you will give birth to stubble.
Your breath is fire that will consume you.

12 The peoples will be burned to ashes, like thorns cut down and burned in a fire.

13 You who are far off, hear what I have done; you who are near, † know my strength."

14 The sinners in Zion are afraid; trembling seizes the ungodly:

"Who among us can dwell with a consuming fire? †
Who among us can dwell with ever-burning flames? "

15 The one who lives righteously and speaks rightly, † who refuses profit from extortion, whose hand never takes a bribe, who stops his ears from listening to murderous plots and shuts his eyes against evil schemes † — 16 he will dwell on the heights; his refuge will be the rocky fortresses, his food provided, his water assured.

17 Your eyes will see the King in his beauty; † you will see a vast land. †
18 Your mind will meditate on the past terror: “Where is the accountant? †
Where is the tribute collector? †
Where is the one who spied out our defenses? ” †
19 You will no longer see the barbarians, a people whose speech is difficult to comprehend — who stammer in a language that is not understood. † 20 Look at Zion, the city of our festival times.
Your eyes will see Jerusalem, a peaceful pasture, † a tent that does not wander; its tent pegs will not be pulled up nor will any of its cords be loosened. † 21 For the majestic one, our LORD, will be there, † a place of rivers and broad streams where ships that are rowed will not go, and majestic vessels will not pass. † 22 For the LORD is our Judge, the LORD is our Lawgiver, † the LORD is our King.
He will save us. †
23 Your ropes are slack; they cannot hold the base of the mast or spread out the flag.
Then abundant spoil will be divided,
the lame will plunder it, 24 and none there will say, “I am sick.”
The people who dwell there will be forgiven † their iniquity. †

33:24 Is 13:11

33:2-6 This prayer is voiced by God's people who wait for his salvation (v. 2; 25:9). He will judge the nations (vv. 3-4) and be exalted (see 2:11,17). The filling of Zion with justice and righteousness (v. 5) recalls several significant earlier passages concerning the restoration of Zion (1:21; 32:16), the Messiah's righteous rule (9:7; 32:1), and the glory of God filling the earth (6:3; 11:9; 27:6).

33:10 God's exaltation coincides with the distress of the land (vv. 7-9) and the clear failure of his people (v. 11; 26:18).

33:13 God's works pertain to everyone, whether they are far off or near (see 34:1; 57:19; 66:19).

33:14-16 Despite numerous promises of the salvation of Zion, the sinners there still have good reason to be afraid (v. 14; 1:28; 48:22) because they cannot live in the presence of the Holy One (see 6:5). Fire has repeatedly been used of divine judgment (see the notes on 5:24; 24:5-6; 30:33) and of God himself (10:17; see Dt 4:24; 9:3). Along with the requirement of holiness in verses 15-16, this passage parallels Pss 15:1-5 and 24:1-5. It is also complemented by verse 24 and 6:1-7, which offer the hope of atonement to the humble.

33:17 The King is identical with the one in 32:1-2 (see note). The mention of his beauty echoes 4:2. Those whose eyes will see are the godly (vv. 15-16), whose spiritual senses have been restored (32:3).

33:19-24 When redemption is realized, foreign enemies will be nowhere to be found (v. 19; 28:11). Instead, Zion will be secure and at peace (v. 20). It will be a place of rivers (v. 21), though not for majestic vessels (see 2:16; 23:1). The lame will take possession of abundant spoil (v. 23; see v. 4; 35:6; 53:12). Those who live there will no longer be subject to sickness and will be forgiven of their sins (v. 24; 25:8; 53:5)

THE JUDGMENT OF THE NATIONS

34 You nations, come here and listen; you peoples, pay attention! †
Let the earth and all that fills it hear, the world and all that comes from it. †
2 The LORD is angry with all the nations, furious with all their armies. †
He will set them apart for destruction, † giving them over to slaughter.
3 Their slain will be thrown out, and the stench of their corpses will rise; † the mountains will flow † with their blood. † 4 All † the stars in the sky † will dissolve.
The sky will roll up like a scroll, † and its stars will all wither as leaves wither on the vine, and foliage on the fig tree. †

THE JUDGMENT OF EDOM

5 When my sword has drunk its fill † † in the heavens, it will then come down on Edom †
and on the people I have set apart for destruction.
6 The LORD's sword is covered with blood.
It drips with fat,
with the blood of lambs and goats, with the fat of the kidneys of rams. †
For the LORD has a sacrifice in Bozrah, † a great slaughter in the land of Edom.
7 The wild oxen will be struck † down with them, and young bulls with the mighty bulls.
Their land will be soaked with † blood, and their soil will be saturated with fat.

8 For the LORD has a day of vengeance, † a time of paying back Edom for its hostility against Zion.
9 Edom's streams will be turned into pitch, her soil into sulfur; † her land will become burning pitch.
10 It will never go out — day or night.
Its smoke will go up forever. †
It will be desolate, from generation to generation; no one will pass through it forever and ever. † 11 Eagle owls † and herons † will possess it, and long-eared owls and ravens will dwell there. †
The LORD will stretch out a measuring line and a plumb line over her for her destruction and chaos. † 12 No nobles will be left to proclaim a king, and all her princes will come to nothing.
13 Her palaces will be overgrown with thorns; her fortified cities, with thistles and briers. †
She will become a dwelling for jackals, an abode † for ostriches. †

14 The desert creatures will meet hyenas, and one wild goat will call to another.
Indeed, the night birds will stay there and will find a resting place.
15 Sand partridges † will make their nests there; they will lay and hatch their eggs and will gather their broods under their shadows.
Indeed, the birds of prey will gather there, each with its mate. †
16 Search and read the scroll of the LORD: †
Not one of them will be missing, none will be lacking its mate, because he has ordered it by my † mouth, and he will gather them by his Spirit.
17 He has cast the lot for them; his hand allotted their portion with a measuring line.
They will possess it forever; † they will dwell in it from generation to generation.

34:1-4 In even clearer fashion than in 33:13, the whole world is being summoned to learn of God's coming wrath on all the nations (vv. 1-2). Not only will the mountains be soaked with the blood of the slain but the heavens will pass away (vv. 3-4; 24:21).

34:5 Edom had been mentioned in 11:14 and alluded to in 21:11. In view of verses 1-4, the judgment of Edom seems to represent the judgment of the whole world (see also 63:1-6; Ob 15-16). Furthermore, the Hebrew word for Edom ('edom) sounds like and shares the same consonants with the Hebrew word for mankind ('adam), suggesting intentional wordplay. The judgment of mankind has been repeatedly declared already (e.g., 2:9,11,17; 13:12). In keeping with its history (e.g., Gn 25:23; Nm 20:14-21; Am 1:11; Ob 10-11), Edom's enmity toward Zion is especially highlighted in this context (see following note).

34:8-10 The phrase day of vengeance (v. 8) appears in 61:2 and 63:4, both times in the context of eschatological judgment and salvation. The severe judgment of Edom using sulfur (v. 9) and the eternal ascent of its smoke (v. 10; see Rv 14:11; 19:3) echo the judgment of Sodom and Gomorrah (Gn 19:24,28).

34:11-15 The permanent desolation of Edom (v. 10) is further illustrated through the desert animals that will dwell there. Babylon's desolation had been likewise characterized in 13:19-22. Both places are also likened to Sodom and Gomorrah (vv. 9-10; 13:19) and are closely related to the judgment of the whole world (vv. 1-4; 13:5,10-13). The Hebrew word tohu in verse 11 (translated chaos) is uncommon and also appeared in 24:10 where it relates to the judgment of the whole earth (see the notes on 24:1-4,5-6). It is first used in Genesis 1:2 to describe the desolation of the world while God was creating. Therefore, its use in the present passage speaks to the undoing of creation and order.

34:16 The Spirit will be involved in this work of judgment (see 4:4; 11:4; 30:28).

THE RANSOMED RETURN TO ZION

35 The wilderness and the dry land will be glad; the desert will rejoice and blossom like a wildflower. † †
2 It will blossom abundantly and will also rejoice with joy and singing.
The glory of Lebanon will be given to it, the splendor of Carmel and Sharon. †
They will see the glory of the LORD, †
the splendor of our God. †
3 Strengthen the weak hands, steady the shaking knees! †
4 Say to the cowardly: "Be strong; do not fear!
Here is your God; vengeance is coming. †
God's retribution is coming; he will save you." † 5 Then the eyes of the blind will be opened, and the ears of the deaf unstopped. †
6 Then the lame will leap like a deer, † and the tongue of the mute will sing for joy, † for water will gush in the wilderness, and streams in the desert; †
7 the parched ground will become a pool, and the thirsty land springs. †
In the haunt of jackals, † in their lairs, there will be grass, reeds, and papyrus.
8 A road will be there and a way; † it will be called the Holy Way. †
The unclean will not travel on it, †

but it will be for the one who walks the path. †
Fools will not wander on it.
9 There will be no lion there, and no vicious beast will go up on it;
they will not be found there.
But the redeemed will walk on it,
10 and the redeemed of the LORD will return †
and come to Zion with singing, crowned with unending joy.
Joy and gladness will overtake them,
and sorrow and sighing will flee. †

35:1-7 The extended description of salvation in Isaiah 35 provides a fitting conclusion to Isaiah 28–35 (see the note on 28:1-7) and contrasts with the focus on judgment in Isaiah 34. Fruitfulness and joy in a barren land (vv. 1-2,7) recall 30:23-26 and 32:15-20. Most importantly, people will see the glory of the LORD (v. 2; 6:3,5; 40:5; 66:18). The Hebrew phrase translated cowardly in verse 4 is similar to the one translated "reckless mind" in 32:4. That earlier verse also mentioned a "stammering tongue," which seems to parallel the tongue of the mute in verse 6. The healing of the blind and deaf picks up on a familiar theme (v. 5; 6:9-10; 29:18; 32:3-4), and the triumph of the lame (v. 6) had been predicted in 33:23.

35:8-10 The "way of holiness" (lit v. 8) is not for the unclean (see 6:5; 52:11) but for the redeemed (vv. 9-10). Their holiness befits the holiness of God, his mountain, and restored Jerusalem (6:3; 11:9; 52:1; 62:12). Other passages describing eternal salvation also used language of a road or a way (v. 8; 11:16; 19:23; 30:21; 40:3). The permanent fullness of joy and utter absence of sorrow (v. 10) echoes 25:8.

SENNACHERIB'S INVASION

36 In the fourteenth year of King Hezekiah, † King Sennacherib of Assyria attacked all the fortified cities of Judah and captured them. 2 Then the king of Assyria sent his royal spokesman, along with a massive army, from Lachish † to King Hezekiah at Jerusalem. The Assyrian stood near the conduit of the upper pool, by the road to the Launderer's Field. † 3 Eliakim son of Hilkiah, who was in charge of the palace, Shebna the court secretary, † and Joah son of Asaph, the court historian, came out to him.

4 The royal spokesman said to them, “Tell Hezekiah:
The great king, the king of Assyria, says this: What are you relying on? †
5 You † think mere words are strategy and strength for war. Who are you now relying on that you have rebelled against me? † 6 Look, you are relying on Egypt, that splintered reed of a staff † that will pierce the hand of anyone who grabs it and leans on it. This is how Pharaoh king of Egypt is to all who rely on him. † 7 Suppose you say to me, ‘We rely on the LORD our God.’ Isn’t he the one whose high places and altars Hezekiah has removed, saying to Judah and Jerusalem, ‘You are to worship at this altar’? †
8 “Now make a deal with my master, the king of Assyria. I’ll give you two thousand horses if you’re able to supply riders for them! 9 How then can you drive back a single officer among the least of my master’s servants? How can you rely on Egypt for chariots and horsemen? † 10 Have I attacked this land to destroy it without the LORD’s approval? The LORD said to me, ‘Attack this land and destroy it.’ ”
11 Then Eliakim, Shebna, and Joah said to the royal spokesman, “Please speak to your servants in Aramaic, † since we understand it. Don’t speak to us in Hebrew † within earshot of the people who are on the wall.”
12 But the royal spokesman replied, “Has my master sent me to speak these words to your master and to you, and not to the men who are sitting on the wall, who are destined with you to eat their own excrement and drink their own urine? ”
13 Then the royal spokesman stood and called out loudly in Hebrew:
Listen to the words of the great king, the king of Assyria! 14 This is what the king says: “Don’t let Hezekiah deceive you, † for he cannot rescue you. 15 Don’t let Hezekiah persuade you to rely on the LORD, saying, ‘The LORD will certainly rescue us! This city will not be handed over to the king of Assyria.’ ” 16 Don’t listen to Hezekiah, for this is what the king of Assyria says: “Make peace † with me and surrender to me. Then every one of you may eat from his own vine and his own fig tree † and drink water from his own cistern 17 until I come and take you away to a land like your own land — a land of grain and new wine, a land of bread and vineyards. 18 Beware that Hezekiah does not mislead you by saying, 'The LORD will rescue us.' † Has any one of the gods of the nations † rescued his land from the power of the king of Assyria? 19 Where are the gods of Hamath and Arpad? † Where are the gods of Sepharvaim? Have they rescued Samaria from my power? † 20 Who among all the gods of these lands ever rescued his land from my power? So will the LORD rescue Jerusalem from my power?"

21 But they kept silent; they didn't say anything, for the king's command was, "Don't answer him." † 22 Then Eliakim son of Hilkiah, who was in charge of the palace, Shebna the court secretary, and Joah son of Asaph, the court historian, came to Hezekiah with their clothes torn and reported to him the words of the royal spokesman.

36:1-3 Isaiah 36–39 is the longest narrative section in Isaiah and has important parallels to the book's second longest narrative section, Isaiah 6–8. In particular, both passages concern the attack of a foreign army on Jerusalem and its Davidic king (see 7:1-2). Both times there was an important meeting at the upper pool, by the road to the Launderer's Field (v. 2; 7:3). Such pools were important sources of water but were not supposed to replace confidence in God (22:9-11).

36:4-10 The attack of mighty Assyria had been repeatedly foretold (7:17-20; 8:4-8; 20:6). The accusation of reliance on Egypt (v. 6) was not without basis, since Israel had been guilty of this at times (30:1-5; 31:1-3).

36:18-20 The Assyrians had already defeated other nations and their gods, and they concluded that Jerusalem and the LORD, its God, were no different (see also 37:11-13). Such a taunt had been similarly described in 10:8-11.

HEZEKIAH SEEKS ISAIAH'S COUNSEL

37 When King Hezekiah heard their report, † he tore his clothes, put on sackcloth, † and went to the LORD's temple. 2 He sent Eliakim, who was in charge of the palace, Shebna the court secretary, and the leading priests, who were wearing sackcloth, to the prophet Isaiah son of Amoz. 3 They said to him, "This is what Hezekiah says: 'Today is a day of distress, rebuke, and disgrace. † It is as if children have come to the point of birth, and there is no strength to deliver them. † 4 Perhaps the LORD your God will hear all the words of the royal spokesman, whom his master the king of Assyria sent to mock the living God, † and will rebuke him for the words that the LORD your God has heard. Therefore offer a prayer for the surviving remnant.' " †

5 So the servants of King Hezekiah went to Isaiah, 6 who said to them, "Tell your master, 'The LORD says this: Don't be afraid † because of the words you have heard, with which the king of Assyria's attendants have blasphemed me. †
7 I am about to put a spirit † in him and he will hear a rumor and return to his own land, where I will cause him to fall by the sword.' " †

SENNACHERIB'S LETTER

8 When the royal spokesman heard that the king of Assyria had pulled out of Lachish, † he left and found him fighting against Libnah. † 9 The king had heard concerning King Tirhakah of Cush, † "He has set out to fight against you." So when he heard this, he sent messengers to Hezekiah, saying, 10 "Say this to King Hezekiah of Judah: 'Don't let your God, on whom you rely, deceive you † by promising that Jerusalem won't be handed over to the king of Assyria.
11 Look, you have heard what the kings of Assyria have done to all the countries: they completely destroyed them. Will you be rescued? 12 Did the gods of the nations † that my predecessors destroyed rescue them — Gozan, † Haran, † Rezeph, and the Edenites in Telassar? 13 Where is the king of Hamath, the king of Arpad, the king of the city of † Sepharvaim, Hena, or Ivvah? ' "

HEZEKIAH'S PRAYER

14 Hezekiah took the letter from the messengers' hands, read it, then went up to the LORD's temple and spread it out before the LORD. † 15 Then Hezekiah prayed † to the LORD:

16 LORD of Armies, God of Israel, enthroned between the cherubim, † you are God † — you alone † — of all the kingdoms of the earth. † You made the heavens and the earth. † 17 Listen closely, LORD, and hear; † open your eyes,

LORD, and see. † Hear all the words that Sennacherib has sent to mock the living God. † 18 LORD, it is true that the kings of Assyria have devastated all these countries and their lands. 19 They have thrown their gods into the fire, for they were not gods † but made from wood and stone † by human hands. † So they have destroyed them. 20 Now, LORD our God, save us from his power so that all the kingdoms of the earth may know that you, LORD, are God † † — you alone. †

GOD'S ANSWER THROUGH ISAIAH

21 Then Isaiah son of Amoz sent a message to Hezekiah: "The LORD, the God of Israel, says, 'Because you prayed to me about King Sennacherib of Assyria, 22 this is the word the LORD has spoken against him:

Virgin Daughter Zion † despises you and scorns you; Daughter Jerusalem shakes her head † behind your back.
23 Who is it you have mocked † and blasphemed?
Against whom have you raised your voice and lifted your eyes in pride? †
Against the Holy One of Israel! †
24 You have mocked the LORD through † your servants.
You have said, "With my many chariots †
I have gone up to the heights of the mountains, to the far recesses of Lebanon.
I cut down its tallest cedars, its choice cypress trees.
I came to its distant heights, its densest forest.
25 I dug wells and drank water in foreign lands. †
I dried up all the streams of Egypt with the soles of my feet." †

26 Have you not heard? †

I designed it long ago;
I planned it in days gone by. †
I have now brought it to pass, and you have crushed fortified cities † into piles of rubble.
27 Their inhabitants have become powerless, dismayed, and ashamed.
They are plants of the field, tender grass,
grass on the rooftops, blasted by the east wind. †

28 But I know your sitting down, your going out and your coming in, † and your raging against me.
29 Because your raging against me and your arrogance have reached my ears, †
I will put my hook in your nose † and my bit in your mouth; †
I will make you go back
the way you came.

30 " 'This will be the sign for you: † This year you will eat what grows on its own, and in the second year what grows from that. But in the third year sow and reap, plant vineyards and eat their fruit. 31 The surviving remnant of the house of Judah will again take root † downward and bear fruit upward. 32 For a remnant † will go out from Jerusalem, and survivors from Mount Zion. The zeal of the LORD of Armies will accomplish this.' † 33 "Therefore, this is what the LORD says about the king of Assyria:

He will not enter this city, shoot an arrow here,
come before it with a shield, or build up a siege ramp against it.
34 He will go back the way he came,
and he will not enter this city.

This is the LORD's declaration.

35 I will defend this city and rescue it for my sake † and for the sake of my servant David." †

DEFEAT AND DEATH OF SENNACHERIB

36 Then † the angel of the LORD † went out and struck down one hundred eighty-five thousand in the camp of the Assyrians. When the people got up the next morning — there were all the dead bodies! 37 So King Sennacherib of Assyria broke camp and left. He returned home and lived in Nineveh. †
38 One day, while he was worshiping in the temple of his god Nisroch, his sons Adrammelech and Sharezer struck him down with the sword and escaped to the land of Ararat. † Then his son Esar-haddon † became king in his place.

37:1-4 The challenge from Assyria provoked a challenge of faith (36:7,15,18). Unlike Ahaz earlier (7:2,9-13), Hezekiah humbled himself and sought God's help. As with Ahaz (7:3), the prophet Isaiah again played a prominent role (v. 2). The invader not only wanted to conquer Jerusalem but also wanted to assert dominance over God himself (v. 4; 36:18-20).

37:5-7 Isaiah assured the king's messengers that God had heard Assyria's blasphemy and would defeat this mighty enemy (see vv. 10-13; 36:18-20).

37:8-13 As God had said (v. 7), the king of Assyria turned back after hearing a report (vv. 8-9; 36:2)—but not before taunting Hezekiah and God again (vv. 10-13; 36:18-20).

37:14-20 Whereas earlier Hezekiah had asked Isaiah to pray (v. 4), this time the king himself prayed (v. 15). He acknowledged the previous victories of Assyria over other lands and their gods (vv. 18-19; see the note on 36:18-20) but nevertheless appealed to God to act for the sake of his own name and thus demonstrate to the world that he is indeed God (vv. 17,20).

37:21-23 Hezekiah's prayer in verses 15-20 had been heard (v. 21). God indeed had been offended by Assyria's blasphemy (vv. 22-23; see v. 17).

37:26-29 Assyria's success, unbeknownst to them, was part of God's plan from long ago (v. 26; 10:5-6), as was their destruction (v. 29; 14:24-25).

37:30-32 The Lord announced through Isaiah that he would give Hezekiah a sign, which will consist of the nation's ability to sow and reap on the land in the third year (v. 30). At that time, they will know that they have survived the Assyrian threat and will remember Isaiah's prediction (vv. 31-32). This passage links the significant themes of remnant (v. 4; 10:20-22; 11:11,16), taking root and bearing fruit (11:1), Zion, and the zeal of the LORD (9:7).

37:35 The Lord's deep concern for his own honor has already been highlighted (vv. 17,20,23), but here he also cites his commitment to his servant David. God thus remembered his covenant with David (see the note on 2Sm 7:8-16).

37:36-38 The dramatic defeat of the Assyrians by the hand of God (v. 36) had been repeatedly predicted (10:16-19,24-26; 14:25; 31:8). Sennacherib's murder while in the temple of his god Nisroch is ironic given his earlier boasts (36:18-20; 37:10-13).

HEZEKIAH'S ILLNESS AND RECOVERY

38 In those days Hezekiah became terminally ill. † The prophet Isaiah son of Amoz came and said to him, "This is what the LORD says: 'Set your house in order, † for you are about to die; you will not recover.' " † 2 Then Hezekiah turned his face to the wall and prayed to the LORD. 3 He said,
"Please, LORD, remember how I have walked before you faithfully and wholeheartedly, † and have done what pleases you." † † And Hezekiah wept bitterly.
4 Then the word of the LORD came to Isaiah: 5 "Go and tell Hezekiah, 'This is what the LORD God of your ancestor David says: I have heard your prayer; I have seen your tears. Look, I am going to add fifteen years to your life. † † 6 And I will rescue you and this city from the grasp of the king of Assyria; I will defend this city. † 7 This is the sign to you † from the LORD that he will do what † he has promised: † 8 I am going to make the sun's shadow that goes down on the stairway of Ahaz go back by ten steps.' " † So the sun's shadow † went back the ten steps it had descended.
9 A poem by King Hezekiah of Judah after he had been sick and had recovered from his illness:

10 I said: In the prime † of my life †
I must go to the gates of Sheol; †
I am deprived of the rest of my years.
11 I said: I will never see the LORD, the LORD in the land of the living; †
I will not look on humanity any longer with the inhabitants of what is passing away. † 12 My dwelling is plucked up and removed from me like a shepherd's tent. †
I have rolled up my life like a weaver; †
he cuts me off from the loom. †
By nightfall † you make an end of me. †
13 I thought until the morning: He will break all my bones like a lion.
By nightfall you make an end of me.
14 I chirp like a swallow or a crane; I moan like a dove. †
My eyes grow weak looking upward.
Lord, I am oppressed; support me. †

15 What can I say?
He has spoken to me,
and he himself has done it.
I walk along slowly all my years † because of the bitterness of my soul. † 16 Lord, by such things people live, † and in every one of them my spirit finds life; you have restored me to health † and let me live. † 17 Indeed, it was for my own well-being that I had such intense bitterness; † but your love has delivered me from the Pit of destruction, † for you have thrown all my sins behind your back. † 18 For Sheol cannot thank you; Death cannot praise you. †
Those who go down to the Pit cannot hope for your faithfulness.

19 The living, only the living can thank you, as I do today;
a father will make your faithfulness known to children. † 20 The LORD is ready to save me; we will play stringed instruments all the days of our lives at the house of the LORD. †

21 Now Isaiah † had said, “Let them take a lump of pressed figs and apply it to his infected skin, so that he may recover.” 22 And Hezekiah had asked, “What is the sign that I will go up to the LORD’s temple? ”

38:1-8 Whereas the difficulty in Isaiah 36–37 directly concerned the kingdom of Judah, this grave illness threatened Hezekiah’s life (v. 1). As before, the king responded with prayer, which was heard by God (vv. 2-5; 37:14-35). Again, salvation was accompanied by a sign (vv. 7-8,22; 37:30-32). Hezekiah’s healing is linked to his forefather David (v. 4) and to the deliverance of Jerusalem from Assyria (v. 6; 37:35), which bind even more closely these two acts of salvation.

38:9-11 God not only delivered Hezekiah from an arrogant foreign enemy (37:21-38) but also saved him from imminent death.

38:17 Hezekiah’s healing is linked here also to God’s forgiveness of all [his] sins. Healing and forgiveness are also paired in 33:24, where they relate to eschatological salvation.

38:18-20 The purpose of deliverance from death is not merely to prolong a person’s life but to enable continued praise and thanksgiving (vv. 18-19) at the house of the LORD (vv. 20,22; see the note on Ps 84:4). Hezekiah had gone to the temple to seek God in response to the Assyrian attack (37:1,14), and the nations will also seek him there in the last days (2:2).

HEZEKIAH’S FOLLY

39 At that time † Merodach-baladan son of Baladan, king of Babylon, sent letters and a gift to Hezekiah since he heard that he had been sick and had recovered. 2 Hezekiah was pleased with the letters, and he showed the envoys his treasure house — the silver, the gold, the spices, and the precious oil — and all his armory, and everything that was found in his treasuries. † There was nothing in his palace and in all his realm that Hezekiah did not show them. †

3 Then the prophet Isaiah came to King Hezekiah and asked him, “What did these men say, and where did they come to you from? ”
Hezekiah replied, “They came to me from a distant country, from Babylon.”
4 Isaiah asked, “What have they seen in your palace? ” Hezekiah answered, “They have seen everything in my palace. There isn’t anything in my treasuries that I didn’t show them.”
5 Then Isaiah said to Hezekiah, “Hear the word of the LORD of Armies: †
6 ‘Look, the days are coming when everything in your palace and all that your fathers have stored up until today will be carried off to Babylon; nothing will be left,’ says the LORD. † 7 ‘Some of your descendants — who come from you, whom you father — will be taken away, and they will become eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon.’ ”
8 Then Hezekiah said to Isaiah, “The word of the LORD that you have spoken is good,” for he thought: There will be peace and security during my lifetime. †
39:1-8 2Kg 20:12-19; 2Ch 32:31 39:2 2Kg 18:15-16 39:2 2Ch 32:25 39:5 Is 28:14; Zch 7:4; 8:1,18 39:6 2Kg 24:13; 25:13-15; Jr 20:5 39:8 2Ch 32:26

39:1-4 Babylon had not yet gained the power they would later wield, but Hezekiah’s carelessness and vanity led to a proclamation of God’s future judgment by Isaiah.

39:6-7 Though Judah would not fall to Assyria, they would fall to Babylon (see 14:3-4; 21:6-10; 48:20). The making of royal sons into eunuchs would not only be humiliating but also threaten the continuance of the kingly line. On the other hand, eunuchs often had positions of great responsibility within an administration. God had already promised that the Messiah would come from David’s line (2Sm 7:12; 1Ch 17:11). Language related to offspring had been used recently in 37:3 and in the messianic prophecies of 7:14 and 9:6.

39:8 The temporary peace experienced by Hezekiah contrasts with the eternal peace established by the Messiah (9:7).

He gently leads those that are nursing.

ULTIMATE ORIGINS AND THE CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW

A question about ultimate origins is really a question about ultimate reality. Reality appears to have two components: that which is physical and that which is spiritual. These two elements have been described as the distinction between the material and the immaterial, or the natural and the supernatural. Does this duality reflect the way things have always been? Or did one aspect bring about the other? Or is this dualistic quality an illusion, while reality is actually singular?

Three competing worldviews—dualism, monism, and theism—provide three different answers, and in so doing offer conflicting responses to the question of ultimate origins. Against dualism and monism, the Bible unambiguously affirms theism: “In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth” (Gn 1:1).

DUALISM

Dualism understands the physical and the spiritual realms to be coeternal realities that are constantly in opposition to one another. Dualism views the material world as inferior to the immaterial realm, portraying the material world as intrinsically evil. The classical Greek philosophers and many Eastern religions espouse some version of dualism, as did several heretical groups like the Gnostics and the Manichaeans during the early days of the church. Dualism excludes any notion that God is almighty. In dualism there can be no ultimate victory over evil. The conflict between good and evil is an everlasting battle that will continue throughout eternity.

MONISM

Monism holds that there is only one reality—either physical or spiritual—and that the other apparent aspect is simply an illusion. But monists disagree about which feature is real and which feature is illusory. Immaterialist monism (such as Hinduism) contends that the spiritual realm is the only true reality. Enlightenment comes when one realizes that the material world is an artifice. Such immaterialist monistic thinking can be found primarily in the Eastern religions, with relatively few adherents in the West (the Christian Science sect is a notable exception).

Monism in Western culture has been predominantly materialistic, and this version of monism entails atheism. Atheists contend that the material world is the sum of reality. Such materialistic monism often is called naturalism (or more specifically, philosophical naturalism). One famous atheist, Carl Sagan, began his discussion of the universe by declaring, “The cosmos is all that is or ever was or ever will be.” He was not making an empirical observation; he was proclaiming his adherence to materialistic monism.

But the Big Bang cosmology (which most atheists accept) presents a special dilemma for materialistic monism. How can the physical universe be the ultimate reality, since it is admittedly finite in size and duration? Why should it be held in such high esteem? In addition, when materialistic monists deny the reality of anything immaterial, they find themselves repudiating the essential features of what it means to be a human: the existence of mind, free will, and ultimately personhood. In short, materialists end up denying their own existence.

THEISM

Theism contends that reality is greater than the observable cosmos. God transcends the universe, and he is its Creator. Biblical theism holds to the following features: 1. CREATION OUT OF NOTHING
The Bible teaches creatio ex nihilo—"creation out of nothing." The apostle Paul declares that God "calls things into existence that do not exist" (Rm 4:17) while the author of Hebrews rejects any notion that the world was created out of preexisting materials (Heb 11:3).

2. GOD ALONE IS ETERNAL.

Creation began in time; space and time are elements of creation. Whether or not time existed before the creation of the universe is a matter of ongoing discussion among Christian scholars, but the majority position has been that time is an element of creation that came into being at the initial moment of creation. Only God is self-sufficient and eternal; therefore, only God is worthy of worship. All other worship is idolatry because everything else has had a beginning and has existed only for a finite period.

3. GOD IS DISTINCT FROM CREATION.

Since God alone is eternal and called the universe into existence out of nothing, then there is a fundamental difference between the Creator and that which he created. God and the world are not on a continuum, nor is the world an extension of the essence of God. Prior to creation, God was the sum total of reality. To allow that which is not God to exist was in itself an act of condescension.

4. GOD CREATED WITH FREEDOM.

God did not create out of any necessity or out of any sense of lack. From all eternity God has been and continues to be a perfect fellowship of Father, Son, and Holy Spirit. Creation added nothing to God. He has always and perfectly possessed all excellences. If God had chosen never to create, it would not have detracted from his glory. This means that nothing internal or external necessitated creation. Not only could God have refrained from creating, he also could have created a world very different from this one.

5. GOD CREATED A WORLD THAT IS CONSISTENT WITH HIS NATURE AND CHARACTER.

God is both great and good. Correspondingly, he has created a world that is consistent with his great nature and his good character; so, creation is also both great and good. It displays his glory, power, and majesty. The cosmos also displays the goodness of God. The universe is a good universe because a good God created it. This means that there is nothing intrinsically evil about creation. The creation account repeatedly reports that God looked on what he had made and "saw that [it] was good" (Gn 1:4,10,12,18,21,25,31). Even in light of the effects of the fall, the Bible still describes the material creation as "good" (Nm 14:7; 1Tm 4:4-5). The universe displays God's goodness and wisdom (Pr 3:19-20; 8:22-36).

6. GOD IS SOVEREIGN OVER CREATION.

The all-inclusive nature of creation entails God's control and rule over all of it. Genesis opens with "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth" (Gn 1:1). He intends the expression "heavens and the earth" to communicate that he created everything, from A to Z. In other ancient Near Eastern accounts of origins, certain entities were presented as adversaries and competitors to the creator deity. Moses presents all such elements—the deep and darkness, the celestial bodies, the fearsome beasts—as subjects created by and obedient to God.

7. GOD CONTINUES TO BE ACTIVELY INVOLVED WITH CREATION.

God is not an apathetic, absentee landlord. The Bible teaches that at every level God constantly involves himself with creation. God is simultaneously transcendently above and immanently within creation. By transcendence we mean that God is distinct from and greater than creation. Yet, at the same time, the Bible affirms God's immanence within it. This means he is omnipresent, and he is thoroughly and meticulously involved in every aspect of the universe (Ac 17:25-28).

In sum, theism holds that God, without opposition or equal, called the universe into existence out of nothing for his own good purposes. In contrast to dualism or monism, theism presents a hopeful, optimistic view of the cosmos. Though evil is in the world, it is not an eternal feature interwoven into the essence of nature. God has redeemed the world through his Son, Jesus Christ, and he is accomplishing his purposes according to his eternal plan (Eph 1:11).

they will run and not become weary, they will walk and not faint.

40:1-2 Isaiah 40 marks a major juncture in the book of Isaiah. Although Isaiah 1–39 certainly sounds strong notes of salvation and restoration, Isaiah 40–66 brings out these themes even more. The poetic style characterizing most of the book is also taken up again. Comfort for Jerusalem and atonement for its sin had also been predicted in 12:1; 27:9; 33:24.

40:3-5 Whereas elsewhere the saved were described as traveling on a “way” (see the note on 35:8-10), here it is God himself who does so (vv. 3,9-11; 2:3). He is pictured as coming across the wilderness to establish his rule and bring his reward (v. 10). NT authors connect the voice crying out in the wilderness here with John the Baptist (Mt 3:3; Mk 1:2-3; Lk 3:4-6; Jn 1:23). Elevation of every valley seems to relate to the lifting up of the humble (57:15; 61:1) and the bringing down of mountains to the humiliation of the proud (2:14) and idols (57:7; 65:7). Whereas Isaiah alone had seen God’s glory in 6:5, in the future all humanity together will see it (v. 5). The exaltation of God and his word also fits with the abasement of mankind in verses 6-8,15-17 (see 2:22).

40:18-20 The exaltation of God is contrasted not only with the pride of man but also with idols (see v. 25; 2:20-21). Contrary to the arrogant boasting of Assyria (36:18-20; 37:12), he is not like these man-made gods but is the Creator and sustainer of the heavens and the earth (vv. 12,22,26,28).

40:27-31 This beloved passage begins with a complaint from Israel regarding God's apparent disregard of its cause (v. 27; 49:14). The people are reminded of his eternality, power, sovereignty, wisdom, and especially his salvation of those who trust in him (vv. 28-31). These attributes had also been highlighted in verses 10-14,22-23.

THE LORD VERSUS THE NATIONS' GODS

41 "Be silent before me, coasts and islands! †
And let peoples renew their strength.
Let them approach; let them testify;
let's come together for the trial.
2 Who has stirred up someone from the east? †
In righteousness he calls him to serve. † † † The LORD hands nations over to him, † and he subdues kings.
He makes them like dust with his sword, like wind-driven stubble with his bow.
3 He pursues them, going on safely, hardly touching the path with his feet.
4 Who has performed and done this, calling the generations from the beginning?
I am the LORD, the first and with the last † — I am he." †

5 The coasts and islands see and are afraid, the whole earth trembles. †
They approach and arrive.
6 Each one helps the other, and says to another, "Take courage! "
7 The craftsman encourages the metalworker; † the one who flattens with the hammer encourages the one who strikes the anvil, saying of the soldering, "It is good."
He fastens it with nails so that it will not fall over. †

THE EXISTENCE OF GOD

In the very act of trying to prove that God did not exist—in other words, that the whole of reality was senseless—I found I was forced to assume that one part of reality—namely my idea of justice—was full of sense" (C. S. Lewis, Mere Christianity). This quote helps us to see that there are two basic ways of seeking to establish God's existence, (1) to assume God's existence and argue from that presupposition or (2) to make a case for God's existence and argue to that belief on the basis of evidence. Regardless of approach, belief in the existence of God has tremendous Christian worldview implications.

Lewis seems to embody methods of both assuming and arguing for God's existence. So does the Bible. Both are legitimate in a Christian worldview.

ASSUMING GOD'S EXISTENCE

We begin with the first of the two methods: assuming God does exist. Indeed, this is exactly what the Bible does: "In the beginning God . . . " (Gn 1:1). There is no argument for God's existence; rather, God is assumed to be there and then he is declared to be the Creator of heaven and earth in the creation account (Gn 1:1–2:25). His existence is assumed in the entire biblical narrative of creation, the fall, and redemption.

Further supporting the assumption of God's existence is the fact that he left an abiding sense of himself in all human hearts—the sensus divinitatis (cp. Ec 3:11). We are inescapably religious by nature. We all have the seed of religion (semen religionis) implanted within us, though idolatry corrupts it. The existence of God—Father, Son, and Holy Spirit, the One Being and three persons—makes sense of things. The lenses of Scripture add clarity and proper focus. That's why many believe we must assume God's existence in the first place. God's existence is the primary assumption or presupposition.

That's the assumption Lewis made at first, until he realized he had divinized himself in assuming or presupposing his own sense of justice as the basis by which to evaluate the rationality of the whole universe. Nevertheless, eventually he learned he needed a better explanation for justice than simply himself and his own thoughts. Hence, he later argued for God as the best explanation for all things, justice included. Many, before and after Lewis, have argued similarly in presenting evidence for God's existence.

ARGUING FOR GOD'S EXISTENCE

Thus we have a second method of establishing the existence of God. Rather than emphatically assuming that he is there, we make a case for God on the basis of existing things: God himself is the only adequate cause to explain the effects we find in the world. The evidence insists that God exists.

There is a biblical basis for this approach. In Hebrews 3:4, we read: "Now every house is built by someone, but the one who built everything is God." If houses must have builders, then so must everything else—including the world itself, its design, and its beauty, as well as the morality that is found in the world and in us.

This is why some have preferred to argue for God's existence on the basis of cause and effect with cosmological arguments: effects have causes (so modern science agrees), and God is the only adequate cause to explain the effect that is the entire universe. After all, "every house is built by someone, but the one who built everything is God" (Heb 3:4).

This form of reasoning leads some to prefer teleological arguments for establishing God's existence: design presupposes a designer; great design calls for a great designer, and since there is great design in this world (like male and female sexuality, eyesight, hearing, taste, DNA, the human brain, etc.), there must be a great designer behind it, and this must be God. God exists as the intelligent Designer of all things.

Still others, along these lines, have favored aesthetic arguments for God's existence: beauty exists and God is its ultimate source, whether that beauty is of natural or human origin. Consider the Rocky Mountains or Big Sur. J. S. Bach and the Beatles have produced some beautiful music. And not only are such things beautiful, but humans share the ability to perceive them as such.

For C. S. Lewis, morality, or the inherent sense of right and wrong, was the clue to the meaning of the universe. Morality (including justice) was certainly not rooted in Lewis himself (or any other human), but rather in the Trinitarian God. Often called the moral argument for God's existence, the idea is that the moral notions and motions within us (conscience) show that God—not herd instinct, not social convention, not accidental natural law, nor our fanciful imaginations—must be their ultimate source. God is the cause, and morality is the effect. This is the law of human nature. As Romans 2:15 says, God's moral law is inscribed on the hearts of all, even in the hearts of those who do not know God personally.

Or it could even be that we don't need to argue for God's existence on the basis of things we find in ourselves or in the world in a cause and effect manner. Perhaps the very idea of God who is an absolutely perfect being lacking nothing, including existence, must exist—necessarily. This is an example of an ontological argument for God's existence.

GOD'S EXISTENCE AND HUMANITY

God's existence, whether assumed or argued, is most consequential for thought and action in a Christian worldview. Ultimate reality is to be found in the one God who exists eternally as three persons: Father, Son, and Holy Spirit. He is the Creator, Judge, and Redeemer of the world.

Additionally, the world is not just nature, but creation since God the Creator made it. His glory is revealed in everything (Is 6:3). Furthermore, we humans are God's image and likeness. As a result, we possess value, dignity, and worth. All of our human powers to think, know, experience, make, imagine, choose, and love come from him. Also, God gave us an original commission to exercise dominion over the earth as its stewards, with corresponding environmental responsibilities. We are to work the earth and make something of it, and we are to watch over it carefully (Gn 2:15).

It is even possible for us to rebel against God. Yet if we do, we have to use the very faculties he has given us, like reason, to try to thwart him. Of course, we cannot. Despite our futile attempts at rebellion, God in his kindness and grace has redeemed all things in Jesus Christ. Ultimately, he will complete that salvation at his second coming, though we experience it now. He has made all things new, including his followers. He has established the church as the body of Christ in the world. In our personal lives, we have holes in our souls that only God can fill, and he will do it if we trust and believe in Jesus. As Augustine (AD 354–430) said in his spiritual autobiography Confessions, "Our hearts are restless [God,] until they rest in you."

CONCLUSION

Since God exists, knowledge is also possible, and comes in the form of gracious revelation—both natural, through nature and for all—and special, made known in the inspired words of Scripture. We, too, have the ability to comprehend this knowledge and God's truth about all things.

Morality, ethics, and beauty are objectively rooted in God's character and nature. God's existence is the "rock bottom, irreducible Fact on which all other facts depend" as Lewis argued in Mere Christianity (p. 184).

DAVID K. NAUGLE

8 But you, Israel, my servant, †
Jacob, whom I have chosen, † descendant of Abraham, my friend † — 9 I brought † you from the ends of the earth and called you from its farthest corners.
I said to you: You are my servant;
I have chosen you; I haven't rejected you. † 10 Do not fear, for I am with you; † do not be afraid, for I am your God. †
I will strengthen you; I will help you;

I will hold on to you with my righteous right hand. †

11 Be sure that all who are enraged against you will be ashamed and disgraced; † those who contend with you will become as nothing and will perish.
12 You will look for those who contend with you, but you will not find them.
Those who war against you will become absolutely nothing.
13 For I am the LORD your God, †
who holds your right hand, who says to you, 'Do not fear,
I will help you.
14 Do not fear, you worm Jacob, † you men † of Israel.
I will help you' —
this is the LORD's declaration.
Your Redeemer † is the Holy One of Israel. †
15 See, I will make you into a sharp threshing board, new, with many teeth.
You will thresh mountains and pulverize them and make hills into chaff. † 16 You will winnow them † and a wind will carry them away, a whirlwind will scatter them.
But you will rejoice in the LORD; you will boast in the Holy One of Israel.

17 The poor and the needy seek water, but there is none; their tongues are parched with thirst.
I will answer them. †
I am the LORD, the God of Israel. I will not abandon them.
18 I will open rivers on the barren heights, † and springs in the middle of the plains.
I will turn the desert into a pool and dry land into springs. † 19 I will plant cedars, acacias, myrtles, and olive trees in the wilderness. †
I will put juniper trees, elms, and cypress trees together in the desert, [20] so that all may see and know, consider and understand, that the hand of the LORD has done this, † the Holy One of Israel has created † it.

[21] "Submit your case," says the LORD.
"Present your arguments," says Jacob's King.
[22] "Let them come and tell us what will happen. †
Tell us the past events, so that we may reflect on them
and know the outcome, or tell us the future.
[23] Tell us the coming events, †
then we will know that you are gods.
Indeed, do something good or bad,
then we will be in awe † when we see it.
[24] Look, you are nothing † and your work is worthless.
Anyone who chooses you is detestable.

[25] "I have stirred up one from the north, † and he has come, one from the east † who invokes my † name. †
He will march over rulers as if they were mud, like a potter who treads the clay.
[26] Who told about this from the beginning, so that we might know, and from times past,
so that we might say, 'He is right'?
No one announced it,
no one told it,
no one heard your words.
[27] I was the first to say to Zion, †
'Look! Here they are! '
And I gave Jerusalem a herald with good news. † [28] When I look, there is no one; there is no counselor among them; when I ask them, they have nothing to say. †

29 Look, all of them are a delusion; † their works are nonexistent; their images are wind and emptiness.

41:1-4 The focus shifts from Israel to the whole world, as represented by the islands and peoples (v. 1). The purpose of verses 2-4 is to declare that this mighty conqueror, probably Cyrus the ruler of the Medes and the Persians (45:1), has come according to the sovereign plan of God.

41:6-7 Despite their fear of impending judgment, the nations would continue to cling to their idols (v. 7). The uselessness of these false gods is again illustrated through their need to be fastened in place so as not to fall over (see 40:20).

41:8-10 Whereas "the whole earth trembles" (v. 5), Israel need not fear because God has chosen them and is with them. His bringing them from the ends of the earth alludes to regathering from exile (v. 9; 11:11-12). They are called God's servant (vv. 8-9), as in some other passages (e.g., 42:19; 43:10; 44:1-2). This same designation can be used to refer specifically to the individual who will come to redeem Israel and all the peoples of the earth (the Messiah) (e.g., 42:1; 49:5; 52:13; 53:11).

41:18-20 The description of restoration in terms of abundant water and plant life parallels previous passages (30:23-26; 32:20; 33:21). These are also linked to the outpouring of the Spirit in 32:15 and 44:3.

41:25-29 The Lord again defends his supremacy over other gods by appealing to his foreknowledge and sovereignty over a coming conqueror (vv. 2,25-26). This event is also linked to the restoration of Zion (v. 27; 40:9).

THE SERVANT'S MISSION

2 He will not cry out or shout or make his voice heard in the streets.

3 He will not break a bruised reed, and he will not put out a smoldering wick; he will faithfully bring justice.
4 He will not grow weak or be discouraged until he has established justice on earth.
The coasts and islands will wait for his instruction." †

RELIGIOUS NATURALISM

Religious naturalism is an approach to life and reality that maintains a spiritual approach to life without affirming the normal aspects of the supernatural found in traditional Christian theism. In this worldview, the concept of "God" is emptied of its traditional meaning. Jesus Christ is thought to be nothing more than a popularizer of Hebrew spirituality.

Like other forms of naturalism, religious naturalism holds that the phenomena of the world can be reduced to material substances and physical processes. That is, despite the spiritual flavoring of this worldview, it says that all reality is physical—which is why its proponents seek scientific, as opposed to supernatural, explanations of events in the world.

Religious naturalism is "religious" or "spiritual" in nature not because it affirms traditional understandings of supernatural beings or supernatural realms, but because it continues to focus on religious experiences. One "encounters the divine" inasmuch as one finds meaning and significance in a personal encounter with the world itself.

For the religious naturalist, reality may be purely physical in nature, but this does not mean that it lacks value, dignity, or importance. This religious perspective places an incredibly high emphasis on reality as a unified whole. Where traditional Christian theism sees a sharp distinction between Creator and creation as two fundamentally different kinds of things, religious naturalism rejects this distinction in favor of a view that emphasizes the oneness of all things. On this account, there is no ontological difference between spiritual and physical things. Both belong to the same category and to the same realm. Thus, religious naturalism offers a unified explanation of the world and all things in it.

RELIGIOUS NATURALISTS AND GOD

While some religious naturalists still hold to a concept of "God," most do not. On this view, a transcendent "God" as a supernatural being distinct from nature is not required for explaining the world or for finding value within it. This does not necessarily amount to a denial of God's existence on their part, but merely a revision of the concept.

Like pantheists, religious naturalists see God and the universe (or some part of the universe) as one and the same thing. Thus, humans can find all the value, beauty, and significance needed for maintaining a religious approach to life. When people recognize, experience, or appreciate the oneness of reality, they participate in religious activity and transcend themselves to grasp a reality larger and greater than their own individual lives.

Religious naturalism also maintains a belief in the sacred. "The sacred" is not something that is spiritually separate from the physical world. Rather, whatever is considered most important to human life, or of greatest value within life, is thought to be sacred.

Unlike nonreligious versions of naturalism, religious naturalism believes that a religious response to life is required by human experience in this world. They note that the irreligious outlook on life is at odds with our feelings, sense of meaning, and experience of beauty. These aspects of life mandate a spiritual dimension of life that naturalism itself cannot satisfy.

THE ROOTS OF RELIGIOUS NATURALISM

Religious naturalism has roots in a wide variety of philosophical and theological movements throughout history. Specifically, it is connected to (1) ancient pagan belief systems that emphasized similar religious and scientific dispositions; (2) Protestant emphases on religious experience and language; (3) seventeenth-century philosopher Baruch Spinoza and his pantheistic account of the universe; (4) Enlightenment attempts to recast Christian concepts of morality without positing the Christian God; (5) modern preferences for purely scientific explanations of reality; and (6) contemporary advocates of religious naturalism like Jerome Stone, George Santayana, and Ursula Goodenough, who now promote this perspective.

Religious naturalism has many important aspects in common with each of these, but there are also some critical differences. In particular, it is different from (1) ancient pagan thought in that it possesses a better understanding of the physical world and proposes a more sophisticated view of the aesthetic aspects of life; (2) it rejects the ontological content—God and the supernatural realm—of Protestant Christianity; (3) in opposition to Spinoza, religious naturalism affirms a man-centered view of the universe; and (4) it rejects the Enlightenment and contemporary hostility toward the religious.

CHRISTIANITY AND RELIGIOUS NATURALISM

Christians will likely agree with several features of religious naturalism. They will, for example, probably agree that our experience in this world demands a religious response. According to nonreligious naturalism, there is nothing but nature and no need for a religious response to it. Nonreligious naturalism denies that there is any meaning or purpose in the universe or to human life. All appearances to the contrary are just that, appearances. But the religious naturalists push back against this, claiming that the universe and human life are in fact filled with meaning, purpose, beauty, and significance. Any approach that denies these realities is simply deficient.

Christians will also likely agree with religious naturalists in their support of traditional ethical principles and affirmation of morality. Like traditional Christian theism, religious naturalism believes that some things are actually wrong and others are actually right. The two perspectives may differ over what those things might be, but both perspectives claim that it is possible and necessary to do ethics and that religion plays a part in this.

Some Christians, though not all, may also agree with religious naturalism's pursuit of scientific explanations for things in the world. Many Christians argue that nature and revelation both come from God and are consistent with each other. But there are disagreements over which discipline—science or theology—has authority over the other.

Of course, Christians also have some sharp disagreement with religious naturalism. First, Christians argue that religious naturalism has a major problem when it comes to the question of origins—where did the universe and all that is in it come from? This universe is finite (despite how big it is) and contingent, which means it is limited and depends on something else for its existence. Without a Creator that is distinct from the creation—as affirmed by Christian theism—it is difficult to see how the universe could come into existence. In Christian theism, God is a necessary being that exists before and beyond the universe with power and wisdom. This, according to Christian theism, is how the universe came into being.

Second, while Christians will agree with religious naturalism's affirmation of meaning and purpose in life, Christians will argue that their affirmation is bankrupt. Simply put, religious naturalism affirms religious ideas without having the kind of ontology that makes these ideas possible in the first place. Religious naturalism, despite its attempt to be religious is still naturalism and empties the concept of God—if the idea of God is retained at all. The question is not whether religious naturalism affirms meaning and purpose, but whether or not it makes any sense to affirm this without the God of Christian theism.

Third, Christians will argue that the ethical affirmations of religious naturalism are empty. This resembles the concern that religious naturalism's claim to meaning and purpose is empty, but potentially worse and of more significance. Religious naturalists attempt to ground morality in the universe itself, but these efforts are hard-pressed to do so.

Fourth, and finally, Christians obviously object to the idea that Jesus Christ was merely a popularizer of Hebrew spirituality. Given the historical evidence in support of the resurrection and the testimony of Scripture itself, Christianity contends that Christ is the Son of God and Lord over all things.

JAMES K. DEW

5 This is what God, the LORD, says — who created the heavens and stretched them out, †
who spread out the earth and what comes from it, † who gives breath to the people on it and spirit to those who walk on it † — 6 "I am the LORD. I have called you for a righteous purpose, † † and I will hold you by your hand. †
I will watch over you, and I will appoint you to be a covenant for the people † and a light to the nations, † 7 in order to open blind eyes, † to bring out prisoners from the dungeon, † and those sitting in darkness from the prison house.
8 I am the LORD. That is my name, and I will not give my glory to another † or my praise to idols.
9 The past events have indeed happened.
Now I declare new events; †
I announce them to you before they occur."

A SONG OF PRAISE

10 Sing a new song to the LORD; † sing his praise from the ends of the earth, you who go down to the sea with all that fills it, †
you coasts and islands with your † inhabitants.

11 Let the desert and its cities shout, the settlements where Kedar dwells cry aloud. †

Let the inhabitants of Sela sing for joy; † let them cry out from the mountaintops.
12 Let them give glory to the LORD and declare his praise in the coasts and islands.

13 The LORD advances like a warrior; he stirs up his zeal like a soldier. †
He shouts, he roars aloud,
he prevails over his enemies.

14 "I have kept silent from ages past; I have been quiet and restrained myself. †

But now, I will groan like a woman in labor, † gasping breathlessly.
15 I will lay waste mountains and hills and dry up all their vegetation.
I will turn rivers into islands and dry up marshes. †

16 I will lead the blind by a way they did not know; †
I will guide them on paths they have not known.

I will turn darkness to light in front of them † and rough places into level ground. †

This is what I will do for them, and I will not abandon them. †

17 They will be turned back and utterly ashamed — those who trust in an idol and say to a cast image,

'You are our gods! ' †

ISRAEL'S BLINDNESS AND DEAFNESS

18 "Listen, you deaf!

Look, you blind, so that you may see. †

19 Who is blind but my servant, † or deaf like my messenger I am sending?

Who is blind like my dedicated one, † or blind like the servant of the LORD?

20 Though seeing many things, † you pay no attention.
Though his ears are open, he does not listen." †

21 Because of his righteousness, the LORD was pleased to magnify his instruction and make it glorious.

22 But this is a people plundered and looted, all of them trapped in holes or imprisoned in dungeons.
They have become plunder † with no one to rescue them and loot, with no one saying, "Give it back! "

23 Who among you will hear this?
Let him listen and obey in the future.

24 Who gave Jacob to the robber, † and Israel to the plunderers?
Was it not the LORD?
Have we not sinned against him?
They were not willing to walk in his ways, and they would not listen to his instruction.

25 So he poured out his furious anger and the power of war on Jacob.
It surrounded him with fire, but he did not know it; it burned him, but he didn't take it to heart. †

42:1-4 This is the first of four so-called Servant Songs (42:1-4; 49:1-6; 50:4-9; and 52:13–53:12) that describe a unique individual who will come to accomplish God's redemptive plan and suffer vicariously to redeem God's people. Although Israel was just recently called God's "servant" (41:8-9), they were blind and ineffective (42:19-20). Thus, God will bring a new servant out of Israel who will accomplish what they could not. In contrast with useless idols (41:29), God's servant enjoys the pleasure of God, is filled with his Spirit, and will bring justice to the world. He is also gentle and meek (vv. 2-3). The descriptors in the present passage are connected with Jesus in Matthew 12:17-21.

42:6-7 In keeping with the messianic prophecy of verses 1-4 (see note), this individual will also be a covenant for the people and a light to the nations. These two phrases also appear in 49:6,8 with reference to the Messiah. His giving sight to the blind and freedom to the captives relate to the future salvation he will accomplish (29:18; 35:5; 49:9; 61:1). His foretold arrival will bring glory to God (vv. 8-9; 40:9; 41:27).

42:10-13 The preceding focus on the "servant" who brings justice to the nations (vv. 1-4) and "glory" to God (v. 8) in an era of "new things" (lit v. 9) is naturally followed by this call to the world to sing a new song (v. 10) and to give glory to God (v. 12). The work of the gentle servant (vv. 2-3) thus relates to the triumphant victory in battle described in verse 13.

42:16-17 After a period of judgment (v. 15), God will lead the blind in a new direction, toward light and on level ground. These metaphors are used in other passages for future salvation (9:2; 30:21; 40:4; 42:6). The Lord's mighty redemptive acts again differentiate him from useless idols (v. 8; 30:22; 41:29). The phrase they did not know may parallel similar phrases in 52:15 and 64:4.

42:18-22 The blind and deaf servant here is Israel (see 41:8-9; 43:8), which has already been repeatedly characterized as lacking spiritual sense (6:9-10; 26:10-11; 29:9,18). As such, the nation proved utterly ineffective in achieving God's purposes (26:18). In contrast, the messianic servant of verses 1-4 is empowered by the Spirit and brings justice to the nations. Significantly, he also comes to "open blind eyes" and to free captives (v. 7). Israel's sins would lead to imprisonment (v. 22). The ministry of the perfect servant to the failed servant is even more clearly mentioned in 49:5.

RESTORATION OF ISRAEL

43 Now this is what the LORD says — the one who created you, Jacob, and the one who formed you, Israel † — "Do not fear, for I have redeemed you; †
I have called you by your name; you are mine. †
2 I will be with you † when you pass through the waters, † and when you pass through the rivers, they will not overwhelm you.
You will not be scorched when you walk through the fire, † and the flame will not burn you.
3 For I am the LORD your God, †
the Holy One of Israel, and your Savior. †

I have given Egypt as a ransom for you,
Cush and Seba in your place.
4 Because you are precious in my sight † and honored, and I love you, †
I will give people in exchange for you and nations instead of your life.
5 Do not fear, for I am with you; I will bring your descendants from the east, † and gather you from the west. † 6 I will say to the north, ‘Give them up! ’ and to the south, ‘Do not hold them back! ’ Bring my sons from far away, † and my daughters from the ends of the earth † — 7 everyone who bears my name and is created for my glory.
I have formed them; indeed, I have made them.”

8 Bring out a people who are blind, yet have eyes, † and are deaf, yet have ears.
9 All the nations are gathered together, and the peoples are assembled. † Who among them can declare this, † and tell us the former things?
Let them present their witnesses to vindicate themselves, so that people may hear and say, “It is true.”
10 “You are my witnesses” † — this is the LORD’s declaration — “and my servant whom I have chosen, † so that you may know and believe me and understand that I am he. † No god was formed before me, and there will be none after me. †
11 I — I am the LORD.
Besides me, there is no Savior. †
12 I alone declared, saved, and proclaimed — and not some foreign god † among you.

So you are my witnesses” — this is the LORD’s declaration — “and † I am God. †
13 Also, from today on I am he alone, and none can rescue from my power. †
I act, and who can reverse it? ” †

GOD’S DELIVERANCE OF REBELLIOUS ISRAEL

14 This is what the LORD, your Redeemer, † the Holy One of Israel † says:

Because of you, I will send an army † to Babylon and bring all of them as fugitives, †
even the Chaldeans † in the ships in which they rejoice. † 15 I am the LORD, your Holy One, the Creator of Israel, your King.

16 This is what the LORD says — who makes a way in the sea, and a path through raging water, † 17 who brings out the chariot and horse, †
the army and the mighty one together (they lie down, they do not rise again; they are extinguished, put out like a wick †) — 18 “Do not remember the past events, pay no attention to things of old. † 19 Look, I am about to do something new; † even now it is coming. Do you not see it?
Indeed, I will make a way in the wilderness, † rivers † in the desert.
20 Wild animals — jackals and ostriches — will honor me, because I provide water in the wilderness, and rivers in the desert, † to give drink to my chosen people.
21 The people I formed for myself will declare my praise. †

22 “But, Jacob, you have not called on me, because, Israel, you have become weary of me. †

23 You have not brought me your sheep for burnt offerings or honored me with your sacrifices. †
I have not burdened you with offerings or wearied you with incense. † 24 You have not bought me aromatic cane with silver, or satisfied me with the fat of your sacrifices.
But you have burdened me with your sins;
you have wearied me † with your iniquities. †

25 "I — I sweep away your transgressions † for my own sake † and remember your sins no more. † 26 Remind me. Let's argue the case together. † Recount the facts, so that you may be vindicated.
27 Your first father sinned, † and your mediators have rebelled against me. † 28 So I defiled the officers of the sanctuary, and set Jacob apart for destruction † and Israel for scorn.

43:1-7 Despite Israel's blindness, sin, and captivity (42:18-25), God promised to redeem them and bring them back from exile (vv. 3-7). He said twice here that he created and formed Israel (vv. 1,7), and he will be glorified in its salvation (see v. 21; 44:23; 49:3). The giving of Egypt as a ransom (v. 3) and the release of Israelites from all over the earth (vv. 5-6) echoes the exodus (see the note on 11:11-16).

43:8-13 The focus on Israel as God's chosen but blind servant continues (vv. 8,10; 41:8-9; 42:18-20). His foreknowledge and his salvation will lead them to understand and bear witness that he alone is God (vv. 10-13; 41:25-29). Even the nations will confess that this is so (v. 9).

43:14-20 The Lord will redeem Israel from captivity in Babylon (v. 14) just as he redeemed them from Egypt (vv. 16-17). Their future salvation, however, will far exceed the former (vv. 18-19; 65:17). It will be new (v. 19; 41:15; 42:9-10), just as a way in the wilderness corresponds to but transcends a way in the sea (vv. 16,19). Previous passages similarly predicted that the desert would be the locus of salvation (32:16; 35:6; 40:3; 41:18-19).

43:22-26 Israel's future salvation was certain (vv. 14-21) but at the moment they failed to call upon God and had become weary of him (v. 22; 40:27). To make matters worse, they had also wearied God with their sins (v. 24; 1:13-14). Nevertheless, God will sweep away their transgressions (lit v. 25; 44:22). Forgiveness had also been coupled with courtroom language in 1:18, and the wiping away of sin here resolves the problem of its stain mentioned in that earlier verse.

SPIRITUAL BLESSING

44 "And now listen, Jacob my servant, Israel whom I have chosen. †
2 This is the word of the LORD your Maker, the one who formed you from the womb: He will help you.
Do not fear, Jacob my servant,
Jeshurun † whom I have chosen. †
3 For I will pour water on the thirsty land and streams on the dry ground;
I will pour out my Spirit † on your descendants and my blessing on your offspring.
4 They will sprout among † the grass like poplars by flowing streams.
5 This one will say, 'I am the LORD's'; another will use the name of Jacob; still another will write on his hand, 'The LORD's,' and take on the name of Israel."

NO GOD OTHER THAN THE LORD

6 This is what the LORD, the King of Israel and its Redeemer, † the LORD of Armies, says:

I am the first and I am the last. †
There is no God but me. †
7 Who, like me, can announce the future?
Let him say so and make a case before me, †
since I have established an ancient people.

Let these gods declare † the coming things, and what will take place.
8 Do not be startled or afraid.
Have I not told you and declared it long ago?
You are my witnesses! †
Is there any God but me? †
There is no other Rock; † I do not know any.

9 All who make idols are nothing, and what they treasure benefits no one.
Their witnesses do not see or know anything, so they will be put to shame. †
10 Who makes a god or casts a metal image that benefits no one? † 11 Look, all its worshipers will be put to shame, and the craftsmen are humans.
They all will assemble and stand;
they all will be startled and put to shame.

12 The ironworker labors over the coals, shapes the idol with hammers, and works it with his strong arm.
Also he grows hungry and his strength fails; he doesn't drink water and is faint.
13 The woodworker stretches out a measuring line, he outlines it with a stylus;
he shapes it with chisels and outlines it with a compass.
He makes it according to a human form, † like a beautiful person, to dwell in a temple.
14 He cuts down † cedars for his use, or he takes a cypress or an oak.
He lets it grow strong among the trees of the forest.
He plants a laurel, and the rain makes it grow.
15 A person can use it for fuel.
He takes some of it and warms himself;
also he kindles a fire and bakes bread;
he even makes it into a god and worships it; he makes an idol from it and bows down to it.
16 He burns half of it in a fire, and he roasts meat on that half.
He eats the roast and is satisfied.
He warms himself and says, "Ah!

I am warm, I see the blaze.”
17 He makes a god or his idol with the rest of it.
He bows down to it and worships;
he prays to it, † “Save me, for you are my god.”
18 Such people † do not comprehend and cannot understand, for he has shut their eyes † so they cannot see, and their minds so they cannot understand.
19 No one comes to his senses; †
no one has the perception or insight to say, “I burned half of it in the fire,
I also baked bread on its coals,
I roasted meat and ate.
Should I make something detestable † with the rest of it?
Should I bow down to a block of wood? ”
20 He feeds on † ashes.
His deceived mind has led him astray, and he cannot rescue himself, or say, “Isn’t there a lie in my right hand? ” †

21 Remember these things, Jacob, and Israel, for you are my servant;
I formed you, you are my servant;
Israel, you will never be forgotten by me. † †
22 I have swept away your transgressions like a cloud, † and your sins like a mist.
Return to me, †
for I have redeemed you. † 23 Rejoice, heavens, † for the LORD has acted; shout, depths of the earth.
Break out into singing, mountains, forest, and every tree in it.
For the LORD has redeemed Jacob, and glorifies himself through Israel. †

RESTORATION OF ISRAEL THROUGH CYRUS

24 This is what the LORD, your Redeemer † who formed you from the womb, † says:

I am the LORD, who made everything; who stretched out the heavens by myself; † who alone spread out the earth; 25 who destroys the omens of the false prophets and makes fools of diviners; who confounds the wise and makes their knowledge foolishness; † 26 who confirms the message of his servant and fulfills the counsel of his messengers; who says to Jerusalem, "She will be inhabited," and to the cities of Judah, "They will be rebuilt," and I will restore her ruins;
27 who says to the depths of the sea, "Be dry," and I will dry up your rivers;
28 who says to Cyrus, † "My shepherd, he will fulfill all my pleasure" † and says to Jerusalem, "She will be rebuilt," † and of the temple, "Its foundation will be laid."

44:1-5 The Lord's chosen servant Israel is again exhorted not to fear because its Maker will help (vv. 1-2; 43:1-7). His prediction of future salvation relates the pouring out of water on the thirsty land to that of his Spirit on . . . descendants (v. 3). This connection sheds further light on the meaning of passages that describe the restoration of the land primarily in terms of the former (e.g., 35:6-7; 41:18; 43:19-20). Accordingly, Israel's offspring are likened to poplars by flowing streams (v. 4; 41:19; 61:3). Such a connection between water and the Spirit is also implied in 32:15.

44:6-8 God again cited his foreknowledge as evidence that he alone is God. The people of Israel were witnesses to this truth (see 41:25-29; 43:10-13).

44:9 It was not only Israel who was blind and foolish (6:9-10) but also idolaters generally. This suggests that the servant's ministry of opening "blind eyes" in 42:6-7 also includes Gentiles. That earlier passage likewise contrasted God with idols (42:8,16-17).

44:12-17 The preceding context has repeatedly contrasted God with idols (e.g., 37:18-20; 40:18-20; 41:7,29; 42:8; 43:10-13), and this passage expands on the vast inferiority of the latter. Whereas the almighty and wise God created the universe and sustains it (40:28; 42:5), idols are made by frail men who tire (v. 12), who themselves were created by God. The wood and metal used (vv. 12-14) has been created by him too. Although man may use half of a block of wood for fire, he nevertheless worships the half that has been made into an idol, praying to it for salvation (vv. 15-17).

44:18-20 Idolaters are thus foolish and blind (see previous note). Idols will not satisfy, cannot save, and are a lie. Their comparison to ashes may relate to the burning wood of verses 15,16,19.

44:21-23 God's servant Israel is to remember the preceding warning against idolatry. Man may "form" idols (lit vv. 9,10,12), but God formed Israel (vv. 21,24). Furthermore, he sweeps away their transgressions and sins (43:25) and redeems them (vv. 22-23; 35:9; 48:20).

44:26-28 Part of God's plan to restore Israel included the rebuilding of Jerusalem and the temple, which was promoted by the Persian king Cyrus to fulfill Jeremiah's prophecy (see 2Ch 36:22-23; Ezr 1:1-4). The fall of Babylon to the Medes had been predicted in 13:17 and 21:2. See "A Biblical View of History," p. 525.

45 The LORD says this to Cyrus, his anointed, † whose right hand I have grasped † to subdue nations before him and disarm † kings, † to open doors before him,
and even city gates will not be shut:
2 "I will go before you and level the uneven places; † †
I will shatter the bronze doors and cut the iron bars in two. † 3 I will give you the treasures of darkness and riches from secret places, † so that you may know that I am the LORD.
I am the God of Israel, who calls you by your name. †
4 I call you by your name, for the sake of my servant Jacob † and Israel my chosen one.
I give a name to you,
though you do not know me.
5 I am the LORD, and there is no other; †
there is no God but me. †
I will strengthen † you, though you do not know me,
6 so that all may know from the rising of the sun to its setting that there is no one but me. †
I am the LORD, and there is no other.

7 I form light and create darkness, †
I make success and create disaster; †
I am the LORD, who does all these things.

8 “Heavens, sprinkle from above, and let the skies shower righteousness. †
Let the earth open up so that salvation will sprout and righteousness will spring up with it. †
I, the LORD, have created it.

9 “Woe to the one who argues with his Maker — one clay pot among many. † Does clay say to the one forming it, ‘What are you making? ’ †
Or does your work say,
‘He has no hands’? †
10 Woe to the one who says to his father, ‘What are you fathering? ’ or to his mother, †
‘What are you giving birth to? ’ ”
11 This is what the LORD, the Holy One of Israel † and its Maker, says: “Ask me what is to happen to † my sons, † and instruct me about the work of my hands. † 12 I made the earth, and created humans on it.
It was my hands that stretched out the heavens, † and I commanded everything in them.
13 I have stirred him up in righteousness, † and will level all roads for him.
He will rebuild my city, † and set my exiles free, † not for a price or a bribe,” says the LORD of Armies.

GOD ALONE IS THE SAVIOR

14 This is what the LORD says:

“The products of Egypt and the merchandise of Cush and the Sabeans, men of stature, † will come over to you † and will be yours;
they will follow you,
they will come over in chains and bow down to you.
They will confess † to you, ‘God is indeed with you, † and there is no other;
there is no other God.’ ”

15 Yes, you are a God who hides, †
God of Israel, Savior. †
16 All of them are put to shame, even humiliated; † the makers of idols go in humiliation together.
17 Israel will be saved by the LORD with an everlasting salvation;
you will not be put to shame or humiliated for all eternity. †

18 For this is what the LORD says — the Creator of the heavens, the God who formed the earth and made it, the one who established it (he did not create it to be a wasteland, but formed it to be inhabited) † — he says, “I am the LORD, and there is no other.
19 I have not spoken in secret, † somewhere in a land of darkness.
I did not say to the descendants of Jacob: Seek me in a wasteland. †
I am the LORD, who speaks righteously, † who declares what is right.

20 “Come, gather together, and approach, you fugitives of the nations.
Those who carry their wooden idols and pray to a god who cannot save † have no knowledge. † 21 Speak up and present your case † † — yes, let them consult each other.

Who predicted this long ago?
Who announced it from ancient times?
Was it not I, the LORD?
There is no other God but me, a righteous God and Savior; †
there is no one except me. †
22 Turn to me and be saved, all the ends of the earth.
For I am God,
and there is no other.
23 By myself I have sworn; † truth has gone from my mouth, †
a word that will not be revoked:
Every knee will bow † to me, every tongue will swear allegiance.
24 It will be said about me, 'Righteousness and strength are found only in the LORD.' "
All who are enraged against him will come to him and be put to shame. †
25 All the descendants of Israel will be justified and find glory through the LORD.

45:1-4 Cyrus was God's anointed (sometimes translated "messiah"; v. 1), but he was not the Messiah who would sit on David's throne forever and also be anointed (9:6-7; 61:1). Unlike Cyrus (v. 4), the Messiah will know God and have his Spirit (11:2-3). Nevertheless, Cyrus had a preparatory role to play in God's salvation plan (see previous note), and his coming would provide further evidence of God's supremacy (vv. 5-7).

45:8 The association of salvation with rain and fruitfulness is also found in 55:10-11 and 61:11. Based on 32:15 and 44:3, this salvation in turn is closely linked to the outpouring of the Spirit.

45:9-12 Given the context, God was likely defending his sovereignty and wisdom, especially related to Cyrus (vv. 9-10; 45:1,13). He did so by comparing his authority to that of a potter over clay and repeatedly referring to his role as Maker (vv. 7-8,12,18).

45:13 This builder and liberator is probably Cyrus (see 44:28).

45:14-17 Though significant, Cyrus would not be the agent of ultimate salvation, which is the focus here. Israel and God will be exalted by the nations (vv. 14-16; 11:10; 18:7; 43:3), and Israel will be saved by the LORD with an everlasting salvation (v. 17; 9:7; 35:10). In the meantime, God and his ways often go unnoticed (v. 15; 8:17; 53:1).

45:19 Despite widespread ignorance of him (see previous note), God has spoken openly through his Word and is found by those who seek him (see 48:16).

45:22-23 After again contrasting himself with impotent and ignorant idols (vv. 20-21; 41:26; 43:9-13; 44:7), God calls all the ends of the earth to turn to him and be saved by him, the only sovereign of the earth.

45:25 The righteousness of the redeemed will be found in God, not in themselves (6:5; 53:11; 54:17) or their empty arguments (43:26). As such, their boasting will also be in him (see 41:16; Jr 9:23-24; 1Co 1:30-31).

46:1-4 Whereas the gods of Babylon must be carried (vv. 1-2; Jr 50:2), God carries his people from the womb to their old age and will also deliver them (vv. 3-4).

46:5-7 In view of the preceding context (vv. 1-4), there is no other god that can compare to God (v. 5). Idols are made out of metal by metalworkers, who then have to carry them and fix them in place (vv. 6-7). Whereas they cannot hear prayer or save, God will bring righteousness and salvation to Zion, in accordance with his plan (vv. 10-13; 14:24; 25:1; 28:29).

THE FALL OF BABYLON

47 “Go down and sit in the dust, †
Virgin Daughter Babylon. †
Sit on the ground without a throne, Daughter Chaldea!
For you will no longer be called pampered and spoiled.
2 Take millstones and grind flour; † remove your veil, strip off your skirt, bare your thigh,
wade through the streams.
3 Your nakedness will be uncovered, and your disgrace will be exposed. †
I will take vengeance;
I will spare no one.” †
4 The Holy One of Israel is our Redeemer; †
The LORD of Armies is his name.

5 “Daughter Chaldea, sit in silence † and go into darkness.
For you will no longer be called mistress of kingdoms.
6 I was angry with my people; I profaned my possession, and I handed them over to you.
You showed them no mercy;
you made your yoke very heavy on the elderly.
7 You said, ‘I will be the queen forever.’
You did not take these things to heart or think about their outcome.

8 “So now hear this, lover of luxury, who sits securely, † who says to herself,
‘I am, and there is no one else.
I will never be a widow or know the loss of children.’ † 9 These two things will happen to you suddenly, in one day:
loss of children and widowhood.
They will happen to you in their entirety, in spite of your many sorceries † and the potency of your spells.

10 You were secure in your wickedness; you said, ‘No one sees me.’ †
Your wisdom and knowledge led you astray.
You said to yourself,
‘I am, and there is no one else.’
11 But disaster will happen to you; you will not know how to avert it.
And it will fall on you,
but you will be unable to ward it off. † Devastation will happen to you suddenly and unexpectedly. † 12 So take your stand with your spells and your many sorceries, which you have wearied yourself with from your youth.
Perhaps you will be able to succeed;
perhaps you will inspire terror!
13 You are worn out with your many consultations.
So let the astrologers stand and save you — those who observe the stars, † those who predict monthly what will happen to you.
14 Look, they are like stubble; † fire burns them. †
They cannot rescue themselves from the power † of the flame.
This is not a coal for warming themselves, or a fire to sit beside!
15 This is what they are to you — those who have wearied you and have traded with you from your youth — each wanders on his own way;
no one can save you.

47:1-4 The fall of Babylon had been alluded to in 44:28–45:4 through the rise of Cyrus the Persian and in 46:1-2 though the captivity of its idols. Here the kingdom is personified as a woman dethroned and humiliated. Such divine vengeance (v. 3) is coupled with the redemption of Israel (v. 4; 48:20). God's people are delivered when God's enemies are defeated.

47:5-9 Babylon had been "called pampered and spoiled" (v. 1), as well as mistress of kingdoms (v. 5). She thought she would be queen forever (v. 7), without equal (vv. 8,10). But in this attitude she was challenging God, who alone is incomparable (40:17; 43:11; 44:6; 45:21-22; 46:9). He had given Israel into Babylon's hands (v. 6) , but judgment would come to them as well (v. 9). Her loss of children and widowhood contrasts sharply with the eternal blessedness of Zion (54:1-5; 62:4-5).

47:12-15 Babylon was guilty not only for her pride and self-indulgence (vv. 1,5,7-8) but also for her sorceries and spells (vv. 9,12). Such "wisdom and knowledge" as what she trusted in (v. 10) was misleading, useless, and wearisome. Those supposedly skilled in these dark practices apparently also benefited financially from them (v. 15).

ISRAEL MUST LEAVE BABYLON

48 "Listen to this, house of Jacob — those who are called by the name Israel and have descended from † Judah, † who swear by the name of the LORD † and declare the God of Israel, but not in truth or righteousness.

I proclaimed them.
Suddenly I acted, and they occurred.
4 Because I know that you are stubborn, and your neck is iron † and your forehead bronze, †
5 therefore I declared to you long ago.
I announced it to you before it occurred, so you could not claim, 'My idol caused them; my carved image and cast idol control them.' † 6 You have heard it. Observe it all.
Will you not acknowledge it?
From now on I will announce new things to you, hidden things that you have not known. † 7 They have been created now, and not long ago; you have not heard of them before today,
so you could not claim, 'I already knew them! '

8 You have never heard; you have never known; for a long time your ears have not been open.
For I knew that you were very treacherous, and were known as a rebel from birth. †
9 I will delay my anger for the sake of my name, and I will restrain myself for your benefit and for my praise, so that you will not be destroyed.
10 Look, I have refined you, † but not as silver; I have tested † you in the furnace of affliction.
11 I will act for my own sake, indeed, my own, † for how can I † be defiled?
I will not give my glory to another. †

12 "Listen to me, Jacob, and Israel, the one called by me:
I am he; I am the first,
I am also the last. † 13 My own hand founded the earth, and my right hand spread out the heavens; † when I summoned them,
they stood up together.
14 All of you, assemble and listen!
Who among the idols † has declared these things?
The LORD loves him; †
he will accomplish his will against Babylon, † and his arm will be against the Chaldeans.
15 I — I have spoken; yes, I have called him; †
I have brought him,
and he will succeed in his mission. † 16 Approach me and listen to this.
From the beginning I have not spoken in secret; † from the time anything existed, I was there."
And now the Lord GOD has sent me and his Spirit. †

I am the LORD your God, who teaches you for your benefit, who leads you in the way you should go.
18 If only you had paid attention to my commands.
Then your peace would have been like a river, † and your righteousness like the waves of the sea. † 19 Your descendants would have been as countless as the sand, † and the offspring of your body like its grains; their name would not be cut off or eliminated from my presence.

20 Leave Babylon, flee from the Chaldeans!
Declare with a shout of joy, proclaim this,
let it go out to the end of the earth;
announce,
"The LORD has redeemed his servant † Jacob! " 21 They did not thirst when he led them through the deserts; he made water flow from the rock for them; †
he split the rock, and water gushed out.
22 "There is no peace for the wicked," says the LORD. †

48:1-7 In contrast with the empty predictions of sorcerers (47:12-13) and the impotence of idols (v. 5), God's accurate foreknowledge is evidence to Israel that he alone is God (vv. 3-6; 41:25-29; 44:6-8; 45:20-21). Idols did not even know the past events long ago (lit "the former things", v. 3; 41:22; 43:9), much less the new things to be created for Israel's eternal salvation (vv. 6-7; 42:9-10). This glorious future will far surpass anything in the past (43:18-19; 65:16-17).

48:9-11 Despite Israel's superficial religion (vv. 1-2; 1:21,26), stubborn rebellion (v. 4), idolatry (v. 5), and spiritual deafness (v. 8), God would still spare them for the sake of [his] name. He would indeed refine them (v. 10; 1:22,25) but would also save for himself (v. 11). At stake are God's praise and glory.

48:16 As in 45:19, God declared that he has not spoken in secret. The words and now seem to mark a transition in thought. In 43:1; 44:1; and 49:5, it brings in a switch of focus from judgment to salvation. Here it intensifies the focus on salvation through the first-person testimony, the LORD GOD has sent me and his Spirit. In view of its resonance with 42:1 and 61:1, this statement is most naturally understood to be the words of the Messiah.

48:17 The Lord's instruction and guidance were also cited in 30:20-21; 42:16; and 43:19 48:20-22 Though Israel could have experienced "peace . . . like a river" if they had listened to God earlier (v. 18), they would be given another opportunity—conditioned upon separation from wicked Babylon (47:3-10). Just as the Messiah's coming is linked to the fall of Babylon (48:14-16), so is Israel's future redemption, which is a "second exodus" (v. 21; see the notes on 11:11-16; 43:1-7; 52:11-12). As such, Babylon's representation of rebellious humanity in general is also likely in view here (see the notes on Is 13–14; Jr 51:7).

THE SERVANT BRINGS SALVATION

49 Coasts and islands, † listen to me; distant peoples, pay attention.
The LORD called † me before I was born.
He named me while I was in my mother's womb. †
2 He made my words like a sharp sword; † he hid me in the shadow of his hand. †
He made me like a sharpened arrow;
he hid me in his quiver.
3 He said to me, "You are my servant, †
Israel, in whom I will be glorified."
4 But I myself said: I have labored in vain, I have spent my strength for nothing and futility; yet my vindication is with the LORD, and my reward is with my God.
5 And now, says the LORD, who formed me from the womb to be his servant, to bring Jacob back to him so that Israel might be gathered to him; for I am honored in the sight of the LORD, and my God is my strength— 6 he says, "It is not enough for you to be my servant raising up the tribes of Jacob and restoring the protected ones of Israel.
I will also make you a light for the nations, † to be my salvation to the ends of the earth." † 7 This is what the LORD, the Redeemer † of Israel, his Holy One, says to one who is despised, to one abhorred by people, † †

to a servant of rulers: “Kings will see, princes will stand up, and they † will all bow down because of the LORD, who is faithful, the Holy One of Israel † — and he has chosen you.” †

8 This is what the LORD says:

I will answer you in a time of favor, and I will help you in the day of salvation. †
I will keep you, and I will appoint you to be a covenant for the people, † to restore the land, to make them possess the desolate inheritances, 9 saying to the prisoners: Come out, † and to those who are in darkness: Show yourselves.
They will feed along the pathways, and their pastures will be on all the barren heights. †
10 They will not hunger or thirst, the scorching heat or sun will not strike them; for their compassionate one will guide them, and lead them to springs. †
11 I will make all my mountains into a road, and my highways will be raised up. † 12 See, these will come from far away, from the north and from the west, † † and from the land of Sinim. † †

13 Shout for joy, you heavens! †
Earth, rejoice!
Mountains break into joyful shouts!
For the LORD has comforted his people, †
and will have compassion on his afflicted ones. †

ZION REMEMBERED

14 Zion says, “The LORD has abandoned me; the Lord has forgotten me! ”

15 “Can a woman forget her nursing child, or lack compassion for the child of her womb?
Even if these forget,
yet I will not forget you.
16 Look, I have inscribed you on the palms of my hands; † your walls are continually before me.
17 Your builders † hurry; those who destroy and devastate you will leave you.
18 Look up, and look around.
They all gather together; they come to you. †
As I live” —
this is the LORD’s declaration — “you will wear all your children † as jewelry, and put them on as a bride does.
19 For your waste and desolate places and your land marked by ruins — will now be indeed too small for the inhabitants, † and those who swallowed you up will be far away.
20 Yet as you listen, the children that you have been deprived of will say,
‘This place is too small for me; make room for me so that I may settle.’ † 21 Then you will say within yourself, ‘Who fathered these for me?
I was deprived of my children and unable to conceive, exiled and wandering — but who brought them up?
See, I was left by myself — but these, where did they come from? ’ ” †

22 This is what the Lord GOD says:

Look, I will lift up my hand to the nations, and raise my banner to the peoples. †
They will bring your sons in their arms, and your daughters will be carried on their shoulders. †
23 Kings will be your guardians and their queens † your nursing mothers. †
They will bow down to you with their faces to the ground and lick the dust at your feet. †

Then you will know that I am the LORD; †
those who put their hope in me will not be put to shame. †

24 Can the prey be taken from a mighty man, or the captives of a tyrant † be delivered?
25 For this is what the LORD says: "Even the captives of a mighty man will be taken, and the prey of a tyrant will be delivered; I will contend with the one who contends with you, and I will save your children.
26 I will make your oppressors eat their own flesh, † and they will be drunk with their own blood as with sweet wine.
Then all people will know that I, the LORD, am your Savior, † and your Redeemer, † the Mighty One of Jacob." †

49:3-5 This is the second so-called Servant Song (49:1-6) that speaks of a future, messianic, individual who will fulfill God's salvific purposes (see the note on 42:1-4). In the present passage, Israel is called God's servant (v. 3), but so is another individual who restores Israel (v. 5). These two distinct uses of the word were introduced in the preceding context (see the note on 42:1-4) and are clearly shown here. Although distinct, these two servants are also related because the Messiah would come from Israel (see the note on Nm 24:14-19).

49:6-7 The servant (Messiah) would not only restore Israel but also be a light for the nations (v. 6), just as 42:6 had said (see "God's Purposes in a Christian's Participation in Missions," p. 1191). Though "honored" by God (v. 5), this one would also be despised and "abhorred by a nation" (lit v. 7), which seems to refer to Israel (53:3; 65:1-2). Nevertheless, he will be respected by kings and princes (52:15).

49:8-9 Again the messianic servant is said to be a covenant for the people and a liberator of captives (see 42:6-7). He will also cause the people to possess inheritances that had become desolate because of exile.

As such, he both brings fulfillment to the promises of the Abrahamic covenant (see the note on Gn 15:17-21) and inaugurates another covenant (55:3; 59:21; 61:8).

49:10-13 The redeemed from all over the world will be led by God in peace (vv. 10-12; 40:1-4; 41:18), bringing joy to all creation (v. 13; 44:23; Ps 98:8).

49:14-16 Zion's complaint in verse 14 recalls 40:27 (see also 45:9-10; 49:4). The Lord's response is that he would never forget her and is ever aware of her condition.

49:17-21 Although Zion would be destroyed and bereaved of her children through exile, they would return to her in such great number that there would not be enough space for them.

49:22-23 Zion's exaltation among the nations will show that he is the LORD (v. 23) and bring him glory (43:21; 44:23; 49:3). This salvation will make clear "that those who wait on me will not be put to shame" (lit), just as 40:31 had declared.

49:25-26 The Lord's deliverance of Zion will lead not only to Israel acknowledging that he is God (v. 23) but also all people recognizing the same (v. 26; 40:5; 66:23). See "A Biblical View of the Nations," p. 688.

50 This is what the LORD says:

Where is your mother's divorce certificate that I used to send her away? †
Or to which of my creditors did I sell you? † Look, you were sold for your iniquities, † and your mother was sent away because of your transgressions.
2 Why was no one there when I came?
Why was there no one to answer when I called?
Is my arm too weak to redeem? †
Or do I have no power to rescue?
Look, I dry up the sea by my rebuke; †
I turn the rivers into a wilderness; their fish rot because of lack of water and die of thirst.
3 I dress the heavens in black and make sackcloth their clothing. †

THE OBEDIENT SERVANT

4 The Lord GOD has given me the tongue of those who are instructed † to know how to sustain the weary with a word.
He awakens me each morning;
he awakens my ear to listen like those being instructed. † 5 The Lord GOD has opened my ear, and I was not rebellious;

I did not turn back. †
6 I gave my back to those who beat me, and my cheeks to those who tore out my beard.
I did not hide my face from scorn and spitting. † 7 The Lord GOD will help me; therefore I have not been humiliated; therefore I have set my face like flint, † and I know I will not be put to shame.
8 The one who vindicates me is near; † who will contend with me?
Let us confront each other. †
Who has a case against me? †
Let him come near me!
9 In truth, the Lord GOD will help me; who will condemn me? †
Indeed, all of them will wear out like a garment; a moth will devour them. †
10 Who among you fears the LORD and listens to his servant? †
Who among you walks in darkness, and has no light?
Let him trust in the name of the LORD; let him lean on his God.
11 Look, all you who kindle a fire, who encircle yourselves with † torches; walk in the light of your fire and of the torches you have lit!
This is what you'll get from my hand:
you will lie down in a place of torment.

50:1 The Lord is speaking to Zion's children about how both they and their mother suffered for their own iniquities and transgressions (see 42:24; 43:25; 44:22).

50:4-7 The third Servant Song is 50:4-9 (see the note on 42:1-4). In contrast with rebellious Israel (v. 1), the individual speaking has a listening ear and humbly obeys God, even to the point of enduring physical harm and scorn. He is the messianic Servant, whose gentleness recalls 42:2-3 and whose suffering foreshadows 53:3-8. Israel and their Messiah had also been juxtaposed in 42:1-7,18-22 and 49:3-5. His faithful endurance of insult (vv. 6-7) echoes 49:7.

50:8-9 Despite experiencing physical injury and shame, the servant remains confident that God will help him (vv. 7,9). Whereas his enemies will perish, the Messiah will be vindicated or "declared righteous" (lit v. 8) rather than condemned (v. 9). The legal language used suggests that his sufferings relate to accusations of wrongdoing. God's vindication of him will demonstrate his innocence (see 5:23; 53:7-12).

50:10-11 It is made clear here that the individual speaking in verses 4-9 was the messianic servant, who had also been the subject of 42:1-7 and 49:5-9. Those who fear God will also obey the voice of his servant. Moses, himself was also a "servant of the LORD" (Dt 34:5); long ago he had predicted the arrival of a prophet like himself who must be obeyed (Dt 18:15,19). The one who does fear God and obey his servant is urged to lean on his God even when in darkness, in contrast with those who kindle their own fire and walk in its light to their own demise.

SALVATION FOR ZION

51 Listen to me, you who pursue righteousness, you who seek the LORD: Look to the rock from which you were cut, and to the quarry from which you were dug.
2 Look to Abraham your father, and to Sarah who gave birth to you.
When I called him, he was only one;
I blessed him and made him many. † 3 For the LORD will comfort Zion; † he will comfort all her waste places, and he will make her wilderness like Eden, † and her desert like the garden of the LORD. † Joy and gladness will be found in her, thanksgiving and melodious song.

4 Pay attention to me, my people, and listen to me, my nation;
for instruction will come from me, and my justice for a light to the nations. †
I will bring it about quickly.
5 My righteousness is near, † my salvation appears, and my arms will bring justice to the nations. †
The coasts and islands will put their hope in me, and they will look to my strength. † 6 Look up to the heavens, and look at the earth beneath;
for the heavens will vanish like smoke,

the earth will wear out like a garment, and its inhabitants will die like gnats. † †
But my salvation will last forever, † and my righteousness will never be shattered.

7 Listen to me, you who know righteousness, the people in whose heart is my instruction: † do not fear disgrace by men, and do not be shattered by their taunts.
8 For moths will devour them like a garment, † and worms will eat them like wool. †
But my righteousness will last forever, and my salvation for all generations.

9 Wake up, wake up!
Arm of the LORD, clothe yourself with strength.
Wake up as in days past,
as in generations long ago.
Wasn't it you who hacked Rahab to pieces, † who pierced the sea monster? † 10 Wasn't it you who dried up the sea, †
the waters of the great deep, who made the sea-bed into a road for the redeemed to pass over? † 11 And the redeemed of the LORD will return †
and come to Zion with singing,
crowned with unending joy.
Joy and gladness will overtake them,
and sorrow and sighing will flee.

12 I — I am the one who comforts you.
Who are you that you should fear humans who die, † or a son of man who is given up like grass? † 13 But you have forgotten the LORD, your Maker, who stretched out the heavens and laid the foundations of the earth. †

You are in constant dread all day long because of the fury of the oppressor, who has set himself to destroy.
But where is the fury of the oppressor? †

14 The prisoner † is soon to be set free; he will not die and go to the Pit, and his food will not be lacking.

15 For I am the LORD your God who stirs up the sea so that its waves roar † — his name is the LORD of Armies.

16 I have put my words in your mouth, † and covered you in the shadow of my hand, † in order to plant † the heavens, to found the earth, and to say to Zion, "You are my people."

17 Wake yourself, wake yourself up!
Stand up, Jerusalem,
you who have drunk the cup of his fury † from the LORD's hand; you who have drunk the goblet to the dregs — the cup that causes people to stagger.

18 There is no one to guide her among all the children she has raised;
there is no one to take hold of her hand among all the offspring she has brought up.

19 These two things have happened to you: † devastation and destruction, famine and sword.
Who will grieve for you?
How can I † comfort you?

20 Your children have fainted; they lie at the head of every street like an antelope in a net.
They are full of the LORD's fury, the rebuke of your God.

21 So listen to this, suffering and drunken one — but not with wine. †

22 This is what your Lord says — the LORD, even your God, who defends his people † — "Look, I have removed from your hand the cup that causes staggering;

that goblet, the cup of my fury.
You will never drink it again.
23 I will put it into the hands of your tormentors, who said to you: † Lie down, so we can walk over you.
You made your back like the ground, and like a street for those who walk on it.

51:1-2 The reminder to the faithful to consider Abraham and Sarah suggests that God's future salvation of bereaved Zion also would start small, with just one (see 49:14–50:3; 53:10).

51:3 The theme of God's comfort of Zion appears again (12:1; 40:1; 49:13). This time it is described as a sort of restored garden of Eden. Joy and music also characterize eternal salvation in 24:14; 26:1; and 35:10 (see "A Biblical View of Music," p. 727).

51:4 The Lord's people and nation could refer to the faithful generally, not just to those among the Israelites. On the one hand, these do have Abraham as their father (v. 2); on the other, they are described generally as those who fear God and obey his servant (50:10), pursue righteousness (51:1), and have his instruction in their hearts (51:7). The latter characteristics fit righteous Gentiles (see also the notes on 19:25; 26:1-2). The themes of instruction going out, justice, and a light for the peoples echo 2:2-4 and 42:1-7.

51:7-8 Just as the messianic servant would be persecuted (49:7; 50:6-7), so would his followers who listen to his voice (50:10; 66:5). These "who pursue righteousness" in verse 1 are now called those who know righteousness. The Lord's "righteousness is near" and his "salvation will last forever" (vv. 5-6,8), unlike their revilers. The persecutors will be devoured like a garment eaten by insects (v. 8), just as will be the case for the Messiah's enemies and the present universe itself (see the note on 50:8-9; 51:6). Using language of the new covenant (Jr 31:33), the faithful are also described here as "a people who have [God's] law in their heart" (lit v. 7).

51:9-11 In addition to being paired with "righteousness" (vv. 5-6,8), salvation is effected by God's arm of power (v. 9; see 51:5). The same agent which defeated the sea monster and dried up the Red Sea (see notes on Jb 26:12-13; Ps 74:12-17) is called upon again for another mighty act of redemption. For more on the "second exodus" theme, see the notes on 10:24-26; 11:11-16; 12:1-2; and 48:20-22. Other passages that similarly mention God's "arm" as a means of salvation include 40:10-11; 52:10; 53:1; and 59:16. For a second time in this context (see the note on v. 3), great joy is linked with eternal salvation (v. 11).

51:12-16 In the spirit of verses 4-8, God again exhorts the faithful not to fear man who dies and withers like grass (v. 12) but to remember God, their Maker (v. 13). The fleeting nature of enemies and of the present universe was likewise highlighted in verses 6-8; 50:9. Their power to oppress and destroy—though real—is dwarfed by God's (vv. 13,15). His people are to speak the words put in their mouth (v. 16; 59:21).

51:18 The inability of any of Zion's children to help her accords with passages such as 26:17-18; 39:7; 49:21; and 54:1. In contrast, the "virgin" in 7:14 gives birth to the Savior, "Immanuel." Their salvation would come from God alone (59:16; 63:5).

52 "Wake up, wake up; put on your strength, Zion!
Put on your beautiful garments, †
Jerusalem, the Holy City! †
For the uncircumcised and the unclean will no longer enter you. †
2 Stand up, shake the dust off yourself!
Take your seat, Jerusalem.
Remove the bonds † from your neck, captive Daughter Zion."
3 For this is what the LORD says: "You were sold for nothing, and you will be redeemed without silver." † 4 For this is what the Lord GOD says: "At first my people went down to Egypt to reside there, †
then Assyria oppressed them without cause. † 5 So now what have I here" — this is the LORD's declaration — "that my people are taken away for nothing?
Its rulers wail" —
this is the LORD's declaration — "and my name is continually blasphemed all day long. † 6 Therefore my people will know my name; † therefore they will know on that day that I am he who says:
Here I am."

7 How beautiful on the mountains are the feet of the herald,
who proclaims peace,
who brings news of good things, †
who proclaims salvation, who says to Zion, “Your God reigns! ” †

8 The voices of your watchmen † — they lift up their voices, shouting for joy together;
for every eye will see when the LORD returns to Zion.

9 Be joyful, rejoice together, you ruins of Jerusalem! †

For the LORD has comforted his people; †
he has redeemed Jerusalem.

10 The LORD has displayed his holy arm in the sight of all the nations; † all the ends of the earth will see the salvation of our God. †

11 Leave, leave, go out from there! †
Do not touch anything unclean; go out from her, purify yourselves, †

you who carry the vessels of the LORD.

12 For you will not leave in a hurry, † and you will not have to take flight;

because the LORD is going before you, † and the God of Israel is your rear guard. †

THE SERVANT’S SUFFERING AND EXALTATION

13 See, my servant † † will be successful; †

he will be raised and lifted up and greatly exalted. †

14 Just as many were appalled at you † — his appearance was so disfigured that he did not look like a man, and his form did not resemble a human being — 15 so he will sprinkle many nations. † †
Kings will shut their mouths because of him, for they will see what had not been told them, and they will understand what they had not heard. †

52:1-2 The removal of the cup of God's wrath from Zion (51:21-23) leads to this call to her to arise in beauty, holiness, and freedom (see 40:1-2), which logically follows and echoes the similar call to the power of God (51:9-11).

52:3-6 Zion's being sold because of their sins was mentioned in 50:1, and her redemption without silver agrees with 43:3-4 (see also 55:1-2). The result was dishonor to God's name, but he determined to vindicate it (vv. 5-6; 48:9-11).

52:7-10 The imagery is that of a herald bringing good news of this redemption to Zion (v. 7). God will reign, and the whole earth will see both his holy arm (i.e. "power") and his salvation (v. 10; see the notes on 40:3-5; 49:25-26; 51:9-11).

52:11-12 The corresponding responsibility of God's people is to leave and go out from there. A similar command to leave Babylon had been given in 48:20-22 (see note). Just as "second exodus" themes were apparent there, so is the case here. Unlike the Passover, however, the future departure would not happen in a hurry (see the note on 30:15-18; Ex 12:11). Both passages also precede significant passages regarding the messianic servant (49:5-10; 52:13–53:12). Avoidance of anything unclean is in keeping with the character of redeemed Zion (v. 1; 35:8) and stands in contrast with wicked, unclean Babylon (47:3-10; 48:22; Rv 18:2). The problem of uncleanness is not only external but also internal, for everyone is unclean (6:5; 64:6).

52:13 The fourth and final of the so-called Servant Songs is 52:13–53:12 (see the note on 42:1-4). The Messiah's wisdom is likewise described in Jeremiah 32:5, and his exaltation implies that he is divine (2:11,17; 6:1).

52:14 The servant's disfigured appearance picks up the theme of physical injury in 50:6. Throughout this passage, there is a contrast between the appearance of the servant (which is unimpressive) and what he will actually accomplish (which is the salvation of the world).

52:15 The servant will sprinkle many nations, as a priest would an Israelite for consecration, atonement, or purification (Ex 29:21; Lv 4:6; 14:7). The kings will shut their mouths, probably because they are shocked at the unimpressive outward appearance of the servant. They do not understand that he is God's ultimate deliverer and more than qualified to accomplish his task.

53 Who has believed what we have heard? †
And to whom has the arm of the LORD † been revealed? †
2 He grew up before him like a young plant † and like a root out of dry ground.
He didn't have an impressive form or majesty that we should look at him, no appearance that we should desire him. †

3 He was despised and rejected by men, † a man of suffering who knew what sickness was. †
He was like someone people turned away from; †
he was despised, and we didn't value him.

4 Yet he himself bore our sicknesses, and he carried our pains; † but we in turn regarded him stricken, struck down by God, † and afflicted.
5 But he was pierced because of our rebellion, † crushed because of our iniquities; † punishment † for our peace was on him, and we are healed by his wounds. † 6 We all went astray like sheep; † we all have turned to our own way; and the LORD has punished him for † the iniquity † of us all. †

7 He was oppressed and afflicted, yet he did not open his mouth.
Like a lamb led to the slaughter and like a sheep silent before her shearers, he did not open his mouth. †
8 He was taken away because of oppression and judgment; and who considered his fate? †
For he was cut off from the land of the living; he was struck because of my people's rebellion.
9 He was assigned a grave with the wicked, but he was with a rich man at his death, † because he had done no violence and had not spoken deceitfully. †

10 Yet the LORD was pleased † to crush him severely. † †
When † you make him a guilt offering, † he will see his seed, he will prolong his days, and by his hand, the LORD's pleasure will be accomplished. †

11 After his anguish, he will see light † and be satisfied.
By his knowledge,
my righteous † servant † will justify many, †
and he will carry their iniquities.
12 Therefore I will give him † the many as a portion, and he will receive †

53:1 Although God's arm would work salvation and be seen by the whole world (51:5; 52:10), it would go unnoticed for a time by most. Isaiah has been promising that God would reveal his holy arm (i.e., his great power) and accomplish his salvation. There is a contrast between the outward appearance of the servant on the one hand and his true nature and power on the other (see vv. 2-12).

53:2-3 Botanical language was also used to refer to the Messiah in 11:1,10. His being despised (v. 3) was also mentioned in 49:7.

53:4-6 The messianic servant is pierced and crushed for our rebellion and our iniquities (v. 5). This explains how the promised forgiveness of 43:25 and 44:22 is secured. Likewise, the glorious peace of the redeemed promised elsewhere (e.g., 9:6-7; 32:17-18; 52:7) is gained at great cost to the servant, who endured punishment for others. Our sins could not have been simply dismissed without justice being served (see 1:27; 5:16,23). The healing of our sicknesses would seem to relate to both spiritual and physical maladies (see the note on 6:8-10; 25:8; 33:24; Mt 8:17; 1Pt 2:24). The servant's bearing of such a heavy weight cannot be underestimated. The weight of sin that sinks the world into permanent ruin (24:20) was borne with endurance and effectiveness by him (vv. 11-12).

53:7-9 The servant would be struck not only by God but also by man (vv. 4,7-8; 50:6). Although his suffering satisfied God's justice in forgiving sin (see previous note), the direct human agents involved were guilty of oppression (vv. 7-8). His sufferings thus not only included physical harm and death (vv. 5,9,12) but also patient endurance of gross injustice and reproach (see the note on 50:8-9). Unlike the "servant" Israel who suffered for its own sins (42:24; 50:1), this servant would suffer as an innocent man (v. 9).

53:10 Along with the recent appearance of the "second exodus" theme (see the note on 52:11-12) and of the comparison of the servant to a "lamb" (v. 7), his role as a guilt offering shows not only the atoning effect of his substitutionary death but even suggests that he is the ultimate Passover lamb (1Co 5:7).

53:11 Though the servant was unjustly condemned to death (vv. 7-9; 50:8-9), he would justify many through it (see the note on 45:25). God is thus exalted through both justice and mercy simultaneously (5:16; 30:18; Rm 3:26).

53:12 The faithful messianic servant will receive a reward for his obedient suffering. Whereas sinful Israel had been plundered by enemies (42:22), he would receive spoil, symbolizing his victory and the accomplishment of his task. Although unrepentant rebels will be punished (1:28, 66:24), those who repent will be saved (see 1:27).

FUTURE GLORY FOR ISRAEL

54 "Rejoice, childless one, who did not give birth; burst into song and shout, you who have not been in labor! †
For the children of the desolate one will be more than the children of the married woman," †
says the LORD.

2 "Enlarge the site of your tent, and let your tent curtains be stretched out; † do not hold back;
lengthen your ropes,
and drive your pegs deep.

3 For you will spread out to the right and to the left, † and your descendants will dispossess nations and inhabit the desolate cities.

4 "Do not be afraid, for you will not be put to shame; † don't be humiliated, for you will not be disgraced.
For you will forget the shame of your youth, and you will no longer remember the disgrace of your widowhood. †

5 Indeed, your husband is your Maker † — his name is the LORD of Armies — and the Holy One of Israel † is your Redeemer; †
he is called the God of the whole earth.

6 For the LORD has called you, like a wife deserted and wounded in spirit, † a wife of one's youth † when she is rejected," says your God.

7 "I deserted you for a brief moment, †
but I will take you back with abundant compassion.

8 In a surge of anger I hid my face † from you for a moment, but I will have compassion on you with everlasting love," † says the LORD your Redeemer.
9 "For this is like the days † of Noah to me: when I swore that the water of Noah would never flood the earth again, † so I have sworn that I will not be angry with you or rebuke you. † 10 Though the mountains move and the hills shake, my love will not be removed from you and my covenant of peace † will not be shaken," says your compassionate LORD.

11 "Poor Jerusalem, storm-tossed, and not comforted, I will set your stones in black mortar, † and lay your foundations in lapis lazuli. † 12 I will make your fortifications † out of rubies, your gates out of sparkling stones, and all your walls out of precious stones.
13 Then all your children will be taught by the LORD, † their prosperity will be great,
14 and you will be established on a foundation of righteousness.
You will be far from oppression,
you will certainly not be afraid;
you will be far from terror,
it will certainly not come near you.
15 If anyone attacks you, it is not from me;
whoever attacks you will fall before you.
16 Look, I have created the craftsman who blows on the charcoal fire and produces a weapon suitable for its task; and I have created the destroyer to cause havoc.

17 No weapon formed against you will succeed, and you will refute any accusation † raised against you in court.
This is the heritage of the LORD's servants, † and their vindication is from me." †

This is the LORD's declaration.

54:1-3 The barren and desolate woman is Zion personified (vv. 1,11; 26:17-18; 49:19). Her numerous children are the result of the servant's labor (53:10) and not her own (49:21). Their sheer number requires the expansion of her tent (v. 2; 49:20). The inhabiting of desolate cities echoes the "desolate inheritances" in 49:8, and the possession of nations recalls Genesis 22:17-18 and Psalms 2:8.

54:4-8 God had been angry with his "wife" Zion for a time (vv. 4,6-8; 50:1), but he would turn back to her with abundant compassion and everlasting love (vv. 7-8).

54:9-10 Just as he made a covenant with Noah, promising not to flood the earth again (Gn 9:9-11), so God makes a covenant of peace not to be angry with Zion again.

54:11-14 Jerusalem thus restored will be glorious and secure (see 65:17-18; Rv 21:19-21). Her children will all be taught by the LORD (v. 13).

54:17 The Lord's servants are those whose vindication he has provided. This idea has been emphasized in several recent passages (see the notes on 45:25; 51:7-8; 53:11). The messianic "servant" has produced offspring (vv. 1,13; 53:10), who themselves are servants of God.

COME TO THE LORD

LOGIC AND THE MIND OF GOD

Logic is a field of study—a subdiscipline of philosophy—that explores principles of proper thought. Logic can also denote those principles or "laws" themselves.

Classically, these three laws of logic include identity ("every thing is the same as itself"); noncontradiction ("contradictory statements cannot both be true at the same time and in the same sense"); and excluded middle ("either a statement is true, or its negation is true").

These principles underlie all coherent language. Language is composed partly of statements. Statements are meaningful, descriptive claims about the world, like "A Boeing 787 is a two-engine jet." This statement describes something about the world. (Language also includes utterances like questions that do not describe the world.) LOGIC AND STATEMENTS

Meaningful statements assume logic. “John is very tall” communicates that John actually has great height for a human. The word John must refer reliably to the person, John (law of identity). If “John is very tall” is true, then “John is not tall at all” must be false (law of noncontradiction). If both “John is tall” and “John is not tall at all” are true, meaningful communication breaks down. So the laws of logic undergird the very possibility of meaningful statements. Meaningful statements follow the laws of logic. They are logically coherent.

When a statement is logically coherent, that means it is the kind of statement that can possibly be true. An incoherent statement (one that breaks the laws of logic) contradicts itself. “Figure A is a square circle” is contradictory. It is not meaningful, and it cannot be true.

A coherent statement is possibly true; it still could actually be false. The statement, “My car weighs 4,900 pounds,” is the kind of statement that could possibly be true. It is coherent. But I checked the VW Owner’s Manual, and my car actually weighs 3,900 pounds. So “My car weighs 4,900 pounds” is logical. It is possibly true. But factually, it is false.

LOGIC AND ARGUMENTS

Not only does logic undergird the meaningfulness of individual statements, but it also guides the validity of groups of statements. This brings in the concept of an argument. “Argument” in this sense denotes several statements set in relationship to each other, such that several statements (premises) provide some sort of reason for believing another statement (the conclusion). An argument is not a heated verbal debate. It is any line of thinking intended to align statements of evidence or reason in support of some conclusion. For example, “Kevin Love is a power forward in the NBA. All forwards in the NBA are at least 6 feet 8 inches. So Kevin is more than 6 feet 6 inches tall.” The first two statements are properly arranged to provide reason to believe the last statement.

Arguments infer conclusions from premises, and inference can proceed properly or improperly. When evidence or reason is aligned properly, the argument is logically valid. When it is aligned improperly, the argument is invalid. Given this, the word logic denotes a set of principles that helps guide any inference of conclusions from premises. Logic indicates whether, how, or to what degree a set of premises actually does provide some rationale for a conclusion.

An argument is sound when it meets two criteria: (1) it is logical or valid (it infers properly), and (2) its premises are true. A sound argument produces a true and well-supported conclusion. This means that being logical is a necessary feature of a sound argument, but it is not sufficient. When an argument is both logical and starts with true premises (which makes the argument sound), its conclusion is true.

LOGIC AND THE MIND OF GOD

How does logic relate to God? This is a question with many tentacles. Some argue that logical objects, like mathematical objects, actually exist just as an apple exists. And this poses the question of how these logical objects relate to God’s being and creation. Historically, some who follow this more platonic line of thinking have argued that logical objects or numbers exist independently of God. For Christians, this cannot be, for God is the ultimate reality. Everything exists because of God. Logic cannot be more ultimate than him.

Those who follow a more postmodern path, on the other hand, say logic is a human invention. Logic, they assert, is embedded in specific cultures and languages, and logical patterns simply emerged with human communication. Humans do tend to think logically, but the logics of different cultures simply do not connect in any deep way. Every culture has its own logic, and each logic works in its setting. Each group can use its logic to achieve its goals and live its values. But no ultimate reason transcends all these groups. There simply is no ultimate truth standing above the values and beliefs embedded in particular cultures.

This postmodern sensibility often supposes that claims about transcendent logic or ultimate truth are really illicit claims for power. When a particular person argues that his thinking, language, or reason points to "truth," he is acting politically. And if that person represents a privileged class, this power move is unjust. It is immoral—some even say violent—to make ultimate truth claims.

But there is a fly in the ointment: it appears that these sentiments assume what they deny. It is worth asking someone, if he denies any transcultural logic, just what sort of claim he is making. Is he not making a claim that transcends his culture? Is he not saying something true about logic generally?

It is also worth pressing a person who discards ultimate truth on the ground that a truth claim is unjust and immoral. Is he not saying it is ultimately true that injustice is not good? Is he not implying that there is an ultimate truth about injustice when he disapproves of another's assertion, saying that ultimate claims to truth are really immoral, political power moves?

Some Christians agree, surprisingly, that logic is a human invention. They say logic cannot touch God, paraphrasing Isaiah 55:8: "God's ways are not our ways." This way of thinking acknowledges that God is supreme and therefore not limited by human rationality. If a logical principle seems to limit God, the right response is to abandon human logic in order to maintain the ultimate freedom of God.

But this line of thinking also trips over itself. It creates the challenge of how to say anything meaningful about God. If God transcends logic, and logic embeds every human statement, is anything humanly knowable about God? If not, how can we understand a statement like "God is love" (1Jn 4:8)?

Historically, certain forms of theology have tended in this direction. The via negativa ("the negative way") arose because certain theologians believed that positive statements entangle the believer in human logic. So, theology should say only what God is not. God is eternal. That is, God is not temporal, not bounded by time. No one can say how God relates to time positively, but only negatively that God is not limited by time.

Certainly, humans cannot know God perfectly. And it is helpful to say what God is not. But the via negativa goes too far. The Bible is filled with positive statements, such as "God created the heavens and the earth" (Gn 1:1). How do we understand that? Admittedly, philosophers struggle to describe a theory of how to ascribe positive statements to God. But it seems clear that biblical believers do speak positively of God, even if there remain theoretical questions about how that works.

A more satisfying view connecting logic and God is available. Logic is not higher than God, and logic does not limit God. Logic is not just a human invention and therefore irrelevant to ultimate truth. Instead, logic truly guides human thinking because logic truly reflects God's mind. On this view, human thinking depends on the structure of divine thinking. Of course, human thinking never fully captures divine thinking; "we see only a reflection" (1Co 13:12). But when humans think appropriately, properly following logical principles and correctly using inference, they mimic the structure of God's thinking. They "take every thought captive to obey Christ" (2Co 10:5).

God's mind grounds logic, just as God's character grounds morality. God is truth, just as God is good. Thus, God can neither think nor do the illogical. But that is not because human logic limits God. God can neither think nor do the illogical because logic reflects the structure of God's thinking. God cannot contradict himself. So logical principles find their source in God's mind.

SUMMARY

In sum, logic is a set of principles that guide human thought. It grounds the meaningfulness of individual statements. It evaluates the validity of arguments. The principles of logic are, as it were, embedded in God's mind. When humans think well, they think God's thoughts after him. God so created humans, in his image, that they seek what is true. Logic is one tool for this task.

DAVID CLARK

55 "Come, everyone who is thirsty, † come to the water;

and you without silver,
come, buy, and eat!
Come, buy wine and milk without silver and without cost!
2 Why do you spend silver on what is not food, and your wages on what does not satisfy?
Listen carefully to me, and eat what is good, and you will enjoy the choicest of foods. †
3 Pay attention and come to me; listen, so that you will live.
I will make a permanent covenant with you † on the basis of the faithful kindnesses of David. † † 4 Since I have made him a witness to the peoples, † a leader and commander for the peoples, † 5 so you will summon a nation you do not know, † and nations who do not know you will run to you. † For the LORD your God, even the Holy One of Israel, † has glorified you.” †

6 Seek the LORD while he may be found; call to him while he is near. † 7 Let the wicked one abandon his way and the sinful one his thoughts; † let him return to the LORD, so he may have compassion on him, and to our God, for he will freely forgive. †

8 “For my thoughts are not your thoughts, and your ways are not my ways.”
This is the LORD’s declaration.
9 “For as heaven is higher than earth, † so my ways are higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts.
10 For just as rain and snow fall from heaven and do not return there without saturating the earth and making it germinate and sprout, and providing seed to sow and food to eat, †

11 so my word that comes from my mouth will not return to me empty, but it will accomplish what I please and will prosper in what I send it to do.” †

12 You will indeed go out with joy and be peacefully guided;
the mountains and the hills will break into singing before you, and all the trees of the field will clap their hands. † 13 Instead of the thornbush, a cypress will come up, and instead of the brier, a myrtle will come up; † this will stand as a monument for the LORD, † an everlasting sign that will not be destroyed.

55:1-2 The food and drink offered here is an invitation to the redemptive work of the servant described in the previous chapters. It is contrasted with that which is bought with money and does not satisfy (see 66:11). The implication is that verse 1 speaks of spiritual food and drink for the spiritually thirsty (see 48:21; Jn 4:13-14; 6:48-58). The related instruction to eat what is good recalls 1:19 and suggests that this earlier text likewise has to do with spiritual food (see also 25:6).

55:3-4 The quenching of thirst and satisfaction with choice food is conditioned upon listening to God and coming to him. Those who do so will partake in the blessings of God’s permanent covenant with David. This covenant is identical to the “covenant of peace” in 54:10. Fittingly, the Messiah, who is the fulfillment of this covenant and brings these blessings, twice was predicted to be “a covenant for the people” (42:6; 49:8; Mc 5:5). He is a witness, leader, and commander for the peoples (42:1-4; 51:4-5; Hs 3:5).

55:5 Foreigners running to Zion parallels 2:2-4; 11:10; and 45:14.

55:6-9 This call to prayer and repentance continues the call to partake and to listen in verses 1-3. Both relate to receiving the blessings of the Davidic covenant through the Messiah. There remains opportunity for the wicked to receive forgiveness if he will abandon his way and his thoughts (v. 7; 53:11-12), which are vastly inferior to God’s (vv. 8-9).

55:10-13 The outpouring of the Spirit had been implicitly compared to rainfall in 32:15 and 44:3, resulting in dry ground becoming fruitful (see 44:4; 45:8). Themes of precipitation, plant life, and salvation are also found in this passage. The rain, of course, is also an illustration of God’s word (v. 11), which does his will and accomplishes what it was sent to do (Jn 1:1; 8:29; see “Biblical Formation” on p. 1504). The prediction that the redeemed will go out (v. 12) echoes commands to do so in 48:20; 49:9; and 52:11.

A HOUSE OF PRAYER FOR ALL

56 This is what the LORD says:

Preserve justice and do what is right, † for my salvation is coming soon, and my righteousness will be revealed. † 2 Happy is the person who does this, the son of man who holds it fast, who keeps the Sabbath without desecrating it, and keeps his hand from doing any evil. †

3 No foreigner who has joined himself to the LORD should say, "The LORD will exclude me from his people," † and the eunuch should not say,
"Look, I am a dried-up tree." † 4 For the LORD says this: "For the eunuchs who keep my Sabbaths, and choose what pleases me,
and hold firmly to my covenant,
5 I will give them, in my house and within my walls, a memorial and a name better than sons and daughters.
I will give each of them an everlasting name that will never be cut off. †
6 As for the foreigners who join themselves to the LORD to minister to him, to love the name of the LORD, and to become his servants — all who keep the Sabbath without desecrating it and who hold firmly to my covenant —
7 I will bring them to my holy mountain † and let them rejoice in my house of prayer.
Their burnt offerings and sacrifices will be acceptable on my altar, † for my house will be called a house of prayer for all nations." † 8 This is the declaration of the Lord GOD, who gathers the dispersed of Israel:
"I will gather to them still others besides those already gathered." †

UNRIGHTEOUS LEADERS CONDEMNED

9 All you animals of the field and forest, come and eat!

10 Israel's † watchmen are blind, all of them, they know nothing;
all of them are mute dogs,
they cannot bark;
they dream, lie down,
and love to sleep.
11 These dogs have fierce appetites; they never have enough.
And they are shepherds who have no discernment;
all of them turn to their own way, every last one for his own profit. † 12 "Come, let me get some wine, let's guzzle some beer;
and tomorrow will be like today,
only far better! " †

56:10 Or His, or Its
56:1 Gn 18:19; Ps 106:3; Pr 21:3 56:1 Ps 98:2; Is 46:13; 51:5; Rm 1:17; 3:21 56:2 Is 58:13 56:3 Is 14:1; 56:6 56:3 Dt 23:1 56:5 Is 55:13; Rv 2:17 56:7 Is 2:2-3 56:7 Mal 1:11 56:7 Jr 7:11; Mt 21:13; Mk 11:17; Lk 19:46 56:8 Is 11:12; 60:3-11; 66:18-21; Jn 10:16 56:11 Jr 10:21; 23:1; 50:6; Ezk 34:2 56:12 Lk 12:19; 1Co 15:32

56:1-2 The imminence of God's salvation and righteousness echoes 51:5 (see also 52:10). All who do justice will be blessed, not only those of Israelite descent (see vv. 3-7). Rather than rehearsing the command to "not do any work" (Ex 20:10; 31:14-15), the Sabbath instead is mentioned alongside of doing good and not doing any evil (1:16-17; Mt 12:12; Mk 3:4). This is because it is a sign of the covenant, and thus marks those who have truly committed themselves to God. The Pentateuch referred to the Sabbath as a sign forever to be kept as a "permanent covenant" (Ex 31:16-17). Though the Sabbath is indeed related to the covenant at Sinai (vv. 4, 6; Jr 31:32), appearances of this word in the surrounding context all refer to the new covenant (42:6; 49:8; 54:10; 55:3; 59:21; 61:8). Accordingly, those who receive God's favor are "a people in whose heart is [his] instruction" (see the note on 51:7-8).

56:3-7 The inclusion of faithful Gentiles among God's people is explicit (see v. 2) through the examples of the foreigner and eunuch (v. 3). They are among his servants (v. 6), a group first mentioned in 54:17. These will have a place in [God's] house and walls, along with an everlasting name that will never be cut off (v. 5). A "name" and "everlasting sign" had just been mentioned similarly in 55:13. These adjacent texts are further linked through the theme of the joy of God's people (v. 7; 55:12). The Sabbath is highlighted again (vv. 4,6).

56:9-12 The call to animals to come and eat (v. 9) contrasts with the call in 55:1-2. Unlike those who partake of the aforementioned meal, Israel's leaders are not satisfied (v. 11). Their blindness, foolishness, self-will, and love of alcohol recall earlier passages (6:9-10; 28:7; 29:9; 53:6).

57 The righteous person perishes, and no one takes it to heart;
the faithful are taken away, with no one realizing that the righteous person is taken away because of † evil.

2 He will enter into peace — they will rest on their beds † — everyone who lives uprightly.

PAGAN RELIGION DENOUNCED

3 But come here, you witch's sons, offspring of an adulterer and a prostitute! †
4 Who are you mocking?
Who are you opening your mouth and sticking out your tongue at?
Isn't it you, you rebellious children, †
you offspring of liars, 5 who burn with lust among the oaks, under every green tree, † who slaughter children in the wadis below the clefts of the rocks? †
6 Your portion is among the smooth stones of the wadi; indeed, they are your lot.
You have even poured out a drink offering to them; you have offered a grain offering; should I be satisfied with these?
7 You have placed your bed on a high and lofty mountain; † you also went up there to offer sacrifice.
8 You have set up your memorial behind the door and doorpost.
For away from me, you stripped, went up, and made your bed wide, † and you have made a bargain † for yourself with them.
You have loved their bed;
you have gazed on their genitals. † † 9 You went to the king with oil and multiplied your perfumes; you sent your envoys far away † and sent them down even to Sheol.

10 You became weary on your many journeys, but you did not say,
"It's hopeless! " †

You found a renewal of your strength; † therefore you did not grow weak.

11 Who was it you dreaded and feared, so that you lied and didn't remember me or take it to heart?

I have kept silent for a long time, haven't I? † †
So you do not fear me.

12 I will announce your righteousness, and your works — they will not profit you.

13 When you cry out, let your collection of idols rescue you!
The wind will carry all of them off,
a breath will take them away.
But whoever takes refuge in me will inherit the land † and possess my holy mountain. †

HEALING AND PEACE

14 He said, "Build it up, build it up, prepare the way, remove every obstacle from my people's way." †

15 For the High and Exalted One, who lives forever, whose name is holy, † says this: "I live in a high and holy place, and with the oppressed and lowly of spirit, † to revive the spirit of the lowly and revive the heart of the oppressed. †

16 For I will not accuse you forever, and I will not always be angry; † for then the spirit would grow weak before me, even the breath, which I have made.

17 Because of his sinful greed I was angry, † so I struck him; I was angry and hid;
but he went on turning back to the desires of his heart.

18 I have seen his ways, but I will heal him; I will lead him and restore comfort to him and his mourners, † 19 creating words of praise." † †

The LORD says, "Peace, peace to the one who is far or near, † and I will heal him.
20 But the wicked are like the storm-tossed sea, † for it cannot be still,
and its water churns up mire and muck.
21 There is no peace for the wicked," says my God. †

57:3-4 Jerusalem had been called an "adulteress" in 1:21 and her children rebellious in 1:2.

57:5-7 The sin in view here is idolatry, often committed among the oaks and under every green tree (1:29). Another common location for Israel's idolatry was a high and lofty mountain (65:7; Dt 12:2; 1Kg 14:23). Their wicked practices even included the slaughtering of children (v. 5).

57:8 In contrast with the righteous who peacefully rest on their "beds" (v. 2), promiscuous Zion united herself with idols in her bed.

57:12 Israel's own righteousness would not profit them. In contrast, God's servants have righteousness from him (54:17).

57:13 The theme of refuge in God reappears (see 4:6; 25:4; 28:15-17). As in Psalm 37 (see the note on v. 22), the Abrahamic promise to inherit the land seems to be fulfilled eschatologically (see 60:21; 61:7; 65:9). The Lord's holy mountain had been mentioned in 11:9; 27:13; and 56:7.

57:14-18 The word way is repeated several times and ties this passage together. The preparation of this way for God's people relates to their travel to Zion (11:16; 35:8-10; 62:10). This way is not one's own (vv. 17-18; 53:6; 56:11) but God's (vv. 8-9; 40:3; 55:8-9). He dwells exalted in holiness and yet also with the lowly (v. 15).

57:19-21 Peace for those far or near describes salvation for the humble across the world (vv. 15,19). They will be "healed" of their waywardness (vv. 18-19; 53:6). The unrepentant wicked, however, have no share in such peace (vv. 20-21; 48:22).

TRUE FASTING

58 “Cry out loudly, † don’t hold back!
Raise your voice like a trumpet.
Tell my people their transgression and the house of Jacob their sins.
2 They seek me day after day and delight to know my ways, like a nation that does what is right and does not abandon the justice of their God.
They ask me for righteous judgments;
they delight in the nearness of God.” †
3 “Why have we fasted, but you have not seen? †
We have denied ourselves, but you haven’t noticed! ” † “Look, you do as you please on the day of your fast, and oppress all your workers. †
4 You fast with contention and strife to strike viciously with your fist.
You cannot fast as you do today, hoping to make your voice heard on high.
5 Will the fast I choose be like this: A day for a person to deny himself, to bow his head like a reed, and to spread out sackcloth and ashes? †
Will you call this a fast and a day acceptable to the LORD?
6 Isn’t this the fast I choose: To break the chains of wickedness, † to untie the ropes of the yoke, to set the oppressed free,
and to tear off every yoke? †
7 Is it not to share your bread with the hungry, † to bring the poor and homeless into your house, to clothe the naked when you see him, † and not to ignore your own flesh and blood? † †
8 Then your light will appear like the dawn, and your recovery will come quickly. † Your righteousness will go before you, † and the LORD's glory will be your rear guard. †

9 At that time, when you call, the LORD will answer; † when you cry out, he will say, 'Here I am.'
If you get rid of the yoke among you, the finger-pointing and malicious speaking, † 10 and if you offer yourself † to the hungry, and satisfy the afflicted one, then your light will shine in the darkness, † and your night will be like noonday.
11 The LORD will always lead you, satisfy you in a parched land, and strengthen your bones.
You will be like a watered garden † and like a spring whose water never runs dry. † 12 Some of you will rebuild the ancient ruins; † you will restore the foundations laid long ago; †
you will be called the repairer of broken walls, the restorer of streets where people live.

13 "If you keep from desecrating † the Sabbath, † from doing whatever you want on my holy day; if you call the Sabbath a delight, and the holy day of the LORD honorable; if you honor it, not going your own ways, † seeking your own pleasure, or talking business; † † 14 then you will delight in the LORD, † and I will make you ride over the heights of the land, † and let you enjoy the heritage of your father Jacob."

58:1-4 Despite their fasting and interest in some spiritual things (vv. 1-2), God did not regard his people's fasting because they were simultaneously seeking their own pleasure and harming their fellow man (vv. 3-4; 1:11-17). In contrast, outsiders who seek God's pleasure will have a place in his house (vv. 4-5).

58:5-7 As is the case with sacrifices and the Sabbath (1:11-17; 56:1-7), fasting by itself does not guarantee God's blessing but must be combined with justice and mercy (vv. 6-7).

58:8-10 A description of abundant blessings that could have been experienced by Israel is also found in 48:18-19. The Lord would have heard their prayers instead of hiding from them (v. 9; 1:15; 8:17; 54:8; 57:17). Because of God's mercy, these blessings had not been permanently forfeited (52:12; 56:7; 60:1-3).

58:13 The mention of the Sabbath again explicitly connects this chapter to 56:1-7, as suggested by their similar themes (see the note on vv. 5-7). To be avoided are one's own ways and pleasure (v. 3; 56:4; 57:17-18).

58:14 The Hebrew verb translated delight in is also found in 55:2 and 66:12. All three passages also have to do with eating and partaking of God's rich blessings.

SIN AND REDEMPTION

59 Indeed, the LORD's arm is not too weak to save, † and his ear is not too deaf to hear.
2 But your iniquities † are separating you from your God, and your sins have hidden his face from you †
so that he does not listen. † 3 For your hands are defiled with blood and your fingers, with iniquity;
your lips have spoken lies,
and your tongues mutter injustice.
4 No one makes claims justly; no one pleads honestly.
They trust in empty and worthless words;
they conceive trouble and give birth to iniquity. †
5 They hatch viper's eggs and weave spider's webs.
Whoever eats their eggs will die;
crack one open, and a viper is hatched.
6 Their webs cannot become clothing, and they cannot cover themselves with their works.
Their works are sinful works, and violent acts are in their hands.
7 Their feet run after evil, † and they rush to shed innocent blood. †

Their thoughts are sinful thoughts; † ruin and wretchedness are in their paths.
8 They have not known the path of peace, † and there is no justice in their ways.
They have made their roads crooked;
no one who walks on them will know peace. †

9 Therefore justice is far from us, and righteousness does not reach us.
We hope for light, but there is darkness; for brightness, but we live in the night.
10 We grope along a wall like the blind; we grope like those without eyes. †
We stumble at noon as though it were twilight; we are like the dead among those who are healthy.
11 We all growl like bears and moan like doves. †
We hope for justice, but there is none;
for salvation, but it is far from us.
12 For our transgressions have multiplied before you, † and our sins testify against us. †
For our transgressions are with us, and we know our iniquities: † 13 transgression and deception against the LORD, turning away from following our God, speaking oppression and revolt, conceiving and uttering lying words from the heart.
14 Justice is turned back, and righteousness stands far off.
For truth has stumbled in the public square, and honesty cannot enter.
15 Truth is missing, and whoever turns from evil is plundered.

The LORD saw that there was no justice, and he was offended.
16 He saw that there was no man — he was amazed that there was no one interceding; † so his own arm brought salvation, and his own righteousness supported him.

17 He put on righteousness as body armor, and a helmet of salvation on his head; † he put on garments of vengeance for clothing, and he wrapped himself in zeal as in a cloak. † 18 So he will repay according to their deeds: † fury to his enemies, retribution to his foes,
and he will repay the coasts and islands.
19 They will fear the name of the LORD in the west and his glory in the east; † † for he will come like a rushing stream † driven by the wind of the LORD.
20 "The Redeemer † will come to Zion, and to those in Jacob who turn from transgression." †
This is the LORD's declaration.

21 "As for me, this is my covenant with them," † says the LORD: "My Spirit who is on you, and my words that I have put in your mouth, † will not depart from your mouth, or from the mouths of your children, or from the mouths of your children's children, from now on and forever," says the LORD.

59:1-3 God was not weak or deaf but had turned from Israel and their prayers because of their sins. This passage is similar to 1:15-17, which also describes God's disregard of their prayer because of their blood-stained hands and injustice.

59:7-8 As above (55:6-9; 57:18; 58:13), the wicked are characterized by their thoughts and paths, which are not those of peace (see the note on 57:19-21).

59:9-15a The result of Israel's sin (vv. 2-8,12-13) was the absence of justice, righteousness, salvation, and truth (vv. 9,11,14-15). Instead of enjoying the light that would have followed obedience (see 58:8-10; 60:1-3), they found themselves engulfed by darkness and blindness (vv. 9-10). Their disappointment (vv. 9,11) aptly corresponds with God's disappointment with their lack of justice and righteousness (5:2,7). Whereas God confronted his people with their sin in vv. 2-8, here they are confessing it (vv. 12-13; 53:6; 64:6).

59:15b-20 The preceding confession of sin and helplessness spoke for "all" (v. 11), so God took action by bringing salvation and righteousness himself (vv. 16-17; Eph 6:13-17). This includes not only forgiveness for those who humbly repent (v. 20; 1:27) but also vengeance upon his enemies (vv. 17-18) so that the whole world fears God (v. 19). Verse 20 is cited in Romans 11:26.

59:21 The salvation accomplished in the preceding verses relates to a covenant, the new covenant. Unlike the old covenant (Nm 11:29), the Spirit will be on all of God's people (see 32:15; 44:3). Also characteristic of them is God's words in their mouth forever (see 51:16; Dt 30:14; Jr 1:9).

THE LORD'S GLORY IN ZION

60 Arise, shine, for your light has come, † and the glory of the LORD shines over you. † † 2 For look, darkness will cover the earth, and total darkness the peoples;
but the LORD will shine over you, and his glory will appear over you.
3 Nations will come to your light, and kings to your shining brightness. † 4 Raise your eyes and look around: they all gather and come to you;
your sons will come from far away, and your daughters on the hips of nannies. † 5 Then you will see and be radiant, † and your heart will tremble and rejoice, † because the riches of the sea will become yours and the wealth of the nations will come to you. † 6 Caravans of camels will cover your land † — young camels of Midian and Ephah — all of them will come from Sheba. †
They will carry gold and frankincense † and proclaim the praises of the LORD.
7 All the flocks of Kedar will be gathered to you; the rams of Nebaioth will serve you † and go up on my altar as an acceptable sacrifice. †
I will glorify my beautiful house. †

8 Who are these who fly like a cloud, like doves to their shelters? †
9 Yes, the coasts and islands will wait for me † with the ships of Tarshish in the lead, † to bring your children from far away, † their silver and gold with them, for the honor of the LORD your God, the Holy One of Israel, † who has glorified you. † 10 Foreigners will rebuild your walls, † and their kings will serve you. † Although I struck you in my wrath, yet I will show mercy to you with my favor. † 11 Your city gates will always be open; they will never be shut day or night so that the wealth of the nations may be brought into you, † with their kings being led in procession.

12 For the nation and the kingdom that will not serve you will perish; those nations will be annihilated. † 13 The glory of Lebanon will come to you † — its pine, elm, and cypress together † — to beautify the place of my sanctuary, and I will glorify my dwelling place. † 14 The sons of your oppressors will come and bow down to you; † all who reviled you will fall facedown at your feet. †
They will call you the City of the LORD, Zion of the Holy One of Israel. †
15 Instead of your being deserted and hated, with no one passing through, † I will make you an object of eternal pride, †
a joy from age to age.
16 You will nurse on the milk of nations, and nurse at the breast of kings; † you will know that I, the LORD, am your Savior † and Redeemer, † the Mighty One of Jacob. †

17 I will bring gold instead of bronze; I will bring silver instead of iron, bronze instead of wood,
and iron instead of stones.

I will appoint peace as your government and righteousness as your overseers.
18 Violence will never again be heard of in your land; † devastation and destruction will be gone from your borders.
You will call your walls Salvation † and your city gates Praise.
19 The sun will no longer be your light by day, and the brightness of the moon will not shine on you.
The LORD will be your everlasting light, † and your God will be your splendor.
20 Your sun will no longer set, and your moon will not fade; for the LORD will be your everlasting light, and the days of your sorrow will be over. † 21 All your people will be righteous; † they will possess the land forever; † they are the branch I planted, the work of my † hands, so that I may be glorified. † 22 The least will become a thousand, the smallest a mighty nation.
I am the LORD; I will accomplish it quickly in its time.

60:1-3 The redemption of Zion (59:20) leads naturally to the call that she shine, for [her] light has come (v. 1). Like the rest of the earth (v. 2), she too had been in darkness (59:9-10). Her original potential, however, is realized (58:8-10) through the Messiah (9:2,6-7). The coming of the nations and kings continues threads found in 2:2-4; 49:7; and 52:15.

60:6 The bringing of gold and frankincense on camels from Sheba echoes and presumably surpasses that brought to Solomon (1Kg 10:1-2,10).

60:7 Kedar and Nebaioth were two sons of Ishmael, suggesting the subjection of Ishmael to Zion (see 21:16-17; Gn 17:18-21). Kedar's salvation also was foretold in 42:11.

60:9 The nations will not only bring treasures to Zion (vv. 5-7,11; Hg 2:7) but also her children (vv. 4,9; 49:18-21). The ships of Tarshish were mighty, profitable vessels for trade but would be brought into the service of Zion (see 2:16; 23:1; 33:21). The islands likewise wait for God in 42:4 and 51:5.

60:12 The triumph of Israel over their enemies had also been predicted in 54:15-17.

60:13 Like the "ships of Tarshish" (v. 9; 2:16), Lebanon had once competed for glory with God, only to be humiliated (2:13; 10:34; 33:9). Ultimately, both will serve to bring glory to him (see 29:17; 35:2).

60:14-15 The recognition of Zion as the City of the LORD (1:26) is a far cry from her earlier status as a "prostitute" (lit 1:21). Her shame and desolation would likewise be replaced by glory and joy (44:23; 65:18).

60:17-18 Peace, salvation, and praise will characterize redeemed Zion, and her gates "will always be open" (v. 11).

60:19-20 As explained in verses 1-2, Zion's light derives from God and his glory. She thus no longer needs the light of the sun or moon, which have been surpassed by this everlasting light (Gn 1:16), this "great light" (9:2; Nm 24:17) and "light to the nations" (42:6; 49:6).

60:21 Although "all" have gone astray (53:6; 64:6), the forgiven and healed people of Zion (see 53:10-12; 57:18-19) all will be righteous (see 26:2; 54:13). Their possession of the land is also the subject of 54:3; 57:13; and 65:9.

MESSIAH'S JUBILEE

61 The Spirit of the Lord GOD is on me, † because the LORD has anointed me to bring good news to the poor. †
He has sent me to heal † the brokenhearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives and freedom to the prisoners; † 2 to proclaim the year of the LORD's favor, † and the day of our God's vengeance; † to comfort † all who mourn, 3 to provide for those who mourn in Zion; to give them a crown of beauty instead of ashes, festive oil instead of mourning, † and splendid clothes instead of despair. †
And they will be called righteous trees, planted by the LORD to glorify him. †

4 They will rebuild the ancient ruins; † they will restore the former devastations; they will renew the ruined cities, the devastations of many generations.

5 Strangers will stand and feed your flocks, and foreigners will be your plowmen and vinedressers. †
6 But you will be called the LORD's priests; † they will speak of you as ministers of our God; you will eat the wealth of the nations,
and you will boast in their riches.
7 In place of your shame, you will have a double portion; † in place of disgrace, they will rejoice over their share.
So they will possess double in their land, † and eternal joy will be theirs.

8 For I the LORD love justice; †
I hate robbery and injustice; †
I will faithfully reward my people and make a permanent covenant † with them.
9 Their descendants will be known among the nations, and their posterity among the peoples.
All who see them will recognize that they are a people the LORD has blessed.

10 I rejoice greatly in the LORD, I exult in my God; for he has clothed me with the garments of salvation and wrapped me in a robe of righteousness, †
as a groom wears a turban and as a bride adorns herself with her jewels. † 11 For as the earth produces its growth, and as a garden enables what is sown to spring up, so the Lord GOD will cause righteousness and praise to spring up before all the nations. †

61:1-3 The extended description of redeemed Zion in Isaiah 60 is fittingly preceded and followed by a prophecy of the Messiah (see 59:15-21), through whom her salvation is accomplished (v. 3). His empowerment by the Spirit of the LORD GOD (v. 1) recalls messianic prophecies in 11:2 and 42:1. His task of bringing freedom recalls still other messianic prophecies (42:7; 49:8). The good news centers on him (see 40:9; 41:27; 52:7). Whereas this means vengeance upon his enemies (v. 2; 34:8; 35:4; 59:17-18; 63:4), it means comfort for all who mourn as they long for Zion's salvation (60:20; 66:10). Their planting by God as righteous trees (v. 3) continues the thought of 60:21. It also sharply contrasts with Israel's previous idolatry among trees (1:29; 57:5).

61:6 Whereas Israel had been a kingdom with priests, God's people would truly become a kingdom of priests (Ex 19:6; 1Pt 2:9).

61:7-8 Just as they would be an "eternal pride" (60:15), enjoy the "everlasting light," and "possess the land forever" (60:19-21), so will God's people have eternal joy and be secure in a permanent covenant.

ZION'S RESTORATION

62 I will not keep silent because of Zion, and I will not keep still because of Jerusalem, † until her righteousness shines like a bright light † and her salvation, like a flaming torch.
2 Nations will see your righteousness † and all kings, your glory.
You will be given a new name that the LORD's mouth will announce. † 3 You will be a glorious crown in the LORD's hand, and a royal diadem in the palm of your God's hand. † 4 You will no longer be called Deserted, † and your land will not be called Desolate; instead, you will be called My Delight Is in Her, † and your land Married; † † for the LORD delights in you, and your land will be married.
5 For as a young man marries a young woman, so your sons will marry you;
and as a groom rejoices over his bride, so your God will rejoice over you. †

6 Jerusalem, I have appointed watchmen on your walls; † they will never be silent, day or night.
There is no rest for you,
who remind the LORD.

7 Do not give him rest until he establishes and makes Jerusalem the praise of the earth. †

8 The LORD has sworn with his right hand and his strong arm:
I will no longer give your grain to your enemies for food, † and foreigners will not drink the new wine for which you have labored.
9 For those who gather grain will eat it and praise the LORD, and those who harvest the grapes will drink the wine in my holy courts.

10 Go out, go out through the city gates; prepare a way for the people!
Build it up, build up the highway; † clear away the stones!
Raise a banner for the peoples. † 11 Look, the LORD has proclaimed to the ends of the earth, "Say to Daughter Zion: † Look, your salvation is coming, his wages are with him, † and his reward accompanies him." 12 And they will be called † the Holy People, †
the LORD's Redeemed; and you will be called Cared For,

62:1-7 The perspective shifts to one of persistent, fervent prayer for the salvation of Zion (vv. 1,6-7). The many divine promises regarding Zion (e.g., 60:1-3) do not exclude prayer but rather encourage it, especially since the speaker longs for her glory (v. 2). This glory includes her marriage to God (vv. 4-5; see "A Biblical View of Marriage," p. 1449).

62:8-9 In the past, the temple's holy courts had been defiled (1:12), but they would become holy and a place of joyful worship (see 56:7).

62:10-12 The instructions to prepare a way and build up the highway echo 57:14. The gates are probably those of Zion (26:2; 54:12; 60:11,18), and the banner for the peoples recalls 11:10,12 and 49:22.

The coming of salvation to Zion (v. 11) is similarly described in 40:10. The status of the redeemed as the Holy People (v. 12) accords with 35:8-10 and 60:21, and Zion's favored status is repeated again (see v. 4).

THE LORD'S DAY OF VENGEANCE

63 Who is this coming from Edom † in crimson-stained garments from Bozrah — this one who is splendid in his apparel, striding in his formidable † might?

It is I, proclaiming vindication, † powerful to save.

2 Why are your clothes red, and your garments like one who treads a winepress? †

3 I trampled the winepress alone, and no one from the nations was with me.
I trampled them in my anger and ground them underfoot in my fury;
their blood spattered my garments,
and all my clothes were stained.
4 For I planned the day of vengeance, † and the year of my redemption † came.
5 I looked, but there was no one to help, † and I was amazed that no one assisted;
so my arm accomplished victory for me,
and my wrath assisted me.
6 I crushed nations in my anger; I made them drunk with my wrath † and poured out their blood on the ground. †

REMEMBRANCE OF GRACE

7 I will make known the LORD's faithful love and the LORD's praiseworthy acts, because of all the LORD has done for us — even the many good things he has done for the house of Israel, which he did for them based on his compassion and the abundance of his faithful love.

8 He said, “They are indeed my people, children who will not be disloyal,” and he became their Savior.

9 In all their suffering, he suffered, † † and the angel of his presence saved them.
He redeemed them because of his love and compassion; † he lifted them up and carried them

all the days of the past. †

10 But they rebelled and grieved his Holy Spirit. †
So he became their enemy and fought against them.

11 Then he † remembered the days of the past, the days of Moses and his people.

Where is he who brought them out of the sea with the shepherds † of his flock?
Where is he who put his Holy Spirit among the flock?

12 He made his glorious strength available at the right hand of Moses, divided the water before them † to make an eternal name for himself,

13 and led them through the depths like a horse in the wilderness, so that they did not stumble.

14 Like cattle that go down into the valley, the Spirit of the LORD gave them † rest.
You led your people this way to make a glorious name for yourself.

ISRAEL’S PRAYER

15 Look down from heaven and see † from your lofty home — holy and beautiful.
Where is your zeal and your might?

Your yearning † and your compassion are withheld from me.

16 Yet you are our Father, even though Abraham does not know us and Israel doesn't recognize us.

You, LORD, are our Father; your name is Our Redeemer †
from Ancient Times.
17 Why, LORD, do you make us stray from your ways?
You harden our hearts so we do not fear † you. † Return, because of your servants, the tribes of your heritage.
18 Your holy people had a possession † for a little while, but our enemies have trampled down your sanctuary. †
19 We have become like those you never ruled, like those who did not bear your name. †

63:1 The coming of salvation in 62:11 is picked up here with God coming from Edom, powerful to save. The Hebrew word for Edom sounds like the one for "mankind" and represents the human race (vv. 3-6; see the note on 34:5). It also sounds like the Hebrew word for "red" in verse 2.

63:3-6 God's clothes are red with the blood of the nations (v. 6), whom he has trampled in judgment (v. 3). As in 59:16, he did this alone (vv. 3,5).

63:7 The fierce judgment of the nations is contrasted with the salvation of God's people.

63:10-14 What is highlighted about Israel's past sin is that they grieved his Holy Spirit (v. 10), who had been among them as evidence of his grace (v. 11) to guide them (v. 14).

63:15 As in 62:1, the perspective shifts to one of fervent prayer for God's salvation in fulfillment of his promise. His zeal and might are closely tied to this (v. 5; 9:7; 37:32; 52:10).

63:16 Even if the nation were disowned by their forefathers because of their sins, God remains their Father and Redeemer (see 59:20; 60:16; 64:8).

63:17 The prayer that God turn and transform the hearts of his people relates to similar prayers in the OT (e.g., Ps 80:14; Lm 5:21).

64 If only you would tear the heavens open and come down, † so that mountains would quake at your presence † — 2 just as fire kindles brushwood, and fire boils water — to make your name known to your enemies, so that nations will tremble at your presence!
3 When you did awesome works † that we did not expect, you came down, †
and the mountains quaked at your presence.
4 From ancient times no one has heard, no one has listened to, no eye has seen any God except you who acts on behalf of the one who waits for him. †
5 You welcome the one who joyfully does what is right; they remember you in your ways.
But we have sinned, and you were angry.
How can we be saved if we remain in our sins? †
6 All of us have become like something unclean, and all our righteous acts are like a polluted † garment; † all of us wither like a leaf, † and our iniquities † carry us away like the wind.
7 No one calls on your name, striving to take hold of you.
For you have hidden your face from us †
and made us melt because of † † our iniquity.

8 Yet LORD, you are our Father; † we are the clay, and you are our potter;
we all are the work of your hands. †
9 LORD, do not be terribly angry or remember our iniquity forever. †
Please look — all of us are your people!
10 Your holy cities have become a wilderness; Zion has become a wilderness, Jerusalem a desolation. †
11 Our holy and beautiful † temple, where our fathers praised you, has been burned down,

and all that was dear to us lies in ruins. †
12 LORD, after all this, will you restrain yourself?
Will you keep silent and afflict us severely? †

64:1-3 The answer to the preceding prayer would be the powerful descent of God from the heavens, such that the mountains and nations would quake.

64:4 God will surely come through for the one who waits for him (see 25:9).

64:5-12 As in 59:9-15a (see note), Israel confessed their sins, which had affected all of them (vv. 5-7). They had no righteousness of their own (v. 6; 45:25) and prayed for God not to remember [their] iniquity forever (v. 9) and to look with favor on their land (vv. 10-12).

THE LORD'S RESPONSE

65 "I was sought by those who did not ask; I was found by those who did not seek me.
I said, 'Here I am, here I am,' to a nation that did not call on † my name. † 2 I spread out my hands all day long to a rebellious people † who walk in the path that is not good, following their own thoughts.
3 These people continually anger me to my face, sacrificing in gardens, †
burning incense on bricks, 4 sitting among the graves, spending nights in secret places, eating the meat of pigs, † and putting polluted broth in their bowls. †
5 They say, 'Keep to yourself, don't come near me, for I am too holy for you! '
These practices are smoke in my nostrils, a fire that burns all day long.
6 Look, it is written in front of me: I will not keep silent, † but I will repay; †

I will repay them fully † 7 for your iniquities and the iniquities † of your † fathers together,"
says the LORD.
"Because they burned incense on the mountains and reproached me on the hills, †
I will reward them fully † for their former deeds."

8 The LORD says this:

"As the new wine is found in a bunch of grapes, and one says, 'Don't destroy it, for there's some good † in it,' so I will act because of my servants and not destroy them all.
9 I will produce descendants from Jacob, † and heirs to my mountains from Judah;
my chosen † ones will possess it, and my servants will dwell there. † 10 Sharon will be a pasture for flocks, † and the Valley of Achor a place for herds to lie down, † for my people who have sought me. † 11 But you who abandon the LORD, who forget my holy mountain, who prepare a table for Fortune and fill bowls of mixed wine for Destiny, † 12 I will destine you for the sword, and all of you will kneel down to be slaughtered, because I called and you did not answer,
I spoke and you did not hear;
you did what was evil in my sight and chose what I did not delight in." †

13 Therefore, this is what the Lord GOD says:

"My servants will eat,
but you will be hungry;

my servants will drink,
but you will be thirsty;
my servants will rejoice,
but you will be put to shame.
14 My servants will shout for joy from a glad heart, but you will cry out from an anguished heart, and you will lament out of a broken spirit.
15 You will leave your name behind as a curse for my chosen ones, † and the Lord GOD will kill you; but he will give his servants another name. † 16 Whoever asks for a blessing in the land will ask for a blessing by the God of truth, † and whoever swears in the land will swear by the God of truth.
For the former troubles will be forgotten and hidden from my sight.

A NEW CREATION

17 "For I will create a new heaven and a new earth; †
the past events will not be remembered or come to mind.
18 Then be glad and rejoice forever in what I am creating; for I will create Jerusalem to be a joy and its people to be a delight.
19 I will rejoice in Jerusalem and be glad in my people.
The sound of weeping and crying will no longer be heard in her. † 20 In her, a nursing infant will no longer live only a few days, † or an old man not live out his days.
Indeed, the one who dies at a hundred years old will be mourned as a young man, † and the one who misses a hundred years will be considered cursed. † 21 People will build houses and live in them; they will plant vineyards and eat their fruit. †
22 They will not build and others live in them; they will not plant and others eat.
For my people's lives will be like the lifetime of a tree. † My chosen ones will fully enjoy the work of their hands.

23 They will not labor without success † or bear children destined for disaster, for they will be a people blessed by the LORD along with their descendants. † 24 Even before they call, I will answer; † while they are still speaking, I will hear.
25 The wolf and the lamb will feed together, † and the lion will eat straw like cattle, †
but the serpent's food will be dust! †
They will not do what is evil or destroy on my entire holy mountain," †
says the LORD.

65:1-5 God's response is that he has been found by the Gentiles (v. 1), rather than the Israelites, who, despite being given ample opportunity, continued in rebellion, idolatry, uncleanness, and pride (vv. 2-5; Rm 10:20-21). God also says here I am (v. 1) in 52:6 and 58:9.

65:8-12 The judgment described in verses 6-7 would not result in Israel's utter destruction (v. 8). He would hold back because of his faithful servants (vv. 8-9; 54:17; 56:6; 63:17), who will dwell in the land as those who have sought me (v. 10; see v. 1). Whereas the Valley of Achor had been a place of judgment and shame (Jos 7:24-26), it would become pasturage for cattle (v. 10; Hs 2:15). In contrast, those who forsake God and forget [his] holy mountain will be slaughtered (vv. 11-12). Their lack of response recalls verse 2.

65:13-16 The focus continues on the contrast between the rebels and God's servants. Just as the former forsook God and the latter sought him (vv. 10-11), the former would be cursed and the latter blessed.

65:17-18 The end of "the former troubles" (v. 16) relates to a new heaven and a new earth (66:22). Just as "God created the heavens and the earth" (Gn 1:1), so he will create a new universe, centered on a new Jerusalem (Rv 21:2). The fullness of joy and absence of sorrow within her (vv. 18-20) connect to previous passages of hope (e.g., 25:8; 35:10) that are thus fulfilled in the new heavens and the new earth.

65:22 Characteristic of Jerusalem in the new heavens and new earth is the long life of its inhabitants (vv. 20,22). Rather than withering like leaves (64:6), their longevity will like that of a tree.

65:23 Unlike before (49:4; 62:8), Israel will not toil in vain.

65:24 Whereas their prayers had not been heard because of their sins (1:15), in the future God will be eager to hear and to answer (see 56:7; 58:9).

65:25 Peace among animals on God's holy mountain had also been prophesied in 11:6-9, where it was linked to the messianic kingdom (11:1-5). The humiliation of the "serpent" relates to the defeat of Satan (see the note on 27:1).

FINAL JUDGMENT AND JOYOUS RESTORATION

66 This is what the LORD says:

Heaven † is my throne, †
and earth is my footstool. †
Where could you possibly build a house for me?
And where would my resting place be? †
2 My hand made all these things, and so they all came into being.
This is the LORD's declaration.
I will look favorably on this kind of person: one who is humble, † submissive † in spirit, † and trembles at my word.
3 One person slaughters an ox, another kills a person; one person sacrifices a lamb, another breaks a dog's neck; one person offers a grain offering, another offers pig's blood; one person offers incense, another praises an idol — all these have chosen their ways and delight in their abhorrent practices. † 4 So I will choose their punishment, and I will bring on them what they dread because I called and no one answered;
I spoke and they did not listen;
they did what was evil in my sight
and chose what I did not delight in. †

5 You who tremble at his word, †
hear the word of the LORD: †

“Your brothers who hate and exclude you for my name’s sake have said, †
‘Let the LORD be glorified so that we can see your joy! ’
But they will be put to shame.” †

6 A sound of uproar from the city!
A voice from the temple —
the voice of the LORD, paying back his enemies what they deserve! †

7 Before Zion was in labor, she gave birth; before she was in pain, she delivered a boy.
8 Who has heard of such a thing?
Who has seen such things?
Can a land be born in one day or a nation be delivered in an instant?
Yet as soon as Zion was in labor,
she gave birth to her sons.
9 “Will I bring a baby to the point of birth and not deliver it? ” says the LORD; “or will I who deliver, close the womb? ”
says your God.
10 Be glad for Jerusalem and rejoice over her, all who love her. † Rejoice greatly with her,
all who mourn over her — 11 so that you may nurse and be satisfied from her comforting breast and drink deeply and delight yourselves from her glorious breasts.

12 For this is what the LORD says:

I will make peace flow to her like a river, † and the wealth † of nations like a flood; † you will nurse and be carried on her hip † and bounced on her lap.
13 As a mother comforts her son, so I will comfort you, † and you will be comforted in Jerusalem.

14 You will see, you will rejoice, and you † will flourish like grass; † then the LORD's power will be revealed to his servants, but he will show his wrath against his enemies.
15 Look, the LORD will come with fire † — his chariots are like the whirlwind † — to execute his anger with fury and his rebuke with flames of fire.
16 For the LORD will execute judgment on all people † with his fiery sword, and many will be slain by the LORD.

17 "Those who dedicate and purify themselves to enter the groves † following their leader, † eating meat from pigs, vermin, † and rats, will perish together."
This is the LORD's declaration.
18 "Knowing † their works and their thoughts, I have come to gather all nations and languages; † they will come and see my glory. 19 I will establish a sign among them, and I will send survivors from them to the nations — to Tarshish, Put, † Lud (who are archers), Tubal, Javan, † and the coasts and islands far away — who have not heard about me or seen my glory. And they will proclaim my glory among the nations. † 20 They will bring all your brothers from all the nations as a gift to the LORD on horses and chariots, in litters, and on mules and camels, to my holy mountain Jerusalem," † says the LORD, "just as the Israelites bring an offering in a clean vessel to the house of the LORD. 21 I will also take some of them as priests and Levites," † says the LORD.

22 "For just as the new heavens and the new earth, † which I will make,
will remain before me" —
this is the LORD's declaration — "so your offspring and your name will remain.
23 All mankind will come to worship me from one New Moon to another and from one Sabbath to another,"
says the LORD.

24 "As they leave, they will see the dead bodies of those who have rebelled against me; † for their worm † will never die, their fire will never go out, † and they will be a horror to all mankind.” †

66:1-2 The rhetorical questions in verse 1 relate especially to Solomon’s temple. Despite its magnificence, it was insufficient for God, whose throne is heaven itself and who made the universe. The implication is that God’s “holy mountain” (65:25) would not include such a man-made house. In contrast, favorable things are said of a “tent,” which is related to the Messiah (16:5) and to redeemed Jerusalem (33:20; 54:2). The focus here is on the kind of person whom God regards, namely, the humble (v. 2; 57:15).

66:3-4 As in 65:2-5, these worshipers chose their own ways and did not respond to God.

66:5-9 As in 51:7, the faithful, who tremble at God’s word (see v. 2), endure persecution, including hatred, exclusion, and reproach. They are encouraged through God’s certain vengeance on his enemies (v. 6) and his salvation of Zion (vv. 7-9). This salvation is depicted as Zion giving birth to a boy, which stands for the birth of a land and a nation all of a sudden (v. 8). The unusual nature of this birth highlights its supernatural character (see 49:21; 54:1).

66:12 Such peace was the hope of 48:18.

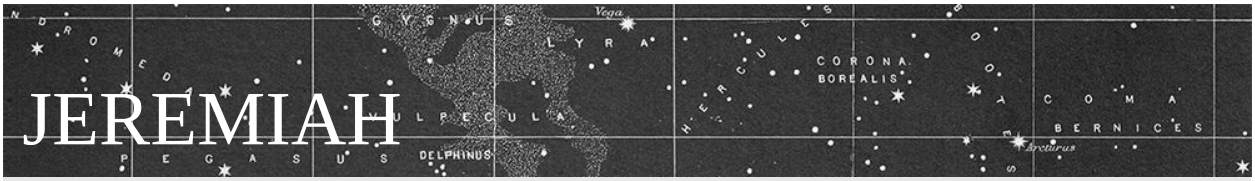
66:14-16 As in 65:8-16, humanity consists of two groups: God’s servants and his enemies. Whereas the former will receive favor, the latter will meet a fiery end.

66:17 Eating pork was also used in 65:4 to represent uncleanness, and offering pig’s blood was similarly mentioned in verse 3.

66:18-24 The climactic conclusion to the book of Isaiah includes all nations and languages seeing God’s glory (v. 18; 40:5), along with the sending of some of them to proclaim [his] glory among the nations who have not heard of it (v. 19). The result will be the bringing of Israel’s brothers from these places to God as an “offering,” akin to a temple offering (v. 20). The selection of some of them as priests connects to 61:6. After mentioning the new heavens and the new earth again (v. 22; 65:17), the book concludes with one group of people worshiping God forever and the other suffering a fiery judgment just as long (vv. 23-24).



JEREMIAH

INTRODUCTION

The book and prophet Jeremiah hold at least two great distinctions among all the OT prophets: (1) this is the longest Prophetic Book in the Bible (1,364 verses), and (2) Jeremiah's life is more fully described than any of the other fifteen writing prophets. Into the tumultuous times of the last half of the seventh century and the first quarter of the sixth century BC, came this prophet bearing a word from God for the stubborn people of Judah. The book's contents span roughly from 640 to 580 BC.

CIRCUMSTANCES OF WRITING

AUTHOR: Jeremiah was a priest from the town of Anathoth (1:1). At the Lord's command, he neither married nor had children because of the impending judgment that would come upon the next generation. His ministry as a prophet began in 626 BC and ended after 586 BC. He was a contemporary of Habakkuk and possibly Obadiah.

BACKGROUND: The book of Jeremiah discusses the last days of Judah. King Hezekiah reigned for forty-two years (729–686 BC) and began to reverse Judah's spiritual bankruptcy. But when Hezekiah's son, Manasseh, came to the throne, idolatrous and superstitious cultic practices and rites came back like a flood. Manasseh's son Amon ruled for only two years (642–640 BC). He also reinstated idol worship as the official religion of Judah (2Ch 33:22-23).

Amon's eight-year-old son, Josiah, succeeded him on the throne. This lad walked in the ways of the former King David. When he was eighteen years old (622 BC), he called for long-delayed repairs to be made to the temple. During this work, a copy of the law of Moses was found. On the basis of hearing this word, the young king and all his people renewed the covenant with the Lord. However, this reformation failed to overcome the effects of the wickedness Manasseh and Amon had instituted.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE BIBLE

The best known passage in Jeremiah is the new covenant text in 31:31-34. Not only is it the largest OT text quoted in the NT (Heb 8:8-12; 10:16-17), but arguably better than any other passage it links God's ancient promises to Eve (Gn 3:15), Abraham (Gn 12:1-3), and David (2Sm 7:16-19) with NT assurances that God in Christ grants believers new hearts, salvation, and fellowship with him.

STRUCTURE

One date rings throughout the entire book of Jeremiah: "the fourth year of Jehoiakim son of Josiah, king of Judah." That year, 605 BC, brought major change to the political situation of the Near East. Both Egypt and Assyria were defeated at the battle of Carchemish (46:2-12; 2Kg 24:7; 2Ch 35:20). Nebuchadnezzar ascended the throne of Babylon. In that same year God instructed Jeremiah to put his prophecies into writing as a final test of King Jehoiakim's responsiveness to the word of God.

This significant dateline, "the fourth year of Jehoiakim," was placed at 25:1; 36:1; and 45:1, thereby dividing the prophet's book into three main sections: the prophet's faithfulness in carrying out God's commission (chaps. 2–24), the fierce opposition to his ministry (chaps. 25–35), and the collapse of Judah (chaps. 36–45).

The book of Jeremiah includes poetic sections (especially in chaps. 2–25) and prose accounts as well. Critical scholars generally say that the poetry is Jeremiah's and the prose is either the work of his friends or a person who is labeled a Deuteronomic writer (so designated because the prose sections are said to reflect the book of Deuteronomy). But we may ask, Could not Jeremiah have written in both poetic and prose form? There is no reason to suppose he was incapable of writing in both forms.

CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW ELEMENTS

TEACHINGS ABOUT GOD

Jeremiah's understanding of God explicitly included such attributes as his omnipresence (he is everywhere) and his omnipotence (he is all powerful). The classic text is 23:24: "'Can a person hide in secret places where I cannot see him?'—the LORD's declaration. 'Do I not fill the heavens and the earth?'—the LORD's declaration." Neither Christ nor the Spirit is explicitly present in the book. Jesus, however, liked to quote Jeremiah and taught that his crucifixion established the "new covenant" that Jeremiah had predicted (31:31-34).

TEACHINGS ABOUT HUMANITY

The book manifests both the wickedness and the greatness possible in human beings. King Jehoiakim's destruction of the scroll and King Zedekiah's mistreatment of Jeremiah (chaps. 36–38) show the great evil that political leaders can fall into. On the other hand, more is known about the godly Jeremiah than any other writing prophet.

TEACHINGS ABOUT SALVATION

Individuals in Jeremiah's own time, at least early in his ministry, could still turn from sin and avoid destruction (7:5-7; 18:7-8). Later on he announced that doom was inevitable. The overall perspective of the book is that redemption will happen only after judgment (29:10-14). The passage on the new covenant (31:31-34), the longest text quoted in the NT (Heb 8:8-12), looked forward to what Christ would accomplish by his coming and death, as the argument of Hebrews makes clear.

JEREMIAH TIMELINE

650–625 BC

Under Ashurbanipal, Assyrians capture and destroy Babylon. 649

Birth of Jeremiah 640?

Ashurbanipal (668–629) rules over a declining Assyrian Empire that experienced revolts (642) and contributed to the assassination of Amon of Judah (641) and the rise of Amon's son Josiah (641–609).

Initial reforms of Josiah 631

Jeremiah is called to be a prophet; he warns of an invasion from the north. 626

625–605 BC

Second phase of Josiah's reforms when the book of the law is found in the temple 622

Under Nabopolassar (626–605), Asshur and Nineveh fall, marking the end of the Assyrian Empire. 612

Babylonians and Medes take Harran from what remained of Assyrian forces. 610

Jeremiah's temple sermon 609

Josiah killed by the Egyptians at Megiddo 609

Josiah's son, Jehoahaz II, succeeds him and is deposed; he's replaced by his brother, Jehoiakim. 609

605–600 BC

Nebuchadnezzar attacks Jerusalem and leads citizens of Judah into exile. 605, 597, 586, 582

Jehoiakim makes a decision to turn from his alliance with Egypt and submit to Nebuchadnezzar. 604

Jehoiakim ignores Jeremiah's warning and turns back to Egypt for support after Egypt defeats Babylon at Migdol. 601

A reinforced Babylonian army approaches Judah; Jehoiakim dies. 598

600–575 BC

Jehoiachin succeeds his father, Jehoiakim, and reigns three months and ten days. 597

Jehoiachin and Judah's queen mother are brought to Babylon by Nebuchadnezzar. 597

Zedekiah succeeds Jehoiachin; reigns 597–586

Ezekiel is exiled in Babylon. 597

1 The words of Jeremiah, † the son of Hilkiah, one of the priests living in Anathoth † in the territory of Benjamin. 2 The word of the LORD came to him in the thirteenth year of the reign of Josiah † son of Amon, king of Judah. 3 It also came throughout the days of Jehoiakim † son of Josiah, king of Judah, until the fifth month of the eleventh year of Zedekiah † son of Josiah, king of Judah, when the people of Jerusalem went into exile.

THE CALL OF JEREMIAH

4 The word of the LORD came to me:

5 I chose you before I formed you in the womb; I set you apart before you were born. †
I appointed you a prophet to the nations. †

6 But I protested, "Oh no, Lord GOD! Look, I don't know how to speak † since I am only a youth." †

7 Then the LORD said to me:

Do not say, “I am only a youth,” † for you will go to everyone I send you to and speak whatever I tell you. † 8 Do not be afraid of anyone, † for I will be with you to rescue you. †
This is the LORD’s declaration.

9 Then the LORD reached out his hand, touched my mouth, † and told me:

I have now filled your mouth with my words. † 10 See, I have appointed you today over nations and kingdoms to uproot and tear down, to destroy and demolish, † to build and plant. †

TWO VISIONS

11 Then the word of the LORD came to me, asking, “What do you see, Jeremiah? ” †
I replied, “I see a branch of an almond tree.”
12 The LORD said to me, “You have seen correctly, for I watch over † my word to accomplish it.” † 13 Again the word of the LORD came to me asking, “What do you see? ”
And I replied, “I see a boiling pot, † its lip tilted from the north to the south.”
14 Then the LORD said to me, “Disaster will be poured out † from the north † on all who live in the land. 15 Indeed, I am about to summon all the clans and kingdoms of the north.” †
This is the LORD’s declaration.

They will come, and each king will set up his throne at the entrance to Jerusalem’s gates.
They will attack all her surrounding walls and all the other cities of Judah.

16 “I will pronounce my judgments against them for all the evil they did when they abandoned me to burn incense to other gods and to worship the works of their own hands. † 17 “Now, get ready. Stand up and tell them everything that I command you. Do not be intimidated by them † or I will cause you to cower before them.
18 Today, I am the one who has made you a fortified city, † an iron pillar, and bronze walls † against the whole land — against the kings of Judah, its officials, its priests, and the population. 19 They will fight against you but never prevail over you, † since I am with you to rescue you.” †
This is the LORD’s declaration.

1:1-3 Jeremiah was born into a family of priests: his father Hilkiah was one of the priests living in Anathoth. The location indicates that he should not be identified with the high priest in Jerusalem who had the same name (see 2Kg 22:4). According to the chronology given in verses 2-3, Jeremiah’s ministry probably lasted from about 628 BC (the thirteenth year of King Josiah) until 586 BC (the captivity of Jerusalem). Therefore, two significant events bracket Jeremiah’s prophetic ministry. At its beginning, the power of the mighty Assyrian Empire was declining. For a time, Judah was relatively independent and had the opportunity to concentrate on religious reforms during the reign of King Josiah. The second event came near the end of Jeremiah’s ministry: the Babylonian Empire, now the reigning superpower in the world, conquered Jerusalem, destroyed the temple, and took many people into exile. Jeremiah lived through these events and saw the fulfillment of his prophecies.

1:5 God had planned for Jeremiah to be a prophet to the nations even before his conception (see “A Biblical Assessment of Abortion,” p. 718). Although there is no evidence that he traveled to other nations to preach, his messages of judgment and hope certainly concern them (e.g., 3:17; 4:2; 16:19).

1:6-8 Like Moses (Ex 4:10), Jeremiah objected to the Lord’s calling because of his inability to speak well (v. 6). God did not dispute the reality that he was a youth, but he did not want him to focus on his sense of inadequacy. Instead, God called Jeremiah to obedience and assured him of his presence and help (vv. 7-8).

1:9-10 The touching of Jeremiah’s mouth signified God putting his words in his mouth. Thus, the words Jeremiah would speak (v. 7) would not be his own. His ministry to uproot and tear down, to destroy and demolish describe his messages of the Lord’s judgment, whereas his ministry to build and plant have to do with messages of hope and salvation. (This language appears again in 12:14-17; 24:6; and 31:28).

1:11-12 The Hebrew word for almond sounds like the Hebrew word for “watching” (v. 12), creating a play on words that highlights God’s fulfillment of his word.

1:15 Judgment would come from the north (vv. 13-15) in the form of foreign nations overtaking the land and setting up their thrones (see 3:17).

1:17-19 The opposition that Jeremiah would face was already hinted at in v. 8, and it is made explicit here. The people will fight against Jeremiah, as one fights against a fortified city. Nevertheless, God will strengthen and deliver him.

ISRAEL ACCUSED OF APOSTASY

2 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 "Go and announce directly to Jerusalem that this is what the LORD says:

I remember the loyalty of your youth, † your love as a bride —
how you followed me in the wilderness, in a land not sown.

3 Israel was holy to the LORD, † the firstfruits of his harvest. † All who ate of it found themselves guilty; † disaster came on them."
This is the LORD's declaration.

4 Hear the word of the LORD, house of Jacob and all families of the house of Israel.
5 This is what the LORD says:

What fault did your fathers find in me † that they went so far from me, followed worthless idols, † and became worthless themselves? † 6 They stopped asking, "Where is the LORD † who brought us from the land of Egypt, who led us through the wilderness, † through a land of deserts and ravines, through a land of drought and darkness, † a land no one traveled through and where no one lived? "

7 I brought you to a fertile land † to eat its fruit and bounty, but after you entered, you defiled my land; †
you made my inheritance † detestable.
8 The priests quit asking, “Where is the LORD?”
The experts in the law no longer knew me, † and the rulers † rebelled against me.
The prophets prophesied by † Baal †
and followed useless idols. †

9 Therefore, I will bring a case against you again.
This is the LORD’s declaration.
I will bring a case against your children’s children. †
10 Cross over to the coasts of Cyprus † † and take a look.
Send someone to Kedar † and consider carefully; see if there has ever been anything like this: 11 Has a nation ever exchanged its gods? †
(But they were not gods! †) Yet my people have exchanged their † Glory for useless idols. † 12 Be appalled at this, heavens; † be shocked and utterly desolated!
This is the LORD’s declaration.

13 For my people have committed a double evil: They have abandoned me, † the fountain of living water, † and dug cisterns for themselves — cracked cisterns that cannot hold water. †

CONSEQUENCES OF APOSTASY

14 Is Israel a slave?
Was he born into slavery? †
Why else has he become a prey?

15 The young lions have roared at him; †
they have roared loudly.
They have laid waste his land. †
His cities are in ruins, without inhabitants.
16 The men of Memphis and Tahpanhes † have also broken your skull.
17 Have you not brought this on yourself † by abandoning the LORD your God while he was leading you along the way?
18 Now what will you gain by traveling along the way to Egypt † to drink the water of the Nile? †
What will you gain
by traveling along the way to Assyria † to drink the water of the Euphrates? † 19 Your own evil will discipline you; † your own apostasies will reprimand you.
Recognize † how evil and bitter † it is for you to abandon the LORD your God and to have no fear of me.
This is the declaration of the Lord GOD of Armies.

20 For long ago I † broke your yoke; †
I † tore off your chains.
You insisted, “I will not serve! ”
On every high hill and under every green tree †
you lay down like a prostitute. †

21 I planted you, a choice vine † from the very best seed.
How then could you turn into a degenerate, foreign vine? †

22 Even if you wash with lye and use a great amount of bleach, † †

the stain of your iniquity is still in front of me. †
This is the Lord GOD's declaration.

23 How can you protest, "I am not defiled; I have not followed the Baals"? † Look at your behavior in the valley; acknowledge what you have done. †
You are a swift young camel twisting and turning on her way, 24 a wild donkey † at home † in the wilderness.
She sniffs the wind in the heat of her desire.
Who can control her passion?
All who look for her will not become weary; they will find her in her mating season. †
25 Keep your feet from going bare and your throat from thirst.
But you say, "It's hopeless; †
I love strangers, † and I will continue to follow them."

26 Like the shame of a thief when he is caught, so the house of Israel has been put to shame. †
They, their kings, their officials, their priests, and their prophets † 27 say to a tree, "You are my father," and to a stone, "You gave birth to me."
For they have turned their back to me and not their face, †
yet in their time of disaster † they beg, "Rise up and save us! " 28 But where are your gods you made for yourself?
Let them rise up and save you † in your time of disaster if they can, for your gods are as numerous as your cities, Judah.

JUDGMENT DESERVED

29 Why do you bring a case against me? †

All of you have rebelled against me.
This is the LORD's declaration.
30 I have struck down your children in vain; they would not accept discipline. † Your own sword has devoured your prophets † like a ravaging lion.
31 Evil generation, pay attention to the word of the LORD!
Have I been a wilderness to Israel or a land of dense darkness? †
Why do my people claim,
"We will go where we want; †
we will no longer come to you"?
32 Can a young woman forget her jewelry † or a bride her wedding sash?
Yet my people have forgotten me †
for countless days.
33 How skillfully you pursue love; you also teach evil women your ways.
34 Moreover, your skirts are stained with the blood of the innocent poor. †
You did not catch them breaking and entering. †
But in spite of all these things
35 you claim, "I am innocent. †
His anger is sure to turn away from me."
But I will certainly judge you because you have said, "I have not sinned." † 36 How unstable you are, † constantly changing your ways!
You will be put to shame by Egypt †
just as you were put to shame by Assyria.
37 Moreover, you will be led out from here with your hands on your head † since the LORD has rejected those you trust; † you will not succeed even with their help. †

2:5 Israel's "loyalty" and "love as a bride" in the desert was short-lived (v. 2; 3:25; Ex 14:31–15:21; Hs 2:15), as they quickly turned away from the Lord (Ex 32:1; Lv 17:7). The effect of turning to worthless idols is to become like these objects of worship.

2:6-8 Despite God's deliverance of Israel from Egypt and guidance through the wilderness to a fertile land, they defiled [God's] land (vv. 6-7). Sadly, they were led down this wicked path by their priests, experts in the law, rulers, and prophets (v. 8; 23:11), who, rather than setting a godly example, showed little concern for or knowledge of God and turned to idols.

2:10-13 Israel had thus committed the double evil of abandoning the Lord and instead going after useless idols, which were like cracked cisterns that cannot hold water (vv. 11,13; Rm 1:23,25-26). The coasts of Cyprus and Kedar (v. 10; Nm 24:24; Ps 120:5) are examples of distant lands, in which such appalling sin could not be found (v. 12).

2:14-18 The young lions (v. 15) are a metaphor for the enemies of Israel. The northern kingdom of Israel had already been laid waste by Assyria (vv. 14-15,18). Memphis and Tahpanhes were cities in Egypt (v. 16; 44:1; 46:14). Neither of these foreign powers would be of any help (v. 18; 2:36; Is 30:1-3; Hs 7:11). Later, some from Judah would flee to Egypt to their own demise (Jr 42–44).

2:19 The people's sin of abandoning God is cited again (see vv. 13,17,27; 1:16).

2:20 Rather than being a faithful bride, Israel had become a prostitute through her idolatry (see the notes on vv. 5,19; 3:6-10; 2Kg 17:7; Ezk 16:15-19). The mention of every high hill and green tree refers to Canaanite fertility rituals and sexual acts in the worship of their gods. Israel's participation in these things makes the image of a prostitute doubly appropriate: both because of the sexual nature of the idolatry and her abandonment of her covenant relationship with God.

2:21 God's frustration with what should have been a good vine is reminiscent of Isaiah 5:1-7.

2:22 The stain of Judah's sin could not be removed with soap (see 4:14; Is 1:18), and the suggestion is that the people cannot solve this problem (see 13:23; 17:1).

2:23-28 Judah's prostitution after other gods is shamefully equated to a female camel or donkey in heat that is easily found by multiple mates (vv. 23-25; see v. 20; 3:1). Judah and her leaders would be put to shame for worshiping a multitude of gods of wood and stone (vv. 26-28; see v. 8; 3:9).

2:29 As will be further developed in 5:1-6 (see note), the whole nation (All of you) had rebelled against God.

2:30 The ineffectiveness of even severe discipline indicates how foolish the Israelites were (see 4:22; Is 1:2-6).

2:32-35 Judah had done the unthinkable of having forgotten God her provider (v. 32; see v. 11) as she disgracefully pursued idols (v. 33; see the note on vv. 23-28). Furthermore, she was guilty of violence against the innocent poor (a violation of God's covenant stipulations), despite her complacency and claims to the contrary (vv. 34-35).

2:37 Jeremiah prophesies that Judah will be led out in exile. The statement with your hands on your head refers to a sign of humiliation (see 2Sm 13:19).

WAGES OF APOSTASY

3 If † a man divorces his wife and she leaves him to marry another, can he ever return to her? †
Wouldn't such a land † become totally defiled?
But you!
You have prostituted yourself with many partners † — can you return to me? †
This is the LORD's declaration.
2 Look to the barren heights † and see.
Where have you not been immoral?
You sat waiting for them beside the highways † like a nomad in the desert.
You have defiled the land with your prostitution and wickedness. †
3 This is why the showers haven't come † — why there has been no spring rain.
You have the brazen look † of a prostitute † and refuse to be ashamed. †
4 Haven't you recently called to me, "My Father. †
You were my friend in my youth. †
5 Will he bear a grudge forever? †
Will he be endlessly infuriated? "
This is what you have said, but you have done the evil things you are capable of.

UNFAITHFUL ISRAEL, TREACHEROUS JUDAH

6 In the days of King Josiah the LORD asked me, “Have you seen what unfaithful Israel has done? She has ascended every high hill and gone under every green tree to prostitute herself there. † 7 I thought, ‘After she has done all these things, she will return to me.’ † But she didn’t return, and her treacherous sister Judah † saw it. 8 I † observed that it was because unfaithful Israel had committed adultery that I had sent her away and had given her a certificate of divorce. † Nevertheless, her treacherous sister Judah was not afraid but also went and prostituted herself. † 9 Indifferent to † her prostitution, she defiled the land and committed adultery with stones † and trees. † 10 Yet in spite of all this, her treacherous sister Judah didn’t return to me with all her heart † — only in pretense.”
This is the LORD’s declaration.
11 The LORD announced to me, “Unfaithful Israel has shown herself more righteous than treacherous Judah. † 12 Go, proclaim these words to the north, and say,

‘Return, unfaithful Israel. †
This is the LORD’s declaration.
I will not look on you with anger, † for I am unfailing in my love. †
This is the LORD’s declaration.
I will not be angry forever. †
13 Only acknowledge your guilt † — you have rebelled against the LORD your God. †
You have scattered your favors to strangers under every green tree † and have not obeyed me.
This is the LORD’s declaration.

14 “ ‘Return, you faithless children † — this is the LORD’s declaration — for I am your master, † † and I will take you, † one from a city and two from a family, and I will bring you to Zion. 15 I will give you shepherds who are loyal to me, † † and they will shepherd you with knowledge and skill. 16 When you multiply and increase in the land, † in those days — this is the LORD's declaration — no one will say again, "The ark of the LORD's covenant." † It will never come to mind, and no one will remember or miss it. Another one will not be made. † 17 At that time Jerusalem will be called The LORD's Throne, † and all the nations will be gathered to it, † to the name of the LORD in Jerusalem. † They will cease to follow the stubbornness of their evil hearts. 18 In those days the house of Judah will join with the house of Israel, † and they will come together from the land of the north to the land I have given your ancestors to inherit.' " †

TRUE REPENTANCE

19 I thought, "How I long to make you my sons and give you a desirable land, the most beautiful inheritance † of all the nations."
I thought, "You will call me 'My Father' and never turn away from me."
20 However, as a woman may betray her lover, †
so you have betrayed † me, house of Israel.
This is the LORD's declaration.

21 A sound is heard on the barren heights: the children of Israel weeping and begging for mercy, for they have perverted their way;
they have forgotten the LORD their God. †
22 Return, you faithless children.
I will heal your unfaithfulness. †
"Here we are, coming to you, for you are the LORD our God.
23 Surely, falsehood comes from the hills, commotion from the mountains, † but the salvation of Israel is only in the LORD our God. † 24 From the time of our youth the shameful one † has consumed what our fathers have worked for — their flocks and their herds, their sons and their daughters.

25 Let us lie down in our shame; let our disgrace cover us. †

We have sinned against the LORD our God, †
both we and our fathers,

from the time of our youth even to this day. †
We have not obeyed the LORD our God."

3:1-3 The outrage of Judah's sin is expressed with another metaphor (see 2:5,11,23-25,32), that of divorce and remarriage. Jeremiah is referring here to the law in Deuteronomy 24:1-4 that if a man divorces his wife and she marries someone else, her first husband can never take her back. Therefore, the answer to the rhetorical question in 3:1 is, "No, you cannot return to me." Her prostitution had been brazen (vv. 2-3), making judgment unavoidable.

3:6-10 Israel and Judah are portrayed as wicked sisters. Although both prostituted themselves to other gods, treacherous . . . Judah saw the judgment that came upon unfaithful Israel and still did not repent (v. 7). Judah did not return to [God] with all her heart but only in pretense (v. 10; 4:1-2; 29:13). Thus, although the kingdom of Judah lasted longer than Israel, she had greater guilt (v. 11).

3:11-13 Because the northern kingdom of Israel had been (relatively) more righteous than Judah (v. 11), Jeremiah was to offer her the opportunity to return (v. 12). God would be gracious if the people acknowledged their sin (v. 13).

3:14-18 Another invitation goes out for the Lord's wayward children to return to him (vv. 12,14,22). Though only a few would return to Zion at first (v. 14; Is 10:22), they would multiply and increase (v. 16). At that time, their shepherds would lead them with knowledge and skill, unlike previously (2:8; 10:21; 23:1-4). There would also be a fundamental change in their worship of the Lord. This is indicated through the irrelevance of the ark, which had been so important to the tabernacle and Solomon's temple (v. 16). The focus instead will be on Jerusalem as "The LORD's Throne," to which the nations, with hearts transformed, will gather to worship (v. 17; 16:19). In previous times, the thrones of foreigners had been set up in this city and throughout the land (1:15), but Israel and Judah would be reunited and come home to take possession of this territory (v. 18).

3:19 Israel should have called God 'My Father' (see Is 63:16; 64:8) but instead called out to idols in this way (2:27).

3:22-25 Israel's unfaithfulness was something only God could heal (v. 22; Is 6:10; Hs 6:1). The people's confession includes a renunciation of idols (often worshiped on the hills and mountains; see 2:20; 3:6) and recognition of a lengthy pattern of sin against the Lord (see v. 13).

BLESSING OR CURSE

4 If you return, † Israel — this is the LORD's declaration — you will return to me, † if you remove your abhorrent idols † from my presence and do not waver,
2 then you can swear, "As the LORD lives," † in truth, † in justice, and in righteousness, † then the nations will be blessed † by him † and will pride themselves in him. †

3 For this is what the LORD says to the men of Judah and Jerusalem:

Break up the unplowed ground; † do not sow among the thorns. † 4 Circumcise yourselves to the LORD; remove the foreskin of your hearts, † men of Judah and residents of Jerusalem.
Otherwise, my wrath will break out like fire and burn with no one to extinguish it † because of your evil deeds.

JUDGMENT FROM THE NORTH

5 Declare in Judah, proclaim in Jerusalem, and say:

Blow the ram's horn throughout the land. †
Cry out loudly and say:
Assemble yourselves,
and let's flee to the fortified cities.

6 Lift up a signal flag toward Zion. † Run for cover! Don't stand still!
For I am bringing disaster from the north — a crushing blow. † 7 A lion has gone up from his thicket; †
a destroyer of nations has set out.
He has left his lair
to make your land a waste.
Your cities will be reduced to uninhabited ruins. †
8 Because of this, put on sackcloth; mourn and wail, † for the LORD's burning anger † has not turned away from us.

9 "On that day" — this is the LORD's declaration — "the king and the officials will lose their courage. The priests will tremble in fear, and the prophets will be scared speechless."
10 I said, "Oh no, Lord GOD, you have certainly deceived † this people and Jerusalem, by announcing, 'You will have peace,' † while a sword is at † our throats."
11 "At that time it will be said to this people and to Jerusalem, 'A searing wind † blows from the barren heights in the wilderness on the way to my dear † people. It comes not to winnow or to sift; 12 a wind too strong for this comes at my call. † Now I will also pronounce judgments against them.' " †

13 Look, he advances like clouds; † his chariots are like a storm. †
His horses are swifter than eagles. †
Woe to us, for we are ruined! †
14 Wash the evil from your heart, † Jerusalem, so that you will be delivered.
How long will you harbor malicious thoughts? † 15 For a voice announces from Dan, proclaiming malice from Mount Ephraim.
16 Warn the nations: Look!

Proclaim to Jerusalem:
Those who besiege are coming from a distant land; † they raise their voices against the cities of Judah.
17 They have her surrounded † like those who guard a field, because she has rebelled against me. †
This is the LORD's declaration.
18 Your way and your actions have brought this on you. †
This is your punishment. It is very bitter, because it has reached your heart!

JEREMIAH'S LAMENT

19 My anguish, my anguish! † I writhe in agony!
Oh, the pain in † my heart! †
My heart pounds;
I cannot be silent.
For you, my soul,
have heard the sound of the ram's horn —
the shout of battle.
20 Disaster after disaster † is reported because the whole land is destroyed.
Suddenly my tents are destroyed,
my tent curtains, in a moment.
21 How long must I see the signal flag and hear the sound of the ram's horn?

22 "For my people are fools; they do not know me.
They are foolish children, without understanding. †
They are skilled in doing what is evil, but they do not know how to do what is good." †

23 I looked at the earth, and it was formless and empty. †
I looked to the heavens, and their light was gone. †

24 I looked at the mountains, and they were quaking; †
all the hills shook.
25 I looked, and there was no human being, † and all the birds of the sky had fled. † 26 I looked, and the fertile field † was a wilderness. †
All its cities were torn down because of the LORD and his burning anger. †

27 For this is what the LORD says:

The whole land will be a desolation, †
but I will not finish it off. † 28 Because of this, the earth will mourn; † the skies above will grow dark. †
I have spoken; I have planned, and I will not relent or turn back from it. †

29 Every city flees †
at the sound of the horseman and the archer.
They enter the thickets and climb among the rocks. † Every city is abandoned;
no inhabitant is left.
30 And you, devastated one, what are you doing † that you dress yourself in scarlet, that you adorn yourself with gold jewelry, that you enhance your eyes with makeup? †
You beautify yourself for nothing.
Your lovers reject you; †
they intend to take your life. † 31 I hear a cry like a woman in labor, †
a cry of anguish like one bearing her first child.
The cry of Daughter Zion gasping for breath, stretching out her hands: †

“Woe is me, for my life is weary because of the murderers! ”

4:1-2 The preceding confession (3:22-25) is not accepted at face value. God insists that Israel return to [him], rid themselves of idols, and speak his name in truth (5:2), perhaps because superficial repentance had been a problem before (3:10). The phrase the nations will be blessed by him is similar to what is said of the Messiah in Psalm 72:17 (see note).

4:4 The command to Judah to circumcise their own hearts (a metaphor) parallels Deuteronomy 10:16, but it is doubtful whether they could do it (see 9:26; 13:23; 17:1; the note on Is 1:16-18). What is certain is that they did not because God would pour out his wrath on Judah and Jerusalem (vv. 5-18; 52:1-30). Later, he himself would circumcise their hearts (Dt 30:6; Jr 31:33). An uncircumcised heart is closely related to the metaphor of soil unsuitable for growing crops (v. 3; Hs 10:12; Mt 13:3-9) and to an uncircumcised ear (see the note on 6:10; Ac 7:51).

4:5-9 The judgment threatened against Judah and Jerusalem in v. 4 is here proclaimed. As expected, disaster comes from the north (v. 6; 1:14-15; 3:12,18), bringing destruction to the land (v. 7) and dismay to its corrupt leaders (v. 9; 2:8). The intensity of God’s burning anger (v. 8) had been mentioned in v. 4 (see the note on Is 5:25).

4:10 These assurances of peace were not in fact from the Lord, as 6:14 explains.

4:14 What had to be washed was not anything outward but the heart and thoughts of Jerusalem’s inhabitants (see v. 4; 2:22).

4:16 The armies from the north that destroy nations (vv. 6-7) are further described as coming from a distant land (see 6:22).

4:19-21 Jeremiah was in agony over the judgment against Judah (see Is 21:2-4; 22:4). He would also weep and grieve over them (9:1; 13:17).

4:22 The foolishness of the people consisted of their lack of knowledge of God and their wickedness (see 5:21; Pr 9:10; 16:6; Is 1:2-4).

4:23-26 Jeremiah speaks again in the first-person of the coming destruction of Judah (see vv. 19-21). As a result of God’s anger, the land is deserted and its cities ruined (see vv. 27,29; Gn 1:2; Is 24:10). Darkness and mountains shaking suggest an even broader, cosmic event (vv. 23-24,28; Is 13:10; Jl 2:2,10,31; Hg 2:6,21).

4:27 Although judgment would be severe, God would not bring a complete end (see 5:18; Is 1:9).

4:30-31 Having already been likened to a promiscuous woman (2:20-25; 3:1-3,13), God's people continued in their stubbornness and stupidity to the bitter end (see v. 22). Judah's seductions would be useless, and she would instead suffer pain as intense as that of childbirth.

THE DEPRAVITY OF JERUSALEM

5 Roam † through the streets of Jerusalem.
Investigate; †
search in her squares.
If you find one person, †
any who acts justly, who pursues faithfulness,
then I will forgive her. †
2 When they say, "As the LORD lives," † they are swearing falsely. †
3 LORD, don't your eyes look for faithfulness? †
You have struck them, but they felt no pain. †
You finished them off,
but they refused to accept discipline. †
They made their faces harder than rock, † and they refused to return. †

4 Then I thought:

They are just the poor;
they have been foolish.
For they don't understand the way of the LORD, †
the justice of their God. †
5 I will go to the powerful and speak to them.
Surely they know the way of the LORD, the justice of their God. †
However, these also had broken the yoke and torn off the chains. †

6 Therefore, a lion from the forest will strike them down. †
A wolf from arid plains will ravage them.
A leopard † stalks their cities.
Anyone who leaves them will be torn to pieces because their rebellious acts are many, † their unfaithful deeds numerous. †

7 Why should I forgive you?
Your children have abandoned me and sworn by those who are not gods. †
I satisfied their needs, yet they committed adultery; †
they gashed themselves † at the † prostitute's house.
8 They are well-fed, † eager † stallions, † each neighing † after someone else's wife. †
9 Should I not punish them for these things? †
This is the LORD's declaration.
Should I not avenge myself †
on such a nation as this?

10 Go up among her vineyard terraces and destroy them, † but do not finish them off. † Prune away her shoots, for they do not belong to the LORD. †
11 They, the house of Israel and the house of Judah, have dealt very treacherously with me. †
This is the LORD's declaration.
12 They have contradicted the LORD and insisted, "It won't happen. † † Harm won't come to us;
we won't see sword or famine."
13 The prophets become only wind, for the LORD's word is not in them.
This will in fact happen to them.

COMING JUDGMENT

14 Therefore, this is what the Lord GOD of Armies says:

Because you have spoken this word,
I am going to make my words become fire in your mouth. †
These people are the wood, and the fire will consume them. † 15 I am about to bring a nation from far away against you, † house of Israel.
This is the LORD's declaration.
It is an established nation,
an ancient nation,
a nation whose language you do not know and whose speech you do not understand. † 16 Their quiver is like an open grave; †
they are all warriors.
17 They will consume your harvest and your food. †
They will consume your sons and your daughters.
They will consume your flocks and your herds.
They will consume your vines and your fig trees.
With the sword they will destroy your fortified cities † in which you trust.

18 "But even in those days" — this is the LORD's declaration — "I will not finish you off. † 19 When people ask, 'For what offense has the LORD our God done all these things to us? ' You will respond to them, 'Just as you abandoned me † and served foreign gods in your land, so will you serve strangers in a land that is not yours.' † 20 "Declare this in the house of Jacob; proclaim it in Judah, saying:

21 Hear this, you foolish and senseless † people. †
They have eyes, but they don't see.
They have ears, but they don't hear. †

22 Do you not fear me?
This is the LORD's declaration.
Do you not tremble before me, the one who set the sand as the boundary of the sea, an enduring barrier that it cannot cross? †
The waves surge, but they cannot prevail.
They roar but cannot pass over it.
23 But these people have stubborn and rebellious hearts. †
They have turned aside and have gone away.
24 They have not said to themselves, 'Let's fear the LORD our God, † who gives the seasonal rains, both autumn and spring, † who guarantees to us the fixed weeks of the harvest.'
25 Your guilty acts have diverted these things from you.
Your sins have withheld my bounty from you, † 26 for wicked men live among my people.
They watch like hunters † lying in wait. † †
They set a trap; †
they catch men.
27 Like a cage full of birds, so their houses are full of deceit. †
Therefore they have grown powerful and rich.
28 They have become fat † and sleek.
They have also excelled in evil matters.
They have not taken up cases, such as the case of the fatherless, so they might prosper, and they have not defended the rights of the needy. †
29 Should I not punish them for these things?
This is the LORD's declaration.
Should I not avenge myself †
on such a nation as this?

30 An appalling, horrible thing has taken place in the land. † 31 The prophets prophesy falsely, † and the priests rule by their own authority.

My people love it like this.

But what will you do at the end of it? †

5:1-6 Jerusalem was so wicked that not a single righteous person could be found in her (see the note on 2:29; 6:1-8,13-15; 8:1-3).

5:8 The metaphor of a prostitute has already been applied to Judah (2:20-28); now the people are equated to eager stallions who are neighing after wives that are not their own. Stallions, like donkeys (2:24), cannot control their sexual drive; they mate with any horse they find. In the same way, God's people had abandoned his covenant in spiritual adultery and were unfaithful with other gods (5:7).

5:12-13 Aided by false prophets, the people were complacent and were convinced that trouble would not come to them (see vv. 2,31; 4:10; 6:13-14; 7:4).

5:14 Whereas false prophets were speaking lies and "wind" (vv. 12-13), God would put his words in Jeremiah's mouth, and these words would be like fire (20:9).

5:15 Again the destroying nation that will come is said to be from far away (4:16; 6:22). They are also an ancient nation that speaks a foreign language (see the note on Is 28:9-13).

5:18-19 Despite the thorough destruction to come (Jl 1:4), God would not utterly destroy his people (v. 18; 4:27), though they would indeed be exiled to a land that is not [theirs].

5:21-22 Israel's sin is characterized here as foolishness, as in 4:22. The description of their spiritually senseless hearts, eyes, and ears echoes Isaiah 6:9-10. Despite God's mighty power as shown through his oversight of creation, they had not feared him (vv. 22,24; 2:19; 32:40).

5:23 Israel's sin is rooted in their stubborn and rebellious hearts.

5:25-29 Under the Sinai covenant, rain and abundant harvest was tied to Israel's keeping of the law (vv. 24-25; 3:3; Dt 11:13-15). The Israelites had forfeited these blessings not through minor legal infractions but through deception, exploitation, greed, and injustice (vv. 26-28; 2:34; Is 1:17).

5:31 Sadly, not only was the leadership corrupt (see v. 13; 2:8) but [God's] people love[d] it that way.

Nevertheless, this would result in a bitter end. This situation parallels those who have an “itch to hear” lies in 2Tm 4:3.

THREATENED SIEGE OF JERUSALEM

6 “Run for cover † out of Jerusalem, Benjaminites.
Sound the ram’s horn † in Tekoa; † raise a smoke signal † over Beth-haccherem, † for disaster threatens from the north, † even a crushing blow.
2 Though she is beautiful and delicate, I will destroy † Daughter Zion.
3 Shepherds and their flocks will come against her; they will pitch their tents all around her. †
Each will pasture his own portion.
4 Set them apart for war † against her; rise up, let’s attack at noon.
Woe to us, for the day is passing;
the evening shadows grow long.
5 Rise up, let’s attack by night.
Let us destroy her fortresses.”

6 For this is what the LORD of Armies says:

Cut down the trees; † raise a siege ramp against Jerusalem.
This city must be punished.
There is nothing but oppression within her. †
7 As a well gushes out its water, so she pours out her evil. †
Violence and destruction † resound in her.
Sickness and wounds keep coming to my attention.
8 Be warned, Jerusalem, or I will turn away from you; †
I will make you a desolation, a land without inhabitants. †

WRATH ON ISRAEL

9 This is what the LORD of Armies says:

Glean the remnant of Israel †
as thoroughly as a vine.
Pass your hand once more like a grape gatherer over the branches.

10 Who can I speak to and give such a warning † that they will listen?
Look, their ear is uncircumcised, † †
so they cannot pay attention.
See, the word of the LORD has become contemptible to them — they find no pleasure in it. †
11 But I am full of the LORD's wrath; I am tired of holding it back. † Pour it out on the children in the street, † on the gathering of young men as well.
For both husband and wife will be captured, the old with the very old. † 12 Their houses will be turned over to others, † their fields and wives as well, for I will stretch out my hand † against the inhabitants of the land.
This is the LORD's declaration.

13 For from the least to the greatest of them, † everyone is making profit dishonestly. †
From prophet to priest,
everyone deals falsely. † 14 They have treated my people's brokenness superficially, claiming, "Peace, peace," †
when there is no peace.
15 Were they ashamed when they acted so detestably?
They weren't at all ashamed.
They can no longer feel humiliation. †
Therefore, they will fall among the fallen.

When I punish them, they will collapse, †
says the LORD.

DISASTER BECAUSE OF DISOBEDIENCE

16 This is what the LORD says:

Stand by the roadways and look.
Ask about the ancient paths, †
"Which is the way to what is good? "
Then take it and find rest for yourselves. †
But they protested, "We won't! " 17 I appointed watchmen over you † and said, "Listen for the sound of the ram's horn."
But they protested, "We won't listen! "

18 Therefore listen, you nations and you witnesses, learn what the charge is against them.
19 Listen, earth!
I am about to bring disaster on these people, the fruit of their own plotting, † for they have paid no attention to my words.
They have rejected my instruction. †
20 What use to me is frankincense from Sheba † or sweet cane † from a distant land?
Your burnt offerings are not acceptable;
your sacrifices do not please me. † 21 Therefore, this is what the LORD says: I am going to place stumbling blocks before these people; fathers and sons together will stumble over them; † friends and neighbors will also perish.

A CRUEL NATION FROM THE NORTH

22 This is what the LORD says:

Look, † an army is coming from a northern land; †

a great nation will be stirred up from the remote regions of the earth. †
23 They grasp bow and javelin.
They are cruel and show no mercy. †
Their voice roars like the sea, †
and they ride on horses,
lined up like men in battle formation against you, Daughter Zion.

24 We have heard about it, and our hands have become weak.
Distress has seized us —
pain, like a woman in labor. †
25 Don't go out to the fields; don't walk on the road.
For the enemy has a sword;
terror is on every side. †

26 My dear † people, dress yourselves in sackcloth and roll in the dust. † Mourn as you would for an only son, † a bitter lament,
for suddenly the destroyer † will come on us. †

JEREMIAH APPOINTED AS AN EXAMINER

27 I have appointed you to be an assayer among my people — a refiner † — so you may know and assay their way of life. †
28 All are stubborn rebels spreading slander. †
They are bronze and iron;
all of them are corrupt. †
29 The bellows blow, blasting the lead with fire.
The refining is completely in vain;
the evil ones are not separated out.
30 They are called rejected silver, for the LORD has rejected them. †

6:1-8 Again the prophet proclaims that armies from the north will desolate the land (see 1:15; 4:6). The complete corruption of Jerusalem (v. 6) repeats the ideas of 2:29 and 5:1-6. The mention of her sickness and wounds (v. 7) echoes Isaiah 1:5-6.

6:9 Deuteronomy 24:18-22 states that at harvest, landowners were not allowed to go back over their fields or the vines a second time in order to ensure that they took in every last part of the crop. Rather, they were to leave something for the foreigner, the fatherless, and the widow. But here in Jeremiah 6:9, God commands the Babylonians to glean Israel thoroughly and to go over the vine once more. The metaphor —a reversal of the gleaning law—highlights the complete devastation that God intends for his people at the hands of the Babylonians.

6:10 Not only are the people's hearts uncircumcised but so are their ears (see the notes on 4:4; 5:21-22). The result is that they cannot pay attention (see Jos 24:19) and have no desire for the word of the LORD (see v. 19).

6:11 In contrast to 4:19-21 (see note), Jeremiah here prays for the execution of the Lord's judgment.

6:13-15 The dishonesty of everyone emphasizes again the complete corruption of the people (see vv. 6,28; 2:29; 5:1,4-5; 8:6; 9:2; 23:14) and contrasts with their future full restoration under the new covenant (31:34). The spreading of lies in God's name had been cited in 5:2,13,31, and the glossing over of sin and judgment in 2:35; 5:12. Most of this passage is repeated in 8:10-12.

6:16-17 The people's rejection of ancient paths and "the way of the good" (lit v. 16) most likely refers to their rejection of the Lord's "words" and "instruction" (v. 19). In so doing, they had also chosen "disaster" (v. 19) instead of rest (v. 16; Is 30:15-17).

6:20 Rejection of God's word (see previous note) makes sacrifices and offerings meaningless (see the notes on 1Sm 15:22-23; Pss 50:14-15; 51:16-17).

6:21 Part of the Lord's judgment against this stubborn, rebellious people would be stumbling blocks to their destruction (see Is 8:14-15; 28:13; Rm 9:32-33; 1Pt 2:8).

6:22 The northern land is linked to the remote regions of the earth, as suggested by other passages (see 4:6,16).

6:24 The comparison of Zion's anguish to that of a woman in labor also appears in 4:31 and 13:21.

6:26 Sackcloth, ashes, and dust were common symbols of mourning. To roll in the dust is probably an unusual action that demonstrates extreme grief or repentance (see Ezk 27:30).

6:27-30 Jeremiah's ministry is metaphorically described as a refining fire that would test the people and rid them of impurities and dross. His work, however, would fail as the refining is completely in vain (see Is 1:22,25), leading to rejection by God.

FALSE TRUST IN THE TEMPLE

7 This is the word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD: 2 "Stand in the gate of the house of the LORD † and there call out this word: 'Hear the word of the LORD, all you people of Judah who enter through these gates to worship the LORD.

3 " 'This is what the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel, says: Correct your ways and your actions, † and I will allow you to live in this place. 4 Do not trust deceitful words, chanting, "This is the temple of the LORD, the temple of the LORD, the temple of the LORD." 5 Instead, if you really correct your ways and your actions, if you act justly toward one another, † † 6 if you no longer oppress the resident alien, the fatherless, and the widow † and no longer shed innocent blood in this place or follow other gods, bringing harm on yourselves, 7 I will allow you to live in this place, the land I gave to your ancestors † long ago and forever. 8 But look, you keep trusting in deceitful words that cannot help.

9 " 'Do you steal, murder, commit adultery, swear falsely, burn incense to Baal, and follow other gods that you have not known? † 10 Then do you come and stand before me in this house † that bears my name and say, "We are rescued, so we can continue doing all these detestable acts"? 11 Has this house, which bears my name, become a den of robbers † in your view? Yes, I too have seen it. †

This is the LORD's declaration.

SHILOH AS A WARNING

12 " 'But return to my place that was at Shiloh, where I made my name dwell at first. † See what I did to it because of the evil of my people Israel. 13 Now, because you have done all these things — this is the LORD's declaration — and because I have spoken to you time and time again † but you wouldn't listen, † and I have called to you, but you wouldn't answer, † 14 what I did to Shiloh I will do to the house that bears my name † — the house in which you trust — the place that I gave you and your ancestors. 15 I will banish you from my presence, just as I banished all of your brothers, all the descendants of Ephraim.' †

DO NOT PRAY FOR JUDAH

16 "As for you, do not pray for these people. † Do not offer a cry or a prayer on their behalf, and do not beg me, † for I will not listen to you. † 17 Don't you see how they behave in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem? 18 The sons gather wood, the fathers light the fire, and the women knead dough to make cakes for the queen of heaven, † † and they pour out drink offerings to other gods so that they provoke me to anger. 19 But are they really provoking me?" † This is the LORD's declaration. "Isn't it they themselves being provoked to disgrace?"

20 Therefore, this is what the Lord GOD says: "Look, my anger — my burning wrath — is about to be poured out on this place, † on people and animals, on the tree of the field, and on the produce of the land. My wrath will burn and not be quenched." †

OBEDIENCE OVER SACRIFICE

21 This is what the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel, says: "Add your burnt offerings to your other sacrifices, and eat the meat yourselves, † 22 for when I brought your ancestors out of the land of Egypt, I did not speak with them † or command them concerning burnt offering and sacrifice. 23 However, I did give them this command: 'Obey me, and then I will be your God, and you will be my people. Follow every way I command you so that it may go well with you.' † 24 Yet they didn't listen or pay attention † but followed their own advice and their own stubborn, evil heart. They went backward and not forward. † 25 Since the day your ancestors came out of the land of Egypt until today, I have sent all my servants the prophets † to you time and time again. † † 26 However, my people wouldn't listen to me or pay attention but became obstinate; † † they did more evil than their ancestors. †

A LAMENT FOR DISOBEDIENT JUDAH

27 “When you speak all these things to them, they will not listen to you. When you call to them, they will not answer you. 28 Therefore, declare to them, ‘This is the nation that would not listen to the LORD their God and would not accept discipline. Truth † has perished — it has disappeared from their mouths. 29 Cut off the hair of your sacred vow † † and throw it away. Raise up a dirge on the barren heights, † for the LORD has rejected and abandoned the generation under his wrath.’ † 30 “For the Judeans have done what is evil in my sight.” This is the LORD’s declaration. “They have set up their abhorrent things † in the house that bears my name in order to defile it. † 31 They have built the high places of Topheth † † in Ben Hinnom Valley † † in order to burn their sons and daughters in the fire, † a thing I did not command; I never entertained the thought. † 32 “Therefore, look, the days are coming” † — the LORD’s declaration — “when this place will no longer be called Topheth and Ben Hinnom Valley, but the Valley of Slaughter. † Topheth will become a cemetery, † because there will be no other burial place. 33 The corpses of these people will become food for the birds of the sky and for the wild animals of the land, with no one to scare them away. † 34 I will remove from the cities of Judah and the streets of Jerusalem the sound of joy and gladness and the voices of the groom and the bride, †ˇ for the land will become a desolate waste. †

7:1-2 The narrative section that begins here illustrates Judah's sin specifically and concretely. This section is sometimes referred to as Jeremiah's "Temple Sermon." Jeremiah would deliver this message at the temple gate, a bustling place with heavy foot-traffic that would ensure his high visibility and a large audience.

7:3-11 These worshipers were guilty of trusting in the temple itself as a sign of divine favor (vv. 10,14) even though they were living in a pattern of idolatry and injustice. God has a special concern for the poor and the vulnerable in society (v. 6), and failing to treat these people well is a violation of God's character and covenant. In light of these abuses and other sins, Judah's trust in deceitful words was ill-founded (vv. 4,8; 5:17). Previous passages have emphasized Israel's mixture of lies with their spirituality (3:10; 5:2,31; 6:13).

7:12-15 God cited the destruction of Shiloh as evidence that the mere presence of the ark and other holy articles was no guarantee of his continued blessing. The stationing of the tabernacle at Shiloh is attested elsewhere in the OT (e.g., Jos 18:1; Jdg 18:31), and its destruction is referred to Jeremiah 26:6,9; Psalm 78:60.

7:16 God's determination to punish and exile Judah (vv. 15,20) is based on their grievous, flagrant sin (vv. 17-18). Here we are invited to listen to a private conversation between God and his prophet in which Jeremiah is instructed not to pray for the people or to beg God to withhold judgment.

7:18 One sin in particular is highlighted: the people are making cakes for the queen of heaven. The cakes were baked over a fire in clay molds in the shape of a pagan goddess, which they worshiped alongside the Lord.

7:21-23 Just as God spoke against falsely trusting in the temple itself (see the notes on vv. 3-1, 12-15), so he removed any confidence that might be put in the sacrifices. The whole burnt offerings were intended to be burnt entirely, leaving nothing left to eat. But here God has so completely rejected their manipulative and empty sacrifices that he encourages them, somewhat sarcastically, to eat the meat. Alluding to what he said in Exodus 19:5-6 regarding the institution of the sacrificial system (Lv 1–7), God prioritized listening to his voice and obeying him (vv. 22-23; 6:16-17; 9:13; 11:4,7).

7:24-26 Contrary to God's command (v. 23), Israel had not listened to his voice (vv. 24-28). Although they believed in God at the Red Sea (Ex 14:31), they quickly regressed (v. 24; the note on 2:5; Ex 15:22–17:7; Is 1:4). Israel was not only disobedient but stubbornly so (vv. 24,26). Such hardheartedness is repeatedly highlighted (2:25; 3:3; 5:3,23; 6:10; 9:14; 17:1).

7:29 The command to cut off the hair refers to the Nazirite vow of special consecration. God says their vow is so meaningless they might as well throw their long hair away. The Lord's rejection of this generation had also been declared in 6:30.

7:30-31 God was disgusted with the idolatry within the temple itself (see v. 10) and the unthinkable sacrifice of children (see the notes on Lv 18:6-26; and 20:1-8).

DEATH OVER LIFE

8 "At that time" — this is the LORD's declaration — "the bones of the kings of Judah, the bones of her officials, the bones of the priests, the bones of the prophets, and the bones of the residents of Jerusalem will be brought out of their graves. † 2 They will be exposed † to the sun, the moon, and all the stars in the sky, † which they have loved, served, followed, consulted, and worshiped. Their bones will not be collected and buried but will become like manure on the soil's surface. † 3 Death will be chosen over life † by all the survivors of this evil family, those who remain wherever I have banished them." † This is the declaration of the LORD of Armies.

4 "You are to say to them: This is what the LORD says:

Do people fall and not get up again? †
If they turn away, do they not return?
5 Why have these people turned away?
Why is Jerusalem always turning away?
They take hold of deceit; †
they refuse to return. †
6 I have paid careful attention.
They do not speak what is right.
No one regrets his evil, asking, 'What have I done? '
Everyone has stayed his course like a horse rushing into battle. †
7 Even storks in the sky know their seasons.
Turtledoves, swallows, and cranes † are aware of their migration, but my people do not know the requirements of the LORD. †

PUNISHMENT FOR JUDAH'S LEADERS

8 "How can you claim, 'We are wise; the law of the LORD is with us'?
In fact, the lying pen of scribes † has produced falsehood.
9 The wise will be put to shame; they will be dismayed and snared.
They have rejected the word of the LORD, †
so what wisdom do they really have?

10 Therefore, I will give † their wives to other men, their fields to new occupants, for from the least to the greatest, †

everyone is making profit dishonestly.
From prophet to priest,
everyone deals falsely.

11 They have treated the brokenness of my dear † people superficially, claiming, ‘Peace, peace,’
when there is no peace.

12 Were they ashamed when they acted so detestably?
They weren’t at all ashamed.
They can no longer feel humiliation.
Therefore, they will fall among the fallen.
When I punish them, they will collapse,” †
says the LORD.

13 I will gather them and bring them to an end. † †
This is the LORD’s declaration.
There will be no grapes on the vine,
no figs on the fig tree,
and even the leaf will wither.
Whatever I have given them will be lost to them.

GOD’S PEOPLE UNREPENTANT

14 Why are we just sitting here?
Gather together; let us enter the fortified cities and perish there, † for the LORD our God has destroyed † us.
He has given us poisoned water to drink, † because we have sinned against the LORD. †

15 We hoped for peace, but there was nothing good; for a time of healing, but there was only terror. †

16 From Dan, the snorting of horses is heard.

At the sound of the neighing of mighty steeds, †
the whole land quakes.
They come to devour the land and everything in it, the city and all its residents.
17 Indeed, I am about to send snakes among you, poisonous vipers † that cannot be charmed. †
They will bite you.
This is the LORD's declaration.

LAMENT OVER JUDAH

18 My joy has flown away; grief has settled on me.
My heart is sick. †
19 Listen — the cry of my dear people from a faraway land, "Is the LORD no longer in Zion, † her King not within her? " Why have they angered me
with their carved images, with their worthless foreign idols? †
20 Harvest has passed, summer has ended, but we have not been saved.
21 I am broken by the brokenness of my dear people. †
I mourn; horror has taken hold of me.
22 Is there no balm in Gilead? †
Is there no physician there?
So why has the healing of my dear people not come about?

8:1-3 Judah's horrific acts would bring corresponding horrific judgment (7:30-34). Fittingly, their bones would be exposed before the heavenly host that they had worshiped. The exposure of corpses, rather than their proper burial, suggests shame and rejection. The wicked leaders in particular would be humiliated (v. 1; see 2:8,26-27; 4:9).

8:8-9 Judah's claim to wisdom was baseless since they had rejected the word of the LORD (1Sm 15:22-23). Access to Scripture made little difference since their scribes were handling it falsely (v. 8). In reality, they had little interest in it (6:10,19; 18:18), and their so-called wise people would be put to shame (v. 9; 9:23).

8:10-12 The leaders were diminishing the seriousness of the people's sin, including idolatry and social injustice, both of which are violations of the covenant. They claimed: 'Peace, peace' and assumed that everything would eventually right itself. Yet this prevented the people of God from experiencing his mercy, since they first had to acknowledge that they were in need of it. The handing over of wives and fields to others as punishment, as well as descriptions of the complete corruption of the society, the glossing over of serious spiritual problems, and the utter lack of shame were likewise the subjects of 6:12-15.

8:13 The absence of grapes and figs as a picture of destruction parallels Habakkuk 3:17.

8:14-15 These fortified cities had been mentioned also in 4:5 but would prove useless against the Babylonian armies that were sent by God (5:17). The false promises of peace would be shown to be empty.

8:18–9:2 As in 4:19-21, Jeremiah grieved over the sin and judgment of Judah (vv. 18,21). There was no healing (v. 22) for her snakebites (v. 17), and the prophet wept at length for the people (9:1).

9 If my head were a flowing spring, my eyes a fountain of tears, I would weep day and night † over the slain of my dear † people.

2 If only I had a traveler's lodging place in the wilderness, †
I would abandon my people and depart from them, for they are all adulterers, †
a solemn assembly of treacherous people. †

3 They bent their tongues like their bows; lies and not faithfulness prevail in the land, for they proceed from one evil to another, and they do not take me into account. †
This is the LORD's declaration.

IMMINENT RUIN AND EXILE

4 Everyone has to be on guard against his friend.
Don't trust any brother,
for every brother will certainly deceive, † and every friend spread slander. †

5 Each one betrays his friend; † no one tells the truth.
They have taught their tongues to speak lies; they wear themselves out doing wrong.

6 You live in a world of deception. † †

In their deception they refuse to know me. †
This is the LORD's declaration.

7 Therefore, this is what the LORD of Armies says:

I am about to refine them and test them, † for what else can I do because of my dear † people? †

8 Their tongues are deadly arrows — they speak deception. †
With his mouth
one speaks peaceably with his friend, but inwardly he sets up an ambush.
9 Should I not punish them for these things?
This is the LORD's declaration.

Should I not avenge myself †
on such a nation as this?

10 I will raise weeping and a lament over the mountains, a dirge over the wilderness grazing land, for they have been so scorched that no one passes through.
The sound of cattle is no longer heard.

From the birds of the sky to the animals, † everything has fled — they have gone away.

11 I will make Jerusalem a heap of rubble, † a jackals' den. †

I will make the cities of Judah a desolation, an uninhabited place.

12 Who is the person wise enough to understand this? † Who has the LORD spoken to, that he may explain it? Why is the land destroyed and scorched like a wilderness, so no one can pass through?
13 The LORD said, “It is because they abandoned my instruction, † which I set before them, and did not obey my voice or walk according to it. 14 Instead, they followed the stubbornness of their hearts † and followed the Baals as their fathers taught them.” † 15 Therefore, this is what the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel, says: “I am about to feed this people wormwood † and give them poisonous water to drink. † 16 I will scatter them among the nations † that they and their fathers have not known. I will send a sword after them until I have finished them off.”

MOURNING OVER JUDAH

17 This is what the LORD of Armies says:

Consider, and summon the women who mourn; †
send for the skillful women.
18 Let them come quickly to raise a lament over us so that our eyes may overflow with tears,
our eyelids be soaked with weeping.
19 For a sound of lamentation is heard from Zion: How devastated we are.
We are greatly ashamed, † for we have abandoned the land;
our dwellings have been torn down.

20 Now hear the word of the LORD, you women.
Pay attention to † the words from his mouth.
Teach your daughters a lament and one another a dirge, 21 for Death † has climbed through our windows; it has entered our fortresses, cutting off children from the streets, young men from the squares.

22 “Speak as follows: ‘This is what the LORD declares: Human corpses will fall like manure on the surface of the field, † like newly cut grain † after the reaper with no one to gather it.

BOAST IN THE LORD

23 “ ‘This is what the LORD says:

The wise person should not boast in his wisdom; the strong should not boast in his strength; the wealthy should not boast in his wealth.
24 But the one who boasts should boast in this: that he understands and knows me † — that I am the LORD, showing faithful love, justice, and righteousness on the earth, for I delight in these things.
This is the LORD’s declaration.

25 “ ‘Look, the days are coming — this is the LORD’s declaration — when I will punish all the circumcised yet uncircumcised: † 26 Egypt, Judah, Edom, the Ammonites, Moab, and all the inhabitants of the desert who clip the hair on their temples. † All these nations are uncircumcised, and the whole house of Israel is uncircumcised in heart.’ ” †

9:3-6 Judah did not know the Lord and instead had become saturated with lies, even to the point the neither brother nor friend could be trusted (vv. 4-5). For more on these deceptions, see 5:27 and the note on 7:3-11.

9:8-11 Lies were being told to the harm of others. The tongues of deceivers were compared to “bows” in v. 3 and to deadly arrows in v. 8. God was compelled to avenge himself on such a nation as this (v. 9) in the form of destruction and desolation (vv. 10-11; 4:25).

9:12-16 Only the truly wise comprehend the reason behind the destruction of the land and the exile (vv. 12,15-16; Hs 14:9), which is that the people rejected God’s instruction and did not listen to his voice (v. 13; see the notes on 7:24-26; 8:8-9). Such wisdom had been revealed in Scripture (e.g., Dt 4:25-28). The Hebrew word translated stubbornness in v. 14 appears seven other times in Jeremiah (3:17; 7:24; 11:8; 13:10; 16:12; 18:12; 23:17).

9:17-22 The emphasis on intense grief and weeping continues (vv. 1,10; 8:18,21) through the summoning of women who were apparently professional mourners (v. 17; Mt 9:23). In addition to their own mourning, they were to stir up others to mourn. They were also to teach their daughters to do the same because Death would devastate the land (v. 21).

9:23-24 Continuing the preceding themes of wisdom and the knowledge of God (vv. 3,6,12,17; 10:7-9,12), the people are called to abandon their own wisdom, strength, and wealth and to boast only in the Lord (v. 24; Is 45:25; 1Co 1:31). Previous passages have variously described their misplaced confidence in such things (see 5:17,27-28; 8:8) and their rejection of knowledge of God (vv. 3,6; 4:22).

9:25-26 Closely related to the knowledge of God (see previous note) is the circumcision of the heart (v. 26; 31:33-34). The latter was highlighted in 4:4, as well as in the Pentateuch written long before (Dt 30:6). Circumcision of the flesh, though significant (see Gn 17:1-14), was never sufficient (see Rm 2:25-29). The phrase days are coming (v. 25) was likewise used of climactic judgment in 7:32 but is also used of climactic salvation in other passages (e.g. 16:14; 23:5; 31:31).

FALSE GODS CONTRASTED WITH THE CREATOR

10 Hear the word that the LORD has spoken to † you, house of Israel.
2 This is what the LORD says:

Do not learn the way of the nations † or be terrified by signs in the heavens, although the nations are terrified by them, 3 for the customs of the peoples are worthless.
Someone cuts down a tree from the forest;
it is worked by the hands of a craftsman with a chisel.
4 He decorates it with silver and gold. †
It is fastened with hammer and nails, †
so it won't totter.
5 Like scarecrows in a cucumber patch, their idols cannot speak. †
They must be carried † because they cannot walk.
Do not fear them for they can do no harm † — and they cannot do any good. †

6 LORD, there is no one like you. †
You are great;
your name is great in power. †
7 Who should not fear you, King of the nations? †

It is what you deserve.
For among all the wise people of the nations and among all their kingdoms, there is no one like you.
8 They are both stupid and foolish, instructed by worthless idols made of wood!
9 Beaten silver is brought from Tarshish † and gold from Uphaz. † †
The work of a craftsman and of a goldsmith's hands is clothed in blue and purple, all the work of skilled artisans.
10 But the LORD is the true God; † he is the living God † and eternal King. †
The earth quakes at his wrath, † and the nations cannot endure his rage.

11 You are to say this to them: "The gods that did not make the heavens † and the earth will perish from the earth † and from under these heavens." †

12 He made the earth by his power, established the world † by his wisdom, † and spread out the heavens by his understanding. † 13 When he thunders, †
the waters in the heavens are in turmoil, † and he causes the clouds to rise from the ends of the earth.
He makes lightning for the rain
and brings the wind from his storehouses. †

14 Everyone is stupid and ignorant.
Every goldsmith is put to shame
by his carved image, † for his cast images are a lie; †
there is no breath in them. †

15 They are worthless, a work to be mocked.
At the time of their punishment they will be destroyed. †
16 Jacob's Portion † is not like these because he is the one who formed all things. † Israel is the tribe of his inheritance; †
the LORD of Armies is his name. †

EXILE AFTER THE SIEGE

17 Gather up your belongings † from the ground, † you who live under siege.

18 For this is what the LORD says:

Look, I am flinging away †
the land's residents at this time and bringing them such distress that they will feel it.

JEREMIAH GRIEVES

19 Woe to me because of my brokenness — I am severely wounded! †
I exclaimed, "This is my intense suffering, but I must bear it."
20 My tent is destroyed; †
all my tent cords are snapped.
My sons have departed from me and are no more.
I have no one to pitch my tent again or to hang up my curtains.
21 For the shepherds are stupid: They don't seek the LORD. † Therefore they have not prospered, and their whole flock is scattered.
22 Listen! A noise — it is coming — a great commotion † from the land to the north.
The cities of Judah will be made desolate, a jackals' den. †

23 I know, LORD, that a person's way of life is not his own; no one who walks determines his own steps. † 24 Discipline me, LORD, but with justice — not in your anger, † or you will reduce me to nothing.
25 Pour out your wrath on the nations that don't recognize you and on the families that don't call on your name, for they have consumed Jacob;
they have consumed him and finished him off and made his homeland desolate. †

10:7 Although the nations are afraid of heavenly omens and worship useless idols (vv. 2-5,8-9; Is 44:9-20), they ought to fear the Lord, the true King of the nations (see 3:17). His wisdom surpasses the wisdom of the nations and of Israel (see 8:8; 9:23-24), all of whom are foolish (vv. 8,14; 4:22; 5:21).

10:11-13 The sharp contrast between God and idols continues. Whereas idols did not make the universe and will perish (v. 11), God did make the heavens and earth by his power, wisdom, and understanding (v. 12).

10:14-15 Emphasizing the wisdom theme yet again (see the notes on vv. 7,11-13; 9:23-24), v. 14 describes the human predicament in terms of foolishness: everyone is stupid and ignorant. Both Israelites and Gentiles were idolaters (vv. 2-5; 11:12-13) and as such were fools (v. 8; 4:22; 5:21). Correspondingly, idols are a lie, have no breath in them, are worthless, and deserve mockery (see 2:5; 3:23; 8:19; 51:17-18). As such they will be destroyed (v. 11).

10:19-20 The speaker here, who grieves over exile and departure from his homeland (see also vv. 17-18), seems to be the personified nation itself, whose tent is destroyed and whose sons have departed (Is 54:1-3). Perhaps Jeremiah was also closely identifying with them here and in vv. 23-25.

10:21-22 The shepherds (leaders) are called out again for their role in this foolishness (see previous note; 2:8), which is rooted in a failure to seek the LORD. Consequently, they bring harm both to themselves and to the whole flock (see 23:1-2), since God will bring destruction from the north (1:15; 4:6; 6:1,22).

REMINDER OF THE COVENANT

11 This is the word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD: 2 “Listen to the words of this covenant † and tell them to the men of Judah and the residents of Jerusalem. 3 Tell them, ‘This is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says: “Let a curse be on the man who does not obey the words of this covenant, † 4 which I commanded your ancestors when I brought them out of the land of Egypt, † out of the iron furnace.” † I declared, “Obey me, and do everything that I command you, and you will be my people, and I will be your God,” † 5 in order to establish the oath I swore to your ancestors, † to give them a land flowing with milk and honey, as it is today.’ ”
I answered, “Amen, LORD.” † 6 The LORD said to me, “Proclaim all these words in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem: ‘Obey the words of this covenant and carry them out.’
7 For I strongly warned your ancestors when I brought them out of the land of Egypt until today, warning them time and time again, † † ‘Obey me.’ 8 Yet they would not obey or pay attention; each one followed the stubbornness of his evil heart. † So I brought on them all the curses of this covenant, because they had not done what I commanded them to do.” 9 The LORD said to me, “A conspiracy has been discovered among the men of Judah † and the residents of Jerusalem. 10 They have returned to the iniquities of their fathers † who refused to obey my words and have followed other gods to worship them. † The house of Israel and the house of Judah broke my covenant I made with their ancestors.
11 “Therefore, this is what the LORD says: I am about to bring on them disaster that they cannot escape. † They will cry out to me, but I will not hear them.
12 Then the cities of Judah and the residents of Jerusalem will go and cry out to the gods they have been burning incense to, but they certainly will not save them in their time of disaster. † 13 Your gods are indeed as numerous as your cities, Judah, † and the altars you have set up to Shame † † — altars to burn incense to Baal — as numerous as the streets of Jerusalem.
14 “As for you, do not pray for these people. Do not raise up a cry or a prayer on their behalf, † for I will not be listening when they call out to me at the time of their disaster.

15 What right does my beloved have to be in my house, † having carried out so many evil schemes?
Can holy meat † † prevent your disaster †
so you can celebrate?
16 The LORD named you a flourishing olive tree, † beautiful with well-formed fruit.
He has set fire to it,
and its branches are consumed † † with the sound of a mighty tumult. †

17 "The LORD of Armies who planted you † has decreed disaster against you, because of the disaster † the house of Israel and the house of Judah brought on themselves when they angered me by burning incense to Baal."

18 The LORD informed me, so I knew.
Then you helped me to see their deeds,
19 for I was like a docile † lamb led to slaughter. †
I didn't know that they had devised plots against me: "Let's destroy the tree with its fruit; † let's cut him off from the land of the living † so that his name will no longer be remembered."
20 But, LORD of Armies, who judges righteously, who tests † heart † and mind, † let me see your vengeance on them,
for I have presented my case to you. †

21 Therefore, here is what the LORD says concerning the people of Anathoth † who intend to take your life. They warn, "Do not prophesy in the name of the LORD, † or you will certainly die at our hand." 22 Therefore, this is what the LORD of Armies says: "I am about to punish them. The young men will die by the sword; their sons and daughters will die by famine. † 23 They will have no remnant, for I will bring disaster on the people of Anathoth † in the year of their punishment."

11:4 God uses another metaphor of refining (see 6:27-30), this time of Israel's experience as slaves in Egypt. Just as iron is refined in a furnace and becomes more pure and more able to function as intended, God had created a people for himself in Egypt.

11:6-8 Because of Israel's ongoing, stubborn disobedience, they were in violation of the covenant and under a "curse" (vv. 2-3,6).

11:9-10 The sins of the people had also been linked to conspiracy in Isaiah 8:12. The breaking of this covenant by the house of Israel and the house of Judah anticipates a reversal when they observe the new covenant in 31:31-34.

11:11-14 With regard to impending divine judgment, the nation had reached a point of no return. Jeremiah states that their altars to Baal are as numerous as the streets of Jerusalem (v. 13). This is probably hyperbole for effect, but it reflects how much idol worship had pervaded the society. As a result, the people's prayers would be useless (v. 11; 14:11-12), and even Jeremiah's prayers could not save them (v. 14; 7:16; 15:1).

11:16 The metaphor of Judah as a flourishing olive tree is similar to the image of Israel as God's vineyard in Isaiah 5:5. In both agricultural images, God destroys Israel because she was not what he had hoped.

11:18-23 God warned Jeremiah that his ministry would face stiff opposition from Judah (1:18-19; 15:20). The people had abandoned God wholesale (see the notes on 5:1-6; 6:13-15), and now the people from Jeremiah's hometown of Anathoth (vv. 21,23; 1:1) secretly plot against his life.

JEREMIAH'S COMPLAINT

12 You will be righteous, LORD, †
even if I bring a case against you.
Yet, I wish to contend with you: †
Why does the way of the wicked prosper? †
Why do all the treacherous live at ease?
2 You planted them, † and they have taken root.
They have grown and produced fruit.
You are ever on their lips, †
but far from their conscience. † †

3 As for you, LORD, you know me; you see me. †
You test whether my heart is with you. † Drag the wicked away like sheep to slaughter † and set them apart for the day of killing.
4 How long will the land mourn † and the grass of every field wither?
Because of the evil of its residents, animals and birds have been swept away, †
for the people have said,
"He cannot see what our end will be." † †

THE LORD'S RESPONSE

5 If you have raced with runners and they have worn you out, how can you compete with horses?
If you stumble † in a peaceful land, what will you do in the thickets of the Jordan? †
6 Even your brothers — your own father's family — even they were treacherous to you; † even they have cried out loudly after you. † Do not have confidence in them, though they speak well of you.

7 I have abandoned my house; †
I have deserted my inheritance.
I have handed the love of my life over to her enemies.
8 My inheritance has behaved toward me like a lion in the forest.
She has roared against me.
Therefore, I hate her. †
9 Is my inheritance like a hyena † to me?
Are birds of prey circling her?
Go, gather all the wild animals; †

bring them to devour her.
10 Many shepherds have destroyed my vineyard; they have trampled my plot of land. †
They have turned my desirable plot into a desolate wasteland.
11 They have made it a desolation.
It mourns, desolate, before me.
All the land is desolate,
but no one takes it to heart. † 12 Over all the barren heights in the wilderness the destroyers have come, for the LORD has a sword that devours from one end of the earth to the other.
No one has peace. †
13 They have sown wheat but harvested thorns. †
They have exhausted themselves but have no profit. †
Be put to shame by your harvests because of the LORD's burning anger. †

14 This is what the LORD says: "Concerning all my evil neighbors who attack the inheritance that I bequeathed to my people, Israel, I am about to uproot them † from their land, and I will uproot the house of Judah from them. 15 After I have uprooted them, I will once again have compassion † on them and return each one to his inheritance and to his land. 16 If they will diligently learn the ways of my people † — to swear by my name, 'As the LORD lives,' just as they taught my people to swear by Baal — they will be built up among my people. 17 However, if they will not obey, then I will uproot and destroy that nation." †
This is the LORD's declaration.

12:1-4 The plot against Jeremiah's life led to his lament that the wicked prosper and to his prayer that God would rise up and punish them. Jeremiah's distress was especially related to their rejection of God even though he had planted them (v. 2). That God was near to their mouths but far from their hearts provides yet another example of their hypocrisy (3:10; 5:2; 6:14; 7:4) and echoes Isaiah 29:13. The statement, "He cannot see what our end will be" is a defiant contradiction of Deuteronomy 32:20, which states that God will hide his face from them and "will see what will become of them."

12:5-8 God's words in v. 5 challenge Jeremiah with the reality that the difficulty he currently faced was small compared to those coming in the future. The prophet had been painfully betrayed by his relatives (v. 6) from his hometown (11:21-23), but God also experienced great sorrow because of his people's betrayal (vv. 7-8; 2:2-13).

12:10 These shepherds were leaders in Judah who should have cared for the people (see 2:8; 10:21; 23:1).

12:14-17 Uprooting refers to judgment in the form of exile, which would be followed by restoration (vv. 14-15). Enemy nations would be saved if they turned to God from Baal and other idols (v. 16; 3:17; 10:7). The verbs uproot, destroy, and "build" (vv. 16-17) also appear in 1:10; 18:7-9; and 31:28. Whether a person truthfully swear[s] . . . 'As the LORD lives' is an important litmus test in the book of Jeremiah (4:2; 5:2; 7:9; see Is 65:16).

LINEN UNDERWEAR

13 This is what the LORD said to me: "Go and buy yourself a linen undergarment † and put it on. † But do not put it in water." 2 So I bought underwear as the LORD instructed me and put it on.
3 Then the word of the LORD came to me a second time: 4 "Take the underwear that you bought and are wearing, † and go at once to the Euphrates † and hide it in a rocky crevice." † 5 So I went and hid it by the Euphrates, as the LORD commanded me.
6 A long time later the LORD said to me, "Go at once to the Euphrates and get the underwear that I commanded you to hide there." 7 So I went to the Euphrates and dug up the underwear and got it from the place where I had hidden it, but it was ruined — of no use at all.
8 Then the word of the LORD came to me: 9 "This is what the LORD says: Just like this I will ruin the great pride of both Judah and Jerusalem. † 10 These evil people, who refuse to listen to me, who follow the stubbornness of their own hearts, † and who have followed other gods to serve and bow in worship — they will be like this underwear, of no use at all. 11 Just as underwear clings to one's waist, so I fastened the whole house of Israel and of Judah to me" † — this is the LORD's declaration — "so that they might be my people for my fame, praise, and glory, † but they would not obey.

THE WINE JARS

12 “Say this to them: ‘This is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says: Every jar should be filled with wine.’ Then they will respond to you, ‘Don’t we know that every jar should be filled with wine? ’ 13 And you will say to them, ‘This is what the LORD says: I am about to fill all who live in this land — the kings who reign for David on his throne, the priests, the prophets, and all the residents of Jerusalem — with drunkenness. 14 I will smash them against each other, fathers and sons alike — this is the LORD’s declaration. I will allow no mercy, pity, or compassion to keep me from destroying them.’ ” †

THE LORD’S WARNING

15 Listen and pay attention. Do not be proud, for the LORD has spoken.
16 Give glory to the LORD your God † before he brings darkness, before your feet stumble
on the mountains at dusk.
You wait for light, but he brings darkest gloom †
and makes total darkness.
17 But if you will not listen, my innermost being will weep in secret because of your pride.
My eyes will overflow with tears,
for the LORD’s flock † has been taken captive.

18 Say to the king and the queen mother: † Take a humble seat, for your glorious crowns have fallen from your heads.
19 The cities of the Negev are under siege; no one can help them.
All of Judah has been taken into exile, taken completely into exile.
20 Look up and see those coming from the north. † Where is the flock entrusted to you,
the sheep that were your pride?

THE DESTINY OF JERUSALEM

21 What will you say when he appoints close friends as leaders over you, ones you yourself trained?
Won't labor pains seize you, †
as they do a woman in labor?
22 And when you ask yourself, "Why have these things happened to me?"
it is because of your great guilt † that your skirts have been stripped off, † your body exposed. † 23 Can the Cushite change his skin, or a leopard his spots?
If so, you might be able to do what is good, † you who are instructed in evil.
24 I will scatter you † like drifting chaff † before the desert wind.
25 This is your lot, what I have decreed for you — this is the LORD's declaration — because you have forgotten me † and trusted in lies. † 26 I will pull your skirts up over your face so that your shame might be seen. †
27 Your adulteries and your lustful neighing, † your depraved prostitution on the hills, in the fields —
I have seen your abhorrent acts.
Woe to you, Jerusalem!
You are unclean —
for how long yet? †

13:1-7 This is the first of several times in which Jeremiah was not only to speak a prophetic message but also to dramatize it through his actions (see 18:1-4; 19:1,10; 24:1-3). The impact of these messages was heightened through these sign acts, sometimes at a personal cost to Jeremiah (see 16:1-9; 27:2; 32:6-15). His life was thus an embodiment of the messages he spoke. In this instance, idol worship would lead to the people's "ruin," like that of ruined underwear (vv. 7-10).

13:11 The significance of the "linen undergarment" (v. 1) was to show the closeness of relationship between God and his people. The reference to the whole house of Israel and of Judah is another reminder of God's commitment toward all Israel, despite the northern kingdom having already fallen about a century before. Many other passages in Jeremiah likewise mention both Israel and Judah (e.g., 3:18; 5:11; 11:10,17; 12:14; 31:27,31; 33:14; 36:2).

13:23 The obvious answer to the rhetorical question is "no." This makes clear that not only was Jerusalem wicked but was unable to change (see the notes on 4:4; 17:1). Their being instructed in evil contrasts with their future knowledge of God in Jeremiah 31:34 and Isaiah 54:13.

13:25-27 Coupled with their having forgotten God, Jerusalem had trusted in lies (7:4,8,14; 9:4; 10:14; 17:5). The image of pulling skirts up over the face (v. 26) refers to exposing the nation's nakedness so that she is shamed and can be ravaged by the enemy. The metaphor is violent and troubling, but appropriate for two reasons. First, it is payment-in-kind for her adulteries (idolatry), which were shameful, abhorrent, and defiling (see the notes on 2:5,20; 3:6-10; 7:3-11; see also Ezk 16:37-42). Second, the metaphor vividly describes the coming destruction and exile of Judah at the hands of the Babylonians.

THE DROUGHT

14 This is the word of the LORD that came to Jeremiah concerning the drought: †

2 Judah mourns; her city gates languish. †
Her people are on the ground in mourning;
Jerusalem's cry rises up. †
3 Their nobles send their servants † for water.
They go to the cisterns;
they find no water;
their containers return empty.
They are ashamed and humiliated;
they cover their heads. †
4 The ground is cracked since no rain has fallen on the land.
The farmers are ashamed; †
they cover their heads.
5 Even the doe in the field gives birth and abandons her fawn since there is no grass.
6 Wild donkeys stand on the barren heights † panting for air like jackals.

Their eyes fail
because there are no green plants.

7 Though our iniquities testify against us, LORD, act for your name's sake.
Indeed, our rebellions † are many; we have sinned against you. †
8 Hope of Israel, † its Savior in time of distress, why are you like a resident alien in the land, like a traveler stopping only for the night?
9 Why are you like a helpless man, like a warrior unable to save? † Yet you are among us, LORD, † and we bear your name.
Don't leave us!

10 This is what the LORD says concerning these people:

Truly they love to wander; †
they never rest their feet.
So the LORD does not accept them.
Now he will remember their iniquity and punish their sins. †

FALSE PROPHETS TO BE PUNISHED

11 Then the LORD said to me, "Do not pray for the well-being of these people. †
12 If they fast, I will not hear their cry of despair. If they offer burnt offering and grain offering, I will not accept them. Rather, I will finish them off by sword, famine, and plague." †
13 And I replied, "Oh no, Lord GOD! The prophets are telling them, 'You won't see sword or suffer famine. I will certainly give you lasting peace in this place.' " † 14 But the LORD said to me, "These prophets are prophesying a lie in my name. I did not send them, nor did I command them or speak to them. They are prophesying to you a false vision, worthless divination, the deceit † of their own minds. † 15 "Therefore, this is what the LORD says concerning the prophets who prophesy in my name, though I did not send them, and who say, 'There will never be sword or famine in this land.' By sword and famine these prophets will meet their end. 16 The people they are prophesying to will be thrown into the streets of Jerusalem because of the famine and the sword. There will be no one to bury them † — they, their wives, their sons, and their daughters. I will pour out their own evil on them."

JEREMIAH'S REQUEST

17 You are to speak this word to them: Let my eyes overflow with tears; day and night may they not stop, † for the virgin daughter of my people has been destroyed by a crushing blow, † an extremely severe wound. †
18 If I go out to the field, look — those slain by the sword!
If I enter the city,
look — those ill † from famine!
For both prophet and priest travel to a land they do not know.

19 Have you completely rejected Judah?
Do you detest † Zion?
Why do you strike us with no hope of healing for us?
We hoped for peace,
but there was nothing good;
for a time of healing,
but there was only terror. †
20 We acknowledge our wickedness, LORD, the iniquity of our fathers; † indeed, we have sinned against you.
21 For your name's sake, don't despise us.

Don’t disdain your glorious throne. †
Remember your covenant † with us; do not break it.
22 Can any of the worthless idols of the nations † bring rain?
Or can the skies alone give showers?
Are you not the LORD our God?
We therefore put our hope in you, † for you have done all these things.

14:1-7 Serious drought conditions led to futile searches for water by man and beast. As suggested in v. 7 and made clear in other passages (3:3; 5:24-25), this particular drought was a consequence of Israel’s sin. God is sovereign over rain (10:13), and his covenant with Israel at Sinai had specifically mentioned drought as a possible punishment for unfaithfulness (see the note on 5:25-29; Dt 11:1-32).

14:10 Despite the people’s desperate and pious-sounding cry for help (vv. 7-9), God knew their tendency to wander and would not hear their prayer (see 11:14). Jeremiah was not to pray for them either because it would make no difference (vv. 11-12; see 7:16).

14:13-16 Even though influential false prophets gave the people false hope and discouraged true repentance (v. 13; 5:31; 6:14), this did not excuse the people from guilt (v. 16). These fakes would be shown for what they were (vv. 14-15).

14:17-19 Jeremiah’s sorrow over Judah (v. 17) recalls 8:18–9:2 (see note). Both passages also cite the destruction (Hb shever) of the virgin daughter of my people (8:21; 14:17) and state there is no healing for her wound (8:22; 14:19; see Is 1:6; 3:7).

14:22 The inability of idols to bring rain refers to the serious drought Judah was enduring (see the note on vv. 1-7; 10:11-13). Contrary to a naturalistic worldview, the skies alone do not give showers either. Rather, they are gifts from the hands of God, the Creator and sustainer of the universe (5:24; 1Kg 17:1; 18:1; Jb 28:26).

THE LORD’S NEGATIVE RESPONSE

15 Then the LORD said to me: “Even if † Moses and † Samuel should † stand before me, † my compassions would not reach out to these people. Send them from my presence, and let them go. † 2 If they ask you, ‘Where will we go? ’ tell them: This is what the LORD says:

Those destined for death, † to death; those destined for the sword, to the sword.
Those destined for famine, to famine;
those destined for captivity, to captivity.

3 "I will ordain four kinds † of judgment for them" — this is the LORD's declaration — "the sword to kill, the dogs to drag away, † and the birds of the sky and the wild animals of the land † to devour and destroy. 4 I will make them a horror to all the kingdoms of the earth because of Manasseh † son of Hezekiah, the king of Judah, for what he did in Jerusalem.

5 Who will have pity on you, Jerusalem? †
Who will show sympathy toward you? †
Who will turn aside to ask about your well-being?

This is the LORD's declaration.
"You have turned your back,

I am tired † of showing compassion.
7 I scattered them with a winnowing fork at the city gates of the land.
I made them childless; I destroyed my people.
They would not turn from their ways. †
8 I made their widows more numerous than the sand of the seas. †
I brought a destroyer at noon against the mother of young men.
I suddenly released on her agitation and terrors.
9 The mother of seven grew faint; †
she breathed her last breath.
Her sun set while it was still day;
she was ashamed and humiliated.
The rest of them I will give over to the sword in the presence of their enemies."
This is the LORD's declaration.

JEREMIAH'S COMPLAINT

10 Woe is me, my mother, that you gave birth to me, † a man who incites dispute and conflict in all the land.
I did not lend or borrow,
yet everyone curses me. †

THE LORD'S RESPONSE

11 The LORD said:

Haven't I set you loose for your good?
Haven't I punished you
in a time of trouble, in a time of distress with the enemy? †
12 Can anyone smash iron, iron from the north, or bronze?
13 I will give up your wealth and your treasures as plunder, without cost, † for all your sins in all your borders.
14 Then I will make you serve your enemies † in a land you do not know, for my anger will kindle a fire that will burn against you. †

JEREMIAH'S PRAYER FOR VENGEANCE

15 You know, † LORD; remember me and take note of me. †
Avenge me against my persecutors. †
In your patience, † don't take me away.
Know that I suffer disgrace for your honor. †
16 Your words were found, and I ate them. †
Your words became a delight to me and the joy of my heart, for I bear your name, †
LORD God of Armies.
17 I never sat with the band of revelers, and I did not celebrate with them.

Because your hand was on me, I sat alone, † for you filled me with indignation.

18 Why has my pain become unending, my wound incurable, † refusing to be healed?
You truly have become like a mirage to me — water that is not reliable.

JEREMIAH TOLD TO REPENT

19 Therefore, this is what the LORD says:

If you return, I will take you back;
you will stand in my presence.
And if you speak noble words,
rather than worthless ones,
you will be my spokesman. †
It is they who must return to you;
you must not return to them.
20 Then I will make you a fortified wall of bronze to this people.
They will fight against you but will not overcome you, for I am with you to save you and rescue you. †
This is the LORD's declaration.
21 I will rescue you from the power of evil people and redeem you from the grasp of the ruthless.

15:1 As in 14:10-12, the Lord's decision to punish Judah was irrevocable and would not be altered even by the intercession of Moses or Samuel (see Ex 32:11-14; 1Sm 7:5-9; 12:23).

15:4 The sins of Manasseh were particularly heinous and included not only idolatry but also witchcraft and the shedding of much innocent blood (see 2Kg 21:1-9,16). The prophets and the author of 2 Kings single out these abominations as particular causes leading to God's destruction of Judah and Jerusalem (2Kg 21:11-15; 23:26; 24:3).

15:10 Jeremiah's complaint and subsequent conversation with God recalls 11:18–12:6. The dispute, conflict, and cursing related not to anything Jeremiah had done wrong but to the people's rejection of his message.

15:11 Despite Jeremiah's troubles, God would protect him when disaster fell on Judah (see 45:3-5).

15:16 Eating God's words suggests Jeremiah's acceptance of them and nourishment through them (Pr 9:1-6; Ezk 2:8–3:3; Jn 4:34). Delight in Scripture is characteristic of the righteous (Ps 1:1).

15:19-21 Most of Jeremiah's lament (vv. 10,15-17) contained nothing objectionable, but at the very end he referred to God as water that is not reliable (v. 18; 32:25). Nevertheless, God remains the fountain of living water (2:13; 17:13) even in the midst of Jeremiah's distress. The prophet had spoken worthless words. He was weak, but God pledged to strengthen him to be like a bronze wall (v. 20; 1:18).

NO MARRIAGE FOR JEREMIAH

16 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 "Do not marry or have sons or daughters in this place. 3 For this is what the LORD says concerning sons and daughters born in this place as well as concerning the mothers who bear them and the fathers who father them in this land: 4 They will die from deadly diseases. They will not be mourned or buried but will be like manure on the soil's surface. † They will be finished off by sword and famine. Their corpses will become food for the birds of the sky and for the wild animals of the land. † 5 "For this is what the LORD says: Don't enter a house where a mourning feast is taking place. † Don't go to lament or sympathize with them, for I have removed my peace from these people as well as my faithful love and compassion." This is the LORD's declaration. † 6 "Both great and small will die in this land without burial. No lament will be made for them, nor will anyone cut himself or † shave his head for them. † 7 Food won't be provided for the mourner † to comfort him because of the dead. A consoling drink won't be given him for the loss of his father or mother. 8 Do not enter the house where feasting is taking place to sit with them to eat and drink. 9 For this is what the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel, says: I am about to eliminate from this place, before your very eyes and in your time, the sound of joy and gladness, the voice of the groom and the bride. †

ABANDONING THE LORD AND HIS LAW

10 "When you tell these people all these things, they will say to you, 'Why has the LORD declared all this terrible disaster against us? † What is our iniquity?

What is our sin that we have committed against the LORD our God?' [11] Then you will answer them, 'Because your fathers abandoned me † — this is the LORD's declaration — and followed other gods, served them, and bowed in worship to them. † Indeed, they abandoned me and did not keep my instruction. [12] You did more evil than your fathers. † Look, each one of you was following the stubbornness of his evil heart, not obeying me. [13] So I will hurl you from this land into a land that you and your fathers are not familiar with. † There you will worship other gods † both day and night, for I will not grant you grace.' † [14] "However, look, the days are coming" † — the LORD's declaration — "when it will no longer be said, 'As the LORD lives who brought the Israelites from the land of Egypt,' † [15] but rather, 'As the LORD lives who brought the Israelites from the land of the north † and from all the other lands where he had banished them.' For I will return them to their land that I gave to their ancestors. †

PUNISHMENT OF EXILE

[16] "I am about to send for many fishermen" † — this is the LORD's declaration — "and they will fish for them. Then I will send for many hunters, and they will hunt them down on every mountain and hill and out of the clefts of the rocks, [17] for my gaze takes in all their ways. † They are not concealed from me, and their iniquity is not hidden from my sight. [18] I will first repay them double for their iniquity † and sin because they have polluted my land. They have filled my inheritance with the carcasses of their abhorrent and detestable idols."

[19] LORD, my strength and my stronghold, my refuge in a time of distress, † the nations will come to you from the ends of the earth, and they will say, "Our fathers inherited only lies, worthless idols † of no benefit at all."
[20] Can one make gods for himself?
But they are not gods. † [21] "Therefore, I am about to inform them, and this time I will make them know my power and my might;
then they will know that my name is the LORD." †

16:2-4 Like Ezekiel and Hosea (see Ezk 24:16-18; Hs 1:2), Jeremiah's prophetic calling required sacrifices concerning even the closest of human relationships (v. 2). His singleness related to a message of judgment against the children and parents of the land (vv. 3-4).

16:5-8 Jeremiah's loneliness for the sake of his prophetic ministry was intense. Not only did he rightly separate himself from evildoers (15:17; Ps 1:1) and was forbidden from marriage and parenthood (16:2), but he was not to mourn over the many of his beloved countrymen who would die (vv. 4-8; 9:1). This would signify the reality that God had removed his peace from these people (v. 5; 6:14; 8:11).

16:14-15 The disasters of death and exile (vv. 4,13) would not be the final word, for the Lord will bring about a salvation for Israel that surpasses even the exodus from Egypt. Such a new and greater work is also referred to in 3:14-18; 23:5-8; and 31:27-34. These passages use similar language and connect this glorious return from exile to the salvation of the nations, the coming of the Messiah, and the new covenant.

16:19-20 Israel's glorious return from exile (vv. 14-15) was foretold in connection with the salvation of the nations, just as it was in 3:17-18. Like Israel (2:11), they too had been guilty of worshiping false gods.

THE PERSISTENT SIN OF JUDAH

17 The sin of Judah is inscribed with an iron stylus. †
With a diamond point it is engraved on the tablet of their hearts † and on the horns of their † altars, 2 while their children remember their altars and their Asherah poles, by the green trees on the high hills † — 3 my mountains in the countryside.
I will give up your wealth and all your treasures as plunder † because of the sin of your high places †
in all your borders. †
4 You will, on your own, relinquish your inheritance that I gave you.
I will make you serve your enemies
in a land you do not know, † for you have set my anger on fire; † it will burn forever.

CURSE AND BLESSING

5 This is what the LORD says:

Cursed is the person who trusts in mankind. †
He makes human flesh his strength, † and his heart turns from the LORD.
6 He will be like a juniper in the Arabah; † he cannot see when good comes but dwells in the parched places in the wilderness, in a salt land where no one lives. †
7 The person who trusts in the LORD, whose confidence indeed is the LORD, is blessed. † 8 He will be like a tree planted by water: † it sends its roots out toward a stream, it doesn't fear when heat comes,
and its foliage remains green.
It will not worry in a year of drought or cease producing fruit.

THE DECEITFUL HEART

9 The heart is more deceitful than anything else, † and incurable — who can understand it? † 10 I, the LORD, examine the mind, I test the heart † † to give to each according to his way, according to what his actions deserve. †
11 He who makes a fortune unjustly is like a partridge that hatches eggs it didn't lay.
In the middle of his life his riches will abandon him, so in the end he will be a fool. †

12 A glorious throne †
on high † from the beginning is the place of our sanctuary. †

13 LORD, the hope of Israel, † all who abandon you will be put to shame.
All who turn away from me will be written in the dirt, for they have abandoned the LORD, the fountain of living water. †

JEREMIAH'S PLEA

14 Heal me, LORD, and I will be healed; save me, and I will be saved, for you are my praise. †
15 Hear how they keep challenging me, †
"Where is the word of the LORD?
Let it come! "
16 But I have not run away from being your shepherd, and I have not longed for the fatal day. †
You know my words were spoken in your presence.
17 Don't become a terror to me.
You are my refuge † in the day of disaster.
18 Let my persecutors be put to shame, †
but don't let me be put to shame.
Let them be terrified, but don't let me be terrified.
Bring on them the day of disaster; † shatter them with total † destruction.

OBSERVING THE SABBATH

19 This is what the LORD said to me, "Go and stand at the People's Gate, through which the kings of Judah enter and leave, as well as at all the gates of Jerusalem.
20 Announce to them, 'Hear the word of the LORD, kings of Judah, all Judah, and all the residents of Jerusalem who enter through these gates. 21 This is what the LORD says: Watch yourselves; do not pick up a load and bring it in through Jerusalem's gates on the Sabbath day. † 22 Do not carry a load out of your houses on the Sabbath day or do any work, † but keep the Sabbath day holy, just as I commanded your ancestors. † 23 They wouldn't listen or pay attention but became obstinate, † not listening or accepting discipline.

24 " 'However, if you listen to me — this is the LORD's declaration — and do not bring loads through the gates of this city on the Sabbath day, but keep the Sabbath day holy and do no work on it, 25 kings and princes will enter through the gates of this city. They will sit on the throne of David; † they will ride in chariots and on horses † with their officials, the men of Judah, and the residents of Jerusalem. This city will be inhabited forever. 26 Then people will come from the cities of Judah and from the area around Jerusalem, from the land of Benjamin and from the Judean foothills, from the hill country and from the Negev † bringing burnt offerings and sacrifices, grain offerings and frankincense, and thank offerings to the house of the LORD. 27 But if you do not listen to me to keep the Sabbath day holy by not carrying a load while entering the gates of Jerusalem on the Sabbath day, I will set fire to its gates, † and it will consume the citadels † of Jerusalem † and not be extinguished.' " †

17:1 The sin of Judah (idolatry in particular; see vv. 2-3) was so ingrained that it was as though it were engraved on the tablet of their hearts (13:23). An iron stylus was used to engrave stone or metal: here it is part of a metaphor for the hardness and stubbornness of their hearts (see 16:12; see the notes on 7:24-26; 9:12-16). This would only be resolved under the "new covenant" when God would "write" his law "on their hearts" (31:31-34; see the note on Pr 3:3).

17:5-8 The contrast between the person who trusts in mankind (v. 5) and the person who trusts in the LORD (v. 7) resembles the contrast between the righteous and the wicked in Psalm 1. Whereas the former person is like a juniper in the desert that will fail to flourish, the latter person is like a tree planted by water that continually bears fruit. Earlier passages likewise warned against misplaced confidence in fortified cities (5:17), lies (7:4,8; 13:25), the temple (7:14), and one's fellow man (9:4).

17:9-11 Although no one can understand it (v. 9), God fully understands the heart and justly gives to each person what he deserves (vv. 10-11; 20:12). Whereas Jeremiah had lamented his seemingly endless suffering by calling it a “wound incurable” (15:18), it is the deceitful human heart that is truly incurable (v. 9), apart from the redemptive work of God (31:33; 32:40).

17:13 Ancient peoples often collected and stored rainwater in cisterns, which were stagnant and could leak. By contrast, God is compared to a fountain of living water—an unending source of bountiful life that can satisfy the greatest thirst.

17:14-18 Compared to 15:18, in this passage Jeremiah has greater faith in God’s power to save him (vv. 14,17). He again honestly expresses his distress (vv. 15,18; 15:15) and cites his faithfulness to God (v. 16; 15:16-17).

17:27 Unwillingness to keep the Sabbath (v. 23) was a sign of breaking God’s covenant and provided yet another example of Judah refusing to listen to him (see 7:23-28; 11:3-8). Rather than experiencing the blessings of obedience (vv. 24-26) they would instead receive a fiery judgment.

PARABLE OF THE POTTER

18 This is the word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD: 2 “Go down at once to the potter’s house; † there I will reveal my words to you.” 3 So I went down to the potter’s house, and there he was, working away at the wheel. † 4 But the jar that he was making from the clay became flawed in the potter’s hand, so he made it into another jar, as it seemed right for him to do. † 5 The word of the LORD came to me: 6 “House of Israel, can I not treat you as this potter treats his clay? ” — this is the LORD’s declaration. “Just like clay in the potter’s hand, so are you in my hand, house of Israel. † 7 At one moment I might announce concerning a nation or a kingdom that I will uproot, tear down, and destroy it. † 8 However, if that nation about which I have made the announcement turns from its evil, I will relent concerning the disaster I had planned to do to it. † 9 At another time I might announce concerning a nation or a kingdom that I will build and plant it. † 10 However, if it does what is evil in my sight by not listening to me, I will relent concerning the good I had said I would do to it. † 11 So now, say to the men of Judah and to the residents of Jerusalem, ‘This is what the LORD says: Look, I am about to bring harm to you and make plans against you. Turn now, each from your evil way, and correct your ways and your deeds.’ † 12 But they will say, ‘It’s hopeless. † We will continue to follow our plans, and each of us will continue to act according to the stubbornness of his evil heart.’ ”

DELUDED ISRAEL

13 Therefore, this is what the LORD says:

Ask among the nations,
who has heard things like these?
Virgin Israel has done a most horrible thing. †
14 Does the snow of Lebanon ever leave the highland crags?
Or does cold water flowing from a distance ever fail?
15 Yet my people have forgotten me. †
They burn incense to worthless idols that make them stumble in their ways † on the ancient roads, † and make them walk on new paths, not the highway.
16 They have made their land a horror, † a perpetual object of scorn; † † all who pass by it will be appalled † and shake their heads. †
17 I will scatter them before the enemy like the east wind. †
I will show them † my back and not my face † on the day of their calamity.

PLOT AGAINST JEREMIAH

18 Then certain ones said, "Come, let's make plans against Jeremiah, † for instruction will never be lost from the priest, † or counsel from the wise, or a word from the prophet. † Come, let's denounce him † and pay no attention to all his words."

19 Pay attention to me, LORD.
Hear what my opponents are saying! † 20 Should good be repaid with evil?
Yet they have dug a pit for me. † Remember how I stood before you to speak good on their behalf, to turn your anger from them.
21 Therefore, hand their children over to famine, † and give them over to the power of the sword.

Let their wives become childless and widowed, their husbands slain by deadly disease, † their young men struck down by the sword in battle.
22 Let a cry be heard from their houses when you suddenly bring raiders against them, for they have dug a pit to capture me and have hidden snares for my feet. †
23 But you, LORD, know all their deadly plots against me.
Do not wipe out their iniquity; † do not blot out their sin before you.
Let them be forced to stumble before you;
deal with them in the time of your anger.

18:1-12 Revelation of God's complete message required that Jeremiah first go to the potter's house (v. 2; Ezk 2:1-2). In what has become a well-known metaphor, God compared his relationship to Israel to that of a potter and clay (vv. 3-6). The point is that God is sovereign over them and that when either an evil nation repents or a favored nation turns to wickedness, he will relent concerning what he had planned to do to each (vv. 7-10). This is like a clay vessel becoming marred and then being made into something else according to the will of the potter (v. 4). The Hebrew word for flawed is also used of the "ruined" loincloth in 13:7, which was also a metaphor for corrupt Israel (6:28). Despite being given the opportunity to repent (vv. 7-8,11), they refused (v. 12).

18:13-15 As in 2:10-13, the extent to which Israel turned away from God to idols is without precedent and an outrage. The ancient roads (v. 15) seem to be a reference to the Pentateuch, which had been written long ago (see 6:16,19).

THE CLAY JAR

19 This is what the LORD says: "Go, buy a potter's clay † jar. Take † some of the elders of the people and some of the leading priests † 2 and go out to Ben Hinnom Valley † near the entrance of the Potsherd Gate. Proclaim there the words I speak to you. 3 Say, ‘Hear the word of the LORD, kings of Judah and residents of Jerusalem. † This is what the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel, says: I am going to bring such disaster on this place that everyone who hears about it will shudder † † 4 because they have abandoned me † and made this a foreign place. They have burned incense in it to other gods that they, their fathers, and the kings of Judah have never known. They have filled this place with the blood of the innocent. † 5 They have built high places to Baal on which to burn their children in the fire as burnt offerings to Baal, something I have never commanded or mentioned; I never entertained the thought. † † 6 “ ‘Therefore, look, the days are coming † — this is the LORD’s declaration — when this place will no longer be called Topheth and Ben Hinnom Valley, but Slaughter Valley. † 7 I will spoil the plans of Judah and Jerusalem in this place.

I will make them fall by the sword before their enemies, by the hand of those who intend to take their life. I will provide their corpses as food for the birds of the sky and for the wild animals of the land. † 8 I will make this city desolate, an object of scorn. Everyone who passes by it will be appalled and scoff because of all its wounds. † 9 I will make them eat the flesh of their sons and their daughters, and they will eat each other’s flesh in the distressing siege inflicted on them by their enemies who intend to take their life.’ †
10 “Then you are to shatter the jar in the presence of the people going with you, 11 and you are to proclaim to them, ‘This is what the LORD of Armies says: I will shatter these people and this city, like one shatters a potter’s jar that can never again be mended. They will bury the dead in Topheth because there is no other place for burials. † 12 That is what I will do to this place — this is the declaration of the LORD — and to its residents, making this city like Topheth.
13 The houses of Jerusalem and the houses of the kings of Judah will become impure like that place Topheth — all the houses on whose rooftops they have burned incense to all the stars in the sky † and poured out drink offerings to other gods.’ ”
14 Jeremiah returned from Topheth, where the LORD had sent him to prophesy, stood in the courtyard of the LORD’s temple, † and proclaimed to all the people, 15 “This is what the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel, says: ‘I am about to bring on this city — and on all its cities — every disaster that I spoke against it, for they have become obstinate, not obeying my words.' " †

19:1 Once again, Jeremiah was given a prophetic message that was dramatized using pottery (see 18:1-12). This time, he was to shatter a jar as a vivid object lesson (see 19:10-12).

19:3 The disaster would be so severe that everyone who hears of it will shudder. Second Kings 21:12 uses the same language to describe this same judgment in the context of Manasseh's evil reign. This evil king was recently mentioned in Jeremiah 15:4 (see note).

19:8 The horrified response of passersby of Jerusalem is also mentioned in 1Kg 9:8.

19:9 The eating of one's own sons and daughters had been foretold as a particularly gruesome part of divine judgment in Deuteronomy 28:53. It describes total desperation in the face of siege and starvation (see 2Kg 6:26-29; Lm 2:20; 4:10).

19:10-12 The shattering of the jar (see 19:1) was a sobering depiction of the destruction of Judah and Jerusalem. There would be so many corpses that there would be nowhere to bury them (vv. 6-7,11; 7:31-32).

JEREMIAH BEATEN BY PASHHUR

20 Pashhur the priest, † the son of Immer † and chief official in the temple of the LORD, heard Jeremiah prophesying these things. 2 So Pashhur had the prophet Jeremiah beaten and put him in the stocks † at the Upper Benjamin Gate † in the LORD's temple. 3 The next day, when Pashhur released Jeremiah from the stocks, Jeremiah said to him, "The LORD does not call you Pashhur, but Terror Is on Every Side, † 4 for this is what the LORD says, 'I am about to make you a terror to both yourself and those you love. † They will fall by the sword of their enemies before your very eyes. † I will hand Judah over to the king of Babylon, and he will deport them to Babylon and put them to the sword. 5 I will give away all the wealth † of this city, all its products † and valuables. Indeed, I will hand all the treasures of the kings of Judah over to their enemies. They will plunder them, seize them, and carry them off to Babylon. † 6 As for you, Pashhur, and all who live in your house, you will go into captivity.

You will go to Babylon. † There you will die, and there you will be buried, you and all your friends to whom you prophesied lies.' " †

JEREMIAH COMPELLED TO PREACH

7 You deceived † me, LORD, and I was deceived.
You seized me and prevailed.
I am a laughingstock all the time; † everyone ridicules me.
8 For whenever I speak, I cry out, I proclaim, "Violence and destruction! " † so the word of the LORD has become my constant disgrace and derision.
9 I say, "I won't mention him or speak any longer in his name." †
But his message becomes a fire burning in my heart, † shut up in my bones.
I become tired of holding it in, †
and I cannot prevail.
10 For I have heard the gossip of many people, "Terror is on every side! † Report him; let's report him! "
Everyone I trusted † watches for my fall. †
"Perhaps he will be deceived so that we might prevail against him and take our vengeance on him."
11 But the LORD is with me like a violent warrior. †
Therefore, my persecutors will stumble and not prevail.
Since they have not succeeded, they will be utterly shamed, an everlasting humiliation that will never be forgotten. † 12 LORD of Armies, testing the righteous and seeing the heart † and mind, let me see your vengeance on them, for I have presented my case to you. †
13 Sing to the LORD!
Praise the LORD, for he rescues the life of the needy from evil people.

JEREMIAH'S LAMENT

15 May the man be cursed who brought the news to my father, saying, “A male so that my mother might have been my grave, her womb eternally pregnant.

to end my life in shame?

20:1-2 Jeremiah’s preaching against the religious establishment (see 2:8; 7:1-4; 8:8) resulted in their persecution of him. Earlier passages had referenced plots against him (11:18-21; 18:18-20), and here he was beaten and imprisoned at the command of Pashhur the priest, the temple official.

20:3-6 Having repeatedly prayed for God to avenge him against his enemies (11:20; 15:15; 17:18; 18:23), Jeremiah was given an oracle against Pashhur. There is a play on the Hebrew word magor (v. 3), which means terror (v. 4). This passage contains the first time in the book that Babylon is identified as the instrument of God’s wrath. Despite Pashhur’s opposition to the predicted judgment, divine wrath would still fall on the nation, and he and those close to him would not be spared (see 18:21-22).

20:7 Jeremiah’s humiliation led to his blaming God for having deceived him and forced him into prophetic ministry (see 1:5-10). God, however, had also promised his presence and protection (1:8,18-19), which was no small thing during this time of judgment on Judah (see the note on 15:11). Moreover, to be God’s spokesman was a great privilege (15:19).

20:8-9 Despite the fact that proclaiming the word of the LORD brought ridicule, Jeremiah was also unable to hold back his message. It was like a fire burning within him (see 23:9).

20:14-18 In his great discouragement and the persecution mounted against him, Jeremiah once again expresses his wish that he had never been born—this time in a more extended fashion (see 15:10; cp. Jb 3).

ZEDEKIAH’S REQUEST DENIED

21 This is the word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD when King Zedekiah sent Pashhur † son of Malchijah and the priest Zephaniah † son of Maaseiah to Jeremiah, asking, 2 "Inquire of the LORD on our behalf, since King Nebuchadnezzar † † of Babylon is making war against us. Perhaps the LORD will perform for us something like all his past wondrous works so that Nebuchadnezzar will withdraw from us."
3 But Jeremiah answered, "This is what you are to say to Zedekiah: 4 'This is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says: I am about to repel the weapons of war in your hands, † those you are using to fight the king of Babylon and the Chaldeans † who are besieging you outside the wall, and I will bring them into the center of this city. † 5 I myself will fight against you † with an outstretched hand and a strong arm, † with anger, rage, and intense wrath. 6 I will strike the residents of this city, both people and animals. They will die in a severe plague.
7 Afterward — this is the LORD's declaration — King Zedekiah of Judah, his officers, and the people — those in this city who survive the plague, the sword, and the famine — I will hand over to King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon, † to their enemies, yes, to those who intend to take their lives. He will put them to the sword; he won't spare them or show pity or compassion.' †

A WARNING FOR THE PEOPLE

8 "But tell this people, 'This is what the LORD says: Look, I am setting before you the way of life and the way of death. † 9 Whoever stays in this city will die by the sword, famine, and plague, but whoever goes out and surrenders to the Chaldeans who are besieging you will live and will retain his life like the spoils of war. † 10 For I have set my face against this city to bring disaster and not good † — this is the LORD's declaration. It will be handed over to the king of Babylon, who will burn it.' †
11 "And to the house of the king of Judah say this: 'Hear the word of the LORD!
12 House of David, this is what the LORD says:

Administer justice every morning, and rescue the victim of robbery from his oppressor, † or my anger will flare up like fire and burn unquenchably

because of your evil deeds.

13 Beware! I am against you, † you who sit above the valley, you atop the rocky plateau — this is the LORD's declaration — you who say, "Who can come down against us?
†
Who can enter our hiding places? "

I will kindle a fire in your forest † that will consume everything around it.' " †

21:1-2 This Pashhur son of Malchijah is not the same person as "Pashhur the priest, the son of Immer" in 20:1. This is the first time in the book that King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon is mentioned by name (v. 2). Nebuchadnezzar had come to attack Jerusalem because King Zedekiah was rebelling against him, refusing to pay tribute, and trusting an Egyptian pharaoh for help.

21:3-7 Zedekiah's request for prayer was wishful thinking (v. 2). He would not listen to God's word (e.g., 32:3) and yet was hoping for a miracle from him. The response to this presumptuousness was that not only would there be no miracle, but God himself would fight against Zedekiah (vv. 4-6). His outstretched hand and strong arm (v. 5) recall his mighty hand and outstretched arm used to perform wonderful works to save Israel from Egypt (e.g., Dt 4:34; 5:15; 7:19). Now these are turned against them in judgment.

21:8-10 In another allusion to the Pentateuch (see previous note), Jerusalem was presented with a choice between life and death. Whereas the choice in Deuteronomy 30:15-20 had to do with obeying God's commands generally, the choice here has to do with the specific instruction to surrender to the besieging Babylonians. Those who stay in the city and try to fight against the Babylonians (the Chaldeans) will die, but those who go out and surrender to them will live (21:9).

21:11-14 Jeremiah is to focus attention on the king of Judah, who represents the House of David (22:1-2). The king was commanded to do justice and righteousness (v. 12; 22:3), but his failure subjected the nation to the judgment of the Lord (vv. 13-14; 22:5-9).

JUDGMENT AGAINST SINFUL KINGS

22 This is what the LORD says: “Go down to the palace of the king of Judah and announce this word there. 2 You are to say, ‘Hear the word of the LORD, king of Judah, you who sit on the throne of David † — you, your officers, and your people who enter these gates. 3 This is what the LORD says: Administer justice and righteousness. † Rescue the victim of robbery from his oppressor. † Don’t exploit or brutalize the resident alien, the fatherless, or the widow. † Don’t shed innocent blood in this place. 4 For if you conscientiously carry out this word, then kings sitting on David’s throne will enter through the gates of this palace † riding on chariots and horses — they, their officers, and their people. 5 But if you do not obey these words, then I swear by myself † — this is the LORD’s declaration — that this house will become a ruin.’ ” †
6 For this is what the LORD says concerning the house of the king of Judah:

“You are like Gilead † to me, or the summit of Lebanon, but I will certainly turn you into a wilderness, uninhabited cities.
7 I will set apart destroyers † against you, each with his weapons.
They will cut down the choicest of your cedars and throw them into the fire.

8 “Many nations will pass by this city and ask one another, ‘Why did the LORD do such a thing to this great city? ’ 9 They will answer, ‘Because they abandoned the covenant † of the LORD their God and bowed in worship to other gods and served them.’ ” †

A MESSAGE CONCERNING SHALLUM

10 Do not weep for the dead; do not mourn for him.
Weep bitterly for the one who has gone away, for he will never return again and see his native land. †

11 For this is what the LORD says concerning Shallum † son of Josiah, king of Judah, who became king in place of his father Josiah, and who has left this place: “He will never return here again, 12 but he will die in the place where they deported him, never seeing this land again.”

A MESSAGE CONCERNING JEHOIAKIM

13 Woe for the one who builds his palace through unrighteousness, † his upstairs rooms through injustice, who makes his neighbor serve without pay and will not give him his wages, †
14 who says, “I will build myself a massive palace, with spacious upstairs rooms.”
He will cut windows † in it, and it will be paneled with cedar † and painted bright red.
15 Are you a king because you excel in cedar?
Didn’t your father eat and drink and administer justice and righteousness? †
Then it went well with him.
16 He took up the case of the poor and needy; †
then it went well.
Is this not what it means to know me?
This is the LORD’s declaration.
17 But you have eyes and a heart for nothing except your own dishonest profit, shedding innocent blood and committing extortion and oppression. †

18 Therefore, this is what the LORD says concerning Jehoiakim † son of Josiah, king of Judah:

They will not mourn for him, saying,
“Woe, my brother! ” or “Woe, my sister! ”
They will not mourn for him, saying,
“Woe, lord! Woe, his majesty! ” 19 He will be buried like a donkey, † dragged off and thrown outside Jerusalem’s gates.
20 Go up to Lebanon and cry out; raise your voice in Bashan; cry out from Abarim, †

for all your lovers † have been crushed. † 21 I spoke to you when you were secure.
You said, “I will not listen.”
This has been your way since youth; † indeed, you have never listened to me.
22 The wind will take charge of † all your shepherds, and your lovers will go into captivity.
Then you will be ashamed and humiliated † because of all your evil.
23 You residents of Lebanon, nestled among the cedars, how you will groan † when pains come on you, agony like a woman in labor. †

A MESSAGE CONCERNING CONIAH

24 “As I live” — this is the LORD’s declaration — “though you, Coniah † † son of Jehoiakim, the king of Judah, were a signet ring † on my right hand, I would tear you from it. 25 In fact, I will hand you over to those you dread, † who intend to take your life, to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon and the Chaldeans. 26 I will hurl you and the mother who gave birth † to you into another land, † where neither of you were born, and there you will both die. 27 They will never return to the land they long to return to.”

28 Is this man Coniah a despised, shattered pot, †
a jar no one wants?
Why are he and his descendants hurled out and cast into a land they have not known?
29 Earth, earth, earth, hear the word of the LORD!

30 This is what the LORD says:

Record this man as childless, †
a man who will not be successful in his lifetime.
None of his descendants will succeed in sitting on the throne of David † or ruling again in Judah.

22:1-5 God instructs Jeremiah to go down to the palace and announce his word to the king of Judah who sits on David's throne. He begins by describing the justice and righteousness that the king was supposed to foster in his realm by showing particular concern for those who were vulnerable. If the king does not do these things that are so important to God, then God swears that this house will become a ruin (v. 5).

22:10-12 The focus on the Davidic kings ruling Judah continues with the addressing of individual kings, beginning with Shallum son of Josiah (v. 11). Also known as Jehoahaz (2Kg 23:30-34), he had been exiled to Egypt and would never return.

22:13-19 The next Davidic king to reign and be addressed here was Jehoiakim, Shallum's brother (v. 18; 2Kg 23:34–24:6). Jehoiakim built up his house through unrighteousness and injustice (v. 13), contrary to his father Josiah's example (vv. 15-16) and God's instruction (v. 3). He was guilty of shedding innocent blood and committing extortion (v. 17) and so would be dishonored when he died (vv. 18-19).

22:24-28 The third Davidic king addressed in this chapter is Jehoiakim's son Coniah, also known as Jehoiachin (2Kg 24:6-16). He would be handed over to Nebuchadnezzar and die as an exile in Babylon (vv. 25-27), in a fate much like that of his predecessor Shallum (vv. 11-12). Like his father Jehoiakim (vv. 18-19), Coniah would also be dishonored and unwanted (v. 28; 19:10-11). A signet ring functioned as a royal seal and was normally precious to its owner (v. 24; Hg 2:23).

22:29 The threefold repetition of earth parallels the similar repetition of the "temple of the LORD" in 7:4 (see Is 6:3).

22:30 The centuries-long rule of the Davidic dynasty shortly would come to an end. Although Jehoiachin did have sons (1Ch 3:17-18), none of them would be king. His successor, Zedekiah, was his uncle and would be the last king of Judah (2Kg 24:17). He too would be given into the hands of the Babylonians (21:7). The endurance of the Davidic throne had depended on obedience to God (vv. 2-4; 17:24-25), and the last four kings of Judah, as described in these last two chapters, provide ample reason for the end of this dynasty (see 15:4).

THE LORD AND HIS SHEEP

23 "Woe to the shepherds who destroy and scatter the sheep of my pasture!" † This is the LORD's declaration. 2 "Therefore, this is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says about the shepherds who tend my people: You have scattered my flock, † banished them, and have not attended to them. † I am about to attend to you because of your evil acts" — this is the LORD's declaration. 3 "I will gather the remnant of my flock from all the lands where I have banished them, † and I will return them to their grazing land. They will become fruitful and numerous. † 4 I will raise up shepherds over them who will tend them. † They will no longer be afraid or discouraged, nor will any be missing." † This is the LORD's declaration.

THE RIGHTEOUS BRANCH OF DAVID

5 "Look, the days are coming" † — this is the LORD's declaration — "when I will raise up a Righteous Branch for David. † He will reign wisely as king and administer justice and righteousness in the land. †
6 In his days Judah will be saved, and Israel will dwell securely. †
This is the name he will be called:
The LORD Is Our Righteousness. † †

7 "Look, the days are coming" † — the LORD's declaration — "when it will no longer be said, 'As the LORD lives † who brought the Israelites from the land of Egypt,' 8 but, 'As the LORD lives, who brought and led the descendants of the house of Israel from the land of the north and from all the other countries where I † had banished them.' They will dwell once more in their own land." †

FALSE PROPHETS CONDEMNED

9 Concerning the prophets:

My heart is broken within me, †
and all my bones tremble.
I have become like a drunkard,
like a man overcome by wine,
because of the LORD, because of his holy words.
10 For the land is full of adulterers; † the land mourns † because of the curse, † and the grazing lands in the wilderness have dried up.

Their way of life † has become evil, and their power is not rightly used 11 because both prophet and priest are ungodly, † even in my house † I have found their evil.
This is the LORD's declaration.
12 Therefore, their way will seem like slippery paths in the gloom. †
They will be driven away and fall down there, for I will bring disaster on them,
the year of their punishment. †
This is the LORD's declaration.

13 Among the prophets of Samaria I saw something disgusting:
They prophesied by Baal and led my people Israel astray. †
14 Among the prophets of Jerusalem also I saw a horrible thing: †
They commit adultery and walk in lies.
They strengthen the hands of evildoers, and none turns his back on evil.
They are all like Sodom † to me; Jerusalem's residents are like Gomorrah.

15 Therefore, this is what the LORD of Armies says concerning the prophets:

I am about to feed them wormwood † and give them poisoned water to drink, † for from the prophets of Jerusalem ungodliness † has spread throughout the land.

16 This is what the LORD of Armies says: "Do not listen to the words of the prophets who prophesy to you. They are deluding you. They speak visions from their own minds, † not from the LORD's mouth. † 17 They keep on saying to those who despise me, † 'The LORD has spoken: You will have peace.' † They have said to everyone who follows the stubbornness of his heart, 'No harm will come to you.' "

18 For who has stood in the council † of the LORD to see and hear his word?

Who has paid attention to his word and obeyed?
19 Look, a storm from the LORD! †
Wrath has gone out,
a whirling storm.
It will whirl about the heads of the wicked.
20 The LORD's anger will not turn away † until he has completely fulfilled the purposes of his heart.
In time to come you will understand it clearly. †

21 I did not send out these prophets, † yet they ran. †
I did not speak to them,
yet they prophesied.
22 If they had really stood in my council, they would have enabled my people to hear my words and would have turned them from their evil ways and their evil deeds. †

23 "Am I a God who is only near" † — this is the LORD's declaration — "and not a God who is far away? 24 Can a person hide in secret places where I cannot see him? " † — the LORD's declaration. "Do I not fill the heavens and the earth? " † — the LORD's declaration.
25 "I have heard what the prophets who prophesy a lie in my name have said: 'I had a dream! I had a dream! ' † 26 How long will this continue in the minds of the prophets prophesying lies, prophets of the deceit of their own minds? 27 Through their dreams that they tell one another, they plan to cause my people to forget my name as their fathers forgot my name through Baal worship. †
28 The prophet who has only a dream should recount the dream, but the one who has my word should speak my word truthfully, for what is straw compared to grain? " — this is the LORD's declaration. 29 "Is not my word like fire" — this is the LORD's declaration — "and like a hammer that pulverizes rock? 30 Therefore, take note! I am against the prophets" † — the LORD's declaration — "who steal my words from each other. 31 I am against the prophets" — the LORD's declaration — "who use their own tongues to make a declaration. 32 I am against those who prophesy false dreams” † — the LORD’s declaration — “telling them and leading my people astray with their reckless lies. It was not I who sent or commanded them, and they are of no benefit at all † to these people” — this is the LORD’s declaration.

THE BURDEN OF THE LORD

33 “Now when these people or a prophet or a priest asks you, ‘What is the burden † of the LORD? ’ you will respond to them, ‘What is the burden? I will throw you away! This is the LORD’s declaration.’ 34 As for the prophet, priest, or people who say, ‘The burden of the LORD,’ I will punish that man and his household. 35 This is what each man is to say to his friend and to his brother: ‘What has the LORD answered? ’ or ‘What has the LORD spoken? ’ 36 But no longer refer to † the burden of the LORD, for each man’s word becomes his burden and you pervert the words of the living God, the LORD of Armies, our God. 37 Say to the prophet, ‘What has the LORD answered you? ’ or ‘What has the LORD spoken? ’ 38 But if you say, ‘The burden of the LORD,’ then this is what the LORD says: Because you have said, ‘The burden of the LORD,’ and I specifically told you not to say, ‘The burden of the LORD,’ 39 I will surely forget you. † I will throw you away from my presence — both you and the city that I gave you and your fathers. 40 I will bring on you everlasting disgrace and humiliation † that will never be forgotten.”

23:1-4 The shepherds (leaders) of the people had not cared for them and would be punished as a result (2:8; 10:21). Jeremiah was the exception to the rule (17:16). In view of the preceding and following context, these words of judgment would seem to apply especially to the kings of Judah. Nevertheless, just as in 3:14-16, God promised to regather his people and give them good shepherds so that they would become fruitful and numerous (v. 3; 31:10; Dt 30:3-5).

23:5-6 The emphasis on the fall of the house of David and the exile of Judah in the preceding passages provides the foundation for a significant messianic prophecy. God's promise to David of an everlasting kingdom still stood (see the note on 2Sm 7:8-16) and would be fulfilled by a Righteous Branch. This expression probably refers to the legitimate heir of a king. In keeping with God's requirements and in contrast with some Davidic kings (21:12; 22:3,13), he will administer justice and righteousness (Is 9:7). Under his wise reign, both Judah and Israel will dwell securely in the land (v. 6) after having returned from exile (v. 3).

23:7-8 The glory of the future redemption described in vv. 3-6 will exceed that of God's delivery of his people from Egypt (see the note on 16:14-15). Whereas that first deliverance led to Israel dwelling in the land temporarily, God will regather them to live in the land permanently under the Messiah's rule (see Ps 147:2; Jn 10:16).

23:9-15 Following the genuine prophecies of salvation after severe judgment (vv. 3-8), the focus turns to false prophets who had corrupted Israel and Judah.

23:16-20 The false prophets' denial of impending judgment through assurances of peace (v. 17; 4:10; 6:14; 8:11) filled the people with false hope. This conflicted with Jeremiah's message, which spoke of salvation after judgment and therefore made him worthless in the eyes of the people. Yet, the false prophets spoke from their own minds, not from God (vv. 16,21). Nevertheless, God's word of judgment would be vindicated, and his people would understand it clearly (vv. 18-20). The Hebrew phrase translated in time to come is the same phrase translated "in the last days" in Isaiah 2:2 (see the notes on Gn 49:1,8-12; Is 2:2-4).

23:21-22 The problem with the false prophets is that they had not truly been sent by God and had never even stood in his council (vv. 18,22). They had not received a word from him and so could not declare it to the people.

23:25-29 The false prophets claimed to have revelation in dreams, but God states that these are lies (v. 26). Their words were empty, but his word has power like fire and like a hammer (v. 29; see "Biblical Formation" on p. 1504). The prophets were attempting to convince the people of Judah to oppose Nebuchadnezzar, but God's will was that they submit to the Babylonians and surrender.

THE GOOD AND THE BAD FIGS

24 After King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon had deported Jeconiah † son of Jehoiakim king of Judah, the officials of Judah, and the craftsmen and metalsmiths † from Jerusalem and had brought them to Babylon, the LORD showed me two baskets of figs † placed in front of the temple of the LORD. 2 One basket contained very good figs, like early figs, † but the other basket contained very bad figs, so bad they were inedible. 3 The LORD said to me, “What do you see, Jeremiah? ”

I said, “Figs! The good figs are very good, but the bad figs are extremely bad, so bad they are inedible.”
4 The word of the LORD came to me: 5 “This is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says: Like these good figs, so I regard as good the exiles from Judah I sent away from this place to the land of the Chaldeans. 6 I will keep my eyes on them for their good † and will return them to this land. I will build them up and not demolish them; I will plant them and not uproot them. † 7 I will give them a heart to know me, † that I am the LORD. They will be my people, and I will be their God because they will return to me with all their heart. † 8 “But as for the bad figs, so bad they are inedible, † this is what the LORD says:
In this way I will deal with King Zedekiah of Judah, his officials, and the remnant of Jerusalem — those remaining in this land or living in the land of Egypt. † 9 I will make them an object of horror † and a disaster to all the kingdoms of the earth, an example for disgrace, scorn, ridicule, † and cursing, wherever I have banished them. † 10 I will send the sword, famine, and plague † against them until they have perished from the land I gave to them and their ancestors.”

24:1-3 As predicted in 22:24-27, Jeconiah (also known as Coniah or Jehoiachin) was taken by Nebuchadnezzar and exiled to Babylon (v. 1; 2Kg 24:11-16). The difference between the two baskets of figs is unmistakable: as the good figs are very good, the bad figs are extremely bad.

24:4-7 The basket of good figs stood for King Jeconiah and those already exiled in 597 BC (vv. 1,5; 2Kg 25:27-30; Dn 1:1-4). Ultimately, God will gather them, build them up, and plant them (v. 6; 1:10; 31:28). His giving them a heart to know [him] (v. 7) solves the problem posed in Deuteronomy 29:4 and Isaiah 6:9-10. Unlike in 3:10, they will return to [God] with all their heart (see 4:1; Dt 30:1-2).

24:8-10 King Zedekiah and those remaining in the land were bad figs and had no such hope. Neither would fleeing to Egypt provide escape from destruction and disgrace (see Jr 44).

THE SEVENTY-YEAR EXILE

25 This is the word that came to Jeremiah concerning all the people of Judah in the fourth year of Jehoiakim † son of Josiah, king of Judah

(which was the first year of King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon). 2 The prophet Jeremiah spoke concerning all the people of Judah and all the residents of Jerusalem as follows: 3 "From the thirteenth year of Josiah son of Amon, † king of Judah, until this very day — twenty-three years — the word of the LORD has come to me, and I have spoken to you time and time again, † † but you have not obeyed. 4 The LORD sent all his servants the prophets to you time and time again, † but you have not obeyed or even paid attention. † † 5 He announced, 'Turn, each of you, from your evil way of life and from your evil deeds. † Live in the land the LORD gave to you and your ancestors long ago and forever. † 6 Do not follow other gods to serve them and to bow in worship to them, † and do not anger me by the work of your hands. † Then I will do you no harm.
7 " 'But you have not obeyed me' — this is the LORD's declaration — 'with the result that you have angered me by the work of your hands and brought disaster on yourselves.'
8 "Therefore, this is what the LORD of Armies says: 'Because you have not obeyed my words, 9 I am going to send for all the families of the north' † — this is the LORD's declaration — 'and send for my servant † Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and I will bring them against this land, against its residents, and against all these surrounding nations, and I will completely destroy them and make them an example of horror † and scorn, and ruins forever. † 10 I will eliminate the sound of joy and gladness from them — the voice of the groom and the bride, † the sound of the millstones and the light of the lamp. 11 This whole land will become a desolate ruin, and these nations will serve the king of Babylon for seventy years. † 12 When the seventy years are completed, I will punish the king of Babylon and that nation' — this is the LORD's declaration —
'the land of the Chaldeans, for their iniquity, and I will make it a ruin forever. † 13 I will bring on that land all my words I have spoken against it, all that is written in this book that Jeremiah prophesied against all the nations. 14 For many nations and great kings will enslave them, and I will repay them according to their deeds and the work of their hands.' " †

THE CUP OF GOD'S WRATH

15 This is what the LORD, the God of Israel, said to me: “Take this cup of the wine of wrath from my hand and make all the nations to whom I am sending you drink from it. † 16 They will drink, stagger, † and go out of their minds because of the sword I am sending among them.” †
17 So I took the cup from the LORD’s hand and made all the nations to whom the LORD sent me drink from it.

18 Jerusalem and the other cities of Judah, its kings and its officials, to make them a desolate ruin, an example for scorn and cursing — as it is today;
19 Pharaoh king of Egypt, his officers, his leaders, all his people, 20 and all the mixed peoples;
all the kings of the land of Uz;
all the kings of the land of the Philistines — Ashkelon, Gaza, Ekron, and the remnant of Ashdod; 21 Edom, Moab, and the Ammonites;

all the kings of Sidon,

23 Dedan, Tema, Buz, and all those who clip the hair on their temples; † † 24 all the kings of Arabia, and all the kings of the mixed peoples who have settled in the desert; 25 all the kings of Zimri,
all the kings of Elam,
and all the kings of Media;
26 all the kings of the north, both near and far from one another;
that is, all the kingdoms of the world throughout the earth.

Finally, the king of Sheshach † † will drink after them.

27 "Then you are to say to them, 'This is what the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel, says: Drink, † get drunk, and vomit. Fall down and never get up again, as a result of the sword I am sending among you.' 28 If † they refuse to accept the cup from your hand and drink, you are to say to them, 'This is what the LORD of Armies says: You must drink! 29 For I am already bringing disaster † on the city that bears my name, † so how could you possibly go unpunished? You will not go unpunished, for I am summoning a sword against all the inhabitants of the earth. This is the declaration of the LORD of Armies.' †

JUDGMENT ON THE WHOLE WORLD

30 "As for you, you are to prophesy all these things to them, and say to them:

The LORD roars from on high; he makes his voice heard from his holy dwelling. †
He roars loudly over his grazing land;
he calls out with a shout, like those who tread grapes, against all the inhabitants of the earth.
31 The tumult reaches to the ends of the earth because the LORD brings a case against † the nations.
He enters into judgment with all people. †
As for the wicked, he hands them over to the sword — this is the LORD's declaration.

32 "This is what the LORD of Armies says:

Pay attention! Disaster spreads from nation to nation.
A huge storm is stirred up
from the ends of the earth." †

33 Those slain by the LORD † on that day will be scattered from one end of the earth to the other. They will not be mourned, † gathered, or buried. They will be like manure on the soil's surface.

34 Wail, you shepherds, and cry out.
Roll in the dust, † you leaders of the flock.
Because the days of your slaughter have come, † you will fall and become shattered like a precious vase.
35 Flight will be impossible for the shepherds, and escape, for the leaders of the flock.
36 Hear the sound of the shepherds' cry, the wail of the leaders of the flock, for the LORD is destroying their pasture.
37 Peaceful grazing land will become lifeless because of the LORD's burning anger. † 38 He has left his den like a lion, for their land has become a desolation because of the sword † of the oppressor, † because of his burning anger.

25:1 This chapter is out of order chronologically relative to the previous one (see 24:1). Nevertheless, it relates to the "good figs" (24:4-7) through its specification of an extended waiting period ("seventy years" in vv. 11-12; see 27:16; 28:3) and the punishment of Israel's enemies (25:11-14).

25:3 Jeremiah had been preaching for twenty-three years, but the people had not listened. He would faithfully continue for many more years (see 32:1).

25:8-9 Judah's stubborn disobedience would lead to judgment at the hands of all the families of the north (v. 8; 1:15; see the note on 3:11-13). Not only Judah but all these surrounding nations would be punished (v. 9). God calls King Nebuchadnezzar of the Babylonians his servant not because Nebuchadnezzar willingly serves and worships the God of Israel, but because he is fulfilling God's will and purposes in history (cp. Is 44:28–45:1 where God calls Cyrus his "shepherd" and his "anointed").

25:12 Jeremiah prophesies that when the seventy years are completed, God will punish the king of Babylon for his guilt. Thus, in God's mysterious providence, he uses Nebuchadnezzar to accomplish his purposes even though Nebuchadnezzar is doing what is evil and must be punished (cp. Is 10:5,12). The seventy years might refer to the time between the destruction of Jerusalem (587 BC) and the rededication of the temple (515 BC). Alternatively, it may refer to the time of Babylon's dominance: from the fall of Nineveh (612 BC) to Cyrus's defeat of Babylon (539 BC).

25:15-17 The preceding judgment evidently concerned not only Judah and some other nations (vv. 9,11) but all the nations (v. 13). This worldwide scope continues with the figurative passing of the cup of the wine of wrath to all the nations to which Jeremiah was sent (vv. 15,17). These include "all the kingdoms of the world throughout the earth" (v. 26), with Sheshach (Babylon, v. 27; 51:41) as the last to drink from God's wrath.

25:27-29 Drinking from the cup of divine wrath results in falling down and never rising again. This is likewise described as God's sending a sword against all the inhabitants of the earth.

25:30-32 The phrase all the inhabitants of the earth appears again related to the Lord's judgment of the world (v. 30), as it does elsewhere in Jeremiah (1:14; 13:13). The imagery of God treading grapes is used similarly in Isaiah 63:1-6. Even the ends of the earth (vv. 31-32) are subject to his entering into judgment with all people (v. 31). The storm is also a metaphor for judgment in 23:19.

25:33 There will be so many dead that corpses will lie like manure on the ground. The judgment of Judah was similarly described (8:2; 9:22; 16:4; 19:7), thus providing another link between its judgment and that of the world (vv. 9-14,17-26).

JEREMIAH'S SPEECH IN THE TEMPLE

26 At the beginning of the reign of Jehoiakim † son of Josiah, king of Judah, this word came from the LORD: 2 "This is what the LORD says: Stand in the courtyard of the LORD's temple and speak all the words I have commanded you to speak to all Judah's cities that are coming to worship there. Do not hold back a word. † 3 Perhaps they will listen and turn — each from his evil way of life — so that I might relent † concerning the disaster that I plan to do to them because of the evil of their deeds. 4 You are to say to them, 'This is what the LORD says: If you do not listen to me by living according to my instruction that I set before you † 5 and by listening to the words of my servants the prophets † — whom I have been sending to you time and time again, † † though you did not listen — 6 I will make this temple like Shiloh. † I will make this city an example for cursing for all the nations of the earth.' "

JEREMIAH SEIZED

7 The priests, the prophets, and all the people heard Jeremiah speaking these words in the temple of the LORD. 8 When he finished the address the LORD had commanded him to deliver to all the people, immediately the priests, the prophets, and all the people took hold of him, yelling, “You must surely die!

9 How dare you prophesy in the name of the LORD, ‘This temple will become like Shiloh and this city will become an uninhabited ruin’! ” Then all the people crowded around Jeremiah at the LORD’s temple.
10 When the officials of Judah heard about these things, they went from the king’s palace to the LORD’s temple and sat at the entrance of the New Gate of the LORD’s temple. † † 11 Then the priests and prophets said to the officials and all the people, “This man deserves the death sentence because he has prophesied against this city, as you have heard with your own ears.” †

JEREMIAH’S DEFENSE

12 Then Jeremiah said to all the officials and all the people, “The LORD sent me to prophesy all the words that you have heard against this temple and city. 13 So now, correct your ways and deeds, † and obey the LORD your God so that he might relent concerning the disaster he had pronounced against you. 14 As for me, here I am in your hands; do to me what you think is good and right. 15 But know for certain that if you put me to death, you will bring innocent blood † on yourselves, on this city, and on its residents, for it is certain the LORD has sent me to speak all these things directly to you.”

JEREMIAH RELEASED

16 Then the officials and all the people told the priests and prophets, “This man doesn’t deserve the death sentence, for he has spoken to us in the name of the LORD our God! ”
17 Some of the elders of the land stood up † and said to all the assembled people, 18 “Micah the Moreshite † prophesied in the days of King Hezekiah of Judah † and said to all the people of Judah, ‘This is what the LORD of Armies says:

Zion will be plowed like a field,
Jerusalem will become ruins, and the temple’s mountain will be a high thicket.’ †

19 Did King Hezekiah of Judah and all the people of Judah put him to death?
Did not the king fear the LORD and plead for the LORD’s favor, † † and did not the LORD relent concerning the disaster he had pronounced against them? † We are about to bring a terrible disaster on ourselves! ”

THE PROPHET URIAH

20 Another man was also prophesying in the name of the LORD — Uriah son of Shemaiah from Kiriath-jearim. † He prophesied against this city and against this land in words like all those of Jeremiah. 21 King Jehoiakim, all his warriors, and all the officials heard his words, and the king tried to put him to death. When Uriah heard, he fled in fear and went to Egypt. 22 But King Jehoiakim sent men to Egypt: Elnathan son of Achbor † and certain other men with him went to Egypt. 23 They brought Uriah out of Egypt and took him to King Jehoiakim, who executed him with the sword and threw his corpse into the burial place of the common people. †

24 But Ahikam † son of Shaphan supported Jeremiah, so he was not handed over to the people to be put to death.

26:1-6 This message that Jeremiah preached in the temple courtyard is reminiscent of Jeremiah 7. Both sermons called for repentance (v. 3; 7:3-11) accompanied by the threat of the temple becoming like Shiloh if the people did not listen (vv. 4-6; 7:12-14). Despite their pattern of disobedience (v. 5), God still gave them a chance to repent and avert disaster (v. 3; 18:7-8).

26:7-11 Jeremiah’s message of judgment against the temple and Jerusalem resulted in serious opposition from the priests, prophets, and all the people (vv. 7-8), who initially wanted to put him to death (vv. 8,11).

26:12-15 Despite the threat to his life, Jeremiah did not deny or soften the message God had given him to preach. He had been specifically instructed not to “hold back a word” (26:2; see Dt 4:2). Jeremiah reaffirmed that what he had spoken was from God (v. 12) and reiterated the call for repentance (v. 13), while warning them against killing him (vv. 14-15).

26:16-17 The change of heart of the officials, all the people, and some . . . elders is ironic because it raises the question as to why they did not listen to Jeremiah in the first place.

26:18-19 Micah the Moreshite is the prophet whose book bears his name (Mc 1:1). He had ministered several generations before under Hezekiah, and his quoted words parallel Micah 3:12.

26:24 In view of Uriah’s execution by the current king (vv. 1,20-23), the sparing of Jeremiah’s life was all the more extraordinary (vv. 16-19,24).

THE YOKE OF BABYLON

27 At the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah † son of Josiah, king of Judah, † this word came to Jeremiah from the LORD: † 2 This is what the LORD said to me: “Make chains and yoke bars † for yourself and put them on your neck. † 3 Send word to the king of Edom, the king of Moab, the king of the Ammonites, the king of Tyre, and the king of Sidon † through messengers who are coming to King Zedekiah of Judah in Jerusalem. 4 Command them to go to their masters, saying, ‘This is what the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel, says: Tell this to your masters: 5 “By my great strength and outstretched arm, † I made the earth, † and the people, and animals on the face of the earth. I give it to anyone I please. † † 6 So now I have placed all these lands under the authority of my servant † Nebuchadnezzar, † king of Babylon. I have even given him the wild animals to serve him. 7 All nations will serve him, his son, and his grandson until the time for his own land comes, and then many nations and great kings will enslave him. †

8 “ ‘ “As for the nation or kingdom that does not serve King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon and does not place its neck under the yoke of the king of Babylon, that nation I will punish by sword, famine, and plague — this is the LORD’s declaration — until through him I have destroyed it. 9 So you should not listen to your prophets, diviners, † dreamers, fortune-tellers, † or sorcerers † who say to you, ‘Don’t serve the king of Babylon! ’ 10 They are prophesying a lie † to you so that you will be removed from your land. I will banish you, and you will perish. 11 But as for the nation that will put its neck under the yoke of the king of Babylon and serve him, I will leave it in its own land, and that nation will cultivate † it and reside in it. This is the LORD’s declaration.” ’ ”

WARNING TO ZEDEKIAH

12 I spoke to King Zedekiah of Judah † in the same way: “Put your necks under the yoke of the king of Babylon, serve him and his people, and live! 13 Why should you and your people die † by the sword, famine, and plague as the LORD has threatened against any nation that does not serve the king of Babylon? 14 Do not listen to the words of the prophets who are telling you, ‘Don’t serve the king of Babylon,’ for they are prophesying a lie to you. † 15 ‘I have not sent them’ — this is the LORD’s declaration — ‘and they are prophesying falsely in my name; therefore, I will banish you, and you will perish — you and the prophets who are prophesying to you.’ ”

16 Then I spoke to the priests and all these people, saying, “This is what the LORD says: ‘Do not listen to the words of your prophets. They are prophesying to you, claiming, “Look, very soon now the articles of the LORD’s temple will be brought back from Babylon.” † They are prophesying a lie to you. 17 Do not listen to them. Serve the king of Babylon and live! Why should this city become a ruin? † 18 If they are indeed prophets and if the word of the LORD is with them, let them intercede with the LORD of Armies not to let the articles that remain in the LORD’s temple, in the palace of the king of Judah, and in Jerusalem go to Babylon.’ 19 For this is what the LORD of Armies says about the pillars, the basin, † the water carts, † and the rest of the articles that still remain in this city, 20 those King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon did not take when he deported Jeconiah † son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, from Jerusalem to Babylon along with all the nobles of Judah † and Jerusalem. 21 Yes, this is what the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel, says about the articles that remain in the temple of the LORD, in the palace of the king of Judah, and in Jerusalem: 22 ‘They will be taken to Babylon and will remain there until I attend to them again.’ † This is the LORD’s declaration. ‘Then I will bring them up and restore them to this place.’ ” †

27:1-7 This prophecy was given during Zedekiah’s reign (vv. 1,3,12; see 26:1), but the subject matter is continuous with the preceding chapters given during Jehoiakim’s rule. As in 25:8-29, Nebuchadnezzar and the Babylonians come not only to punish Judah but also neighboring nations (vv. 3,6). On Nebuchadnezzar as God’s servant (v. 6), see the note on 25:8-9. All nations will serve Babylon for three generations before judgment comes on that country (v. 7; 25:11-14).

27:8-15 Jeremiah's message of judgment was again accompanied by an object lesson (18:1-6; 19:1-2,10; 24:1-3; 25:15-17), this time a yoke (vv. 2,8,11,12). The point was that Judah and their neighbors were to submit to Babylon and serve them (vv. 8-12,17; 21:8-10). The alternative was sword, famine, and plague (vv. 8,13), despite what the false prophets said (vv. 9-10,14-15).

27:16 The Babylonians had previously looted the temple and taken its articles (objects and furnishings) into exile along with Jeconiah and others. The false prophets claimed that Judah should not serve the king of Babylon (vv. 9,14) because these articles would be returned very soon (see vv. 19-20; 25:11-12; the note on 28:2-4). But this was a lie.

27:18-22 Not only were the false prophets wrong about the temple articles being returned soon (v. 16; 25:11-12) but the remaining articles would be taken as well.

HANANIAH'S FALSE PROPHECY

28 In that same year, at the beginning of the reign of King Zedekiah of Judah, † in the fifth month of the fourth year, the prophet Hananiah son of Azzur from Gibeon † said to me in the temple of the LORD in the presence of the priests and all the people, 2 "This is what the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel, says: 'I have broken the yoke of the king of Babylon. † 3 Within two years I will restore to this place all the articles of the LORD's temple † that King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon took from here and transported to Babylon. 4 And I will restore to this place Jeconiah † son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, and all the exiles from Judah † who went to Babylon' — this is the LORD's declaration — 'for I will break the yoke of the king of Babylon.' "

JEREMIAH'S RESPONSE TO HANANIAH

5 The prophet Jeremiah replied to the prophet Hananiah in the presence of the priests and all the people who were standing in the temple of the LORD. 6 The prophet Jeremiah said, "Amen! † May the LORD do that. May the LORD make the words you have prophesied come true and may he restore the articles of the LORD's temple and all the exiles from Babylon to this place! 7 Only listen to this message I am speaking in your hearing and in the hearing of all the people. 8 The prophets who preceded you and me from ancient times prophesied war, disaster, † and plague against many lands and great kingdoms. 9 As for the prophet who prophesies peace — only when the word of the prophet comes true will the prophet be recognized as one the LORD has truly sent." †

HANANIAH BREAKS JEREMIAH'S YOKE

10 The prophet Hananiah then took the yoke bar from the neck of the prophet Jeremiah and broke it.† 11 In the presence of all the people Hananiah proclaimed, “This is what the LORD says: ‘In this way, within two years I will break the yoke of King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon from the neck of all the nations.’ ” The prophet Jeremiah then went on his way.

THE LORD’S WORD AGAINST HANANIAH

12 After the prophet Hananiah had broken the yoke bar from the neck of the prophet Jeremiah, the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: 13 “Go say to Hananiah, ‘This is what the LORD says: You broke a wooden yoke bar, but in its place you will make an iron yoke bar. 14 For this is what the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel, says: I have put an iron yoke on the neck of all these nations that they might serve King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon,† and they will serve him.† I have even put the wild animals under him.’ ”†
15 The prophet Jeremiah said to the prophet Hananiah, “Listen, Hananiah! The LORD did not send you, but you have led these people to trust in a lie.†
16 Therefore, this is what the LORD says: ‘I am about to send you off the face of the earth. You will die this year because you have preached rebellion against the LORD.’ ”† 17 And the prophet Hananiah died that year in the seventh month.

28:2-4 Jeremiah had worn a yoke in 27:2 to symbolize the yoke of Babylon that had to be borne by Judah (27:8-11). Here the false prophet Hananiah (v. 1) declared in God’s name that this yoke had been broken (vv. 2,4) and that both the captured temple articles and the exiles would return home within two years (vv. 3-4; 2Kg 24:11-13). This message attempted to support the false hopes given in 27:16 but was contrary to Jeremiah’s true prophetic word in 25:11-12 (see Hs 3:4). Time would prove Hananiah a liar (v. 9).

28:12-17 Hananiah brazenly broke the wooden yoke bar from Jeremiah’s neck (v. 10) to add dramatic effect to his own message (vv. 2-4,11). Thus, God said that it would be replaced with one of iron (vv. 13-14), symbolizing a much harsher servitude. Moreover, the false prophet would die [that] year as an act of judgment against him (vv. 16-17) and as evidence of Jeremiah’s truthfulness (v. 9).

JEREMIAH’S LETTER TO THE EXILES

29 This is the text of the letter† that the prophet Jeremiah sent from Jerusalem to the remaining exiled elders, the priests, the prophets, and all the people Nebuchadnezzar† had deported from Jerusalem to Babylon.

2 This was after King Jeconiah, † † the queen mother, the court officials, the officials of Judah and Jerusalem, the craftsmen, and the metalsmiths had left Jerusalem. 3 He sent the letter with Elasah son of Shaphan and Gemariah son of Hilkiah, † whom Zedekiah king of Judah sent to Babylon to King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon. The letter stated:
4 This is what the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel, says to all the exiles I deported from Jerusalem to Babylon: 5 "Build houses and live in them. † Plant gardens and eat their produce. 6 Find wives for yourselves, and have sons and daughters. Find wives for your sons and give your daughters to men in marriage so that they may bear sons and daughters. Multiply there; do not decrease. †
7 Pursue the well-being † of the city I have deported you to. Pray to the LORD on its behalf, † for when it thrives, you will thrive."
8 For this is what the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel, says: "Don't let your prophets who are among you † and your diviners deceive you, † and don't listen to the dreams you elicit from them, 9 for they are prophesying falsely to you in my name. I have not sent them." † This is the LORD's declaration.
10 For this is what the LORD says: "When seventy years for Babylon are complete, † I will attend to you and will confirm my promise concerning you to restore you to this place. 11 For I know the plans I have for you" † — this is the LORD's declaration — "plans for your well-being, not for disaster, to give you a future and a hope. 12 You will call to me and come and pray to me, and I will listen to you. † 13 You will seek me † and find me when you search for me with all your heart. 14 I will be found by you" — this is the LORD's declaration — "and I will restore your fortunes † † and gather you from all the nations and places where I banished you" — this is the LORD's declaration. "I will restore you to the place from which I deported you." † 15 You have said, "The LORD has raised up prophets for us in Babylon! " 16 But this is what the LORD says concerning the king sitting on David's throne † and concerning all the people living in this city — that is, concerning your brothers who did not go with you into exile. 17 This is what the LORD of Armies says: "I am about to send sword, famine, and plague against them, † and I will make them like rotten figs that are inedible because they are so bad. 18 I will pursue them with sword, famine, and plague. I will make them a horror to all the kingdoms of the earth — a curse and a desolation, an object of scorn and a disgrace among all the nations † where I have banished them. † 19 I will do this because they have not listened to my words" — this is the LORD's declaration — "the words that I sent to them with my servants the prophets time and time again. † † And you too have not listened." This is the LORD's declaration.

20 Hear the word of the LORD, all you exiles I have sent from Jerusalem to Babylon. † 21 This is what the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel, says about Ahab son of Kolaiah and concerning Zedekiah son of Maaseiah, the ones prophesying a lie to you in my name: † "I am about to hand them over to King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon, and he will kill them before your very eyes. 22 Based on what happens to them, all the exiles of Judah who are in Babylon will create a curse † that says, 'May the LORD make you like Zedekiah and Ahab, whom the king of Babylon roasted in the fire!' † 23 because they have committed an outrage † in Israel by committing adultery with their neighbors' wives and have spoken in my name a lie, which I did not command them. I am he who knows, and I am a witness." This is the LORD's declaration.
24 To Shemaiah the Nehelamite you are to say, 25 "This is what the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel, says: You † in your own name have sent out letters to all the people of Jerusalem, to the priest Zephaniah † son of Maaseiah, and to all the priests, saying, 26 'The LORD has appointed you priest in place of the priest Jehoiada to be the chief officer † in the temple of the LORD, responsible for every madman † who acts like a prophet. You must confine him in the stocks † and an iron collar. 27 So now, why have you not rebuked Jeremiah of Anathoth who has been acting like a prophet among you? † 28 For he has sent word to us in Babylon, claiming, "The exile will be long. Build houses and settle down. Plant gardens and eat their produce." ' " † 29 The priest Zephaniah read this letter in the hearing of the prophet Jeremiah.

A MESSAGE ABOUT SHEMAIAH

30 Then the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: 31 "Send a message to all the exiles, saying, 'This is what the LORD says concerning Shemaiah the Nehelamite.

Because Shemaiah prophesied to you, though I did not send him, and made you trust a lie, † 32 this is what the LORD says: I am about to punish Shemaiah the Nehelamite and his descendants. There will not be even one of his descendants living among these people, † nor will any ever see the good that I will bring to my people — this is the LORD's declaration — for he has preached rebellion against the LORD.' " †

29:1-2 Jeremiah writes a letter and sends it, via a messenger, to those who were previously exiled to Babylon in 597 BC. Jeconiah and those exiled with him have been mentioned several times in the preceding context (27:20; 28:4,6; 2Kg 24:11-15). They are among the "good figs" (24:1-7).

29:4-10 Contrary to the lies of false prophets who predicted an imminent return (vv. 8-9,21; 27:16; 28:3-4,11), the truth was that there would be an extended waiting period of seventy years prior to restoration (v. 10; see the note on 25:12). As a result, the exiles should settle down and build houses, plant gardens, marry, and have children (vv. 5-6)—the latter instructions in contrast with 16:2-4. They were even to seek the well-being of their new city of residence and pray for it (v. 7; see "How Should Christians Relate to Government?" p. 1213). This perspective on life in exile is instructive for believers today who are also exiles in a country not their own (1Pt 1:1). Although seemingly a reversal of Genesis 12:3, Israel seeking the welfare of Gentiles' cities and themselves being blessed accords with loving unity between Jews and Gentiles who trust in Christ and passages such as Genesis 14:18-20 and Romans 11:11-14.

29:11 While it is true that from an eternal perspective God has good plans for believers (Ps 84:11; Rm 8:28), this oft-cited verse should be understood first with respect to its addressees: exiles who would have to wait an extended time for God to restore them (vv. 1-2,10). Despite their foreign environment, God's plans were for their well-being. Strikingly, this experience of blessing did not have to wait until they returned to the land (23:6; 33:6-9) but could be experienced in exile alongside their Gentile neighbors (v. 7). False prophets had repeatedly given false hope for such peace (6:14; 8:11; 30:5).

29:12-14 Answered prayer, wholehearted seeking of God, and regathering from exile will characterize Israel's glorious restoration (see Dt 4:29; 30:1-5; Is 65:24).

29:16-17 The king is Zedekiah (vv. 3,16) who, along with those remaining in the land, were like rotten figs (v. 17; 24:8-10).

29:27-28 The length of the exile was a major controversy (27:16; 28:2-4,11), and Shemaiah called for action against Jeremiah because of his insistence that it would be long (v. 28; see v. 10; 25:11-12).

29:31-32 Like Hananiah (28:15-17), Shemaiah was not sent by God and caused the people to trust a lie

(see the note on 17:5-8). He and his family would be similarly punished.

RESTORATION FROM CAPTIVITY

30 This is the word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD. 2 "This is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says: Write on a scroll all the words that I have spoken to you, † 3 for look, the days are coming" — this is the LORD's declaration — "when I will restore the fortunes † of my people Israel and Judah," † says the LORD. "I will restore them to the land I gave to their ancestors and they will possess it."
4 These are the words the LORD spoke to Israel and Judah. 5 This is what the LORD says:

We have heard a cry of terror,
of dread — there is no peace.
6 Ask and see whether a male can give birth.
Why then do I see every man with his hands on his stomach like a woman in labor and every face turned pale?
†
7 How awful that day will be! †
There will be no other like it! †
It will be a time of trouble for Jacob, but he will be saved out of it.

8 On that day — this is the declaration of the LORD of Armies — I will break his yoke from your neck † and tear off your chains, † and strangers will never again enslave him. † 9 They will serve the LORD their God and David their king, whom I will raise up for them. †

10 As for you, my servant Jacob, † do not be afraid —
this is the LORD's declaration — and do not be discouraged, Israel, for without fail I will save you out of a distant place, your descendants, from the land of their captivity!

Jacob will return and have calm and quiet
with no one to frighten him. †

11 For I will be with you — this is the LORD's declaration — to save you! †
I will bring destruction on all the nations where I have scattered you;
however, I will not bring destruction on you.
I will discipline you justly,
and I will by no means leave you unpunished. †

HEALING ZION'S WOUNDS

12 For this is what the LORD says:

Your injury is incurable;
your wound most severe. † 13 You have no defender for your case. †
There is no remedy for your sores, and no healing for you. † 14 All your lovers have forgotten you; † they no longer look for you, for I have struck you as an enemy would,
with the discipline † of someone cruel, † because of your enormous guilt
and your innumerable sins.
15 Why do you cry out about your injury?
Your pain has no cure!
I have done these things to you because of your enormous guilt
and your innumerable sins. †
16 Nevertheless, all who devoured you will be devoured, † and all your adversaries — all of them — will go off into exile.
Those who plunder you will be plundered, and all who raid you will be raided. † 17 But I will bring you health † and will heal you of your wounds — this is the LORD's declaration — for they call you Outcast, Zion whom no one cares about.

RESTORATION OF THE LAND

18 This is what the LORD says:

I will certainly restore the fortunes † of Jacob's tents † and show compassion † on his dwellings.
Every city will be rebuilt on its mound;
every citadel will stand on its proper site.
19 Thanksgiving will come out of them, a sound of rejoicing.
I will multiply them, and they will not decrease; †
I will honor them, and they will not be insignificant.
20 His children will be as in past days; his congregation will be established in my presence.
I will punish all his oppressors. †
21 Jacob's leader will be one of them; his ruler will issue from him.
I will invite him to me, and he will approach me, † for who would otherwise risk his life to approach me?
This is the LORD's declaration.
22 You will be my people, and I will be your God. †

THE WRATH OF GOD

23 Look, a storm from the LORD! †
Wrath has gone out,
a churning storm.
It will whirl about the heads of the wicked.
24 The LORD's burning anger will not turn back until he has completely fulfilled the purposes of his heart.
In time to come you will understand it. †

30:1-3 Jeremiah 30–31 focuses more extensively on the future (or eschatological) salvation of Israel than other sections of the book. Its message was to be written on a scroll, thus explicitly emphasizing that it is for others to read. What is written in Jeremiah is thus not only judgment (25:13; 36:2,28) but also salvation (1:10). This hopeful section begins the repetition of God's promise to restore the fortunes of his people and bring them back to the land (23:3; 29:14).

30:4 The phrasing of this verse resembles Exodus 19:6; 35:1; and Deuteronomy 1:1.

30:5-9 The terrible day of judgment is compared to birth pains (vv. 6-7; see Mt 24:8; 1Th 5:3), but Jacob will be saved out of it (v. 7; 23:6). The foreign yoke will be broken once and for all (27:2,8-12; 28:2-14; Is 9:4; 10:27; 14:25). Rather than serving foreigners, Israel will serve the LORD their God and David their king (v. 9). Hosea 3:5 similarly predicts that Israel will seek God and David in the last days. Both passages use the name "David" to refer to the Messiah (see Ezk 37:24-25), whom God will raise up in fulfillment of the covenant with his forefather (23:5; Dt 18:18; Ezk 34:23; Am 9:11).

30:17 Despite their incurable yet deserved wound (vv. 12-15; 14:17-19; Is 1:5-6), God would heal them (see 33:6). Names like Outcast are used of Zion in Isaiah 62:4.

30:18 God again declares that he will restore the fortunes of Jacob (see v. 3), this time in terms of their tents and dwellings (see Nm 24:5; Is 54:2).

30:21 The Hebrew text translated his ruler will issue from him resembles messianic passages elsewhere (see Nm 24:17-19; Mc 5:2), and this person is naturally equated with the Righteous Branch in 23:5. His special access to God recalls the ministry of Moses (Ex 20:21; 24:2).

30:23-24 These verses are almost identical to 23:19-20 (see the note on 23:16-20).

GOD'S RELATIONSHIP WITH HIS PEOPLE

31 "At that time" — this is the LORD's declaration — "I will be the God of all the families of Israel, † and they will be my people."

2 This is what the LORD says:

The people who survived the sword found favor in the wilderness. †
When Israel went to find rest, †
3 the LORD appeared to him † from far away.
I have loved you with an everlasting love; †

therefore, I have continued to extend faithful love to you. †

4 Again I will build you so that you will be rebuilt, Virgin Israel. †

You will take up your tambourines again † and go out in joyful dancing.

5 You will plant vineyards again † on the mountains of Samaria;

the planters will plant and will enjoy the fruit. †

6 For there will be a day when watchmen will call out in the hill country of Ephraim,

"Come, let's go up to Zion, † to the LORD our God! "

GOD'S PEOPLE BROUGHT HOME

7 For this is what the LORD says:

Sing with joy for Jacob;
shout for the foremost of the nations!
Proclaim, praise, and say,

"LORD, save your people, †

the remnant of Israel! " †

8 Watch! I am going to bring them from the northern land.

I will gather them from remote regions of the earth † — the blind and the lame will be with them, † along with those who are pregnant and those about to give birth.

They will return here as a great assembly! †

9 They will come weeping, but I will bring them back with consolation. † †

I will lead them to wadis filled with water, by a smooth way where they will not stumble, † for I am Israel's Father, and Ephraim is my firstborn. †

10 Nations, hear the word of the LORD, and tell it among the far off coasts and islands! †

Say, “The one who scattered Israel will gather him. †
He will watch over him as a shepherd guards his flock, 11 for the LORD has ransomed Jacob and redeemed him from the power of one stronger than he.” † 12 They will come and shout for joy on the heights of Zion; † they will be radiant with joy † because of the LORD’s goodness, because of the grain, the new wine, the fresh oil, † and because of the young of the flocks and herds.
Their life will be like an irrigated garden, and they will no longer grow weak from hunger.
13 Then the young women will rejoice with dancing, while young and old men rejoice together.
I will turn their mourning into joy, † give them consolation, and bring happiness out of grief.
14 I will refresh the priests with an abundance, † † and my people will be satisfied with my goodness.
This is the LORD’s declaration.

LAMENT TURNED TO JOY

15 This is what the LORD says:

A voice was heard in Ramah, †
a lament with bitter weeping — Rachel weeping for her children, refusing to be comforted for her children because they are no more. †

16 This is what the LORD says:

Keep your voice from weeping and your eyes from tears, for the reward for your work will come — this is the LORD's declaration — and your children will return from the enemy's land.

17 There is hope for your future † — this is the LORD's declaration — and your children will return to their own territory.

18 I have surely heard Ephraim moaning, "You disciplined me, and I have been disciplined like an untrained calf. † Take me back, so that I can return, for you, LORD, are my God. †

19 After my return, I felt regret; After I was instructed, I struck my thigh in grief. †
I was ashamed and humiliated † because I bore the disgrace of my youth."

20 Isn't Ephraim a precious son to me, a delightful child? †
Whenever I speak against him,
I certainly still think about him.
Therefore, my inner being yearns for him;
I will truly have compassion on him. †
This is the LORD's declaration.

REPENTANCE AND RESTORATION

21 Set up road markers † for yourself; establish signposts!
Keep the highway in mind,
the way you have traveled.
Return, Virgin Israel!
Return to these cities of yours.

22 How long will you turn here and there, faithless daughter? †
For the LORD creates something new in the land † — a female † will shelter † a man.

23 This is what the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel, says: "When I restore their fortunes, † they will once again speak this word in the land of Judah and in its cities: 'May the LORD bless you, righteous settlement, † holy mountain.' †

24 Judah and all its cities will live in it together — also farmers and those who move † with the flocks — 25 for I satisfy the thirsty person and feed all those who are weak." † 26 At this I awoke and looked around. My sleep had been most pleasant to me.

27 "Look, the days are coming" — this is the LORD's declaration — "when I will sow the house of Israel † and the house of Judah with the seed of people and the seed of animals. 28 Just as I watched over them to uproot and to tear them down, to demolish and to destroy, and to cause disaster, † so will I watch over them to build and to plant them" † — this is the LORD's declaration. 29 "In those days, it will never again be said,

'The fathers have eaten sour grapes, and the children's teeth are set on edge.' †

30 Rather, each will die for his own iniquity. † Anyone who eats sour grapes — his own teeth will be set on edge.

THE NEW COVENANT

31 "Look, the days are coming" † — this is the LORD's declaration — "when I will make a new covenant † with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah. 32 This one will not be like the covenant I made with their ancestors on the day I took them by the hand to lead them out of the land of Egypt — my covenant that they broke even though I am their master" † † — the LORD's declaration. 33 "Instead, this is the covenant I will make with the house of Israel after those days" — the LORD's declaration. "I will put my teaching within them and write it on their hearts. I will be their God, and they will be my people. 34 No longer will one teach his neighbor or his brother, saying, 'Know the LORD,' † for they will all know me, from the least to the greatest of them" † — this is the LORD's declaration. "For I will forgive their iniquity † and never again remember their sin.
35 "This is what the LORD says:

The one who gives the sun for light by day, the fixed order of moon and stars for light by night, who stirs up the sea and makes its waves roar † — the LORD of Armies is his name: 36 If this fixed order departs from before me — this is the LORD's declaration — only then will Israel's descendants cease to be a nation before me forever. †

37 "This is what the LORD says:

Only if the heavens above can be measured and the foundations of the earth below explored, will I reject all of Israel's descendants because of all they have done —
this is the LORD's declaration.

38 "Look, the days are coming" — the LORD's declaration — "when the city † from the Tower of Hananel † to the Corner Gate † will be rebuilt for the LORD.
39 A measuring line will once again stretch out straight to the hill of Gareb † and then turn toward Goah. 40 The whole valley — the corpses, the ashes, and all the fields as far as the Kidron Valley † to the corner of the Horse Gate † to the east — will be holy to the LORD. It will never be uprooted or demolished again."

31:1 The harmonious relationship between God and his people is repeatedly mentioned as a crucial aspect of future salvation (see 24:7; 30:22; 31:33). God had always desired this (7:23; 11:4), but Israel's ongoing disobedience had made it impossible (13:11).

31:2-3 God's love for Israel is an everlasting love (Rm 8:38-39). Even their punishment and exile far away could not change that (see 30:10). Wilderness is used similarly in Isaiah 35:6; 43:19-20; and Hosea 2:3.

31:4-5 The verbs build and plant deliberately repeat the restorative actions predicted in 1:9-10 (see note).

31:6 The call to go up to Zion parallels Isaiah 2:3 and Micah 4:2.

31:7-11 As in 23:3, God will bring back the remnant of Israel from exile. Jeremiah uses the phrase from remote regions of the earth (v. 8; see Is 41:9) to describe Babylon as well as the furthest distances known at the time (3:12-14). This group will return like a great assembly (v. 8; Ps 22:25; Is 10:21) and will not stumble (v. 9), as they had before (6:15; 8:12). This redemption and display of power will be of worldwide significance (vv. 10-11).

31:12 The coming on the heights of Zion and being radiant with joy because of the LORD's goodness echoes Isaiah 2:2 and Hosea 3:5 (see the note on v. 6).

31:15-17 The homecoming of all Israel will be full of joy (vv. 7,13), so Israel can be comforted over the loss of her children to exile (vv. 15-17). Matthew 2:16-18 relates Rachel weeping for her children (v. 15) to Herod's slaughter of the innocents after the birth of Jesus. The Hebrew words translated hope and future also appear in 29:11 in connection with the return from exile.

31:18-20 Ephraim's prayer, Take me back, so that I can return, is essentially the same as that of Lamentations 5:21a. Despite his wanderings, he remains a precious son to God (v. 20), Israel's Father (v. 9).

31:22 The creation of something new in the land draws on new creation themes (see Ps 51:10; Is 65:17-18). The difficult phrase, a female will shelter a man, has been interpreted variously, with some interpreters equating the woman with Israel, who will then seek God, her husband.

31:27 God's promise to sow the house of Israel and the house of Judah refers to repopulating the people after the devastation of conquest and exile at the hands of the Babylonians.

31:28 The language used here draws on 1:10-12.

31:29-30 A dramatic, permanent change is once again depicted through something that will never again be said (3:16; 16:14; 23:7). Rather than children suffering for the sins of their fathers (e.g., children born in exile), individuals will suffer for their own sins (v. 30). This focus on individual responsibility is foundational for the new covenant (31:35-37), which deals with internal transformation rather than adherence to a set of external standards.

31:31-34 This is the most important passage in the OT directly predicting a new covenant and is the only one that uses that expression (v. 31; Lk 22:20; 2Co 3:6). God's covenant with Israel at Sinai had been broken repeatedly since its inception (v. 32; 7:25-26; Ex 32:1-4), but this covenant would be kept so that God and his people would be in relationship forever (v. 33; 7:23; 11:4). Unlike before (17:1), his instruction will be internalized on their hearts, not merely written on stone tablets (Ex 24:12; 31:18). In God's previous covenant with Israel at Sinai, some members of the covenant were true believers while others only obeyed the stipulations outwardly yet had untransformed hearts. In the new covenant, however, they will all know God and will no longer need to teach each other (v. 34; 24:7). This means that all members of the new covenant are true believers fully reconciled to God, a complete reversal of the previous situation (see the notes on 5:1-6; 6:13-15). Their sins will also be permanently put away and God will never again remember them (see 33:8; Mc 7:19).

31:35-37 God's "everlasting love" for Israel was already declared in v. 3 and is demonstrated through the "new covenant" (v. 31). These verses powerfully reaffirm his faithfulness to them (see Rm 11:29).

JEREMIAH'S LAND PURCHASE

32 This is the word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD in the tenth year of King Zedekiah † of Judah, which was the eighteenth year of Nebuchadnezzar. † 2 At that time, the army of the king of Babylon was besieging Jerusalem, † and the prophet Jeremiah was imprisoned in the guard's courtyard † in the palace of the king of Judah. 3 King Zedekiah of Judah had imprisoned him, saying, "Why are you prophesying as you do? You say, 'This is what the LORD says: Look, I am about to hand this city over to Babylon's king, and he will capture it. 4 King Zedekiah of Judah will not escape from the Chaldeans; indeed, he will certainly be handed over to Babylon's king. They will speak face to face † and meet eye to eye. † 5 He will take Zedekiah to Babylon, where he will stay until I attend to him — this is the LORD's declaration. For you will fight the Chaldeans, but you will not succeed.' " † 6 Jeremiah replied, "The word of the LORD came to me: 7 Watch! Hanamel, the son of your uncle Shallum, is coming to you to say, 'Buy my field in Anathoth † for yourself, for you own the right of redemption † to buy it.'
8 "Then, as the LORD had said, my cousin Hanamel came to the guard's courtyard and urged me, 'Please buy my field in Anathoth in the land of Benjamin, for you own the right of inheritance and redemption. Buy it for yourself.' Then I knew that this was the word of the LORD. 9 So I bought the field in Anathoth from my cousin Hanamel, and I weighed out the silver to him † — seventeen shekels † of silver. 10 I recorded it on a scroll, † sealed it, called in witnesses, and weighed out the silver on the scales. 11 I took the purchase agreement — the sealed copy with its terms and conditions and the open copy — 12 and gave the purchase agreement to Baruch † son of Neriah, son of Mahseiah. I did this in the sight of my cousin † Hanamel, the witnesses who had signed the purchase agreement, and all the Judeans sitting in the guard's courtyard.
13 "I charged Baruch in their sight, 14 'This is what the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel, says: Take these scrolls — this purchase agreement with the sealed copy and this open copy — and put them in an earthen storage jar so they will last a long time. 15 For this is what the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel, says: Houses, fields, and vineyards will again be bought in this land.’ †

16 “After I had given the purchase agreement to Baruch, son of Neriah, I prayed to the LORD: † 17 Oh, Lord GOD! You yourself made the heavens and earth † by your great power † and with your outstretched arm. Nothing is too difficult for you! † 18 You show faithful love to thousands but lay the fathers’ iniquity on their sons’ laps after them, † great and mighty God † whose name is the LORD of Armies, 19 the one great in counsel and powerful in action. Your eyes are on all the ways of the children of men † in order to reward each person according to his ways and as the result of his actions. † 20 You performed signs and wonders in the land of Egypt † and still do today, both in Israel and among all mankind. You made a name † for yourself, as is the case today. 21 You brought your people Israel out of Egypt with signs and wonders, with a strong hand and an outstretched arm, and with great terror. † 22 You gave them this land you swore to give to their ancestors, a land flowing with milk and honey. † 23 They entered and possessed it, but they did not obey you or live according to your instructions. † They failed to perform all you commanded them to do, † and so you have brought all this disaster on them. 24 Look! Siege ramps † have come against the city to capture it, and the city, as a result of the sword, famine, and plague, has been handed over to the Chaldeans who are fighting against it. What you have spoken has happened. Look, you can see it! 25 Yet you, Lord GOD, have said to me, ‘Purchase the field and call in witnesses’ — even though the city has been handed over to the Chaldeans! ”
26 The word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: 27 “Look, I am the LORD, the God over every creature. † Is anything too difficult for me? † 28 Therefore, this is what the LORD says: I am about to hand this city over to the Chaldeans, † to Babylon’s king Nebuchadnezzar, and he will capture it. 29 The Chaldeans who are fighting against this city will come and set this city on fire. They will burn it, including the houses where incense has been burned to Baal on their rooftops and where drink offerings have been poured out to other gods to anger me. †

30 From their youth, the Israelites and Judeans have done nothing but what is evil in my sight! They have done nothing but anger me by the work of their hands” † —this is the LORD’s declaration— 31 “for this city has caused my wrath and fury from the day it was built until now. I will therefore remove it from my presence † 32 because of all the evil the Israelites and Judeans have done to anger me—they, their kings, † their officials, their priests, and their prophets, the men of Judah, and the residents of Jerusalem. 33 They have turned their backs to me and not their faces. † Though I taught them time and time again, † † they do not listen and receive discipline. 34 They have placed their abhorrent things † in the house that bears my name and have defiled it. 35 They have built the high places of Baal in Ben Hinnom Valley to sacrifice their sons and daughters in the fire † to Molech † —something I had not commanded them. I had never entertained the thought † that they do this detestable act causing Judah to sin!
36 “Now therefore, this is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says to this city about which you said, ‘It has been handed over to Babylon’s king through sword, famine, and plague’: 37 I will certainly gather them from all the lands where I have banished them in my anger, rage and intense wrath, and I will return them to this place and make them live in safety. † 38 They will be my people, and I will be their God. † 39 I will give them integrity of heart † action † so that they will fear me always, for their good and for the good of their descendants after them.
40 “I will make a permanent covenant with them: † I will never turn away from doing good to them, and I will put fear of me in their hearts so they will never again turn away from me. † 41 I will take delight in them to do what is good for them, and with all my heart and mind I will faithfully plant them in this land. † 42 “For this is what the LORD says: Just as I have brought all this terrible disaster on these people, † so am I about to bring on them all the good I am promising them. 43 Fields will be bought in this land about which you are saying, † desolation † without people or animals; it has been handed over to the Chaldeans! ’ 44 Fields will be purchased, the transaction written on a scroll and sealed, † and witnesses will be called on in the land of Benjamin, † in the areas surrounding Jerusalem, and in Judah's cities — the cities of the hill country, the cities of the Judean foothills, and the cities of the Negev — because I will restore their fortunes." †

This is the LORD's declaration.

32:1-5 Nebuchadnezzar's siege of Jerusalem had begun, and the city would not hold out much longer (vv. 1-2; 52:4-6,12). King Zedekiah . . . imprisoned Jeremiah for declaring that Jerusalem would be defeated (vv. 3-5). The preceding context includes God saying that he would fight against Zedekiah personally (21:3-7) and that therefore he should to surrender to the Babylonians (21:8-10) and serve them (27:1-15).

32:6-12 Although the nation was about to fall, God nevertheless instructed Jeremiah to purchase a field in his hometown from a relative (vv. 6-7; 1:1). His right of redemption had to do with being closely related to Hanamel (v. 8; Lv 25:25; Ru 4:3). Though this was a terrible time to buy property (see 32:25), Jeremiah's obedience is evident not only in his purchase of the field (v. 9) but also in his adherence to standard procedures for such a transaction (vv. 10-12).

32:13-15 The purpose of Jeremiah's actions was to testify that after a long time (v. 14; 29:28) such transactions would again be commonplace (v. 15). In other words, Israel would be brought back home from exile and take possession of their land again (see 31:23-24).

32:25 In contrast with the rest of his prayer (vv. 16-24), this concluding remark shows, despite his obedience, Jeremiah's struggle with the Lord's command to buy the field (see the note on 15:19-21).

32:27 Previously, Jeremiah confessed God's power by saying, "Nothing is too difficult for you" (v. 17). Here God essentially quotes Jeremiah's words back to him: Isaiah anything too difficult for me?

32:28-38 God shortly would indeed give Judah into the hands of the Babylonians because of their many sins (vv. 28-35), but the day would come when he would gather them from various lands to be [his] people (vv. 36-38). Jeremiah had focused on the former as it related to the land purchase (vv. 16-25) and momentarily forgot the promises of restoration he had proclaimed many times previously (e.g., 24:5-7; 29:10-14). Living in safety (v. 37) is associated with the messianic reign (23:6).

32:39-40 Likely related to the promise to "give them a heart to know" him in 24:7, God promises to give them integrity of heart so that they will fear [him]. When directed toward God, the word "fear" in the OT often refers to a faith commitment. Likewise, like the promise of a "new covenant" in which he would write his law on their hearts (31:31-33; Dt 6:6), God promises a permanent covenant in which he will put fear of [himself] in their hearts (v. 40). The result is that they will never again turn away.

32:42-44 Jeremiah's purchase of the field was thus a testimony to all the good that God would do for Israel. This consists of their restoration to the land (vv. 43-44) along with the other blessings of the new covenant (vv. 37-41).

ISRAEL'S RESTORATION

33 While he was still confined in the guard's courtyard, † the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah a second time: 2 "The LORD who made the earth, † the LORD who forms it to establish it, † the LORD is his name, † says this: 3 Call to me and I will answer you † and tell you great and incomprehensible things you do not know. † 4 For this is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says concerning the houses of this city and the palaces of Judah's kings, the ones torn down for defense against the assault ramps and the sword: † 5 The people coming to fight the Chaldeans will fill the houses with the corpses of their own men that I strike down in my wrath and rage. I have hidden my face † from this city because of all their evil. 6 Yet I will certainly bring health † and healing to it and will indeed heal them. I will let them experience the abundance † of true peace. † 7 I will restore the fortunes † of Judah and of Israel and will rebuild them as in former times. † 8 I will purify them from all the iniquity they have committed against me, † and I will forgive all the iniquities they have committed against me, rebelling against me. 9 This city will bear on my behalf a name of joy, praise, and glory † before all the nations of the earth, who will hear of all the prosperity I will give them. They will tremble with awe because of all the good and all the peace † I will bring about for them.
10 "This is what the LORD says: In this place, which you say is a ruin, † without people or animals — that is, in Judah's cities and Jerusalem's streets that are a desolation without people, without inhabitants, and without animals — there will be heard again [11] a sound of joy and gladness, the voice of the groom and the bride, † and the voice of those saying,

Give thanks to the LORD of Armies, for the LORD is good; his faithful love endures forever as they bring thank offerings to the temple of the LORD. For I will restore the fortunes of the land as in former times, says the LORD.

[12] "This is what the LORD of Armies says: In this desolate place — without people or animals — and in all its cities there will once more be a grazing land where shepherds may rest flocks. † [13] The flocks will again pass under the hands of the one who counts them † in the cities of the hill country, † the cities of the Judean foothills, the cities of the Negev, the land of Benjamin — the areas around Jerusalem and in Judah's cities, says the LORD.

GOD'S COVENANT WITH DAVID

[14] "Look, the days are coming" — this is the LORD's declaration — "when I will fulfill the good promise that I have spoken concerning the house of Israel and the house of Judah. †

[15] In those days and at that time I will cause a Righteous Branch † to sprout up for David, and he will administer justice and righteousness in the land.

[16] In those days Judah will be saved, and Jerusalem will dwell securely, † and this is what she will be named:
The LORD Is Our Righteousness. †

[17] "For this is what the LORD says: David will never fail to have a man sitting on the throne of the house of Israel. † [18] The Levitical priests will never fail to have a man always before me to offer burnt offerings, to burn grain offerings, and to make sacrifices." †

[19] The word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: [20] "This is what the LORD says: If you can break my covenant with the day and my covenant with the night so that day and night cease to come at their regular time, † 21 then also my covenant with my servant David † may be broken. If that could happen, then he would not have a son reigning on his throne and the Levitical priests would not be my ministers. † 22 Even as the stars of heaven cannot be counted, and the sand of the sea cannot be measured, † so too I will make innumerable the descendants of my servant David and the Levites who minister to me." 23 The word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: 24 "Have you not noticed what these people have said? They say, 'The LORD has rejected the two families he had chosen.' † My people are treated with contempt and no longer regarded as a nation among them. 25 This is what the LORD says: If I do not keep my covenant with the day and with the night, and if I fail to establish the fixed order of heaven and earth, † 26 then I might also reject the descendants of Jacob and of my servant David. That is, I would not take rulers from his descendants to rule over the descendants of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. But in fact, I will restore their fortunes † and have compassion on them." †

33:1 Zedekiah had imprisoned him here (32:2-3).

33:4-5 Houses built next to the wall were the most vulnerable in a time of siege and were usually owned by poorer inhabitants. They were torn down as the city readied its defense and were used as temporary structures by soldiers. It was customary to bury the dead outside the city walls, but because the enemy army had surrounded Jerusalem, they had no choice but to fill the houses with the corpses of their own men.

33:9 As in the previous chapter, God gave a message of hope in the midst of Jerusalem's imminent fall to the besieging Babylonians. Remarkably, this same city that had grievously incited God's holy wrath (v. 5; 32:28-35) would be cleansed and made glorious before all the nations of the earth (see 31:10).

33:11 The phrase restore the fortunes continues to appear frequently in these chapters (vv. 7,26; 29:14; 30:3,18; 31:23; 32:44).

33:14-26 God pledged to fulfill his promises to both Israel and Judah (v. 14; see the note on 13:11; 31:35-37). These promises are tied to the coming of the Messiah, or Righteous Branch (v. 15; see vv. 24-26; the note on 23:5-6), which in turn relates to God's covenant with David (vv. 17,20-22). The naming of Jerusalem as The LORD Is Our Righteousness (v. 16) associates the new status of Jerusalem with the identity and work of the Messiah (23:6).

JEREMIAH'S WORD TO KING ZEDEKIAH

34 This is the word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD when King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon, † his whole army, all the kingdoms of the lands under his control, † and all other peoples were fighting against Jerusalem and all its surrounding cities: 2 "This is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says: Go, speak to King Zedekiah of Judah, and tell him, 'This is what the LORD says: I am about to hand this city over to the king of Babylon, † and he will burn it. 3 As for you, you will not escape † from him but are certain to be captured and handed over to him. You will meet the king of Babylon eye to eye and speak face to face; † † you will go to Babylon.

4 " 'Yet hear the LORD's word, King Zedekiah of Judah. This is what the LORD says concerning you: You will not die by the sword; 5 you will die peacefully. There will be a burning ceremony for you just like the burning ceremonies for your ancestors, the kings of old who came before you. † "Oh, master! " will be the lament for you, for I have spoken this word. This is the LORD's declaration.' " 6 So the prophet Jeremiah related all these words to King Zedekiah of Judah in Jerusalem 7 while the king of Babylon's army was attacking Jerusalem and all of Judah's remaining cities — that is, Lachish and Azekah, † for they were the only ones left of Judah's fortified cities.

THE PEOPLE AND THEIR SLAVES

8 This is the word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD after King Zedekiah made a covenant with all the people who were in Jerusalem to proclaim freedom † to them. 9 As a result, each was to let his male and female Hebrew slaves go free, and no one was to enslave his fellow Judean. † 10 All the officials and people who entered into covenant to let their male and female slaves go free — in order not to enslave them any longer — obeyed and let them go free. 11 Afterward, however, they changed their minds and took back their male and female slaves they had let go free and forced them to become slaves again.

12 Then the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah from the LORD: 13 “This is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says: I made a covenant † with your ancestors when I brought them out of the land of Egypt, out of the place of slavery, saying, 14 ‘At the end of seven years, each of you must let his fellow Hebrew who sold himself † to you go. He may serve you six years, but then you must let him go free from your service.’ † But your ancestors did not obey me or pay any attention. 15 Today you repented and did what pleased me, each of you proclaiming freedom for his neighbor. You made a covenant before me † at the house that bears my name. † 16 But you have changed your minds † and profaned my name. † Each has taken back his male and female slaves who had been let go free to go wherever they wanted, and you have again forced them to be your slaves.
17 “Therefore, this is what the LORD says: You have not obeyed me by proclaiming freedom, each for his fellow Hebrew and for his neighbor. †
I hereby proclaim freedom for you † — this is the LORD’s declaration — to the sword, to plague, and to famine! I will make you a horror to all the earth’s kingdoms. † 18 As for those who disobeyed my covenant, † not keeping the terms of the covenant they made before me, I will treat them like the calf they cut in two in order to pass between its pieces. † 19 The officials of Judah and Jerusalem, the court officials, the priests, and all the people of the land who passed between the pieces of the calf — 20 all these I will hand over to their enemies, to those who intend to take their life. Their corpses will become food for the birds of the sky and for the wild animals of the land. † 21 I will hand King Zedekiah of Judah and his officials over to their enemies, to those who intend to take their lives, to the king of Babylon’s army that is withdrawing. 22 I am about to give the command — this is the LORD’s declaration — and I will bring them back to this city. They will fight against it, capture it, and burn it. † will make Judah’s cities a desolation, without inhabitant.” †
I

34:12-16 Jeremiah confronted the people for retracting their covenant to free their slaves (vv. 8-11). Exodus 21:2-6 states that such emancipation was supposed to take place every seven years, but this command had been disregarded (v. 14). To make matters worse, the recent covenant had been made at the temple (v. 15) so that its violation profaned [God's] name (v. 16).

34:17-22 The people's withholding of freedom from their slaves resulted in God giving them another kind of freedom: a "freedom" to die by the sword, plague, and famine (v. 17). Their violation of the covenant was a serious matter, and they would be held accountable (vv. 18-20). Although the Babylonian army was withdrawing (v. 21), they would return to destroy the city (v. 22).

THE RECHABITES' EXAMPLE

35 This is the word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD in the days of Jehoiakim † son of Josiah, king of Judah: 2 "Go to the house of the Rechabites, speak to them, † and bring them to one of the chambers † of the temple of the LORD to offer them a drink of wine."

3 So I took Jaazaniah son of Jeremiah, son of Habazziniah, and his brothers and all his sons — the entire house of the Rechabites — 4 and I brought them into the temple of the LORD to a chamber occupied by the sons of Hanan son of Igdaliah, a man of God, † who had a chamber near the officials' chamber, which was above the chamber of Maaseiah son of Shallum the doorkeeper. 5 I set jars filled with wine and some cups before the sons of the house of the Rechabites and said to them, "Drink wine! "

6 But they replied, "We do not drink wine, for Jonadab, † son of our ancestor Rechab, commanded: 'You and your descendants must never drink wine. 7 You must not build a house or sow seed or plant a vineyard. Those things are not for you. Rather, you must live in tents your whole life, so you may live a long time on the soil where you stay as a resident alien.' † 8 We have obeyed Jonadab, son of our ancestor Rechab, in all he commanded us. So we haven't drunk wine our whole life — we, our wives, our sons, and our daughters. 9 We also have not built houses to live in and do not have vineyard, field, or seed. 10 But we have lived in tents and have obeyed and done everything our ancestor Jonadab commanded us. 11 However, when King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon marched into the land, † we said, 'Come, let's go into Jerusalem to get away from the Chaldean and Aramean armies.' So we have been living in Jerusalem."

12 Then the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: 13 “This is what the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel, says: Go, say to the men of Judah and the residents of Jerusalem, ‘Will you not accept discipline † by listening to my words? — this is the LORD’s declaration. 14 The words of Jonadab, son of Rechab, have been carried out. He commanded his descendants not to drink wine, and they have not drunk to this day because they have obeyed their ancestor’s command. But I have spoken to you time and time again, † † and you have not obeyed me!
15 Time and time again † I have sent you all my servants the prophets, proclaiming, “Turn, each one from his evil way, † and correct your actions. Stop following other gods to serve them. † Live in the land that I gave you and your ancestors.” But you did not pay attention or obey me. † 16 Yes, the sons of Jonadab son of Rechab carried out their ancestor’s command he gave them, but these people have not obeyed me. 17 Therefore, this is what the LORD, the God of Armies, the God of Israel, says: I will certainly bring on Judah and on all the residents of Jerusalem all the disaster I have pronounced against them because I have spoken to them, but they have not obeyed, and I have called to them, but they did not answer.’ ” 18 But to the house of the Rechabites Jeremiah said, “This is what the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel, says: ‘Because you have obeyed the command of your ancestor Jonadab and have kept all his commands and have done everything he commanded you, 19 this is what the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel, says: Jonadab son of Rechab will never fail to have a man to stand before me always.’ ” †

35:12-17 The Rechabites abstained from alcohol and lived in tents simply because their ancestor Jonadab had instructed them to do so (vv. 6-10,14,16). They provide a stark contrast to Judah, who did not listen to God who had repeatedly spoken to them through the prophets (vv. 13,15,17).

35:18-19 The Rechabites were honored by God because of their obedience.

JEREMIAH DICTATES A SCROLL

36 In the fourth year of Jehoiakim son of Josiah, † king of Judah, this word came to Jeremiah from the LORD: 2 “Take a scroll, † and write on it all the words I have spoken to you concerning Israel, Judah, and all the nations from the time I first spoke to you during Josiah's reign until today. 3 Perhaps when the house of Judah hears about all the disaster I am planning to bring on them, each one of them will turn from his evil way. Then I will forgive their iniquity † and their sin."

4 So Jeremiah summoned Baruch † son of Neriah. At Jeremiah's dictation, † Baruch wrote on a scroll all the words the LORD had spoken to Jeremiah. 5 Then Jeremiah commanded Baruch, "I am restricted; † I cannot enter the temple of the LORD, 6 so you must go and read from the scroll — which you wrote at my dictation † — the words of the LORD in the hearing of the people at the temple of the LORD on a day of fasting. Read his words in the hearing of all the Judeans who are coming from their cities. 7 Perhaps their petition will come before the LORD, † and each one will turn from his evil way, for the anger and fury that the LORD has pronounced against this people are intense." 8 So Baruch son of Neriah did everything the prophet Jeremiah had commanded him. At the LORD's temple he read the LORD's words from the scroll.

BARUCH READS THE SCROLL

9 In the fifth year of Jehoiakim son of Josiah, king of Judah, in the ninth month, † all the people of Jerusalem and all those coming in from Judah's cities into Jerusalem proclaimed a fast before the LORD. † 10 Then at the LORD's temple, in the chamber of Gemariah son of Shaphan the scribe, † in the upper courtyard at the opening of the New Gate † of the LORD's temple, in the hearing of all the people, Baruch read Jeremiah's words from the scroll.

11 When Micaiah son of Gemariah, son of Shaphan, heard all the words of the LORD from the scroll, 12 he went down to the scribe's chamber in the king's palace. All the officials were sitting there — Elishama the scribe, Delaiah son of Shemaiah, Elnathan son of Achbor, † Gemariah son of Shaphan, Zedekiah son of Hananiah, and all the other officials. 13 Micaiah reported to them all the words he had heard when Baruch read from the scroll in the hearing of the people. 14 Then all the officials sent word to Baruch through Jehudi son of Nethaniah, son of Shelemiah, son of Cushi, saying, "Bring the scroll that you read in the hearing of the people, and come." So Baruch son of Neriah took the scroll and went to them. 15 They said to him, “Sit down and read it in our hearing.” So Baruch read it in their hearing.

16 When they had heard all the words, they turned to each other in fear and said to Baruch, “We must surely tell the king all these things.” 17 Then they asked Baruch, “Tell us, how did you write all these words? At his dictation? ” †
18 Baruch said to them, “At his dictation. He recited all these words to me while I was writing on the scroll in ink.”

JEHOIAKIM BURNS THE SCROLL

19 The officials said to Baruch, “You and Jeremiah must hide and tell no one where you are.” 20 Then, after depositing the scroll in the chamber of Elishama the scribe, the officials came to the king at the courtyard and reported everything in the hearing of the king. 21 The king sent Jehudi to get the scroll, and he took it from the chamber of Elishama the scribe. Jehudi then read it in the hearing of the king and all the officials who were standing by the king. 22 Since it was the ninth month, the king was sitting in his winter quarters † with a fire burning in front of him. 23 As soon as Jehudi would read three or four columns, Jehoiakim would cut the scroll † with a scribe’s knife and throw the columns into the fire in the hearth until the entire scroll was consumed by the fire in the hearth. 24 As they heard all these words, the king and all of his servants did not become terrified † or tear their clothes. 25 Even though Elnathan, Delaiah, and Gemariah had urged the king not to burn the scroll, he did not listen to them. 26 Then the king commanded Jerahmeel the king’s son, Seraiah son of Azriel, and Shelemiah son of Abdeel to seize the scribe Baruch and the prophet Jeremiah, but the LORD hid them.

JEREMIAH DICTATES ANOTHER SCROLL

27 After the king had burned the scroll and the words Baruch had written at Jeremiah’s dictation, † the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: 28 “Take another scroll, and once again write on it the original words that were on the original scroll that King Jehoiakim of Judah burned. † 29 You are to proclaim concerning King Jehoiakim of Judah, ‘This is what the LORD says: You have burned the scroll, asking, “Why have you written on it that † the king of Babylon will certainly come and destroy this land and cause it to be without people or animals?” † 30 Therefore, this is what the LORD says concerning King Jehoiakim of Judah: He will have no one to sit on David’s throne, † and his corpse will be thrown out to be exposed to the heat of day and the frost of night. † 31 I will punish him, his descendants, and his officers for their iniquity. I will bring on them, on the residents of Jerusalem, and on the people of Judah all the disaster, which I warned them about but they did not listen.’ ” 32 Then Jeremiah took another scroll and gave it to Baruch son of Neriah, the scribe, and he wrote on it at Jeremiah’s dictation † all the words of the scroll that Jehoiakim, † Judah’s king, had burned in the fire. And many other words like them were added.

36:2 God’s messages to Jeremiah were not only for Judah and Israel but also for all the nations (see 25:13). This is consistent with Jeremiah’s call to be a “prophet to the nations” (1:5).

36:5 Jeremiah was not imprisoned at this point, since he was able to hide (v. 19). Nevertheless, he was probably facing opposition akin to that expressed in 29:26-27.

36:7 For a second time in this passage, God expressed the wish that the people hear his word and repent (vv. 3,7; 26:3).

36:11-20 Baruch’s obedient reading of the scroll at the temple (vv. 8-10) drew the attention of Micaiah and the other officials. After hearing its contents for themselves (vv. 14-15,29), they knew that the message would be deeply unpopular with the king. Learning that the author was Jeremiah (vv. 17-19), they instructed Baruch and the prophet to hide (v. 19) and took the scroll (v. 20).

36:21-25 Jehoiakim’s utter disregard for God’s word was shown through his burning of the scroll, piece by piece (vv. 22-23). This was a way of symbolically rejecting the covenant God had made with his people. Unlike his father Josiah (2Kg 22:11), he did not tear his garments when he heard Scripture (v. 24).

36:28-32 God commanded that the original scroll be replaced (v. 28). He insisted the messages of judgment recorded on that scroll were still valid (vv. 29-31; 28:12-14). Jehoiakim could burn the scroll, but he could not undo the consequences God had determined. His punishment was that no one (that is, his own descendants) would sit on David’s throne (v. 30). This is similar to what was said of his son Coniah in 22:30. Furthermore, his corpse will be thrown out to be exposed (v. 30). The lack of a proper burial brought extreme shame in the ancient world.

JERUSALEM’S LAST DAYS

37 Zedekiah son of Josiah † reigned as king in the land of Judah † in place of Coniah † † son of Jehoiakim, for King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon made him king. 2 He and his officers and the people of the land did not obey the words of the LORD † that he spoke through the prophet Jeremiah.
3 Nevertheless, King Zedekiah sent Jehucal † son of Shelemiah and Zephaniah † son of Maaseiah, the priest, to the prophet Jeremiah, requesting,
"Please pray to the LORD our God for us! " 4 Jeremiah was going about his daily tasks † among the people, for he had not yet been put into the prison. † 5 Pharaoh's army had left Egypt, † and when the Chaldeans, who were besieging Jerusalem, heard the report, they withdrew from Jerusalem.
6 The word of the LORD came to the prophet Jeremiah: 7 "This is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says: This is what you will say to Judah's king, † who is sending you to inquire of me: 'Watch: Pharaoh's army, which has come out to help you, † is going to return to its own land of Egypt. 8 The Chaldeans will then return and fight against this city. They will capture it and burn it. † 9 This is what the LORD says: Don't deceive yourselves by saying, "The Chaldeans will leave us for good," for they will not leave. 10 Indeed, if you were to strike down the entire Chaldean army that is fighting with you, † and there remained among them only the badly wounded † men, each in his tent, they would get up and burn this city.' "

JEREMIAH'S IMPRISONMENT

11 When the Chaldean army withdrew from Jerusalem because of Pharaoh's army, 12 Jeremiah started to leave Jerusalem to go to the land of Benjamin to claim his portion there † among the people. 13 But when he was at the Benjamin Gate, † an officer of the guard was there, whose name was Irijah son of Shelemiah, son of Hananiah, and he apprehended the prophet Jeremiah, saying, "You are defecting to the Chaldeans."
14 "That's a lie," Jeremiah replied. "I am not defecting to the Chaldeans! " Irijah would not listen to him but apprehended Jeremiah and took him to the officials.
15 The officials were angry at Jeremiah and beat him and placed him in jail in the house of Jonathan † the scribe, for it had been made into a prison. 16 So Jeremiah went into a cell in the dungeon † and stayed there many days.

JEREMIAH SUMMONED BY ZEDEKIAH

17 King Zedekiah later sent for him and received him, and in his house privately asked him, "Is there a word from the LORD? " †
"There is," Jeremiah responded. He continued, "You will be handed over to the king of Babylon." † 18 Then Jeremiah said to King Zedekiah, "How have I sinned against you or your servants or these people that you have put me in prison? 19 Where are your prophets who prophesied to you, claiming, 'The king of Babylon will not come against you and this land'? † 20 So now please listen, my lord the king. May my petition come before you. † Don't send me back to the house of Jonathan the scribe, or I will die there."
21 So King Zedekiah gave orders, and Jeremiah was placed in the guard's courtyard. † He was given a loaf of bread each day from the bakers' street until all the bread was gone from the city. So Jeremiah remained in the guard's courtyard.

37:3 Zedekiah's futile request for Jeremiah's prayers parallels 21:2. The prophet had been instructed not to pray for the people (7:16; 11:14; 14:11).

37:6-10 The aid of the Egyptians and the momentary departure of the Babylonians should not give Jerusalem any hope (see Ezk 17:12-17). The Babylonians will return and burn Jerusalem.

37:12 Jeremiah's hometown was in the land of Benjamin (1:1). His intention to go there may have been related to a purchase of land (32:6-15).

37:13-16 Jeremiah's actions were misinterpreted so that he was eventually beaten and imprisoned. The prophet had urged surrender to the Babylonians in 21:8-10, but he was certainly not deserting to them here.

37:17 Zedekiah's ostensible interest in seeking God continued (see v. 3) but was unmasked by Jeremiah. He boldly spoke the word of God despite his having been beaten and imprisoned (vv. 15-16,20).

37:18-20 As in 26:15, Jeremiah pleaded for his own life, which apparently was threatened by this imprisonment. He reminded the king of his innocence (v. 18) and of the demonstrable failure of the false prophets (v. 19; 28:9).

37:21 The guard's courtyard had been mentioned in 32:2,8,12; and 33:1.

JEREMIAH THROWN INTO A CISTERN

38 Now Shephatiah son of Mattan, Gedaliah son of Pashhur, Jucal † son of Shelemiah, † and Pashhur son of Malchijah heard the words Jeremiah was speaking to all the people: 2 "This is what the LORD says:
'Whoever stays in this city will die by the sword, famine, and plague, † but whoever surrenders to the Chaldeans will live. † He will retain his life like the spoils of war and will live.' † 3 This is what the LORD says:
'This city will most certainly be handed over to the king of Babylon's army, † and he will capture it.' " 4 The officials then said to the king, "This man ought to die, because he is weakening the morale † of the warriors who remain in this city and of all the people by speaking to them in this way. This man is not pursuing the welfare of this people, but their harm." † 5 King Zedekiah said, "Here he is; he's in your hands since the king can't do anything against you." 6 So they took Jeremiah and dropped him into the cistern of Malchiah the king's son, which was in the guard's courtyard, lowering Jeremiah with ropes. There was no water in the cistern, only mud, and Jeremiah sank in the mud. †
7 But Ebed-melech, a Cushite court official in the king's palace, heard Jeremiah had been put into the cistern. While the king was sitting at the Benjamin Gate, † 8 Ebed-melech went from the king's palace and spoke to the king: 9 "My lord the king, these men have been evil in all they have done to the prophet Jeremiah.
They have dropped him into the cistern where he will die from hunger, because there is no more bread in the city." † 10 So the king commanded Ebed-melech, the Cushite, "Take from here thirty men under your authority † and pull the prophet Jeremiah up from the cistern before he dies."
11 So Ebed-melech took the men under his authority † and went to the king's palace to a place below the storehouse. † From there he took old rags and worn-out clothes and lowered them by ropes to Jeremiah in the cistern. 12 Ebedmelech the Cushite called down to Jeremiah, "Place these old rags and clothes between your armpits and the ropes." Jeremiah did this. 13 They pulled him up with the ropes and lifted him out of the cistern, but he remained in the guard's courtyard.

ZEDEKIAH'S FINAL MEETING WITH JEREMIAH

14 King Zedekiah sent for the prophet Jeremiah and received him at the third entrance of the LORD's temple. The king said to Jeremiah, "I am going to ask you something; don't hide anything from me."
15 Jeremiah replied to Zedekiah, "If I tell you, you will kill me, won't you? Besides, if I give you advice, you won't listen to me anyway."
16 King Zedekiah swore to Jeremiah in private, † "As the LORD lives, who has given us this life, † I will not kill you or hand you over to these men who intend to take your life."
17 Jeremiah therefore said to Zedekiah, "This is what the LORD, the God of Armies, the God of Israel, says: 'If indeed you surrender to the officials of the king of Babylon, † then you will live, this city will not be burned, and you and your household will survive. 18 But if you do not surrender to the officials of the king of Babylon, then this city will be handed over to the Chaldeans. † They will burn it, and you yourself will not escape from them.' "
19 But King Zedekiah said to Jeremiah, "I am worried about the Judeans who have defected to the Chaldeans. They may hand me over to the Judeans to abuse me." †
20 "They will not hand you over," Jeremiah replied. "Obey the LORD in what I am telling you, so it may go well for you and you can live. 21 But if you refuse to surrender, this is the verdict † that the LORD has shown me: 22 'All the women † who remain in the palace of Judah's king will be brought out to the officials of the king of Babylon and will say to you, †

"Your trusted friends † misled † you and overcame you.
Your feet sank into the mire, and they deserted you."

23 All your wives and children will be brought out to the Chaldeans. † You yourself will not escape from them, for you will be seized by the king of Babylon and this city will burn.' "

24 Then Zedekiah warned Jeremiah, “Don’t let anyone know about this conversation † or you will die. 25 The officials may hear that I have spoken with you † and come and demand of you, ‘Tell us what you said to the king; don’t hide anything from us and we won’t kill you. Also, what did the king say to you? ’ 26 If they do, tell them, ‘I was bringing before the king my petition that he not return me to the house of Jonathan to die there.’ ” † 27 All the officials did come to Jeremiah, and they questioned him. He reported the exact words to them the king had commanded, and they quit speaking with him because the conversation † had not been overheard. 28 Jeremiah remained in the guard’s courtyard until the day Jerusalem was captured, and he was there when it happened. †

38:2-4 Jeremiah had urged surrender in 21:9 and predicted the fall of Jerusalem to Babylon in 21:10; 32:3; and 37:8. The officials’ objection to his words, and their desire to execute the prophet, was based not on whether the message was true but on the fact that he was weakening the morale of the warriors. They also grossly mischaracterized Jeremiah as seeking harm for the people.

38:7-13 Ebed-melech successfully appealed to Zedekiah on behalf of Jeremiah, who had been put in a cistern without food or water (vv. 6-10). A Gentile thus saved the prophet’s life (vv. 11-13) and would be rewarded (39:15-18). The Hebrew word translated court official in v. 7 is sometimes translated “eunuch” (e.g., Is 39:7). Isaiah 56:3-7 promises blessing upon foreigners and eunuchs who fear God, and Acts 8:26-39 likewise recounts the salvation of an Ethiopian eunuch.

38:17-18 Yet again, Jeremiah urged Zedekiah to surrender to the Babylonians (see v. 2; 21:9).

38:19-23 Zedekiah’s concern (v. 19) was answered by Jeremiah. Nevertheless, the king still did not listen, as the following chapter demonstrates (39:1-8).

THE FALL OF JERUSALEM TO BABYLON

39 In the ninth year of King Zedekiah of Judah, in the tenth month, King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon advanced against Jerusalem with his entire army and laid siege to it. † 2 In the fourth month of Zedekiah’s eleventh year, on the ninth day of the month, the city was broken into. † 3 All the officials of the king of Babylon entered and sat at the Middle Gate: Nergal-sharezer, Samgar, Nebusarsechim † the chief of staff, Nergal-sharezer the chief soothsayer, and all the rest of the officials of Babylon's king. †

4 When King Zedekiah of Judah and all the fighting men saw them, they fled. They left the city at night by way of the king's garden † through the city gate between the two walls. They left along the route to the Arabah. † 5 However, the Chaldean army pursued them and overtook Zedekiah in the plains of Jericho. They arrested him and brought him up to Nebuchadnezzar, Babylon's king, at Riblah in the land of Hamath. The king passed sentence on him there. †
6 At Riblah the king of Babylon slaughtered Zedekiah's sons before his eyes, and he also slaughtered all Judah's nobles. 7 Then he blinded Zedekiah and put him in bronze chains to take him to Babylon. † 8 The Chaldeans next burned down the king's palace and the people's houses and tore down the walls of Jerusalem. † 9 Nebuzaradan, the captain of the guards, † deported the rest of the people to Babylon — those who had remained in the city and those deserters who had defected to him along with the rest of the people who remained. 10 However, Nebuzaradan, the captain of the guards, left in the land of Judah some of the poor people who owned nothing, and he gave them vineyards and fields at that time. †

JEREMIAH FREED BY NEBUCHADNEZZAR

11 Speaking through Nebuzaradan, captain of the guards, King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon gave orders concerning Jeremiah: 12 "Take him and look after him. Don't do him any harm, but do for him whatever he says." 13 Nebuzaradan, captain of the guards, Nebushazban the chief of staff, Nergal-sharezer the chief soothsayer, and all the captains of Babylon's king 14 had Jeremiah brought from the guard's courtyard † and turned him over to Gedaliah † son of Ahikam, † son of Shaphan, to take him home. So he settled among his own people.
15 Now the word of the LORD had come to Jeremiah when he was confined in the guard's courtyard: † 16 "Go tell Ebed-melech the Cushite, † 'This is what the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel, says: I am about to fulfill my words for disaster and not for good against this city. They will take place before your eyes on that day. 17 But I will rescue you on that day — this is the LORD's declaration — and you will not be handed over to the men you dread. 18 Indeed, I will certainly deliver you so that you do not fall by the sword. Because you have trusted in me, you will retain your life like the spoils of war. † This is the LORD's declaration.' "

39:1-2 The Babylonians had left previously, but returned to besiege Jerusalem—just as Jeremiah had said (37:5-9). This time, they broke through the city's defenses.

39:3 The seating of Babylonian officials . . . at the Middle Gate of Jerusalem echoes 1:15 and contrasts with 3:17; and 17:25. This action was a claim to victory and signaled to the Judeans that the Babylonians were now in command.

39:4-8 Despite repeated instruction to surrender to the Babylonians (21:9; 38:2,17-18), Zedekiah resisted them to the end. His futile flight ended in his capture, blinding, and imprisonment (vv. 4-7). Additionally, his sons and nobles were slaughtered, his house burned, and Jerusalem's walls torn down (v. 8). Jeremiah's prophecies—not those of the false prophets—were thus proven true (21:10; 32:3-5; 37:8).

39:11-14 In contrast with the trouble that came on Zedekiah and many others (vv. 6-9), Jeremiah was protected by Nebuchadnezzar and freed from the guard's courtyard (see the note on 37:21). God was faithful to his promises to deliver Jeremiah (1:8,19; 15:20-21).

39:15-18 A second contrast to those punished in vv. 6-9 is Ebed-melech the Cushite eunuch who had saved Jeremiah's life by pulling him out of the cistern (see the note on 38:7-13). Because he trusted in God, his life was spared (v. 18; 17:7).

JEREMIAH STAYS IN JUDAH

40 This is the word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD after Nebuzaradan, captain of the guards, released him at Ramah. † When he found him, he was bound in chains with all the exiles of Jerusalem and Judah who were being exiled to Babylon. 2 The captain of the guards took Jeremiah and said to him, "The LORD your God decreed this disaster on this place, † 3 and the LORD has fulfilled it. He has done just what he decreed. Because you people have sinned against the LORD † and have not obeyed him, this thing has happened. 4 Now pay attention: Today I am setting you free from the chains that were on your hands. † If it pleases you to come with me to Babylon, come, and I will take care of you. But if it seems wrong to you to come with me to Babylon, go no farther. † Look — the whole land is in front of you. † Wherever it seems good and right for you to go, go there." 5 When Jeremiah had not yet turned to go, Nebuzaradan said to him, † "Return † to Gedaliah son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, whom the king of Babylon has appointed over the cities of Judah, and stay with him among the people or go wherever it seems right for you to go." So the captain of the guards gave him a ration † and a gift † and released him. 6 Jeremiah therefore went to Gedaliah son of Ahikam at Mizpah, † and he stayed with him among the people who remained in the land.

GEDALIAH ADVISES PEACE

7 All the commanders of the armies that were in the countryside — they and their men — heard that the king of Babylon had appointed Gedaliah son of Ahikam over the land. He had been put in charge of the men, women, and children from among the poorest of the land, who had not been deported to Babylon. 8 So they came to Gedaliah at Mizpah. The commanders included Ishmael † son of Nethaniah, Johanan and Jonathan the sons of Kareah, Seraiah son of Tanhumeth, the sons of Ephai the Netophathite, and Jezaniah son of the Maacathite — they and their men.

9 Gedaliah son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, swore an oath to them and their men, assuring them, "Don't be afraid to serve the Chaldeans. Live in the land and serve the king of Babylon, and it will go well for you. † 10 As for me, I am going to live in Mizpah to represent you † before the Chaldeans † who come to us. As for you, gather wine, summer fruit, and oil, place them in your storage jars, and live in the cities you have captured."

11 When all the Judeans in Moab † and among the Ammonites and in † Edom and in all the other lands † also heard that the king of Babylon had left a remnant in Judah and had appointed Gedaliah son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, over them, 12 they all returned from all the places where they had been banished † and came to the land of Judah, to Gedaliah at Mizpah, and harvested a great amount of wine and summer fruit.

13 Meanwhile, Johanan son of Kareah and all the commanders of the armies in the countryside came to Gedaliah at Mizpah 14 and warned him, "Don't you realize that Baalis, king of the Ammonites, has sent Ishmael son of Nethaniah † to kill you? " But Gedaliah son of Ahikam would not believe them. 15 Then Johanan son of Kareah suggested to Gedaliah in private at Mizpah, "Let me go kill Ishmael son of Nethaniah. No one will know it. Why should he kill you and allow all of Judah that has gathered around you to scatter and the remnant of Judah to perish?” †

16 But Gedaliah son of Ahikam responded to Johanan son of Kareah, “Don’t do that! What you’re saying about Ishmael is a lie.”

40:1-6 This passage gives further detail about the release of Jeremiah just mentioned (39:11-14). Ironically, the foreign captain of the guards recognized God’s fulfillment of his word related to the disobedience of Judah (vv. 2-3). Jeremiah was given permission to stay among the people or go wherever he wanted to go (v. 5). This freedom of movement was probably granted because Jeremiah had urged Judah to submit to the Babylonians. Jeremiah understood that Babylon was fulfilling God’s purposes and was acting as his instrument.

40:9-12 Gedaliah had been appointed by Nebuchadnezzar to serve as governor of Judah and to oversee the few who had not been exiled (v. 5; 39:10). He encouraged them to serve the Chaldeans (the Babylonians, v. 9; 27:6-17; 28:14) and to gather wine, summer fruit, and oil (v. 10). The miniature return to the land (vv. 11-12,15), though promising, would be short-lived (41:10-18).

GEDALIAH ASSASSINATED BY ISHMAEL

41 In the seventh month, Ishmael son of Nethaniah, son of Elishama, of the royal family and one of the king’s chief officers, came with ten men to Gedaliah son of Ahikam at Mizpah. They ate a meal together there in Mizpah, 2 but then Ishmael son of Nethaniah and the ten men who were with him got up and struck down Gedaliah son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, with the sword; he killed the one the king of Babylon had appointed in the land. †
3 Ishmael also struck down all the Judeans who were with Gedaliah at Mizpah, as well as the Chaldean soldiers who were there. †

4 On the day after he had killed Gedaliah, when no one knew yet, 5 eighty men came from Shechem, Shiloh, † and Samaria † who had shaved their beards, † torn their clothes, and gashed themselves, and † who were carrying grain and incense offerings to bring to the temple of the LORD. † 6 Ishmael son of Nethaniah came out of Mizpah to meet them, weeping as he came. When he encountered them, he said, “Come to Gedaliah son of Ahikam!” 7 But when they came into the city, Ishmael son of Nethaniah and the men with him slaughtered them and threw them into † a cistern.

8 However, there were ten men among them who said to Ishmael, “Don’t kill us, for we have hidden treasure in the field — wheat, barley, oil, and honey! ” So he stopped and did not kill them along with their companions. 9 Now the cistern where Ishmael had thrown all the corpses of the men he had struck down was a large one † that King Asa had made in the encounter with King Baasha of Israel. † Ishmael son of Nethaniah filled it with the slain.
10 Then Ishmael took captive all the rest of the people of Mizpah including the daughters of the king — all those who remained in Mizpah over whom Nebuzaradan, captain of the guards, had appointed Gedaliah son of Ahikam. Ishmael son of Nethaniah took them captive and set off to cross over to the Ammonites. †

THE CAPTIVES RESCUED BY JOHANAN

11 When Johanan son of Kareah and all the commanders of the armies † with him heard of all the evil that Ishmael son of Nethaniah had done, 12 they took all their men and went to fight with Ishmael son of Nethaniah. They found him by the great pool in Gibeon. † 13 When all the people held by Ishmael saw Johanan son of Kareah and all the commanders of the army with him, they rejoiced. 14 All the people whom Ishmael had taken captive from Mizpah turned around and rejoined Johanan son of Kareah. 15 But Ishmael son of Nethaniah escaped from Johanan with eight men and went to the Ammonites. 16 Johanan son of Kareah and all the commanders of the armies with him then took from Mizpah all the remnant of the people whom he had recovered from Ishmael son of Nethaniah after Ishmael had killed Gedaliah son of Ahikam — men, soldiers, women, children, and court officials whom he brought back from Gibeon. 17 They left, stopping in Geruth Chimham, † which is near Bethlehem, in order to make their way into Egypt, 18 away from the Chaldeans. For they feared them because Ishmael son of Nethaniah had struck down Gedaliah son of Ahikam, whom the king of Babylon had appointed over the land. †

41:1-3 Gedaliah disregarded Johanan's warning that Ishmael wanted to kill him (40:13-16), and it cost Gedaliah his life. Ishmael even killed all the Judeans who were with Gedaliah and Chaldean (Babylonian) soldiers.

41:4-7 The arrival of these eighty worshipers created a problem for Ishmael (vv. 4-5), who needed to keep his killings secret so that he could escape (v. 10). His weeping (v. 6) provided a temporary cover-up so that he could kill most of the men before they reported him (vv. 7-8).

41:10 Ishmael reportedly had been sent by the king of Ammon (40:14) and set off with his captives to cross over to the Ammonites.

41:13-18 Johanan was the one who had warned Gedaliah about Ishmael earlier (40:13-15), and he rescued the people from the wicked Ishmael (vv. 13-16). Rather than returning home, however, they made their way into Egypt because they feared the Babylonians (vv. 17-18). Such a move was both a rejection of God's recent command to "serve" the king of Babylon (27:6-17; 28:14; see 40:9) and of the age-old prohibition against returning to Egypt (Dt 17:16; 28:68).

THE PEOPLE SEEK JEREMIAH'S COUNSEL

42 Then all the commanders of the armies, along with Johanan son of Kareah, † Jezaniah son of Hoshaiah, and all the people from the least to the greatest, † approached 2 the prophet Jeremiah and said, "May our petition come before you; † pray to the LORD your God on our behalf, † on behalf of this entire remnant (for few of us remain out of the many, † as you can see with your own eyes), 3 that the LORD your God may tell us the way we should go and the thing we should do."

4 So the prophet Jeremiah said to them, "I have heard. I will now pray to the LORD your God according to your words, and I will tell you every word that the LORD answers you; I won't withhold a word from you." †

5 And they said to Jeremiah, "May the LORD be a true and faithful witness against us if we don't act according to every word the LORD your God sends you to tell us. † 6 Whether it is pleasant or unpleasant, we will obey the LORD our God to whom we are sending you so that it may go well with us. † We will certainly obey the LORD our God! "

JEREMIAH'S ADVICE TO STAY

7 At the end of ten days, the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah, 8 and he summoned Johanan son of Kareah, all the commanders of the armies who were with him, and all the people from the least to the greatest.

9 He said to them, "This is what the LORD says, the God of Israel to whom you sent me to bring your petition before him: 10 'If you will indeed stay in this land, then I will rebuild and not demolish you, † and I will plant and not uproot you, because I relent concerning the disaster that I have brought on you. † 11 Don't be afraid of the king of Babylon † whom you now fear; don't be afraid of him' — this is the LORD's declaration — 'because I am with you to save you † and rescue you from him. 12 I will grant you compassion, † and he † will have compassion on you and allow you to return to your own soil.'

13 "But if you say, 'We will not stay in this land,' † in order to disobey the LORD your God, 14 and if you say, 'No, instead we'll go to the land of Egypt † where we will not see war or hear the sound of the ram's horn † or hunger for food, and we'll live there,' 15 then hear the word of the LORD, remnant of Judah! This is what the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel, † says: 'If you are firmly resolved to go to Egypt † and stay there for a while, 16 then the sword † you fear will overtake you there in the land of Egypt, and the famine you are worried about will follow on your heels † there to Egypt, and you will die there. 17 All who resolve to go to Egypt to stay there for a while will die by the sword, famine, and plague. They will have no survivor or fugitive from the disaster I will bring on them.'

18 "For this is what the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel, says: 'Just as my anger and fury were poured out on Jerusalem's residents, † so will my fury pour out on you if you go to Egypt. You will become an example for cursing, scorn, † execration, and disgrace, and you will never see this place again.' 19 The LORD has spoken concerning you, remnant of Judah: 'Don't go to Egypt.' Know for certain that I have warned you today! † 20 You have gone astray at the cost of your lives † because you are the ones who sent me to the LORD your God, saying, 'Pray to the LORD our God on our behalf, and as for all that the LORD our God says, tell it to us, and we'll act accordingly.' 21 For I have told you today, but you have not obeyed the LORD your God in everything he has sent me to tell you. 22 Now therefore, know for certain that by the sword, famine, and plague you will die in the place where you desired to go to stay for a while."

42:1-6 As the subsequent narrative shows (43:1-7), the request for prayer and promise of obedience to God was not genuine. Earlier, Zedekiah also had requested prayer while simultaneously rebelling against God (21:2-7; 37:3-10). While at Mount Sinai, Israel too had repeatedly pledged obedience, but to no avail (Ex 19:8; 24:3,7).

42:7-17 After ten days (vv. 7-8), God revealed his word to Jeremiah. Consistent with what had been said earlier (27:6-17; 28:14; 40:9), the people were to stay in this land and submit to the king of Babylon, despite possible repercussions related to Gedaliah's assassination (vv. 10-12). God never confesses sin—he has none—but he does change his mind on occasion to show mercy to his people. Here he says that he will relent concerning the disaster that he has brought (cp. 18:5-10). The language used to express God's blessing and protection in vv. 10-11 recalls 1:8,10. In contrast, fleeing to Egypt would not prove effective, and the same sword, famine, and plague that had already ruined Judah would follow them into Egypt (vv. 13-17; 27:13; 38:2).

JEREMIAH'S COUNSEL REJECTED

43 When Jeremiah had finished speaking to all the people all the words of the LORD their God — all these words the LORD their God had sent him to give them — 2 then Azariah † son of Hoshaiah, † Johanan son of Kareah, and all the other arrogant men responded to Jeremiah, "You are speaking a lie! The LORD our God has not sent you to say, 'You must not go to Egypt to stay there for a while! ' 3 Rather, Baruch son of Neriah is inciting you against us to hand us over to the Chaldeans to put us to death or to deport us to Babylon! " 4 So Johanan son of Kareah, all the commanders of the armies, and all the people failed to obey the LORD's command to stay in the land of Judah.
5 Instead, Johanan son of Kareah and all the commanders of the armies led away the whole remnant of Judah, † those who had returned to stay in the land of Judah from all the nations where they had been banished. 6 They led away the men, women, children, king's daughters, and everyone whom Nebuzaradan, captain of the guards, had allowed to remain with Gedaliah son of Ahikam son of Shaphan. † They also led the prophet Jeremiah and Baruch son of Neriah away. 7 They went to the land of Egypt because they did not obey the LORD.
They went as far as Tahpanhes. †

GOD'S SIGN TO THE PEOPLE IN EGYPT

8 Then the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah at Tahpanhes: 9 “Pick up some large stones and set them in the mortar of the brick pavement that is at the opening of Pharaoh’s palace at Tahpanhes. Do this in the sight of the Judean men 10 and tell them, ‘This is what the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel, says:
I will send for my servant Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and I will place his throne on these stones that I have embedded, and he will pitch his pavilion over them. 11 He will come and strike down the land of Egypt † — those destined for death, to death; those destined for captivity, to captivity; and those destined for the sword, † to the sword. 12 I † will kindle a fire in the temples of Egypt’s gods, † and he will burn them and take them captive. He will clean the land of Egypt as a shepherd picks lice off † his clothes, † and he will leave there unscathed. 13 He will smash the sacred pillars of the sun temple † † in the land of Egypt and burn the temples of the Egyptian gods.’ ”

43:1-7 Despite taking an oath to obey God (42:5-6), Johanan and the people rejected the prophetic message commanding them not to go to Egypt (42:19), even going so far as to accuse Jeremiah of lying and conspiring with Baruch (vv. 2-3). Instead of remaining in the land and serving the king of Babylon (42:10-11), they disobeyed and went to Egypt (v. 7). Previous passages have pointed out the uselessness of seeking help from Egypt (2:16-18; 24:8; 37:7-8). Furthermore, God had commanded Israel long ago never to return there (Dt 17:16; 28:68), for it was the land from which he had freed them from slavery.

43:8-13 Jeremiah had been taken along with the others to Egypt (vv. 5-6), and God gave him a message at Tahpanhes (vv. 7-8; 2:16). Jeremiah again uses a symbolic act to make his message clear (v. 9; see the note on 13:1-7). The large stones would symbolically represent the foundation of Nebuchadnezzar’s throne, which he would set up when he arrived and struck Egypt (vv. 10-13). As Jeremiah had said before, taking refuge there would be useless (42:13-17).

GOD’S JUDGMENT AGAINST HIS PEOPLE IN EGYPT

44 This is the word that came to Jeremiah for all the Jews living in the land of Egypt — at Migdol, † Tahpanhes, † Memphis, † and in the land of Pathros: † 2 “This is what the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel, says:
You have seen all the disaster I brought against Jerusalem and all Judah’s cities.
Look, they are a ruin today without an inhabitant in them † 3 because of the evil they committed to anger me, † by going and burning incense to serve other gods that they, you, and your fathers did not know. † 4 So I sent you all my servants

the prophets time and time again,† † saying, ‘Don’t commit this detestable action that I hate.’ 5 But they did not listen or pay attention; they did not turn from their evil or stop burning incense to other gods. 6 So my fierce wrath poured out and burned in Judah’s cities and Jerusalem’s streets † so that they became the desolate ruin they are today.

7 “So now, this is what the LORD, the God of Armies, the God of Israel, says: Why are you doing such terrible harm to yourselves? You are cutting off man and woman, infant and nursing baby † from Judah, leaving yourselves without a remnant. † 8 You are angering me by the work of your hands. You are burning incense to other gods in the land of Egypt where you have gone to stay for a while. As a result, you will be cut off and become an example for cursing and insult among all the nations of earth. † 9 Have you forgotten the evils of your fathers, the evils of Judah’s kings, the evils of their wives, your own evils, and the evils of your wives that were committed in the land of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem? 10 They have not become humble to this day, and they have not feared or followed my instruction or my statutes that I set before you and your ancestors.

11 “Therefore, this is what the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel, says: I am about to set my face against you to bring disaster,† to cut off all Judah. †

12 And I will take away the remnant of Judah, † those who have set their face to go to the land of Egypt to stay there. All of them will meet their end in the land of Egypt. They will fall by the sword; they will meet their end by famine. From the least to the greatest, † they will die by the sword and by famine. Then they will become an example for cursing, scorn, † execration, and disgrace. † 13 I will punish those living in the land of Egypt just as I punished Jerusalem by sword, famine, and plague. 14 Then the remnant of Judah — those going to live for a while there in the land of Egypt — will have no fugitive or survivor to return to the land of Judah where they are longing † to return to stay, † for they will not return except for a few fugitives.”

THE PEOPLE’S STUBBORN RESPONSE

15 However, all the men who knew that their wives were burning incense to other gods, all the women standing by — a great assembly — and all the people who were living in the land of Egypt at Pathros answered Jeremiah, 16 “As for the word you spoke to us in the name of the LORD, we are not going to listen to you! 17 Instead, we will do everything we promised: † we will burn incense to the queen of heaven † and offer drink offerings to her just as we, our fathers, our kings, and our officials did in Judah’s cities † and in Jerusalem’s streets. Then we had enough food, we were well off, and we saw no disaster, 18 but from the time we ceased to burn incense to the queen of heaven and to offer her drink offerings, we have lacked everything, and through sword and famine we have met our end.” †

19 And the women said, † “When we burned incense to the queen of heaven and poured out drink offerings to her, was it apart from our husbands’ knowledge † that we made sacrificial cakes in her image and poured out drink offerings to her? ”

20 But Jeremiah responded to all the people — the men, women, and all the people who were answering him: 21 “As for the incense you burned in Judah’s cities † and in Jerusalem’s streets — you, your fathers, your kings, your officials, and the people of the land — did the LORD not remember them? He brought this to mind. 22 The LORD can no longer bear your evil deeds and the detestable acts you have committed, † so your land has become a waste, a desolation, and an example for cursing, without inhabitant, as you see today. 23 Because you burned incense and sinned against the LORD and didn’t obey the LORD † and didn’t follow his instruction, his statutes, and his testimonies, this disaster has come to you, as you see today.”

24 Then Jeremiah said to all the people, including all the women, “Hear the word of the LORD, all you people of Judah who are in the land of Egypt. † 25 This is what the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel, says: ‘As for you and your wives, you women have spoken with your mouths, and you men fulfilled it by your deeds, saying, “We will keep our vows that we have made to burn incense to the queen of heaven and to pour out drink offerings for her.” Go ahead, confirm your vows! Keep your vows! ’

26 “Therefore, hear the word of the LORD, all you Judeans who live in the land of Egypt: ‘I have sworn by my great name, † says the LORD, that my name will never again be invoked by anyone of Judah in all the land of Egypt, † saying,

“As the Lord God lives.” 27 I am watching over them for disaster and not for good, † and everyone from Judah who is in the land of Egypt will meet his end by sword or famine until they are finished off. 28 Those who escape the sword will return from the land of Egypt to the land of Judah only few in number, † and the whole remnant of Judah, the ones going to the land of Egypt to stay there for a while, will know whose word stands, mine or theirs! 29 This will be a sign to you’ — this is the Lord’s declaration — ‘that I will punish you in this place, so you may know that my words of disaster concerning you will certainly come to pass. † 30 This is what the Lord says: I am about to hand over Pharaoh Hophra, † Egypt’s king, to his enemies, to those who intend to take his life, just as I handed over Judah’s King Zedekiah † to Babylon’s King Nebuchadnezzar, who was his enemy, the one who intended to take his life.’ ”

44:1-8 Jeremiah received another message for all the Jews who had fled to Egypt (see previous note). As in 42:18, God’s recent judgment of Jerusalem (vv. 2-6,13) served as a warning of impending judgment for their idolatry in Egypt (v. 8).

44:12 As declared in 42:13-17 and 43:8-13, all those who had fled to Egypt would be destroyed, from the least to the greatest. This phrase had been used recently in 42:1,8 as well as in 6:13 related to the total corruption of Judah. In contrast, the same phrase is used to describe the universal knowledge of God under the new covenant (31:34).

44:15-19 Further detail is given here about the burning incense to other gods mentioned in v. 8. Evidently, it was primarily the women who were doing this, though with the full knowledge of their husbands (vv. 15,19). The idol being worshiped was the queen of heaven (vv. 17-19; 7:18), which several commentators believe refers to the Assyrian goddess Ishtar, known in Palestine as Asherah. Those who had fled to Egypt foolishly believed that their recent calamity had nothing to do with God’s judgment but rather with failing to worship her appropriately (vv. 17-18).

44:26-28 After reasserting that the recent disaster was from God (vv. 20-23) and pointing out that the people had confessed to idolatry with their own mouths (vv. 24-25), Jeremiah pronounced God’s stern judgment against them. Among this group, God’s name would never again be invoked (v. 26; 4:2; 12:16), and God would watch over them for disaster and not for good (v. 27; 21:10), unlike what he said about the "good figs" (24:6; 29:11). He would ensure that his word would be fulfilled (v. 28; 1:11-12).

44:30 The handing over of Pharaoh Hophra to Nebuchadnezzar would be a "sign" (v. 29) that God's message of judgment would soon be fulfilled.

THE LORD'S MESSAGE TO BARUCH

45 This is the word that the prophet Jeremiah spoke to Baruch son of Neriah † when he wrote these words on a scroll at Jeremiah's dictation † † in the fourth year of Jehoiakim son of Josiah, king of Judah: †
2 "This is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says to you, Baruch: 3 'You have said, "Woe is me, because the LORD has added misery to my pain! I am worn out with † groaning and have found no rest." ' †
4 "This is what you are to say to him: 'This is what the LORD says: "What I have built I am about to demolish, and what I have planted I am about to uproot † — the whole land! 5 But as for you, do you pursue great things for yourself? Stop pursuing! For I am about to bring disaster on everyone" — this is the LORD's declaration — "but I will grant you your life like the spoils of war † wherever you go." ' "

45:1-5 Baruch expressed his weariness over serving as Jeremiah's scribe (vv. 1-3), perhaps related to his having to rewrite a scroll after Jehoiakim had burned the original (Jr 36). Although this passage seems out of place in its context, the preservation of Baruch's life amidst widespread destruction repeats an important theme that God would preserve those who were obedient, even in the midst of judgment (21:9; 38:2; 39:18). Despite his weariness, this blessing was not to be taken for granted (vv. 4-5; 15:11).

46 This is the word of the LORD that came to the prophet Jeremiah about the nations: †

PROPHECIES AGAINST EGYPT

2 About Egypt and the army of Pharaoh Neco, Egypt's king, † which was defeated at Carchemish † on the Euphrates River by King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon in the fourth year of Judah's King Jehoiakim son of Josiah: †

3 Deploy small shields † and large; approach for battle!

4 Harness the horses; mount the steeds; † take your positions with helmets on!
Polish the lances;
put on armor! †
5 Why have I seen this?
They are terrified,
they are retreating,
their warriors are crushed,
they flee headlong,
they never look back,
terror is on every side! †
This is the LORD's declaration.
6 The swift cannot flee, and the warrior cannot escape! †
In the north by the bank of the Euphrates River, they stumble and fall. †

7 Who is this, rising like the Nile, † with waters that churn like rivers?
8 Egypt rises like the Nile, † and its waters churn like rivers.
He boasts, "I will go up, I will cover the earth; I will destroy cities with their residents."
9 Rise up, you cavalry!
Race furiously, you chariots!
Let the warriors march out — Cush and Put, † who are able to handle shields, and the men of Lud, †
who are able to handle and string the bow. † 10 That day belongs to the Lord, the GOD of Armies, a day of vengeance to avenge himself against his adversaries.
The sword will devour and be satisfied;
it will drink its fill of their blood, because it will be a sacrifice † to the Lord, the God of Armies, in the northern land by the Euphrates River. †

11 Go up to Gilead and get balm, † Virgin Daughter Egypt!
You have multiplied remedies in vain;
there is no healing for you.
12 The nations have heard of your dishonor, † and your cries fill the earth, because warrior stumbles against warrior and together both of them have fallen.

13 This is the word the Lord spoke to the prophet Jeremiah about the coming of King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon to defeat the land of Egypt: †

14 Announce it in Egypt, and proclaim it in Migdol! † Proclaim it in Memphis and in Tahpanhes!
Say, “Take positions! Prepare yourself, for the sword devours all around you.” † 15 Why have your strong ones been swept away?
Each has not stood,
for the Lord has thrust him down.
16 He continues to stumble. †
Indeed, each falls over the other.
They say, “Get up! Let’s return to our people and to our native land, away from the oppressor’s sword.” † 17 There they will cry out, “Pharaoh king of Egypt was all noise;
he let the opportune moment pass.”

18 As I live — this is the King’s declaration;
the Lord of Armies is his name — †
the king of Babylon † will come like Tabor among the mountains and like Carmel by the sea.
19 Get your bags ready for exile, inhabitant of Daughter Egypt! †

For Memphis will become a desolation, uninhabited ruins.

20 Egypt is a beautiful young cow, † but a horsefly from the north is coming against her. † † 21 Even her mercenaries among her are like stall-fed calves.
They too will turn back;
together they will flee;
they will not take their stand, for the day of their calamity is coming on them, the time of their punishment. † 22 Egypt will hiss like a slithering snake, † for the enemy will come with an army; with axes they will come against her like those who cut trees. † 23 They will cut down her forest — this is the LORD's declaration — though it is dense, for they are more numerous than locusts;
they cannot be counted. †
24 Daughter Egypt will be put to shame, handed over to a northern people. †

25 The LORD of Armies, the God of Israel, says, "I am about to punish Amon, god of Thebes, † along with Pharaoh, Egypt, her gods, and her kings — Pharaoh and those trusting in him. 26 I will hand them over to those who intend to take their lives † — to King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon and his officers. But after this, † Egypt † will be inhabited again as in ancient times."
This is the LORD's declaration.

REASSURANCE FOR ISRAEL

27 But you, my servant Jacob, do not be afraid, † and do not be discouraged, Israel, for without fail I will save you from far away, and your descendants from the land of their captivity!
Jacob will return and have calm and quiet
with no one to frighten him.

28 And you, my servant Jacob, do not be afraid — this is the LORD's declaration — for I will be with you. †
I will bring destruction on all the nations where I have banished you, but I will not bring destruction on you.
I will discipline you with justice,
and I will by no means leave you unpunished. †

46:1 Jeremiah was commissioned as a "prophet to the nations" (1:5; see 25:13; 36:2). Whereas his messages previously in the book deal with the nations at significant points (see 3:17; 4:2; 9:25-26; 16:19), the following chapters focus on them in extended fashion. In this respect, Jeremiah 46–51 resembles Isaiah 13–23. Oracles against foreign nations are a distinct literary genre within the OT Prophets and are found in all of the prophetic books except Hosea. These oracles are normally not actually proclaimed to the nations; rather, the primary audience is the people of Israel and Judah. Perhaps a modern analogue would be an open letter to someone, which is mainly intended for everyone else. As King of the nations (10:7), God certainly has the authority and power to judge them (see 25:15-26).

46:2 Pharaoh Neco had killed Josiah and also had taken his successor Jehoahaz captive to Egypt (2Kg 23:29-33). He then installed Jehoiakim as king but required taxes from him (2Kg 23:34-35). Historians date his defeat at Carchemish to 605 BC.

46:5-8 Despite the nation's pride (vv. 7-8), Egypt was defeated decisively (vv. 5-6). This fall to Babylon had been foretold (25:8-11,15-29; 27:1-8).

46:10 The defeat of Egypt was not merely a significant event of world history but was an act of God's judgment linked to his day of vengeance (see Is 34:8; 61:2; 63:4). As before (see the note on 3:11-13), this judgment is associated with the north (vv. 6,10,20,24). The reference to a sword having its fill of blood for a sacrifice echoes Isaiah 34:5-6, which strengthens the eschatological overtones already present.

46:14 These Egyptian cities had also been mentioned in 44:1.

46:17-18 Whereas the king of Egypt would be humbled, the true King's declaration would come to pass (see the note on v. 1).

46:20 Consistent with other passages in Jeremiah (see the notes on v. 10 judgment comes on Egypt from the north.

46:22-23 Likening the judgment of Egypt to cutting down a forest echoes Isaiah 10:15-19 (see note), and comparing the number of foreign soldiers to innumerable locusts echoes Joel 1:4 and 2:25.

46:25-26 God's judgment was against both Egypt and her gods (43:13), as it was in the exodus (Ex 12:12). The gods of the nations were frequent competitors with the Lord for the attention and trust of his people. It was for the good of his people that God continually reminded them that these gods were false hopes. The mention of those trusting in Pharaoh relates to the foolishness of trusting man (17:5-6) and of relying on Egypt (37:7; 42:13-19; 43:9-13; 44:12-14). Nevertheless, hope remained because after this, Egypt will be inhabited again (v. 26; Is 19:19-25). A similar promise of resettlement was also given to Israel (23:6).

46:27-28 This encouragement to Israel that God will bring them back from exile is almost identical to 30:10-11. It also has some terminology common to Isaiah 41:8-10 and 44:2.

PROPHECIES AGAINST THE PHILISTINES

47 This is the word of the LORD that came to the prophet Jeremiah about the Philistines † before Pharaoh defeated Gaza. † 2 This is what the LORD says:

Look, water is rising from the north † and becoming an overflowing wadi.
It will overflow the land and everything in it, †
the cities and their inhabitants.
The people will cry out,
and every inhabitant of the land will wail.
3 At the sound of the stomping hooves of his stallions, † the rumbling of his chariots, and the clatter of their wheels, † fathers will not turn back for their sons.
They will be utterly helpless † 4 on account of the day that is coming to destroy all the Philistines, to cut off from Tyre and Sidon every remaining ally. †
Indeed, the LORD is about to destroy the Philistines, the remnant of the coastland of Caphtor. † †
5 Baldness † is coming to Gaza; Ashkelon will become silent. † Remnant of their valley,
how long will you gash yourself?

6 Oh, sword of the LORD! †
How long will you be restless?
Go back to your sheath;
be still; be silent!

7 How can it † rest when the LORD has given it a command? †
He has assigned it † against Ashkelon and the shore of the sea.

47:2 Judgment is once again said to come from the north (see the note on 46:10). Overwhelming judgment had also been compared to a flood in Isaiah 8:7-8. This suggests an eschatological situation, along with the phrases the land and everything in it, the cities and their inhabitants.

47:4 This dreadful day parallels the day prophesied against Egypt in 46:21.

47:6 As in 46:10,16, the agent of destruction is the divine sword. Jeremiah prayed that its fury against the Philistines would cease. The prophet thus cared about both Gentiles and his own people Israel (see the note on 8:18–9:2).

PROPHECIES AGAINST MOAB

48 About Moab, † this is what the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel, says:

Woe to Nebo, † because it is about to be destroyed; Kiriathaim will be put to shame; † it will be taken captive.
The fortress will be put to shame and dismayed!
2 There is no longer praise for Moab; they plan harm against her in Heshbon: †
Come, let's cut her off from nationhood.
Also, Madmen, you will be silenced;
the sword will follow † you.
3 A voice cries out from Horonaim, † "devastation and a crushing blow! " †
4 Moab will be shattered; her little ones will cry out.
5 For on the Ascent to Luhith they will be weeping continually, † and on the descent to Horonaim will be heard cries of distress over the destruction: †
6 Flee! Save your lives! †
Be like a juniper bush † † in the wilderness.

7 Because you trust in your works and treasures, you will be captured also.
Chemosh † will go into exile with his priests and officials. †
8 The destroyer † will move against every town; not one town will escape.
The valley will perish, and the plain will be annihilated, †
as the LORD has said.
9 Make Moab a salt marsh, † † for she will run away; † her towns will become a desolation, without inhabitant. †

10 The one who does the LORD's business deceitfully † is cursed, † and the one who withholds his sword from bloodshed is cursed.

11 Moab has been left quiet since his youth, settled like wine on its dregs. †
He hasn't been poured from one container to another or gone into exile.
So his taste has remained the same,
and his aroma hasn't changed.
12 Therefore look, the days are coming † — this is the LORD's declaration — when I will send pourers to him, who will pour him out.
They will empty his containers and smash his jars.
13 Moab will be put to shame because of Chemosh, just as the house of Israel was put to shame because of Bethel † that they trusted in.

14 How can you say, "We are warriors — valiant men for battle"?
15 The destroyer of Moab and its towns has come up, † and the best of its young men have gone down to slaughter.
This is the King's declaration;
the LORD of Armies is his name. †
16 Moab's calamity is near at hand; his disaster is rushing swiftly.
17 Mourn for him, all you surrounding nations, everyone who knows his name.

Say, “How the mighty scepter † is shattered, the glorious staff! ”

18 Come down from glory; sit on parched ground, resident of the daughter of Dibon, † for the destroyer of Moab has come against you; he has destroyed your fortresses.
19 Stand by the highway and watch, resident of Aroer! †
Ask him who is fleeing or her who is escaping, †
“What happened? ”
20 Moab is put to shame, indeed dismayed.
Wail and cry out! † Declare by the Arnon that Moab is destroyed.

21 “Judgment has come to the land of the plateau † — to Holon, Jahzah, Mephaath, 22 Dibon, Nebo, Beth-diblathaim, 23 Kiriathaim, Beth-gamul, Beth-meon, † 24 Kerioth, † Bozrah, and all the towns of the land of Moab, those far and near. 25 Moab’s horn is chopped off; † his arm is shattered.” †
This is the LORD’s declaration.
26 “Make him drunk, because he has exalted himself against the LORD. † Moab will wallow in his own vomit, and he will also become a laughingstock. 27 Wasn’t Israel a laughingstock to you? † Was he ever found among thieves? † For whenever you speak of him you shake your head.” †

28 Abandon the towns! Live in the cliffs, residents of Moab!
Be like a dove
that nests inside the mouth of a cave. †

29 We have heard of Moab’s pride, great pride, indeed — his insolence, arrogance, pride, and haughty heart.
30 I know his outburst.
This is the LORD’s declaration.
It is empty.

His boast is empty.
31 Therefore, I will wail over Moab.
I will cry out for Moab, all of it;
he will moan for the men of Kir-heres.
32 I will weep for you, vine of Sibmah, with more than the weeping for Jazer.
Your tendrils have extended to the sea;
they have reached to the sea and to Jazer. †
The destroyer has fallen on your summer fruit and grape harvest.
33 Gladness and celebration are taken from the fertile field and from the land of Moab.
I have stopped the flow of wine from the winepresses; no one will tread with shouts of joy.
The shouting is not a shout of joy. †

34 "There is a cry from Heshbon to Elealeh; they make their voices heard as far as Jahaz † — from Zoar to Horonaim and Eglath-shelishiyah — because even the Waters of Nimrim have become desolate. 35 In Moab, I will stop" — this is the LORD's declaration — "the one who offers sacrifices on the high place and burns incense to his gods. † 36 Therefore, my heart moans like flutes for Moab, † and my heart moans like flutes for the people of Kir-heres. And therefore, the wealth he has gained has perished. 37 Indeed, every head is bald and every beard is chopped short. † On every hand is a gash † and sackcloth † around the waist. 38 On all the rooftops of Moab and in her public squares, everyone is mourning because I have shattered Moab like a jar no one wants." † This is the LORD's declaration. 39 "How broken it is! They wail! How Moab has turned his back! He is ashamed. Moab will become a laughingstock and a shock to all those around him." †
40 For this is what the LORD says:

Look! He will swoop down like an eagle and spread his wings against Moab. †
41 The towns have † been captured, and the strongholds seized.
In that day the heart of Moab's warriors will be like the heart of a woman with contractions. † 42 Moab will be destroyed as a people because he has exalted himself against the LORD. †

43 Panic, † pit, and trap await you, resident of Moab.
This is the LORD's declaration.
44 He who flees from the panic will fall in the pit, and he who climbs from the pit will be captured in the trap, for I will bring against Moab
the year of their punishment. †
This is the LORD's declaration. †

45 Those who flee will stand exhausted in Heshbon's shadow because fire has come out from Heshbon and a flame from within Sihon.
It will devour Moab's forehead and the skull of the noisemakers.
46 Woe to you, Moab!
The people of Chemosh have perished because your sons have been taken captive and your daughters have gone into captivity. †
47 Yet, I will restore the fortunes † of Moab in the last days. †
This is the LORD's declaration.
The judgment on Moab ends here.

48:7 As in 46:25, misplaced trust will be exposed. God alone is to be trusted (see the note on 17:5-8), and Moab (v.9) would be exiled for relying on its works, its treasures, and its god Chemosh (see the note on v. 13).

48:10 Because God has purposed to judge Moab, curses are pronounced on those who do not execute his plan.

48:13 Chemosh seems to have been the national god of Moab (Nm 21:29; 1Kg 11:7,33). The Israelites had worshiped a golden calf at Bethel (1Kg 12:28-33; Am 3:14; 5:5).

48:15 For a second time in this section (46:18), God is referred to as “the King”. His sovereignty over the nations is the basis for his judgment and salvation of them (see 10:7).

48:17 Like the judgment of Egypt (46:12), the destruction of Moab would be known to other peoples.

48:26-30 Moab, the nation, was also guilty of exalting itself against the LORD (v. 26) and pride (v. 29). Their arrogance is also cited in Isaiah 16:6. Jeremiah 9:23-24 forbids boasting in anything besides the genuine knowledge of God.

48:31-32 Jeremiah pleaded for mercy on Philistia in 47:6 (see note), but it seems to be God who mourns over Moab here. These verses share similarities with Isaiah 16:7-11.

48:35 A significant part of God’s judgment against Moab would be putting an end to their idolatry. This is consistent with his plan for all nations to worship him alone (3:17).

48:38 The imagery of a shattered jar was similarly used in 19:1,10-11.

48:44 This verse contains a common OT formula that describes inescapable judgment. A person flees from one disaster only to meet a greater disaster; escape from that greater disaster only brings worse trouble, and so on (cp. 1Kg 19:17; Is 24:18; Am 5:19). The phrase the year of their punishment is repeatedly used of the appointed time for God’s judgment (e.g., 8:12; 23:12; 46:21; 49:8; 50:27; 51:17).

48:45-47 The terms Moab’s forehead (v. 45) and in the last days (v. 47) are uncommon and are shared with Numbers 24:14,17. In that passage, Moab is crushed by the Messiah who is victorious over Israel’s enemies. Here, Moab is also soundly defeated but will have its fortunes restored in the end. This same promise had been given to Israel (e.g., 29:14; 30:3,18; 31:23). Hope of salvation thus extends to the nations (see the notes on 46:25-26; 49:38-39).

PROPHECIES AGAINST AMMON

49 About the Ammonites, † this is what the LORD says:

Does Israel have no sons?
Is he without an heir?
Why then has Milcom † † dispossessed Gad † and his people settled in their cities?

2 Therefore look, the days are coming † — this is the LORD's declaration — when I will make the shout of battle † heard against Rabbah † of the Ammonites.
It will become a desolate mound,
and its surrounding villages will be set on fire.
Israel will dispossess their dispossessors, says the LORD.
3 Wail, Heshbon, † for Ai is devastated; cry out, daughters of Rabbah!
Clothe yourselves with sackcloth, † and lament; run back and forth within your walls, † because Milcom will go into exile together with his priests and officials. † 4 Why do you boast about your valleys, your flowing valley, † you faithless daughter — you who trust in your treasures and say, "Who can attack me? "
5 Look, I am about to bring terror on you † — this is the declaration of the Lord GOD of Armies — from all those around you.
You will be banished, each person headlong, with no one to gather up the fugitives.
6 But after that, I will restore the fortunes † of the Ammonites. †
This is the LORD's declaration.

PROPHECIES AGAINST EDOM

7 About Edom, † this is what the LORD of Armies says:

Is there no longer wisdom in Teman? †
Has counsel perished from the prudent?
Has their wisdom rotted away? †
8 Run! Turn back! Lie low, residents of Dedan, † for I will bring Esau's calamity on him † at the time I punish him. †
9 If grape harvesters came to you, wouldn't they leave some gleanings? †
Were thieves to come in the night, they would destroy only what they wanted. †

10 But I will strip Esau bare; I will uncover his secret places. †
He will try to hide, † but he will be unable.
His descendants will be destroyed along with his relatives and neighbors.
He will exist no longer. †

11 Abandon your fatherless; I will preserve them; let your widows trust in me. †

12 For this is what the LORD says: "If those who do not deserve to drink the cup must drink it, can you possibly remain unpunished? You will not remain unpunished, for you must drink it too. 13 For by myself I have sworn" † — this is the LORD's declaration — "Bozrah † will become a desolation, a disgrace, a ruin, and an example for cursing, and all its surrounding cities will become ruins forever." †

14 I have heard an envoy from the LORD; a messenger has been sent among the nations: Assemble yourselves to come against her.
Rise up for war!

15 I will certainly make you insignificant among the nations, despised among humanity.

16 As to the terror you cause, † your arrogant heart has deceived you.
You who live in the clefts of the rock, † you who occupy the mountain summit, though you elevate your nest like the eagles, even from there I will bring you down.
This is the LORD's declaration. †

17 "Edom will become a desolation. Everyone who passes by her will be appalled and scoff because of all her wounds. † 18 As when Sodom and Gomorrah were overthrown along with their neighbors," † says the LORD, "no one will live there; no human being will stay in it even temporarily. †

19 “Look, it will be like a lion coming from the thickets † of the Jordan to the watered grazing land. † I will chase Edom away from her land in a flash. I will appoint whoever is chosen for her. For who is like me? † Who will issue me a summons? † Who is the shepherd who can stand against me? ” †
20 Therefore, hear the plans that the LORD has drawn up against Edom and the strategies he has devised against the people of Teman: † The flock’s little lambs will certainly be dragged away, † and their grazing land will be made desolate because of them. † 21 At the sound of their fall the earth will quake; † the sound of her cry will be heard at the Red Sea. † 22 Look! It will be like an eagle soaring upward, then swooping down and spreading its wings over Bozrah. In that day the hearts of Edom’s warriors will be like the heart of a woman with contractions. †

PROPHECIES AGAINST DAMASCUS

23 About Damascus: †

Hamath and Arpad are put to shame, † for they have heard a bad report and are agitated, like † the anxious sea that cannot be calmed.
24 Damascus has become weak; she has turned to run;
panic has gripped her.
Distress and labor pains have seized her like a woman in labor. † 25 How can the city of praise not be abandoned, †
the town that brings me joy?
26 Therefore, her young men will fall in her public squares; all the warriors will perish in that day.
This is the declaration of the LORD of Armies. † 27 I will set fire to the wall of Damascus; it will consume Benhadad’s citadels. †

PROPHECIES AGAINST KEDAR AND HAZOR

28 About Kedar † and the kingdoms of Hazor, which King Nebuchadnezzar † of Babylon defeated, this is what the LORD says:

Rise up, attack Kedar, and destroy the people of the east!
29 They will take their tents and their flocks along with their tent curtains and all their equipment.
They will take their camels for themselves.
They will call out to them,
"Terror is on every side! " † 30 Run! Escape quickly! Lie low, residents of Hazor — this is the LORD's declaration — for King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon has drawn up a plan against you;
he has devised a strategy against you.

31 Rise up, attack a nation at ease, one living in security.
This is the LORD's declaration.
They have no doors, not even a gate bar;
they live alone. †
32 Their camels will become plunder, and their massive herds of cattle will become spoil. †
I will scatter them to the wind in every direction, those who clip the hair on their temples;
I will bring calamity on them across all their borders.
This is the LORD's declaration.
33 Hazor will become a jackals' den, †
a desolation forever.
No one will live there;
no human being will stay in it even temporarily. †

PROPHECIES AGAINST ELAM

34 This is the word of the LORD that came to the prophet Jeremiah about Elam † at the beginning of the reign of King Zedekiah of Judah. † 35 This is what the LORD of Armies says:

I am about to shatter Elam's bow, †
the source † of their might.
36 I will bring the four winds against Elam from the four corners of the heavens, and I will scatter them to all these winds.
There will not be a nation to which Elam's banished ones will not go.
37 I will devastate Elam before their enemies, before those who intend to take their lives.
I will bring disaster on them,
my burning anger.
This is the LORD's declaration.
I will send the sword after them †
until I finish them off.
38 I will set my throne in Elam, and I will destroy the king and officials from there.
This is the LORD's declaration.

39 Yet, in the last days, I will restore the fortunes of Elam. †
This is the LORD's declaration.

49:1-2 The theme of Israel taking possession of others (lit "possess those who possessed them") is shared with Amos 9:12. Other prophetic passages likewise speak of them permanently taking possession of the land (Is 65:9; Ob 17-20). The related theme of an heir goes all the way back to Genesis 15:3-8.

49:3 Milcom is called "the god of the Ammonites" in 1Kg 11:33. Like Chemosh (48:7), this idol and its priests and officials would go into exile (see Is 46:1-2). The nations thus would suffer the same fate as Israel (46:19; 48:46) but also had the same hope (46:27; see the note on 48:45-47).

49:4 Like Egypt and Moab (46:8; 48:29), Ammon was also guilty of pride. Israel had also been called faithless daughter (31:22), probably because of her habitual backsliding (3:12; 8:5). Ammon, like Moab had also wrongly trusted in her treasures (48:7).

49:6 Despite God's judgment of them, Ammon's fortunes will be restored (see the notes on 46:25-26; 48:45-47).

49:7 The next nation addressed is Edom, which slightly differs from the order in 25:19-21. Edom was also mentioned in 27:3 and was known for its wisdom (see Ob 8).

49:11 Edom would suffer the severe judgment of God, but its fatherless and widows would be saved through trust in God. This contrasts with the misplaced trust in works and treasures described in the preceding context (v. 4; 48:7). The theme of the correct object of trust is important in Jeremiah (see the note on 17:5-8).

49:12 This cup of divine wrath had been introduced in 25:15-17.

49:17-18 The comparison to Sodom and Gomorrah (v. 18) implies that Edom's utter destruction will be permanent (see v. 13), in contrast with that of Egypt (46:26), Moab (48:47), and Ammon (49:6). This may relate to a wordplay on Edom and human being (Hb 'adam vv. 15,18) such that Edom represents wicked humanity (see the note on Is 34:5).

49:21 The connection of Edom's judgment to the Red Sea echoes Exodus 15:15.

49:22 A similar thing had been said of Moab and its warriors in 48:40-41.

49:24 The suddenness and severity of God's judgment of Israel was also repeatedly compared to labor pains (4:31; 6:24; 13:21; 22:23; 30:6). The same is true for the king of Babylon (50:43), which shows God's equal treatment of Israel and the nations. Likewise, the punishment of Moab and Edom is compared to the anguish of a woman in labor (48:41).

49:28 For more on Kedar, see the notes on Isaiah 21:14-17 and 60:7.

49:29 The phrase "Terror is on every side!" is used similarly of overwhelming enemies in 6:25 and 46:5. It is also directed specifically toward an individual in 20:3,10 and Psalm 31:14.

49:32 Judgment on those who clip the hair on their temples had been predicted in 9:26 and 25:23.

49:33 This echoes what was said of Edom in vv. 13,18.

49:34 Elam's judgment had been foretold in 25:25. That text associates them with the land of the Medes (Media), as does Isaiah 21:2.

49:36 Like Kedar and Hazor (v. 32), Elam would also be scattered to the winds and exiled like other nations (see the note on v. 3).

49:38-39 Having already referred to himself as King in the preceding context (46:18; 48:15), God declares his direct rule over Elam in the future. The establishment of his throne precludes the rule of its own king and officials. This relates to the eschatological establishment of Jerusalem as the Lord's throne (3:17). As was the case for Moab (see the note on 48:45-47), judgment is balanced by the promise: In the last days, I will restore the fortunes of Elam.

PROPHECIES AGAINST BABYLON

50 This is the word the LORD spoke about Babylon, † the land of the Chaldeans, through the prophet Jeremiah:

2 Announce to the nations; proclaim and raise up a signal flag; † proclaim, and hide nothing.
Say, “Babylon is captured;
Bel † is put to shame; Marduk is terrified.”
Her idols are put to shame;
her false gods, devastated.
3 For a nation from the north will attack her; † it will make her land desolate.
No one will be living in it — both people and animals will escape. † † 4 In those days and at that time — this is the LORD’s declaration — the Israelites and Judeans will come together, † weeping as they come, and will seek the LORD their God. †
5 They will ask about Zion, turning their faces to this road.
They will come and join themselves † to the LORD in a permanent covenant † that will never be forgotten.

6 My people were lost sheep; † their shepherds led them astray, † guiding them the wrong way in the mountains. †
They wandered from mountain to hill;
they forgot their resting place.
7 Whoever found them devoured them.
Their adversaries said, “We’re not guilty; instead, they have sinned against the LORD, their righteous grazing land, † the hope of their ancestors, † the LORD.”

8 Escape from Babylon; † depart from the Chaldeans' land.

Be like the rams that lead the flock.

9 For I will soon stir up and bring against Babylon † an assembly of great nations from the north country.
They will line up in battle formation against her; † from there she will be captured.
Their arrows will be like a skilled † warrior who does not return empty-handed.
10 The Chaldeans will become plunder; all Babylon's plunderers will be fully satisfied.
This is the LORD's declaration.
11 Because you rejoice, because you celebrate — you who plundered my inheritance — because you frolic like a young cow treading grain and neigh like stallions, † 12 your mother † will be utterly humiliated; she who bore you will be put to shame.
Look! She will lag behind all † the nations — an arid wilderness, a desert. † 13 Because of the LORD's wrath, she will not be inhabited;
she will become a desolation, every bit of her.
Everyone who passes through Babylon will be appalled and scoff because of all her wounds. †
14 Line up in battle formation around Babylon, all you archers!
Shoot at her! Do not spare an arrow, for she has sinned against the LORD.
15 Raise a war cry against her on every side!
She has thrown up her hands in surrender;
her defense towers have fallen;
her walls are demolished. † Since this is the LORD's vengeance, † take your vengeance on her;
as she has done, do the same to her.
16 Cut off the sower from Babylon as well as him who wields the sickle at harvest time.

Because of the oppressor's sword, † each will turn to his own people, † each will flee to his own land.

THE RETURN OF GOD'S PEOPLE

17 Israel is a stray lamb, chased by lions. †
The first who devoured him was the king of Assyria; the last who crushed his bones was King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon. †

18 Therefore, this is what the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel, says: I am about to punish the king of Babylon † and his land just as I punished the king of Assyria.

19 I will return Israel to his grazing land, † and he will feed on Carmel and Bashan;
he will be satisfied
in the hill country of Ephraim and of Gilead. † 20 In those days and at that time — this is the LORD's declaration — one will search for Israel's iniquity, but there will be none,
and for Judah's sins,
but they will not be found,
for I will forgive † those I leave as a remnant. †

THE INVASION OF BABYLON

21 Attack the land of Merathaim, and those living in Pekod.
Put them to the sword;
completely destroy them —
this is the LORD's declaration — do everything I have commanded you. † 22 The sound of war is in the land † — a crushing blow!
23 How the hammer of the whole earth is cut down and smashed!
What a horror Babylon has become

among the nations! †

24 Babylon, I laid a trap for you, and you were caught, † but you did not even know it.
You were found and captured because you pitted yourself against the LORD.

25 The LORD opened his armory and brought out his weapons of wrath, † because it is a task of the Lord GOD of Armies in the land of the Chaldeans.

26 Come against her from the most distant places. †
Open her granaries;
pile her up like mounds of grain and completely destroy her.
Leave her no survivors.

27 Put all her young bulls to the sword; let them go down to the slaughter.
Woe to them because their day has come,
the time of their punishment. †

THE HUMILIATION OF BABYLON

28 There is a voice of fugitives and refugees from the land of Babylon.
The voice announces in Zion the vengeance of the LORD our God, the vengeance for his temple. †

29 Summon the archers to Babylon, all who string the bow;
camp all around her; let none escape.

Repay her according to her deeds; † just as she has done, do the same to her, for she has acted arrogantly against the LORD, against the Holy One of Israel. †

30 Therefore, her young men will fall in her public squares;
all the warriors will perish in that day.

This is the LORD's declaration. †

31 Look, I am against you, you arrogant one — this is the declaration of the Lord GOD of Armies — for your day has come,
the time when I will punish you.

32 The arrogant will stumble and fall † with no one to pick him up.

I will set fire to his cities, and it will consume everything around him. †

THE DESOLATION OF BABYLON

33 This is what the LORD of Armies says:

Israelites and Judeans alike have been oppressed.
All their captors hold them fast; † they refuse to release them.
34 Their Redeemer is strong; the LORD of Armies is his name.
He will fervently champion their cause † so that he might bring rest to the earth but turmoil to those who live in Babylon. † 35 A sword is over the Chaldeans — this is the LORD's declaration — against those who live in Babylon, against her officials, and against her sages.
36 A sword is against the diviners, and they will act foolishly.
A sword is against her heroic warriors, and they will be terrified.
37 A sword is against his horses and chariots and against all the foreigners among them, † and they will be like women. †
A sword is against her treasuries, and they will be plundered.
38 A drought will come on her waters, and they will be dried up.
For it is a land of carved images, and they go mad because of terrifying things. † †

39 Therefore, desert creatures † will live with hyenas, and ostriches will also live in her.
It will never again be inhabited or lived in through all generations. † 40 Just as God demolished Sodom and Gomorrah and their neighboring towns † — this is the LORD's declaration — so no one will live there;

no human being will stay in it even temporarily as a temporary resident. †

THE CONQUEST OF BABYLON

41 Look! A people comes from the north. †
A great nation and many kings will be stirred up from the remote regions of the earth. †
42 They grasp bow and javelin.
They are cruel and show no mercy.
Their voice roars like the sea, †
and they ride on horses,
lined up like men in battle formation against you, Daughter Babylon.
43 The king of Babylon has heard about them; his hands have become weak.
Distress has seized him —
pain, like a woman in labor. †

44 "Look, it will be like a lion coming from the thickets † † of the Jordan to the watered grazing land. I will chase Babylon † away from her land in a flash. I will appoint whoever is chosen for her. For who is like me? Who will issue me a summons? Who is the shepherd who can stand against me?"
45 Therefore, hear the plans that the LORD has drawn up against Babylon and the strategies he has devised against the land of the Chaldeans: † Certainly the flock's little lambs will be dragged away; certainly the grazing land will be made desolate because of them. 46 At the sound of Babylon's conquest the earth will quake; a cry will be heard among the nations. †

50:1-3 As foretold in 25:12-14, Babylon, the instrument of God's judgment of the nations, will itself be judged, along with its gods. Its destruction would also come from the north (vv. 3,9).

50:4-5 The repentant, sorrowful return of Israel and Judah to God recall passages such as 3:18; 30:9; and 31:9. Whereas the ark of the LORD's covenant will be forgotten (3:16), the permanent covenant will not be. This reinforces the idea that the new covenant will accomplish what the covenant with Israel at Sinai could not (see 31:31-34; Heb 8:13).

50:8-9 The command to flee Babylon parallels v. 45 and Isaiah 48:20. The assembly of great nations that fights against her is in keeping with 25:14 (see Gn 17:5).

50:12 Babylon is personified as a woman. This imagery, including her humiliation and desolation, is found again in Revelation 18.

50:15 Babylon had delighted in the destruction of Israel (v. 11), but God would have vengeance against her (see Is 61:2; 63:4).

50:17 As in vv. 6-7, Israel is again compared to helpless sheep. Assyria had exiled the northern kingdom of Israel and Babylon the southern kingdom of Judah.

50:19-20 The salvation of Israel is again contrasted with the judgment of Babylon (see vv. 4-5; Is 14:1-2). The latter will be made a permanent desolation (vv. 13,39) but Israel will be brought back to its land (v. 19). Babylon will face God's "wrath" and "vengeance" for her sins (vv. 13-15), but Israel's iniquity and sins will be forgiven (v. 20) through the new covenant (31:34). Israel also faced God's judgment but still was left a remnant, unlike Babylon (v. 26; see the note on 51:5).

50:29-32 Babylon's sin of arrogance is repeatedly cited here (vv. 29,31-32). Other nations in this section were likewise guilty of this (46:8; 48:29-30; 49:4). The day and time (vv. 27,31) of God's "vengeance" on her will indeed come (v. 28; see the note on vv. 19-20).

50:33-34 Despite the strength of the captors, God is stronger and will free Israel and Judah. The language used here likens this future redemption to a second exodus (see the notes on Is 10:24-26; 11:11-16; 48:20-22). This redemption brings rest to the earth.

50:38 Babylon's idols were also mentioned in v. 2.

50:40 The utter destruction of Edom was also likened to that of Sodom and Gomorrah (50:18).

50:41 Judgment coming from the north is a common theme in this section and in the book of Jeremiah (see the note on 46:10). The involvement of kings in the judgment of Babylon had been likewise predicted in 25:14. An army coming from the remote regions of the earth was also foretold in 6:22. A "great assembly" of the redeemed is likewise brought from these same places (31:8; see Is 26:6; 33:23).

50:43 The focus here is on the king of Babylon, as in v. 18. Sudden, severe anguish is again compared to labor pains (see the note on 49:24). This is how Judah was described in 6:24.

GOD'S JUDGMENT ON BABYLON

51 This is what the LORD says:

I am about to rouse the spirit of a destroyer † against Babylon † and against the population of Leb-qamai. † †

2 I will send strangers to Babylon who will scatter her and strip her land bare, † for they will come against her from every side in the day of disaster.

3 Don't let the archer string his bow; don't let him put on † his armor. † Don't spare her young men; completely destroy her entire army!

4 Those who were slain will fall in the land of the Chaldeans, those who were pierced through, in her streets. †

5 For Israel and Judah are not left widowed by their God, the LORD of Armies, though their land is full of guilt against the Holy One of Israel. †

6 Leave Babylon; † save your lives, each of you! †
Don't perish because of her guilt.
For this is the time of the LORD's vengeance — he will pay her what she deserves. †

7 Babylon was a gold cup in the LORD's hand, † making the whole earth drunk.
The nations drank her wine; † therefore, the nations go mad. †

8 Suddenly Babylon fell and was shattered.
Wail for her;
get balm † for her wound — perhaps she can be healed.

9 We tried to heal Babylon, but she could not be healed.
Abandon her!
Let each of us go to his own land, † for her judgment extends to the sky and reaches as far as the clouds. †

10 The LORD has brought about our vindication; † come, let's tell in Zion what the LORD our God has accomplished. †

11 Sharpen the arrows! †
Fill the quivers! †
The LORD has roused the spirit of the kings of the Medes because his plan is aimed at Babylon to destroy her,
for it is the LORD's vengeance, vengeance for his temple. † 12 Raise up a signal flag † against the walls of Babylon;
fortify the watch post;
set the watchmen in place;
prepare the ambush.
For the LORD has both planned and accomplished what he has threatened against those who live in Babylon. † 13 You who reside by abundant water, † rich in treasures,
your end has come,
your life thread is cut.

14 The LORD of Armies has sworn by himself:

I will fill you up with men as with locusts, and they will sing the victory song over you.

15 He made the earth by his power, established the world † by his wisdom, †
and spread out the heavens by his understanding. † 16 When he thunders, † the waters in the heavens are tumultuous, † and he causes the clouds to rise from the ends of the earth.

He makes lightning for the rain
and brings the wind from his storehouses. †

17 Everyone is stupid and ignorant.
Every goldsmith is put to shame by his carved image, †
for his cast images are a lie; †
there is no breath in them. †
18 They are worthless, † a work to be mocked.
At the time of their punishment they will be destroyed. †
19 Jacob's Portion † is not like these because he is the one who formed all things. † Israel is the tribe of his inheritance; †
the LORD of Armies is his name. †

20 You are my war club, my weapons of war.
With you I will smash nations;
with you I will bring kingdoms to ruin.
21 With you I will smash the horse and its rider; with you I will smash the chariot and its rider.
22 With you I will smash man and woman; † with you I will smash the old man and the youth; with you I will smash the young man and the young woman.
23 With you I will smash the shepherd and his flock; with you I will smash the farmer and his ox-team. †
With you I will smash governors and officials.

24 "Before your very eyes, I will repay Babylon and all the residents of Chaldea for all their evil they have done in Zion." †
This is the LORD's declaration.

25 Look, I am against you, devastating mountain.
This is the LORD's declaration.
You devastate the whole earth.

I will stretch out my hand against you, † roll you down from the cliffs, and turn you into a charred mountain.
26 No one will be able to retrieve a cornerstone or a foundation stone from you, because you will become desolate forever.
This is the LORD's declaration.

27 Raise a signal flag † in the land; blow a ram's horn among the nations; † set apart the nations against her. † Summon kingdoms against her — Ararat, Minni, and Ashkenaz.
Appoint a marshal against her;
bring up horses like a swarm † of locusts.
28 Set apart the nations for battle against her — the kings of Media, her governors and all her officials, and all the lands they rule.
29 The earth quakes † and trembles because the LORD's intentions against Babylon stand: to make the land of Babylon a desolation, without inhabitant.
30 Babylon's warriors have stopped fighting; † they sit in their strongholds.
Their might is exhausted;
they have become like women.
Babylon's homes have been set ablaze, her gate bars are shattered. † 31 Messenger races to meet messenger, † and herald to meet herald, to announce to the king of Babylon that his city has been captured from end to end. † 32 The fords have been seized, †
the marshes set on fire, and the fighting men are terrified.

33 For this is what the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel, says:

Daughter Babylon is like a threshing floor at the time it is trampled. †
In just a little while her harvest time will come. †

34 “King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon has devoured me; he has crushed me.
He has set me aside like an empty dish;
he has swallowed me like a sea monster; † he filled his belly with my delicacies;
he has vomited me out. † 35 Let the violence done to me and my family be done to Babylon,” says the inhabitant of Zion.
“Let my blood be on the inhabitants of Chaldea,” says Jerusalem.

36 Therefore, this is what the LORD says:

I am about to champion your cause † and take vengeance on your behalf;
I will dry up her sea †
and make her fountain run dry.
37 Babylon will become a heap of rubble, a jackals’ den, a desolation and an object of scorn, †
without inhabitant. †
38 They will roar together like young lions; they will growl like lion cubs.
39 While they are flushed with heat, I will serve them a feast, and I will make them drunk so that they celebrate. † †
Then they will fall asleep forever
and never wake up.
This is the LORD’s declaration.
40 I will bring them down like lambs to the slaughter, like rams together with male goats. †

41 How Sheshach † † has been captured, † the praise † of the whole earth seized.

What a horror Babylon has become
among the nations! †
42 The sea has risen over Babylon; †
she is covered with its tumultuous waves.
43 Her cities have become a desolation, † an arid desert,
a land where no one lives,
where no human being even passes through.
44 I will punish Bel † in Babylon.
I will make him vomit what he swallowed. †
The nations will no longer stream to him; † even Babylon's wall will fall.

45 Come out from among her, my people! †
Save your lives, each of you, †
from the LORD's burning anger.
46 May you not become cowardly and fearful when the report is proclaimed in the land, for the report will come one year, and then another the next year.
There will be violence in the land with ruler against ruler.
47 Therefore, look, the days are coming † when I will punish Babylon's carved images. †
Her entire land will suffer shame, and all her slain will lie fallen within her. † 48 Heaven and earth and everything in them will shout for joy † over Babylon because the destroyers from the north † will come against her.
This is the LORD's declaration.

49 Babylon must fall because of the slain of Israel, even as the slain of the whole earth fell because of Babylon.

50 You who have escaped the sword, † go and do not stand still!
Remember the LORD from far away, and let Jerusalem come to your mind.

51 We are ashamed because we have heard insults. † Humiliation covers our faces because foreigners have entered the holy places of the LORD's temple. †

52 Therefore, look, the days are coming — this is the LORD's declaration — when I will punish her carved images, and the wounded will groan throughout her land.

53 Even if Babylon should ascend to the heavens † and fortify her tall fortresses, destroyers will come against her from me.
This is the LORD's declaration.

54 The sound of a cry from Babylon! †
The sound of terrible destruction † from the land of the Chaldeans!

55 For the LORD is going to devastate Babylon; he will silence her mighty voice.
Their waves roar like a huge torrent;
the tumult of their voice resounds,

56 for a destroyer is coming against her, against Babylon.
Her warriors will be captured,
their bows shattered,
for the LORD is a God of retribution; he will certainly repay.

57 I will make her princes and sages drunk, along with her governors, officials, and warriors.
Then they will fall asleep forever
and never wake up. †
This is the King's declaration;
the LORD of Armies is his name. †

58 This is what the LORD of Armies says:

Babylon's thick walls will be totally demolished, † and her high gates set ablaze.
The peoples will have labored for nothing; †
the nations will weary themselves only to feed the fire.

59 This is what the prophet Jeremiah commanded Seraiah son of Neriah son of Mahseiah, † the quartermaster, when he went to Babylon with King Zedekiah of Judah in the fourth year of Zedekiah's reign. 60 Jeremiah wrote on one scroll about all the disaster that would come to Babylon; † all these words were written against Babylon.
61 Jeremiah told Seraiah, "When you get to Babylon, see that you read all these words aloud. 62 Say, 'LORD, you have threatened to cut off † this place so that no one will live in it — people or animals. † Indeed, it will remain desolate forever.' 63 When you have finished reading this scroll, tie a stone to it and throw it into the middle of the Euphrates River. † 64 Then say, 'In the same way, Babylon will sink and never rise again because of the disaster I am bringing on her. They will grow weary.' "
The words of Jeremiah end here.

51:5 Whereas Babylon is compared to a disgraced woman subjected to divine wrath (vv. 6-9; 50:12-15), God's people are not left widowed (see the note on 50:19-20).

51:8-9 Babylon's judgment (or wound) is irreversible. Characterizing her judgment as reaching to the sky and the clouds alludes to the Tower of Babel in Genesis 11:1-9 (see note). This connection also surfaces in v. 53 (see note).

51:10 This verse shares themes and some vocabulary with the significant messianic prophecy in 23:5-6.

51:11 The judgment of Babylon was a historical reality involving the Medes (see vv. 27-28). In other places, it seems also to represent the eschatological judgment of the wicked in general (see vv. 9,48,53; 50:34; the notes on Is 13:1–14:23).

51:14 The comparison of an innumerable army to locusts here and in v. 27 echoes the book of Joel.

51:15-19 This passage contrasts God with idols by highlighting his power and his wisdom. It is nearly identical to 10:12-16.

51:20-23 This war club seems to pick up on the imagery of 50:23 to describe Babylon. Nevertheless, the instrument of divine wrath would itself be judged (v. 24).

51:25-26 The description of Babylon as a devastating mountain that destroys the whole earth contrasts with eschatological Mount Zion, from which peace proceeds (Is 2:2-4; see Dn 2:35,44-45). Its lack of a cornerstone or a foundation stone likewise contrasts with Zion (Is 28:16).

51:34-35 The king of Babylon is compared to a sea monster who has swallowed up Zion. Such a creature represents a powerful, evil enemy in other OT passages (see the notes on Ps 74:12-17; Is 27:1).

51:39 This "everlasting sleep" (lit) relates to Babylon's permanent destruction and death (vv. 36-40). The same Hebrew phrase appears in v. 57 and contrasts with the resurrection of the righteous in Isaiah 26:19 (see note).

51:41 The term Sheshach was also used as a title for Babylon in 25:26.

51:44 The Babylonian idol Bel was likewise involved in swallowing Jerusalem (see the note on vv. 34-35). God, however, would force it to vomit them up (see Jnh 2:10). The pronouncement that nations will no longer stream to him contrasts with their streaming in the last days to Mount Zion (Is 2:2). This relationship is further strengthened through the comparison of Babylon to a "mountain" in v. 25.

51:45 A similar command to leave Babylon had been given in 50:8-9 (see note).

51:48 The destruction of Babylon brings joy not only to Israel but to all of creation. This is similar to the prophet Nahum celebrating over the destruction of the king of Assyria (Nah 3:19). God's people rejoice when he is vindicated, and they are saved when his enemies are destroyed.

51:50 Those fleeing Babylon (v. 45) are to move with haste. They are far away because they are in exile (see the note on 31:2-3), and their longing for Jerusalem parallels the common sentiment of the godly elsewhere in the OT (e.g., Ps 137:5-6; Is 62:1-7).

51:53 Similar to vv. 8-9, the condition, if Babylon should ascend to the heavens, alludes to the Tower of Babel in Genesis 11:1-9 (see note). The same Hebrew word can be translated as either "Babylon" or "Babel."

51:57 Eternal sleep had been mentioned in v. 39 (see note), and the theme of God's rule appears yet again (see 46:18; 48:15; 49:38).

51:58 The second half of this verse is similar to Habakkuk 2:13.

51:59-64 The dramatic conclusion to this extended judgment oracle against Babylon is yet another symbolic action (see the note on 13:1-7). The sinking of the scroll in the Euphrates represented the permanent fall of Babylon. Although Israel also would endure severe judgment, they would be restored in the end (see the notes on 1:9-10; 50:19-20).

THE FALL OF JERUSALEM

52 Zedekiah was twenty-one years old when he became king, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Hamutal daughter of Jeremiah; she was from Libnah. 2 Zedekiah did what was evil in the LORD's sight just as Jehoiakim had done. † 3 Because of the LORD's anger, it came to the point in Jerusalem and Judah that he finally banished them from his presence. Then Zedekiah rebelled against the king of Babylon. †

4 In the ninth year of Zedekiah's reign, on the tenth day of the tenth month, King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon advanced against Jerusalem with his entire army. They laid siege to the city and built a siege wall against it all around. 5 The city was under siege until King Zedekiah's eleventh year.

6 By the ninth day of the fourth month the famine was so severe in the city that the common people had no food. 7 Then the city was broken into, and all the warriors fled. They left the city at night by way of the city gate between the two walls near the king's garden, though the Chaldeans surrounded the city. They made their way along the route to the Arabah. † 8 The Chaldean army pursued the king and overtook Zedekiah in the plains of Jericho. Zedekiah's entire army left him and scattered. 9 The Chaldeans seized the king and brought him to the king of Babylon at Riblah in the land of Hamath, and he passed sentence on him.

10 At Riblah the king of Babylon slaughtered Zedekiah's sons before his eyes, and he also slaughtered the Judean commanders. 11 Then he blinded Zedekiah and bound him with bronze chains. The king of Babylon brought Zedekiah to Babylon, where he kept him in custody † until his dying day. †

12 On the tenth day of the fifth month — which was the nineteenth year of King Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon — Nebuzaradan, the captain of the guards, entered Jerusalem as the representative of † the king of Babylon. 13 He burned the LORD's temple, the king's palace, all the houses of Jerusalem; he burned down all the great houses. 14 The whole Chaldean army with the captain of the guards tore down all the walls surrounding Jerusalem. † 15 Nebuzaradan, the captain of the guards, deported some of the poorest of the people, as well as the rest of the people who remained in the city, the deserters who had defected to the king of Babylon, and the rest of the craftsmen. 16 But Nebuzaradan, the captain of the guards, left some of the poorest of the land to be vinedressers and farmers. †

17 Now the Chaldeans broke into pieces the bronze pillars for the LORD's temple and the water carts and the bronze basin † that were in the LORD's temple, † and they carried all the bronze to Babylon. 18 They also took the pots, shovels, wick trimmers, sprinkling basins, dishes, and all the bronze articles used in the temple service. 19 The captain of the guards took away the bowls, firepans, sprinkling basins, pots, lampstands, pans, and drink offering bowls † — whatever was gold or silver.

20 As for the two pillars, the one basin, with the twelve bronze oxen under it, and the water carts † that King Solomon had made for the LORD's temple, the weight of the bronze of all these articles was beyond measure. 21 One pillar was 27 feet † tall, had a circumference of 18 feet, † was hollow — four fingers thick — 22 and had a bronze capital on top of it. † One capital, encircled by bronze grating and pomegranates, stood 7 1/2 feet † high. The second pillar was the same, with pomegranates. 23 Each capital had ninety-six pomegranates all around it. All the pomegranates around the grating numbered one hundred.

24 The captain of the guards also took away Seraiah the chief priest, Zephaniah the priest of the second rank, and the three doorkeepers. 25 From the city he took a court official † who had been appointed over the warriors; seven trusted royal aides † found in the city; the secretary of the commander of the army, who enlisted the people of the land for military duty; and sixty men from the common people † who were found within the city. 26 Nebuzaradan, the captain of the guards, took them and brought them to the king of Babylon at Riblah. 27 The king of Babylon put them to death at Riblah in the land of Hamath. So Judah went into exile from its land. †

28 These are the people Nebuchadnezzar deported: † in the seventh year, 3,023 Jews; 29 in his eighteenth year, † 832 people from Jerusalem; 30 in Nebuchadnezzar's twenty-third year, Nebuzaradan, the captain of the guards, deported 745 Jews. Altogether, 4,600 people were deported.

JEHOIACHIN PARDONED

31 On the twenty-fifth day of the twelfth month of the thirty-seventh year of the exile of Judah's King Jehoiachin, King Evil-merodach of Babylon, in the first year of his reign, pardoned King Jehoiachin of Judah and released him from prison. 32 He spoke kindly to him and set his throne above the thrones of the kings who were with him in Babylon. 33 So Jehoiachin changed his prison clothes, and he dined regularly in the presence of the king of Babylon for the rest of his life. 34 As for his allowance, a regular allowance was given to him by the king of Babylon, a portion for each day until the day of his death, for the rest of his life. †

52:1 Besides vv. 28-30, this chapter is nearly identical to 2 Kings 24:18–25:21,27-30.

52:4-11 The siege of Jerusalem and the capture of Zedekiah was also recounted in 39:1-7.

52:13-15 The burning of buildings, the breaking down of the walls, and the leaving behind of the poorest of the land was also described in 39:8-10.

52:31-34 Despite the fall of Jerusalem and the exile of Judah, Jeremiah, like 2 Kings, concludes with this hopeful passage concerning the favor shown to Jehoiachin while in exile (see the note on 2Kg 25:27-30).

LAMENTATIONS

INTRODUCTION

The book of Lamentations addresses the extremes of human pain and suffering. For this reason, Lamentations is an important biblical source expressing the hard questions that arise during our times of pain. The suffering the author discusses was brought on by the brutal overthrow of Jerusalem in 586 BC. When naming a book of the Hebrew Bible, the first word was often adopted as the name of the whole book. In this case, 1:1; 2:1; and 4:1 begin the typical Hebrew cry of woe (Hb 'ekah; "Ah," "Alas," "How"), an exclamatory Hebrew particle. Thus, the book would have been known as Alas! Later rabbis referred to the book more by its contents—qinot, i.e., "lamentations"—so this title came to be passed down in the Talmud and in the Greek translation (the Septuagint).

CIRCUMSTANCES OF WRITING

AUTHOR: Jeremiah's name has long been associated with this book. The Alexandrian form of the Septuagint has these words preceding 1:1: "And it came to pass, after Israel had been carried away captive, and Jerusalem became desolate, that Jeremiah sat weeping, and lamented with this lamentation over Jerusalem." The Latin Vulgate adds this phrase: "and with a sorrowful mind, sighing and moaning, he said." The Talmud observes that "Jeremiah wrote his own book and the book of Kings and Lamentations." Given this rich tradition linking Jeremiah to Lamentations, it seems safe to conclude he did indeed write this book.

BACKGROUND: The background for lamentations was the sacking of Jerusalem and the burning of the temple in 587 BC by the Babylonian army. Even though the book lists only one proper name ("Edom," 4:21-22), the allusions and the historical connections to the events listed so dramatically in 2 Kings 25; 2 Chronicles 36:11-21; and the book of Jeremiah are unmistakable. Perhaps a short list of the key events and some of their allusions in the book of Lamentations will help make this point:

EVENTS	LAMENTATIONS
1. Siege of Jerusalem	2:20-22; 3:5,7
2. Famine in the city	1:11,19; 2:11-12,19-20; 4:4-5, 9-10; 5:9-10
3. Flight of the Judean army	1:3,6; 2:2; 4:19-20
4.Burning of the temple, etc.	2:3-5; 4:11; 5:18
5. Breaching of the city walls	2:7-9
6. Exile of the people	1:1,4-5,18; 2:9,14; 3:2,19; 4:22; 5:2
7. Looting of the temple	1:10; 2:6-7
8. Execution of the leaders	1:15; 2:2,20
9. Vassal status of Judah	1:1; 5:8-9
10. Collapse of foreign help	4:17; 5:6

CONTRIBUTION TO THE BIBLE

Few things contrast religious and humanistic traditions more than their respective responses to suffering. The humanist sees suffering as a bare, impersonal event without ultimate meaning or purpose. For believers, suffering is a personal problem because they believe that all events of history are under the hand of a personal God. And if that is true, then how can God's love and justice be reconciled with our pain?

Lamentations gives no easy answers to this question, but it helps us meet God in the midst of our suffering and teaches us the language of prayer. Lamentations supplies: (1) an orientation, (2) a voice for working through grief from "A" to "Z," (3) instruction on how and what to pray, and (4) a focal point on the faithfulness of God and the affirmation that he alone is our portion.

STRUCTURE

The book of Lamentations exhibits remarkable artistic structure. Each of its five chapters (five poems) is a structurally unified text. The fact that there is an uneven number of poems allows the middle poem (chap. 3) to be the midpoint of the book. Thus, there is an ascent (or crescendo) up to a fixed climax for the entire book, thereby making chapter 3 central in its form and the message it imparts. Accordingly, the first two chapters form the steps leading up to the climax of 3:22-24, and from here there is a descent in chapters 4 and 5.

The poems of this book also exhibit the so-called acrostic form (a crisscross inversion such as a-b, b-a). As such, chapters 1 and 5 are overall summaries of the disaster, 2 and 4 are more detailed descriptions of what took place, and chapter 3 occupies the central position.

Lamentations also utilizes the form of the alphabetic acrostic with the twenty-two-letter Hebrew alphabet. In chapter 5, each of its twenty-two stanzas consists of a single line, but this is the only chapter that is not in an alphabetic acrostic.

CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW ELEMENTS

TEACHINGS ABOUT GOD

God's holiness resulted in his destroying Jerusalem for her many sins. Yet at the very center of the book, the author emphasized God's mercy and faithfulness (Lm 3:22-26). The most often quoted text is 3:22-23: "Because of the LORD's faithful love we do not perish, for his mercies never end. They are new every morning; great is your faithfulness!" There is no specific reference to Christ or to the Holy Spirit.

TEACHINGS ABOUT HUMANITY

Because human beings are moral agents responsible to God, their sins will be punished. The destruction of Jerusalem and the temple is the chief OT event showing that rebellion against God cannot go on indefinitely. Yet because God made humankind in his image, people are capable of emotion, including sorrow and despair. Even when the loss is deserved, intense expressions of grief are a normal part of human experience.

TEACHINGS ABOUT SALVATION

Despite the grief he expressed, the author did not waver in his faith in God (see 3:26). The author's steadfast trust in God in the presence of national catastrophe and personal disaster makes him one of the greatest heroes of faith found in Scripture.

LAMENT OVER JERUSALEM

א Aleph

1 How † she sits alone, †
the city † once crowded with people!
She who was great among the nations has become like a widow. †
The princess among the provinces has been put to forced labor.

ב Beth

2 She weeps bitterly during the night, † with tears on her cheeks.
There is no one to offer her comfort, not one from all her lovers. † †
All her friends have betrayed her; they have become her enemies.

ג Gimel

3 Judah has gone into exile following † affliction and harsh slavery; she lives among the nations but finds no place to rest. †
All her pursuers have overtaken her in narrow places.

ד Daleth

4 The roads to Zion † mourn, for no one comes to the appointed festivals. †
All her gates are deserted;
her priests groan,
her young women grieve,
and she herself is bitter.

ה He

5 Her adversaries have become her masters; † her enemies are at ease, † for the LORD has made her suffer because of her many transgressions.
Her children have gone away as captives before the adversary.

ו Waw

6 All the splendor † has vanished from Daughter Zion. †
Her leaders are like stags that find no pasture;
they stumble away exhausted before the hunter. †

ז Zayin

7 During the days of her affliction and homelessness †
Jerusalem remembers all her precious belongings that were hers in days of old.
When her people fell into the adversary's hand, she had no one to help.
The adversaries looked at her, laughing over her downfall.

ח Cheth

8 Jerusalem has sinned grievously; therefore, she has become an object of scorn. †
All who honored her now despise her, for they have seen her nakedness.
She herself groans and turns away.

ט Teth

9 Her uncleanness stains her skirts. †
She never considered her end.
Her downfall was astonishing; †
there was no one to comfort her.
LORD, look on my affliction, for the enemy boasts.

י Yod

10 The adversary has seized all her precious belongings.
She has even seen the nations enter her sanctuary — those you had forbidden to enter your assembly. †

כ Kaph

11 All her people groan while they search for bread. †
They have traded their precious belongings for food in order to stay alive. †
LORD, look and see how I have become despised.

ל Lamed

12 Is this nothing to you, all you who pass by? † Look and see!
Is there any pain like mine,
which was dealt out to me, which the LORD made me suffer on the day of his burning anger? †

מ Mem

13 He sent fire from on high † into my bones; he made it descend. † †
He spread a net for my feet †
and turned me back.
He made me desolate, sick all day long.

נ Nun

14 My transgressions have been formed into a yoke, † † † fastened together by his hand; they have been placed on my neck, and the Lord has broken my strength.
He has handed me over to those I cannot withstand.

ס Samek

15 The Lord has rejected † all the mighty men within me.
He has summoned an army † against me to crush my young warriors.
The Lord has trampled Virgin Daughter Judah † like grapes in a winepress. †

ע Ayin

16 I weep because of these things; my eyes flow † with tears. † For there is no one nearby to comfort me, †
no one to keep me alive.
My children are desolate because the enemy has prevailed.

פ Pe

17 Zion stretches out her hands; there is no one to comfort her.
The LORD has issued a decree against Jacob that his neighbors should be his adversaries.
Jerusalem has become something impure † among them.

צ Tsade

18 The LORD is just, for I have rebelled against his command. † Listen, all you people;
look at my pain.
My young women and young men have gone into captivity. †

ק Qoph

19 I called to my lovers, † but they betrayed me.
My priests and elders perished in the city while searching for food to keep themselves alive. †

ר Resh

20 LORD, see how I am in distress.

I am churning within; † my heart is broken, † for I have been very rebellious.
Outside, the sword takes the children; inside, there is death. †

שׂ Shin

21 People have heard me groaning, † but there is no one to comfort me.
All my enemies have heard of my misfortune; they are glad that you have caused it. †
Bring on the day you have announced, so that they may become like me. †

ת Taw

22 Let all their wickedness come before you, and deal with them as you have dealt with me because of all my transgressions. † For my groans are many,
and I am sick at heart.

1:1 The book of Lamentations mourns the destruction of Jerusalem and the exile of Judah. Due to its content and style, this short book has traditionally been associated with Jeremiah. Each of the first four chapters is an acrostic poem, in which each stanza or line begins with successive letters of the Hebrew alphabet. The city is Jerusalem (cp. vv. 7-8), which is personified as a lonely woman who has been put to forced labor.

1:2 This verse focuses on the abandoned woman's deep sorrow. The reference to her lovers and friends is probably an allusion to the foreign nations and idols to which Judah had gone for help (5:6; Jr 3:1-13; 22:20,22; 30:14).

1:3 Closely related to the fall of Jerusalem was the exile of Judah, through which her children were taken "as captives" (v. 5).

1:5 The reason for this calamity was God's just punishment because of her many transgressions. She had sinned grievously (v. 8).

1:6-8 Divine judgment included not only destruction and exile but also dishonor, mockery, and scorn.

1:8-9 The people's sinful defilement is represented by uncleanness on a woman's skirts, similar to Jeremiah 13:22-27. Nakedness represented the shame of the sexually immoral (a picture of unfaithfulness to the covenant); it was also an ancient practice for humiliating prisoners of war.

1:10 The Babylonians had entered the temple and taken its treasures and articles (2Kg 24:13; 25:13-15).

1:11 One of the results of the siege of Jerusalem was famine (2Kg 25:3; Jr 38:2,9). As in vv. 9,20, Jerusalem pleaded with God to look and see her trouble. In v. 12, she similarly appeals to passersby.

1:15 The imagery of treading a winepress is also used to depict divine wrath in Isaiah 63:2-3 and Joel 3:13.

1:16-17 As in vv. 2,9,21, Jerusalem's sorrow was intensified through the lack of anyone to comfort her.

1:18-20 Zion again speaks in the first-person (e.g., vv. 9,11,16), this time to confess her sin (vv. 18,20). Regarding her lovers, see the note on v. 2.

1:21-22 This portion of Zion's prayer is for vengeance against her scornful enemies. God had also announced a day for their judgment (see Jr 46:21; 50:27), which would mirror Israel's (see the notes on Jr 49:3 and 49:36). Just as Zion had been punished for her transgressions, so she prayed for God's just punishment on enemy nations (see 4:20-21).

JUDGMENT ON JERUSALEM

א Aleph

2 How the Lord has overshadowed Daughter Zion with his anger!
He has thrown down Israel's glory from heaven to earth.
He did not acknowledge his footstool † in the day of his anger. †

ב Beth

2 Without compassion † the Lord has swallowed up all the dwellings of Jacob.
In his wrath he has demolished the fortified cities † of Daughter Judah.
He brought them to the ground and defiled the kingdom and its leaders. †

ג Gimel

3 He has cut off every horn † of Israel in his burning anger and withdrawn his right hand † in the presence of the enemy.
He has blazed against Jacob like a flaming fire that consumes everything. †

ד Daleth

4 He has strung his bow like an enemy; † his right hand is positioned like an adversary.
He has killed everyone who was the delight to the eye, † pouring out his wrath like fire on the tent of Daughter Zion.

ה He

5 The Lord is like an enemy; he has swallowed up Israel.
He swallowed up all its palaces and destroyed its fortified cities.
He has multiplied mourning and lamentation within Daughter Judah. †

ו Waw

6 He has wrecked his temple † as if it were merely a shack in a field, † destroying his place of meeting. †
The LORD has abolished appointed festivals and Sabbaths in Zion.
He has despised king and priest in his fierce anger.

ז Zayin

7 The Lord has rejected his altar, repudiated his sanctuary; † he has handed the walls of her palaces over to the enemy.
They have raised a shout in the house of the LORD as on the day of an appointed festival.

ח Cheth

8 The LORD determined to destroy the wall of Daughter Zion.

He stretched out a measuring line † and did not restrain himself from destroying.
He made the ramparts and walls grieve; together they waste away.

ט Teth

9 Zion's gates have fallen to the ground; † he has destroyed and shattered the bars on her gates.
Her king and her leaders live among the nations, instruction † is no more, and even her prophets receive no vision from the LORD. †

י Yod

10 The elders of Daughter Zion sit on the ground in silence.
They have thrown dust on their heads † and put on sackcloth.
The young women of Jerusalem have bowed their heads to the ground. †

כ Kaph

11 My eyes are worn out from weeping; †
I am churning within.
My heart is poured out in grief † † because of the destruction of my dear people, † because infants and nursing babies faint in the streets of the city. †

ל Lamed

12 They cry out to their mothers, "Where is the grain and wine? " † as they faint like the wounded in the streets of the city, as their life pours out in the arms of their mothers.

מ Mem

13 What can I say on your behalf?
What can I compare you to, Daughter Jerusalem?
What can I liken you to,
so that I may console you, Virgin Daughter Zion?
For your ruin is as vast as the sea.
Who can heal you? †

נ Nun

14 Your prophets saw visions for you that were empty and deceptive; † † they did not reveal your iniquity and so restore your fortunes. †
They saw pronouncements for you that were empty and misleading.

ס Samek

15 All who pass by scornfully clap their hands † at you.
They hiss † and shake their heads †
at Daughter Jerusalem:
Is this the city that was called the perfection of beauty, †
the joy of the whole earth? †

פ Pe

16 All your enemies open their mouths against you. †
They hiss and gnash their teeth, † saying, “We have swallowed her up. †
This is the day we have waited for!
We have lived to see it.”

ע Ayin

17 The LORD has done what he planned; he has accomplished his decree, which he ordained in days of old.
He has demolished without compassion, † letting the enemy gloat over you and exalting the horn of your adversaries.

צ Tsade

18 The hearts of the people cry out to the Lord.
Wall of Daughter Zion, †
let your tears run down like a river day and night. † Give yourself no relief and your † eyes no rest.

ק Qoph

19 Arise, cry out in the night from the first watch of the night.
Pour out your heart like water before the Lord's presence. † Lift up your hands to him for the lives of your children who are fainting from hunger at the head of every street. †

ר Resh

20 LORD, look and consider to whom you have done this.
Should women eat their own children, † the infants they have nurtured? † Should priests and prophets be killed in the Lord's sanctuary?

שׁ Shin

21 Both young and old are lying on the ground in the streets.
My young women and young men have fallen by the sword.
You have killed them in the day of your anger, slaughtering without compassion. †

ת Taw

22 You summon those who terrorize me † on every side, † as if for an appointed festival day; on the day of the LORD's anger no one escaped or survived.

My enemy has destroyed
those I nurtured † and reared.

2:1-2 The humiliation of Zion naturally coincides with that of the Davidic kingdom (see Ps 89:39,44). The glory of the nation was thrown down from heaven to earth, and their fortified cities likewise were brought down to the ground. Several times in this chapter the Lord is said to have swallowed up the nation (vv. 2,5,8; the note on v. 16).

2:3 The cutting off of every horn relates to the loss of sources of strength, be they leaders or things such as "fortified cities" (v. 2; see the note on Ps 75:2-5). This stands in contrast to v. 17.

2:6 Amos 9:11 correspondingly predicts the future restoration of "the fallen shelter of David."

2:7 The Hebrew verbs translated rejected and repudiated appear in a similar context in Psalm 89:38-39.

2:9 The scattering of the people among the nations in exile was accompanied by the cessation of instruction and prophetic vision (see Am 8:11-12; Mc 3:6-7).

2:14 The book of Jeremiah repeatedly speaks of the problem of false prophets during Judah's final era (see the notes on Jr 2:6-8; 6:13-15).

2:15 Jeremiah (51:48, see note) and Nahum (3:19) had previously announced that it would be Israel who rejoiced over the destruction of her enemies. Here, it is Zion's enemies who laugh at her destruction and downfall. Jerusalem is indeed called the perfection of beauty in Psalm 50:2 and the joy of the whole earth in Psalm 48:2. The Hebrew phrase differs slightly in Psalm 50:2, but the one used in Psalm 48:2 is identical.

2:16 Whereas vv. 2,5,8 spoke of the Lord having "swallowed up" Jerusalem (see the note on vv. 1-2), here it is the divine instrument, Israel's enemies, who do the same. Jeremiah 51:34-35,44 (see notes) likewise describe the king of Babylon and the Babylonian idol, Bel.

2:17 Though enemies gloated over the fall of Jerusalem, this calamity was ultimately what God had planned (see Zch 1:6). That this had been commanded from days of old seems to be an allusion to ancient predictions of apostasy and exile (e.g., Dt 4:25-27; 31:16-22).

2:18-19 As in 1:16, Zion is personified as a sobbing woman. She was to pray to God for her children who are fainting from hunger (1:11; Is 62:6-7). Lifting up one's hands in prayer is also mentioned in 3:41 and Psalm 141:2.

2:20 One horrific result of the famine (v. 19; 1:11) was that mothers ate their own children, just as Deuteronomy 28:53-57 had foretold (cp. 2Kg 6:26-30).

2:21 The preceding verses mentioned children, infants, priests, and prophets among those who had died from the siege and attack of the Babylonians (vv. 19-20). No one was exempt, whether young or old.

HOPE THROUGH GOD'S MERCY

א Aleph

3 I am the man who has seen affliction under the rod of God's wrath.
2 He has driven me away and forced me to walk in darkness instead of light. †
3 Yes, he repeatedly turns his hand against me all day long.

ב Beth

4 He has worn away my flesh and skin; † he has broken my bones. †
5 He has laid siege against me, † encircling me with bitterness and hardship. †
6 He has made me dwell in darkness like those who have been dead for ages. †

ג Gimel

7 He has walled me in so I cannot get out; †
he has weighed me down with chains.
8 Even when I cry out and plead for help, he blocks out my prayer. †
9 He has walled in my ways with blocks of stone; † he has made my paths crooked. †

ד Daleth

10 He is † a bear waiting in ambush, a lion in hiding. †
11 He forced me off my way and tore me to pieces; he left me desolate.

12 He strung his bow † and set me as the target for his arrow.

ה He

13 He pierced my kidneys with shafts from his quiver. † 14 I am a laughingstock † to all my people, † mocked by their songs † all day long.
15 He filled me with bitterness, satiated me with wormwood. †

ו Waw

16 He ground my teeth with gravel † and made me cower † in the dust.
17 I have been deprived † of peace; †
I have forgotten what prosperity is.
18 Then I thought, “My future † is lost, as well as my hope from the LORD.”

ז Zayin

19 Remember † my affliction and my homelessness, † the wormwood and the poison. †
20 I continually remember them and have become depressed. † †

22 Because of the LORD’s faithful love † we do not perish, †
for his mercies never end.
23 They are new every morning; great is your faithfulness! † 24 I say, “The LORD is my portion, † therefore I will put my hope in him.”

ט Teth

25 The LORD is good to those who wait † for him, to the person who seeks him.
26 It is good to wait quietly † for salvation from the LORD. † 27 It is good for a man to bear the yoke †
while he is still young.

28 Let him sit alone and be silent, † for God has disciplined † him.
29 Let him put his mouth in the dust † — perhaps there is still hope.
30 Let him offer his cheek to the one who would strike him; † let him be filled with disgrace.

כ Kaph

31 For the Lord will not reject us forever.
32 Even if he causes suffering, he will show compassion according to the abundance of his faithful love. †

61 LORD, you heard their insults, † all their plots against me.

62 The slander † and murmuring of my opponents attack me all day long.

63 When they sit and when they rise, look, I am mocked by their songs. †

ת Taw

64 You will pay them back what they deserve, LORD, according to the work of their hands. †

3:1 The destruction of Jerusalem is now described from the perspective of one man who went through it. His being a "laughingstock" to the people parallels the experience of Jeremiah (v. 14; see the note on 1:1).

3:2 The recent calamity is referred to in this context as darkness (v. 2; Is 9:2), which is associated with death (v. 6).

3:7 Being walled in relates to having no escape from the present distress (see v. 9).

3:8 Part of God's judgment on Zion was a rejection of their prayers (see v. 44; 1:9,11,20; 2:18-20).

3:9 To make paths crooked seems to be the exact opposite of what is described in Proverbs 3:6 and Isaiah 40:3.

3:12-13 The imagery of God with a bow, shooting arrows at his people in judgment also appeared in 2:4 (see the note on Jb 6:2-13).

3:16-21 Although here the speaker is deeply sorrowful and struggles with hopelessness, he is strengthened by remembering who God is (vv. 22-33).

3:22-24 Remembrance of God's faithful love and enduring mercies brought strong encouragement. In faithfulness to his covenant (v. 23; see Gn 12:2-3; 2Sm 7:16), he had not utterly destroyed Israel (Is 1:9; Jr 30:11; 46:28). Hope in the morning for those in darkness (vv. 2,6) parallels passages such as Psalm 90:14 and Isaiah 9:2.

3:25-30 Having been strengthened through meditation on God's faithful love and mercy, the speaker encourages the reader to patiently wait for his deliverance. The speaker is confident that God is good to those who wait for him (v. 25) and that he "will not reject [them] forever" (v. 31).

3:32-33 The Hebrew verb translated causes suffering is the same one as in 1:5,12, where it described God's judgment of Jerusalem.

3:37-38 Although God is certainly not the author of evil (Jms 1:13), these verses strongly affirm his sovereignty over all things (see Jb 2:10). If someone speaks and it happens, the fulfillment of that person's word is because God has ordained it.

3:40-42 Having been reassured of God's steadfast love and eventual deliverance, the speaker recognized that he and his countrymen had the responsibility to examine themselves, repent, pray, and confess their sins.

3:44 A cloud functions as a barrier between God and his people (see Ex 14:19-20; 19:9).

3:54 Enemy attack is compared to drowning in a flood (see Ps 18:16; Jnh 2:3-5).

3:55 The threat to the speaker's life is described as being thrown into a pit (cp. v. 53).

3:58-66 These verses show that the distress described in vv. 52-57 relates to attacks specifically targeting the speaker, as in v. 14. He is confident of God's vengeance on these enemies.

TERRORS OF THE BESIEGED CITY

א Aleph

4 How the gold has become tarnished, the fine gold become dull!
The stones of the temple † lie scattered at the head of every street. †

ב Beth

2 Zion's precious children — once worth their weight in pure gold † — how they are regarded as clay jars, the work of a potter's hands!

ג Gimel

3 Even jackals offer their breasts to nurse their young, but my dear people have become cruel like ostriches † in the wilderness.

ד Daleth

4 The nursing baby's tongue clings to the roof of his mouth from thirst. † Infants beg for food, but no one gives them any.

ה He

5 Those who used to eat delicacies are destitute in the streets; those who were reared in purple garments † huddle in trash heaps.

ו Waw

6 The punishment of my dear people is greater than that of Sodom, † which was overthrown in an instant without a hand laid on it.

7 Her dignitaries were brighter than snow, whiter than milk;
their bodies † were more ruddy than coral, their appearance like lapis lazuli.

ח Cheth

8 Now they appear darker than soot; † they are not recognized in the streets.
Their skin has shriveled on their bones; it has become dry like wood.

ט Teth

9 Those slain by the sword are better off than those slain by hunger, who waste away, pierced with pain because the fields lack produce.

י Yod

10 The hands of compassionate women have cooked their own children; † they became their food
during the destruction of my dear people. †

כ Kaph

11 The LORD has exhausted his wrath, poured out his burning anger; he has ignited a fire in Zion, and it has consumed her foundations. † defiled by this blood, † so that no one dared to touch their garments.

ס Samek

15 “Stay away! Unclean! ” people shouted at them.
“Away, away! Don’t touch us! ” †
So they wandered aimlessly. †
It was said among the nations, “They can stay here no longer.”

פ Pe

16 The LORD himself has scattered them; he no longer watches over them.
The priests are not respected; the elders find no favor.

4:1 The scattering of the stones of the temple alludes to the destruction of Solomon's temple by the Babylonians (2Kg 25:9).

4:3-4 The famine had so affected Jerusalem that even infants went hungry and were not shown special care (see 1:11; 2:18-20).

4:6 Another way in which the Hebrew text could be translated is, "The guilt of the daughter of my people has exceeded the sin of Sodom." Taken thus, the thought is that of the seriousness of Judah's sins.

4:10 Mothers eating their own children is again cited as indicating the intensity of the famine in time of siege and the horror of God's judgment (see the notes on vv. 3-4; 2:20).

4:11 The consuming of the very foundations of Zion by fire corresponds to the hopeful prophecy in Isaiah 28:16 of a future "sure foundation" (see Ps 87:5; Is 54:11).

4:13 The responsibility of Judah's spiritual leaders in encouraging wickedness had been cited earlier (see the note on 2:14).

4:17 Judah vainly wished for help from another nation rather than repenting and relying on God (see the note on 1:2).

4:20 The capture of God's anointed is a reference to the capture of Zedekiah, king of Judah (2Kg 25:6). Since he was a son of David (see the note on 2Sm 7:8-16), the people had hoped that they could live under his protection among the nations. They were mistaken, since this is true only of Jesus Christ, the Son of David (see the notes on Ps 2:12; Is 32:1-2).

4:21-22 Zion would be avenged against her enemies (1:21-22), and Edom is especially singled out here. That nation's animosity toward Israel is detailed in Obadiah 1:10-15. Obadiah 1:16 similarly uses the metaphor of drinking and applies it not only to Edom but to all nations (see the notes on Is 34:5; Jr 49:17-18). The completion of Zion's punishment in v. 22 parallels Isaiah 40:2.

PRAYER FOR RESTORATION

5 LORD, remember what has happened to us.
Look, and see our disgrace! †
2 Our inheritance has been turned over to strangers, our houses to foreigners.
3 We have become orphans, fatherless; our mothers are widows.
4 We must pay for the water we drink; our wood comes at a price.
5 We are closely pursued; we are tired, and no one offers us rest.
6 We made a treaty with † Egypt and with Assyria, to get enough food. †
7 Our fathers sinned; they no longer exist, but we bear their punishment.
8 Slaves rule over us; †
no one rescues us from them.
9 We secure our food at the risk of our lives because of the sword in the wilderness.
10 Our skin is as hot † as an oven † from the ravages of hunger.
11 Women have been raped in Zion, virgins in the cities of Judah.
12 Princes have been hung up by their hands; elders are shown no respect. † 13 Young men labor at millstones; † boys stumble under loads of wood.
14 The elders have left the city gate, the young men, their music. † 15 Joy has left our hearts; †

our dancing has turned to mourning.

16 The crown has fallen from our head. †

Woe to us, for we have sinned. †

17 Because of this, our heart is sick; because of these, our eyes grow dim: †

18 because of Mount Zion, which lies desolate and has jackals prowling in it. †

19 You, LORD, are enthroned forever; your throne endures from generation to generation. †

20 Why do you continually forget us, † abandon us for our entire lives?

21 LORD, bring us back to yourself, so we may return; † renew our days as in former times, 22 unless you have completely rejected us and are intensely angry with us.

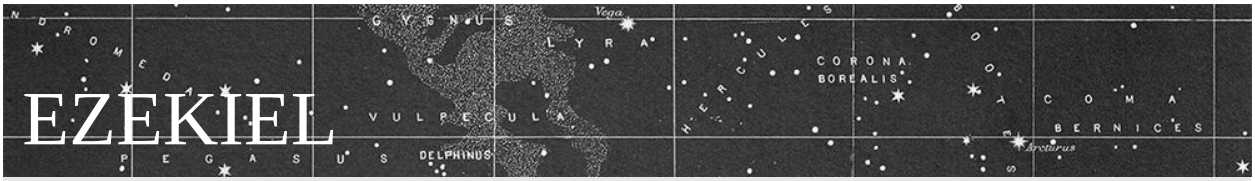
5:2-3 In the conquest of Jerusalem and the defeat of Judah, God's people as a whole had become the foreigner, the fatherless, and the widow, for whom the Law had repeatedly urged mercy (see the notes on Ex 22:21-24; Dt 14:22-29).

5:7 Although previous generations of Israelites had also been guilty of idolatry, only the present generation had to suffer through the destruction of Jerusalem and exile. This included the young and even infants (see 2:11,19; 3:27; 4:4).

5:17-18 Mount Zion represented the nation, the temple, the Davidic kingship, and the center of God's victory and redemption. Its desolation was a source of deep sorrow (see Is 61:3). Related to this, the people were to pray in hope of deliverance (2:19-20; 3:31,49-50; 4:22).

5:19 Although Davidic rule had ceased (v. 16; 4:20), God's throne still endured.

5:21 The final prayer in Lamentations is that God would restore his people so that they would return. This implies the need for a divine work of grace prior to their repentance (3:40). The thought here resembles passages such as Deuteronomy 30:2-3 and Psalm 80:3,7,19. The Hebrew verb translated renew recalls 3:23 and parallels Psalm 51:10 and Isaiah 61:4.



EZEKIEL

INTRODUCTION

The book of Ezekiel contains the divinely inspired prophecies of the prophet with the same name. These prophecies consist of oracles in the first person, giving the reader a sense of access to Ezekiel's private memoirs. Written primarily to the exiles in Babylon, the prophecies equally emphasize judgment of sins and the promise of hope and restoration.

CIRCUMSTANCES OF WRITING

AUTHOR: There is sufficient reason for maintaining that the prophet Ezekiel composed the book of Ezekiel in Babylon. The work demonstrates such homogeneity and literary coherence that it is reasonable to conclude that all editorial work was carried out by a single person, the prophet himself.

The inclusion of historical dates at the beginning of many of the oracles and prophecies in Ezekiel is another important unifying factor. The book is one of the most chronologically ordered books of the Bible. Thirteen times a passage is introduced by an indication of time. The common point of orientation for the dates given in Ezekiel is the exile of King Jehoiachin of Judah in 598/597 BC.

The occurrence of visions throughout the book (chaps. 1; 8–11; 40–48) is another strong argument in favor of its overall unity. Finally, stylistic features throughout the book strengthen the unity argument.

BACKGROUND: Ezekiel, son of Buzi, was among the approximately ten thousand citizens of Judah deported to Babylon when King Nebuchadnezzar invaded Jerusalem in 598/597 BC (2Kg 24:10-17). His prophetic call came to him five years later (the fifth year of King Jehoiachin's exile), in 593 BC. He received his call at the age of thirty (1:1), the year he should have begun his duties as a priest (Nm 4:3). The last dated oracle in the book occurs in the twenty-seventh year of King Jehoiachin (29:17), thus indicating that Ezekiel's ministry lasted twenty-two or twenty-three years. The prophet lived during the greatest crisis in Israel's history—the destruction of Jerusalem and its temple, plus the exile of Judah's leading citizens to Babylon.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE BIBLE

There are few quotations of the book of Ezekiel in the NT, but there are some notable correlations. For instance, the structure of the book of Revelation, which begins with a vision of Christ, corresponds to the appearances of God in Ezekiel's visions. The end of the book of Revelation also reflects the end of Ezekiel, where the river flows from the presence of God (Ezk 47:1-12; Rv 21:1–22:6). Finally, the depiction of the return of the exiles as resurrected from the dead is analogous to Paul's concept of regeneration (Eph 2:5).

STRUCTURE

The prophet Ezekiel displayed a distinct style throughout his prophetic work. The phrase "son of man" occurs ninety-three times as a title for Ezekiel, focusing on the prophet's human nature. The expression "the hand of the LORD was on me," which is said elsewhere only of Elijah (1Kg 18:46) and Elisha (2Kg 3:15), occurs in the various major sections of Ezekiel (1:3; 3:22; 33:22; 37:1). The so-called recognition formula "that you (or they) may know that I am the LORD," a characteristic phrase of the exodus narrative (Ex 6:6-8; 7:5; 10:1-2; 14:4,18), occurs about sixty times in Ezekiel. The introductory oracle phrase "the word of the LORD came to me" occurs forty-six times in the book and alerts the reader to the beginning of a separate section. The phrase "I, the LORD, have spoken" also occurs frequently in Ezekiel (5:13,15,17; 17:21,24; 22:14; 24:14; 26:14; 30:12; 36:36; 37:14).

Another feature for which Ezekiel is well known is his performance of symbolic, dramatic actions. Accounts of this method of communication occur throughout the book. He also used the literary technique of allegory to communicate his prophecies. His allegories include: Jerusalem as a vine (chap. 15) and majestic eagles (17:1-21), the Davidic dynasty as a lioness (19:1-9) and a vineyard (19:10-14), a sword as judgment (21:1-17), and Oholah and Oholibah as corrupt sisters (23:1-35).

A final characteristic of the book is the citation of previously written Scripture in Ezekiel's prophecies. This is evident in the judgment oracles of chapters 4–5 that depend heavily on the curses listed in Leviticus 26. Ezekiel also references other portions of canonical Scripture, including Numbers 18:1-7,22-23 (in Ezk 44:9-16) and Zephaniah 3:1-4 (in Ezk 22:25-29).

CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW ELEMENTS

TEACHINGS ABOUT GOD

All that God does on behalf of people is ultimately for the sake of his name or glory (Ezk 39:7). He is absolutely sovereign in the affairs of all people and all nations. Prophecies of a coming Davidic King, fulfilled by Christ, are scattered throughout the book (17:22-24; 37:24-28). In the future the Spirit will enable God's people to obey his laws from their hearts (36:27; 39:29).

TEACHINGS ABOUT HUMANITY

One of the clearest biblical passages about the responsibility of each individual before God is Ezekiel 18. This is famously stated in 18:4: "The person who sins is the one who will die." Ezekiel illustrates one whom God used in a time of crisis and whose intimate family life became a symbol of God's dealing with his people (24:15-18).

TEACHINGS ABOUT SALVATION

Ezekiel teaches both the individual and the corporate dimensions of salvation. Chapter 18 teaches that the wicked child of a righteous parent will die (18:10-13). A person showing the fruit of righteousness—even if the parents are wicked—will live (18:14-17). Corporately, salvation is the sovereign act of God's Spirit, who breathes on spiritually dead people ("dry bones"; see 37:1-14), giving them spiritual life and enabling them to follow God's ways.

VISION OF THE LORD'S GLORY

4 I looked, and there was a whirlwind † coming from the north, a huge cloud with fire flashing back and forth and brilliant light all around it. In the center of the fire, there was a gleam like amber. † 5 The likeness of four living creatures came from it, † and this was their appearance: They looked something like a human, 6 but each of them had four faces and four wings. 7 Their legs were straight, and the soles of their feet were like the hooves of a calf, sparkling like the gleam of polished bronze. † 8 They had human hands under their wings on their four sides. † All four of them had faces and wings. † 9 Their wings were touching. The creatures did not turn as they moved; each one went straight ahead. † 10 Their faces looked something like the face of a human, † and each of the four had the face of a lion on the right, the face of an ox on the left, and the face of an eagle. † 11 That is what their faces were like. Their wings were spread upward; each had two wings touching that of another and two wings covering its body. † 12 Each creature went straight ahead. † Wherever the Spirit † wanted to go, they went without turning as they moved. † 13 The likeness of the living creatures was like the appearance of blazing coals of fire or like torches. † Fire was moving back and forth between the living creatures; it was bright, with lightning coming out of it. 14 The creatures were darting back and forth † like flashes of lightning. † 15 When I looked at the living creatures, there was one wheel on the ground beside each of the four-faced creatures. 16 The appearance of the wheels † and their craftsmanship was like the gleam of beryl, † and all four had the same likeness. Their appearance and craftsmanship was like a wheel within a wheel.
17 When they moved, they went in any of the four directions, without turning as they moved. 18 Their rims were tall and awe-inspiring. Each of their four rims were full of eyes † all around. 19 When the living creatures moved, † the wheels moved beside them, and when the creatures rose from the earth, the wheels also rose. 20 Wherever the Spirit wanted to go, the creatures went in the direction the Spirit was moving. The wheels rose alongside them, for the spirit of the living creatures was in the wheels. 21 When the creatures moved, the wheels moved; when the creatures stopped, the wheels stopped; and when the creatures rose from the earth, the wheels rose alongside them, for the spirit of the living creatures was in the wheels.

22 Over the heads of the living creatures † the likeness of an expanse † was spread out. It gleamed like awe-inspiring crystal, † 23 and under the expanse their wings extended one toward another. They each also had two wings covering their bodies. 24 When they moved, I heard the sound of their wings like the roar of a huge torrent, † like the voice of the Almighty, † and a sound of tumult like the noise of an army. † When they stopped, they lowered their wings.
25 A voice came from above the expanse over their heads; when they stopped, they lowered their wings. 26 Something like a throne with the appearance of lapis lazuli was above the expanse over their heads. † On the throne, high above, was someone who looked like a human. † 27 From what seemed to be his waist up, I saw a gleam like amber, with what looked like fire enclosing it all around. † From what seemed to be his waist down, I also saw what looked like fire. There was a brilliant light all around him. 28 The appearance of the brilliant light all around was like that of a rainbow in a cloud on a rainy day. † This was the appearance of the likeness of the LORD's glory. † When I saw it, I fell facedown and heard a voice speaking. †

1:1-3 Ezekiel had gone into exile to Babylonia with King Jehoiachin during the first deportation (2Kg 24:14-16). He was a priest who was called by God to a prophetic ministry among his fellow exiles. During the fifth year of King Jehoiachin's exile, Zedekiah was still in power, and Jerusalem had not yet been destroyed (2Kg 24:11-18). The Chebar Canal lay about sixty miles southeast of Babylon.

1:4 The Hebrew phrase translated whirlwind uses the Hebrew word ruach, which can mean "wind" but in other contexts means "spirit" (see 2:2; Gn 1:2). This wordplay is exploited in verses 12,20-21 (see notes) and relates the meaning of Ezekiel's vision of a whirlwind to the work of the Spirit. Whereas the north recalls many passages in Jeremiah (see the note on Jr 3:12-13), cloud and fire recalls the Lord's appearance to Israel at Mount Sinai (Ex 19:16-18). Powerful wind is associated with exile (5:2,10,12) and judgment (13:11,13) but also with life (37:5-6).

1:5-11 As 10:15,20 reveal, these living creatures are cherubim. For now, they are key players in Ezekiel's vision of God's glory. The various animal faces of the creatures are symbolic (v. 10). The lion symbolizes royalty and strength; the ox is a common symbol for fertility in the ancient Near East; and the eagle is swift and flies high and out of reach. This is an unsettling vision for Ezekiel, for the glory of God belongs in the temple back in Jerusalem—not in exile in Babylonia. We learn in chapters 8–11 (through repetition of the keyword "glory") that God has removed his glory from the temple in preparation for his handing Jerusalem over to the Babylonians in judgment (see 9:3; 10;4,18-19; 11:22-23).

1:12,20-21 These verses similarly describe the "Spirit-guided" movement of the living creatures and of the wheels. The former go where the Spirit goes (vv. 12,20). As for the wheels, they move with the living creatures not because they are attached to them but because the spirit of the living creatures is in them (vv. 20-21).

1:22-27 As the vision unfolds, the scene shifts first to an expanse above the living creatures (vv. 22-24), which is apparently supported by the wheels, and then to the likeness of a throne above the expanse (v. 26). Lapis lazuli had also been part of the glorious vision seen in Exodus 24:10. The present vision of the Lord's throne is strikingly accompanied by the likeness of a glorious human upon it (see the note on 34:23-24; Gn 1:26). Notice the use of the word appearance throughout this section. Ezekiel is not actually seeing God or angelic beings; he is seeing a vision, and this is his attempt to describe it.

MISSION TO REBELLIOUS ISRAEL

2 He said to me, "Son of man, stand up on your feet † and I will speak with you." 2 As he spoke to me, the Spirit entered me and set me on my feet, † and I listened to the one who was speaking to me. 3 He said to me, "Son of man, I am sending you to the Israelites, to † the rebellious pagans who have rebelled against me. The Israelites and their ancestors have transgressed against me to this day. † 4 The descendants are obstinate † and hardhearted. † I am sending you to them, and you must say to them, 'This is what the Lord GOD says.' 5 Whether they listen or refuse to listen † — for they are a rebellious house — they will know that a prophet has been among them. † 6 "But you, son of man, do not be afraid of them and do not be afraid of their words, † even though briers and thorns are beside you and you live among scorpions. † Don't be afraid of their words or discouraged by the look on their faces, for they are a rebellious house. 7 Speak my words to them whether they listen or refuse to listen, † for they are rebellious.

8 “And you, son of man, listen to what I tell you: Do not be rebellious like that rebellious house. Open your mouth and eat what I am giving you.” † 9 So I looked and saw a hand reaching out to me, † and there was a written scroll in
it. † 10 When he unrolled it before me, it was written on the front and back; words of lamentation, mourning, and woe were written on it.

2:1 The frequent addressing of Ezekiel as son of man (e.g., vv. 1,3,6,8) emphasizes the prophet’s humanity, shared not only with Israel but with everyone (see 20:11,13,21). This highlights his weakness and frailty but also relates him to the One seated on the throne (1:26).

2:2 The Spirit enabled Ezekiel to stand on his feet, in obedience to God’s command (v. 1). The dynamic empowerment of the Spirit is a key theme in 1:4,12,20-21 (see notes).

2:4 The stubbornness of the Israelites is also an important theme in Jeremiah (see the notes on Jr 6:10; 7:24-26; 9:12-16). Their hardness of heart resembled the infamous Pharaoh’s (Ex 8:19).

2:5 Ezekiel’s prophetic ministry was necessary and significant even if the people did not listen (see v. 7; 3:11,27). Whether they responded positively was not Ezekiel’s responsibility. His job was to proclaim faithfully the message that God had given him.

2:8–3:3 Unlike Israel, which was a rebellious house (vv. 5-6,8), Ezekiel was to eat the scroll containing the word of the Lord and “listen carefully” to its message (3:10). The particular message received by the prophet was one of judgment (2:10). His delight in the Lord’s word (not necessarily in the message of doom per se) is shown through it being as sweet as honey in [his] mouth (3:3; Ps 19:10).

3 He said to me: “Son of man, eat what you find here. Eat this scroll, † then go and speak to the house of Israel.” 2 So I opened my mouth, and he fed me the scroll. 3 “Son of man,” he said to me, “feed your stomach and fill your belly with this scroll I am giving you.” So I ate it, † and it was as sweet as honey in my mouth. † 4 Then he said to me: “Son of man, go to the house of Israel and speak my words to them. 5 For you are not being sent to a people of unintelligible speech or a difficult language but to the house of Israel — 6 not to the many peoples of unintelligible speech or a difficult language, whose words you cannot understand. No doubt, if I sent you to them, they would listen to you. † 7 But the house of Israel will not want to listen to you because they do not want to listen to me. † For the whole house of Israel is hardheaded and hardhearted.
8 Look, I have made your face as hard as their faces and your forehead as hard as their foreheads. † 9 I have made your forehead like a diamond, harder than flint. Don't be afraid of them or discouraged by the look on their faces, though they are a rebellious house."

10 Next he said to me: "Son of man, listen carefully to all my words that I speak to you and take them to heart. 11 Go to your people, the exiles, and speak to them. Tell them, 'This is what the Lord GOD says,' whether they listen or refuse to listen." †
12 The Spirit then lifted me up, † and I heard a loud rumbling sound behind me — bless the glory of the LORD in his place! — 13 with the † sound of the living creatures' wings brushing against each other † and the sound of the wheels beside them, † a loud rumbling sound. 14 The Spirit lifted me up and took me away. I left in bitterness and in an angry spirit, and the LORD's hand was on me powerfully. † 15 I came to the exiles at Tel-abib, who were living by the Chebar Canal, and I sat there among them stunned for seven days. †

EZEKIEL AS A WATCHMAN

16 Now at the end of seven days the word of the LORD came to me: † 17 "Son of man, I have made you a watchman over the house of Israel. † When you hear a word from my mouth, give them a warning from me. † 18 If I say to the wicked person, † 'You will surely die,' but you do not warn him — you don't speak out to warn him about his wicked way in order to save his life — that wicked person will die for his iniquity. Yet I will hold you responsible for his blood. 19 But if you warn a wicked person and he does not turn from his wickedness or his wicked way, he will die for his iniquity, but you will have rescued yourself. †
20 Now if a righteous person turns from his righteousness and acts unjustly, † and I put a stumbling block in front of him, he will die. † If you did not warn him, he will die because of his sin, and the righteous acts he did will not be remembered. Yet I will hold you responsible for his blood. 21 But if you warn the righteous person that he should not sin, and he does not sin, he will indeed live because he listened to your warning, and you will have rescued yourself."
22 The hand of the LORD was on me there, and he said to me, "Get up, go out to the plain, † and I will speak with you there." † 23 So I got up and went out to the plain. The LORD's glory was present there, † like the glory I had seen by the Chebar Canal, † and I fell facedown. 24 The Spirit entered me and set me on my feet. † He spoke with me and said: "Go, shut yourself inside your house. 25 As for you, son of man, they will put ropes on you † and bind you with them so you cannot go out among them. 26 I will make your tongue stick to the roof of your mouth, † and you will be mute † and unable to be a mediator for † them, for they are a rebellious house. 27 But when I speak with you, I will open your mouth, † and you will say to them, 'This is what the Lord GOD says.' Let the one who listens, listen, and let the one who refuses, refuse — for they are a rebellious house.

3:5-7 Israel was less responsive to God's word than the Gentiles would have been (v. 6; Jnh 3:5; Mt 11:21-24). Israel's rejection of Ezekiel's ministry was rooted in their rejection of God. Their hardness had also been cited in 2:4 (see note; 36:26).

3:9 God says he will make Ezekiel's forehead like a diamond and harder than flint so that he might bear the hostility and rejection of his audience.

3:15 This marks the conclusion of the initial section of the book, which includes Ezekiel's first vision and prophetic call (vv. 12-14; 1:1; 2:2).

3:16-21 As he sat among the exiles by the Chebar Canal (v. 15; 1:1), Ezekiel received a divine message after seven days (v. 16). God appointed him as a watchman over Israel (v. 17). While his hearers were responsible for their own actions, Ezekiel's responsibility was to warn people to turn from their sin (cp. 2:5). God would instruct him when to do so (see the note on vv. 24-27) 3:22-23 As in 2:1-2, Ezekiel had to obey God's initial instructions before receiving further revelation. The divine glory that Ezekiel subsequently saw at the plain was like that which he had seen by the Chebar Canal (1:1-3; 2:12-15). As before, Ezekiel fell facedown (1:28) but was enabled to stand because the Spirit came upon him (v. 24; 2:2).

3:24-27 The next instruction to Ezekiel was to shut himself inside [his] house, where he would be bound with ropes (vv. 24-25). These actions symbolize the opposition and restriction he would face (vv. 7-9; 2:4,6; 4:8) even as he was sent to go preach against Israel (v. 5; 2:3). Similarly, the prophet was only to speak when God instructed him to do so (vv. 26-27; see vv. 11,16-21; 2:7).

JERUSALEM'S SIEGE DRAMATIZED

4 “Now you, son of man, take a brick, set it in front of you, and draw the city of Jerusalem on it. 2 Then lay siege against it: † Construct a siege wall, build a ramp, pitch military camps, and place battering rams against it on all sides. 3 Take an iron plate and set it up as an iron wall between yourself and the city. Face it so that it is under siege, and besiege it. This will be a sign for the house of Israel. †

4 “Then lie down on your left side and place the iniquity † of the house of Israel on it. You will bear their iniquity for the number of days you lie on your side. 5 For I have assigned you the years of their iniquity according to the number of days you lie down, 390 days; so you will bear the iniquity of the house of Israel. † 6 When you have completed these days, lie down again, but on your right side, and bear the iniquity of the house of Judah. I have assigned you forty days, a day for each year. 7 Face the siege of Jerusalem with your arm bared, and prophesy against it. 8 Be aware that I will put cords on you so you cannot turn from side to side until you have finished the days of your siege. †

9 “Also take wheat, barley, beans, lentils, millet, and spelt. Put them in a single container and make them into bread for yourself. You are to eat it during the number of days you lie on your side, 390 days. 10 The food you eat each day will weigh eight ounces; † you will eat it at set times. † 11 You will also drink a ration of water, a sixth of a gallon, † which you will drink at set times. 12 You will eat it as you would a barley cake and bake it over dried human excrement in their sight.” 13 The Lord said, “This is how the Israelites will eat their bread — ceremonially unclean — among the nations where I will banish them.” †

14 But I said, “Oh, Lord God, I have never been defiled. From my youth until now I have not eaten anything that died naturally or was mauled by wild beasts. † And impure meat has never entered my mouth.” †

15 He replied to me, “Look, I will let you use cow dung instead of human excrement, and you can make your bread over that.” 16 He said to me, “Son of man, I am going to cut off the supply of bread in Jerusalem. † They will anxiously eat food they have weighed out and in dread drink rationed water †
17 for lack of bread and water. Everyone will be devastated and waste away because of their iniquity. †

4:1-3 Like Jeremiah (see the note on Jr 13:1-7), Ezekiel's prophetic ministry included performing symbolic actions (see 3:1-3,24-27; 5:1-4). Here he enacts a siege against Jerusalem. The iron plate that is set up as an iron wall (v. 3) may represent God's determination to destroy the city (see 3:8-9; Jr 15:20).

4:4-8 Though the reason why Israel's iniquity is associated with 390 days and Judah's with forty days is unclear, the point is that they would suffer consequences for their sins over a long period of time (vv. 4-6,9; Lv 26:34-35; Hs 3:4). Ezekiel not only had to dramatize this by lying on his left and right sides, but he would also be bound with cords (v. 8; 3:25).

4:9-17 Ezekiel's diet of unclean, rationed food represented the diet that the Israelites would have to endure in exile in Mesopotamia (vv. 9-13,16-17; Lv: 26:26). The eight ounces (lit "twenty shekels") of food each day was much less than a regular daily amount (v. 10). The command to cook the food over dried human excrement ensured that it would be ritually unclean, a symbol of the unclean food that God's people soon would be forced to eat. This was particularly offensive to Ezekiel as a priest (cp. 1:1), so God slightly mitigated the command and allowed him to cook over cow dung (vv. 14-15).

EZEKIEL DRAMATIZES JERUSALEM'S FALL

5 "Now you, son of man, take a sharp sword, † use it as you would a barber's razor, and shave your head and beard. Then take a set of scales and divide the hair. 2 You are to burn a third of it in the city when the days of the siege have ended; † you are to take a third and slash it with the sword all around the city; and you are to scatter a third to the wind, for I will draw a sword to chase after them. 3 But you are to take a few strands from the hair and secure them in the folds of your robe. † 4 Take some more of them, throw them into the fire, and burn them in it. † A fire will spread from it to the whole house of Israel.

5 "This is what the Lord GOD says: I have set this Jerusalem in the center of the nations, with countries all around her. 6 She has rebelled against my ordinances with more wickedness than the nations, and against my statutes more than the countries that surround her. For her people have rejected my ordinances and have not walked in my statutes.

7 "Therefore, this is what the Lord GOD says: Because you have been more insubordinate than the nations around you † — you have not walked in my statutes or kept my ordinances; you have not even kept the ordinances of the nations around you — 8 therefore, this is what the Lord GOD says: See, I myself am against you, Jerusalem, and I will execute judgments within you in the sight of the nations. 9 Because of all your detestable practices, I will do to you what I have never done before and what I will never do again. † 10 As a result, fathers will eat their sons † within Jerusalem, † and sons will eat their fathers. I will execute judgments against you and scatter all your survivors to every direction of the wind.

11 "Therefore, as I live" — this is the declaration of the Lord GOD — "I will withdraw and show you no pity, because you have defiled my sanctuary † with all your abhorrent acts and detestable practices. † Yes, I will not spare you. 12 A third of your people will die by plague and be consumed by famine within you; † a third will fall by the sword all around you; and I will scatter a third to every direction of the wind, and I will draw a sword to chase after them. † 13 When my anger is spent and I have vented my wrath on them, I will be appeased. † Then after I have spent my wrath on them, they will know that I, the LORD, have spoken in my jealousy. † 14 "I will make you a ruin and a disgrace among the nations around you, in the sight of everyone who passes by. 15 So you † will be a disgrace and a taunt, a warning and a horror, to the nations around you when I execute judgments against you in anger, † wrath, and furious rebukes. I, the LORD, have spoken.
16 When I shoot deadly arrows of famine at them, arrows for destruction that I will send to destroy you, inhabitants of Jerusalem, I will intensify the famine against you and cut off your supply of bread. 17 I will send famine and dangerous animals against you. They will leave you childless. Plague and bloodshed will sweep through you, and I will bring a sword against you. I, the LORD, have spoken." †

5:1-4 The shaving of Ezekiel's head and beard represented the manner in which destruction would come upon Israel. It is explained in verse 12 and is another example of a symbolic act performed by Ezekiel (see 3:1-3; 4:1-17).

5:6 Not only had Jerusalem rebelled against God but was actually guilty of more wickedness than the nations (16:45-52; Rm 2:17-24).

5:8 Jerusalem's rebellion severely incited God's "jealousy" (v. 13; 8:5), and the people's punishment correspondingly would be carried out in the sight of the nations so that the city would be humiliated (vv. 14-15).

5:9-10 Part of God's unprecedented judgment against Jerusalem included fathers eating their sons (Lm 2:20), as foretold long before in Leviticus 26:29 and Deuteronomy 28:53-57. Ezekiel intensifies the statement with something new: sons will also eat their fathers.

5:11-12 Jerusalem had defiled [God's] sanctuary through abhorrent acts and detestable practices (see v. 9; 8:5-6; the note on 44:6-10). Consequently, God bound himself with an oath to destroy a third of its people by a plague in the city, to destroy another third by the sword outside of the city, and to scatter the last third to the wind—just as Ezekiel had enacted (see the note on vv. 1-4). Few would survive (vv. 3-4; 6:8).

5:13 Such judgment would lead the Israelites to acknowledge that God had spoken (vv. 15,17; 17:21; see the notes on 6:1-7; 12:22-28; 17:22-24).

PROPHECY AGAINST ISRAEL'S IDOLATRY

6 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 "Son of man, face the mountains of Israel † and prophesy against them. 3 You are to say: Mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord GOD! This is what the Lord GOD says to the mountains and the hills, to the ravines and the valleys: I am about to bring a sword against you, and I will destroy your high places. † 4 Your altars will be desolated and your shrines † smashed. I will throw down your slain in front of your idols. 5 I will lay the corpses of the Israelites in front of their idols and scatter your bones around your altars. 6 Wherever you live the cities will be in ruins and the high places will be desolate, so that your altars will lie in ruins and be desecrated, † your idols smashed and obliterated, your shrines cut down, and what you have made wiped out. 7 The slain will fall among you, and you will know that I am the LORD.

8 "Yet I will leave a remnant when you are scattered among the nations, for throughout the countries there will be some of you who will escape the sword. †
9 Then your survivors will remember me among the nations where they are taken captive, † how I was crushed by their promiscuous hearts that turned away from me and by their eyes that lusted after their idols. † They will loathe themselves because of the evil things they did, † their detestable actions of every kind. 10 And they will know that I am the LORD; I did not threaten to bring this disaster on them without a reason.

LAMENT OVER THE FALL OF JERUSALEM

11 “This is what the Lord GOD says: Clap your hands, stamp your feet, † and cry out over all the evil and detestable practices of the house of Israel, who will fall by the sword, famine, and plague. † 12 The one who is far off will die by plague; the one who is near will fall by the sword; and the one who remains and is spared † will die of famine. In this way I will exhaust my wrath on them. † 13 You will all know that I am the LORD when their slain lie among their idols around their altars, † on every high hill, † on all the mountaintops, and under every green tree and every leafy oak — the places where they offered pleasing aromas to all their idols. 14 I will stretch out my hand against them, † and wherever they live I will make the land a desolate waste, from the wilderness to Diblah. † Then they will know that I am the LORD.”

6:1-7 Judgment would come against the mountains of Israel (v. 2) because of their idolatrous high places (v. 3; 18:6,11,15). A high place was often a platform, situated on a hill, where idolatrous rites were performed. These sites are also mentioned in passages such as 2 Kings 17:9-11 and Isaiah 65:7. The desolation of altars, their being surrounded by corpses, and the corresponding destruction of Israelite cities (vv. 4-6) were predicted in Leviticus 26:30-31. This disaster would lead Israel to recognize that God is the LORD (vv. 7,10; 7:4,9; see the notes on 5:13; 11:7-12; 16:59-63; 25:5,8-11).

6:8-10 Despite severe judgment (vv. 4-7; 5:1-4,11-17), God will leave Israel a remnant who will remember [him] and mourn over their promiscuous hearts and detestable actions (vv. 8-9). Such repentance is predicted in Leviticus 26:40-41 and Deuteronomy 30:1-2.

6:11-12 The sword, famine, and plague relate to 5:12 and are repeatedly mentioned in Jeremiah (e.g., Jr 27:8,13; 29:18; 38:2).

ANNOUNCEMENT OF THE END

7 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 “Son of man, this is what the Lord GOD says to the land of Israel:

An end! The end has come on the four corners of the earth. † 3 The end is now upon you; I will send my anger against you and judge you according to your ways.
I will punish you for all your detestable practices.

4 I will not look on you with pity or spare you, † but I will punish you for your ways †
and for your detestable practices within you.
Then you will know that I am the LORD.” †

5 This is what the Lord GOD says:

Look, one disaster after another is coming! † 6 An end has come; the end has come!
It has awakened against you.
Look, it is coming!
7 Doom † has come on you, † inhabitants of the land.
The time has come; the day is near.
There will be panic on the mountains and not celebration. †

8 I will pour out my wrath on you very soon; †
I will exhaust my anger against you
and judge you according to your ways.
I will punish you for all your detestable practices.
9 I will not look on you with pity or spare you.
I will punish you for your ways
and for your detestable practices within you.
Then you will know that it is I, the LORD, who strikes.

10 Here is the day! Here it comes!
Doom is on its way. †
The rod has blossomed; †
arrogance has bloomed. †
11 Violence has grown into a rod of wickedness. †
None of them will remain:
none of that crowd,

none of their wealth,
and none of the eminent † among them.

12 The time has come; the day has arrived.
Let the buyer not rejoice † and the seller not mourn, for wrath is on her whole crowd. † 13 The seller will certainly not return to what was sold as long as he and the buyer remain alive. †
For the vision concerning her whole crowd will not be revoked, and because of the iniquity of each one,
none will preserve his life.

14 They have blown the trumpet † and prepared everything,
but no one goes to war,
for my wrath is on her whole crowd.
15 The sword is on the outside; † plague and famine are on the inside.
Whoever is in the field will die by the sword, and famine and plague will devour whoever is in the city.

16 The survivors among them will escape † and live on the mountains.
Like doves of the valley,
all of them will moan,
each over his own iniquity.
17 All their hands will become weak, † and all their knees will run with urine. † 18 They will put on sackcloth, and horror will overwhelm them.
Shame will cover all their faces, and all their heads will be bald. †

19 They will throw their silver into the streets, and their gold will seem like something filthy. †
Their silver and gold will be unable to save them in the day of the LORD's wrath. †
They will not satisfy their appetites or fill their stomachs, for these were the stumbling blocks † that brought about their iniquity.

20 He appointed his beautiful ornaments for majesty, but † they made their detestable images from them, their abhorrent things. † Therefore, I have made these into something filthy to them.
21 I will hand these things over to foreigners as plunder † and to the wicked of the earth as spoil, and they will profane them.
22 I will turn my face from them as they profane my treasured place.
Violent men will enter it and profane it.

23 Forge the chain, † for the land is filled with crimes of bloodshed, and the city is filled with violence. †
24 So I will bring the most evil of nations † to take possession of their houses.
I will put an end to the pride of the strong, and their sacred places will be profaned. †
25 Anguish is coming!
They will look for peace, but there will be none.
26 Disaster after disaster will come, † and there will be rumor after rumor. †
Then they will look for a vision from a prophet, † but instruction will perish from the priests and counsel from the elders. † 27 The king will mourn; the prince will be clothed in grief;

and the hands of the people of the land will tremble.
I will deal with them according to their own conduct, and I will judge them by their own standards. †
Then they will know that I am the LORD.

7:2-4 Israel's impending doom is emphatically expressed through repetition of the word end (vv. 2,3,6). Judgment on the whole land is indicated by the phrase four corners of the earth (37:9). The reason for God's destruction is Israel's detestable practices (vv. 8-9), which relate especially to idol worship (v. 20; 5:11; 6:9; 8:6-17). The Hebrew word to'evah is also linked to sexual immorality (Lv 18:22-30), and Ezekiel 16:1-58 makes use of both connotations.

7:7 This time and day is that of judgment (see vv. 2-3,6,10,12). These are common prophetic references to an indeterminate time in the future when God will break into history with judgment for his enemies and salvation for his people.

7:9 The severity and inevitability of God's judgment on Israel is frequently expressed in this book through his refusal to show pity or to spare (see v. 4; 5:11; 8:18; 9:5,10; 24:14).

7:15-16 As stated in 6:8-10, there would be some survivors of the sword, famine, and plague, but each of these would moan over his own iniquity. The theme of sinners being held responsible for their own sin surfaces again (v. 13; 3:18-20; 4:4-6; 18:1-20; 33:1-9; see Lv 5:1,17).

7:19-20 It is a common temptation to view silver and gold as a means of deliverance from difficulty. This is idolatry. Yet Ezekiel predicts that wealth will be so worthless in the coming judgment that they will throw it into the streets. The association between treasure and idolatry echoes 16:7,11 and other OT passages (Ex 32:1-4; 33:4-6; Is 2:7-8,20; Zph 1:18).

7:26 This passage is part of a prophetic "vision" (v. 13), but the time would come when such instruction would perish and be unavailable. Several other OT passages likewise speak of this aspect of judgment (Ps 74:9; Is 29:10; Lm 2:9; Am 8:11-12; Mc 3:6-7).

7:27 The disaster described in the preceding verses would come upon everyone, including the royal household.

VISIONARY JOURNEY TO JERUSALEM

8 In the sixth year, in the sixth month, on the fifth day of the month, I was sitting in my house and the elders of Judah were sitting in front of me, † and there the hand of the Lord GOD came down on me. † 2 I looked, and there was someone who looked like a man. † From what seemed to be his waist down was fire, and from his waist up was something that looked bright, † like the gleam of amber. † 3 He stretched out what appeared to be a hand and took me by the hair of my head. Then the Spirit lifted me up between earth and heaven and carried me in visions of God † to Jerusalem, to the entrance of the inner gate that faces north, where the offensive statue that provokes jealousy † was located. 4 I saw the glory of the God of Israel † there, like the vision I had seen in the plain. †

PAGAN PRACTICES IN THE TEMPLE

5 The LORD said to me, "Son of man, look toward the north." I looked to the north, and there was this offensive statue north of the Altar Gate, at the entrance.
6 He said to me, "Son of man, do you see what they are doing here — more detestable acts that the house of Israel is committing † — so that I must depart from my sanctuary? You will see even more detestable acts."
7 Then he brought me to the entrance of the court, and when I looked there was a hole in the wall. 8 He said to me, "Son of man, dig through the wall." So I dug through the wall and discovered a doorway. 9 He said to me, "Go in and see the detestable, wicked acts they are committing here."
10 I went in and looked, and there engraved all around the wall was every kind of abhorrent thing — crawling creatures and beasts — as well as all the idols of the house of Israel. † 11 Seventy elders from the house of Israel were standing before them, with Jaazaniah son of Shaphan † standing among them. Each had a firepan in his hand, and a fragrant cloud of incense was rising up. 12 He said to me, "Son of man, do you see what the elders of the house of Israel are doing in the darkness, each at the shrine of his idol? For they are saying, 'The LORD does not see us. The LORD has abandoned the land.' " † 13 Again he said to me, "You will see even more detestable acts that they are committing."
14 Then he brought me to the entrance of the north gate of the LORD's house, and I saw women sitting there weeping for Tammuz. 15 And he said to me, "Do you see this, son of man? You will see even more detestable acts than these."
16 So he brought me to the inner court of the LORD's house, and there were about twenty-five men at the entrance of the LORD's temple, between the portico and the altar, † with their backs to the LORD's temple and their faces turned to the east. † They were bowing to the east in worship of the sun. † 17 And he said to me, "Do you see this, son of man? Is it not enough for the house of Judah to commit the detestable acts they are doing here, that they must also fill the land with violence † and repeatedly anger me, † even putting the branch to their nose? † 18 Therefore I will respond with wrath. † I will not show pity or spare them. † Though they call loudly in my hearing, † I will not listen to them."

8:1-3 The hand of God is again involved in visions given to Ezekiel (see 1:1-3). The Spirit had transported the prophet in 3:12-14 and does so again in this vision, this time to Jerusalem and its temple, which has become a place of idolatry (see the note on 6:1-7). The man whose appearance was like fire from the waist down and amber from the waist up is described similarly to the One seated on the throne in 1:26-27 and is naturally taken as the same person. The glorious "whirlwind" in 1:4 also had the appearance of "amber." Throughout the following section (8:4–11:23), the vision alternates between the idolatrous and sinful acts in Jerusalem and the consequent judgment (8:5-18; 9:1-11; 10:1-22; 11:1-21) and the glory of God leaving the temple and abandoning the holy city to its fate (8:4; 9:3a; 10:4,18-19; 11:22-23).

8:4 Ezekiel had beheld God's glory at the plain in 3:22-23, which itself is explicitly linked to the prophet's initial vision and its conclusion with a man on the throne (see 1:28).

8:5-6 As the vision concerning the temple unfolds (v. 3), Ezekiel was shown example after example of idolatry at the very site where God was supposed to be worshiped. God repeatedly calls such acts detestable (vv. 9,13,15,17). Such language is often used in this book to describe Israel's sins (see the notes on 5:11-12; 6:8-10; 7:2-4).

8:12 The worship of idols in secret is foolish because God does indeed notice it (see 1:18; Is 29:15). What the elders say here is paralleled in 9:9.

8:14 Tammuz was a god of vegetation who was believed to have died. Worship of this god involved mourning over it. It was likely worshiped alongside God in religious syncretism.

8:16 Turning one's back to God is also found in Jeremiah 2:27; 32:33. Worship of the sun is alluded to in 2 Kings 23:11.

8:17-18 The people of Judah had added to their sins of idolatry by filling the land with violence (9:9), and the punishment would be severe.

VISION OF SLAUGHTER IN JERUSALEM

9 Then he called loudly in my hearing, "Come near, executioners of the city, each of you with a destructive weapon in his hand." 2 And I saw six men coming from the direction of the Upper Gate, † which faces north, each with a war club in his hand. There was another man among them, clothed in linen, † carrying writing equipment. They came and stood beside the bronze altar.

3 Then the glory of the God of Israel † rose from above the cherub where it had been, to the threshold of the temple. He called to the man clothed in linen and carrying writing equipment. 4 "Pass throughout the city of Jerusalem," the LORD said to him, "and put a mark on the foreheads † of the men who sigh and groan † over all the detestable practices committed in it."

5 He spoke to the others in my hearing: "Pass through the city after him and start killing; do not show pity or spare them! † 6 Slaughter the old men, the young men and women, as well as the children and older women, † but do not come near anyone who has the mark. † Begin at my sanctuary." † So they began with the elders who were in front of the temple. 7 Then he said to them, "Defile the temple and fill the courts with the slain. † Go! " So they went out killing people in the city.

8 While they were killing, I was left alone. And I fell facedown and cried out, "Oh, Lord GOD! † Are you going to destroy the entire remnant of Israel when you pour out your wrath on Jerusalem? "

9 He answered me, "The iniquity of the house of Israel and Judah is extremely great; the land is full of bloodshed, † and the city full of perversity. For they say, 'The LORD has abandoned the land; † he does not see.' † 10 But as for me, I will not show pity or spare them. † I will bring their conduct down on their own heads." †

11 Then the man clothed in linen and carrying writing equipment reported back, "I have done all that you commanded me."

9:1-7 The punishment for the city of Jerusalem is death (v. 1; 8:3,18). The man clothed in linen possessed writing equipment in order to place a mark on those who mourn over Jerusalem's detestable idolatry (vv. 2-4; see the notes on 8:5-6; 10:1-2; Is 61:1-3). Everyone else was to be killed, beginning at [God's] sanctuary with the elders (vv. 5-7; 8:11-12; 1Pt 4:17). The use of a mark on the forehead to distinguish the godly from the wicked is found also in Revelation 7:3; 9:4; and 14:1. Within the OT, there is also resemblance to Passover instructions (Ex 13:9,16) and to God's commandments generally (Dt 6:8; 11:18), which were to be a sign “between your eyes” (lit). The singular cherub in 9:3 and 10:4 is understood as a reference to golden cherubim whose wings overshadowed the ark (Ex 25:18-22).

9:8-10 God responded to Ezekiel’s plea by emphasizing that the iniquity of Israel and Judah was extremely great. They would be held responsible for their sin (see the notes on 3:16-21; 4:4-17; 7:15-16), as is indicated by the statement that their actions would come back on their own heads (see 11:21; 22:31). The refusal to show pity repeats the sentiment expressed in 8:18 resulting from idolatry in the temple. Although God does not directly say so here, he would not utterly destroy Israel (6:8; 11:13).

GOD’S GLORY LEAVES THE TEMPLE

10 Then I looked, and there above the expanse over the heads † of the cherubim was something like a throne with the appearance of lapis lazuli. 2 The LORD spoke to the man clothed in linen and said, “Go inside the wheelwork beneath the cherubim. Fill your hands with blazing coals from among the cherubim and scatter them over the city.” † So he went in as I watched.
3 Now the cherubim were standing to the south of the temple when the man went in, and the cloud † filled the inner court. † 4 Then the glory of the LORD rose from above the cherub to the threshold of the temple. † The temple was filled with the cloud, † and the court was filled with the brightness of the LORD’s glory. † 5 The sound of the cherubim’s wings could be heard as far as the outer court; it was like the voice of God Almighty when he speaks.
6 After the LORD commanded the man clothed in linen, saying, “Take fire from inside the wheelwork, from among the cherubim,” the man went in and stood beside a wheel. 7 Then the cherub reached out his hand to the fire that was among them. He took some and put it into the hands of the man clothed in linen, who took it and went out. 8 The cherubim appeared to have the form of human hands under their wings. † 9 I looked, and there were four wheels beside the cherubim, † one wheel beside each cherub. The luster of the wheels was like the gleam of beryl. † 10 In appearance, all four looked alike, like a wheel within a wheel. 11 When they moved, they would go in any of the four directions, † without pivoting as they moved. But wherever the head faced, they would go in that direction, without pivoting as they went. 12 Their entire bodies, † including their backs, hands, wings, and the wheels that the four of them had, were full of eyes all around. †

13 As I listened the wheels were called “the wheelwork.” 14 Each one had four faces: † one was the face of a cherub, the second the face of a man, the third the face of a lion, and the fourth the face of an eagle.
15 The cherubim ascended; these were the living creatures I had seen by the Chebar Canal. † 16 When the cherubim moved, the wheels moved beside them, and when they lifted their wings to rise from the earth, even then the wheels did not veer away from them. 17 When the cherubim stopped, † the wheels stood still, and when they ascended, the wheels ascended with them, for the spirit of the living creatures was in them.
18 Then the glory of the LORD moved away from the threshold of the temple † and stopped above the cherubim. † 19 The cherubim lifted their wings and ascended from the earth right before my eyes; † the wheels were beside them as they went. The glory of the God of Israel was above them, and it stopped at the entrance to the eastern gate of the LORD’s house.
20 These were the living creatures I had seen † beneath the God of Israel by the Chebar Canal, † and I recognized that they were cherubim. 21 Each had four faces and each had four wings, † with what looked something like human hands under their wings. 22 Their faces looked like the same faces I had seen † by the Chebar Canal. Each creature went straight ahead.

10:1-2 References to an expanse, lapis lazuli, and a throne correspond to 1:22-26 and provide additional links to the glorious vision of Ezekiel 1 (see 8:1-4; 9:3; 10:5). The aforementioned man clothed in linen is mentioned again (9:2-3,11). The burning coals that he scattered on Jerusalem in judgment (see Gn 19:24) were also linked to the “living creatures” in 1:13. A man clothed in linen in Daniel 10:5 was an angel (see Dn 10:12-13), which suggests the same here (see Dn 12:6-7). Linen was also used in various priestly garments (Ex 28:42; 39:28; Lv 6:3; 16:4).

10:3-5 The same divine glory that Ezekiel beheld earlier (1:28; 3:12,23) now filled the temple and its court. The problem was that God’s glory and presence was utterly incompatible with the idolatry being practiced there (8:3-18). After moving from above the ark in the holy of holies to the threshold of the temple (see the note on 9:3), the glory of God would later leave the structure and then leave Jerusalem (vv. 18-19; 11:23-24; see the note on 8:1-3).

10:15-17 As strongly suggested by verses 1-2,5-6,8-14, the “living creatures” of 1:5-24 were cherubim (vv. 15,20). Such angelic beings guarded the garden of Eden (Gn 3:24), and the wings of two golden cherubim overshadowed the mercy seat of the ark of the covenant (Ex 25:18-22). As before, the wheels moved with the cherubim because the spirit of the living creatures was in them (see the note on 1:12,20-21).

10:18-19 Having already moved to the temple threshold (v. 4; 9:3), the glory moved and stopped above the cherubim. This is not a reference to the cherubim in the holy of holies (see 9:3a) but rather to the creatures associated with the wheels. In this section, the glory is moving outward from the holy of holies (9:3a) to the threshold (10:4) and now to the cherubim (10:18). When these beings departed, the glory left with them (v. 19). Although God had set his name on the temple (1Kg 9:3) and had commanded the construction of the ark of the covenant (Ex 25:10-22), his presence and glory were certainly not confined to them (1Kg 8:27; Is 66:1; Jr 3:16; 7:12-14), as implied by the motion of the living creatures and the wheels. His circumstantial enthronement above the golden cherubim of the ark (1Sm 4:4; 2Sm 6:2) thus reflected his eternal enthronement above real cherubim (see 2Sm 22:11; Ps 18:10).

VISION OF ISRAEL'S CORRUPT LEADERS

11 The Spirit then lifted me up † and brought me to the eastern gate of the LORD's house, which faces east, and at the gate's entrance were twenty-five men. Among them I saw Jaazaniah son of Azzur, and Pelatiah son of Benaiah, leaders of the people. 2 The LORD † said to me, "Son of man, these are the men who plot evil † and give wicked advice in this city. 3 They are saying, 'Isn't the time near to build houses? † † The city is the pot, † and we are the meat.' 4 Therefore, prophesy against them. Prophesy, son of man! "
5 Then the Spirit of the LORD came on me, and he told me, "You are to say, 'This is what the LORD says: That is what you are thinking, house of Israel; and I know the thoughts that arise in your mind. † 6 You have multiplied your slain in this city, † filling its streets with them.
7 " 'Therefore, this is what the Lord GOD says: The slain you have put within it are the meat, † and the city is the pot, but I † will take you out of it. † 8 You fear the sword, † so I will bring the sword against you. † This is the declaration of the Lord GOD. 9 I will take you out of the city and hand you over to foreigners; I will execute judgments against you. † 10 You will fall by the sword, † and I will judge you at the border of Israel. † Then you will know that I am the LORD. 11 The city will not be a pot for you, † and you will not be the meat within it. I will judge you at the border of Israel, 12 so you will know that I am the LORD, whose statutes you have not followed and whose ordinances you have not practiced. Instead, you have acted according to the ordinances of the nations around you.' " †

13 Now while I was prophesying, Pelatiah son of Benaiah died. † Then I fell facedown and cried out loudly, "Oh, Lord GOD! † You are bringing the remnant of Israel to an end! "

PROMISE OF ISRAEL'S RESTORATION

14 The word of the LORD came to me again: 15 "Son of man, your own relatives, those who have the right to redeem your property, † † along with the entire house of Israel — all of them — are those to whom the residents of Jerusalem have said, 'You are far from the LORD; this land has been given to us as a possession.'

16 "Therefore say, 'This is what the Lord GOD says: Though I sent them far away among the nations and scattered them among the countries, yet for a little while I have been a sanctuary for them † in the countries where they have gone.'

17 "Therefore say, 'This is what the Lord GOD says: I will gather you from the peoples † and assemble you from the countries where you have been scattered, and I will give you the land of Israel.'

18 "When they arrive there, they will remove all its † abhorrent acts † and detestable practices from it. 19 I will give them integrity of † heart † and put a new spirit within them; I will remove their heart of stone † from their bodies † and give them a heart of flesh, † 20 so that they will follow my statutes, † keep my ordinances, and practice them. They will be my people, and I will be their God. † 21 But as for those whose hearts pursue their desire for abhorrent acts and detestable practices, I will bring their conduct down on their own heads." † This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.

GOD'S GLORY LEAVES JERUSALEM

22 Then the cherubim, with the wheels beside them, lifted their wings, † and the glory of the God of Israel was above them. 23 The glory of the LORD † rose up from within the city and stopped on the mountain † east of the city. † † 24 The Spirit lifted me up † and brought me to Chaldea and to the exiles in a vision from the Spirit of God. After the vision I had seen left me, [25] I spoke to the exiles about all the things the LORD had shown me.

11:1-3 Corrupt leaders had also been singled out for judgment earlier (8:11; 9:6). Their foolish speech was part of the problem (8:12; 9:9).

11:7-12 The saying that "the city is the pot, and we are the meat" (v. 3) seems to express the people's confidence in safety behind Jerusalem's walls, but it would be for naught. God's judgment would lead to their acknowledgement of him (vv. 9-12; 13:21; 15:7; see the note on 6:1-7). Israel is again confronted because God's statutes . . . have not [been] followed and his ordinances . . . have not [been] practiced (v. 12; 5:6-7; 20:13-21). The similarity between the people of Israel and the nations resulted from their failure to follow (Lv 18:3-5,24-30; 20:22-26).

11:13 As in 9:8, Ezekiel prayed to God on behalf of the remnant of Israel. The fulfillment of God's promises of salvation for Israel and the nations depended on its preservation (see the following note).

11:16-21 The Lord's implied answer to Ezekiel's prayer was that he would spare a remnant and even be a sanctuary for them in exile (v. 16; Is 8:14). He will also gather them back to their land (v. 17; Is 56:8; Jr 23:3; 29:14) and give them one heart (see Jr 32:39) and a new spirit so that they finally will follow [his] statutes, keep [his] ordinances, and practice them (vv. 19-20; see the notes on vv. 7-12; 18:5-20). Such salvation is for the repentant only (vv. 18,21). This passage is similar to 36:24-32.

11:22-23 The preceding message was one of hope, but the vision fittingly concludes with the glory of the LORD leaving defiled Jerusalem (see the notes on 8:1-3; 10:3-5,18-19).

11:24-25 Ezekiel's return to the exiles concludes the vision of Ezekiel 8–11 with the reverse of how it had begun (see 8:1-3). This is similar to how 3:14-15 marked the end of his first vision.

EZEKIEL DRAMATIZES THE EXILE

12 The word of the LORD came to me: [2] "Son of man, you are living among a rebellious house. † They have eyes to see but do not see, and ears to hear but do not hear, † for they are a rebellious house. †

[3] "Now you, son of man, get your bags ready for exile and go into exile in their sight during the day. You will go into exile from your place to another place while they watch; perhaps they will understand, though they are a rebellious house. [4] During the day, bring out your bags like an exile's bags while they look on. Then in the evening go out in their sight like those going into exile. [5] As they watch, dig through the wall and take the bags out through it. 6 And while they look on, lift the bags to your shoulder and take them out in the dark; cover your face so that you cannot see the land. For I have made you a sign to the house of Israel." †

7 So I did just as I was commanded. In the daytime I brought out my bags like an exile's bags. In the evening I dug through the wall by hand; I took them out in the dark, carrying them on my shoulder in their sight.
8 In the morning the word of the LORD came to me: 9 "Son of man, hasn't the house of Israel, that rebellious house, † asked you, 'What are you doing?' † 10 Say to them, 'This is what the Lord GOD says: This pronouncement concerns the prince † in Jerusalem and the whole house of Israel living there.' † 11 You are to say, 'I am a sign for you. Just as I have done, it will be done to them; they will go into exile, † into captivity.' 12 The prince who is among † them will lift his bags to his shoulder in the dark and go out. They † will dig through the wall to bring him out through it. He will cover his face so he cannot see the land with his eyes. 13 But I will spread my net over him, and he will be caught in my snare. I will bring him to Babylon, the land of the Chaldeans, yet he will not see it, † and he will die there. 14 I will also scatter all the attendants who surround him and all his troops to every direction of the wind, † and I will draw a sword to chase after them. 15 They will know that I am the LORD † when I disperse them among the nations and scatter them among the countries. † 16 But I will spare a few of them from the sword, † famine, and plague, so that among the nations where they go they can tell about all their detestable practices. Then they will know that I am the LORD."

EZEKIEL DRAMATIZES ISRAEL'S ANXIETY

17 The word of the LORD came to me: 18 "Son of man, eat your bread with † trembling and drink your water with anxious shaking. 19 Then say to the people of the land, 'This is what the Lord GOD says about the residents of Jerusalem in the land of Israel: They will eat their bread with anxiety and drink their water in dread, for their † † land will be stripped of everything † in it because of the violence of all who live there. 20 The inhabited cities will be destroyed, and the land will become dreadful. Then you will know that I am the LORD.' "

A DECEPTIVE PROVERB STOPPED

21 Again the word of the LORD came to me: 22 "Son of man, what is this proverb you people have about the land of Israel, † which goes, 'The days keep passing by, † and every vision fails'? 23 Therefore say to them, 'This is what the Lord GOD says: I will put a stop to this proverb, and they will not use it again in Israel.' † But say to them, 'The days have arrived, † as well as the fulfillment of every vision. 24 For there will no longer be any false vision or flattering divination † within the house of Israel. 25 But I, the LORD, will speak whatever message I will speak, and it will be done. † It will no longer be delayed. † For in your days, rebellious house, I will speak a message and bring it to pass. This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.' " 26 The word of the LORD came to me: 27 "Son of man, notice that the house of Israel is saying, 'The vision that he sees concerns many years from now; † he prophesies about distant times.' 28 Therefore say to them, 'This is what the Lord GOD says: None of my words will be delayed any longer. The message I speak will be fulfilled. This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.' "

12:2-4 Israel is called a rebellious house (see 2:5-8; 3:9,26-27), and their spiritual senselessness picks up on an important theme in the Prophets (see the note on Is 6:8-10; Jr 5:21). Despite Israel's blindness, the subsequent dramatized prophecy in verses 3-7 was still set in their sight (v. 3; see Mt 13:10-15). In this symbolic act, Ezekiel packed his bags and went out in the evening to symbolize going into exile.

12:10-14 Ezekiel's packing his bags for exile in verses 3-7 highlights the exile of the prince (vv. 10,12). Just as the prophet covered his face and went out in the dark (vv. 6-7), so the prince would go to Babylon (vv. 12-13). This prophecy would be fulfilled when Zedekiah was exiled (2Kg 25:4-7).

12:16 A remnant would be spared, but these would confess all their detestable practices among the nations (see 6:8-10; 11:16-21).

12:17-20 This command that Ezekiel eat and drink in apparent fear and anxiety is similar to the one in 4:16-17. It was a symbolic act designed to depict the anxiety of the coming devastation of the land, which would come because of the people's violence (v. 19; 7:11,23; 8:17; 9:9).

12:22-28 The proverb quoted in verse 22 was dismissive of genuine prophetic messages. God, however, would fulfill his message of destruction and exile shortly, and this proverb would no longer be spoken (vv. 23-25). Likewise, the idea that the prophetic word concerned only the distant future would be proven false (vv. 26-28). God would thus vindicate his word (see the note on 5:13).

ISRAEL'S FALSE PROPHETS CONDEMNED

13 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 "Son of man, prophesy against the prophets of Israel who † are prophesying. Say to those who prophesy out of their own imagination, † 'Hear the word of the LORD! 3 This is what the Lord GOD says: Woe to the foolish prophets who follow their own spirit and have seen nothing. 4 Your prophets, Israel, are like jackals among ruins. 5 You did not go up to the gaps † or restore the wall around the house of Israel so that it might stand in battle on the day of the LORD. 6 They saw false visions and their divinations were a lie. † They claimed, "This is the LORD's declaration," when the LORD did not send them, † yet they wait for the fulfillment of their message.
7 Didn't you see a false vision and speak a lying divination when you proclaimed, "This is the LORD's declaration," even though I had not spoken?
8 " 'Therefore, this is what the Lord GOD says: You have spoken falsely and had lying visions; that's why you discover that I am against you. This is the declaration of the Lord GOD. 9 My hand will be against the prophets who see false visions and speak lying divinations. † They will not be present in the council of my people or be recorded in the register of the house of Israel, and they will not enter the land of Israel. Then you will know that I am the Lord GOD.
10 " 'Since they have led my people astray by saying, "Peace," † when there is no peace, and since when a flimsy wall is being built, they plaster it with whitewash, † 11 therefore, tell those plastering it with whitewash that it will fall.
Torrential rain will come, † and I will send hailstones plunging † down, and a whirlwind will be released. 12 When the wall has fallen, will you not be asked,
"Where's the whitewash you plastered on it? " 13 " 'So this is what the Lord GOD says: I will release a whirlwind in my wrath.
Torrential rain will come in my anger, and hailstones will fall in destructive fury.
14 I will demolish the wall you plastered with whitewash and knock it to the ground so that its foundation is exposed. † The city will fall, and you will be destroyed within it. Then you will know that I am the LORD. 15 After I exhaust my wrath against the wall and against those who plaster it with whitewash, I will say to you, "The wall is no more and neither are those who plastered it —

16 those prophets of Israel who prophesied to Jerusalem and saw a vision of peace for her when there was no peace." † This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.'

17 "Now you, son of man, face † the women among your people who prophesy † out of their own imagination, and prophesy against them. † 18 Say, 'This is what the Lord GOD says: Woe to the women who sew magic bands on the wrist of every hand and who make veils for the heads of people of every size in order to ensnare lives. Will you ensnare the lives of my people but preserve your own? † 19 You profane me among my people for handfuls of barley † and scraps of bread; you put those to death who should not die and spare those who should not live, when you lie to my people, who listen to lies.

20 " 'Therefore, this is what the Lord GOD says: I am against your magic bands with which you ensnare people like birds, and I will tear them from your arms. I will free the people you have ensnared like birds. 21 I will also tear off your veils and rescue my people from your hands, † so that they will no longer be prey in your hands. Then you will know that I am the LORD. 22 Because you have disheartened the righteous person with lies (when I intended no distress), † and because you have supported † the wicked † person so that he does not turn from his evil way to save his life, 23 therefore you will no longer see false visions or practice divination. † I will rescue my people from your hands. Then you will know that I am the LORD.' "

13:1-3 The preceding passage linked the vindication of God's word and the exposing of false prophecy (12:24). False prophets are characterized by speaking from their own imagination and their own spirit instead of from God (3:4,10-11). Their having seen nothing (v. 3) is in sharp contrast to Ezekiel's visions given by the Spirit (1:1; 3:12-14; 8:3).

13:4-5 Unlike Ezekiel and other true prophets (3:17-21), false prophets were like jackals among ruins because, even as the nation was wrecked, they scavenged for their own benefit and preyed on the people (v. 4). They provided no help because they did not call the people to repentance or strengthen the nation so that it would persevere on the day of judgment (v. 5).

13:9 The exclusion of false prophets from God's people and their omission from his register parallels Psalms 1:5; 87:4-6.

13:10-16 False prophets claimed there would be peace when there was none (Jr 6:14; 8:11), which is likened to whitewashing a structurally unsound wall when it should be repaired (see the note on vv. 4-5). The Hebrew verb translated plaster is also used of a superficial remedy in Leviticus 14:42-45 (see note). A spiritualized application of "a pleasing aroma" is likewise found in 20:39-44 (see note). The storm of judgment would reveal the weakness of the wall and the uselessness of the whitewash (vv. 11-15; Mt 7:24-27). The Hebrew phrase translated whirlwind (vv. 11,13) is almost identical to the one used in 1:4 and recalls that supernatural display of power.

13:17-23 There were also women who prophesied out of their own imagination (v. 17; see the note on vv. 1-3). They profaned God for the sake of their own gain (v. 19; 36:20-23; Lv 19:12) and did not call the wicked to repentance (v. 22; see the note on vv. 4-5). The judgment against these women who wore magic bands and veils generally parallels Isaiah 3:16-24. These bands and veils were probably used for rituals involving magic and divination.

IDOLATROUS ELDERS PUNISHED

14 Some of the elders of Israel came † to me and sat down in front of me. † 2 Then the word of the LORD came to me: 3 "Son of man, these men have set up idols in their hearts and have put their sinful stumbling blocks in front of themselves. † Should I actually let them inquire of me? †
4 "Therefore, speak to them and tell them, 'This is what the Lord GOD says: When anyone from the house of Israel sets up idols in his heart and puts his sinful stumbling block in front of himself, and then comes to the prophet, I, the LORD, will answer him appropriately. † I will answer him according to his many idols, 5 so that I may take hold of the house of Israel by their hearts. They are all estranged from me because of their idols.'
6 "Therefore, say to the house of Israel, 'This is what the Lord GOD says: Repent and turn away † from your idols; turn your faces away from all your detestable things. 7 For when anyone from the house of Israel or from the aliens who reside in Israel separates himself from me, setting up idols in his heart and putting his sinful stumbling block in front of himself, and then comes to the prophet to inquire of me, I, the LORD, will answer him myself. 8 I will turn against that one and make him a sign and a proverb; I will cut him off from among my people. † Then you will know that I am the LORD.
9 " 'But if the prophet is deceived and speaks a message, it was I, the LORD, who deceived that prophet. † I will stretch out my hand against him and destroy him from among my people Israel. † 10 They will bear their punishment — the punishment of the one who inquires will be the same as that of the prophet —

11 in order that the house of Israel may no longer stray from following me and no longer defile themselves † with all their transgressions. Then they will be my people and I will be their God. † This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.' "

FOUR DEVASTATING JUDGMENTS

12 The word of the LORD came to me: 13 "Son of man, suppose a land sins against me by acting faithlessly, and I stretch out my hand against it to cut off its supply of bread, † to send famine through it, and to wipe out both man and animal from it. 14 Even if these three men † — Noah, † Daniel, † and Job † — were in it, they would rescue only themselves by their righteousness." This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.

15 "Suppose I allow dangerous animals † to pass through the land and depopulate it so that it becomes desolate, with no one passing through it for fear of the animals. 16 Even if these three men were in it, as I live" — the declaration of the Lord GOD — "they could not rescue their sons or daughters. They alone would be rescued, but the land would be desolate. †

17 "Or suppose I bring a sword † against that land and say, 'Let a sword pass through it,' so that I wipe out both man and animal from it. † 18 Even if these three men were in it, as I live" — the declaration of the Lord GOD — "they could not rescue their sons or daughters, but they alone would be rescued.

19 "Or suppose I send a plague into that land † and pour out my wrath on it with bloodshed to wipe out both man and animal from it. 20 Even if Noah, Daniel, and Job were in it, as I live" — the declaration of the Lord GOD — "they could not rescue their son or daughter. They would rescue only themselves by their righteousness.

21 "For this is what the Lord GOD says: How much worse will it be when I send my four † devastating judgments against Jerusalem — sword, famine, dangerous animals, and plague — in order to wipe out both man and animal from it! 22 Even so, there will be survivors left in it, sons and daughters who will be brought out. Indeed, they will come out to you, and you will observe their conduct and actions. † Then you will be consoled about the devastation I have brought on Jerusalem, about all I have brought on it. 23 They will bring you consolation when you see their conduct and actions, and you will know that it was not without cause that I have done what I did to it.” † This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.

14:1-8 Ezekiel was again sitting with the elders of the people (8:1; 20:1), who were ostensibly seeking God (vv. 1-3). The problem was their insincerity, since they had set up idols in their hearts (vv. 3-4,7). Idolatry is thus not only an outward act but a sin of the heart (v. 5; 20:16). God knew that they had a stumbling block that would lead to their ruin (vv. 3-4,7-8; 3:20; Is 8:14; Jr 6:21).

14:11 The endurance of “punishment” (v. 10; see the note on 7:15-16) will ultimately give way to faithfulness, purity, and a perfected relationship with God (see 11:18-20; 36:25-29). Israel’s previous waywardness (vv. 5,7) will be resolved.

14:13 The Hebrew phrase translated acting faithlessly is often used of treachery or betrayal (e.g., Lv 26:40; Nm 5:12,27).

14:14 Noah, Daniel, and Job serve as godly examples who nevertheless would be unable to turn aside God’s judgment (vv. 16,18,20). They would only be able to save themselves, unlike the deliverance of Noah along with his family from the flood (Gn 6:9,18; see Gn 19:12-17; Jos 2:12-20). Along with 5:6 and 11:12, this passage illustrates how wicked Israel had grown.

14:21 These four devastating judgments are the same ones described in verses 13-20. Both man and animal would be wiped out (see vv. 13,17,19; 36:11). The use of the number four suggests totality (see 7:2; 37:9; Zch 6:1-8).

14:22-23 A remnant would survive the devastation (6:8-9; 11:16). As in 6:10, it would be known that God had not punished without cause.

PARABLE OF THE USELESS VINE

15 Then the word of the LORD came to me: 2 “Son of man, how does the wood of the vine, † that branch among the trees of the forest, compare to any other wood? 3 Can wood be taken from it to make something useful? Or can anyone make a peg from it to hang things on? 4 In fact, it is put into the fire as fuel. † The fire devours both of its ends, and the middle is charred. Can it be useful for anything? 5 Even when it was whole it could not be made into a useful object. How much less can it ever be made into anything useful when the fire has devoured it and it is charred! ”

6 Therefore, this is what the Lord GOD says, “Like the wood of the vine among the trees of the forest, which I have given to the fire as fuel, so I will give up the residents of Jerusalem. 7 I will turn against them. † They may have escaped from the fire, but it will still consume them. † And you will know that I am the LORD when I turn against them. 8 I will make the land desolate because they have acted unfaithfully." This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.

15:4-7 Fire has been frequently used as an image of fierce judgment (5:4; 10:2,6-7), and it had also been part of the manifestation of God's glory (1:4,13,27; 8:2).

PARABLE OF GOD'S ADULTEROUS WIFE

16 The word of the LORD came to me again: 2 "Son of man, confront Jerusalem with her detestable practices. † 3 You are to say, 'This is what the Lord GOD says to Jerusalem: Your origin and your birth were in the land of the Canaanites. Your father was an Amorite and your mother a Hethite. † 4 As for your birth, your umbilical cord wasn't cut on the day you were born, † and you weren't washed clean † with water. You were not rubbed with salt or wrapped in cloths. † 5 No one cared enough about you to do even one of these things out of compassion for you. But you were thrown out into the open field because you were despised on the day you were born.

6 " 'I passed by you and saw you thrashing around in your blood, and I said to you as you lay in your blood, "Live!" Yes, I said to you as you lay in your blood, "Live!" † 7 I made you thrive † like plants of the field. † You grew up and matured and became very beautiful. † Your breasts were formed and your hair grew, but you were stark naked.

8 " 'Then I passed by you and saw you, and you were indeed at the age for love. So I spread the edge of my garment over you and covered your nakedness. † I pledged myself to you, † entered into a covenant with you — this is the declaration of the Lord GOD — and you became mine. † 9 I washed you with water, rinsed off your blood, and anointed you with oil. 10 I clothed you in embroidered cloth and provided you with fine leather † sandals. I also wrapped you in fine linen and covered you with silk. 11 I adorned you with jewelry, putting bracelets on your wrists and a necklace around your neck. 12 I put a ring in your nose, † earrings on your ears, and a beautiful crown on your head. 13 So you were adorned with gold and silver, † and your clothing was made of fine linen, silk, and embroidered cloth. You ate fine flour, honey, and oil. You became extremely beautiful and attained royalty. 14 Your fame spread among the nations because of your beauty, for it was perfect through my splendor, † which I had bestowed on you. This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.

15 " 'But you trusted in your beauty and acted like a prostitute because of your fame. † You lavished your sexual favors on everyone who passed by. † Your beauty became his. † 16 You took some of your clothing and made colorful high places for yourself, and you engaged in prostitution on them. These places should not have been built, and this should never have happened! † 17 You also took your beautiful jewelry made from the gold and silver I had given you, † and you made male images so that you could engage in prostitution with them. 18 Then you took your embroidered clothing to cover them and set my oil and incense before them. 19 The food that I gave you — the fine flour, oil, and honey that I fed you — you set it before them as a pleasing aroma. † That is what happened. This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.
20 " 'You even took your sons and daughters you bore to me and sacrificed them to these images as food. † Wasn't your prostitution enough? 21 You slaughtered my children and gave them up when you passed them through the fire † to the images. 22 In all your detestable practices and acts of prostitution, you did not remember the days of your youth † when you were stark naked and thrashing around in your blood.
23 " 'Then after all your evil — Woe, woe to you! — the declaration of the Lord GOD — 24 you built yourself a mound and made yourself an elevated place in every square. † 25 You built your elevated place at the head of every street † and turned your beauty into a detestable thing. You spread your legs to everyone who passed by and increased your prostitution. 26 You engaged in promiscuous acts with Egyptian men, your well-endowed neighbors, and increased your prostitution † to anger me.
27 " 'Therefore, I stretched out my hand against you and reduced your provisions. I gave you over to the desire of those who hate you, the Philistine women, † who were embarrassed by your indecent conduct. 28 Then you engaged in prostitution with the Assyrian men because you were not satisfied. †

Even though you did this with them, you were still not satisfied. 29 So you extended your prostitution to Chaldea, † the land of merchants, but you were not even satisfied with this!
30 " 'How your heart was inflamed with lust † — the declaration of the Lord GOD — when you did all these things, the acts of a brazen prostitute, 31 building your mound at the head of every street and making your elevated place in every square. But you were unlike a prostitute because you scorned payment. †
32 You adulterous wife, who receives strangers instead of her husband! 33 Men give gifts to all prostitutes, but you gave gifts to all your lovers. You bribed them to come to you from all around for your sexual favors. 34 So you were the opposite of other women in your acts of prostitution; no one solicited you. When you paid a fee instead of one being paid to you, you were the opposite.
35 " 'Therefore, you prostitute, hear the word of the LORD! 36 This is what the Lord GOD says: Because your lust was poured out and your nakedness exposed by your acts of prostitution with your lovers, and because of all your detestable idols and the blood of your children that you gave to them, † 37 I am therefore going to gather all the lovers you pleased † — all those you loved as well as all those you hated. I will gather them against you from all around and expose your nakedness † to them so they see you completely naked. 38 I will judge you the way adulteresses and those who shed blood are judged. † Then I will bring about the shedding of your blood in jealous wrath. † 39 I will hand you over to them, and they will demolish your mounds and tear down your elevated places. They will strip off your clothes, † take your beautiful jewelry, and leave you stark naked. 40 They will bring a mob against you † to stone you and to cut you to pieces with their swords. 41 They will burn your houses and execute judgments against you in the sight of many women. I will stop you from being a prostitute, † and you will never again pay fees for lovers. 42 So I will satisfy my wrath against you, † and my jealousy will turn away from you. Then I will be calm and no longer angry. 43 Because you did not remember the days † of your youth but enraged me with all these things, I will also bring your conduct down on your own head. † This is the declaration of the Lord GOD. Haven't you committed depravity in addition to all your detestable practices?

44 " 'Look, everyone who uses proverbs will quote this proverb about you: "Like mother, like daughter." 45 You are the daughter of your mother, who despised her husband and children. You are the sister of your sisters, † who despised their husbands and children. Your mother was a Hethite and your father an Amorite. † 46 Your older sister was Samaria, † who lived with her daughters to the north of you, and your younger sister was Sodom, who lived with her daughters to the south of you. 47 Didn't you walk in their ways and do their detestable practices? It was only a short time before all your ways were more corrupt than theirs. †
48 " 'As I live — the declaration of the Lord GOD — your sister Sodom and her daughters have not behaved as you and your daughters have. † 49 Now this was the iniquity of your sister Sodom: She and her daughters had pride, plenty of food, † and comfortable security, but didn't support † the poor and needy. 50 They were haughty and did detestable acts before me, so I removed them when I saw this. † † 51 But Samaria did not commit even half your sins. You have multiplied your detestable practices beyond theirs and made your sisters appear righteous by all the detestable acts you have committed. 52 You must also bear your disgrace, since you have helped your sisters out. † For they appear more righteous than you because of your sins, which you committed more detestably than they did. So you also, be ashamed and bear your disgrace, since you have made your sisters appear righteous.
53 " 'I will restore their fortunes, † the fortunes of Sodom and her daughters and those of Samaria and her daughters. I will also restore † your fortunes among them, † 54 so you will bear your disgrace and be ashamed of all you did when you comforted them. † 55 As for your sisters, Sodom and her daughters and Samaria and her daughters will return to their former state. You and your daughters will also return to your former state. 56 Didn't you treat your sister Sodom as an object of scorn when you were proud, 57 before your wickedness was exposed? It was like the time you were scorned by the daughters of Aram † † and all those around her, and by the daughters of the Philistines — those who treated you with contempt from every side. 58 You yourself must bear the consequences of your depravity and detestable practices † — this is the LORD's declaration.

59 " 'For this is what the Lord GOD says: I will deal with you according to what you have done, since you have despised the oath by breaking the covenant. † 60 But I will remember the covenant I made with you in the days of your youth, and I will establish a permanent covenant with you. † 61 Then you will remember your ways † and be ashamed when you † receive your older and younger sisters. I will give them to you as daughters, but not because of your covenant. 62 I will establish my covenant with you, † and you will know that I am the LORD, 63 so that when I make atonement for all you have done, you will remember and be ashamed, † and never open your mouth again because of your disgrace. † This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.' "

16:2-3 Jerusalem's detestable practices were shown to the prophet through a vision in Ezekiel 8. Here the prophet uses the extended metaphor of a promiscuous woman to confront the sin and covenant faithlessness of Jerusalem. For more on her heritage (v. 3), see the note on verses 45-52.

16:8-14 Not only had God cared for Jerusalem as for an abandoned newborn girl left for dead (vv. 4-6), but he had also nurtured her to maturity (v. 7), married her (a metaphor for the covenant relationship; see "A Biblical View of Marriage," p. 1449), and provided for her richly. Jerusalem's helplessness highlights all the more God's grace and initiative in giving life (v. 6; 37:3-14), covering her nakedness (vv. 7-8), loving her (v. 8), entering into a covenant with her (v. 8; 37:26), washing off her blood (v. 9; 36:25), and clothing and adorning her beautifully (vv. 10-14).

16:15-19 Jerusalem became proud and trusted in her beauty, which had been given to her by God (vv. 14-15). She also took the clothing, jewelry, and food that he provided and used them instead for idolatry, which is described here as prostitution (see 6:9; Is 1:21; Jr 2:20; Hs 1:2).

16:20-21 Jerusalem had gone so far in her idolatry as to sacrifice God's children (see Lv 18:21).

16:26-34 Jerusalem's crass promiscuity (vv. 15,25) also involved Egyptians, Assyrians, and Babylonians (Chaldea). The reference is to foreign alliances that are a form of idolatry since they involve trust in something other than God (Jr 2:18; Hs 7:11; 12:1). These nations had received tribute from Israel (vv. 31-34; 2Kg 16:8; 23:33-35). Continuing the metaphor, Ezekiel states that Jerusalem was an unusual prostitute. Typical prostitutes at least get paid for what they do, but she gave gifts to her lovers in an attempt to secure favors (v. 33-34).

16:38-39 Jerusalem initially had needed cleansing from blood and covering for nakedness (vv. 6-7), which God richly provided (vv. 8-14). Her promiscuity, however, involved the shedding of innocent blood and exposure of her nakedness (vv. 20,36; Lv 18:6-19). God would judge her for both of these by doing the same thing to her (v. 38). The humiliation of being stripped naked is also found in Hosea 2:3 and Habakkuk 2:15-16.

16:43 The days of your youth refers to the time in which Israel was helpless (vv. 22,60) and yet God graciously took her in (vv. 3-14; see Jr 2:2; Hs 2:15). To forget those days was to forget his grace (Dt 8:11-20), and her sins would be brought back on her head (see the notes on 4:4-17; 7:15-16).

16:45-52 The mention of Jerusalem's birth to an Amorite father and a Hethite mother in the land of the Canaanites (vv. 1,44-45) is a statement that there is nothing inherently special about her outside of God's gracious choice. This makes her no different from these idolatrous peoples who were judged for their detestable practices (Lv 18:24-28). Moreover, they were no different from Samaria and Sodom since they had not only walked in their ways but acted even more corrupt (vv. 46-47; see the note on 5:6; 11:12).

16:53 To restore the fortunes usually relates to the restoration of a nation that had been punished (see Jr 29:14; 30:3; 48:47; 49:6,39). The salvation of Sodom here is unusual because Sodom is typically an example of permanent destruction (Is 1:9; 13:19-20), but in this instance it may represent God's enemies generally (Dt 32:32). In any case, the redemption described includes not only Israel but Gentiles (Is 19:25).

16:59-63 Although Israel had broken the covenant God had made with them at Mount Sinai, he would remember his covenant with Abraham and establish a permanent covenant with them (v. 60; 37:26; Is 55:3; Jr 32:40). Jerusalem's remembrance of their sins and their shame (vv. 61,63; 6:9; 36:31) echoes Deuteronomy 30:1. Her sisters becoming her daughters may relate to their salvation coming from Zion (Ps 87:4-6; Hs 1:7). This time, God's faithfulness and grace will cause them to know that [he is] the LORD (v. 62; see the note on 6:1-7). In keeping with the emphasis on divine initiative and action, atonement will be made by God himself.

PARABLE OF THE EAGLES

17 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 "Son of man, pose a riddle and speak a parable to the house of Israel. † 3 You are to say, 'This is what the Lord GOD says: A huge eagle with powerful wings, † long feathers, and full plumage of many colors came to Lebanon and took the top of the cedar. † 4 He plucked off its topmost shoot, brought it to the land of merchants, and set it in a city of traders. 5 Then he took some of the land's seed and put it in a fertile field; † he set it like a willow, † a plant † by abundant water. 6 It sprouted and became a spreading vine, low in height with its branches turned toward him, † yet its roots stayed under it. So it became a vine, produced branches, and sent out shoots.

7 " 'But there was another huge eagle with powerful wings and thick plumage. And this vine bent its roots toward him! It stretched out its branches to him from the plot where it was planted, † so that he might water it. 8 It had been planted in a good field by abundant water in order to produce branches, bear fruit, and become a splendid vine.'
9 "You are to say, 'This is what the Lord GOD says: Will it flourish? Will he not tear out its roots † and strip off its fruit so that it shrivels? All its fresh leaves will wither! Great strength and many people will not be needed to pull it from its roots. 10 Even though it is planted, will it flourish? Won't it wither completely when the east wind strikes it? † It will wither on the plot where it sprouted.' "
11 The word of the LORD came to me: 12 "Now say to that rebellious house, † 'Don't you know what these things mean?' Tell them, 'The king of Babylon came to Jerusalem, took its king and officials, † and brought them back with him to Babylon. 13 He took one of the royal family † and made a covenant with him, putting him under oath. † Then he took away the leading men of the land, 14 so that the kingdom would be humble and not exalt itself † but would keep his covenant in order to endure. 15 However, this king revolted against him † by sending his ambassadors to Egypt so they might give him horses and a large army. † Will he flourish? Will the one who does such things escape? Can he break a covenant and still escape?
16 " 'As I live — this is the declaration of the Lord GOD — he will die in Babylon, in the land of the king who put him on the throne, † whose oath he despised and whose covenant he broke. 17 Pharaoh with his mighty army and vast company will not help him in battle, † when ramps are built and siege walls constructed to destroy many lives. 18 He despised the oath by breaking the covenant. He did all these things even though he gave his hand in pledge. † He will not escape!
19 " 'Therefore, this is what the Lord GOD says: As I live, I will bring down on his head my oath that he despised and my covenant that he broke. 20 I will spread my net over him, † and he will be caught in my snare. † I will bring him to Babylon and execute judgment on him there for the treachery he committed against me. † 21 All the fugitives † among his troops will fall by the sword, and those who survive will be scattered to every direction of the wind. † Then you will know that I, the LORD, have spoken.

22 " 'This is what the Lord GOD says:

I will take a sprig from the lofty top of the cedar and plant it. †
I will pluck a tender sprig from its topmost shoots, and I will plant it on a high towering mountain.
23 I will plant it on Israel's high mountain † so that it may bear branches, produce fruit, and become a majestic cedar.
Birds of every kind will nest under it, † taking shelter in the shade of its branches.
24 Then all the trees of the field will know that I am the LORD.
I bring down the tall tree, and make the low tree tall. †
I cause the green tree to wither and make the withered tree thrive. †
I, the LORD, have spoken and I will do it.' " †

17:2 The extended metaphor of the preceding chapter is followed here by a riddle and a parable.

17:3-6 The huge eagle is the king of Babylon (v. 12) who will take the top of the cedar tree (a symbol of King Jehoiachin) and carry it to exile. The land of merchants (v. 4) is Chaldea (see 16:29), where Jehoiachin had been taken (2Kg 24:10-15). The provision for the vine relates to a "covenant" between the newly-installed Zedekiah and Babylon (v. 13). The lowliness of the vine corresponds to the desired lowliness of his kingdom (v. 14).

17:7-10 The other huge eagle (v. 7) is Egypt, to whom Zedekiah had treacherously turned for help (v. 15; 2Kg 24:20). In so doing, he had violated his covenant with Babylon, to his own demise (vv. 9-10,15).

17:16-17 The certainty of Zedekiah's punishment is indicated through the oath formula, as I live. Zedekiah would indeed die in Babylon (2Kg 25:7), and Pharaoh would not be able to help him (Jr 37:1-8).

17:19-20 God saw Zedekiah as guilty also of breaking God's covenant and committing treachery against him.

17:22-24 Containing the image of the top of the cedar tree as a symbol for the king of Judah (v. 3), now God says that he himself would take a tender sprig from the top of this same cedar and plant it on a high mountain (see 20:40; 36:8; 40:2). There it will grow, bear fruit, and become a majestic cedar (v. 23). This is a prophecy of the coming of the Messiah (cp. Is 2:2-4; 4:2; 11:1; 53:2). The image of birds dwelling under the shade of a large tree resembles the parable of the mustard seed (Mt 13:31-32). The trees of the field are the nations (31:3-15; see 34:27), and God's humiliation of the proud and exaltation of the lowly parallels Isaiah 2:11-17 and 10:34–11:1. Just as God's message of judgment would come to pass, so would this promise of salvation (v. 24; see the notes on 5:13; 12:22-28; 16:59-63).

PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY FOR SIN

18 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 "What do you mean by using this proverb concerning the land of Israel:

'The fathers eat sour grapes, †
and the children's teeth are set on edge'? †

3 As I live" — this is the declaration of the Lord GOD — "you will no longer use this proverb in Israel. † 4 Look, every life belongs to me. † The life of the father is like the life of the son — both belong to me. The person who sins is the one who will die. †
5 "Suppose a man is righteous and does what is just and right: 6 He does not eat at the mountain shrines † † or look to the idols of the house of Israel. He does not defile his neighbor's wife † or approach a woman during her menstrual impurity. † 7 He doesn't oppress anyone † but returns his collateral to the debtor. † He does not commit robbery, but gives his bread to the hungry † and covers the naked with clothing. 8 He doesn't lend at interest or for profit † but keeps his hand from injustice and carries out true justice between men. † 9 He follows my statutes and keeps my ordinances, acting faithfully. Such a person is righteous; he will certainly live." † This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.

10 “But suppose the man has a violent son, who sheds blood † and does any of these things, 11 though the father has done none of them. Indeed, when the son eats at the mountain shrines and defiles his neighbor’s wife, 12 and when he oppresses the poor and needy, commits robbery, and does not return collateral, and when he looks to the idols, commits detestable acts, † 13 and lends at interest or for profit, will he live? He will not live! Since he has committed all these detestable acts, he will certainly die. His death will be his own fault. † † 14 “Now suppose he has a son who sees all the sins his father has committed, and though he sees them, he does not do likewise. 15 He does not eat at the mountain shrines or look to the idols of the house of Israel. He does not defile his neighbor’s wife. 16 He doesn’t oppress anyone, hold collateral, or commit robbery. He gives his bread to the hungry and covers the naked with clothing.
17 He keeps his hand from harming the poor, not taking interest or profit on a loan. He practices my ordinances and follows my statutes. Such a person will not die for his father’s iniquity. He will certainly live.
18 “As for his father, he will die for his own iniquity because he practiced fraud, robbed his brother, and did among his people what was not good. † 19 But you may ask, ‘Why doesn’t the son suffer punishment for the father’s iniquity? ’ † Since the son has done what is just and right, carefully observing all my statutes, he will certainly live. 20 The person who sins is the one who will die. † A son won’t suffer punishment for the father’s iniquity, and a father won’t suffer punishment for the son’s iniquity. † The righteousness of the righteous person will be on him, † and the wickedness of the wicked person will be on him. † 21 “But if the wicked person turns from all the sins he has committed, † keeps all my statutes, and does what is just and right, he will certainly live; he will not die. 22 None of the transgressions he has committed will be held against him. †
He will live because of the righteousness he has practiced. † 23 Do I take any pleasure in the death of the wicked? ” † This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.
“Instead, don’t I take pleasure when he turns from his ways and lives? 24 But when a righteous person turns from his righteousness † and acts unjustly, committing the same detestable acts that the wicked do, will he live? None of the righteous acts he did will be remembered. † He will die because of the treachery he has engaged in and the sin he has committed.

25 "But you say, 'The Lord's way isn't fair.' † Now listen, house of Israel: Is it my way that is unfair? Instead, isn't it your ways that are unfair? 26 When a righteous person turns from his righteousness and acts unjustly, he will die for this. He will die because of the injustice he has committed. 27 But if a wicked person turns from the wickedness he has committed and does what is just and right, he will preserve his life. 28 He will certainly live because he thought it over and turned from all the transgressions he had committed; he will not die.
29 But the house of Israel says, 'The Lord's way isn't fair.' Is it my ways that are unfair, house of Israel? Instead, isn't it your ways that are unfair?
30 "Therefore, house of Israel, I will judge each one of you according to his ways." † This is the declaration of the Lord GOD. "Repent and turn from all your rebellious acts, so they will not become a sinful stumbling block to you.
31 Throw off all the transgressions you have committed, and get yourselves a new heart and a new spirit. † Why should you die, house of Israel? 32 For I take no pleasure in anyone's death." This is the declaration of the Lord GOD. "So repent and live!

18:1-4 As in 12:22-25, God declares that he would put an end to a proverb commonly spoken by the people. This proverb expressed the belief that children suffer for sins committed by their fathers (vv. 2,4). Although it was true that previous generations did not suffer exile like the present one even though they deserved it too (see Ex 20:5; 34:7), this does not negate personal responsibility for sin. This reality will become clearer to Israel in the coming days as the proverb ceases to be used. The same proverb is similarly addressed in Jeremiah 31:29-30.

18:5-20 The principle of personal responsibility for sin ("the person who sins is the one who will die," vv. 4,20) is illustrated via the examples of a father, son, and grandson, each of whom live or die based on their respective conduct (vv. 9,13,17)—regardless of what the predecessor had done (vv. 18-20). Evidently, doing what is just and right along with walking in God's statutes and keeping his ordinances means to avoid idolatry and to live in right relationship with others (see the notes on 11:7-12,16-21; 20:18-20; Gn 26:5; Lv 20:22-26).

18:21-23 The preceding principle does not exclude forgiveness and life for the repentant (vv. 21-22). God has a clear preference that the wicked repent and live rather than die in their sins (v. 23; 33:11).

18:25-29 God insists that his ways of forgiving the repentant but punishing those who do not persevere in righteousness are fair. The truth was that the Israelites needed to repent of their wicked ways (see the note on 33:17-20).

18:31 What Israel needed was a new heart and a new spirit, which God would later provide (11:19; 36:26; 39:29). Fulfillment of God's commands requires the help of God himself (2:1-2; Dt 10:16; 30:6; the note on Jr 4:4; Rm 8:4).

A LAMENT FOR ISRAEL'S PRINCES

19 "As for you, take up a lament for the princes of Israel, † 2 and say:

What was your mother? A lioness!
She lay down among the lions;
she reared her cubs among the young lions.

3 She brought up one of her cubs, and he became a young lion. †
After he learned to tear prey,
he devoured people.

4 When the nations heard about him, he was caught in their pit.
Then they led him away with hooks to the land of Egypt. †

5 When she saw that she waited in vain, that her hope was lost, she took another of her cubs and made him a young lion.

6 He prowled among the lions, † and he became a young lion.
After he learned to tear prey,
he devoured people.

7 He devastated their strongholds † and destroyed their cities.
The land and everything in it shuddered at the sound of his roaring.

8 Then the nations from the surrounding provinces set out against him. †
They spread their net over him;
he was caught in their pit.

9 They put a wooden yoke on him † with hooks † and led him away to the king of Babylon.

They brought him into the fortresses so his roar could no longer be heard on the mountains of Israel. †

10 Your mother was like a vine in your vineyard, † † planted by the water;
it was fruitful and full of branches †
because of abundant water.
11 It had strong branches, fit for the scepters of rulers; its height towered among the clouds. †
So it was conspicuous for its height as well as its many branches.
12 But it was uprooted in fury, † thrown to the ground, and the east wind dried up its fruit.
Its strong branches were torn off and dried up; † fire consumed them.
13 Now it is planted in the wilderness, † in a dry and thirsty land.
14 Fire has gone out from its main branch † and has devoured its fruit, so that it no longer has a strong branch,
a scepter for ruling. †

This is a lament and should be used as a lament.”

19:1-4 The princes of Israel refer to their kings (v. 1; 7:27; 12:10,12; 21:25). The lion was a common symbol of royalty in the ancient world; here it is a metaphor for the ways that the rulers of Israel and Judah have mistreated their own people (he devoured people, v. 3). The one taken captive to Egypt is Jehoahaz (v. 4; 2Kg 23:34).

19:9 The ruler taken captive to Babylon is either Jehoiachin or Zedekiah, both of whom fit this description (2Kg 24:12; 25:7). The latter was the focus of Ezekiel 17 (see notes).

19:10-12 The destruction of the vine (v. 12) parallels the humiliation of the Davidic dynasty in Psalm 89:39-44. The withering east wind is the same one as in 17:10. The short-lived prosperity of this vine and the enmity of nations toward it (vv. 4,8) sharply contrast with 17:22-24 (see note).

19:13 In contrast with verse 10, the vine is now planted in the wilderness. Psalm 63:1 voices prayer from such a place, and other OT passages predict redemption even in this dry land (Is 35:1; 41:18).

19:14 The lack of a strong branch or a scepter (see v. 11; Ps 2:9) describes the end of the Davidic dynasty (see preceding notes).

ISRAEL'S REBELLION

20 In the seventh year, in the fifth month, on the tenth day of the month, some of Israel's elders came to inquire of the LORD, † and they sat down in front of me. 2 Then the word of the LORD came to me: 3 "Son of man, speak with the elders of Israel and tell them, 'This is what the Lord GOD says:
Are you coming to inquire of me? As I live, I will not let you inquire of me. †
This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.'
4 "Will you pass judgment against them, will you pass judgment, son of man?
Explain the detestable practices of their fathers to them. † 5 Say to them, 'This is what the Lord GOD says: On the day I chose Israel, I swore an oath † † to the descendants of Jacob's house and made myself known to them in the land of Egypt. I swore to them, saying, "I am the LORD your God." † 6 On that day I swore † to them that I would bring them out † of the land of Egypt into a land I had searched out for them, a land flowing with milk and honey, † the most beautiful of all lands. † 7 I also said to them, "Throw away, each of you, the abhorrent things that you prize, † and do not defile yourselves with the idols of Egypt. † I am the LORD your God." † 8 " 'But they rebelled against me and were unwilling to listen to me. None of them threw away the abhorrent things that they prized, † and they did not abandon the idols of Egypt. So I considered pouring out my wrath on them, † exhausting my anger against them within the land of Egypt. 9 But I acted for the sake of my name, † so that it would not be profaned in the eyes of the nations they were living among, in whose sight I had made myself known to Israel by bringing them out of Egypt.
10 " 'So I brought them out of the land of Egypt and led them into the wilderness. † 11 Then I gave them my statutes and explained my ordinances to them — the person who does them will live by them. † 12 I also gave them my Sabbaths to serve as a sign between me and them, † so that they would know that I am the LORD who consecrates them.

13 “ ‘But the house of Israel rebelled against me in the wilderness. † They did not follow my statutes and they rejected my ordinances — the person who does them will live by them. † They also completely profaned my Sabbaths. † So I considered pouring out my wrath on them in the wilderness to put an end to them. † 14 But I acted for the sake of my name, so that it would not be profaned in the eyes of the nations in whose sight I had brought them out. 15 However, I swore to them † in the wilderness that I would not bring them into the land I had given them — the most beautiful of all lands, flowing with milk and honey — 16 because they rejected my ordinances, profaned my Sabbaths, and did not follow my statutes. For their hearts went after their idols. † 17 Yet I spared them from destruction and did not bring them to an end in the wilderness. †

18 “ ‘Then I said to their children in the wilderness, “Don’t follow the statutes of your fathers, defile yourselves with their idols, or keep their ordinances. † 19 I am the LORD your God. Follow my statutes, keep my ordinances, and practice them. † 20 Keep my Sabbaths holy, † and they will be a sign between me and you, so you may know that I am the LORD your God.”

21 “ ‘But the children rebelled against me. † They did not follow my statutes or carefully keep my ordinances — the person who does them will live by them. They also profaned my Sabbaths. So I considered pouring out my wrath on them and exhausting my anger against them in the wilderness. 22 But I withheld my hand and acted for the sake of my name, so that it would not be profaned in the eyes of the nations in whose sight I brought them out. 23 However, I swore to them in the wilderness that I would disperse them among the nations and scatter them among the countries. † 24 For they did not practice my ordinances but rejected my statutes and profaned my Sabbaths, and their eyes were fixed † on their fathers’ idols. 25 I also gave them statutes that were not good and ordinances † they could not live by. 26 When they sacrificed every firstborn in the fire, † † I defiled them through their gifts in order to devastate them so they would know that I am the LORD.’ †

27 “Therefore, son of man, speak to the house of Israel, and tell them, ‘This is what the Lord God says: In this way also your fathers blasphemed me by † committing treachery against me: 28 When I brought them into the land that I swore to give them and they saw any high hill or leafy tree, † they offered their sacrifices and presented their offensive offerings there. They also sent up their pleasing aromas and poured out their drink offerings there. 29 So I asked them, “What is this high place you are going to?” And it is still called Bamah † today.’

30 “Therefore say to the house of Israel, ‘This is what the Lord God says: Are you defiling yourselves the way your fathers did, † and prostituting yourselves with their abhorrent things? 31 When you offer your gifts, sacrificing your children in the fire, † † you still continue to defile yourselves with all your idols today. So should I let you inquire of me, house of Israel? As I live — this is the declaration of the Lord God — I will not let you inquire of me!

ISRAEL’S RESTORATION

32 “ ‘When you say, “Let us be like the nations, like the clans of other countries, serving wood and stone,” † what you have in mind will never happen. † 33 As I live — the declaration of the Lord God — I will reign over you with a strong hand, an outstretched arm, † and outpoured wrath. 34 I will bring you from the peoples and gather you from the countries where you were scattered, † with a strong hand, an outstretched arm, † and outpoured wrath. 35 I will lead you into the wilderness of the peoples † and enter into judgment with you there face to face. 36 Just as I entered into judgment with your fathers in the wilderness of the land of Egypt, † so I will enter into judgment with you. This is the declaration of the Lord God. 37 I will make you pass under the rod † and will bring you into the bond of the covenant. 38 I will purge you of those who rebel and transgress against me. † I will bring them out of the land where they live as foreign residents, but they will not enter the land of Israel. Then you will know that I am the Lord.

39 “ ‘As for you, house of Israel, this is what the Lord God says: Go and serve your idols, each of you. But afterward you will surely listen to me, and you will no longer defile my holy name with your gifts and idols. † 40 For on my holy mountain, Israel's high mountain — the declaration of the Lord GOD — there the entire house of Israel, all of them, † will serve me in the land. There I will accept them and will require your contributions and choicest gifts, † all your holy offerings. 41 When I bring you from the peoples and gather you from the countries where you have been scattered, I will accept you as a pleasing aroma.

And I will demonstrate my holiness through you in the sight of the nations. † 42 When I lead you into the land of Israel, the land I swore to give your fathers, you will know that I am the LORD. † 43 There you will remember your ways and all your deeds by which you have defiled yourself, † and you will loathe yourselves for all the evil things you have done. † 44 You will know that I am the LORD, † house of Israel, when I have dealt with you for the sake of my name † rather than according to your evil ways and corrupt acts. This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.' "

FIRE IN THE SOUTH

45 The word of the LORD came to me: 46 "Son of man, face the south and preach against it. Prophesy against the forest land in the Negev, † 47 and say to the forest there, 'Hear the word of the LORD! This is what the Lord GOD says: I am about to ignite a fire in you, and it will devour every green tree and every dry tree in you. The blazing flame will not be extinguished, and every face from the south to the north will be scorched by it. 48 Then all people will see that I, the LORD, have kindled it. † It will not be extinguished.' "

20:1-3 God's unwillingness to be inquired of by the elders parallels 14:1-8 (see note).

20:4 The Hebrew word for detestable practices appears again (5:9-11; 8:6; 16:2), this time with reference to previous generations of Israelites. This term is frequently used of idolatry (Dt 7:25-26; 12:31; 13:14) and sexual immorality (Lv 18:22-30).

20:7-8 Despite God's command to avoid defiling themselves with idols, the Israelites did not abandon the idols of Egypt (Jos 24:14). The Pentateuch speaks of the idolatry of this generation of Israelites in other ways (Ex 32:1-4; Lv 17:7).

20:9 Several times God relented from his fierce anger against Israel for the sake of his own name (see Ex 32:9-14; Nm 14:11-20; Ps 106:8;Is 48:9), so that it would not be profaned in the eyes of the nations (vv. 14,22).

20:18-20 Following their fathers' statutes and ordinances refers to their practices of idolatry (vv. 18,30). These contrast sharply with the instructions of God (v. 19; see the note on 18:5-20), including the command to set apart his Sabbaths as holy (v. 20).

20:25 Whereas God's commands are typically characterized as life-giving (vv. 11,13,21; 18:9,17,19,21; Lv 18:5), the different set of statutes and ordinances in view here were not good and did not result in life. The next verse suggests that these laws were the religious practices, such as child sacrifice, designed by the people. These were things that God had never commanded, and the result was defilement and devastation (v. 26).

20:27 The sin of treachery has been cited several times in Ezekiel (14:13; 15:8; 17:20; 18:24). The Hebrew word translated blasphemed also appears in Numbers 15:30 and Isaiah 37:6,23.

20:31 God's outrage over being consulted by brazen idolaters is the starting point for this passage (vv. 1-3).

20:32 Idolatry in Israel was linked to a desire to be like the nations, just like the request for a king had been (1Sm 8:5,20). It was always a powerful temptation for Israel to adopt the philosophies, religious practices, and conventional wisdom of the peoples around them. This was the polar opposite of God's will that they be sanctified (v. 12), of which Sabbath-keeping was to be a sign (v. 20; Ex 31:13-17; Lv 19:2-3). The pairing of the words wood and stone may refer to an Asherah idol since the goddess carved in stone was symbolized by a tree (cp. Dt 29:16; Jr 2:27). Asherah was a Canaanite goddess frequently associated with Baal.

20:33-38 Resembling the exodus from Egypt (see the notes on 34:13-16,27), the regathering to the land of Israel (vv. 40-42) will be effected by God's strong hand and outstretched arm (vv. 33-34; Dt 4:34; 5:15; 26:8; Ps 136:12). As before, it will involve a period of time in the wilderness for the purpose of judgment (vv. 35-38; Hs 2:14). The result will be the purging of rebels (v. 38; Is 1:28). The Hebrew verb translated reign in verse 33 is reinforced by the Hebrew word translated rod (or, "scepter") in verse 37. It is used in the preceding context to signify royalty (see the notes on 19:10-14; 21:10,13; 37:22-26).

20:39-44 Despite Israel's idolatry, they will ultimately defile [God's] holy name no longer (39:7; 43:7). This will take place when Israel is regathered from exile to his holy mountain, Israel's high mountain (v. 40; 17:22-23; 40:2), where they will all serve him (see Ex 3:12). Israel's acceptance as a pleasing aroma (v. 41; Is 66:20) spiritualizes the way this phrase is typically used (v. 28; 6:13; 16:19; Gn 8:21), similar to the references to "plaster" in 13:10-16 (see note). Their dwelling in the land will be accompanied by contrition over their sin and recognition of the grace and glory of God (vv. 43-44; 6:9; the note on 16:59-63; 36:22,31-32).

20:47-48 The green tree and the dry tree were also mentioned together in 17:24. The former are likely the same as the "well-watered trees" in 31:14,16. The phrase all people will see parallels the phrase "all the trees of the field will know" in 17:22-24.

20:49 Ezekiel used a riddle in 17:2 and a parable in 24:3. In this verse, Ezekiel's audience is impressed with his parables and creative speech, but they refuse to listen to or repent at his actual message.

GOD'S SWORD OF JUDGMENT

21 The word of the LORD came to me again: 2 "Son of man, face † Jerusalem and preach against the sanctuaries. Prophesy against the land of Israel, 3 and say to it, 'This is what the LORD says: I am against you. † I will draw my sword from its sheath and cut off from you both the righteous and the wicked. 4 Since I will cut off † both the righteous and the wicked, my sword will therefore come out of its sheath against all people from the south to the north. † 5 So all people will know that I, the LORD, have taken my sword from its sheath — it will not be sheathed again.' †

6 "But you, son of man, groan! Groan bitterly with a broken heart † right before their eyes. 7 And when they ask you, 'Why are you groaning?' then say, 'Because of the news that is coming. † Every heart will melt, and every hand will become weak. Every spirit will be discouraged, and all knees will run with urine. † Yes, it is coming and it will happen. This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.' "

8 The word of the LORD came to me: 9 "Son of man, prophesy, 'This is what the Lord says!' You are to proclaim,

'A sword! † A sword is sharpened and also polished. †
10 It is sharpened for slaughter, polished to flash like lightning!
Should we rejoice?
The scepter of my son,
the sword despises every tree. †
11 The sword is given to be polished, to be grasped in the hand.
It is sharpened, and it is polished, to be put in the hand of the slayer.' †

12 "Cry out and wail, son of man, for it is against my people. It is against all the princes of Israel! They are given over to the sword with my people. Therefore strike your thigh in grief. † 13 Surely it will be a trial! And what if the sword despises even the scepter? The scepter will not continue." † This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.

14 "So you, son of man, prophesy and clap your hands together: †

Let the sword strike two times, even three.
It is a sword for massacre, a sword for great massacre —
it surrounds † them!
15 I have appointed a sword † for slaughter † at all their gates, so that their hearts may melt and many may stumble.
Yes! It is ready to flash like lightning; † it is drawn † for slaughter.
16 Slash to the right; turn to the left — wherever your blade is directed.

17 I also will clap my hands together, and I will satisfy my wrath. † I, the LORD, have spoken."

18 The word of the LORD came to me: 19 "Now you, son of man, mark out two roads that the sword of Babylon's king can take. Both of them should originate from the same land. And make a signpost at the fork in the road to each city. 20 Mark out a road that the sword can take to Rabbah of the Ammonites † and to Judah into fortified Jerusalem. 21 For the king of Babylon stands at the split in the road, at the fork of the two roads, to practice divination: he shakes the arrows, consults the idols, and observes the liver. 22 The answer marked † Jerusalem appears in his right hand, indicating that he should set up battering rams, † give the order to † slaughter, raise a battle cry, set battering rams against the gates, build a ramp, and construct a siege wall. 23 It will seem like false divination to those who have sworn an oath to the Babylonians, † † but it will draw attention to their guilt so that they will be captured.

24 "Therefore, this is what the Lord GOD says: Because you have drawn attention to your guilt, exposing your transgressions, so that your sins are revealed in all your actions — since you have done this, you will be captured by them. 25 And you, profane and wicked prince of Israel, † † the day has come † for your punishment. †

26 "This is what the Lord GOD says:

Remove the turban, and take off the crown.
Things will not remain as they are; † exalt the lowly and bring down the exalted. † 27 A ruin, a ruin, I will make it a ruin!
Yet this will not happen until he comes; †
I have given the judgment to him. †

28 "Now you, son of man, prophesy, and say, 'This is what the Lord GOD says concerning the Ammonites and their contempt.' You are to proclaim,

'A sword! A sword is drawn for slaughter,
polished to consume, † to flash like lightning.
29 While they offer false visions † and lying divinations about you, the time has come to put you to the necks of the profane wicked ones;
the day has come for final punishment.

30 " 'Return it to its sheath! †

" 'I will judge you † in the place where you were created, in the land of your origin.
31 I will pour out my indignation on you; I will blow the fire of my fury on you. †
I will hand you over to brutal men, skilled at destruction.

32 You will be fuel for the fire.
Your blood will be spilled within the land.
You will not be remembered, † for I, the LORD, have spoken.’ ”

21:1-5 This passage clarifies and reinforces the previous one (20:45-49), as shown through the repetition of the phrases from the south to the north (v. 4; 20:47) and all people (vv. 4-5; 20:48). The destruction of both the “green tree” and the “dry tree” (20:47) corresponds to the cutting off of both the righteous and the wicked (vv. 3-4). The lack of distinction between the two groups indicates the certainty of the judgment. Normally, the righteous might expect to be spared, but there will be no hope for Jerusalem. The word sword (v. 3) is a significant key word in the book of Ezekiel (occurring ninety-one times), and it occurs fifteen times in chapter 21. It is a weapon used by God against his people (vv. 8-12). The “fire” that burns the “forest” of the “Negev” (20:46-47) is thus a picture of this sword that will come against Jerusalem and the land of Israel (vv. 2-3).

21:6-7 News of the divine “sword” (vv. 3-5) brings terror on all (7:17,26-27).

21:10-13 The theme of kingship continues through the references to the princes of Israel and the scepter (see the notes on 19:1-4,10-14; 20:33-38).

21:19-23 The divine sword is here linked to that of the king of Babylon (v. 19), who will come against Jerusalem through false divination but ultimately according to God’s purpose (vv. 20-23).

21:25-27 “The sword” would come against “all the princes of Israel” (v. 12; 22:6), but Zedekiah, last king of Judah, is singled out here (v. 25; the notes on 17:3-10; 19:9). His humiliation would be a public example of the abasement of the proud and the exaltation of the humble (v. 26; 17:24). In yet another allusion to the messianic prophecy of Genesis 49:8-12 (see the notes on 19:10-14; 20:33-38), the ruinous condition of the nation will persist until the Messiah comes. To him judgment belongs (v. 27; Gn 49:10).

21:28-29 Ammon would be spared only temporarily (see vv. 20-23).

INDICTMENT OF SINFUL JERUSALEM

22 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 “As for you, son of man, will you pass judgment? Will you pass judgment against the city of blood? Then explain all her detestable practices to her. † 3 You are to say, ‘This is what the Lord GOD says: A city that sheds blood † within her walls so that her time of judgment has come and who makes idols for herself so that she is defiled! 4 You are guilty of the blood you have shed, † and you are defiled from the idols you have made. You have brought your judgment † days near and have come to your years of punishment. † Therefore, I have made you a disgrace to the nations and a mockery to all the lands. 5 Those who are near and those far away from you will mock you, you infamous one full of turmoil.

6 " 'Look, every prince of Israel † within you has used his strength to shed blood. 7 Father and mother are treated with contempt, † and the resident alien is exploited within you. The fatherless and widow are oppressed in you. † 8 You despise my holy things and profane my Sabbaths. † 9 There are men within you who slander in order to shed blood. † People who live in you eat at the mountain shrines; † they commit depraved acts within you. 10 Men within you have sexual intercourse with their father's wife and violate women during their menstrual impurity. † 11 One man within you commits a detestable act with his neighbor's wife; † another defiles his daughter-in-law with depravity; and yet another violates his sister, his father's daughter. † 12 People who live in you accept bribes in order to shed blood. † You take interest and profit on a loan and brutally extort your neighbors. † You have forgotten me. † This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.

13 " 'Now look, I clap my hands together against the dishonest profit you have made † and against the blood shed among you. 14 Will your courage endure † or your hands be strong in the days when I deal with you? I, the LORD, have spoken, and I will act. † 15 I will disperse you among the nations and scatter you among the countries; † I will purge your uncleanness. † 16 You † will be profaned in the sight of the nations. Then you will know that I am the LORD.' " †

JERUSALEM AS GOD'S FURNACE

17 The word of the LORD came to me: 18 "Son of man, the house of Israel has become merely dross to me. † All of them are copper, tin, iron, and lead inside the furnace; † they are just dross from silver. 19 Therefore, this is what the Lord GOD says: Because all of you have become dross, I am about to gather you into Jerusalem. 20 Just as one gathers silver, copper, iron, lead, and tin into the furnace to blow fire † on them and melt them, so I will gather you in my anger and wrath, put you inside, and melt you. 21 Yes, I will gather you together and blow on you with the fire of my fury, and you will be melted within the city. 22 As silver is melted inside a furnace, so you will be melted inside the city. Then you will know that I, the LORD, have poured out my wrath on you." †

INDICTMENT OF A SINFUL LAND

23 The word of the LORD came to me: 24 "Son of man, say to her, 'You are a land that has not been cleansed, † that has not received rain in the day of indignation.' 25 The conspiracy of her prophets † within her is † like a roaring lion tearing its prey: they devour people, seize wealth and valuables, and multiply the widows within her. 26 Her priests do violence to my instruction and profane my holy things. † They make no distinction between the holy and the common, and they do not explain the difference between the clean and the unclean. † They close their eyes to my Sabbaths, and I am profaned among them.

27 "Her officials within her are like wolves tearing their prey, shedding blood, and destroying lives in order to make profit dishonestly. 28 Her prophets plaster for them with whitewash by seeing false visions and lying divinations, † saying, 'This is what the Lord GOD says,' when the LORD has not spoken. 29 The people of the land have practiced extortion and committed robbery. † They have oppressed the poor and needy and unlawfully exploited the resident alien. 30 I searched for a man among them who would repair the wall † and stand in the gap before me on behalf of the land so that I might not destroy it, † but I found no one. 31 So I have poured out my indignation on them and consumed them with the fire of my fury. I have brought their conduct down on their own heads." † This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.

22:2-12 Jerusalem is again confronted for her detestable practices (v. 2). Whereas the focus in Ezekiel 8 was on idolatry (8:6,9,13,15,17), bloodshed receives increased attention in this chapter (vv. 2-4,6,9,12-13; 16:38). Such violence coincided with idolatry and sexual impurity (vv. 3,8-11).

22:14 This rhetorical question reinforces the terrible reality of God's judgment (see 21:7).

22:15 Jerusalem's sins had made her unclean, and exile would precede her cleansing (see the note on 24:13; 36:24-25).

22:18-22 The comparison of Israel to dross that is smelted by God in judgment is also found in Isaiah 1:21-26.

22:24 Israel had been warned not to defile the land (Lv 18:24-28; Nm 35:33-34), lest they be punished.

22:26 The priests not only did violence to God's instruction (lit "the law"; Jr 8:8) but their failure to distinguish between the holy and the common, and the clean and the unclean was a failure of their basic covenant responsibilities (see the note on Lv 10:8-11).

22:28 Such whitewashing by false prophets is described in more detail in 13:10-16 (see note). These prophets reported false visions in order to excuse sinful behavior and to diminish the prospect of judgment, which might have motivated repentance.

22:30-31 The desperate spiritual state of Israel was likewise compared to a city with broken walls in 13:5. The failure of their leadership (vv. 25-28; 13:2-16) is reflected by the lack of a man to intercede. The only other person in the OT said to stand in the gap before [God] is Moses, whose intercession turned away God's wrath and destruction from Israel (v. 30; Ps 106:23). The lack of such a priestly figure like Moses parallels the earlier statement of how Noah, Daniel, or Job could not have prevented this national disaster (see the notes on 14:14; Dt 18:15-19; Ps 110:4). The result would be fearsome judgment (v. 31; Is 59:16; 63:5). Other passages speak of God performing priestly acts of atoning for and cleansing his people (16:63; 36:25).

THE TWO IMMORAL SISTERS

23 The word of the LORD came to me again: 2 "Son of man, there were two women, † daughters of the same mother, 3 who acted like prostitutes in Egypt, † behaving promiscuously in their youth. Their breasts were fondled there, and their virgin nipples caressed. 4 The older one was named Oholah, † and her sister was Oholibah. † They became mine and gave birth to sons and daughters. As for their names, Oholah represents Samaria and Oholibah represents Jerusalem.
5 "Oholah acted like a prostitute even though she was mine. She lusted after her lovers, the Assyrians: † warriors 6 dressed in blue, governors and prefects, all of them desirable young men, horsemen riding on steeds. 7 She offered her sexual favors to them; all of them were the elite of Assyria. She defiled herself with all those she lusted after and with all their idols. 8 She didn't give up her promiscuity that began in Egypt, † when men slept with her in her youth, caressed her virgin nipples, and poured out their lust on her. 9 Therefore, I handed her over to her lovers, † the Assyrians she lusted for. 10 They exposed her nakedness, seized her sons and daughters, and killed her with the sword.

Since they executed judgment against her, she became notorious among women.
11 “Now her sister Oholibah saw this, but she was even more depraved in her lust than Oholah, and made her promiscuous acts worse than those of her sister. † 12 She lusted after the Assyrians: † governors and prefects, warriors splendidly dressed, horsemen riding on steeds, all of them desirable young men.
13 And I saw that she had defiled herself; both of them had taken the same path.
14 But she increased her promiscuity when she saw male figures carved on the wall, † images of the Chaldeans, engraved in bright red, † 15 wearing belts on their waists and flowing turbans on their heads; all of them looked like officers, a depiction of the Babylonians in Chaldea, their native land. 16 At the sight of them † she lusted after them and sent messengers to them in Chaldea. † 17 Then the Babylonians came to her, † to the bed of love, and defiled her with their lust. But after she was defiled by them, she turned away from them in disgust. 18 When she flaunted her promiscuity and exposed her nakedness, I turned away from her in disgust just as I turned away from her sister. † 19 Yet she multiplied her acts of promiscuity, remembering the days of her youth when she acted like a prostitute in the land of Egypt 20 and lusted after their lovers, whose sexual members † were like those of donkeys and whose emission was like that of stallions. 21 So you revisited the depravity of your youth, when the Egyptians caressed your nipples to enjoy your youthful breasts. † 22 “Therefore, Oholibah, this is what the Lord God says: I am going to incite your lovers against you, those you turned away from in disgust. I will bring them against you from every side: 23 the Babylonians and all the Chaldeans; Pekod, Shoa, and Koa; † and all the Assyrians with them — desirable young men, all of them governors and prefects, officers and administrators, all of them riding on steeds. 24 They will come against you with an assembly of peoples and with weapons, chariots, and † wagons. They will set themselves against you on every side with large and small shields and helmets. I will delegate judgment to them, and they will judge you by their own standards. 25 When I vent my jealous rage on you, † they will deal with you in wrath. They will cut off your nose and ears, and the rest of you † will fall by the sword. They will seize your sons and daughters, and the rest of you will be consumed by fire. 26 They will strip off your clothes and take your beautiful jewelry. † 27 So I will put an end to your depravity and sexual immorality, which began in the land of Egypt, and you will not look longingly at them or remember Egypt anymore.

28 "For this is what the Lord GOD says: I am going to hand you over to those you hate, to those you turned away from in disgust. 29 They will treat you with hatred, take all you have worked for, and leave you stark naked, † so that the shame of your debauchery will be exposed, both your depravity and promiscuity.
30 These things will be done to you because you acted like a prostitute with the nations, † defiling yourself with their idols. 31 You have followed the path of your sister, so I will put her cup in your hand." †
32 This is what the Lord GOD says:

"You will drink your sister's cup, †
which is deep and wide.
You will be an object of † ridicule and scorn, for it holds so much. † 33 You will be filled with drunkenness and grief, with a cup of devastation and desolation,
the cup of your sister Samaria.
34 You will drink it and drain it; then you will gnaw its broken pieces, and tear your breasts.
For I have spoken."
This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.

35 Therefore, this is what the Lord GOD says: "Because you have forgotten me † and cast me behind your back, † you must bear the consequences of your indecency and promiscuity."
36 Then the LORD said to me: "Son of man, will you pass judgment against Oholah and Oholibah? † Then declare their detestable practices to them. † 37 For they have committed adultery, and blood is on their hands; they have committed adultery with their idols. And the children they bore to me they have sacrificed in the fire † as food for the idols. † 38 They also did this to me: they defiled my sanctuary † on that same day and profaned my Sabbaths. † 39 On the same day they slaughtered their children for their idols, they entered my sanctuary to profane it. † Yes, that is what they did inside my house.

40 "In addition, they sent for men who came from far away when a messenger was dispatched to them. And look how they came! You bathed, painted your eyes, † and adorned yourself with jewelry for them. † 41 You sat on a luxurious couch with a table spread before it, † on which you had set my incense and oil.
42 The sound of a carefree crowd was there. Drunkards † from the desert were brought in, along with common men. They put bracelets on the women's hands and beautiful tiaras on their heads. 43 Then I said concerning this woman worn out by adultery: Will they † now have illicit sex with her, even her? 44 Yet they had sex with her as one does with a prostitute. This is how they had sex with Oholah and Oholibah, those depraved women. 45 But righteous men will judge them the way adulteresses † and those who shed blood are judged, for they are adulteresses and blood is on their hands.
46 "This is what the Lord GOD says: Summon † an assembly against them and consign them to terror and plunder. † 47 The assembly will stone them and cut them down with their swords. † They will kill their sons and daughters and burn their houses. 48 So I will put an end to depravity in the land, and all the women will be admonished not to imitate your depraved behavior. 49 They will punish you for your depravity, † and you will bear the consequences for your sins of idolatry. Then you will know that I am the Lord GOD."

23:2-4 Jerusalem had been compared to a promiscuous woman at length in 16:1-45, and her sinful sister Samaria was briefly mentioned in 16:46,51. The metaphor of prostitution and illicit sexual behavior in Egypt (v. 3) refers to the people's reliance on political alliances with the Egyptians (16:26; 17:15; 29:6-7,16) rather than on God. It also points to their idolatry (vv. 30,37; 20:7-8).

23:11 Jerusalem's greater guilt than Samaria was also mentioned in 16:47,51-52.

23:18 This promiscuity led naturally to God turning away in disgust. Sin has repeatedly been described in such repulsive ways in the book of Ezekiel (4:12-15, 5:9-11; 16:25). The exposure of nakedness is also a common theme in the book (vv. 10,18,29; 16:8,36-37; 22:10) and is an example of sexual impropriety (Lv 18:6-19).

23:21 Israel's sin is also frequently described in this chapter as depravity (vv. 21,27,29,35). This had characterized them (v. 44) and would be punished (vv. 48-49).

23:27 Jerusalem's punishment at the hands of her "lovers" (vv. 22-24) would finally bring to an end Israel's longstanding sinful entanglement with Egypt (see vv. 3,19-21; Ex 13:17; 16:3; 17:3; Nm 11:5; 14:2-4; Ac 7:39).

23:35 Through Israel's idolatry (vv. 30,37) and reliance upon other nations, she had forgotten and rejected God.

23:38-39 A specific example of Israel's sin was the sacrificing of their children, which they followed with entering the temple on that same day.

23:45-49 Israel's sins included adultery, indecency, and idolatry. Their punishment included being plundered, stoned, cut down by the sword, having their houses burned, and disgrace.

PARABLE OF THE BOILING POT

24 The word of the LORD came to me in the ninth year, in the tenth month, on the tenth day of the month: 2 "Son of man, write down today's date, this very day. The king of Babylon has laid siege to Jerusalem this very day. † 3 Now speak a parable † to the rebellious house. Tell them, 'This is what the Lord GOD says:

Put the pot † on the fire — put it on,
and then pour water into it!
4 Place the pieces of meat in it, every good piece — thigh and shoulder.
Fill it with choice bones.
5 Take the choicest of the flock and also pile up the fuel † under it.
Bring it to a boil and cook the bones in it.

6 " 'Therefore, this is what the Lord GOD says:

Woe to the city of bloodshed, †
the pot that has corrosion inside it, and its corrosion has not come out of it!
Empty it piece by piece;
lots should not be cast for its contents.
7 For the blood she shed † is still within her.
She put it out on the bare rock;
she didn't pour it on the ground to cover it with dust. †
8 In order to stir up wrath and take vengeance, †
I have put her blood on the bare rock, so that it would not be covered.

9 " 'Therefore, this is what the Lord GOD says:

Woe to the city of bloodshed! †
I myself will make the pile of kindling large.
10 Pile on the logs and kindle the fire!
Cook the meat well and mix in the spices! † †
Let the bones be burned!
11 Set the empty pot on its coals so that it becomes hot and its copper glows.
Then its impurity will melt inside it;
its corrosion will be consumed. † 12 It has frustrated every effort; † its thick corrosion will not come off.
Into the fire with its corrosion!
13 Because of the depravity of your uncleanness — since I tried to purify you, but you would not be purified from your uncleanness — you will not be pure again until I have satisfied my wrath on you. † 14 I, the LORD, have spoken.
It is coming, and I will do it! †
I will not refrain, I will not show pity, and I will not relent.

I † will judge you according to your ways and deeds. †

This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.' "

THE DEATH OF EZEKIEL'S WIFE: A SIGN

15 Then the word of the LORD came to me: 16 "Son of man, I am about to take the delight of your eyes † away from you with a fatal blow. But you must not lament or weep or let your tears flow. † 17 Groan quietly; do not observe mourning rites for the dead. † Put on your turban and strap your sandals on your feet; do not cover your mustache or eat the bread of mourners." † †
18 I spoke to the people in the morning, and my wife died in the evening. The next morning I did just as I was commanded. 19 Then the people asked me, "Won't you tell us what these things you are doing mean for us? "
20 So I answered them: "The word of the LORD came to me: 21 Say to the house of Israel, 'This is what the Lord GOD says: I am about to desecrate my sanctuary, the pride of your power, the delight of your eyes, and the desire of your heart. Also, the sons and daughters you left behind will fall by the sword. † 22 Then you will do just as I have done: You will not cover your mustache or eat the bread of mourners. 23 Your turbans will remain on your heads and your sandals on your feet. You will not lament or weep † but will waste away † because of your iniquities and will groan to one another. 24 Now Ezekiel will be a sign for you. † You will do everything that he has done. When this happens, you will know that I am the Lord GOD.'
25 "As for you, son of man, know that on that day I will take from them their stronghold — their pride and joy, the delight of their eyes, and the longing of their hearts — as well as their sons and daughters. 26 On that day a fugitive will come to you and report the news. † 27 On that day your mouth will be opened to talk with him; you will speak and no longer be mute. † So you will be a sign for them, and they will know that I am the LORD."

24:2-3 The Babylonian siege of Jerusalem signaled that God's messages of judgment through Ezekiel were beginning to be fulfilled. Rebellious house recalls 2:5-6; 3:9,26-27 and 12:2-3,9,25.

24:6-8 The problem with this pot was that it had impurity in it that would not come out (vv. 6,11-12; 22:18-22). This relates to the people's shedding of innocent blood (vv. 6,9; 22:1-13), which could not be covered but was exposed on bare rock (vv. 7-8). Such violence calls out for divine vengeance (see Gn 4:10; Lv 17:13; Nm 35:33; Dt 21:8-9; Is 26:21).

24:9-10 The metaphor of the pot continues. Because the pot (Israel) is impure, God commands that it be set on the fire with nothing in it so that the intense heat will purify it (see vv. 3-5; 11:3-12).

24:13-14 Other attempts at purification have failed and Israel would not be purified. Therefore, God will not refrain from judgment in the form of the Babylonian conquest.

24:16-22 When Ezekiel's wife died, he was told not to lament or weep. This lack of mourning was a "sign" to the Israelites (v. 24) of the impending destruction of the temple and death of their children. At that time, the people would not mourn; rather, they would "waste away" (vv. 21-25). Wasting away in their sins is likewise mentioned in 4:17 and 33:10 and is an unfortunate fulfillment of Leviticus 26:39.

24:25-27 News of the fall of Jerusalem would bring an end to Ezekiel's silence (see 33:21-22). He had only been allowed to speak when God had given him a message (3:26-27).

JUDGMENT AGAINST AMMON

25 Then the word of the LORD came to me: 2 "Son of man, face the Ammonites and prophesy against them. † 3 Say to the Ammonites, 'Hear the word of the Lord GOD: This is what the Lord GOD says: Because you said, "Aha!" † about my sanctuary when it was desecrated, about the land of Israel when it was laid waste, and about the house of Judah when they went into exile, 4 therefore I am about to give you to the people of the east as a possession.
They will set up their encampments and pitch their tents among you. They will eat your fruit and drink your milk. 5 I will make Rabbah a pasture † for camels and Ammon a resting place for sheep. Then you will know that I am the LORD.
6 "'For this is what the Lord GOD says: Because you clapped your hands, † stamped your feet, and rejoiced over the land of Israel with wholehearted contempt, 7 therefore I am about to stretch out my hand against you † and give you as plunder to the nations. I will cut you off from the peoples and eliminate you from the countries. I will destroy you, and you will know that I am the LORD.

JUDGMENT AGAINST MOAB

8 " 'This is what the Lord GOD says: Because Moab and Seir said, † "Look, the house of Judah is like all the other nations." 9 Therefore I am about to expose Moab's flank beginning with its † frontier cities, the splendor of the land: Beth-jeshimoth, Baal-meon, † and Kiriathaim. 10 I will give it along with Ammon to the people of the east as a possession, so that Ammon will not be remembered among the nations. 11 So I will execute judgments against Moab, and they will know that I am the LORD.

JUDGMENT AGAINST EDOM

12 " 'This is what the Lord GOD says: Because Edom acted vengefully against the house of Judah † and incurred grievous guilt by taking revenge on them, 13 therefore this is what the Lord GOD says: I will stretch out my hand against Edom and cut off both man and animal from it. I will make it a wasteland; they will fall by the sword from Teman to Dedan. 14 I will take my vengeance † on Edom through my people Israel, and they will deal with Edom according to my anger and wrath. So they will know my vengeance. This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.

JUDGMENT AGAINST PHILISTIA

15 " 'This is what the Lord GOD says: Because the Philistines acted in vengeance and took revenge with deep contempt, † destroying because of their perpetual hatred, 16 therefore this is what the Lord GOD says: I am about to stretch out my hand against the Philistines, † cutting off the Cherethites and wiping out what remains of the coastal peoples. † † 17 I will execute severe vengeance against them with furious rebukes. They will know that I am the LORD † when I take my vengeance on them.' "

25:3 The judgment of Ammon had been foretold earlier (21:28-32). Part of their guilt consisted in gloating over the fall of Jerusalem and Judah (vv. 3,6).

25:4,7 As punishment for their rejoicing over the exile of Judah (vv. 3,6), Ammon would also be given as a possession and plunder to other nations.

25:5 Like Israel, Ammon would know that [God is] the LORD when they were judged (see the notes on 6:1-7; Jr 49:6).

25:8-11 Though Israel's idolatrous behavior did resemble other nations' (see the note on 20:32) and their destruction at the hands of the Babylonians only strengthened this resemblance (v. 8), Israel was indeed unique because of its relationship to God. Moab itself would also be given as a possession to the sons of the east (v. 10), like Ammon (v. 4). As a result, Ammon would be forgotten (see 21:32), and Moab also would know that [God is] the LORD (v. 11; see the notes on v. 5; Jr 48:45-47).

25:12-14 God would punish Edom's vengeance against Judah (Ob 10-16) by laying waste to their land (v. 13). This is similar to the judgments against Ammon (v. 5) and Moab (v. 9). Israel's involvement in verse 14 relates to prophecies of Numbers 24:17-19 and Obadiah 17-19.

25:15-17 Philistia's vengeance would likewise be avenged by God (see the previous note). Divine judgment again will result in knowledge of God (v. 17; see vv. 5,11).

THE DOWNFALL OF TYRE

26 In the eleventh year, on the first day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: 2 "Son of man, because Tyre † said about Jerusalem, 'Aha! † The gateway to the peoples is shattered. She has been turned over to me. † I will be filled now that she lies in ruins,' 3 therefore this is what the Lord GOD says: See, I am against you, Tyre! † I will raise up many nations against you, just as the sea raises its waves. 4 They will destroy the walls of Tyre and demolish her towers. I will scrape the soil from her and turn her into a bare rock.
5 She will become a place in the sea to spread nets, for I have spoken." This is the declaration of the Lord GOD. "She will become plunder for the nations, † 6 and her villages on the mainland will be slaughtered by the sword. † Then they will know that I am the LORD."
7 For this is what the Lord GOD says: "See, I am about to bring King Nebuchadnezzar † of Babylon, king of kings, † against Tyre from the north with horses, chariots, cavalry, and a huge assembly of troops. 8 He will slaughter your villages on the mainland with the sword. He will set up siege works, † build a ramp, and raise a wall of shields against you. 9 He will direct the blows of his battering rams against your walls and tear down your towers with his iron tools. 10 His horses will be so numerous that their dust will cover you. When he enters your gates as an army entering a breached city, your walls will shake from the noise of cavalry, wagons, and chariots. 11 He will trample all your streets with the hooves of his horses. † He will slaughter your people with the sword, and your mighty pillars will fall to the ground. 12 They will take your wealth as spoil and plunder your merchandise. † They will also demolish your walls and tear down your beautiful homes. Then they will throw your stones, timber, and soil into the water. 13 I will put an end to the noise of your songs, † and the sound of your lyres will no longer be heard. 14 I will turn you into a bare rock, and you will be a place to spread nets. You will never be rebuilt, for I, the LORD, have spoken." † This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.

15 This is what the Lord GOD says to Tyre: "Won't the coasts and islands quake at the sound of your downfall, † when the wounded groan and slaughter occurs within you? 16 All the princes of the sea will descend from their thrones, † remove their robes, and strip off their embroidered garments. They will clothe themselves with trembling; they will sit on the ground, tremble continually, and be appalled † at you. 17 Then they will lament † for you and say of you,

'How you have perished, city of renown, you who were populated from the seas! †
She who was powerful on the sea, she and all of her inhabitants inflicted their terror. † 18 Now the coastlands tremble † on the day of your downfall;
the islands in the sea are alarmed by your demise.' "

19 For this is what the Lord GOD says: "When I make you a ruined city like other deserted cities, when I raise up the deep against you so that the mighty waters cover you, 20 then I will bring you down to be with those who descend to the Pit, † to the people of antiquity. I will make you dwell in the underworld † like † the ancient ruins, with those who descend to the Pit, so that you will no longer be inhabited or display your splendor † in the land of the living. † 21 I will make you an object of horror, and you will no longer exist. † You will be sought but will never be found again." This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.

26:1-6 Tyre, the capital city of Phoenicia (modern Lebanon), was known for its international trade: it had a reputation for great riches and status. Tyre means "rock," which referred to the main fortress of the city which was on an island one-half mile offshore. The judgment of Tyre is described at greater length (26:1–28:19) than that of the nations in the preceding chapter. Like them, Tyre rejoiced at Jerusalem's fall (v. 2; 25:3,6,8), would themselves be destroyed (vv. 3-5; 25:4-16), and would know that [God is] the LORD (v. 6; 25:5,7,17).

26:15-18 The destruction of Tyre would be mourned by islands and all princes of the sea, and it would fail in its rivalry with Jerusalem for power and praise (vv. 2,17; see the note on 27:3-4).

26:19-20 The very deep that brought so much wealth and power to Tyre through seaborne trade would be used by God to drown them (v. 19). Similar imagery was used in verse 3 of many nations coming against Tyre.

THE SINKING OF TYRE

27 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 "Now, son of man, lament for Tyre. † 3 Say to Tyre, who is located at the entrance of the sea, merchant of the peoples † to many coasts and islands, 'This is what the Lord GOD says:

Tyre, you declared,
"I am perfect in beauty."
4 Your realm was in the heart of the sea; your builders perfected your beauty.
5 They constructed all your planking with pine trees from Senir. †
They took a cedar from Lebanon to make a mast for you.
6 They made your oars of oaks from Bashan.
They made your deck of cypress wood from the coasts of Cyprus, † inlaid with ivory.
7 Your sail was made of fine embroidered linen from Egypt, and served as your banner.
Your awning was of blue and purple fabric from the coasts of Elishah.
8 The inhabitants of Sidon and Arvad † were your rowers.

Your wise men were within you, Tyre;
they were your captains.
9 The elders of Gebal and its wise men † were within you, repairing your leaks.

" 'All the ships of the sea and their sailors came to you to barter for your goods.
10 Men of Persia, Lud, and Put † were in your army, serving as your warriors.
They hung shields and helmets in you;
they gave you splendor.
11 Men of Arvad and Helech were stationed on your walls all around, and Gammadites were in your towers.
They hung their shields † all around your walls; they perfected your beauty.

12 " 'Tarshish † was your trading partner because of your abundant wealth of every kind. They exchanged silver, iron, tin, and lead for your merchandise. 13 Javan, Tubal, and Meshech † were your merchants. They exchanged slaves † and bronze utensils for your goods. 14 Those from Beth-togarmah † exchanged horses, war horses, and mules for your merchandise. 15 Men of Dedan † † were also your merchants; many coasts and islands were your regular markets. They brought back ivory tusks † and ebony as your payment. 16 Aram † was your trading partner because of your numerous products. They exchanged turquoise, † purple and embroidered cloth, fine linen, coral, † and rubies † for your merchandise. 17 Judah and the land of Israel were your merchants. They exchanged wheat from Minnith, † meal, † honey, oil, and balm, for your goods. 18 Damascus was also your trading partner because of your numerous products and your abundant wealth of every kind, trading in wine from Helbon and white wool. † 19 Vedan † and Javan from Uzal † † dealt in your merchandise; wrought iron, cassia, † and aromatic cane were exchanged for your goods. 20 Dedan † was your merchant in saddlecloths for riding. 21 Arabia and all the princes of Kedar were your business partners, trading with you in lambs, rams, and goats. 22 The merchants of Sheba † and Raamah traded with you. For your merchandise they exchanged the best of all spices and all kinds of precious stones as well as gold. † 23 Haran, Canneh, Eden, † the merchants of Sheba, Asshur, † and Chilmad traded with you. 24 They were your merchants in choice garments, cloaks of blue and embroidered materials, and multicolored carpets, † which were bound and secured with cords in your marketplace. 25 Ships of Tarshish † were the carriers for your goods.

" 'So you became full and heavily loaded †
in the heart of the sea.
26 Your rowers have brought you onto the high seas, † but the east wind has wrecked you
in the heart of the sea.
27 Your wealth, merchandise, and goods, your sailors and captains, those who repair your leaks,
those who barter for your goods,
and all the warriors on board,
with all the other people within you, sink into the heart of the sea
on the day of your downfall.

28 " 'The countryside shakes at the sound of your sailors' cries. †
29 All the oarsmen disembark from their ships.
The sailors and all the captains of the sea stand on the shore.
30 Because of you, they raise their voices and cry out bitterly.
They throw dust on their heads; †
they roll in ashes.
31 They shave their heads because of you and wrap themselves in sackcloth.
They weep over you with deep anguish and bitter mourning.

32 " 'In their wailing they lament for you, † mourning over you:
"Who was like Tyre,

silenced † in the middle of the sea?
33 When your merchandise was unloaded from the seas, you satisfied many peoples.
You enriched the kings of the earth with your abundant wealth and goods.
34 Now you are wrecked by the sea in the depths of the waters;
your goods and the people within you have gone down.
35 All the inhabitants of the coasts and islands are appalled † at you.
Their kings shudder with fear;
their faces are contorted.
36 Those who trade among the peoples scoff † † at you; you have become an object of horror and will never exist again.” ’ ” †

27:3-4 Tyre’s strategic location and role as merchant of the peoples resulted in its influence reaching many islands (v. 3; the note on 26:15-18). The sons of Japheth populated these distant places (Gn 10:5), and even they will ultimately place their hope in the Messiah (Is 42:4; 51:5). In the meantime, Tyre’s power, pride, and beauty had put it in competition with the LORD and his city (see 16:14; Pss 45:11; 50:2; Is 33:17; Lm 2:15).

27:5-11 The beauty and majesty of Tyre is compared to a finely constructed ship (vv. 5-7) with a crew consisting of the wise and the strong from many nations (vv. 8-9). Its army also included warriors from other nations (vv. 10-11). The scope of Tyre’s power is shown through its attraction of all the ships of the sea and their sailors (v. 9).

27:12 Tyre’s close relationship to Tarshish and its “ships” (see v. 25) is also seen in Isaiah 23:1,14.

27:13-24 The extended listing of Tyre’s business partners and the varied goods exchanged serves to further emphasize the city’s reach through trade. “Chaldea,” or Babylon, was also a land of trade (16:29; 17:4; Rv 18:10-19).

27:25-27 The comparison of Tyre to a mighty ship is picked up again (cp. vv. 5-11), but this vessel is shipwrecked by the east wind (17:10; 19:12; Ps 48:7) so that its cargo and crew are lost.

27:32 This rhetorical question heightens the catastrophic destruction of Tyre.

27:33-36 Tyre's merchandise had satisfied many peoples and enriched the kings of the earth (v. 33). Her destruction horrified the islands and their kings (v. 35). She would be humiliated and never restored (v. 36; 26:21; 28:19). So it is with all who seem powerful and established, and yet fail to properly acknowledge the lordship and authority of God.

THE FALL OF TYRE'S RULER

28 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 "Son of man, say to the ruler of Tyre, 'This is what the Lord GOD says: Your † heart is proud, and you have said, "I am a god; † I sit in the seat of gods in the heart of the sea." Yet you are a man and not a god, though you have regarded your heart as that of a god. 3 Yes, you are wiser than Daniel; † no secret is hidden from you! 4 By your wisdom and understanding you have acquired wealth for yourself. You have acquired gold and silver for your treasuries. † 5 By your great skill in trading you have increased your wealth, but your heart has become proud because of your wealth.

6 " 'Therefore, this is what the Lord GOD says:

Because you regard your heart as that of a god, 7 I am about to bring strangers against you, ruthless men from the nations.
They will draw their swords against your magnificent wisdom and will pierce your splendor. † 8 They will bring you down to the Pit, † and you will die a violent death
in the heart of the sea.
9 Will you still say, "I am a god," in the presence of those who slay † you?
Yet you will be only a man, not a god,
in the hands of those who kill you.
10 You will die the death of the uncircumcised † at the hands of strangers. †
For I have spoken.

This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.' "

A LAMENT FOR TYRE'S KING

A LAMENT FOR TYRE'S KING

11 The word of the LORD came to me: 12 "Son of man, lament † for the king of Tyre and say to him, 'This is what the Lord GOD says:

You were the seal † of perfection, † full of wisdom and perfect in beauty. † 13 You were in Eden, † the garden of God.
Every kind of precious stone covered you:
carnelian, topaz, and diamond, † beryl, onyx, and jasper, lapis lazuli, turquoise † and emerald. †
Your mountings and settings were crafted in gold; † they were prepared on the day you were created.
14 You were an anointed guardian cherub, † for † I had appointed you.
You were on the holy mountain of God;
you walked among the fiery stones.
15 From the day you were created you were blameless in your ways until wickedness was found in you.
16 Through the abundance of your trade, you were filled with violence, and you sinned.
So I expelled you in disgrace from the mountain of God, and banished you, guardian cherub, † from among the fiery stones.
17 Your heart became proud because of your beauty; †
For the sake of your splendor you corrupted your wisdom.
So I threw you down to the ground; †
I made you a spectacle before kings.
18 You profaned your sanctuaries by the magnitude of your iniquities in your dishonest trade.
So I made fire come from within you,

and it consumed you. †
I reduced you to ashes on the ground in the sight of everyone watching you.
19 All those who know you among the peoples are appalled at you.
You have become an object of horror
and will never exist again.' " †

A PROPHECY AGAINST SIDON

20 The word of the LORD came to me: 21 "Son of man, face Sidon † and prophesy against it. 22 You are to say, 'This is what the Lord GOD says:

Look! I am against you, Sidon, † and I will display my glory within you.
They will know that I am the LORD when I execute judgments against her † and demonstrate my holiness through her.
23 I will send a plague against her † and bloodshed in her streets;
the slain will fall within her,
while the sword is against her † on every side.
Then they will know that I am the LORD.

24 " 'The house of Israel will no longer be hurt by † prickly briers or painful thorns † from all their neighbors who treat them with contempt. Then they will know that I am the Lord GOD.
25 " 'This is what the Lord GOD says: When I gather the house of Israel † from the peoples where they are scattered, I will demonstrate my holiness through them in the sight of the nations, and they will live in their own land, which I gave to my servant Jacob. 26 They will live there securely, † build houses, and plant vineyards. † They will live securely when I execute judgments † against all their neighbors who treat them with contempt. Then they will know that I am the LORD their God.' "

28:1-5 The lengthy treatment of Tyre's judgment now focuses on its ruler (v. 2). He was guilty of pride, even to the point of thinking himself to be a god (see Nm 23:19; 1Sm 15:29; Is 31:3). His wisdom in amassing wealth also contributed to this arrogance.

28:6-10 The ruler of Tyre's arrogance in thinking that he was a god would be shown to be built on a lie when he was killed in disgrace (vv. 9-10; 32:19-32; 44:6-9). His wisdom and splendor would go down with him (vv. 7-8).

28:12-19 The "ruler" mentioned in verse 2 is now referred to as a king, who did indeed possess wisdom and beauty (see vv. 4-5,7; 27:3,4,11). He is described as dwelling in the garden of Eden and clothed in many of the same precious stones that adorned the high priest's breastplate (v. 13; Ex 28:17-20; 39:10-13). Despite his status as a guardian cherub (vv. 14,16), he was still a created being (v. 15; see previous note) and was expelled from the mountain of God because of his wickedness. His sins related to violence, pride related to his beauty, corruption of his wisdom, and dishonest trade (vv. 16-18). Such wickedness contrasts him with cherubim who do the Lord's will and display his glory (1:5-11; 10:19-22; 11:22). For a third time, Tyre's destruction is declared permanent (v. 19; 26:21; 27:36). The downfall of the king of Tyre (see v. 17) resembles that of the king of Babylon in Isaiah 14:12-15. See "Satan and Demons," p. 1611.

28:22-23 The coastal city of Sidon was located twenty-five miles north of Tyre. The judgment against Sidon would manifest both God's glory and holiness. Judgment of other nations also would result in knowledge of God and a proper perspective concerning him (see 6:7; 25:5,7,17; 26:6).

28:24-26 The judgment of Sidon coincides with Israel's no longer being treated with contempt by their neighbors (vv. 24,26; 16:57). The likening of this reproach to thorns echoes Genesis 3:18. Such reproach resulted from Israel's judgment and exile (36:5) and has been a common theme in recent chapters (25:3,6,8,15; 26:2). Through this, God too was dishonored because of his identification with them (36:20-22), but he would regather them and thus demonstrate his holiness . . . in the sight of the nations (v. 25; see v. 22; 36:15,23).

A PROPHECY OF EGYPT'S RUIN

29 In the tenth year, in the tenth month on the twelfth day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: 2 "Son of man, face Pharaoh king of Egypt and prophesy against him and against all of Egypt. † 3 Speak to him and say, 'This is what the Lord GOD says:

Look, I am against you, Pharaoh king of Egypt, the great monster † † lying in the middle of his Nile, who says, "My Nile is my own;
I made it for myself."
4 I will put hooks in your jaws † and make the fish of your streams cling to your scales.

I will haul you up from the middle of your Nile, and all the fish of your streams will cling to your scales.
5 I will leave you in the desert, †
you and all the fish of your streams.
You will fall on the open ground and will not be taken away or gathered for burial. †
I have given you to the wild creatures of the earth and the birds of the sky as food. †

6 " 'Then all the inhabitants of Egypt will know that I am the LORD, for they † have been a staff made of reed to the house of Israel.
7 When Israel grasped you by the hand, you splintered, † tearing all their shoulders; when they leaned on you, you shattered and made all their hips unsteady. †

8 " 'Therefore, this is what the Lord GOD says: I am going to bring a sword † against you and cut off both man and animal from you. 9 The land of Egypt will be a desolate ruin. † Then they will know that I am the LORD. Because you † said, "The Nile is my own; I made it," 10 therefore, I am against you and your Nile. I will turn the land of Egypt into ruins, a desolate waste from Migdol to Syene, as far as the border of Cush. 11 No human foot will pass through it, and no animal foot will pass through it. † It will be uninhabited for forty years. 12 I will make the land of Egypt a desolation among † desolate lands, and its cities will be a desolation among † ruined cities † for forty years. I will disperse the Egyptians among the nations and scatter them throughout the lands. † 13 " 'For this is what the Lord GOD says: At the end of forty years I will gather the Egyptians from the peoples where they were dispersed. † 14 I will restore the fortunes of Egypt and bring them back to the land of Pathros, the land of their origin. There they will be a lowly kingdom. 15 Egypt will be the lowliest of kingdoms and will never again exalt itself over the nations. I will make them so small they cannot rule over the nations. 16 It will never again be an object of trust † for the house of Israel, drawing attention to their iniquity of turning to the Egyptians. Then they will know that I am the Lord GOD.' "

BABYLON RECEIVES EGYPT AS COMPENSATION

17 In the twenty-seventh year, in the first month, on the first day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: 18 "Son of man, King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon made his army labor strenuously against Tyre. † Every head was made bald and every shoulder chafed, but he and his army received no compensation from Tyre for the labor he expended against it. 19 Therefore, this is what the Lord GOD says: I am going to give the land of Egypt to King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon, † and he will carry off its wealth, seizing its spoil and taking its plunder. This will be his army's compensation. 20 I have given him the land of Egypt as the pay he labored for, since they worked for me." This is the declaration of the Lord GOD. 21 "In that day I will cause a horn to sprout † for the house of Israel, and I will enable you to speak out † among them. Then they will know that I am the LORD."

29:1-2 Like that of Tyre (Ezk 26–28), Egypt's judgment is also described extensively (Ezk 29–33). Egypt's perennial enmity with Israel started in the days of Abraham (Gn 12:10-20), peaked during the centuries of Israelite enslavement (Ex 1:8-14), and continued after the exodus. Several passages in Ezekiel refer to Egypt as an ongoing source of trouble (see the notes on 20:7-8; 23:2-4,27; 29:16).

29:3 Like the king of Tyre who thought he was a god (28:2), the king of Egypt was arrogant in thinking that he had made the Nile and that it belonged to him. Another similarity between the two is their dwelling in bodies of water (see Ps 104:26), with the former sitting "in the heart of the sea" (28:2) and the latter lying in the middle of [the] Nile (32:2). Lofty language is used to describe both rulers. The king of Tyre is likened to a beautiful cherub in the garden of Eden (28:12-14), and the pharaoh of Egypt is called a great monster (see Gn 1:21; Is 27:1; Jr 51:34). The majesty of the latter also includes references to Eden (see the note on 31:8-9).

29:4-5 A secure dwelling in the Nile (see v. 3) would not protect the king of Egypt from gruesome death, just as dwelling in the heart of the seas would not save the king of Tyre (28:2,8).

29:6-9 As was the case for other nations, the judgment of God would result in knowledge of him (vv. 6,9; see 25:5,7,11,17; 26:6). Israel's habitual reliance on Egypt had been futile and harmful (vv. 6-7,16; 16:26; 17:15).

29:12-15 Egypt's desolation, exile, regathering, and restoration parallels that of Israel (see 11:16-17; 12:15,20; 16:53). Other prophetic passages reinforce this striking resemblance between the Lord's dealings with Israel and with the nations (see the notes on 30:17-19; Jr 46:25-26; 48:45-47; 49:6,38-39). Egypt's future lowliness (v. 15) guarantees that it will pale in comparison to the glorious messianic kingdom (37:24-28).

29:16 The humiliation of Egypt would put an end to Israel's misplaced trust in them (see vv. 6-7; 17:15), reminding them of this sin (see 21:23-24; Heb 10:3).

29:18-20 Nebuchadnezzar had lain siege to Tyre for thirteen years (cp. 26:1-6 and note) but had been unable to utterly defeat it. He had captured the city, but the island fortress remained. Thus, God states here that he will give Egypt to Nebuchadnezzar as recompense for his attack on Tyre. This passage underscores God's total, sovereign authority over the affairs of the world.

29:21 In contrast to his judgment of Tyre and Egypt, God promises that he will cause a horn to sprout in Israel. The identical Hebrew phrase appears in Psalm 132:17 concerning the Messiah. The opening of Ezekiel's mouth was also mentioned in 24:25-27 (see note), although under different circumstances. The common thread is the fulfillment of God's word and the acknowledgement of him.

EGYPT'S DOOM

30 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 "Son of man, prophesy and say,
'This is what the Lord GOD says:

Wail, † "Woe because of that day! "
3 For a day is near; a day belonging to the LORD is near. † It will be a day of clouds, †
a time of doom † for the nations.
4 A sword will come against Egypt, and there will be anguish in Cush when the slain fall in Egypt, and its wealth is taken away,
and its foundations are demolished.
5 Cush, Put, and Lud, † and all the various foreign troops, † plus Libya † and the men of the covenant land will fall by the sword along with them.
6 This is what the LORD says: Those who support Egypt will fall, and its proud strength will collapse.

From Migdol to Syene
they will fall within it by the sword.
This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.
7 They will be desolate among † desolate lands, and their cities will lie among ruined † cities. †
8 They will know that I am the LORD when I set fire to Egypt † and all its allies are shattered.

9 On that day, messengers will go out from me in ships † to terrify confident Cush. Anguish will come over them on the day of Egypt's doom. † For indeed it is coming.
10 " 'This is what the Lord GOD says:

I will put an end to the hordes † of Egypt by the hand of King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon.
11 He along with his people, ruthless men from the nations, will be brought in to destroy the land.
They will draw their swords against Egypt and fill the land with the slain. †
12 I will make the streams dry and sell the land to evil men. †
I will bring desolation on the land and everything in it by the hands of foreigners.
I, the LORD, have spoken.

13 " 'This is what the Lord GOD says:

I will destroy the idols and put an end to the false gods in Memphis. †
There will no longer be a prince from the land of Egypt.
And I will instill fear in that land.
14 I will make Pathros † desolate, set fire to Zoan, and execute judgments on Thebes.
15 I will pour out my wrath on Pelusium, the stronghold of Egypt, and will wipe out the hordes of Thebes.

16 I will set fire to Egypt; Pelusium will writhe in anguish, Thebes will be breached, and Memphis will face foes in broad daylight. † 17 The young men of On † and Pi-beseth will fall by the sword, and those cities † will go into captivity.
18 The day will be dark † in Tehaphnehes, when I break the yoke of Egypt there and its proud strength comes to an end in the city.
A cloud † will cover Tehaphnehes, † and its surrounding villages will go into captivity.
19 So I will execute judgments against Egypt, and they will know that I am the LORD.' "

PHARAOH'S POWER BROKEN

20 In the eleventh year, in the first month, on the seventh day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: 21 "Son of man, I have broken the arm † of Pharaoh king of Egypt. Look, it has not been bandaged — no medicine has been applied and no splint put on to bandage it so that it can grow strong enough to handle a sword. 22 Therefore, this is what the Lord GOD says: Look! I am against Pharaoh king of Egypt. I will break his arms, both the strong one and the one already broken, and will make the sword fall from his hand. 23 I will disperse the Egyptians among the nations and scatter them among the countries. † 24 I will strengthen the arms of Babylon's king and place my sword † in his hand. But I will break the arms of Pharaoh, and he will groan before him as a mortally wounded man. 25 I will strengthen the arms of Babylon's king, but Pharaoh's arms will fall. They will know that I am the LORD when I place my sword in the hand of Babylon's king and he wields it against the land of Egypt. 26 When I disperse the Egyptians among the nations and scatter them among the countries, they will know that I am the LORD."

30:2-3 The description of this frightening day of judgment resembles Joel 2:1-2. It is not merely for Egypt but for the nations (Ob 15).

30:5-8 Not only will Egypt fall by the sword but so will all who support and help it (vv. 6,8). Unfaithful Israelites are likely the referent of the phrase, "the sons of the land of the covenant" (lit v. 5).

30:9 The use of ships as part of God's plan of judgment also appears in Numbers 24:23-24.

30:10-11 The Egyptian army is further depicted as consisting of hordes (v. 10; 31:2,18). Egypt's affliction at the hands of ruthless men (v. 11) is mentioned again in 31:12 and 32:12. Tyre would suffer the same fate (28:7).

30:12-13 The rivers that Egypt boasted about and relied upon would be dried up (see 29:3-10); likewise, their idols would be destroyed.

30:17-19 Death by the sword, captivity, and humiliation were also punishments endured by Israel (7:24; 11:8-10; 12:11; 24:21; the note on 29:12-15).

30:23-26 The exile of Egypt is here declared twice more (see vv. 17-18) and Babylon's role reaffirmed (see vv. 10-11; 29:19-20).

DOWNFALL OF EGYPT AND ASSYRIA

31 In the eleventh year, † in the third month, on the first day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: 2 "Son of man, say to Pharaoh king of Egypt and to his hordes,

'Who are you like in your greatness?

3 Think of Assyria, a cedar in Lebanon, † with beautiful branches and shady foliage and of lofty height.

Its top was among the clouds. †

4 The waters caused it to grow; the underground springs made it tall, directing their rivers all around the place where the tree was planted and sending their channels to all the trees of the field.

5 Therefore the cedar became greater in height than all the trees of the field. †
Its branches multiplied, and its boughs grew long as it spread them out because of the abundant water. †

6 All the birds of the sky nested in its branches, † and all the animals of the field gave birth beneath its boughs;
all the great nations lived in its shade.
7 It was beautiful in its size, in the length of its limbs, for its roots extended to abundant water.
8 The cedars in God's garden could not eclipse it; † the pine trees couldn't compare with its branches, nor could the plane trees match its boughs.
No tree in the garden of God could compare with it in beauty.
9 I made it beautiful with its many limbs, and all the trees of Eden, which were in God's garden, envied it.

10 " 'Therefore, this is what the Lord GOD says: Since it † towered high in stature and set its top among the clouds, and it † grew proud † on account of its height, 11 I determined to hand it over to a ruler of nations; † he would surely deal with it. I banished it because of its wickedness. 12 Foreigners, ruthless men from the nations, † cut it down and left it lying. Its limbs fell on the mountains and in every valley; its boughs lay broken in all the earth's ravines. All the peoples of the earth left its shade and abandoned it. 13 All the birds of the sky nested on its fallen trunk, and all the animals of the field were among its boughs. 14 This happened so that no trees planted beside water would become great in height and set their tops among the clouds, and so that no other well-watered trees would reach them in height. For they have all been consigned to death, to the underworld, among the people † who descend to the Pit. † 15 " 'This is what the Lord GOD says: I caused grieving on the day the cedar went down to Sheol. † I closed off the underground deep because of it: † I held back the rivers of the deep, and its abundant water was restrained. I made Lebanon mourn on account of it, and all the trees of the field fainted because of it. 16 I made the nations quake at the sound of its downfall, when I threw it down to Sheol to be with those who descend to the Pit. Then all the trees of Eden, † the choice and best of Lebanon, all the well-watered trees, were comforted † in the underworld. 17 They too descended with it to Sheol, to those slain by the sword. As its allies † † they had lived in its shade among the nations.

18 " 'Who then are you like in glory and greatness among Eden's trees? You also will be brought down to the underworld to be with the trees of Eden. You will lie among the uncircumcised with those slain by the sword. † This is Pharaoh and all his hordes. This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.' "

31:2-7 Pharaoh and his army are now compared to Assyria, which is pictured as a beautiful, lofty, well-watered tree, whose roots extended to abundant water (v. 7). As the tallest tree (v. 5), it provided shelter for all the birds of the sky, all the animals of the field, and all the great nations (v. 6). Nevertheless, the only cedar (v. 3) whose majesty will endure is the one planted by God on a high mountain in Israel (17:22-24; 37:24-25).

31:8-9 The splendor of this tree (i.e. Assyria) was so great that even the trees in God's garden could not compare to it. This garden was also used to describe the beauty and greatness of the king of Tyre (28:12-17). For additional similarities between the judgments of Egypt and Tyre, see the note on 29:3.

31:10-13 Like Tyre and its king (28:1-7), Pharaoh became proud and would be destroyed by ruthless men, so that all the peoples who had taken shelter under his shade would abandon him (v. 12; see v. 6).

31:14 The purpose of this downfall is so that no well-watered tree (see 20:47) would become so tall as to reach "the clouds" (see vv. 3-7; 17:24; 19:11). Such trees represent the proud, who will go to their deaths just like all other people.

31:15-17 The prophet continues to use the cedar as a metaphor for both Assyria and Egyptian political power. The ultimate humiliation of proud Pharaoh (vv. 2,10) would be death (see the note on 28:6-10). Nations will quake at his joining the ranks of the dead (v. 16).

31:18 The point of chapter 31 is that if God had destroyed Assyria, a great political and military superpower, it would be foolish for Egypt to think it could escape God's judgment. It had been incomparable in glory and greatness (see vv. 2,8) but would be no different than the uncircumcised (see 28:10; 32:19-32), who are excluded from the sanctuary of God (see the note on 44:6-10). God hates pride and will not allow it to go unaddressed. Though a nation or king may appear to be powerful, it is no more safe from accountability to God than the weak. For more on references to the garden of Eden, see the note on verses 8-9.

A LAMENT FOR PHARAOH

32 In the twelfth year, in the twelfth month, on the first day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: 2 "Son of man, lament † for Pharaoh king of Egypt and say to him,

‘You compare yourself to a lion of the nations, but † you are like a monster † † in the seas.
You thrash about in your rivers, churn up the waters with your feet,
and muddy the † rivers.

3 “ ‘This is what the Lord GOD says:

I will spread my net over you † with an assembly of many peoples, and they † will haul you up in my net.
4 I will abandon you on the land and throw you onto the open field.
I will cause all the birds of the sky to settle on you and let the wild creatures of the entire earth eat their fill of you. † 5 I will put your flesh on the mountains † and fill the valleys with your carcass.
6 I will drench the land with the flow of your blood, even to the mountains;
the ravines will be filled with your gore.

7 “ ‘When I snuff you out, I will cover the heavens and darken their stars.
I will cover the sun with a cloud, † and the moon will not give its light.
8 I will darken all the shining lights in the heavens over you,
and will bring darkness on your land.
This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.

9 “ ‘I will trouble the hearts of many peoples, when I bring about your destruction
among the nations,
in countries you have not known.
10 I will cause many peoples to be appalled at you, and their kings will shudder with fear because of you † when I brandish my sword in front of them.

On the day of your downfall
each of them will tremble every moment † for his life.

11 " 'For this is what the Lord GOD says:

The sword of Babylon's king will come against you!
12 I will make your hordes fall by the swords of warriors, all of them ruthless men from the nations. †
They will ravage Egypt's pride, and all its hordes will be destroyed.
13 I will slaughter all its cattle that are beside many waters.
No human foot will churn them again, and no cattle hooves will disturb them. †
14 Then I will let their waters settle and will make their rivers flow like oil.
This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.
15 When I make the land of Egypt a desolation, so that it is emptied of everything in it, when I strike down all who live there,
then they will know that I am the LORD. †

16 " 'The daughters of the nations will chant that lament. † They will chant it over Egypt and all its hordes. This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.' "

EGYPT IN SHEOL

17 In the twelfth year, † on the fifteenth day of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: 18 "Son of man, wail over the hordes of Egypt and bring Egypt and the daughters of mighty nations down to the underworld, † to be with those who descend to the Pit: †

19 Who do you surpass in loveliness?
Go down and be laid to rest with the uncircumcised!
20 They will fall among those slain by the sword.

A sword is appointed! †
They drag her and all her hordes away.
21 Warrior leaders will speak from the middle of Sheol about him † and his allies: ‘They have come down;
the uncircumcised lie
slain by the sword.’ †

22 “Assyria is there with her whole assembly; her graves are all around her.
All of them are slain, fallen by the sword.
23 Her graves are set in the deepest regions of the Pit, and her assembly is all around her burial place.
All of them are slain, fallen by the sword — those who once spread terror in the land of the living.

24 “Elam † is there with all her hordes around her grave.
All of them are slain, fallen by the sword — those who went down to the underworld uncircumcised, who once spread their terror in the land of the living.
They bear their disgrace
with those who descend to the Pit.
25 Among the slain they prepare a bed for Elam with all her hordes.
Her graves are all around her.
All of them are uncircumcised,
slain by the sword,
although their terror was once spread
in the land of the living.
They bear their disgrace
with those who descend to the Pit.
They are placed among the slain.

26 “Meshech and Tubal † † are there, with all their hordes.
Their graves are all around them.
All of them are uncircumcised, slain by the sword, although their terror was once spread in the land of the living.

27 They do not lie down with the fallen warriors of the uncircumcised, † who went down to Sheol with their weapons of war, whose swords were placed under their heads † and their shields † rested on their bones, although the terror of these warriors was once in the land of the living.
28 But you will be shattered and will lie down among the uncircumcised, with those slain by the sword. †

29 "Edom † is there, her kings and all her princes, who, despite their strength, have been placed among those slain by the sword.
They lie down with the uncircumcised,
with those who descend to the Pit.
30 All the leaders of the north † and all the Sidonians † are there.
They went down in shame with the slain, despite the terror their strength inspired.
They lie down uncircumcised
with those slain by the sword.
They bear their disgrace
with those who descend to the Pit.

31 "Pharaoh will see them and be comforted † over all his hordes — Pharaoh and his whole army, slain by the sword."

This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.

32 "For I will spread my † terror in the land of the living, so Pharaoh and all his hordes will be laid to rest among the uncircumcised, with those slain by the sword."

This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.

32:2-6 In the previous chapter, Ezekiel had compared Pharaoh to a majestic cedar (see the note on 31:2-7). Here, he is compared to a lion of the nations and to a monster in the seas. Both images suggest power and the ability to evoke fear in other people. Yet God states in verses 3-6 that he will spread out his net over this sea monster, capture him, and put [his] flesh on the mountains (a motif from Assyrian inscriptions describing utter ruin). Pharaoh had been called a "sea monster" already in 29:3.

32:7-8 Such darkness and cloud correspond to Egypt's judgment in 30:18. This doomsday is not only for Egypt but also for the nations (see the note on 30:2-3; Jl 2:30-31).

32:9-10 The judgment of Pharaoh will elicit horror from many nations and their kings (see 26:15-18; 27:35; 28:19; 30:3), as they fear even for their own lives.

32:11-12 God's "sword" (v. 10) used to afflict Egypt is that of the king of Babylon, whose soldiers bear swords of their own. In his sovereign power, the Lord is able to use even the mightiest king and his army as the instrument of his judgment.

32:13-14 The settling of these waters contrasts with Pharaoh's disruption of them in verse 2 (see 34:18-19).

32:16 The mourning of women from various nations again demonstrates the worldwide significance of Egypt's fall (see v. 18; note on vv. 9-10).

32:18 The descent of Egypt into the underworld and the realm of the dead (see 31:14,16,18) is driven home here and in the following verses.

32:22-32 Starting with Assyria, several nations are described as having fallen by the sword and in their graves (see vv. 25-26; 37:12-13).

32:24-25 Elam, located in modern Iran, was devastated by Assyria. She bears disgrace with those who descend to the Pit, a statement used twice. Like the others, this one is uncircumcised (see vv. 19,21,24-32; the note on 44:6-10).

32:26 Meshech and Tubal were descendants of Noah's son Japheth (Gn 10:2) and in the end times would be ruled by Gog (38:2; 39:2). They were among Tyre's many trading partners (27:13).

32:28 The Hebrew verb translated lie down (shakav) is repeatedly used in this context to refer to death (vv. 19,21,27-30,32; see 1Kg 2:10). Ezekiel had taken a similar posture in 4:4,6 as a sign act for his prophecy of judgment on Israel.

32:29 Edom's guilt and punishment had also been mentioned in 25:12-14 and is treated again in 35:1-15.

32:30 Babylon and Gog also come from the north (26:7; 38:6,15; 39:2; see the notes on Jr 1:15; 4:5-9).

32:32 The land of the living (see vv. 23-27; 26:20) contrasts with "the underworld" (lit "the land below" in vv. 18,24; 26:20; 31:14,16,18).

EZEKIEL AS ISRAEL'S WATCHMAN

33 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 “Son of man, speak to your people and tell them, ‘Suppose I bring the sword against a land, and the people of that land select a man from among them, appointing him as their watchman. 3 And suppose he sees the sword coming against the land and blows his trumpet † to warn the people. 4 Then, if anyone hears the sound of the trumpet but ignores the warning, † and the sword comes and takes him away, his death will be his own fault. † 5 Since he heard the sound of the trumpet but ignored the warning, his death is his own fault. † If he had taken warning, he would have saved his life. 6 However, suppose the watchman sees the sword coming but doesn’t blow the trumpet, so that the people aren’t warned, and the sword comes and takes away their lives. Then they have been taken away because of their iniquity, but I will hold the watchman accountable for their blood.’
7 “As for you, son of man, I have made you a watchman for the house of Israel. † When you hear a word from my mouth, give them a warning from me.
8 If I say to the wicked, ‘Wicked one, you will surely die,’ † but you do not speak out to warn him about his way, that wicked person will die for his iniquity, yet I will hold you responsible for his blood. 9 But if you warn a wicked person to turn from his way and he doesn’t turn from it, he will die for his iniquity, but you will have rescued yourself.
10 “Now as for you, son of man, say to the house of Israel, ‘You have said this:
“Our transgressions and our sins are heavy on us, and we are wasting away because of them! † How then can we survive?” ’ † 11 Tell them, ‘As I live — this is the declaration of the Lord GOD — I take no pleasure in the death of the wicked, but rather that the wicked person should turn from his way and live. † Repent, repent of your evil ways! Why will you die, house of Israel? ’ 12 “Now, son of man, say to your people, ‘The righteousness of the righteous person will not save him on the day of his transgression; neither will the wickedness of the wicked person cause him to stumble on the day he turns from his wickedness. The righteous person won’t be able to survive by his righteousness on the day he sins. 13 When I tell the righteous person that he will surely live, but he trusts in his righteousness and acts unjustly, then none of his righteousness will be remembered, and he will die because of the injustice he has committed. † 14 " 'So when I tell the wicked person, "You will surely die," but he repents of his sin and does what is just and right — 15 he returns collateral, makes restitution for what he has stolen, and walks in the statutes of life † without committing injustice — he will certainly live; he will not die. 16 None of the sins he committed will be held † against him. He has done what is just and right; he will certainly live. †

17 " 'But your people say, "The Lord's way isn't fair," † even though it is their own way that isn't fair. 18 When a righteous person turns from his righteousness and commits injustice, he will die for it. 19 But if a wicked person turns from his wickedness and does what is just and right, he will live because of it. 20 Yet you say, "The Lord's way isn't fair." I will judge each of you according to his ways, house of Israel.' "

THE NEWS OF JERUSALEM'S FALL

21 In the twelfth year of our exile, in the tenth month, on the fifth day of the month, a fugitive from Jerusalem came to me and reported, "The city has been taken!" 22 Now the hand of the LORD had been on me the evening before the fugitive arrived, and he opened my mouth before the man came to me in the morning. So my mouth was opened and I was no longer mute. †

ISRAEL'S CONTINUED REBELLION

23 Then the word of the LORD came to me: 24 "Son of man, those who live in the † ruins in the land of Israel are saying, 'Abraham was only one person, † yet he received possession of the land. † But we are many; surely the land has been given to us as a possession.' † 25 Therefore say to them, 'This is what the Lord GOD says: You eat meat with blood in it, † look to your idols, and shed blood. Should you then receive possession of the land? 26 You have relied on your swords, you have committed detestable acts, and each of you has defiled his neighbor's wife. Should you then receive possession of the land? ' †
27 "Tell them this: 'This is what the Lord GOD says: As surely as I live, those who are in the ruins will fall by the sword, those in the open field I have given to wild animals to be devoured, and those in the strongholds and caves will die by plague. † 28 I will make the land a desolate waste, † and its proud strength will come to an end. † The mountains of Israel † will become desolate, with no one passing through. 29 They will know that I am the LORD when I make the land a desolate waste because of all the detestable acts they have committed.'

30 "As for you, son of man, your people are talking about you near the city walls and in the doorways of their houses. One person speaks to another, each saying to his brother, 'Come and hear what the message is that comes from the LORD!' 31 So my people come to you in crowds, † sit in front of you, and hear your words, but they don't obey them. Their mouths go on passionately, but their hearts pursue dishonest profit. 32 Yes, to them you are like a singer of passionate songs who has a beautiful voice and plays skillfully on an instrument. They hear your words, but they don't obey them. 33 Yet when all this comes true † — and it definitely will — then they will know that a prophet has been among them."

33:1-9 God speaks to Ezekiel in this section and uses the metaphor of a watchman to describe his ministry. In the ancient world, messages and information about the enemy were sent from one outpost to the other via fire signals. It was critical that a lookout at a particular post be ready to warn the other fortresses that the enemy had arrived. God tells Ezekiel that if he faithfully proclaims what is true and warns his listeners, then he will have fulfilled his responsibility even if they do not treat it seriously.

33:10-11 Despite Israel's sins, they did not have to die. God does not take pleasure in the death of the wicked (see 18:23,32). Those who repent will live!

33:12-13 Living righteously in the past does not exempt one from punishment for decisively turning away from God (v. 12). Although a righteous person is promised life, it is a serious mistake to trust in his righteousness (Dt 9:4-6; Rm 10:3; Php 3:9).

33:17-20 God's ways of judging the righteous person who later turns to wickedness and of forgiving the wicked person who repents offended the people's understanding of justice (see 18:25-29). God reaffirmed that he would indeed judge each . . . according to his ways (v. 20).

33:21-22 News comes to Ezekiel and the other exiles in Babylonia in the twelfth year of their exile that Jerusalem had fallen and been captured by the Babylonians. The event vindicated Ezekiel's ministry. Israel had taken a great deal of pride in the Davidic monarchy, the temple, the status of Jerusalem as God's holy city, and the priesthood. But these things were no substitute for true faithfulness and were taken from them. As predicted in 24:25-27, this disaster was followed by the opening of the prophet's mouth.

33:24-26 Those living in the ruins were the poorest of the land. They had been left behind after the fall of Jerusalem (see vv. 21-22; 2Kg 25:12,22). They wrongly assumed that they would take possession of the land simply because they were still living there and were more numerous than Abraham.

33:30-33 Despite widespread interest in hearing Ezekiel, such interest was superficial because hearts remained unchanged (vv. 30-31). The prophet was valued more as an entertainer rather than one whose prophetic messages were to be obeyed (v. 32). In time, he would be vindicated (v. 33).

THE SHEPHERDS AND GOD'S FLOCK

34 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 "Son of man, prophesy against the shepherds of Israel. Prophesy, and say to them, 'This is what the Lord GOD says to the shepherds: Woe to the shepherds of Israel, who have been feeding themselves! † Shouldn't the shepherds feed their flock? 3 You eat the fat, wear the wool, and butcher the fattened animals, but you do not tend the flock. † 4 You have not strengthened the weak, healed the sick, bandaged the injured, brought back the strays, or sought the lost. † Instead, you have ruled them with violence and cruelty. 5 They were scattered for lack of a shepherd; † they became food for all the wild animals † when they were scattered. 6 My flock went astray on all the mountains and every high hill. † My flock was scattered over the whole face of the earth, and there was no one searching or seeking for them.

7 " 'Therefore, you shepherds, hear the word of the LORD. 8 As I live — this is the declaration of the Lord GOD — because my flock, lacking a shepherd, has become prey and food for every wild animal, and because my shepherds do not search for my flock, and because the shepherds feed themselves rather than my flock, 9 therefore, you shepherds, hear the word of the LORD!

10 " 'This is what the Lord GOD says: Look, I am against the shepherds. † I will demand my flock from them † and prevent them from shepherding the flock. The shepherds will no longer feed themselves, for I will rescue my flock from their mouths so that they will not be food for them.

11 " 'For this is what the Lord GOD says: See, I myself will search for my flock and look for them. 12 As a shepherd looks for his sheep on the day he is among his scattered flock, so I will look for my flock. I will rescue them from all the places where they have been scattered † on a day of clouds and total darkness. 13 I will bring them out from the peoples, gather them from the countries, and bring them to their own soil. I will shepherd them on the mountains of Israel, in the ravines, and in all the inhabited places of the land. 14 I will tend them in good pasture, and their grazing place will be on Israel's lofty mountains. There they will lie down in a good grazing place; they will feed in rich pasture on the mountains of Israel. 15 I will tend my flock and let them lie down. † This is the declaration of the Lord GOD. 16 I will seek the lost, † bring back the strays, bandage the injured, † and strengthen the weak, but I will destroy † the fat and the strong. I will shepherd them with justice.

17 " 'As for you, my flock, the Lord GOD says this: Look, I am going to judge between one sheep and another, between the rams and goats. † 18 Isn't it enough for you to feed on the good pasture? Must you also trample the rest of the pasture with your feet? Or isn't it enough that you drink the clear water?
Must you also muddy the rest with your feet? 19 Yet my flock has to feed on what your feet have trampled, and drink what your feet have muddied.
20 " 'Therefore, this is what the Lord GOD says to them: See, I myself will judge between the fat sheep and the lean sheep. 21 Since you have pushed with flank and shoulder and butted all the weak ones with your horns until you scattered them all over, 22 I will save my flock. They will no longer be prey, and I will judge between one sheep and another. 23 I will establish over them one shepherd, my servant David, and he will shepherd them. He will tend them himself and will be their shepherd. † 24 I, the LORD, will be their God, and my servant David † will be a prince among them. I, the LORD, have spoken.
25 " 'I will make a covenant of peace † with them and eliminate dangerous creatures † from the land, so that they may live securely † in the wilderness and sleep in the forest. 26 I will make them and the area around my hill † a blessing:
I will send down showers in their season; † they will be showers of blessing.
27 The trees of the field will yield their fruit, and the land will yield its produce; my flock will be secure in their land. They will know that I am the LORD when I break the bars of their yoke and rescue them from the power of those who enslave them. † 28 They will no longer be prey for the nations, and the wild creatures of the earth will not consume them. They will live securely, and no one will frighten them. 29 I will establish for them a place renowned for its agriculture, † and they will no longer be victims of famine in the land. They will no longer endure the insults of the nations. † 30 Then they will know that I, the LORD their God, am with them, and that they, the house of Israel, are my people. † This is the declaration of the Lord GOD. 31 You are my flock, the human flock of my pasture, and I am your God. This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.' " †

34:2-6 Israel's shepherds (a metaphor for its kings) had been feeding themselves instead of caring for the flock (Jr 23:1-2). In this conception of kingship, the flock (the people) belonged to God. Their human king was supposed to act as their shepherd, caring for them on behalf of the ultimate divine ruler. In Israel's case, the lack of a genuine shepherd resulted in the scattering of the flock across the whole face of the earth (vv. 5-6; 12:15). Going astray on the mountains and every high hill alludes to idol worship in such places (6:13; 20:28).

34:10-12 Unlike the wicked shepherds who did not search for the flock (vv. 6-7), God will be a good shepherd who searches for them. His rescuing them on a day of clouds and total darkness links this deliverance to his judgment on Egypt and the nations (see the notes on 30:2-3; 32:7-8).

34:13-16 The Hebrew verb used in the phrase I will bring them out from the peoples (v. 13) is frequently used of God bringing Israel out of Egypt (Ex 12:17; 20:2) and thus casts this regathering as a second exodus (see the notes on v. 27; 20:33-38; Is 10:24-26; 11:11-16; 12:1-2; 48:20-22; Jr 50:33-34). This fits with the recent focus on Pharaoh in Ezekiel 29–32. The promise of regathering from exile is frequent in Ezekiel (11:17; 20:41; 28:25; 36:24; 37:21), and here it is linked to God's shepherding of Israel. Unlike the wicked shepherds (v. 4), God will help the weak with justice (v. 16).

34:18-19 The trampling of a pasture and the muddying of waters by wicked shepherds parallel the actions of Pharaoh in 32:2.

34:20-21 As in verse 16, it is the fat, strong sheep who had bullied the weak and would be punished.

34:23-24 Ezekiel had foretold and even witnessed the end of the Davidic dynasty (cp. 33:21-22). Here he prophesies that a new Davidic king would arise. The utter failure of the shepherds of Israel (v. 2) is an opportunity for God to save the flock (v. 22) and to appoint one shepherd who will be a prince. This is a reference to the Messiah, who will be the true Shepherd of Israel (see the note on Jr 23:5-6). The well-known promise "I will be their God" (v. 24; 11:20; Gn 17:7-8; Ex 6:7; Lv 26:12) is linked here to the Messiah's reign.

34:25-26 The rule of the Messiah (vv. 23-24) is tied to the new covenant (covenant of peace; see 37:26) and centers on Mount Zion ([God's] hill).

34:27 Trees of the field also appear in 17:24 and 31:4-5,15 (see 34:27), where they represent the nations. The references to breaking the bars of their yoke and freedom from those who enslave them reinforce the second exodus theme (see the note on vv. 13-16; 30:18; Lv 26:13; Is 9:4).

34:31 In keeping with the theme of shepherding, God reiterates that his people comprise his flock (see vv. 6,8,10-12,15,17; 36:37-38; Pss 74:1; 79:13; 95:7; 100:3; Jr 23:1).

A PROPHECY AGAINST EDOM

35 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 "Son of man, face Mount Seir † and prophesy against it. 3 Say to it, 'This is what the Lord GOD says:

Look! I am against you, Mount Seir.
I will stretch out my hand against you and make you a desolate waste. †
4 I will turn your cities into ruins, and you will become a desolation.
Then you will know that I am the LORD.

5 " 'Because you maintained a perpetual hatred † and gave the Israelites over to the power of the sword in the time of their disaster, the time of final punishment, † 6 therefore, as I live — this is the declaration of the Lord GOD — I will destine you for bloodshed, and it will pursue you. Since you did not hate bloodshed, it will pursue you. † 7 I will make Mount Seir a desolate waste and will cut off from it those who come and go. † 8 I will fill its mountains with the slain; † those slain by the sword will fall on your hills, in your valleys, and in all your ravines. 9 I will make you a perpetual desolation; your cities will not be inhabited. Then you will know that I am the LORD.
10 " 'Because you said, "These two nations and two lands will be mine, and we will possess them" — though the LORD was there † — 11 therefore, as I live — this is the declaration of the Lord GOD — I will treat you according to the anger and jealousy you showed in your hatred of them. I will make myself known among them † when I judge you. 12 Then you will know that I, the LORD, have heard all the blasphemies you uttered against the mountains of Israel, saying, "They are desolate. They have been given to us to devour!" 13 You boasted against me † with your mouth, and spoke many words against me. I heard it myself!
14 " 'This is what the Lord GOD says: While the whole world rejoices, I will make you a desolation. 15 Just as you rejoiced over the inheritance of the house of Israel because it became a desolation, I will deal the same way with you: you will become a desolation, Mount Seir, and so will all Edom in its entirety. Then they will know that I am the LORD.'

35:2 Ezk 25:12-14 35:3 Ezk 6:14 35:5 Ps 137:7; Ezk 25:15 35:5 Ezk 7:2; 21:25,29 35:6 Is 63:2-6; Ezk 16:38; 32:6 35:7 Ezk 33:28 35:8 Ezk 31:12; 32:4-5 35:10 Ps 48:1-3; Ezk 48:35 35:13 Jr 48:26,42; Ob 12; Zph 2:8

35:2-4 The judgment of Mount Seir and its "mountains" (v. 8) is placed here as an intentional contrast to the coming blessing upon Zion and the "mountains of Israel" described in the surrounding context (34:13-14,26; 36:1-15). Mount Seir is another name for the land of Edom (v. 15; 36:5; Gn 36:8-9; Dt 2:5; Jos 24:4). The restoration of Israel from destruction sharply contrasts with Edom's desolation (see the note on vv. 14-15), which would be permanent (v. 9).

35:5 The perpetual hatred Edom had toward Israel (see 25:8,12-14) parallels that of the Philistines in 25:15.

35:10-13 Edom not only did violence to Israel (vv. 5-6; Ob 10-14), but they also saw this as an opportunity to possess their land (v. 10; 36:2). Edom showed contempt for the mountains of Israel and God himself (vv. 12-13).

35:14-15 The joy of the whole world contrasts with the desolation of all Edom in its entirety. This juxtaposition suggests that Edom represents wicked humanity as a whole, as it does in some other OT passages (see the notes on 36:1-5; Is 34:5; 63:1).

RESTORATION OF ISRAEL'S MOUNTAINS

36 "Son of man, prophesy to the mountains of Israel and say, 'Mountains of Israel, hear the word of the LORD. † 2 This is what the Lord GOD says: Because the enemy has said about you, "Aha! † The ancient heights † have become our possession," ' 3 therefore, prophesy and say: 'This is what the Lord GOD says: Because they have made you desolate and have trampled you from every side, so that you became a possession for the rest of the nations and an object of people's gossip and slander, † 4 therefore, mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord GOD. This is what the Lord GOD says to the mountains and hills, to the ravines and valleys, to the desolate ruins and abandoned cities, which have become plunder † and a mockery to the rest of the nations all around.
5 " 'This is what the Lord GOD says: Certainly in my burning zeal I speak against the rest of the nations and all of Edom, † who took † my land as their own possession with wholehearted rejoicing and utter contempt † so that its pastureland became † plunder. 6 Therefore, prophesy concerning the land of Israel and say to the mountains and hills, to the ravines and valleys: This is what the Lord GOD says: Look, I speak in my burning zeal † because you have endured the insults of the nations. 7 Therefore, this is what the Lord GOD says: I swear † that the nations all around you will endure their own insults. †

8 " 'You, mountains of Israel, will produce your branches † and bear your fruit for my people Israel, since their arrival is near. 9 Look! I am on your side; I will turn toward you, † and you will be tilled and sown. 10 I will fill you with people, with the whole house of Israel in its entirety. † The cities will be inhabited and the ruins rebuilt. 11 I will fill you with people and animals, † and they will increase and be fruitful. I will make you inhabited as you once were and make you better off than you were before. Then you will know that I am the LORD. † 12 I will cause people, my people Israel, to walk on you; they will possess you, † and you will be their inheritance. You will no longer deprive them of their children.
13 " 'This is what the Lord GOD says: Because some are saying to you, "You devour people and deprive your nation of children," † 14 therefore, you will no longer devour people and deprive your nation of children. † This is the declaration of the Lord GOD. 15 I will no longer allow the insults of the nations to be heard against you, and you will not have to endure the reproach of the peoples anymore; † you will no longer cause your nation to stumble. † This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.' "

RESTORATION OF ISRAEL'S PEOPLE

16 The word of the LORD came to me: 17 "Son of man, while the house of Israel lived in their land, they defiled it with their conduct and actions. † Their behavior before me was like menstrual impurity. † 18 So I poured out my wrath † on them because of the blood they had shed on the land, and because they had defiled it with their idols. 19 I dispersed them among the nations, and they were scattered among the countries. † I judged them according to their conduct and actions. † 20 When they came to the nations where they went, they profaned my holy name, † because it was said about them, 'These are the people of the LORD, yet they had to leave his land in exile.' 21 Then I had concern for my holy name, † which the house of Israel profaned among the nations where they went.

22 “Therefore, say to the house of Israel, ‘This is what the Lord God says: It is not for your sake that I will act, † house of Israel, but for my holy name, † which you profaned among the nations where you went. 23 I will honor the holiness of my great name, which has been profaned among the nations — the name you have profaned among them. The nations will know that I am the Lord — this is the declaration of the Lord God — when I demonstrate my holiness through you in their sight. †
24 “ ‘For I will take you from the nations and gather you from all the countries, and will bring you into your own land. † 25 I will also sprinkle clean water on you, and you will be clean. † I will cleanse you from all your impurities and all your idols. † 26 I will give you a new heart and put a new spirit within you; † I will remove your heart of stone † and give you a heart of flesh. † 27 I will place my Spirit within you † and cause you to follow my statutes and carefully observe my ordinances. † 28 You will live in the land that I gave your fathers; † you will be my people, and I will be your God. † 29 I will save you from all your uncleanness. I will summon the grain and make it plentiful, and I will not bring famine on you. † 30 I will also make the fruit of the trees and the produce of the field plentiful, so that you will no longer experience reproach among the nations on account of famine.
31 “ ‘You will remember your evil ways and your deeds that were not good, † and you will loathe yourselves for your iniquities and detestable practices. †
32 It is not for your sake that I will act † — this is the declaration of the Lord God — let this be known to you. Be ashamed and humiliated because of your ways, house of Israel!
33 “ ‘This is what the Lord God says: On the day I cleanse you from all your iniquities, I will cause the cities to be inhabited, and the ruins will be rebuilt. †
34 The desolate land will be cultivated instead of lying desolate in the sight of everyone who passes by. 35 They will say, “This land that was desolate has become like the garden of Eden. † The cities that were once ruined, desolate, and demolished are now fortified and inhabited.” 36 Then the nations that remain around you will know that I, the LORD, have rebuilt what was demolished and have replanted what was desolate. I, the LORD, have spoken and I will do it. † 37 " 'This is what the Lord GOD says: I will respond to the house of Israel and do this for them: † I will multiply them in number like a flock. † 38 So the ruined cities will be filled with a flock of people, just as Jerusalem † is filled with a flock of sheep for sacrifice † during its appointed festivals. Then they will know that I am the LORD.' "

36:1-5 Whereas in 35:5,10 Edom harbored enmity and plotted to take possession of the land of Israel, here it is the rest of the nations doing so (vv. 2-3). This relationship is explicit in verse 5.

36:8-12 The mountains of Israel had suffered reproach, plundering, and desolation (vv. 2-7) but would be restored to fruitfulness as a place for Israel to dwell. Fruit-bearing and a branch on a mountaintop (v. 8) also appear together in 17:22-24, where they describe the Messiah's reign (see the note; Is 4:2). Whereas the Hebrew phrase translated in its entirety is used of Edom in verse 5 (see Hb) and 35:15, it is used in verse 10 of the whole house of Israel. The absence of people and animals had been a result of judgment (see the note on 14:21; 29:8,11), but these would now multiply in the land (v. 11).

36:13 This reputation for devouring people and depriving a nation of its children (see v. 12; Nm 13:32) may relate to men slain in judgment by its idolatrous sites and to child sacrifice (6:1-7,13; 16:20-21; 20:26; 23:37,39).

36:17-18 The people of Israel defiled the land through their evil conduct (see 14:11). The physical reality of menstrual impurity (see Lv 12:2,5; 15:19-27,33) is used as an illustration of spiritual reality (7:19-20) —much like whitewashing in 13:10-16 (see note).

36:20-23 While the exile vindicated God's justice before Israel (24:21-27), it also profaned his holy name in the eyes of the nations where they had been scattered (vv. 20-21). God had intended that Israel would bring glory to him and serve as a nation of priests who would mediate his truth to the rest of the world (cp. Ex 19:6). Their sin and punishment, however, brought reproach instead. As in 20:9,14,22, God's actions are motivated by concern for his holy name. The result of this display of his holiness is that the nations will know that [he is] the LORD (v. 23; see the notes on 17:22-24; 28:24-26). Emphasis on the unworthiness of his people and divine grace (vv. 22,31-32; Pss 25:11; 79:9) parallels 20:44.

36:25 Regathering from exile (v. 24; see the notes on 34:10-16) will be accompanied by removal of all impurities and idols (see v. 17; 6:4-6; 14:3-7; 24:11,13). As in 16:63 where God promises to "atone" for them (see Lv 4:20,26,31,35; 16:32-33), he again takes on the role of a priest and promises to sprinkle clean water on them and cleanse them (see 37:23; Lv 13:6,17,23,28; Nm 19:17-20). Another passage in which the Lord takes on this role is 39:17-20 (see note).

36:26-27 In addition to cleansing (v. 25), God's salvation also brings a new heart and a new spirit (11:19; 18:31; see the note on 14:1-8). Related to this, he puts his Spirit in his people so that they will follow his statutes and ordinances (see the notes on 1:12,20-21; 11:7-12,16-21; 18:5-20). These new covenant realities contrast with having a heart of stone (see 11:19), which relates to both hardness of heart (2:4; 3:7; Dt 10:16) and the law written on tablets of stone (Ex 24:12; 31:18; 34:1,4; Dt 4:13; 5:22; 9:9-11; 10:1,3; see Jr 31:33).

36:35 The transformation of the desolate land to be like the garden of Eden implies a restoration to the original ideal (Gn 2:4-14). Outside of the Pentateuch, the book of Ezekiel mentions Eden more than any other book (28:13; 31:9,16,18).

36:36 The building of what had been pulled down and the planting of what had been desolate parallels Jeremiah 1:9-10 (see note).

36:37-38 Whereas God had ignored the inquiries of sinful Israel (14:3; 20:3,31), the people's salvation would include his hearing of their prayers. He will multiply them like the sheep in Jerusalem during its festivals (see the note on 34:31).

THE VALLEY OF DRY BONES

37 The hand of the LORD was on me, † and he brought me out by his Spirit † and set me down in the middle of the valley; it was full of bones. 2 He led me all around them. There were a great many of them on the surface of the valley, and they were very dry. 3 Then he said to me, "Son of man, can these bones live? "
I replied, "Lord GOD, only you know." †
4 He said to me, "Prophesy concerning these bones and say to them: Dry bones, hear the word of the LORD! 5 This is what the Lord GOD says to these bones: I will cause breath to enter you, and you will live. † 6 I will put tendons on you, make flesh grow on you, and cover you with skin. I will put breath in you so that you come to life. Then you will know that I am the LORD." † 7 So I prophesied as I had been commanded. While I was prophesying, there was a noise, a rattling sound, and the bones came together, bone to bone. 8 As I looked, tendons appeared on them, flesh grew, and skin covered them, but there was no breath in them. 9 He said to me, "Prophesy to the breath, † prophesy, son of man. Say to it: This is what the Lord GOD says: Breath, come from the four winds and breathe into these slain so that they may live! " † 10 So I prophesied as he commanded me; the breath entered them, † and they came to life and stood on their feet, a vast army.

11 Then he said to me, “Son of man, these bones are the whole house of Israel. † Look how they say, ‘Our bones are dried up, † and our hope has perished; † we are cut off.’ † 12 Therefore, prophesy and say to them: ‘This is what the Lord God says: I am going to open your graves and bring you up from them, † my people, and lead you into the land of Israel. 13 You will know that I am the Lord, my people, when I open your graves and bring you up from them. † 14 I will put my Spirit in you, † and you will live, and I will settle you in your own land. Then you will know that I am the Lord. I have spoken, and I will do it. † This is the declaration of the Lord.’ ”

THE REUNIFICATION OF ISRAEL

15 The word of the Lord came to me: 16 “Son of man, take a single stick and write on it: † Belonging to Judah and the Israelites associated with him. Then take another stick and write on it: Belonging to Joseph — the stick of Ephraim — and all the house of Israel associated with him. † 17 Then join them together into a single stick so that they become one in your hand. † 18 When your people ask you, ‘Won’t you explain to us what you mean by these things? ’ † — 19 tell them, ‘This is what the Lord God says: I am going to take the stick of Joseph, which is in the hand of Ephraim, and the tribes of Israel associated with him, and put them together with the stick of Judah. I will make them into a single stick so that they become one in my hand.’
20 “When the sticks you have written on are in your hand and in full view of the people, † 21 tell them, ‘This is what the Lord God says: I am going to take the Israelites out of the nations where they have gone. † I will gather them from all around and bring them into their own land. 22 I will make them one nation in the land, † on the mountains of Israel, and one king will rule over all of them. † They will no longer be two nations and will no longer be divided into two kingdoms. 23 They will not defile themselves anymore with their idols, † their abhorrent things, and all their transgressions. † I will save them from all their apostasies by which † they sinned, † and I will cleanse them. Then they will be my people, and I will be their God. † 24 My servant David will be king over them, and there will be one shepherd for all of them. † They will follow my ordinances, and keep my statutes and obey them. †

25 " 'They will live in the land that I gave to my servant Jacob, † where your fathers lived. They will live in it forever with their children and grandchildren, and my servant David will be their prince forever. † 26 I will make a covenant of peace with them; † it will be a permanent covenant † with them. I will establish and multiply them and will set my sanctuary among them forever. 27 My dwelling place will be with them; † I will be their God, and they will be my people. † 28 When my sanctuary is among them forever, the nations will know that I, the LORD, sanctify Israel.' " †

37:1-10 Ezekiel has another vision of a valley filled with bones: the remains are from a great battle (v. 10). The bones in the vision are very dry (v. 2); there is no life in them. Furthermore, they are unclean (9:7; Lv 5:2; Nm 6:6-7) and have been left shamefully exposed and unburied. On their own, they cannot rise and they have no future. This is a picture of Israel in exile. Yet there is hope, because just as God can powerfully resuscitate the bones into living people, he can restore Israel to life as a people. Like the vision in Ezekiel 1 (see notes), this vision plays on the Hebrew word ruach, which can refer to either breath, wind, or spirit. The necessity and life-giving power of the breath and winds (vv. 5-10) parallel that of the Spirit's aforementioned empowerment of obedience unto life (see 18:5-9,14-19; 33:14-19; 36:26-27). He alone can transform dead, dry bones into a living, mighty army. The combination of divine speech, the moving of the Spirit, and standing on one's feet in verse 10 parallels 2:1-2. The giving of life to human bodies through the Spirit parallels Genesis 2:7, except on a much larger scale.

37:11-14 The power of the Spirit to bring the dead to life is reinforced through the repeated mention of his bringing up Israel from their graves (vv. 12-13).

37:20-22 The symbolic unification of the two sticks (vv. 16-19) represents the regathering and reunification of Israel, which had not only been divided into two nations but was scattered in exile. The newly formed single stick (vv. 17,19) stands for the one nation ruled by one king (v. 22; see 11:19), the Messiah (v. 24; 34:23).

37:24 Israel's obedience while under messianic rule recalls 36:27, where such obedience is a result of the indwelling Spirit.

37:28 The divine sanctification of Israel fulfills the intent of Exodus 31:13; Leviticus 20:8; 21:8 and 22:32. The presence of God's sanctuary in their midst forever (vv. 26-28) resolves the tragedy of Ezekiel 8–10 and is developed at length in Ezekiel 40–48.

THE DEFEAT OF GOG

38 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 "Son of man, face Gog, of the land of Magog,† the chief prince of† Meshech and Tubal.† Prophesy against him 3 and say, 'This is what the Lord GOD says: Look, I am against you, Gog, chief prince of Meshech and Tubal. 4 I will turn you around, put hooks in your jaws,† and bring you out with all your army, including horses and riders,† who are all splendidly dressed, a huge assembly armed with large and small shields, all of them brandishing swords. 5 Persia,† Cush, and Put are with them, all of them with shields and helmets; 6 Gomer† with all its troops; and Beth-togarmah† from the remotest parts of the north along with all its troops — many peoples are with you.

7 " 'Be prepared and get yourself ready, you and your whole assembly that has been mobilized around you; you will be their guard. 8 After a long time you will be summoned. In the last years you will enter a land that has been restored from war† and regathered from many peoples to the mountains of Israel, which had long been a ruin.† They were brought out from the peoples, and all of them now live securely. 9 You, all of your troops, and many peoples with you will advance, coming like a thunderstorm; you will be like a cloud covering the land.

10 " 'This is what the Lord GOD says: On that day, thoughts will arise in your mind, and you will devise an evil plan. 11 You will say, "I will advance against a land of open villages; I will come against a tranquil people who are living securely,† all of them living without walls and without bars or gates"† — 12 in order to seize spoil and carry off plunder,† to turn your hand against ruins now inhabited and against a people gathered from the nations, who have been acquiring cattle and possessions and who live at the center of the world. 13 Sheba† and Dedan† and the merchants of Tarshish† with all its rulers† will ask you, "Have you come to seize spoil? Have you mobilized your assembly to carry off plunder, to make off with silver and gold, to take cattle and possessions, to seize plenty of spoil?" '

14 “Therefore prophesy, son of man, and say to Gog, ‘This is what the Lord GOD says: On that day when my people Israel are dwelling securely, † will you not know this 15 and come from your place in the remotest parts of the north † — you and many peoples with you, who are all riding horses — a huge assembly, a powerful army? 16 You will advance against my people Israel like a cloud covering the land. It will happen in the last days, Gog, that I will bring you against my land so that the nations may know me, when I show myself holy through you in their sight. † 17 “ ‘This is what the Lord GOD says: Are you the one I spoke about in former times through my servants, the prophets of Israel, who for years prophesied in those times that I would bring you against them? 18 Now on that day, the day when Gog comes against the land of Israel — this is the declaration of the Lord GOD — my wrath will flare up. † 19 I swear in my zeal and fiery rage: † On that day there will be a great earthquake in the land of Israel. 20 The fish of the sea, the birds of the sky, the animals of the field, every creature that crawls on the ground, and every human being on the face of the earth will tremble before me.
The mountains will be demolished, the cliffs will collapse, and every wall will fall to the ground. 21 I will call for a sword against him on all my mountains — this is the declaration of the Lord GOD — and every man’s sword will be against his brother. † 22 I will execute judgment on him with plague and bloodshed. I will pour out torrential rain, hailstones, fire, and burning sulfur on him, as well as his troops and the many peoples who are with him. † 23 I will display my greatness and holiness, and will reveal myself in the sight of many nations. †
Then they will know that I am the LORD.’

38:2-3 The last judgment oracle in Ezekiel follows the glorious promises of salvation for Israel in Ezekiel 36–37. Whereas other Gentiles were dealt with in Ezekiel 25–31, the focus of Ezekiel 38–39 is Meshech and Tubal, including their chief prince, Gog. These two nations had been mentioned earlier as one of Tyre’s many trading partners (27:13) and as awaiting Pharaoh’s descent into the grave (32:26). Gog does not appear elsewhere in the Hebrew OT (see 1Ch 5:4 for another Gog), but he does appear twice in the Septuagint (Nm 24:7; Am 7:1) and in Revelation 20:8. Along with the present passage, these texts describe him as an eschatological enemy of God’s people and of the Messiah.

38:4-13 Gog would have its own wicked motives for invading Israel (vv. 10-13), but God sovereignly was working out his own purposes (vv. 3-4,16). The origin of Gog's army from the remotest parts of the north (vv. 6,15; 39:2) parallels the armies mentioned in Jeremiah 6:22 and 50:41. A final eschatological battle is also repeatedly referenced in other prophetic texts (Is 29:5-8; Jr 4:5-8; Jl 2:1-11). Its eschatological context is indicated by the phrase in the last years in verse 8 (and in the last days in v. 16). This battle evidently takes place after Israel has returned to their land and lived securely there (vv. 8,11-13).

38:16 God's orchestration of Gog's invasion (v. 4) and his defeat of them in the last days would powerfully display his holiness before the nations (see v. 23; 39:13,21-24).

38:17 The future invasion of Gog was not unheard of but had been spoken of in former times through the prophets (see Nm 24:7 LXX).

38:21 The self-destruction of eschatological enemies is also found in Haggai 2:22 and Zechariah 14:13.

38:22 These forms of judgment recall the exodus, the great flood, and the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah.

THE DISPOSAL OF GOG

39 "As for you, son of man, prophesy against Gog and say, 'This is what the Lord GOD says: Look, I am against you, Gog, chief prince of † Meshech and Tubal. † 2 I will turn you around, drive you on, † and lead you up from the remotest parts of the north. I will bring you against the mountains of Israel. 3 Then I will knock your bow from your left hand and make your arrows drop from your right hand. 4 You, all your troops, and the peoples who are with you will fall on the mountains of Israel. I will give you as food to every kind of predatory bird and to the wild animals. 5 You will fall on the open field, † for I have spoken. This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.

6 " 'I will send fire against Magog † and those who live securely on the coasts and islands. Then they will know that I am the LORD. 7 So I will make my holy name known among my people Israel and will no longer allow it to be profaned. Then the nations will know that I am the LORD, the Holy One in Israel. † 8 Yes, it is coming, and it will happen. This is the declaration of the Lord GOD. This is the day I have spoken about.

9 " 'Then the inhabitants of Israel's cities will go out, kindle fires, and burn the weapons — the small and large shields, the bows and arrows, the clubs and spears. For seven years they will use them to make fires. 10 They will not gather wood from the countryside or cut it down from the forests, for they will use the weapons to make fires. They will take the loot from those who looted them and plunder those who plundered them. † This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.

11 “ ‘Now on that day I will give Gog a burial place there in Israel — the Travelers’ Valley † east of the Sea. It will block those who travel through, for Gog and all his hordes will be buried there. So it will be called Hordes of Gog † Valley. 12 The house of Israel will spend seven months burying them in order to cleanse the land. † 13 All the people of the land will bury them and their fame will spread † on the day I display my glory. † This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.
14 “ ‘They will appoint men on a full-time basis to pass through the land and bury the invaders † who remain on the surface of the ground, in order to cleanse it. They will make their search at the end of the seven months. 15 When they pass through the land and one of them sees a human bone, he will set up a marker next to it until the buriers have buried it in Hordes of Gog Valley. 16 There will even be a city named Hamonah † there. So they will cleanse the land.’
17 “Son of man, this is what the Lord GOD says: Tell every kind of bird and all the wild animals, ‘Assemble and come! Gather from all around to my sacrificial feast that I am slaughtering for you, a great feast on the mountains of Israel; † you will eat flesh and drink blood. 18 You will eat the flesh of mighty men and drink the blood of the earth’s princes: rams, lambs, male goats, and all the fattened bulls of Bashan. 19 You will eat fat until you are satisfied † and drink blood until you are drunk, at my sacrificial feast that I have prepared for you. 20 At my table you will eat your fill of horses and riders, of mighty men and all the warriors. This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.’

ISRAEL’S RESTORATION TO GOD

21 “I will display my glory among the nations, † and all the nations will see the judgment I have executed and the hand I have laid on them. 22 From that day forward the house of Israel will know that I am the LORD their God. 23 And the nations will know that the house of Israel went into exile on account of their iniquity, because they dealt unfaithfully with me. † Therefore, I hid my face from them and handed them over to their enemies, so that they all fell by the sword. 24 I dealt with them according to their uncleanness and transgressions, and I hid my face from them.

25 “So this is what the Lord GOD says: Now I will restore the fortunes of Jacob † and have compassion on the whole house of Israel, † and I will be jealous for my holy name. 26 They will feel remorse for † † their disgrace † and all the unfaithfulness they committed against me, when they live securely in their land with no one to frighten them. 27 When I bring them back from the peoples and gather them from the countries of their enemies, I will demonstrate my holiness through them in the sight of many nations. † 28 They will know that I am the LORD their God when I regather them to their own land after having exiled them among the nations. I will leave none of them behind. † 29 I will no longer hide my face from them, for I will pour out my Spirit on the house of Israel.” † This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.

39:1 The focus on the leader of Meshech and Tubal continues (see 38:2-3,14-18). His status as prince over these enemies juxtaposes him with the Messiah, who is “prince” over Israel (34:24; 37:25).

39:2-5 God again asserts his sovereignty over Gog and his power over him (see 38:4). The defeat of Gog and his being eaten by animals in an open field (vv. 4-5) parallels the fate of Pharaoh in 29:5. As is the case elsewhere (6:2-3; 33:28; 34:13-14; 35:12; 36:1-8; 37:22), dramatic events play out on the mountains of Israel (vv. 2,4).

39:6 The islands are repeatedly linked to Tyre in Ezekiel 27 (see vv. 3,6-7,15,35).

39:8 This dreadful day had been foretold (see the note on 30:2-3) and is elsewhere referred to as the “day of the LORD” (see 13:5; Is 13:6,9; Jl 1:15; 2:1). This is an expression for the time, in the near or distant future, when God breaks into human history, saves his people, and defeats his enemies.

39:9-10 The use of weapons as firewood for seven years reinforces the vastness of the enemy forces. Israel’s plundering those who plundered them is a reversal of what they suffered at the hands of their enemies (7:21; 34:8,22; 36:4-5) and of the motives of Gog (38:12-13).

39:11-16 The burial of Gog and his hordes generally relates to that of Pharaoh and other nations in Ezekiel 32:18-32. It also contrasts with the resurrection of Israel to form a mighty army (see the note on 37:11-14). The present passage also emphasizes the cleansing of the land (vv. 12,14,16), which itself relates to the themes of cleansing and defilement throughout the book (e.g., 5:11; 22:24; 24:13; 36:25; 37:23).

39:17-20 Again taking up the role of a priest (16:63; 36:25; 37:23), God, in grim fashion this time, invites birds and wild animals to his table (v. 20) for the sacrificial feast he has prepared. They are to consume the corpses of Gog’s army.

39:21-24 God’s glory will thus be evident both in the eyes of Israel and in those of the nations (see Is 40:5; 66:19). The former had defiled his sanctuary (8:5-16) and turned against God wholesale (22:24-30), whereas the latter had blasphemed him when Israel was exiled (36:20-21).

39:25-29 The restoration of Israel sharply contrasts with the humiliation of Gog. Likewise, the outpouring of God's Spirit on the house of Israel (v. 29; 36:27) contrasts with the outpouring of his wrath in judgment (7:8; 9:8; 22:22,31; 36:18) and fulfills Moses's ancient wish (Nm 11:29)

THE NEW TEMPLE

40 In the twenty-fifth year of our exile, at the beginning of the year, on the tenth day of the month in the fourteenth year after Jerusalem had been captured, † on that very day the LORD's hand was on me, † and he brought me there. 2 In visions of God † he took me to the land of Israel and set me down on a very high mountain. † On its southern slope was a structure resembling a city. 3 He brought me there, and I saw a man whose appearance was like bronze, † with a linen cord and a measuring rod in his hand. † He was standing by the city gate. 4 He spoke to me: "Son of man, look with your eyes, listen with your ears, † and pay attention to everything I am going to show you, for you have been brought here so that I might show it to you. Report everything you see to the house of Israel." †

THE WALL AND OUTER GATES

5 Now there was a wall surrounding the outside of the temple. † The measuring rod in the man's hand was six units of twenty-one inches; † each unit was the standard length plus three inches. † He measured the thickness of the wall structure; it was 10 1/2 feet, † and its height was the same. 6 Then he came to the gate that faced east and climbed its steps. † He measured the threshold of the gate; it was 10 1/2 feet deep — one threshold was 10 1/2 feet deep. 7 Each recess was 10 1/2 feet long and 10 1/2 feet deep, and there was a space of 8 3/4 feet † between the recesses. The inner threshold of the gate on the temple side next to the gate's portico was 10 1/2 feet. 8 Next he measured the gate's portico; 9 it † was 14 feet, † and its jambs were 3 1/2 feet. † The gate's portico was on the temple side.

10 There were three recesses on each side of the east gate, each with the same measurements, and the jambs on either side also had the same measurements.

11 Then he measured the width of the gate's entrance; it was 17 1/2 feet, † while the width † of the gate was 22 3/4 feet. † 12 There was a barrier of 21 inches † in front of the recesses on both sides, and the recesses on each side were 10 1/2 feet † square. 13 Then he measured the gate from the roof of one recess to the roof of the opposite one; the distance was 43 3/4 feet. † The openings of the recesses faced each other. 14 Next, he measured the porch — 105 feet. † † 15 The distance from the front of the gate at the entrance to the front of the gate's portico on the inside was 87 1/2 feet. † 16 The recesses and their jambs had beveled windows all around the inside of the gate. † The porticoes also had windows all around on the inside. Each jamb was decorated with palm trees. † 17 Then he brought me into the outer court, † and there were chambers and a paved surface laid out all around the court. † Thirty chambers faced the pavement, 18 which flanked the courtyard's gates and corresponded to the length of the gates; this was the lower pavement. 19 Then he measured the distance from the front of the lower gate to the exterior front of the inner court; it was 175 feet. † This was the east; next the north is described.
20 He measured the gate of the outer court facing north, both its length and width. 21 Its three recesses on each side, its jambs, and its portico had the same measurements as the first gate: 87 1/2 feet long and 43 3/4 feet wide. 22 Its windows, portico, and palm trees had the same measurements as those of the gate that faced east. Seven steps led up to the gate, and its portico was ahead of them. 23 The inner court had a gate facing the north gate, like the one on the east. He measured the distance from gate to gate; it was 175 feet.
24 He brought me to the south side, and there was also a gate on the south. He measured its jambs and portico; they had the same measurements as the others.
25 Both the gate and its portico had windows all around, like the other windows.
It was 87 1/2 feet long and 43 3/4 feet wide. 26 Its stairway had seven steps, and its portico was ahead of them. It had palm trees on its jambs, one on each side.
27 The inner court had a gate on the south. He measured from gate to gate on the south; it was 175 feet.

THE INNER GATES

28 Then he brought me to the inner court through the south gate. When he measured the south gate, it had the same measurements as the others. 29 Its recesses, jambs, and portico had the same measurements as the others. Both it and its portico had windows all around. It was 87 1/2 feet long and 43 3/4 feet wide. 30 (There were porticoes all around, 43 3/4 feet long and 8 3/4 feet wide. †) 31 Its portico faced the outer court, and its jambs were decorated with palm trees. Its stairway had eight steps.

32 Then he brought me to the inner court on the east side. When he measured the gate, it had the same measurements as the others. 33 Its recesses, jambs, and portico had the same measurements as the others. Both it and its portico had windows all around. It was 87 1/2 feet long and 43 3/4 feet wide. 34 Its portico faced the outer court, and its jambs were decorated with palm trees on each side. Its stairway had eight steps.

35 Then he brought me to the north gate. † When he measured it, it had the same measurements as the others, 36 as did its recesses, jambs, and portico. It also had windows all around. It was 87 1/2 feet long and 43 3/4 feet wide. 37 Its portico † faced the outer court, and its jambs were decorated with palm trees on each side. Its stairway had eight steps.

ROOMS FOR PREPARING SACRIFICES

38 There was a chamber whose door opened into the gate's portico. † The burnt offering was to be washed there. † 39 Inside the gate's portico there were two tables on each side, on which to slaughter the burnt offering, sin offering, † and guilt offering. † 40 Outside, as one approaches the entrance of the north gate, there were two tables on one side and two more tables on the other side of the gate's portico. 41 So there were four tables inside the gate and four outside, eight tables in all on which the slaughtering was to be done. 42 There were also four tables of cut stone for the burnt offering, † each 31 1/2 inches † long, 31 1/2 inches wide, and 21 inches high. The utensils used to slaughter the burnt offerings and other sacrifices were placed on them. 43 There were three-inch † hooks † fastened all around the inside of the room, and the flesh of the offering was to be laid on the tables.

ROOMS FOR SINGERS AND PRIESTS

44 Outside the inner gate, within the inner court, there were chambers for the singers: † † one † beside the north gate, facing south, and another beside the south † gate, facing north. 45 Then the man said to me: “This chamber that faces south is for the priests who keep charge of the temple. † 46 The chamber that faces north is for the priests who keep charge of the altar. These are the sons of Zadok, † the ones from the sons of Levi who may approach the LORD to serve him.” † 47 Next he measured the court. It was square, 175 feet long and 175 feet wide. The altar † was in front of the temple.

48 Then he brought me to the portico of the temple and measured the jambs of the portico; they were 8 3/4 feet thick on each side. The width of the gate was 24 1/2 feet, † and the side walls of the gate were † 5 1/4 feet † wide on each side. 49 The portico was 35 feet † across and 21 † feet † deep, and 10 steps led † up to it. † There were pillars by the jambs, one on each side. †

40:1-3 The book of Ezekiel began with a dramatic vision (Ezk 1), and it ends with another—this one by far the longest in the book (Ezk 40–48). Jerusalem had fallen (v. 1; 33:21), but Ezekiel saw a structure resembling a city (v. 2). His visionary journey there (vv. 1,3) forms an inclusio with the name of this eternal city, “The Lord Is There” in 48:35 (see Is 65:18; Rv 21:2). The eschatological nature of this vision is reinforced by the presence of a very high mountain, which echoes earlier promises of eternal salvation (17:22-23; 20:40; 34:26).

40:4 Ezekiel’s need to properly use his eyes and ears and to pay attention to understand the vision (see 44:5; Nm 24:3-4,15-16) contrasts with Israel, which lacked such spiritual senses (12:2; Dt 29:4; Is 6:9-10; Jr 5:21). Along these lines, the following vision should not be interpreted in a woodenly literal way but in the sense of the realization of ideals, especially regarding the temple, holiness, and the land. This is consistent with frequent visions and figurative language in the book of Ezekiel (e.g., 17:22-24; 20:40-41; 28:24; 36:17,37-38).

40:5 The focus narrowed first from "the land of Israel" to a "city" (v. 2); here it narrows to the temple. Its wall is meant to separate the holy from the common (42:20; see the note on 44:20-27), thus fulfilling a long-neglected ideal (22:26; Lv 10:10-11; 11:47; 14:57). This agrees with the purity of the new Jerusalem as described in Revelation 21:27 and 22:15.

40:22 Palm trees (see vv. 16,26,31,34,37) had also decorated Solomon's temple (1Kg 6:29,32,35).

40:38-39 Such references to a burnt offering, sin offering, and guilt offering in Ezekiel 40–48 have long puzzled interpreters (see 42:13; 43:19-25; 44:27-29) because they do not fit with the broader biblical portrait of the new Jerusalem in which animal sacrifice is no longer necessary (see Heb 9:11-14; 10:12-14). As such, the original intention may have been figurative (see the notes on v. 4; 20:39-44; 36:37-38).

40:45-46 Whereas the priests have charge of the temple, only the sons of Zadok have charge of the altar. This ministry is a result of their faithfulness in the midst of widespread apostasy (44:15; 48:11; see 2Sm 20:25; 1Ch 29:22).

INSIDE THE TEMPLE

41 Next he brought me into the great hall and measured the jambs; † on each side the width of the jamb was 10 1/2 feet. † † 2 The width of the entrance was 17 1/2 feet, † and the side walls of the entrance were 8 3/4 feet † wide on each side. He also measured the length of the great hall, 70 feet, † and the width, 35 feet. † † 3 He went inside the next room and measured the jambs at the entrance; † they were 3 1/2 feet † wide. The entrance was 10 1/2 feet wide, and the width of the entrance's side walls on each side † was 12 1/4 feet. † 4 He then measured the length of the room adjacent to the great hall, 35 feet, and the width, 35 feet. † And he said to me, "This is the most holy place." †

OUTSIDE THE TEMPLE

5 Then he measured the wall of the temple; it was 10 1/2 feet thick. The width of the side rooms all around the temple was 7 feet. † † 6 The side rooms were arranged one above another in three stories of thirty rooms each. † There were ledges on the wall of the temple all around to serve as supports for the side rooms, so that the supports would not be in the temple wall itself. † 7 The side rooms surrounding the temple widened at each successive story, for the structure surrounding the temple went up by stages. This was the reason for the temple's broadness as it rose. And so, one would go up from the lowest story to the highest by means of the middle one. † †

8 I saw that the temple had a raised platform surrounding it; this foundation for the side rooms was 10 1/2 feet high. † † 9 The thickness of the outer wall of the side rooms was 8 3/4 feet. The free space between the side rooms of the temple 10 and the outer chambers was 35 feet wide all around the temple. † 11 The side rooms opened into the free space, one entrance toward the north and another to the south. The area of free space was 8 3/4 feet wide all around.

12 Now the building that faced the temple yard toward the west was 122 1/2 feet † wide. The wall of the building was 8 3/4 feet thick on all sides, and the building's length was 157 1/2 feet. †

13 Then the man measured the temple; it was 175 feet † long. † In addition, the temple yard and the building, including its walls, were 175 feet long. 14 The width of the front of the temple along with the temple yard to the east was 175 feet. 15 Next he measured the length of the building facing the temple yard to the west, with its galleries † on each side; † it was 175 feet.

INTERIOR WOODEN STRUCTURES

The interior of the great hall and the porticoes of the court — 16 the thresholds, the beveled windows, † and the balconies all around with their three levels opposite the threshold — were overlaid with wood on all sides. † They were paneled from the ground to the windows (but the windows were covered), 17 reaching to the top of the entrance, and as far as the inner temple and on the outside. On every wall all around, on the inside and outside, was a pattern 18 carved with cherubim and palm trees. † There was a palm tree between each pair of cherubim. † Each cherub had two faces: 19 a human face turned toward the palm tree on one side, † and a lion's face turned toward it on the other. They were carved throughout the temple on all sides. 20 Cherubim and palm trees were carved from the ground to the top of the entrance and on the wall of the great hall.

21 The doorposts of the great hall were square, † and the front of the sanctuary had the same appearance. 22 The altar was † made of wood, 5 1/4 feet † high and 3 1/2 feet long. † It had corners, and its length † and sides were of wood. †

The man told me, “This is the table that stands before the LORD.” † 23 The great hall and the sanctuary each had a double door, † 24 and each of the doors had two swinging panels. † There were two panels for one door and two for the other. 25 Cherubim and palm trees were carved on the doors of the great hall like those carved on the walls. There was a wooden canopy † † outside, in front of the portico. 26 There were beveled windows and palm trees on both sides, † on the side walls of the portico, the side rooms of the temple, and the canopies. †

41:4 Like the tabernacle and Solomon’s temple (Ex 26:33; 1Kg 8:6), this temple has a most holy place. There is no mention of an ark, which agrees with Jeremiah 3:16.

41:18-19 Cherubim also decorated the tabernacle and Solomon’s temple (Ex 25:18-22; 1Kg 6:23-29) and guarded the garden of Eden (Gn 3:24). They also played significant parts in Ezekiel’s visions (9:3; 10:19-20; 11:22), where they displayed the glory of the Lord and likewise had multiple faces (1:3-11).

41:22 This table corresponds to similar items in the tabernacle and in Solomon’s temple (Ex 25:23; 1Kg 7:48). This piece, however, is also referred to as an altar.

THE PRIESTS’ CHAMBERS

42 Then the man led me out by way of the north gate into the outer court. † He brought me to the group of chambers opposite the temple yard and opposite the building † to the north. 2 Along the length of the chambers, which was 175 feet, † † there was an entrance on the north; the width was 87 1/2 feet. † 3 Opposite the 35 foot space † belonging to the inner court and opposite the paved surface † belonging to the outer court, the structure

rose gallery by gallery † in three tiers. 4 In front of the chambers was a walkway toward the inside, † 17 1/2 feet † wide and 175 feet long, † and their entrances were on the north. 5 The upper chambers were narrower because the galleries took away more space from them than from the lower and middle stories of the building. 6 For they were arranged in three stories and had no pillars like the pillars of the courts; † therefore the upper chambers were set back from the ground more than the lower and middle stories. 7 A wall on the outside ran in front of the chambers, parallel to them, toward the outer court; it was 87 1/2 feet long. 8 For the chambers on the outer court were 87 1/2 feet long, while those facing the great hall were 175 feet long. † 9 At the base of these chambers there was an entryway on the east side as one enters them from the outer court. †

10 In the thickness of the wall of the court toward the south, † there were chambers facing the temple yard † and the western building, 11 with a passageway in front of them, just like the chambers that faced north. † Their length and width, as well as all their exits, measurements, and entrances, were identical. 12 The entrance at the beginning of the passageway, the way in front of the corresponding † wall as one enters on the east side, was similar to the entrances of the chambers that were on the south side.

13 Then the man said to me, “The northern and southern chambers that face the courtyard are the holy chambers where the priests who approach the LORD will eat † the most holy offerings. † There they will deposit the most holy offerings — the grain offerings, sin offerings, and guilt offerings — for the place is holy. † 14 Once the priests have entered, they are not to go out from the holy area to the outer court until they have removed the clothes they minister in, for these are holy. † They are to put on other clothes before they approach the public area.” †

OUTSIDE DIMENSIONS OF THE TEMPLE COMPLEX

15 When he finished measuring inside the temple complex, he led me out by way of the gate that faced east and measured all around the complex. †

16 He measured the east side with a measuring rod;
it was 875 feet † by the measuring rod. † 17 He † measured the north side;
it was 875 feet by the measuring rod.
18 He † measured the south side;
it was 875 feet by the measuring rod.
19 Then he turned to the west side and measured 875 feet by the measuring rod.

20 He measured the temple complex on all four sides. It had a wall all around it, † 875 feet long and 875 feet † wide, to separate the holy from the common. †

RETURN OF THE LORD'S GLORY

43 He led me to the gate, † the one that faces east, 2 and I saw the glory of the God of Israel † coming from the east. † His voice sounded like the roar of a huge torrent, † and the earth shone with his glory. † 3 The vision I saw † was like the one I had seen when he † came to destroy the city, † and like the ones I had seen by the Chebar Canal. † I fell facedown. † 4 The glory of the LORD entered the temple by way of the gate that faced east. † 5 Then the Spirit lifted me up † and brought me to the inner court, and the glory of the LORD filled the temple. †

6 While the man was standing beside me, I heard someone speaking to me from the temple. † 7 He said to me: “Son of man, this is the place of my throne and the place for the soles of my feet, † where I will dwell among the Israelites forever. † The house of Israel and their kings will no longer defile my holy name by their religious prostitution and by the corpses † † of their kings at their high places. † † 8 Whenever they placed their threshold next to my threshold and their doorposts beside my doorposts, with only a wall between me and them, they were defiling my holy name by the detestable acts they committed. † So I destroyed them in my anger. 9 Now let them remove their prostitution and the corpses † of their kings far from me, and I will dwell among them forever. †

10 “As for you, son of man, describe the temple to the house of Israel, † so that they may be ashamed of their iniquities. † Let them measure its pattern, † 11 and they will be ashamed of all that they have done. Reveal † the design of the temple to them — its layout with its exits and entrances † — its complete design along with all its statutes, design specifications, and laws. Write it down in their sight † so that they may observe its complete design and all its statutes and may carry them out. † 12 This is the law of the temple: All its surrounding territory on top of the mountain † will be especially holy. Yes, this is the law of the temple.

THE ALTAR

13 “These are the measurements of the altar † in units of length (each unit being the standard length plus three inches): † † The gutter is 21 inches † deep and 21 inches wide, with a rim of nine inches † around its edge. This is the base † of the altar. 14 The distance from the gutter on the ground to the lower ledge is 3 1/2 feet, † and the width of the ledge is 21 inches. There are 7 feet † from the small ledge to the large ledge, whose width is also 21 inches. 15 The altar hearth † is 7 feet high, and four horns † project upward from the hearth. 16 The hearth is square, 21 feet † long by 21 feet wide. † 17 The ledge is 24 1/2 feet † long by 24 1/2 feet wide, with four equal sides. † The rim all around it is 10 1/2 inches, † and its gutter is 21 inches all around it. The altar's steps face east." †

18 Then he said to me: "Son of man, † this is what the Lord GOD says: These are the statutes for the altar on the day it is constructed, so that burnt offerings † may be sacrificed on it and blood may be splattered on it: † 19 You are to give a bull from the herd † as a sin offering † to the Levitical priests who are from the offspring of Zadok, † who approach me in order to serve me." † This is the declaration of the Lord GOD. 20 "You are to take some of its blood and apply it to the four horns † of the altar, the four corners of the ledge, and all around the rim. In this way you will purify the altar and make atonement for it. † 21 Then you are to take away the bull for the sin offering, and it must be burned outside the sanctuary in the place appointed for the temple. †
22 "On the second day you are to present an unblemished male goat as a sin offering. They will purify the altar just as they did with the bull. 23 When you have finished the purification, you are to present a young, unblemished bull † and an unblemished ram from the flock. † 24 You are to present them before the LORD; the priests will throw salt on them and sacrifice them as a burnt offering to the LORD. † 25 You will offer a goat for a sin offering each day for seven days. † A young bull and a ram from the flock, both unblemished, are also to be offered. 26 For seven days the priests are to make atonement for the altar and cleanse it. In this way they will consecrate it † 27 and complete the days of purification. Then on the eighth day † and afterward, the priests will offer your burnt offerings and fellowship offerings on the altar, and I will accept you." † This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.

43:1-5 Even more significant than the temple itself is the entrance of the glory of God coming from the east. This glory had departed in the same direction from the first temple because of the people's detestable idolatry (see the notes on 8:5-6; 10:18-19; 11:23). Now it returns (in Ezekiel's vision) as a sign of the restored relationship between God and the permanent removal of their evil deeds. Ezekiel's present vision of glory (v. 3) resembles his previous ones (see 1:3-4; 3:23; 9:1-7).

43:7-9 God's promise to dwell among the Israelites forever parallels his promise to set his "sanctuary among them forever" in 37:26-28. The glorious temple is thus associated with the new covenant and messianic rule described in the earlier context. Israel no longer defiling God's name (v. 7) likewise relates to 36:20 and 37:23. The particular sins in view here relate to idolatry (religious prostitution; see 8:8-12) seemingly linked to burying kings within the temple precincts. Proper thresholds and doorposts are described above in 40:6-7 and 41:16,21.

43:10-12 The detailed description of the ideal temple also has the purpose of bringing conviction of sin (vv. 10-11). This building has statutes and laws (v. 11; 18:9; 36:27; see the note on 44:5), the most important of which is the top of the mountain. Its surrounding will be especially holy (v. 12).

43:18 More specific statutes (see the previous note) concern the construction of the altar. The attention to detail in the following verses points to the importance of careful concern for God's requirements.

43:26 Elsewhere in Ezekiel God makes atonement and cleanses his people (16:63; 36:25,33; 37:23), so this and other similar statements in Ezekiel 40–48 may be figurative (v. 20; 45:15,17,20; see the notes on v. 27; 40:4).

43:27 The construction and consecration of the altar allows for God's acceptance of his people, as promised in 20:40-41 and 36:37.

THE PRINCE'S PRIVILEGE

44 The man then brought me back toward the sanctuary's outer gate that faced east, and it was closed. 2 The LORD said to me: "This gate will remain closed. It will not be opened, and no one will enter through it, because the LORD, the God of Israel, has entered through it. † Therefore it will remain closed. 3 The prince himself will sit in the gate to eat a meal before the LORD. † He is to enter by way of the portico † of the gate and go out the same way."

4 Then the man brought me by way of the north gate to the front of the temple. I looked, and the glory of the LORD filled his temple. † And I fell facedown. †

5 The LORD said to me: "Son of man, pay attention; † look with your eyes and listen with your ears to everything I tell you about all the statutes and laws of the LORD's temple. † Take careful note of the entrance of the temple along with all the exits of the sanctuary.

THE LEVITES' DUTIES AND PRIVILEGES

6 "Say to the rebellious people, † the house of Israel, 'This is what the Lord GOD says: I have had enough † of all your detestable practices, house of Israel. 7 When you brought in foreigners, † uncircumcised in both heart and flesh, † to occupy my sanctuary, you defiled my temple while you offered my food — the fat and the blood. You † broke my covenant by all your detestable practices. 8 You have not kept charge of my holy things † but have appointed others to keep charge of my sanctuary for you.'

9 "This is what the Lord GOD says: No foreigner, uncircumcised in heart and flesh, may enter my sanctuary, not even a foreigner who is among the Israelites. 10 Surely the Levites who wandered away from me when Israel went astray, and who strayed from me after their idols, † will bear the consequences of their iniquity. † 11 Yet they will occupy my sanctuary, serving as guards at the temple gates † and ministering at the temple. They will slaughter the burnt offerings † and other sacrifices for the people and will stand before them to serve them. † 12 Because they ministered to the house of Israel before their idols and became a sinful stumbling block to them, therefore I swore an oath † against them" † — this is the declaration of the Lord GOD — "that they would bear the consequences of their iniquity. 13 They must not approach me to serve me as priests † or come near any of my holy things or the most holy things. They will bear their disgrace and the consequences of the detestable acts they committed. 14 Yet I will make them responsible for the duties of the temple † — for all its work and everything done in it.

THE PRIESTS' DUTIES AND PRIVILEGES

15 "But the Levitical priests descended from Zadok, † who kept charge of my sanctuary when the Israelites went astray from me, will approach me to serve me. They will stand before me to offer me fat and blood." This is the declaration of the Lord GOD. 16 "They are the ones who may enter my sanctuary † and approach my table to serve me. † They will keep my mandate. 17 When they enter the gates of the inner court they are to wear linen garments; † they must not have on them anything made of wool when they minister at the gates of the inner court and within it. 18 They are to wear linen turbans on their heads and linen undergarments around their waists. † They are not to put on anything that makes them sweat. 19 Before they go out to the outer court, † to the people, they must take off the clothes they have been ministering in, leave them in the holy chambers, and dress in other clothes † so that they do not transmit holiness to the people through their clothes. †

20 "They may not shave their heads † or let their hair grow long, † but are to carefully trim their hair. 21 No priest may drink wine before he enters the inner court. † 22 He is not to marry a widow or a divorced woman, but may marry only a virgin from the offspring of the house of Israel, † or a widow who is the widow of a priest. 23 They are to teach my people the difference between the holy and the common, and explain to them the difference between the clean and the unclean. †

24 "In a dispute, they will officiate as judges and decide the case according to my ordinances. † They are to observe my laws and statutes regarding all my appointed festivals, and keep my Sabbaths holy. † 25 A priest may not come near a dead person so that he becomes defiled. † However, he may defile himself for a father, a mother, a son, a daughter, a brother, or an unmarried sister. 26 After he is cleansed, he is to count off seven days for himself. † 27 On the day he goes into the sanctuary, into the inner court † to minister in the sanctuary, he is to present his sin offering." This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.

28 "This will be their inheritance: I am their inheritance. † You are to give them no possession in Israel: I am their possession. 29 They will eat the grain offering, the sin offering, † and the guilt offering. Everything in Israel that is permanently dedicated to the LORD will belong to them. † 30 The best of all the firstfruits of every kind and contribution of every kind from all your gifts will belong to the priests. † You are to give your first batch of dough to the priest † so that a blessing may rest on your homes. † 31 The priests may not eat any bird or animal that died naturally or was mauled by wild beasts. †

44:1-3 The east gate was closed out of reverence for God's entrance through it (see 43:1-5). The prince who may enter and exit by the portico of this gate may be a reference to the Messiah. Ezekiel 37:25 states that "David" (a messianic title) will be "prince forever." In 45:22, however, the prophet states that the prince will offer a sin offering for himself for seven days (45:23). This is difficult to reconcile with the Messiah who is without sin (Heb 9:22-28). It may be that the prince in the present passage is a special administrator of the temple who serves the Messiah.

44:5 As in 40:4, Ezekiel is to use his eyes and ears to understand. Reference to the statutes and laws of the temple, especially its entrance and exits (43:10-12), is again paired with confrontation of Israel's sins (vv. 6-14; 43:7-9). This suggests that these terms are meant to recall God's instructions more generally and Israel's habitual disobedience to them (5:6; 20:13,16,21,24).

44:6-10 Mention of temple "statutes and laws" (v. 5; 43:11-12) is again associated with disobedience to God's instructions generally. As in 43:7-9, the sin committed is defiling the temple (see the note on 5:11-12). The problem here is not merely being uncircumcised physically but being so in heart (see 31:18; 32:19-32; Dt 30:6; Jr 4:4; 9:25-26). The Levites were especially responsible and would bear the consequences (v. 10), thus repeating an important theme in Ezekiel (see the notes on 3:16-21; 4:4-17; 7:15-16; 9:8-10).

44:12 The Levites were complicit in Israel's idolatry and became a stumbling block to them (see 7:19; 14:3-7).

44:15 In contrast with the Levites (vv. 10,12), the Zadokite priests faithfully kept charge of the sanctuary when the Israelites went astray from [God] (see 14:11; 40:46; 43:19; 48:11). These verses thus reiterate that spiritual leaders will be held accountable (see 3:17-21; 14:9; 34:2-10; Jms 3:1).

44:17-19 As in 42:14 (see 46:20), special attention had been given to priestly garments for the sake of properly respecting what is holy (see Ex 28:40-42; 39:27-29).

44:20-27 The following priestly regulations resemble those from Leviticus 10:6,9-11 and 21:1-7. The priests thus embody the ideals of holiness that were originally intended. Perhaps the priests here in some way represent God's people generally (see the following note), since other OT passages prophesy the expansion of the priesthood (Ex 19:6; Is 61:6; 66:20-21). In contrast to their earlier failure (see the note on 22:26) and consistent with the purpose of the temple wall (see the note on 40:5; 42:20), the priests teach the difference between the holy and the common and between the clean and the unclean (v. 23), as they were supposed to have done (Lv 10:10-11).

44:28 Consistent with Numbers 18:20 and Deuteronomy 18:2, the priests would not receive land in Israel because God is their inheritance. In Psalm 16:5-6 (see note), the psalmist generalizes this experience and applies it to himself.

THE SACRED PORTION OF THE LAND

45 "When you divide the land by lot as an inheritance, † set aside a donation to the LORD, a holy portion of the land, † 8 1/3 miles † long and 6 2/3 miles † wide. This entire region will be holy. 2 In this area there will be a square section † for the sanctuary, 875 by 875 feet, † † with 87 1/2 feet † of open space all around it. 3 From this holy portion, † you will measure off an area 8 1/3 miles long and 3 1/3 miles † wide, in which the sanctuary, the most holy place, † will stand. † 4 It will be a holy area of the land to be used by the priests who minister in the sanctuary, who approach to serve the LORD. † It will be a place for their houses, as well as a holy area for the sanctuary. 5 There will be another area 8 1/3 miles long and 3 1/3 miles wide for the Levites who minister in the temple; † it will be their possession for towns to live in. † 6 "As the property of the city, set aside an area 1 2/3 miles † wide and 8 1/3 miles long, adjacent to the holy donation of land. † It will be for the whole house of Israel. 7 And the prince will have the area on each side of the holy donation of land and the city's property, adjacent to the holy donation and the city's property, stretching to the west on the west side and to the east on the east side. † Its length will correspond to one of the tribal portions from the western boundary to the eastern boundary. 8 This will be his land as a possession in Israel. My princes will no longer oppress my people † but give the rest of the land to the house of Israel according to their tribes.
9 "This is what the Lord GOD says: You have gone too far, † † princes of Israel!
Put away violence and oppression and do what is just and right. † Put an end to your evictions of my people." This is the declaration of the Lord GOD. 10 "You are to have honest scales, an honest dry measure, † and an honest liquid measure. † † 11 The dry measure † and the liquid measure † will be uniform, with the liquid measure containing 5 1/2 gallons † and the dry measure holding half a bushel. † Their measurement will be a tenth of the standard larger capacity measure. † 12 The shekel † will weigh twenty gerahs. † Your mina will equal sixty shekels.

THE PEOPLE'S CONTRIBUTION TO THE SACRIFICES

13 "This is the contribution you are to offer: Three quarts † from five bushels † of wheat and † three quarts from five bushels of barley. 14 The quota of oil in liquid measures † will be one percent of every † cor. The cor equals ten liquid measures or one standard larger capacity measure, † since ten liquid measures equal one standard larger capacity measure. 15 And the quota from the flock is one animal out of every two hundred from the well-watered pastures of Israel. These are for the grain offerings, burnt offerings, and fellowship offerings, to make atonement for the people." † This is the declaration of the Lord GOD. 16 "All the people of the land must take part in this contribution for the prince in Israel. 17 Then the burnt offerings, grain offerings, and drink offerings for the festivals, New Moons, and Sabbaths — for all the appointed times of the house of Israel — will be the prince's responsibility. He will provide the sin offerings, grain offerings, burnt offerings, and fellowship offerings to make atonement on behalf of the house of Israel.

18 "This is what the Lord GOD says: In the first month, on the first day of the month, you are to take a young, unblemished bull and purify the sanctuary. 19 The priest is to take some of the blood from the sin offering and apply it to the temple doorposts, the four corners of the altar's ledge, and the doorposts of the gate of the inner court. † 20 You are to do the same thing on the seventh day of the month for everyone who sins unintentionally or through ignorance. † In this way you will make atonement for the temple.

21 "In the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month, you are to celebrate the Passover, a festival of seven days during which unleavened bread will be eaten. † 22 On that day the prince will provide a bull as a sin offering on behalf of himself and all the people of the land. 23 During the seven days of the festival, he will provide seven bulls and seven rams without blemish as a burnt offering to the LORD on each of the seven days, along with a male goat each day for a sin offering. 24 He will also provide a grain offering of half a bushel † per bull and half a bushel per ram, along with a gallon † of oil for every half bushel.

25 At the festival that begins on the fifteenth day of the seventh month, † † he will provide the same things for seven days — the same sin offerings, burnt offerings, grain offerings, and oil.

45:1-7 Mention of the priestly inheritance (44:28) naturally transitions to further discussion of the division of the land as an inheritance. The holy portion for the sanctuary is set aside first (vv. 1-5), followed by land for the city (v. 6) and for the prince (v. 7). The division of the rest of the land among the tribes of Israel is treated in 47:13–48:29.

45:8-9 The vision again makes specific reference to the sins of Israel (see 43:7-11; 44:6-15). This time it is the princes of Israel (see 12:10; 19:1; 21:12,25-27; 22:6) who are singled out for violence and oppression. They had been guilty of using dishonest weights and measures (vv. 10-12; Lv 19:36) and seizure of land (46:18).

45:15-17 In place of the adversarial relationship between prince and people (vv. 8-9), the picture here is of harmonious collaboration. The people make their contribution to the prince, who is responsible for the offerings for all the appointed times of the house of Israel (v. 17). His role in the sin offerings, grain offerings, burnt offerings, and fellowship offerings (see Lv 1–5) for making atonement on behalf of Israel casts him in a priestly role (see the note on 44:1-3).

45:18-20 The purification of the sanctuary is accomplished via a sin offering. Such atonement for the temple in view of the people's sins (v. 20) recalls the Day of Atonement (Lv 16:16).

45:21-22 The priestly act of the prince in bringing a sin offering is in keeping with verse 17. The celebration of Passover and the Feast of Unleavened Bread specifically with sin offerings is absent from Exodus 12:1-28 but is in line with "second exodus" themes (see the notes on Is 52:11-12; 53:10; 1Co 5:6-8).

45:25 This festival is the Festival of Shelters (Lv 23:33-36,39-43).

SACRIFICES AT APPOINTED TIMES

46 "This is what the Lord GOD says: The gate of the inner court that faces east is to be closed during the six days of work, but it will be opened on the Sabbath day † and opened on the day of the New Moon. 2 The prince should enter from the outside by way of the gate's portico and stand at the gate's doorpost while the priests sacrifice his burnt offerings and fellowship offerings. He will bow in worship at the gate's threshold and then depart, but the gate is not to be closed until evening. 3 The people of the land will also bow in worship before the LORD at the entrance of that gate on the Sabbaths and New Moons.

4 "The burnt offering that the prince presents to the LORD † on the Sabbath day is to be six unblemished lambs † and an unblemished ram. 5 The grain offering will be half a bushel † with the ram, † and the grain offering with the lambs will be whatever he wants to give, as well as a gallon † of oil for every half bushel. 6 On the day of the New Moon, the burnt offering is to be a young, unblemished bull, as well as six lambs and a ram without blemish. 7 He will provide a grain offering of half a bushel with the bull, half a bushel with the ram, and whatever he can afford with the lambs, together with a gallon of oil for every half bushel. 8 When the prince enters, † he is to go in by way of the gate's portico and go out the same way.

9 "When the people of the land come before the LORD at the appointed times, † † whoever enters by way of the north gate to worship is to go out by way of the south gate, and whoever enters by way of the south gate is to go out by way of the north gate. No one may return through the gate by which he entered, but is to go out by the opposite gate. 10 When the people enter, the prince will enter with them, and when they leave, he will leave. 11 At the festivals and appointed times, the grain offering will be half a bushel with the bull, half a bushel with the ram, and whatever he wants to give with the lambs, along with a gallon of oil for every half bushel.

12 "When the prince makes a freewill offering, whether a burnt offering or a fellowship offering as a freewill offering to the LORD, † the gate that faces east is to be opened for him. He is to offer his burnt offering or fellowship offering just as he does on the Sabbath day. Then he will go out, and the gate is to be closed after he leaves.

13 "You are to offer an unblemished year-old male lamb as a daily burnt offering to the LORD; you will offer it every morning. † 14 You are also to prepare a grain offering every morning along with it: three quarts, † with one-third of a gallon † of oil to moisten the fine flour — a grain offering to the LORD. This is a permanent statute to be observed regularly. 15 They will offer the lamb, the grain offering, and the oil every morning as a regular burnt offering.

TRANSFER OF ROYAL LANDS

16 "This is what the Lord GOD says: If the prince gives a gift to each of his sons as their inheritance, it will belong to his sons. It will become their property by inheritance. 17 But if he gives a gift from his inheritance to one of his servants, it will belong to that servant until the year of freedom, † when it will revert to the prince. His inheritance belongs only to his sons; it is theirs. 18 The prince must not take any of the people's inheritance, evicting them from their property. † He is to provide an inheritance for his sons from his own property, so that none of my people will be displaced from his own property."

THE TEMPLE KITCHENS

19 Then he brought me through the entrance † that was at the side of the gate, into the priests' holy chambers, which faced north. I saw a place there at the far western end. 20 He said to me, "This is the place where the priests will boil the guilt offering and the sin offering, † and where they will bake the grain offering, † so that they do not bring them into the outer court and transmit holiness to the people." 21 Next he brought me into the outer court and led me past its four corners. There was a separate court in each of its corners. 22 In the four corners of the outer court there were enclosed † courts, 70 feet † long by 52 1/2 feet † wide. All four corner areas had the same dimensions. 23 There was a stone wall † around the inside of them, around the four of them, with ovens built at the base of the walls on all sides. 24 He said to me: "These are the kitchens where those who minister at the temple will cook the people's sacrifices."

46:1-3 The importance of the east gate is that the glory of God had entered through it (43:1-5). Whereas the outer gate was to remain closed (44:1-3), the inner gate could be opened on the Sabbath and New Moon. The prince's special access to it (v. 2) recalls 44:3. His responsibilities during Israel's festivals were discussed in 44:18-25.

46:10 Despite his special privileges and responsibilities (vv. 2,8; 44:3; 45:17), Israel's prince would also move about in their midst. The Messiah is described in 34:24 as being "a prince among them."

46:13 This daily burnt offering parallels those mentioned in Exodus 29:38-41 and Numbers 28:3-8, except that the earlier passages include a second lamb offered at twilight.

46:18 For a second time in the context of property rights (45:8), God declares that the prince will no longer oppress the people.

46:20 As in 42:14 and 44:19, special care is taken in the preparation of offerings so as to respect what is holy.

THE LIFE-GIVING RIVER

47 Then he brought me back to the entrance of the temple and there was water flowing from under the threshold of the temple toward the east, for the temple faced east. The water was coming down from under the south side of the threshold of the temple, south of the altar. † 2 Next he brought me out by way of the north gate and led me around the outside to the outer gate that faced east; there the water was trickling from the south side. 3 As the man went out east with a measuring line in his hand, † he measured off a third of a mile † and led me through the water. It came up to my ankles. 4 Then he measured off a third of a mile and led me through the water. It came up to my knees. He measured off another third of a mile and led me through the water. It came up to my waist. 5 Again he measured off a third of a mile, and it was a river that I could not cross on foot. For the water had risen; it was deep enough to swim in, a river that could not be crossed on foot.

6 He asked me, "Do you see this, son of man? " Then he led me back to the bank of the river. 7 When I had returned, I saw a very large number of trees along both sides of the riverbank. † 8 He said to me, "This water flows out to the eastern region and goes down to the Arabah. When it enters the sea, the sea of foul water, † † the water of the sea becomes fresh. † 9 Every kind of living creature that swarms will live wherever the river flows, † and there will be a huge number of fish because this water goes there. Since the water will become fresh, there will be life everywhere the river goes. 10 Fishermen will stand beside it from En-gedi to En-eglaim. † These will become places where nets are spread out to dry. Their fish will consist of many different kinds, like the fish of the Mediterranean Sea. † 11 Yet its swamps and marshes will not be healed; they will be left for salt. 12 All kinds of trees providing food will grow along both banks of the river. Their leaves will not wither, and their fruit will not fail. † Each month they will bear fresh fruit because the water comes from the sanctuary. Their fruit will be used for food and their leaves for medicine." †

THE BORDERS OF THE LAND

13 This is what the Lord GOD says: "This is † the border you will use to divide the land † as an inheritance for the twelve tribes of Israel. Joseph will receive two shares. † 14 You will inherit it in equal portions, since I swore † to give it to your ancestors. † So this land will fall to you as an inheritance.
15 This is to be the border of the land:
On the north side † it will extend from the Mediterranean Sea by way of Hethlon and Lebo-hamath to Zedad, † 16 Berothah, and Sibraim (which is between the border of Damascus and the border of Hamath), as far as Hazerhatticon, which is on the border of Hauran. 17 So the border will run from the sea to Hazar-enon at the border † of Damascus, with the territory of Hamath to the north. This will be the northern side.
18 On the east side it will run between Hauran and Damascus, along the Jordan between Gilead and the land of Israel; you will measure from the northern border to the eastern sea. † This will be the eastern side.
19 On the south side it will run from Tamar to the Waters of Meribath-kadesh, † and on to the Brook of Egypt † as far as the Mediterranean Sea. † This will be the southern side.
20 On the west side the Mediterranean Sea will be the border, from the southern border up to a point opposite Lebo-hamath. This will be the western side.
21 "You are to divide this land among yourselves according to the tribes of Israel. † 22 You will allot it as an inheritance for yourselves and for the aliens residing among you, † who have fathered children among you. You will treat them † like native-born Israelites; along with you, they will be allotted an inheritance among the tribes of Israel. 23 In whatever tribe the alien resides, you will assign his inheritance there." This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.

47:1-5 The water flowing from the temple threshold (v. 1) supernaturally increased in depth downstream until it became a river (vv. 2-5). Psalm 46:4 and Revelation 22:1-2 speak of a river in the new Jerusalem.

47:7-12 This river brings life and healing to plants, other bodies of water, and to animals (vv. 7-9). Even fishermen are helped (v. 10). The image of fruit-bearing trees along the banks of this river (v. 12) is an allusion to the garden of Eden (Gn 2:8-10), which has been directly referenced several times in Ezekiel (28:13; 31:8-9,16,18). It will be as though Israel has been restored to this idyllic garden (36:35). Trees represent people in 17:22-24 and 31:2-18 (see notes), and they may represent the godly here (see 34:27; Ps 1:3; Jr 17:8), who are given life by the river and then in turn bless others. Life-giving water is a symbol for the Spirit in Isaiah 32:15 and John 7:38-39. The swamps and marshes may be symbols of judgment (v. 11). Salt is sometimes used in that way (see Gn 19:26; Jdg 9:45; Zph 2:9).

47:13-14 Israel's possession of the land is a key part of God's promises to them (36:28; 37:25; Gn 12:7). The division of the land was discussed in part in 45:1-8, and it is completed here.

47:18 The setting of the eastern boundary as the Jordan River means that, unlike before, the portions of Reuben, Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh would not be on the east side of the Jordan (48:4,6,27; Nm 32; Jos 18:7).

47:21-23 The opportunity for aliens (foreigners) to receive an inheritance of land and to have equal status with the Israelites (see the notes on Ex 12:48-49; Lv 16:29) shows that the eschatological blessings in Ezekiel 40–48 are not restricted to the chosen nation. Many other passages in Ezekiel foretell the nations coming to know God (17:24; 36:23,36; 37:28; 38:16; 39:7,21).

THE TRIBAL ALLOTMENTS

48 "Now these are the names of the tribes:

From the northern end, along the road of Hethlon, to Lebo-hamath as far as Hazar-enon, at the northern border of Damascus, alongside Hamath and extending from the eastern side to the sea, will be Dan — one portion.

2 Next to the territory of Dan, from the east side to the west, will be Asher — one portion.

3 Next to the territory of Asher, from the east side to the west, will be Naphtali — one portion.

4 Next to the territory of Naphtali, from the east side to the west, will be Manasseh — one portion.

5 Next to the territory of Manasseh, from the east side to the west, will be Ephraim — one portion.

6 Next to the territory of Ephraim, from the east side to the west, will be Reuben — one portion.

7 Next to the territory of Reuben, from the east side to the west, will be Judah — one portion.

8 “Next to the territory of Judah, from the east side to the west, will be the portion you donate to the LORD, 8 1/3 miles † wide, and as long as one of the tribal portions from the east side to the west. † The sanctuary will be in the middle of it.
9 “The special portion you donate to the LORD will be 8 1/3 miles long and 3 1/3 miles † wide. 10 This holy donation will be set apart for the priests alone. It will be 8 1/3 miles long on the northern side, 3 1/3 miles wide on the western side, 3 1/3 miles wide on the eastern side, and 8 1/3 miles long on the southern side. The LORD’s sanctuary will be in the middle of it. 11 It is for the consecrated priests, the sons of Zadok, who kept my charge † and did not go astray as the Levites did when the Israelites went astray. 12 It will be a special donation for them out of the holy donation of the land, a most holy place adjacent to the territory of the Levites.
13 “Next to the territory of the priests, the Levites will have an area 8 1/3 miles long and 3 1/3 miles wide. The total length will be 8 1/3 miles and the width 3 1/3 miles. † 14 They must not sell or exchange any of it, and they must not transfer this choice part of the land, for it is holy to the LORD. †
15 “The remaining area, 1 2/3 miles † wide and 8 1/3 miles long, will be for common use by the city, † for both residential and open space. The city will be in the middle of it. 16 These are the city’s measurements:

1 1/2 miles † on the north side;
1 1/2 miles on the south side;

1 1/2 miles on the east side;
and 1 1/2 miles on the west side.

17 The city's open space will extend:

425 feet † to the north,
425 feet to the south, 425 feet to the east,
and 425 feet to the west.

18 "The remainder of the length alongside the holy donation will be 3 1/3 miles to the east and 3 1/3 miles to the west. It will run alongside the holy donation. Its produce will be food for the workers of the city. 19 The city's workers from all the tribes of Israel will cultivate it. † 20 The entire donation will be 8 1/3 miles by 8 1/3 miles; you are to set apart the holy donation along with the city property as a square area.
21 "The remaining area on both sides of the holy donation and the city property will belong to the prince. † He will own the land adjacent to the tribal portions, next to the 8 1/3 miles of the donation as far as the eastern border and † next to the 8 1/3 miles of the donation as far as the western border. The holy donation and the sanctuary of the temple will be in the middle of it. 22 Except for the Levitical property and the city property in the middle of the area belonging to the prince, the area between the territory of Judah and that of Benjamin will belong to the prince. † 23 "As for the rest of the tribes:

From the east side to the west, will be Benjamin — one portion.
24 Next to the territory of Benjamin, from the east side to the west, will be Simeon — one portion.
25 Next to the territory of Simeon, from the east side to the west, will be Issachar — one portion.
26 Next to the territory of Issachar, from the east side to the west, will be Zebulun — one portion.

27 Next to the territory of Zebulun, from the east side to the west, will be Gad — one portion.

28 Next to the territory of Gad toward the south side, the border will run from Tamar to the Waters † of Meribath-kadesh, to the Brook of Egypt, and out to the Mediterranean Sea. 29 This is the land you are to allot as an inheritance to Israel's tribes, † and these will be their portions." This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.

THE NEW CITY

30 "These are the exits of the city:

On the north side, which measures 1 1/2 miles, 31 there will be three gates facing north, the gates of the city being named for the tribes of Israel: one, the gate of Reuben; one, the gate of Judah; and one, the gate of Levi.

32 On the east side, which is 1 1/2 miles, there will be three gates: one, the gate of Joseph; one, the gate of Benjamin; and one, the gate of Dan.

33 On the south side, which measures 1 1/2 miles, there will be three gates: one, the gate of Simeon; one, the gate of Issachar; and one, the gate of Zebulun.

34 On the west side, which is 1 1/2 miles, there will be three gates: one, the gate of Gad; one, the gate of Asher; and one, the gate of Naphtali.

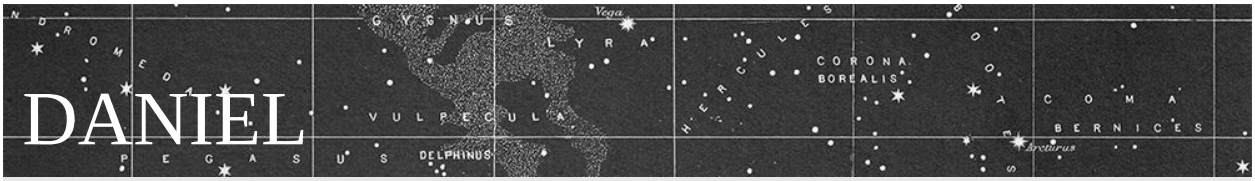
48:8-22 This portion of land had also been discussed briefly in 45:1-8. The faithfulness of the sons of Zadok is cited again (v. 11; 44:15) 48:29 Unlike the division of the land under Joshua, the assignment of tribal allotments here does not involve the casting of lots (see Jos 14:1-2; 15:1; 16:1; 17:1; 18:6-11). Even more significantly, there will be no more enemies remaining in the land (see the note on Jos 13:13).

48:30-34 The twelve gates of the city are named after the twelve tribes, thus representing their unity and participation (see Rv 21:12-14).

48:35 The name of this city, The LORD "Is" There, captures the eternal presence of God with his people, just as he had promised (11:20; 14:11; 34:24; 36:28; 37:23,27). This is the reason for the temple (a dwelling place for God) and the conclusion to the book. In the restored order, God will protect his cleansed and transformed people and be in relationship with them forever.



DANIEL

INTRODUCTION

Daniel, whose name means “God Judges” or “God’s Judge,” was a sixth-century BC prophet living in exile in Babylon. Daniel recounts key events firsthand that occurred during the Jewish captivity and also shares visions that were given to him by God.

CIRCUMSTANCES OF WRITING

AUTHOR: The critical view of the book of Daniel suggests it was written by a second-century BC Jewish author, not the historical Daniel. This view is largely based on a naturalistic perspective that denies the possibility of the authentic foretelling found in Daniel. On the other hand, the traditional view maintains that Daniel the prophet did indeed write this book sometime shortly after the end of the Babylonian captivity (sixth century BC). Internal testimony supports this claim. In the text itself, Daniel claimed to have written down visions given by God (8:2; 9:2,20; 12:5). Passages which contain third-person references to Daniel do not disprove his authorship. After all, authors commonly refer to themselves in the third person. Moreover, God speaks of himself in the third person (Ex 20:2,7). The prophet Ezekiel referred to Daniel several times (Ezk 14:14,20; 28:3), a prominence that would befit the writing prophet. Finally, Jesus Christ attributed the book of Daniel to Daniel himself (Mt 24:15; Mk 13:14).

BACKGROUND: The historical setting of the book of Daniel is the Babylonian captivity. The book opens after King Nebuchadnezzar’s first siege of Judah (605 BC) when he brought Daniel and his friends to Babylon along with other captives among the Judean nobility. Nebuchadnezzar assaulted Judah again in 597 and brought ten thousand captives back to Babylon. In 586 he once again besieged Jerusalem, this time destroying the city, the holy temple, and exiling the people of Judah to Babylon. Daniel’s ministry began in 605 when he arrived at Babylon with the first Jewish captives, extended throughout the Babylonian captivity (which ended in 539), and concluded sometime after the third year of Cyrus the Great, the Medo-Persian king who overthrew Babylonia (see Dn 1:21 and 10:1).

When was the book written? While the critical view maintains a date of 165 BC in the Maccabean period primarily because of the precise prophecies related to that time, the traditional view asserts that it was written just after the end of the Babylonian captivity in the late sixth century BC. The book contains a factual recounting of events from the life of Daniel, supernatural prediction of events that took place during the intertestamental period, and prophecies that are yet to be fulfilled.

Manuscript evidence supports the early date. Fragments from Daniel were found among the Dead Sea Scrolls, a collection that included other books of the Bible that were written well before the second century. Linguistic evidence demonstrates that the use of Aramaic in Daniel fits a fifth-to sixth-century BC date. Historical evidence also supports the early date. For example, Daniel accurately described Belshazzar as coregent with another king (Nabonidus), a fact that was not known elsewhere until modern times. In summary, the late-date view is driven by a presuppositional rejection of supernatural prophecy and not objective evidence.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE BIBLE

Daniel’s book establishes the validity of predictive prophecy and lays the foundation for understanding end-times prophecy, especially the book of Revelation in the NT. But most importantly, it emphasizes that the Lord has dominion over all the kingdoms of the earth, even in evil days when wicked empires reign. Two key words in the book are “king” (used over 150 times) and “kingdom” (used over 50 times). Above all, Daniel teaches that the God of Israel is the Sovereign of the universe, “for his dominion is an everlasting dominion, and his kingdom is from generation to generation” (4:34).

STRUCTURE

The genre of the book of Daniel is narrative, recounting historical events for the purpose of present and future instruction. The narrative contains history, prophecy, and apocalyptic visions. Apocalyptic literature refers to revelation by God given through visions and symbols with a message of eschatological (end-time) triumph. Although Daniel contains apocalyptic elements, it is not an apocalyptic book; rather, it is a narrative that includes apocalyptic visions.

Noting that the book of Daniel contains both history (chaps. 1–6) and prophecy (chaps. 7–12), some divide the book into two sections. A better way to view the book’s structure is based on the two languages it uses: 1:1–2:3 (Hebrew); 2:4–7:28 (Aramaic); and 8:1–12:13 (Hebrew). The Hebrew sections pertain primarily to the people of Israel, which is fitting since Hebrew was Israel’s national language. Aramaic was the international language of that time. Fittingly, the Aramaic section of Daniel demonstrates God’s dominion over the international Gentile nations.

CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW ELEMENTS

TEACHINGS ABOUT GOD

God is both the Revealer of secrets and the Sovereign of the universe. His ultimate purpose is to give dominion to the Son of Man (Dn 7:13-14), fulfilled by Jesus, who deliberately called himself “Son of Man.” Daniel was recognized as having “a spirit of the holy gods” (4:8-9), but this appears to fall short of a clear reference to the Holy Spirit.

TEACHINGS ABOUT HUMANITY

Daniel and his friends modeled living as God’s people in a pagan world. The kings in the book—Nebuchadnezzar, Belshazzar, and Darius—are all seen to be agents of God. Truly evil characters are predicted, yet they too are unwittingly God’s agents. The clearest OT statement about a future bodily resurrection is found in Daniel 12:2-3.

TEACHINGS ABOUT SALVATION

Daniel 9:26 (“After those sixty-two weeks the Anointed One will be cut off and will have nothing”) refers to Christ’s crucifixion on behalf of his people. Some scholars believe that 9:27 predicts Christ’s first coming, when he established the new covenant, resulting in the end of animal sacrifices. (Other scholars believe that the covenant referred to will be made not by Christ but by the antichrist shortly before Jesus’s second coming.) In any event, 9:24 anticipates “everlasting righteousness.”

DANIEL'S CAPTIVITY IN BABYLON

1 In the third year of the reign of King Jehoiakim † of Judah, King Nebuchadnezzar † † of Babylon came to Jerusalem and laid siege to it.
2 The Lord handed King Jehoiakim of Judah over to him, along with some of the vessels from the house of God. † Nebuchadnezzar carried them to the land of Babylon, † † to the house of his god, † and put the vessels in the treasury of his god.

3 The king ordered Ashpenaz, his chief eunuch, † to bring some of the Israelites from the royal family † and from the nobility — 4 young men without any physical defect, good-looking, suitable for instruction in all wisdom, † knowledgeable, perceptive, and capable of serving in the king's palace. † He was to teach them the Chaldean language † and literature. 5 The king assigned them daily provisions from the royal food and from the wine that he drank. †
They were to be trained for three years, and at the end of that time they were to attend the king. † † 6 Among them, from the Judahites, were Daniel, † Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah. 7 The chief eunuch gave them names; he gave the name Belteshazzar to Daniel, Shadrach to Hananiah, Meshach to Mishael, and Abednego to Azariah. †

FAITHFULNESS IN BABYLON

8 Daniel determined that he would not defile himself with the king's food † or with the wine he drank. So he asked permission from the chief eunuch not to defile himself. † 9 God had granted Daniel kindness and compassion from the chief eunuch, † 10 yet he said to Daniel, "I fear my lord the king, who assigned your food and drink. What if he sees your faces looking thinner than the other young men your age? You would endanger my life † with the king."
11 So Daniel said to the guard whom the chief eunuch had assigned to Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, 12 "Please test your servants for ten days. Let us be given vegetables to eat and water to drink. 13 Then examine our appearance and the appearance of the young men who are eating the king's food, and deal with your servants based on what you see." 14 He agreed with them about this and tested them for ten days. 15 At the end of ten days they looked better and healthier † than all the young men who were eating the king's food. † 16 So the guard continued to remove their food and the wine they were to drink and gave them vegetables.

FAITHFULNESS REWARDED

17 God gave these four young men knowledge and understanding † in every kind of literature and wisdom. Daniel also understood visions and dreams † of every kind. [18] At the end of the time that the king had said to present them, the chief eunuch presented them to Nebuchadnezzar. [19] The king interviewed them, and among all of them, no one was found equal to Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah. † So they began to attend the king. [20] In every matter of wisdom and understanding that the king consulted them about, he found them ten times † † better than all the magicians and mediums † in his entire kingdom. [21] Daniel remained there until the first year of King Cyrus. †

1:1-2 Nebuchadnezzar's capture of Jehoiakim along with some temple vessels was part of God's plan (v. 2; see 2Kg 24:1-2). The temple vessels, made of valuable metals, would have been part of the spoils of war. The transfer of these vessels to the house of his god and the treasury of his god was also an attempt to demonstrate the inferiority of Israel's God to Babylon and its gods (see the note on 5:1-4).

1:7 The Babylonians changed the names of the four young men as a way of exercising authority over them. Daniel means "God is my Judge." Hananiah means "Yah[weh] is gracious." Mishael means "Who is like God?" Azariah means "Yah[weh] is my help." The chief official changed their names to Belteshazzar, which means "Bel, protect his life," Shadrach, which means, "command of Aku," Meshach, which means, "Who is like Aku?" and Abednego, which means "Servant of Nego." The changing of these names from being reminders of God to references to Babylonian gods is yet another attempt to conform these Israelites to pagan culture (see vv. 4-5; 4:8).

1:8 Daniel had little control over being taken into exile, being trained for the king's service, and having his name changed (vv. 3-7), but he would not allow himself to be defiled by the king's food (see v. 5). The word defile suggests that he viewed consuming the food as a violation of his faith and commitment to God. It may have been offered to idols or unclean according to the standards of the Mosaic law (see Lv 11; 17:10-16); perhaps it was simply symbolic of assimilating to the Babylonian culture and losing his identity as a member of God's special people.

1:12-16 Daniel creatively and wisely proposed a plan that both respected the chief official's concerns and avoided defilement (see vv. 8-10; 2:14-16; 10:3). Revelation 2:10 likewise mentions testing for ten days, a short period.

1:17 The number four appears significantly several times in the book of Daniel, sometimes with reference to the godly (3:25), as it does here. Other times it is used with reference to the kingdoms of this world (2:36-40; 7:4-7), all of which will be overtaken by the kingdom of God.

NEBUCHADNEZZAR'S DREAM

2 In the second year of his reign, Nebuchadnezzar had dreams † that troubled him, and sleep deserted him. † 2 So the king gave orders to summon the magicians, mediums, sorcerers, and Chaldeans † † to tell the king his dreams. When they came and stood before the king, 3 he said to them, “I have had a dream and am anxious to understand it.”

4 The Chaldeans spoke to the king (Aramaic † † begins here): “May the king live forever. † Tell your servants the dream, and we will give the interpretation.”

5 The king replied to the Chaldeans, “My word is final: If you don’t tell me the dream and its interpretation, you will be torn limb from limb, † and your houses will be made a garbage dump. † 6 But if you make the dream and its interpretation known to me, you’ll receive gifts, a reward, and great honor from me. † So make the dream and its interpretation known to me.”

7 They answered a second time, “May the king tell the dream to his servants, and we will make known the interpretation.”

8 The king replied, “I know for certain you are trying to gain some time, because you see that my word is final. 9 If you don’t tell me the dream, there is one decree for you. † You have conspired to tell me something false or fraudulent until the situation changes. So tell me the dream and I will know you can give me its interpretation.”

10 The Chaldeans answered the king, “No one on earth can make known what the king requests. † Consequently, no king, however great and powerful, has ever asked anything like this of any magician, medium, or Chaldean. 11 What the king is asking is so difficult that no one can make it known to him except the gods, whose dwelling is not with mortals.” † 12 Because of this, the king became violently angry † and gave orders to destroy all the wise men of Babylon. 13 The decree was issued that the wise men were to be executed, and they searched for Daniel and his friends, to execute them.

14 Then Daniel responded with tact and discretion to Arioch, the captain of the king’s guard, † † who had gone out to execute the wise men of Babylon. 15 He asked Arioch, the king’s officer, “Why is the decree from the king so harsh?” † † Then Arioch explained the situation to Daniel. 16 So Daniel went and asked the king to give him some time, so that he could give the king the interpretation.

17 Then Daniel went to his house and told his friends Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah about the matter, 18 urging them to ask the God of the heavens † for mercy † concerning this mystery, so Daniel and his friends would not be destroyed with the rest of Babylon's wise men. † 19 The mystery was then revealed to Daniel in a vision † at night, and Daniel praised the God of the heavens 20 and declared:

May the name of God be praised forever and ever, † for wisdom † and power belong to him.
21 He changes the times and seasons; he removes kings and establishes kings. †
He gives wisdom to the wise and knowledge to those who have understanding. † 22 He reveals the deep and hidden things; he knows what is in the darkness, † and light dwells with him. † 23 I offer thanks and praise to you, God of my fathers, † because you have given me wisdom and power.
And now you have let me know what we asked of you, for you have let us know †
the king's mystery. †

24 Therefore Daniel went to Arioch, † whom the king had assigned to destroy the wise men of Babylon. He came and said to him, "Don't destroy the wise men of Babylon! Bring me before the king, and I will give him the interpretation." †
25 Then Arioch quickly brought Daniel before the king and said to him, "I have found a man among the Judean exiles † who can let the king know the interpretation."

26 The king said in reply to Daniel, whose name was Belteshazzar, † “Are you able to tell me the dream I had and its interpretation?” † 27 Daniel answered the king: “No wise man, medium, magician, or diviner † is able to make known to the king the mystery he asked about. 28 But there is a God in heaven who reveals mysteries, and he has let King Nebuchadnezzar know what will happen in the last days. † Your dream and the visions that came into your mind as you lay in bed † were these: 29 Your Majesty, while you were in your bed, thoughts came to your mind about what will happen in the future. † † The revealer of mysteries † has let you know what will happen.
30 As for me, this mystery has been revealed to me, † not because I have more wisdom than anyone living, but in order that the interpretation might be made known to the king, and that you may understand the thoughts of your mind. †

THE DREAM’S INTERPRETATION

31 “Your Majesty, as you were watching, suddenly a colossal statue appeared.
That statue, tall and dazzling, was standing in front of you, and its appearance was terrifying. 32 The head of the statue was pure gold, its chest and arms were silver, its stomach and thighs were bronze, 33 its legs were iron, and its feet were partly iron and partly fired clay. 34 As you were watching, a stone broke off without a hand touching it, † † struck the statue † on its feet of iron and fired clay, and crushed them. † 35 Then the iron, the fired clay, the bronze, the silver, and the gold were shattered and became like chaff † from the summer threshing floors. The wind carried them away, and not a trace of them could be found. But the stone that struck the statue became a great mountain and filled † the whole earth.
36 “This was the dream; now we will tell the king its interpretation. 37 Your Majesty, you are king of kings. † The God of the heavens has given you sovereignty, power, † strength, and glory. 38 Wherever people live — or wild animals, or birds of the sky — he has handed them over to you and made you ruler over them all. † You are the head of gold.
39 “After you, there will arise another kingdom, inferior to yours, and then another, a third kingdom, of bronze, which will rule the whole earth. † 40 A fourth kingdom will be as strong as iron; for iron crushes and shatters everything, and like iron that smashes, it will crush and smash all the others. † † 41 You saw the feet and toes, partly of a potter's fired clay and partly of iron — it will be a divided kingdom, though some of the strength of iron will be in it. You saw the iron mixed with clay, 42 and that the toes of the feet were partly iron and partly fired clay — part of the kingdom will be strong, and part will be brittle. 43 You saw the iron mixed with clay — the peoples will mix with one another † but will not hold together, just as iron does not mix with fired clay.

44 "In the days of those kings, the God of the heavens will set up a kingdom that will never be destroyed, † and this kingdom will not be left to another people. It will crush all these kingdoms † and bring them to an end, but will itself endure forever. 45 You saw a stone † break off from the mountain without a hand touching it, † † and it crushed the iron, bronze, fired clay, silver, and gold. The great God has told the king what will happen in the future. † The dream is certain, and its interpretation reliable."

NEBUCHADNEZZAR'S RESPONSE

46 Then King Nebuchadnezzar fell facedown, worshiped Daniel, and gave orders to present an offering and incense to him. † 47 The king said to Daniel, "Your God is indeed God of gods, Lord of kings, † and a revealer of mysteries, † since you were able to reveal this mystery." 48 Then the king promoted Daniel and gave him many generous gifts. He made him ruler over the entire province of Babylon and chief governor over all the wise men of Babylon. † 49 At Daniel's request, the king appointed Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego † to manage the province of Babylon. But Daniel remained at the king's court. †

2:1 Nebuchadnezzar's dreams were significant because he was a king, and in the ancient world this is one of the ways that the gods were thought to communicate with humans.

2:4 Daniel 2:4–7:28 is written in Aramaic, whereas the rest of the book is in Hebrew. The book of Ezra is the other OT book that has Aramaic sections (Ezr 4:7–6:18; 7:12-26).

2:8-9 The king demanded he be told the interpretation of his dream without first sharing what the dream was. Perhaps he did not trust his wise men and would only be certain that their interpretation was genuine if they could first declare details of his dream.

2:10-11 Having had their request to know the dream rejected twice (vv. 4,7), the Chaldeans object that the king's demand is impossible for men—unless somehow they were to receive supernatural aid. This revealed their inability and set the stage for God to reveal his power through Daniel (see 3:15).

2:14-16 Daniel and his friends were to be executed because they were included among the wise men (vv. 12-13; 1:19-20). Once again, Daniel acted creatively and wisely while under pressure by asking for time (see 1:12-16).

2:17-23 Having more time was not going to prevent Daniel and his friends from being executed. They needed God himself to reveal the dream and its interpretation, and he answered their prayer concerning this mystery (vv. 18-19,23). Before the dream is even explained to the reader, Daniel praises God for his wisdom in revealing secrets and his power over kings and kingdoms (vv. 20-22). He had imparted these same two things to Daniel (v. 23).

2:27-30 Daniel was careful to explain that his knowledge of the dream was not due to his own superior wisdom but because the God in heaven had revealed it to him (see vv. 10-11; 1:17). This was no ordinary dream but a revelation of what will happen in the last days (v. 28; see the note on Gn 49:1).

2:31-35 Nebuchadnezzar's dream involved a composite statue, with four distinct parts: gold, silver, bronze and iron/clay (vv. 31-33). This statue was struck and crushed to bits by a stone, which became a great mountain (vv. 34-35). The imagery of wind blowing away the wicked as chaff (v. 35) echoes Psalm 1:4.

2:37-45 Daniel explained that the four parts of the statue correspond to four kingdoms while the gold head symbolizes Nebuchadnezzar himself, king of Babylon (v. 38). With the help of other passages (5:28,30; 7:5-6; 8:3-8,20-21), it can be deduced that the second kingdom symbolized by silver chest and arms is Medo-Persia. The third, symbolized by iron legs, is Greece (v. 39). The fourth kingdom (with feet made of mixed iron and clay) is stronger than the others (v. 40) but is also divided and has inherent weaknesses (vv. 41-43). The stone is supernaturally cut out, strikes the feet of the statue, and crushes all kingdoms. It will become a mountain and an eternal kingdom. This is a prophecy of the Messiah and his kingdom (vv. 44-45; see vv. 34-35; Ps 118:22; Is 2:2; 28:16). See also "How Should Christians Relate to Government?" p. 1213.

2:47 As a result of this incident, the same Babylonian king who had taken the temple vessels from Jerusalem into the house of his own god (1:2) gave glory to the one true God. Nevertheless, this confession did not yet result in lasting change, as Daniel 3–4 show.

NEBUCHADNEZZAR'S GOLD STATUE

3 King Nebuchadnezzar made a gold statue, † ninety feet high and nine feet wide. † He set it up on the plain of Dura in the province of Babylon. † 2 King Nebuchadnezzar sent word to assemble the satraps, prefects, governors, advisers, treasurers, judges, magistrates, and all the rulers † of the provinces to attend the dedication of the statue King Nebuchadnezzar had set up. 3 So the satraps, prefects, governors, advisers, treasurers, judges, magistrates, and all the rulers of the provinces assembled for the dedication of the statue the king had set up. Then they stood before the statue Nebuchadnezzar had set up.
4 A herald loudly proclaimed, "People of every nation and language, you are commanded: 5 When you hear the sound of the horn, flute, zither, † lyre, † harp, drum, † and every kind of music, † you are to fall facedown and worship † the gold statue that King Nebuchadnezzar has set up. 6 But whoever does not fall down and worship will immediately be thrown into a furnace of blazing fire." †
7 Therefore, when all the people heard the sound of the horn, flute, zither, lyre, harp, and every kind of music, people of every nation and language fell down and worshiped the gold statue that King Nebuchadnezzar had set up.

THE FURNACE OF BLAZING FIRE

8 Some Chaldeans † took this occasion to come forward and maliciously accuse † † the Jews. 9 They said to King Nebuchadnezzar, "May the king live forever. 10 You as king have issued a decree † that everyone who hears the sound of the horn, flute, zither, lyre, harp, drum, and every kind of music must fall down and worship the gold statue. 11 Whoever does not fall down and worship will be thrown into a furnace of blazing fire. 12 There are some Jews you have appointed to manage the province of Babylon: Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego. † These men have ignored you, † the king; they do not serve your gods or worship the gold statue you have set up."

13 Then in a furious rage † Nebuchadnezzar gave orders to bring in Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego. So these men were brought before the king.
14 Nebuchadnezzar asked them, “Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, is it true that you don’t serve my gods or worship the gold statue † I have set up? 15 Now if you’re ready, when you hear the sound of the horn, flute, zither, lyre, harp, drum, and every kind of music, fall down and worship the statue I made. But if you don’t worship it, you will immediately be thrown into a furnace of blazing fire — and who is the god who can rescue you from my power? ” †
16 Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego replied to the king, “Nebuchadnezzar, we don’t need to give you an answer to this question. 17 If the God we serve exists, † then he can rescue † us from the furnace of blazing fire, and he can † rescue us from the power of you, the king. 18 But even if he does not rescue us, † we want you as king to know that we will not serve † your gods † or worship the gold statue you set up.”
19 Then Nebuchadnezzar was filled with rage, † and the expression on his face changed toward Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego. He gave orders to heat the furnace seven times more than was customary, 20 and he commanded some of the best soldiers in his army to tie up Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego and throw them into the furnace of blazing fire. 21 So these men, in their trousers, robes, head coverings, † and other clothes, were tied up and thrown into the furnace of blazing fire. 22 Since the king’s command was so urgent † † and the furnace extremely hot, the raging flames † killed those men who carried Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego up. 23 And these three men, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego fell, bound, into the furnace of blazing fire.

DELIVERED FROM THE FIRE

24 Then King Nebuchadnezzar jumped up in alarm. † He said to his advisers, “Didn’t we throw three men, bound, into the fire? ”
“Yes, of course, Your Majesty,” they replied to the king.
25 He exclaimed, “Look! I see four men, not tied, walking around in the fire unharmed; † and the fourth looks like a son of the gods.” † †
26 Nebuchadnezzar then approached the door of the furnace of blazing fire and called: “Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, you servants of the Most High God — come out!” So Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego came out of the fire. † 27 When the satraps, prefects, governors, and the king’s advisers gathered around, they saw that the fire had no effect † on † the bodies of these men: not a hair of their heads was singed, their robes were unaffected, and there was no smell of fire on them. † 28 Nebuchadnezzar exclaimed, “Praise to the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego! He sent his angel † † and rescued his servants who trusted in him. † They violated the king’s command and risked their lives rather than serve or worship any god except their own God. † 29 Therefore I issue a decree † that anyone of any people, nation, or language † who says anything offensive against the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego will be torn limb from limb and his house made a garbage dump. †

For there is no other god who is able to deliver like this.” 30 Then the king rewarded Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego in the province of Babylon. †

3:1 Perhaps with the meaning of his dream that he was “the head of gold” (2:38) in mind, Nebuchadnezzar made a gold statue for his subjects to worship.

3:4-6 Idolatry was required of people of every nation and language. It would be facilitated by music and came with a threat: non-compliance would result in being thrown into a furnace of blazing fire. Perhaps the furnace had been used in constructing the king’s golden image.

3:13-15 Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego boldly refused to worship the golden statue since doing so would violate their commitment to worship God alone (v. 12,17). They were subsequently called into Nebuchadnezzar’s presence. His insistence that they obey him includes what is intended as a rhetorical question: who is the god who can rescue you from my power? This is again a perfect setup for the glory of God to be revealed (see 2:10-11).

3:16-18 Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego replied that their God indeed can rescue them from the fire and from the king (v. 17). God certainly has that kind of power, but even if he chose not to exercise it in this instance, they declared that they would remain faithful to him.

3:19-21 Nebuchadnezzar was again enraged (see v. 13; 2:12) and commanded that the furnace be heated even more. Unlike in Daniel 1–2, the godly could not avoid serious persecution.

3:23-24 The repetition of the number three sets up the surprise of verse 25 (see note).

3:25 Nebuchadnezzar's arrogant assertion that no god could deliver from his hand (v. 15) had been proven wrong. Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego were unharmed and even accompanied by a fourth man, who resembled a son of the gods, an expression used for a supernatural being (see 2:11). As was the case for the fourth kingdom in the king's dream (2:40-43), the fourth man is unique and receives special attention.

3:27 With God's help, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego had overcome the fire (see 7:9-11).

3:28-29 As in 2:47, Nebuchadnezzar gave glory to God, but this time the king went even further by forbidding anyone from speaking against him (v. 29). Whereas Nebuchadnezzar acknowledged God's wisdom through the interpretation of the dream, this time he recognized his saving power.

3:30 Again severe trial of the godly resulted in greater blessing (see 1:17-21; 2:48-49).

NEBUCHADNEZZAR'S PROCLAMATION

4 King Nebuchadnezzar, To those of every people, nation, and language, who live on the whole earth: †
May your prosperity increase. † 2 I am pleased to tell you about the miracles and wonders † the Most High God has done for me.

3 How great are his miracles, and how mighty his wonders! † His kingdom is an eternal kingdom, † and his dominion is from generation to generation. †

THE DREAM

4 I, Nebuchadnezzar, was at ease in my house and flourishing in my palace. † 5 I had a dream, and it frightened me; while in my bed, the images and visions in my mind alarmed me. † 6 So I issued a decree † to bring all the wise men of Babylon to me in order that they might make the dream's interpretation known to me. † 7 When the magicians, mediums, Chaldeans, and diviners came in, I told them the dream, but they could not make its interpretation known to me. † 8 Finally Daniel, named Belteshazzar † after the name of my god — and a spirit of the holy gods is in him † — came before me. I told him the dream:
9 "Belteshazzar, head of the magicians, because I know that you have the spirit of the holy gods † and that no mystery puzzles you, † explain to me the visions of my dream that I saw, and its interpretation. 10 In the visions of my mind as I was lying in bed, I saw this:

There was a tree in the middle of the earth, and it was very tall.
11 The tree grew large and strong; its top reached to the sky, † and it was visible to the ends of the † earth.
12 Its leaves were beautiful, its fruit was abundant, and on it was food for all. † Wild animals found shelter under it, the birds of the sky † lived in its branches, and every creature was fed from it. †

13 "As I was lying in my bed, I also saw in the visions of my mind a watcher, a holy one, † † coming down from heaven. † 14 He called out loudly:

Cut down the tree and chop off its branches; strip off its leaves and scatter its fruit.
Let the animals flee from under it, and the birds from its branches. † 15 But leave the stump with its roots in the ground † and with a band of iron and bronze around it in the tender grass of the field.
Let him be drenched with dew from the sky and share the plants of the earth † with the animals.
16 Let his mind be changed from that of a human, and let him be given the mind of an animal for seven periods of time. † † †
17 This word is by decree of the watchers, and the decision is by command from the holy ones.
This is so that the living will know that the Most High is ruler over human kingdoms.
He gives them to anyone he wants and sets the lowliest of people over them. †

18 This is the dream that I, King Nebuchadnezzar, had. Now, Belteshazzar, tell me the interpretation, because none of the wise men of my kingdom can make the interpretation known to me. † But you can, because you have a spirit of the holy gods."

THE DREAM INTERPRETED

19 Then Daniel, whose name is Belteshazzar, was stunned for a moment, and his thoughts alarmed him. The king said, "Belteshazzar, don't let the dream or its interpretation alarm you."
Belteshazzar answered, "My lord, may the dream apply to those who hate you, and its interpretation to your enemies! † 20 The tree you saw, which grew large and strong, whose top reached to the sky and was visible to the whole earth, 21 and whose leaves were beautiful and its fruit abundant — and on it was food for all, under it the wild animals lived, and in its branches the birds of the sky lived — 22 that tree is you, Your Majesty. For you have become great and strong: your greatness has grown and even reaches the sky, and your dominion extends to the ends of the earth. †
23 "The king saw a watcher, a holy one, coming down from heaven and saying, 'Cut down the tree and destroy it, but leave the stump with its roots in the ground and with a band of iron and bronze around it in the tender grass of the field. Let him be drenched with dew from the sky and share food with the wild animals for seven periods of time.' 24 This is the interpretation, Your Majesty, and this is the decree of the Most High that has been issued against my lord the king: † 25 You will be driven away from people to live with the wild animals. You will feed on grass like cattle † and be drenched with dew from the sky for seven periods of time, until you acknowledge that the Most High is ruler over human kingdoms, and he gives them to anyone he wants. † 26 As for the command to leave the tree's stump with its roots, your kingdom will be restored † to you as soon as you acknowledge that Heaven † rules. †
27 Therefore, may my advice seem good to you my king. Separate yourself from your sins by doing what is right, † and from your injustices by showing mercy to the needy. † Perhaps there will be an extension of your prosperity." †

THE SENTENCE EXECUTED

28 All this happened to King Nebuchadnezzar. † 29 At the end of twelve months, as he was walking on the roof of the royal palace in Babylon, 30 the king exclaimed, “Is this not Babylon the Great that I have built to be a royal residence by my vast power and for my majestic glory? ” †

31 While the words were still in the king’s mouth, a voice came from heaven: “King Nebuchadnezzar, to you it is declared that the kingdom has departed from you. † 32 You will be driven away from people to live with the wild animals, and you will feed on grass like cattle for seven periods of time, until you acknowledge that the Most High is ruler over human kingdoms, and he gives them to anyone he wants.”
33 At that moment the message against Nebuchadnezzar was fulfilled. He was driven away from people. He ate grass like cattle, and his body was drenched with dew from the sky, until his hair grew like eagles’ feathers and his nails like birds’ claws. †

NEBUCHADNEZZAR’S PRAISE

34 But at the end of those days, I, Nebuchadnezzar, looked up to heaven, and my sanity returned to me. Then I praised the Most High and honored and glorified him who lives forever: †

For his dominion is an everlasting dominion, and his kingdom is from generation to generation. †
35 All the inhabitants of the earth are counted as nothing, † and he does what he wants † with the army of heaven and the inhabitants of the earth.
There is no one who can block his hand or say to him, “What have you done? ” †

36 At that time my sanity returned to me, and my majesty and splendor returned to me for the glory of my kingdom. My advisers and my nobles sought me out, I was reestablished over my kingdom, and even more greatness came to me. †
37 Now I, Nebuchadnezzar, praise, exalt, and glorify the King of the heavens, because all his works are true and his ways are just. † He is able to humble † those who walk in pride. †

4:1-2 Nebuchadnezzar's declaration to every people, nation, and language of the miracles and wonders the Most High God has done for him sharply contrasts with the command to worship the golden image in 3:4-6.

4:3 Nebuchadnezzar's confession that the Lord's kingdom is an eternal kingdom implicitly recognizes that his own kingdom is not. This was a key theme in his earlier dream (2:39,44).

4:4-9 Nebuchadnezzar had another troubling dream, and again Daniel was the only one able to interpret it (2:1-11,24-30). This time around, the king was already aware of Daniel's reputation as one who has the spirit of the holy gods (vv. 9,18; 1:17).

4:10-12 The representation of a powerful king and kingdom as a mighty tree that provides shelter for various animals is also found in Ezekiel 31.

4:14-15 The chopping down of the tree is clearly an act of judgment, but the sparing of the stump provides a glimmer of hope.

4:16 The command to change the king's mind to that of an animal blurs the distinction between man and beast (see 7:3-8). As in 3:19, the use of the number seven appears to carry some symbolic meaning (see vv. 23,25,32; 9:24-27). Seven periods may refer to seven years, but that detail is left unspecified.

4:17 The humiliation of this mighty tree would demonstrate the supremacy of God over human kings and their kingdoms (see 2:21). Nebuchadnezzar had not yet explicitly acknowledged this important truth (see 2:47; 3:28-29).

4:20-27 Daniel explained that the dream concerned the greatness, humiliation, and restoration of Nebuchadnezzar. His kingdom would be given back after he acknowledged the rule of the Most High (vv. 25-26; see previous note). Daniel appealed to Nebuchadnezzar to repent of his sins (v. 27), which presumably would prevent the threatened judgment.

4:29-33 The dream came to fulfillment twelve months later. Nebuchadnezzar's boast showed that he had not taken his dream or Daniel's exhortation to heart (vv. 29-30). Immediately, he lost his kingdom and lived like an animal (vv. 31-33), as foretold (vv. 16,25).

4:34-35 Through this humiliation, Nebuchadnezzar came to know that only God has an everlasting dominion and that the inhabitants of the earth, even earthly kings, are nothing compared to him (see Is 40:15,17).

4:36-37 Nebuchadnezzar's genuine acknowledgement of God's rule over the kingdoms of men resulted in the restoration of his kingdom and, more importantly, a changed heart that humbly honored the King of the heavens. God's power to humble the proud is power indeed.

BELSHAZZAR'S FEAST

5 King Belshazzar † held a great feast for a thousand of his nobles and drank wine in their presence. 2 Under the influence of † the wine, Belshazzar gave orders to bring in the gold and silver vessels † that his predecessor † Nebuchadnezzar had taken from the temple in Jerusalem, so that the king and his nobles, wives, and concubines could drink from them. 3 So they brought in the gold † vessels that had been taken from the temple, the house of God in Jerusalem, † and the king and his nobles, wives, and concubines drank from them. 4 They drank the wine and praised their gods made of gold and silver, bronze, iron, wood, and stone. †

THE HANDWRITING ON THE WALL

5 At that moment the fingers of a man's hand appeared and began writing on the plaster of the king's palace wall next to the lampstand. As the king watched the hand † that was writing, 6 his face turned pale, † and his thoughts so terrified him that he soiled himself † and his knees knocked together. 7 The king shouted to bring in the mediums, Chaldeans, and diviners. He said to these wise men of Babylon, "Whoever reads this inscription and gives me its interpretation will be clothed in purple, have a gold chain around his neck, † and have the third highest position in the kingdom." 8 So all the king's wise men came in, but none could read the inscription or make its interpretation known to him. 9 Then King Belshazzar became even more terrified, his face turned pale, † and his nobles were bewildered. †

10 Because of the outcry of the king and his nobles, the queen † came to the banquet hall. "May the king live forever," she said. "Don't let your thoughts terrify you or your face be pale. † † 11 There is a man in your kingdom who has a spirit of the holy gods in him. † In the days of your predecessor he was found to have insight, intelligence, and wisdom like the wisdom of the gods. Your predecessor, King Nebuchadnezzar, appointed him chief of the magicians, mediums, Chaldeans, and diviners. Your own predecessor, the king, 12 did this because Daniel, the one the king named Belteshazzar, was found to have an extraordinary spirit, knowledge and intelligence, and the ability to interpret dreams, explain riddles, and solve problems. † Therefore, summon Daniel, and he will give the interpretation."

DANIEL BEFORE THE KING

13 Then Daniel was brought before the king. The king said to him, "Are you Daniel, one of the Judean exiles that my predecessor the king brought from Judah? † 14 I've heard that you have a spirit of the gods in you, and that insight, intelligence, and extraordinary wisdom are found in you. 15 Now the wise men and mediums were brought before me to read this inscription and make its interpretation known to me, but they could not give its interpretation. 16 However, I have heard about you that you can give interpretations and solve problems. Therefore, if you can read this inscription and give me its interpretation, you will be clothed in purple, have a gold chain around your neck, and have the third highest position in the kingdom." †

17 Then Daniel answered the king, "You may keep your gifts and give your rewards to someone else; † however, I will read the inscription for the king and make the interpretation known to him. 18 Your Majesty, the Most High God gave sovereignty, † greatness, glory, and majesty to your predecessor Nebuchadnezzar. † 19 Because of the greatness he gave him, all peoples, nations, and languages † were terrified and fearful of him. He killed anyone he wanted and kept alive anyone he wanted; he exalted anyone he wanted and humbled anyone he wanted. 20 But when his heart was exalted and his spirit became arrogant, † he was deposed from his royal throne and his glory was taken from him. † 21 He was driven away from people, † his mind was like an animal's, he lived with the wild donkeys, † he was fed grass like cattle, and his body was drenched with dew from the sky until he acknowledged that the Most High God is ruler over human kingdoms and sets anyone he wants over them. †

22 "But you his successor, Belshazzar, have not humbled your heart, † even though you knew all this. 23 Instead, you have exalted yourself against the Lord of the heavens. The vessels from his house were brought to you, and as you and your nobles, wives, and concubines drank wine from them, † you praised the gods made of silver and gold, bronze, iron, wood, and stone, which do not see or hear or understand. † But you have not glorified the God who holds your life-breath in his hand and who controls the whole course of your life. † † 24 Therefore, he sent the hand, and this writing was inscribed.

THE INSCRIPTION'S INTERPRETATION

25 "This is the writing that was inscribed: MENE, MENE, TEKEL, and PARSIN.
26 This is the interpretation of the message:

'Mene' † means that God has numbered † the days of your kingdom and brought it to an end. † 27 'Tekel' † means that you have been weighed † on the balance and found deficient.
28 'Peres' † † means that your kingdom has been divided and given to the Medes and Persians." †

29 Then Belshazzar gave an order, and they clothed Daniel in purple, placed a gold chain around his neck, † and issued a proclamation concerning him that he should be the third ruler in the kingdom.
30 That very night Belshazzar the king of the Chaldeans was killed, 31 and Darius the Mede † received the kingdom at the age of sixty-two.

5:1-4 Belshazzar would be the last Babylonian king (see v. 30), and he may have been Nebuchadnezzar's grandson. The taking of the temple vessels by Nebuchadnezzar (v. 2) is one of the first things narrated in the book of Daniel (see the note on 1:1-2); the reference to it here is significant. It was unnecessary for Belshazzar to use the temple items from Jerusalem, and his doing so while praising his own gods is an intentional insult to the God of Israel (vv. 2-4).

5:5-12 The frightening sight of a disembodied hand writing on the wall demonstrated again the uselessness of Babylonian wise men and provided an opportunity for Daniel to glorify God (see 2:10-16; 4:6-9).

5:17 Daniel was not motivated by the promise of reward from Belshazzar.

5:22-24 Before interpreting the writing on the wall, Daniel first recounted to Belshazzar God's humbling of Nebuchadnezzar (vv. 18-21), which Belshazzar already knew about. Nevertheless, he had not humbled [his] heart before God and spitefully used the temple vessels (vv. 22-23; see 4:37). The message written on the wall was God's response to Belshazzar's arrogant act.

5:25-28 The writing consisted of three common Aramaic words for Babylonian weights. Archaeologists have found ancient weights labeled with these words. A mene (or Mina) was sixty times the value of a tekel (or shekel). A peres was either half of a mina or shekel. Daniel interprets the words as verbs, rather than nouns; they express a message of imminent doom. The words were symbols of God numbering and weighing Belshazzar and finding him inadequate. Therefore, the days of his rule were coming to an end (v. 26). The kingdom of Babylon would be given to the Medes and Persians (v. 28).

5:30 The fulfillment of this message of judgment was swift, as Belshazzar was killed that very night. The fall of the kingdom of Babylon also fulfilled 2:39.

THE PLOT AGAINST DANIEL

6 Darius decided † to appoint 120 satraps over the kingdom, stationed throughout the realm, 2 and over them three administrators, including Daniel. † These satraps would be accountable to them so that the king would not be defrauded. † 3 Daniel † distinguished himself above the administrators and satraps because he had an extraordinary spirit, † so the king planned to set him over the whole realm. † 4 The administrators and satraps, therefore, kept trying to find a charge against Daniel † regarding the kingdom. But they could find no charge or corruption, † for he was trustworthy, and no negligence or corruption was found in him. 5 Then these men said, "We will never find any charge against this Daniel unless we find something against him concerning the law of his God." †

6 So the administrators and satraps went together to the king and said to him, "May King Darius live forever. † 7 All the administrators of the kingdom, † the prefects, satraps, advisers, and governors have agreed that the king should establish an ordinance and enforce an edict that for thirty days, anyone who petitions any god or man except you, the king, will be thrown into the lions' den. † 8 Therefore, Your Majesty, establish the edict † and sign the document so that, as a law of the Medes and Persians, it is irrevocable and cannot be changed.” † 9 So King Darius signed the written edict. †

DANIEL IN THE LIONS’ DEN

10 When Daniel learned that the document had been signed, he went into his house. The windows in its upstairs room opened toward Jerusalem, † and three times a day he got down on his knees, prayed, and gave thanks to his God, † just as he had done before. 11 Then these men went as a group and found † Daniel petitioning and imploring his God. 12 So they approached the king † and asked about his edict: “Didn’t you sign an edict that for thirty days any person who petitions any god or man except you, the king, will be thrown into the lions’ den? ”

The king answered, “As a law of the Medes and Persians, the order stands † and is irrevocable.” †

13 Then they replied to the king, “Daniel, one of the Judean exiles, has ignored you, † the king, and the edict you signed, for he prays three times a day.” 14 As soon as the king heard this, he was very displeased; he set his mind on rescuing Daniel † and made every effort until sundown to deliver him.

15 Then these men went together to the king and said to him, “You know, Your Majesty, that it is a law of the Medes and Persians that no edict or ordinance the king establishes can be changed.” †

16 So the king gave the order, and they brought Daniel and threw him into the lions’ den. † The king said to Daniel, “May your God, whom you continually serve, † rescue you! ” 17 A stone was brought and placed over the mouth of the den. † The king sealed it with his own signet ring and with the signet rings of his nobles, so that nothing in regard to Daniel could be changed. 18 Then the king went to his palace and spent the night fasting. † No diversions † were brought to him, and he could not sleep. †

DANIEL RELEASED

19 At the first light of dawn the king got up and hurried to the lions’ den. 20 When he reached the den, he cried out in anguish to Daniel. “Daniel, servant of the living God," the king said, † "has your God, whom you continually serve, been able to rescue you † from the lions?"

21 Then Daniel spoke with the king: "May the king live forever. 22 My God sent his angel † and shut the lions' mouths; and they haven't harmed me, for I was found innocent before him. And also before you, Your Majesty, I have not done harm."
23 The king was overjoyed and gave orders to take Daniel out of the den. When Daniel was brought up from the den, he was found to be unharmed, for he trusted in his God. † 24 The king then gave the command, and those men who had maliciously accused Daniel † † were brought and thrown into the lions' den — they, their children, and their wives. † They had not reached the bottom of the den before the lions overpowered them and crushed all their bones.

DARIUS HONORS GOD

25 Then King Darius wrote to those of every people, nation, and language who live on the whole earth: "May your prosperity abound. † 26 I issue a decree † that in all my royal dominion, people must tremble in fear before the God of Daniel: †

For he is the living God, and he endures forever;
his kingdom will never be destroyed, † and his dominion has no end.
27 He rescues and delivers; he performs signs and wonders in the heavens and on the earth, † for he has rescued Daniel from the power of the lions."

28 So Daniel prospered † during the reign of Darius and † the reign of Cyrus the Persian. †

6:1-3 Despite the regime change, Daniel continued in a prominent position (see 1:21; 2:48; 4:9). He had outlasted the Babylonian kings.

6:6-9 Unable to find anything against Daniel (vv. 4-5), the administrators of the kingdom pressured King Darius into enacting a law that forbade prayer to anyone besides him (see vv. 14,18-23). Apparently, the king did not realize that this would implicate Daniel, one of his most trusted advisors (v. 3). The trap was set.

6:10-11 Despite the new law, Daniel went home and prayed to God as usual. He could have been more discreet or even taken a break from his habit, but he was unwilling to compromise his faith—even when threatened with a violent death (v. 7).

6:18-19 As in verses 3,14, Darius's actions showed his deep respect and concern for Daniel.

6:20-21 Darius's question highlights God's power to save Daniel from lions, which recalls the display of his power to save from fire (3:15,17,29). God's ability to deliver from beasts and from fire connects to 7:2-11.

6:22 Though Daniel has been unwilling to make the smallest compromise of his faith in God, he still considers himself to be loyal to the king. When the two commitments are not in conflict, Daniel is loyal to both. But where they are in conflict, Daniel chooses his loyalty to God over his loyalty to king and country. The sending of God's angel parallels 3:28 (see "A Biblical View of Angels," p. 1531).

6:23 The fact that Daniel was unharmed is explicitly linked here to his faith in God.

6:26-27 As Nebuchadnezzar had done in response to God's works (2:47; 3:28-29; 4:3,34-37), now Darius glorifies the eternal King, who rescued Daniel from the lions.

DANIEL'S VISION OF THE FOUR BEASTS

7 In the first year of King Belshazzar of Babylon, Daniel had a dream with visions in his mind † as he was lying in his bed. He wrote down the dream, † and here is the summary † of his account. 2 Daniel said, "In my vision at night I was watching, and suddenly the four winds of heaven † stirred up the great sea. 3 Four huge beasts † came up from the sea, † each different from the other.

4 "The first was like a lion † but had eagle's wings. I continued watching until its wings were torn off. It was lifted up from the ground, set on its feet like a man, and given a human mind.

5 “Suddenly, another beast appeared, a second one, that looked like a bear. † It was raised up on one side, with three ribs in its mouth between its teeth. It was told, ‘Get up! Gorge yourself on flesh.’
6 “After this, while I was watching, suddenly another beast appeared. It was like a leopard † with four wings of a bird on its back. It had four heads, † and it was given dominion.
7 “After this, while I was watching in the night visions, suddenly a fourth beast † appeared, frightening and dreadful, and incredibly strong, with large iron teeth. It devoured and crushed, and it trampled with its feet whatever was left. It was different from all the beasts before it, and it had ten horns. †
8 “While I was considering the horns, suddenly another horn, † a little one, came up among them, and three of the first horns were uprooted before it. And suddenly in this horn there were eyes like the eyes of a human and a mouth that was speaking arrogantly. †

THE ANCIENT OF DAYS AND THE SON OF MAN

9 “As I kept watching, thrones were set in place, † and the Ancient of Days took his seat.

His clothing was white like snow, † and the hair of his head like whitest wool. †
His throne was flaming fire; † its wheels were blazing fire. †
10 A river of fire was flowing, coming out from his presence.
Thousands upon thousands † served him; ten thousand times ten thousand † stood before him.
The court was convened, † and the books were opened. †

11 “I watched, then, because of the sound of the arrogant words the horn was speaking. As I continued watching, the beast was killed and its body destroyed and given over to the burning fire. † 12 As for the rest of the beasts, their dominion was removed, but an extension of life was granted to them for a certain period of time. † 13 I continued watching in the night visions, and suddenly one like a son of man †

was coming with the clouds of heaven. †
He approached the Ancient of Days and was escorted before him.
14 He was given dominion, † and glory, and a kingdom;
so that those of every people, nation, and language † should serve † him.
His dominion is an everlasting † dominion that will not pass away, and his kingdom is one that will not be destroyed.

INTERPRETATION OF THE VISION

15 "As for me, Daniel, my spirit was deeply distressed within me, † and the visions in my mind terrified me. † 16 I approached one of those who were standing by and asked him † to clarify all this. So he let me know the interpretation of these things: † 17 'These huge beasts, four in number, are four kings who will rise from the earth. 18 But the holy ones of the Most High will receive the kingdom and possess it forever, yes, forever and ever.' †
19 "Then I wanted to be clear about the fourth beast, † the one different from all the others, extremely terrifying, with iron teeth and bronze claws, devouring, crushing, and trampling with its feet whatever was left. 20 I also wanted to know about the ten horns † on its head and about the other horn that came up, before which three fell — the horn that had eyes, and a mouth that spoke arrogantly, † and that looked bigger than the others. 21 As I was watching, this horn waged war † against the holy ones and was prevailing over them 22 until the Ancient of Days arrived and a judgment † was given in favor of the holy ones of the Most High, for the time had come, and the holy ones took possession of the kingdom.

23 “This is what he said: ‘The fourth beast will be a fourth kingdom on the earth, different from all the other kingdoms. It will devour the whole earth, trample it down, and crush it. 24 The ten horns † are ten kings who will rise from this kingdom. Another king, different from the previous ones, will rise after them and subdue three kings. 25 He will speak words against the Most High † and oppress † the holy ones † of the Most High. He will intend to change religious festivals † and laws, † and the holy ones will be handed over to him for a time, times, and half a time. † † 26 But the court will convene, † and his dominion will be taken away, to be completely destroyed forever. † 27 The kingdom, dominion, and greatness of the kingdoms under all of heaven will be given to the people, the holy ones of the Most High. His kingdom will be an everlasting kingdom, † and all rulers will serve and obey him.’ 28 “This is the end of the account. As for me, Daniel, my thoughts terrified me greatly, † and my face turned pale, † but I kept the matter to myself.” †

7:2-3 Daniel’s dream of the four beasts parallels Nebuchadnezzar’s dream of the composite statute in 2:31-45 (see notes).

7:4 The first beast looks like a lion with eagle’s wings and represents Babylon. The imagery is reminiscent of the humbling and restoration of Nebuchadnezzar (see Dn 4).

7:5 The second beast, which looked like a bear, refers to the kingdom of the Medes and the Persians (see 5:28; see the note on 8:3-4). It was raised up on one side to symbolize the fact that Persia was more dominant than Media. The three ribs may refer to three territories within the empire.

7:6 The third beast is like a leopard with four heads. This refers to the kingdom of Greece (see 8:5-8,21) which, after the death of Alexander the Great, was divided among four of his generals: Cassander, Ptolemy, Antigonus, and Seleucus.

7:7 The fourth beast was especially frightening and was not compared to any animal (see vv. 19-26), unlike the previous three. Its iron teeth link it to the fourth kingdom in Nebuchadnezzar's dream (2:40). Power is again shown through the ability to crush other things (see 2:34,40,44-45; 6:24).

7:8 The small, arrogant horn on the fourth beast is associated with the fourth kingdom (see v. 7) and is especially opposed to God (see vv. 9-11).

7:9-10 The focus shifts quickly from the power and pride of the fourth kingdom (vv. 7-8) to the surpassing majesty and might of God, the Ancient of Days, who sits enthroned for judgment. The repeated references to fire emphasize his awesome power, and the wheels recall Ezekiel 1:15-21; 2:13; 10:9-13,16-19 and 11:22.

7:11-12 The death of the boastful horn by fire (v. 11) is naturally connected to judgment by the Ancient of Days, who is surrounded by fire (vv. 9-10; see v. 22). In contrast, God had delivered Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego from fire (3:24-27). The other beasts lose their rule but are still permitted to live for a period of time (v. 12).

7:13-14 The climax of the vision is one like a son of man, coming with the clouds of heaven. This is the Messiah (Mk 13:26; Rv 1:7), and his rule over an everlasting dominion and over a kingdom . . . that will not be destroyed show that the same "kingdom" repeatedly referenced earlier (2:44; 4:3,34; 6:26) is the messianic kingdom.

7:15-18 Despite Daniel's distress over the dream and the power of the four beasts (vv. 15-17), the encouraging end result is that saints will receive the kingdom and possess it forever (vv. 18,22), presumably as subjects of the messianic King (vv. 13-14).

7:21-22 The arrogant horn (vv. 8,11,20) will persecute the saints and have power over them (v. 21; see v. 25) until the Ancient of Days passes judgment on him (v. 22; see vv. 9-11).

7:27-28 For a third time in this passage (vv. 18,22), the saints are assured that they will receive an everlasting kingdom. This is important because of their being persecuted severely by the fourth kingdom and the little horn (vv. 21,25). The seriousness of this suffering may have been a cause for Daniel's distress over the vision (vv. 15,28).

THE VISION OF A RAM AND A GOAT

8 In the third year of King Belshazzar's † reign, a vision appeared to me, Daniel, after the one that had appeared to me earlier. † 2 I saw the vision, and as I watched, I was in the fortress city of Susa, † in the province of Elam. † I saw in the vision that I was beside the Ulai Canal. 3 I looked up, † and there was a ram † standing beside the canal. He had two horns. The two horns were long, but one was longer than the other, and the longer one came up last. 4 I saw the ram charging to the west, the north, and the south. † No animal could stand against him, and there was no rescue from his power. He did whatever he wanted † and became great.

5 As I was observing, a male goat appeared, coming from the west across the surface of the entire earth without touching the ground. The goat had a conspicuous horn † between his eyes. † 6 He came toward the two-horned ram

I had seen standing beside the canal and rushed at him with savage fury. 7 I saw him approaching the ram, and infuriated with him, he struck the ram, breaking his two horns, and the ram was not strong enough to stand against him. The goat threw him to the ground and trampled him, and there was no one to rescue the ram from his power. 8 Then the male goat acted even more arrogantly, † but when he became powerful, the large horn was broken. † Four conspicuous horns came up in its place, pointing toward the four winds of heaven. †

THE LITTLE HORN

9 From one of them a little horn † emerged and grew extensively toward the south and the east and toward the beautiful land. † † 10 It grew as high as the heavenly army, made some of the army and some of the stars † fall to the earth, † and trampled them. † 11 It acted arrogantly † even against the Prince of the heavenly army; † it revoked his regular sacrifice † and overthrew the place of his sanctuary. 12 In the rebellion, the army was given up, together with the regular sacrifice. The horn threw truth to the ground and was successful † in what it did.

13 Then I heard a holy one speaking, † and another holy one said to the speaker,
"How long will the events of this vision last † — the regular sacrifice, the rebellion that makes desolate, and the giving over of the sanctuary and of the army to be trampled? " †

14 He said to me, † "For 2,300 evenings and mornings; then the sanctuary will be restored."

INTERPRETATION OF THE VISION

15 While I, Daniel, was watching the vision and trying to understand it, there stood before me someone who appeared to be a man. † 16 I heard a human voice calling from the middle of the Ulai: "Gabriel, † explain the vision to this man."

17 So he approached where I was standing; when he came near, I was terrified and fell facedown. † "Son of man," he said to me, "understand that the vision refers to the time of the end.” † 18 While he was speaking to me, I fell into a deep sleep, † with my face to the ground. Then he touched me, made me stand up, † 19 and said, “I am here to tell you what will happen at the conclusion of the time of wrath, because it refers to the appointed time of the end. † 20 The two-horned ram † that you saw represents the kings of Media and Persia. 21 The shaggy goat represents the king of Greece, and the large horn between his eyes represents the first king. † 22 The four horns that took the place of the broken horn represent four kingdoms. They will rise from that nation, but without its power.

23 Near the end of their kingdoms, when the rebels have reached the full measure of their sin, † a ruthless † king, skilled in intrigue, † will come to the throne.
24 His power will be great, but it will not be his own.
He will cause outrageous destruction † and succeed in whatever he does.
He will destroy the powerful along with the holy people. †
25 He will cause deceit to prosper through his cunning and by his influence, and in his own mind he will exalt himself.
He will destroy many in a time of peace; he will even stand against the Prince of princes.
Yet he will be broken — not by human hands. †
26 The vision of the evenings and the mornings that has been told is true.
Now you are to seal up the vision † because it refers to many days in the future.”

27 I, Daniel, was overcome and lay sick for days. † Then I got up and went about the king’s business. † I was greatly disturbed by the vision and could not understand it.

8:1 Like the preceding vision (7:1), this one was also given to Daniel during the reign of Belshazzar. These visions took place before the events of Daniel 5–6. The book of Daniel is not in strict chronological order.

8:3-4 The ram with two horns of differing length parallels the bear that is raised up on one side in 7:5. This ram is identified in verse 20 as "the kings of Media and Persia." The longer horn and upraised side corresponds to Persia, the stronger of the two.

8:5-8 The male goat with a conspicuous horn defeats the ram, but later this horn is broken and four other horns arise in its place (see 7:6). This goat is identified in verse 21 as "the king of Greece" and its large horn with its first king, Alexander the Great. After his untimely death in 323 BC, his kingdom was divided into four (v. 22; see the note on 7:6).

8:9-12 This proud little horn that opposes the worship of the true God sounds like the one in 7:8,11,20-25. Despite this one seemingly arising from Greece whereas the other arises from the fourth kingdom (7:7,19; Rv 13:1-8), the present vision also bears eschatological overtones (see the notes on vv. 13-14,23-26).

8:13-14 Along with references to "the end" in verses 17,19 (see 9:26), the restoration of the sanctuary seems to refer to eschatological salvation. The rebellion that makes desolate seems to parallel "the abomination of desolation" in 9:27 (see Mt 24:15; Mk 13:14). Some take 2,300 evenings and mornings as 1,150 days, which falls between three and three and a half years (see 7:25; 9:27; 12:11; Rv 11:2-3).

8:16 Gabriel is an angel that appears twice to explain a mystery to Daniel (see 9:21).

8:23-26 This strong and crafty king will have a measure of supernatural power (v. 24) and will be destroyed by divine power (v. 25; see 2:34,45). His success and exaltation of himself over the Prince shows that he is the "little horn" of 8:9-12. His persecution of the holy people (v. 24) recalls 7:21,25. The evenings and mornings (v. 26) have to do with the length of time before the sanctuary is restored (vv. 13-14).

DANIEL'S PRAYER

9 In the first year of Darius, † the son of Ahasuerus, a Mede by birth, who was made king over the Chaldean kingdom — 2 in the first year of his reign, I, Daniel, understood from the books according to the word of the LORD to the prophet Jeremiah that the number of years for the desolation of Jerusalem would be seventy. † 3 So I turned my attention to the Lord God to seek him by prayer and petitions, with fasting, sackcloth, and ashes. † 4 I prayed to the LORD my God and confessed:

Ah, Lord — the great and awe-inspiring God † who keeps his gracious covenant † with those who love him † and keep his commands † — 5 we have sinned, † done wrong, acted wickedly, rebelled, † and turned away from your commands and ordinances. † 6 We have not listened to your servants the prophets, † who spoke in your name to our kings, leaders, fathers, and all the people of the land.

7 Lord, righteousness belongs to you, † but this day public shame belongs to us: the men of Judah, the residents of Jerusalem, and all Israel — those who are near and those who are far, in all the countries where you have banished them because of the disloyalty they have shown toward you. 8 LORD, public shame † belongs to us, our kings, our leaders, and our fathers, because we have sinned against you. † 9 Compassion and forgiveness belong to the Lord our God, though we have rebelled against him 10 and have not obeyed the LORD our God by following his instructions that he set before us through his servants † the prophets.

11 All Israel has broken your law and turned away, † refusing to obey you. The promised curse † written in the law of Moses, † the servant of God, has been poured out on us because we have sinned against him. 12 He has carried out his words † that he spoke against us and against our rulers † † by bringing on us a disaster that is so great that nothing like what has been done to Jerusalem has ever been done † under all of heaven. 13 Just as it is written in the law of Moses, † all this disaster has come on us, yet we have not sought the favor of † the LORD our God by turning from our iniquities and paying attention to your truth. † 14 So the LORD kept the disaster in mind and brought it on us, for the LORD our God is righteous in all he has done. But we have not obeyed him.

15 Now, Lord our God, who brought your people out of the land of Egypt with a strong hand † and made your name renowned † as it is this day, we have sinned, we have acted wickedly. 16 Lord, in keeping with all your righteous acts, may your anger and wrath † turn away from your city Jerusalem, your holy mountain; † for because of our sins and the iniquities of our fathers, Jerusalem and your people have become an object of ridicule to all those around us.

17 Therefore, our God, hear the prayer and the petitions of your servant. Make your face shine † on your desolate sanctuary † for the Lord's sake. 18 Listen closely, † my God, and hear. Open your eyes and see our desolations and the city that bears your name. For we are not presenting our petitions before you based on our righteous acts, but based on your abundant compassion. 19 Lord, hear! Lord, forgive! Lord, listen and act! My God, for your own sake, do not delay, † because your city and your people bear your name.

THE SEVENTY WEEKS OF YEARS

20 While I was speaking, praying, confessing my sin and the sin of my people Israel, † and presenting my petition before the LORD my God concerning the holy mountain of my God — 21 while I was praying, Gabriel, † the man I had seen in the first vision, † reached me in my extreme weariness, about the time of the evening offering. † 22 He gave me this explanation: "Daniel, I've come now to give you understanding. † 23 At the beginning of your petitions an answer went out, and I have come to give it, for you are treasured by God. † † So consider the message and understand the vision: †

24 Seventy weeks are decreed † about your people and your holy city — to bring the rebellion to an end, to put a stop to sin,
to atone for iniquity, to bring in everlasting righteousness, † to seal up vision and prophecy, and to anoint the most holy place.
25 Know and understand this: From the issuing of the decree to restore and rebuild Jerusalem † until an Anointed One, † the ruler, † will be seven weeks and sixty-two weeks.
It will be rebuilt with a plaza and a moat, but in difficult times.
26 After those sixty-two weeks the Anointed One will be cut off † and will have nothing.

The people of the coming ruler will destroy the city † and the sanctuary. †
The † end will come with a flood, † and until the end there will be † war; desolations are decreed.
27 He will make a firm covenant † with many for one week,
but in the middle of the week
he will put a stop to sacrifice and offering.
And the abomination of desolation † will be on a wing † of the temple † † until the decreed destruction † is poured out on the desolator."

9:2 Though a prophet, Daniel himself was a student of Scripture (see Jos 1:8; Ps 1:2) and learned from the book of Jeremiah that Jerusalem would be desolate for seventy years (Jr 25:11-12; 29:10).

9:4-6 Daniel did not presume upon God's promises of salvation in the book of Jeremiah (see previous note) but humbled himself in prayer, in accordance with Jeremiah 29:12-14. Although not personally responsible for the sins of his nation, Daniel confessed as a member of that guilty nation (vv. 5-6,11; Is 6:5).

9:7-10 The shame and exile that Israel was experiencing was the nation's own fault. They had shown disloyalty to God (v. 7) and had both sinned and rebelled against the instruction given through the prophets (v. 10).

9:11-14 The disaster that Israel was enduring should have been no surprise because it had been foretold in the law of Moses (see Dt 4:25-27; 31:16-21).

9:15-19 After affirming his nation's guilt again (v. 15), Daniel pleaded for mercy. Having already cited God's faithfulness to his covenant (v. 4) and his compassion (v. 9), Daniel cited the exodus (v. 15) and appealed to God to act for his name's sake in forgiving his people and removing their reproach and that of the city and the sanctuary (vv. 16-19).

9:20-23 The angelic message was directly linked to Daniel's confession and petition (vv. 20,23). Again it is Gabriel who comes to give . . . understanding (vv. 21-22; 8:16).

9:24 The mention of "seven weeks of years" in Leviticus 25:8 suggests that seventy weeks here refers to seventy weeks of years: four-hundred and ninety weeks total. There are many different approaches by commentators to explain how these seventy weeks work out in history. The periodization of history demonstrates that God is in control, knows the beginning and the end, and will bring it to completion. The bringing to an end of sin, making atonement for iniquity, establishment of everlasting righteousness, and proper treatment of the most holy place are eschatological (see 8:13-14). Thus, the problems of Israel's sin and reproach (vv. 5-19)—as well as the sins of the Gentiles—will be resolved (7:8,11,20-21,25; 8:9-13,23-25).

9:25-26 The eschatological events of verse 24 are linked to the coming of the Messiah. The cutting off of the Messiah, the Anointed One, is a reference to his death (v. 26), which precedes his triumphant "coming with the clouds of heaven" in 7:13. The desolation of the city and the sanctuary will persist for a period of time even after the Messiah's coming.

9:27 The coming prince whose people "destroy the city and the sanctuary" (v. 26) is juxtaposed with Messiah, "the ruler" (v. 25; see 8:11,25). He is the One who will stop worship of God until judgment is poured out on him. As such, this wicked one is naturally equated with the aforementioned "little horn" (7:8,11,25; 8:9-13,23-25). He desecrates the temple by setting up the abomination of desolation (see the note on 8:13-14).

VISION OF A GLORIOUS ONE

10 In the third year of King Cyrus of Persia, † a message was revealed to Daniel, who was named Belteshazzar. † The message was true and was about a great conflict. He understood the message and had understanding of the vision. †

2 In those days I, Daniel, was mourning for three full weeks. † 3 I didn't eat any rich food, † no meat or wine entered my mouth, and I didn't put any oil on my body until the three weeks were over. 4 On the twenty-fourth day of the first month, † as I was standing on the bank of the great river, † the Tigris, 5 I looked up, and there was a man dressed in linen, † with a belt of gold † from Uphaz † † around his waist. 6 His body was like beryl, † his face like the brilliance of lightning, his eyes like flaming torches, † his arms and feet like the gleam of polished bronze, and the sound of his words like the sound of a multitude. †

7 Only I, Daniel, saw the vision. † The men who were with me did not see it, † but a great terror fell on them, † and they ran and hid. 8 I was left alone, looking at this great vision. † No strength was left in me; my face grew deathly pale, † † and I was powerless. 9 I heard the words he said, and when I heard them I fell into a deep sleep, † † with my face to the ground.

ANGELIC CONFLICT

10 Suddenly, a hand touched me and set me shaking on my hands and knees.
11 He said to me, “Daniel, you are a man treasured by God. † † Understand the words that I’m saying to you. Stand on your feet, † for I have now been sent to you.” † After he said this to me, I stood trembling.

12 “Don’t be afraid, † Daniel,” he said to me, “for from the first day that you purposed to understand and to humble yourself before your God, † your prayers were heard. I have come because of your prayers. † 13 But the prince of the kingdom of Persia opposed me for twenty-one days. Then Michael, † one of the chief princes, came to help me after I had been left there with the kings of Persia. † 14 Now I have come to help you understand what will happen to your people in the last days, † for the vision refers to those days.” †

15 While he was saying these words to me, I turned my face toward the ground and was speechless. † 16 Suddenly one with human likeness † touched my lips. † I opened my mouth and said to the one standing in front of me, “My lord, because of the vision, anguish overwhelms me and I am powerless. † 17 How can someone like me, † your servant, † speak with someone like you, my lord?
Now I have no strength, and there is no breath in me.”

18 Then the one with a human appearance touched me again and strengthened me. † 19 He said, “Don’t be afraid, † you who are † treasured by God. † Peace to you; be very strong! ” †

As he spoke to me, I was strengthened and said, “Let my lord speak, for you have strengthened me.” †

20 He said, “Do you know why I’ve come to you? I must return at once to fight against the prince of Persia, and when I leave, the prince of Greece will come. † 21 However, I will tell you what is recorded in the book of truth. (No one has the courage to support me against those princes except Michael, † your prince.

10:1 The themes of conflict and war continue (see v. 20; 7:21,25; 8:24-25; 9:26).

10:3 Daniel’s diet in these weeks parallels his earlier diet in 1:8,12.

10:5-6 This glorious messenger was a man dressed in linen (see Ezk 9:2). Many commentators identify this heavenly being as an angel, perhaps Gabriel as in 9:21. Alternatively, this may be God himself. The description of his appearance parallels the description of divine glory in Ezekiel 1:26-28 (see Rv 1:13-16). There, God appeared as a man on the throne. In addition, in 12:7 the man in linen knows the answer to a question asked by angels.

10:12-14 Daniel’s prayers were heard from the first day he started praying (v. 12; see v. 2), but the messenger did not reach him because of the opposition in the spiritual realm (v. 13). The prince of the kingdom of Persia refers to a spiritual being, opposed to God, who by virtue of his title is closely associated with the earthly kingdom of the same name (see the note on vv. 20-21; see “Spiritual Warfare,” p. 1454). The Hebrew phrase translated the last days (v. 14) is the same one used in other important OT prophecies (see the notes on Gn 1:1; 49:1). Although the whole message in its entirety does not concern the end, some of it does (see 11:30-36; 12:1-3).

10:20-21 Just as Persia had a representative in the spiritual realm, so would Greece. Conflict on earth thus corresponds to a real spiritual conflict. Michael is the prince over God’s people (see v. 13; 12:1).

11 In the first year of Darius the Mede, † I stood up to strengthen and protect him.) 2 Now I will tell you the truth. †

PROPHECIES ABOUT PERSIA AND GREECE

“Three more kings will arise in Persia, and the fourth will be far richer than the others. By the power he gains through his riches, he will stir up everyone against the kingdom of Greece. † 3 Then a warrior king will arise; he will rule a vast realm and do whatever he wants. † 4 But as soon as he is established, his kingdom will be broken up and divided to the four winds of heaven, † but not to his descendants; it will not be the same kingdom that he ruled, because his kingdom will be uprooted and will go to others besides them. †

KINGS OF THE SOUTH AND THE NORTH

5 "The king of the South † will grow powerful, but one of his commanders will grow more powerful and will rule a kingdom greater than his. 6 After some years they will form an alliance, and the daughter of the king of the South will go to the king of the North † to seal the agreement. She will not retain power, and his strength will not endure. She will be given up, together with her entourage, her father, † and the one who supported her during those times. 7 In the place of the king of the South, one from her family † will rise up, come against the army, and enter the fortress of the king of the North. He will take action against them and triumph. 8 He will take even their gods captive to Egypt, with their metal images and their precious articles of silver and gold. † For some years he will stay away from the king of the North, 9 who will enter the kingdom of the king of the South and then return to his own land.

10 "His sons will mobilize for war and assemble a large number of armed forces. They will advance, sweeping through like a flood, † † and will again wage war as far as his fortress. 11 Infuriated, the king of the South will march out to fight with the king of the North, who will raise a large army, but they will be handed over to his enemy. 12 When the army is carried off, he will become arrogant and cause tens of thousands to fall, but he will not triumph. 13 The king of the North will again raise a multitude larger than the first. After some years † † he will advance with a great army and many supplies.

14 "In those times many will rise up against the king of the South. Violent ones among your own people will assert themselves to fulfill a vision, but they will fail. 15 Then the king of the North will come, build up a siege ramp, † and capture a well-fortified city. The forces of the South will not stand; even their select troops will not be able to resist. 16 The king of the North who comes against him will do whatever he wants, † and no one can oppose him. He will establish himself in the beautiful land † † with total destruction in his hand.

17 He will resolve † to come with the force of his whole kingdom and will reach an agreement with him. † He will give him a daughter in marriage † to destroy it, † but she will not stand with him or support him. 18 Then he will turn his attention to the coasts and islands † † and capture many. But a commander will put an end to his taunting; instead, he will turn his taunts against him. † 19 He will turn his attention back to the fortresses of his own land, but he will stumble, fall, † and be no more. † 20 "In his place one will arise who will send out a tax collector † for the glory of the kingdom; but within a few days he will be broken, though not in anger † or in battle.
21 "In his place a despised † person will arise; royal honors will not be given to him, but he will come during a time of peace † † and seize the kingdom by intrigue. 22 A flood of forces will be swept away before him; they will be broken, as well as the covenant prince. 23 After an alliance is made with him, he will act deceitfully. He will rise to power with a small nation. † 24 During a time of peace, † he will come into the richest parts of the province † and do what his fathers and predecessors never did. He will lavish plunder, loot, and wealth on his followers, and he will make plans against fortified cities, but only for a time.
25 "With a large army he will stir up his power and his courage against the king of the South. The king of the South will prepare for battle with an extremely large and powerful army, but he will not succeed, because plots will be made against him. 26 Those who eat his provisions † will destroy him; his army will be swept away, and many will fall slain. 27 The two kings, whose hearts are bent on evil, will speak lies † at the same table but to no avail, for still the end will come at the appointed time. † 28 The king of the North will return to his land with great wealth, but his heart will be set against the holy covenant; † he will take action, then return to his own land.
29 "At the appointed time he will come again to the South, but this time † will not be like the first. 30 Ships of Kittim † † will come against him, and being intimidated, he will withdraw. Then he will rage against the holy covenant and take action. On his return, he will favor those who abandon the holy covenant.

31 His forces will rise up and desecrate the temple fortress. They will abolish the regular sacrifice † and set up the abomination of desolation. † 32 With flattery he will corrupt those who act wickedly toward the covenant, but the people who know their God will be strong and take action. † 33 Those who have insight among the people † will give understanding to many, yet they will fall by the sword and flame, † and be captured and plundered for a time. 34 When they fall, they will be helped by some, but many others will join them insincerely. † 35 Some of those who have insight will fall so that they may be refined, † purified, and cleansed † until the time of the end, for it will still come at the appointed time.
36 “Then the king will do whatever he wants. † He will exalt and magnify himself above every god, † and he will say outrageous things against the God of gods. † He will be successful until the time of wrath is completed, † because what has been decreed will be accomplished. 37 He will not show regard for the gods † of his fathers, the god desired by women, or for any other god, † because he will magnify himself above all. 38 Instead, he will honor a god of fortresses — a god his fathers did not know — with gold, silver, precious stones, and riches. 39 He will deal with the strongest fortresses with the help of a foreign god. He will greatly honor those who acknowledge him, † making them rulers over many and distributing land as a reward.
40 “At the time of the end, the king of the South will engage him in battle, but the king of the North will storm against him † with chariots, horsemen, and many ships. He will invade countries and sweep through them like a flood. † 41 He will also invade the beautiful land, † and many will fall. But these will escape from his power: Edom, Moab, and the prominent people † of the Ammonites. † 42 He will extend his power against the countries, and not even the land of Egypt will escape. 43 He will get control over the hidden treasures of gold and silver and over all the riches of Egypt. The Libyans and Cushites will also be in submission. † † 44 But reports from the east † and the north will terrify him, and he will go out with great fury to annihilate and completely destroy many. [45] He will pitch his royal tents between the sea and † the beautiful holy mountain, † but he will meet his end with no one to help him.

11:2-5 This describes the transition of power from Persia to Greece, led by Alexander the Great (the warrior king, v. 3). His premature death would lead to the division of his kingdom into four parts. The king of the South (v. 5) is Ptolemy I, one of Alexander's generals who became king of Egypt.

11:21-24 The preceding details in verses 5-20 give way to an extended focus on the rule of a despised person (v. 21), whose deception and opposition to God's people recall earlier passages (vv. 22-24; see 8:23-25; 9:27).

11:25-28 This king is evidently from the North (vv. 25,28). His coming against the South (vv. 25,29) and against the land of Israel (vv. 22,28) matches 8:9-12.

11:30 Ships from Kittim are also mentioned in the context of eschatological battle in Numbers 24:23-24 (see the note on Nm 24:14-19).

11:31 The abolition of the regular sacrifice and the setting up of the abomination of desolation ties back to 8:12-13 and 9:27.

11:32-35 Despite such overwhelming evil, those who truly know God will be strong (v. 32). At the cost of their lives, they will give understanding to many (v. 33), as they bear witness to the truth. Such suffering, even to the point of martyrdom, is sobering but is clearly predicted here as elsewhere in Daniel (7:21,25; 8:24). Through these intense trials, the wise will be refined, purified, and cleansed until the time of the end (v. 35; 12:10).

11:36 His pride and blasphemy correspond to that of the "little horn" (7:8,11,20,25).

11:44-45 While gripped by fury and fear, this evil king will meet his end.

12 At that time Michael, † the great prince who stands watch over your people, will rise up.
There will be a time of distress † such as never has occurred † since nations came into being until that time. †
But at that time all your people who are found written in the book † will escape. † 2 Many who sleep in the dust † of the earth will awake, some to eternal life, †
and some to disgrace and eternal contempt. † 3 Those who have insight will shine like the bright expanse of the heavens, † and those who lead many to righteousness, † like the stars forever and ever.

4 “But you, Daniel, keep these words secret † and seal the book † until the time of the end. † Many will roam about, † and knowledge will increase.” †
5 Then I, Daniel, looked, and two others were standing there, one on this bank of the river and one on the other. 6 One of them said to the man dressed in linen, † who was above the water of the river, † “How long until the end † of these wondrous things?” 7 Then I heard the man dressed in linen, who was above the water of the river. He raised both his hands † † toward heaven and swore by him who lives eternally † that it would be for a time, times, and half a time. †
When the power of the holy people is shattered, all these things will be completed.
8 I heard but did not understand. So I asked, “My lord, what will be the outcome of these things?” †
9 He said, “Go on your way, Daniel, for the words are secret † and sealed until the time of the end. † 10 Many will be purified, † cleansed, and refined, † but the wicked will act wickedly; † none of the wicked will understand, but those who have insight will understand. † 11 From the time the daily sacrifice is abolished and the abomination of desolation † is set up, † there will be 1,290 days. 12 Happy is the one who waits † for and reaches 1,335 days. 13 But as for you, go on your way to the end; † you will rest, and then you will stand to receive † your allotted inheritance at the end of the days."

12:1-3 The distress that comes when God judges the world will be even worse than what was just described (v. 1; 11:21-45). Whereas the books in 7:10 contain those who will be judged, those written in this particular book will escape (see Rv 20:12-15). Physical death is not the end of human existence—either eternal life or eternal contempt will be (v. 2). The same wise people who had sacrificed their very lives for God (11:33-35) will live forever in glory. Their witness to others is cited again in verse 3 (see 11:33).

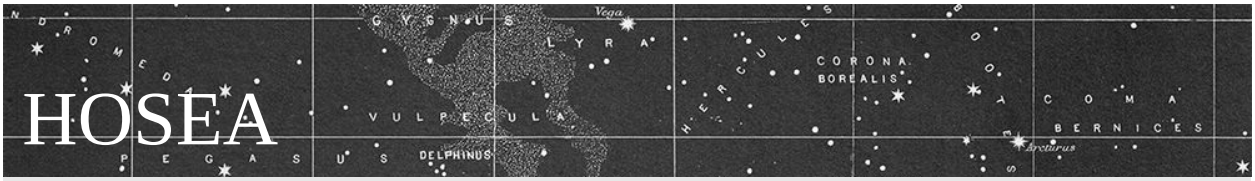
12:6-7 The events discussed concerned the end. The man dressed in linen first appeared in 10:5-6. The period of time, times, and half a time relates to timeframes cited earlier (7:25; 8:14; 9:27). What is clearer about the fulfillment of these things is that it will coincide with intense persecution of God's people (see v. 10; 11:33-35).

12:9-10 For a second time (v. 4), Daniel was informed that these words are secret and sealed until the time of the end. The wicked will not understand, but the wise (those who have insight) will. The latter are those who endure for God's sake and thus are purified, cleansed, and refined (see 11:33-35).

12:11 The abolition of the daily sacrifice and the setting up of the abomination of desolation (see 8:12-13; 11:31) for about three and a half years (1,290 days) agrees with the same things set into motion "in the middle of the week" (taken as a seven-year period) in 9:27.

12:12 The faithful will have to endure, but the worst will have passed after forty-five more days.

12:13 These things will not be fulfilled during Daniel's lifetime, but he will receive his eternal reward at the appointed time (see vv. 2-3).



HOSEA

INTRODUCTION

Hosea is one of the most autobiographical of the Prophetic Books in that the opening account of Hosea's own marriage and family form a vital part of his unique message. God's word of grace and his call to repent are dramatically portrayed and punctuated by Hosea's scorned but constant love for his wife Gomer and by the odd names of his three children. Apart from this information about his immediate family, hardly anything is known about Hosea. His divinely commissioned marriage to the promiscuous Gomer, which brought Hosea such heartache, seems to have been the beginning of his long career. But rather than ministering in spite of personal sorrow, Hosea found that his troublesome marriage was the foundation stone of his ministry.

CIRCUMSTANCES OF WRITING

AUTHOR: According to the first verse, Hosea's prophetic career spanned at least forty years. It began some time during the reign of Jeroboam II, who ruled Israel, the northern kingdom, as co-regent with his father Jehoash from 793 to 782 BC, then independently until 753 BC. Hosea's ministry ended sometime during the reign of Hezekiah, who ruled Judah from 716 to 686 BC.

Although the southern kingdom of Judah was not neglected in Hosea's prophecy (e.g., 1:7,11; 6:11; 12:2), his messages were directed primarily to the northern kingdom of Israel, often referred to as "Ephraim" (5:3,12-14; 6:4; 7:1), and represented by the royal city, Samaria (7:1; 8:5-6; 10:5,7; 13:16). Hosea apparently lived and worked in or around Samaria, probably moving to Jerusalem at least by the time Samaria fell to the Assyrians in 722 BC.

BACKGROUND: The reign of Jeroboam II, the northern kingdom's greatest ruler by worldly standards, was a time of general affluence, military might, and national stability. The economy was strong, the future looked bright, and the mood of the country was optimistic—at least for the upper class (Hs 12:8; Am 3:15; 6:4-6). Syria was a constant problem to Israel, but Adad-nirari III of Assyria had brought Israel relief with an expedition against Damascus, the Syrian capital, in 805 BC.

After Adad-nirari's death in 783 BC Israel and Judah expanded during a time of Assyrian weakness (the time of Jonah). But after Jeroboam's death in 753 BC Israel sank into near anarchy, going through six kings in about thirty years, four of whom were assassinated (Zechariah, Shallum, Pekahiah, and Pekah). Since Assyria also regained power during this time, Israel was doomed. Of course the real reason Israel crumbled was God's determination to judge the people for their sins, as Hosea and Amos made clear. Most of Hosea's messages were probably delivered during these last thirty years of Israel's nationhood.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE BIBLE

Hosea compared the relationship between God and his people to that of a husband and his wife, drawing a parallel between spiritual and marital unfaithfulness. "The Bible is very clear in its moral code that the sexual act can only legitimately take place within the context of the marriage relationship. Thus the image of marriage and sex, a relationship that is purely exclusive and allows no rivals, is an ideal image of the relationship between God and his people" (Dictionary of Biblical Imagery, p. 778). Yet nothing can quench God's love for his covenant people. Like a marriage partner, God is deeply involved in our lives and is pained when we go our own way. God demands love and loyalty from his own. Often God's people have failed to demonstrate whole-hearted love for him, but he stands ready to forgive and restore those who turn to him in repentance. In buying Gomer's freedom, Hosea pointed ahead to God's love perfectly expressed in Christ, who bought the freedom of his bride, the church, with his own life.

STRUCTURE

The first three chapters of the book establish a parallel between the Lord and Hosea. Both were loving husbands of unfaithful wives. Hosea's three children, whose names served as messages to Israel, represent an overture to the second main division of the book, which presents its accusations and the call to repent in groups of three. Just as chapter 1—a third-person account of Hosea's family—is balanced by chapter 3—a first-person account—so the final main division of the book alternates between first-person announcements of God's message and third-person reports from the prophet.

CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW ELEMENTS

TEACHINGS ABOUT GOD

Hosea's doctrine of God is based mainly on the analogy of a husband-wife relationship. The Lord is jealous and will not forever tolerate his people "lusting" after other deities. He must judge unfaithfulness. At the same time, his love for his covenant people endures forever, and one day Ephraim (the northern kingdom of Israel) will be healed of rebelliousness (chap. 14). Matthew recognized Hosea's historical note about Israel's exodus from Egypt as a picture foreshadowing Jesus's coming from Egypt (Hs 11:1; Mt 2:15). The Spirit is not directly present in the book.

TEACHINGS ABOUT HUMANITY

The adultery of Gomer and the idolatry of Israel both paint rather dark portraits of human shame and sinfulness. Hosea's exceptional love for Gomer provides a stark contrast and shows something of what it means to experience the love of God.

TEACHINGS ABOUT SALVATION

The clearest text in this book on the nature of salvation is Hosea 6:6: "For I desire faithful love and not sacrifice, the knowledge of God rather than burnt offerings." Offering sacrificial animals without an inner heart of love for God and one's neighbors was never a part of the biblical understanding of salvation. The Hebrew word chesed denotes loyalty to God as well as compassionate actions toward others.

HOSEA'S MARRIAGE AND CHILDREN

2 When the LORD first spoke to Hosea, he said this to him:

Go and marry a woman of promiscuity, † and have children of promiscuity, for the land is committing blatant acts of promiscuity by abandoning the LORD.

3 So he went and married Gomer daughter of Diblaim, and she conceived and bore him a son. † 4 Then the LORD said to him:

Name him Jezreel, † † for in a little while I will bring the bloodshed of Jezreel †
on the house of Jehu † and put an end to the kingdom of the house of Israel.
5 On that day I will break the bow of Israel † in the Valley of Jezreel. †

6 She conceived again and gave birth to a daughter, and the LORD said to him:

Name her Lo-ruhamah, † for I will no longer have compassion on the house of Israel.
I will certainly take them away.
7 But I will have compassion on the house of Judah, † and I will deliver them by the LORD their God. †
I will not deliver them by bow, sword, or war, or by horses and cavalry. †

8 After Gomer had weaned Lo-ruhamah, she conceived and gave birth to a son.
9 Then the LORD said:

Name him Lo-ammi, † for you are not my people, and I will not be your God. † † 10 Yet the number of the Israelites will be like the sand of the sea, † which cannot be measured or counted.
And in the place where they were told: You are not my people, they will be called: Sons of the living God. †
11 And the Judeans and the Israelites will be gathered together. †
They will appoint for themselves a single ruler † and go up from † the land.
For the day of Jezreel † will be great.

1:1 Hosea is the first book in the Minor Prophets (Hosea–Malachi). Ancient and contemporary interpreters have observed a unity among these twelve books. Thematic and lexical connections will be pointed out as appropriate in the notes below. Hosea was a contemporary of Isaiah (see Is 1:1), though neither references the other.

1:2 The dominant motif of the book of Hosea, especially in the earlier chapters, is that of a wife that is habitually unfaithful to her husband. Hosea's marriage to Gomer (vv. 2-3) is a prophetic sign-act that represents Israel's unfaithfulness to God in breaking the covenant and turning to other gods and means of deliverance. The use of marriage and divorce as a metaphor for God's covenant relationship with Israel is used regularly in other parts of the OT (Ex 34:15-16; Lv 17:7; 20:5-6; Nm 15:39; Dt 31:16; Jdg 2:17; Jr 2:20; Ezk 16:15-17).

1:3-5 Obediently, Hosea married Gomer, and they had a son. He was named Jezreel after a slaughter committed at the city of Jezreel (see 2Kg 10:11,14). The name was a sign that God would bring an end to the northern kingdom of Israel (see 10:3,7,15; 13:10-11).

1:6-7 In contrast with the firstborn son (v. 3), the report of the birth of Gomer's second and third children does not include the words "bore him" (referring to Hosea as father, v. 3). This implies that they were born out of wedlock and as such were children of promiscuity (v. 2; 2:4; Is 57:3). The naming of the daughter as Lo-ruhamah represents a lack of compassion and judgment on the house of Israel. Nevertheless, God would later save the house of Judah through supernatural means (see the note on 10:13-15; 11:12). This, in turn, will result in the salvation of Israel (v. 11).

1:8-10 Like the second child, this son was likely born out of wedlock too (see previous note). His name Lo-ammi, meaning "not my people" (v. 9; see the note on 8:5-6) is a tragic reversal of the intended relationship between God and Israel (see Lv 26:12; Jr 7:23; 11:4; Ezk 36:28). Nevertheless, this broken relationship would be restored such that they would become numerous and be called Sons of the living God (v. 10; Dt 32:21; Rm 9:24-26; 10:19).

1:11–2:1 The future salvation of Judah (v. 7) will result not only in the multiplication of Israelites in fulfillment of the Abrahamic covenant (v. 10; Gn 22:17; 32:12) but also the reunification of the Israelites' kingdom under a single ruler, the Messiah (see 3:5; Ezk 34:23-24; 37:22-24). Their being gathered will be necessary because of exile (Jr 29:14; 31:8; Ezk 11:17; 28:25; see Gn 49:1) and the command to go up from the land alludes to a second exodus (see 2:14-15; 11:10-11; 12:9,13; 13:14; Ex 17:3; the note on Is 11:11-16; Jr 3:18). Jezreel was not only the site of bloodshed (vv. 4-5) but also means "God sows" in Hebrew. The wordplay on the names of all three children (see vv. 6,9; 2:23) powerfully communicates the reversal of fortunes from estrangement to love.

2 Call † your brothers: My People and your sisters: Compassion.

ISRAEL'S ADULTERY REBUKED

2 Rebuke your mother; rebuke her. †
For she is not my wife and I am not her husband. †

Let her remove the promiscuous look from her face † and her adultery from between her breasts.
3 Otherwise, I will strip her naked † and expose her as she was on the day of her birth.
I will make her like a desert † and like a parched land, and I will let her die of thirst. † 4 I will have no compassion on her children † because they are the children of promiscuity.
5 Yes, their mother is promiscuous; she conceived them and acted shamefully. † For she thought, “I will follow my lovers, † the men who give me my food and water, my wool and flax, my oil and drink.” †
6 Therefore, this is what I will do: I will block her † way † with thorns; †
I will enclose her with a wall, so that she cannot find her paths. †
7 She will pursue her lovers but not catch them; †
she will look for them but not find them.
Then she will think,
“I will go back to my former husband, † for then it was better for me than now.” † 8 She does not recognize † that it is I who gave her the grain, †
the new wine, and the fresh oil.
I lavished silver and gold on her,
which they used for Baal.
9 Therefore, I will take back my grain in its time † and my new wine in its season;
I will take away my wool and linen,
which were to cover her nakedness.
10 Now I will expose her shame † in the sight of her lovers, and no one will rescue her from my power.

11 I will put an end to all her celebrations: † her feasts, † New Moons, † and Sabbaths — all her festivals.
12 I will devastate her vines and fig trees. †
She thinks that these are her wages that her lovers have given her.
I will turn them into a thicket, † and the wild animals will eat them. † 13 And I will punish her for the days of the Baals, † to which she burned incense. †
She put on her rings and her jewelry † and followed her lovers,
but she forgot me. †

This is the LORD's declaration.

ISRAEL'S ADULTERY FORGIVEN

14 Therefore, I am going to persuade her, lead her to the wilderness, † and speak tenderly to her. † 15 There I will give her vineyards back to her † and make the Valley of Achor † † into a gateway of hope.
There she will respond as she did in the days of her youth, † as in the day she came out of the land of Egypt.
16 In that day — this is the LORD's declaration — you will call me, "My husband," † and no longer call me, "My Baal." † 17 For I will remove the names of the Baals from her mouth;
they will no longer be remembered by their names.
18 On that day I will make a covenant for them with the wild animals, the birds of the sky, and the creatures that crawl on the ground. †
I will shatter bow, sword, and weapons of war in the land † † and will enable the people to rest securely. † 19 I will take you to be my wife forever. †

I will take you to be my wife in righteousness, justice, love, and compassion. †
20 I will take you to be my wife in faithfulness, and you will know the LORD. † 21 On that day I will respond † — this is the LORD's declaration.
I will respond to the sky,
and it will respond to the earth.
22 The earth will respond to the grain, †
the new wine, and the fresh oil,
and they will respond to Jezreel.
23 I will sow her † in the land for myself, † and I will have compassion † on Lo-ruhamah;
I will say to Lo-ammi: †
You are my people, † and he will say, "You are my God."

2:2 Israel's adultery with idols results in the breaking of her covenant relationship to God.

2:3 Her becoming like a desert and parched land alludes to judgment through destruction of her land (see vv. 5,7,10,12).

2:5-8 Israel's unfaithfulness is repeatedly described as going after other lovers (vv. 5,7,10,12). These "lovers" include Baal (vv. 8,13,16,17; see the note on Jdg 3:7-11). Baal was the primary Canaanite fertility deity. Israel had worshiped this idol while still in the wilderness (9:10; Nm 25:1-3), and King Ahab had dragged the whole nation of Israel down this destructive path (2Kg 16:31-32; 19:18). Israel foolishly believed that these liaisons had blessed her with material abundance (vv. 5,12; 11:3), when in fact blessings came from God (v. 8). He would discipline her so that she would see the futility of following other gods and turn back to him (vv. 6-7; see following note).

2:9-13 God would discipline Israel by taking away her material abundance (v. 9) and by humiliating her before her lovers (v. 10; see previous note), which may also allude to the nations (see 7:8-11; 8:9; Lm 1:2; Ezk 22:22-23). Moreover, religious worship would end (v. 11; 3:4; Is 1:13-14), and the land would be made desolate (v. 12; Hab 3:17). The combination of idolatry and jewelry (v. 13) directly parallels Ezekiel 16:17 and 23:40-41 and to a lesser extent the golden calf incident in Exodus 32:1-4.

2:14-15 Israel's eventual restoration (see 1:7,10-11) is detailed further here. Despite her adultery and estrangement, God will again speak tenderly to her (v. 14). Her future response to God while in the wilderness parallels what she had done in her youth after leaving Egypt (v. 15; 9:10; Ex 14:31–15:21; Jr 2:2). The transformation of the Valley of Achor, a site of sin and shame (Jos 7:24-26), into a gateway of hope parallels the transformation in 1:10.

2:18 The wild animals had been instruments of judgment against the land (v. 12; see 13:8). God's shattering of bow and sword establishes eternal peace on earth (1:7; Ps 46:9; Is 9:4-7).

2:19-20 The marriage relationship between God and his people will be permanently restored in righteousness and in love (Ps 85:10; Is 16:5; 54:8). Israel's future knowledge of God contrasts with their present state (4:1,6; 5:4), while also alluding to marital intimacy (Gn 4:1 [Hb]). See also "A Biblical View of Marriage," p. 1449.

2:21-23 When Israel responds to God (v. 15), he will also respond to the people (v. 21). This triggers the sky responding to the earth, which itself will respond with fruitfulness (v. 22). This chain reaction of fertility will bring blessing and restoration to the land. Such material blessings had been wrongly attributed to idols previously and subsequently taken away in judgment (vv. 5,8-9,12). God's sowing of Israel in the land is a wordplay on the Hebrew meaning of Jezreel ("God sows"; see 8:7; 10:12; 14:5-8); thus, the names of all three children are again transformed positively (v. 23; see 1:11).

WAITING FOR RESTORATION

3 Then the LORD said to me, "Go again; show love to a woman who is loved by another man and is an adulteress, † just as the LORD loves the Israelites though they turn to other gods and love raisin cakes." †

2 So I bought her for fifteen shekels of silver and five bushels of barley. † † † 3 I said to her, "You are to live with me many days. You must not be promiscuous or belong to any man, and I will act the same way toward you." 4 For the Israelites must live many days without king or prince, † without sacrifice † or sacred pillar, † and without ephod † or household idols. † 5 Afterward, the people of Israel will return † and seek the LORD their God and David their king. † They will come with awe to the LORD † and to his goodness in the last days.

3:1-5 Hosea was again called to enact the prophetic message (see 1:2-9), this time by loving his adulterous wife (vv. 1-3). Her being disciplined for many days (v. 3) represents Israel's endurance of exile (v. 4; 10:2). They would be without their own king (see 10:3,7) but in the last days will turn back and seek God and the Messiah (v. 5; 1:7,11; Is 10:20-21; Jr 30:9; Ezk 37:24). Their awe matches their "trembling" in 11:10.

GOD'S CASE AGAINST ISRAEL

4 Hear the word of the LORD, † people of Israel, for the LORD has a case † against the inhabitants of the land: There is no truth, † no faithful love, † and no knowledge of God † in the land!
2 Cursing, † lying, † murder, † stealing, † and adultery † are rampant; one act of bloodshed follows another. † 3 For this reason the land mourns, † and everyone who lives in it languishes, along with the wild animals † and the birds of the sky; even the fish of the sea disappear. † 4 But let no one dispute; † let no one argue, for my case is against you priests. † † †
5 You will stumble by day; †
the prophet will also stumble with you by night.
And I will destroy your mother. †
6 My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge. †
Because you have rejected knowledge, †
I will reject you † from serving as my priest.
Since you have forgotten the law of your God, †
I will also forget your sons.

7 The more they multiplied, † the more they sinned against me.
I † will change their † honor into disgrace. †
8 They feed on the sin † of my people; † they have an appetite for their iniquity. †

9 The same judgment will happen to both people and priests. †
I will punish them for their ways † and repay them for their deeds.
10 They will eat but not be satisfied; † they will be promiscuous † but not multiply.
For they have abandoned their devotion to the LORD. †
11 Promiscuity, † wine, and new wine take away one's understanding. †

12 My people consult their wooden idols, † and their divining rods inform them.
For a spirit of promiscuity leads them astray; †
they act promiscuously † in disobedience to † their God.
13 They sacrifice on the mountaintops, † and they burn offerings on the hills, † and under oaks, poplars, and terebinths, † because their shade is pleasant.
And so your daughters act promiscuously and your daughters-in-law commit adultery.
14 I will not punish your daughters when they act promiscuously or your daughters-in-law
when they commit adultery, for the men themselves go off with prostitutes † and make sacrifices with cult prostitutes. †
People without discernment are doomed. †

WARNINGS FOR ISRAEL AND JUDAH

15 Israel, if you act promiscuously, don't let Judah become guilty!
Do not go to Gilgal † or make a pilgrimage to Beth-aven, † † and do not swear an oath: As the LORD lives! †

16 For Israel is as obstinate as a stubborn cow. †
Can the LORD now shepherd them like a lamb in an open meadow? † 17 Ephraim is attached to idols; † leave him alone! †
18 When their drinking is over, they turn to promiscuity.
Israel's leaders † fervently love disgrace. † 19 A wind with its wings will carry them off, † † and they will be ashamed of their sacrifices.

4:1-6 Israel's fundamental problem was a lack of the knowledge of God (v. 1; see v. 6; 5:4; 6:6; 11:3). The practical consequence was rampant sin (v. 2), including those clearly addressed in the Ten Commandments (Ex 20:13-16). Their spiritual leaders were also guilty (vv. 4-5,9; 5:1).

4:10-12 Israel's promiscuity in turning to other gods is again the focus here (see the note on 1:2). This was a heart problem, as shown by their being led astray by a spirit of promiscuity (v. 12; 5:4). The word "spirit" describes the dominant ideas and values in the culture.

4:13-14 The language of promiscuity is appropriate to describe both Israel's spiritual adultery and the actual rituals involved in the worship of Canaanite fertility gods. Apparently, sacrifice on the mountaintops and other high places involved relations with cult prostitutes as well. Rejection of the knowledge of God (see the note on vv. 1-6) naturally results in foolishness and being without discernment (Ps 14:1).

4:15 Despite this wish, the southern kingdom of Judah would also become corrupt like the northern kingdom of Israel (5:5,10-14; 6:4,11).

4:16 Israel's stubbornness is likewise described in Isaiah 1:6,23 and 65:2.

4:19 The word wind is the same Hebrew word (ruach) translated spirit in verse 12. The wordplay indicates that their values and pervasive idolatry will lead to humiliating judgment (see Ps 1:4; Ezk 27:26).

5 Hear this, priests! †
Pay attention, house of Israel!
Listen, royal house!
For the judgment applies to you because you have been a snare at Mizpah † and a net spread out on Tabor.
2 Rebels † are deeply involved in slaughter; †
I will be a punishment for all of them. †
3 I know Ephraim, † and Israel is not hidden from me.
For now, Ephraim, †
you have acted promiscuously;
Israel is defiled.
4 Their actions do not allow them to return to their God, † for a spirit of promiscuity is among them, † and they do not know the LORD. †
5 Israel's arrogance testifies against them. † †
Both Israel and Ephraim stumble because of their iniquity; † even Judah will stumble with them. † 6 They go with their flocks and herds to seek the LORD † but do not find him; †
he has withdrawn from them. †
7 They betrayed the LORD; †
indeed, they gave birth to illegitimate children. †
Now the New Moon † will devour them along with their fields. †

8 Blow the horn in Gibeah, † the trumpet in Ramah; † raise the war cry in Beth-aven: †
Look behind you, † Benjamin! †

9 Ephraim will become a desolation † on the day of punishment; †
I announce what is certain among the tribes of Israel. †
10 The princes of Judah are like those who move boundary markers; †
I will pour out my fury † on them like water. † 11 Ephraim is oppressed, crushed in judgment, † for he is determined to follow what is worthless. † 12 So I am like rot to Ephraim † and like decay to the house of Judah.
13 When Ephraim saw his sickness and Judah his wound, Ephraim went to Assyria † and sent a delegation to the great king. † †
But he cannot cure you or heal your wound. † 14 For I am like a lion to Ephraim † and like a young lion to the house of Judah.
Yes, I will tear them to pieces and depart. †
I will carry them off, and no one can rescue them. †
15 I will depart and return to my place until they recognize their guilt and seek my face; † they will search for me in their distress. †

5:3 Israel did not know God (v. 4; 4:1,6), but he knew them and their sin well. Promiscuity resulted in Israel becoming defiled (see 6:10; Lv 18:20,23; Nm 5:13).

5:4-6 Israel's spirit of promiscuity is closely linked to their ignorance of God (v. 4; 4:1; see the note for 4:10-12). Despite appearance to the contrary, Israel had not returned to God (v. 4) and sought him in vain with their sacrifices (v. 6; 6:6; see 3:5; Jr 29:13). Judah also stumble[d] in this wickedness (v. 5; 4:15).

5:7 Israel's unfaithfulness to God was shown through her illegitimate children, which is another allusion to the dominant metaphor of the book of Hosea (see the note on 1:2).

5:9 The northern kingdom's fall and exile is thus predicted.

5:10 The movement of boundary markers was an attempt to encroach upon or to steal ancestral land. This action is cursed in Deuteronomy 27:17 and thus represents the guilt of Judah's aristocracy.

5:12-14 God's well-earned judgment on Ephraim and Judah is likened to rot and decay (v. 12; see Is 50:9; 51:8; Hab 3:16). Despite this sickness, Ephraim would turn to Assyria, rather than to God, for help (v. 13; 7:11; 8:9).

5:15 Israel's pretentious seeking of God and his withdrawal from them was described in verses 5-6. Nevertheless, they will eventually recognize their guilt and humbly seek him while in distress (see 3:5; Dt 4:30).

A CALL TO REPENTANCE

6 Come, let us return to the LORD. †
For he has torn us, † and he will heal us; †
he has wounded us,
and he will bind up our wounds. †
2 He will revive us after two days, † and on the third day he will raise us up so we can live in his presence. †
3 Let us strive to know the LORD. †
His appearance is as sure as the dawn. †
He will come to us like the rain, † like the spring showers that water the land.

THE LORD'S FIRST LAMENT

4 What am I going to do with you, Ephraim? †
What am I going to do with you, Judah?
Your love is like the morning mist † and like the early dew that vanishes.
5 This is why I have used the prophets to cut them down; † †
I have killed them with the words from my mouth.

My judgment strikes like lightning. †

6 For I desire faithful love and not sacrifice, the knowledge of God † rather than burnt offerings. †

7 But they, like Adam, † have violated the covenant; † there they have betrayed me. † 8 Gilead is a city of evildoers, † tracked with bloody footprints. † 9 Like raiders who wait in ambush for someone, † a band of priests murders on the road to Shechem. †
They commit atrocities. †
10 I have seen something horrible † in the house of Israel: Ephraim's promiscuity is there; † Israel is defiled.
11 A harvest is also appointed for you, Judah. †

When I † return my people from captivity, †

6:5 Or have cut down the prophets 6:5 LXX, Syr, Tg; MT reads Your judgments go out as light 6:7 Or they, as at Adam, or they, like men, 6:11 Or you. Judah, when I

6:1-3 The Hebrew verbs for come and return in verse 1 are the same as in 2:7 (see 3:5; 4:9). God had torn his people to pieces like a lion tears its prey, and he alone could heal their fatal wound (vv. 13-14). Their desire to know the LORD contrasts with 4:1,6 and 5:4. His appearance being as the dawn (v. 3) echoes Isaiah 60:1, and his coming like the rain parallels 10:12 and 2 Samuel 23:4.

6:4-6 The people's problem was that their covenant loyalty was like the morning mist and the early dew that vanishes (v. 4; 13:3). God proclaimed judgment for this through his prophets (v. 5) and reminded his people that covenant love (loyalty) is more important than sacrifice (v. 6; 5:6; 8:13; 12:6; 1Sm 15:22). This priority is also mentioned with the "knowledge of God" in 4:1, where it is translated as faithful love.

6:7 Israel violated the covenant (see 8:1). Some commentators understand Adam as a reference to Adam's disobedience in the garden of Eden (Gn 2:16-17; 3:1-6). The name, however, may be a reference to a location (cp. Jos 3:16). This would match well with the word "there" in the second part of the verse.

6:8–7:4 The sins of murder (vv. 8-9), theft (7:1), lying (7:3), and adultery (7:4) were also mentioned together in 4:2. These heinous offenses were done right in front of [God's] face (7:2).

7 when I heal Israel, † the iniquity of Ephraim † and the crimes of Samaria † will be exposed.
For they practice fraud; †
a thief breaks in;
a raiding party pillages outside. †
2 But they never consider that I remember all their evil. †
Now their actions are all around them; † they are right in front of my face.

ISRAEL'S CORRUPTION

3 They please the king with their evil, † the princes with their lies. † 4 All of them commit adultery; † they are like an oven heated by a baker who stops stirring the fire from the kneading of the dough until it is leavened.
5 On the day of our king, the princes are sick with the heat of wine † — there is a conspiracy with traitors. †
6 For they — their hearts like an oven — draw him into their oven.
Their anger smolders all night;
in the morning it blazes like a flaming fire.
7 All of them are as hot as an oven, † and they consume their rulers. †
All their kings fall;
not one of them calls on me. †

8 Ephraim has allowed himself to get mixed up with the nations.
Ephraim is unturned bread baked on a griddle.
9 Foreigners consume his strength, † but he does not notice. †
Even his hair is streaked with gray, but he does not notice.
10 Israel's arrogance testifies against them, † †

yet they do not return to the LORD their God, † and for all this, they do not seek him.

11 So Ephraim has become like a silly, senseless dove; †
they call to Egypt, † and they go to Assyria. † 12 As they are going, I will spread my net over them; †
I will bring them down like birds of the sky.
I will discipline them in accordance with the news that reaches † their assembly.

THE LORD'S SECOND LAMENT

13 Woe to them, † for they fled from me; † destruction to them, for they rebelled against me!
Though I want to redeem them, †
they speak lies against me.
14 They do not cry to me from their hearts; rather, they wail on their beds.
They slash themselves † † for grain and new wine; †
they turn away from me.
15 I trained and strengthened their arms, † but they plot evil against me. † 16 They turn, but not to what is above; † they are like a faulty bow. †
Their leaders will fall by the sword because of their insolent tongue. †
They will be ridiculed for this in the land of Egypt. †

7:6 Israel's problem was rooted in their hearts (see vv. 2,14; 10:2; 13:6) 7:7 The utter failure of Israel's kings sketched above is summed up by not one of them calls on [God] (see Ps 14:2; Ezk 19:10-14). They would meet their end (3:4; 10:3,7,15), preparing the way for the righteous rule of the Messiah (3:5; 2Sm 23:3-4; Is 9:7; Jr 23:5).

7:10 Israel's arrogance had also been cited in 5:5. Their refusal to return and seek God contrasts with their eschatological repentance in 3:5 and 5:15. The phrase their God appears again (1:7; 3:5; 4:12; 5:4). Other passages likewise highlight this relationship through the phrase "your God" (1:9; 4:6; 9:1; 12:6,9; 13:4; 14:1).

7:11 Ephraim is like a senseless dove in that the people flit here and there without really thinking about where they are going. In this case, they go to Egypt and Assyria looking for political alliances to solve their problems instead of turning to God.

7:15 God's training of Ephraim's arms parallels 11:3, which uses similar language to depict his raising them like a child.

ISRAEL'S FALSE HOPES

8 Put the horn to your mouth! †
One like an eagle comes against the house of the LORD, † because they transgress my covenant † and rebel against my law. † 2 Israel cries out to me, †
"My God, we know you! "
3 Israel has rejected what is good; † an enemy will pursue him.

4 They have installed kings, † but not through me.
They have appointed leaders,
but without my approval.
They make their silver and gold † into idols for themselves for their own destruction. †
5 Your calf-idol † † is rejected, Samaria. †
My anger burns against them.
How long will they be incapable of innocence? †
6 For this thing is from Israel — a craftsman made it, † and it is not God.
The calf of Samaria will be smashed to bits!

7 Indeed, they sow the wind † and reap the whirlwind. †
There is no standing grain;
what sprouts fails to yield flour. †
Even if they did,
foreigners would swallow it up.
8 Israel is swallowed up! †
Now they are among the nations like discarded pottery. † 9 For they have gone up to Assyria † like a wild donkey going off on its own.
Ephraim has paid for love. †
10 Even though they hire lovers among the nations, I will now round them up, and they will begin to decrease in number † under the burden of the king and leaders. †

11 When Ephraim multiplied his altars for sin, † they became his altars for sinning.
12 Though I were to write out for him ten thousand points of my instruction, †

13 Though they offer sacrificial gifts † † and eat the flesh, †
the LORD does not accept them.
Now he will remember their guilt †
and punish their sins; †

Judah has also multiplied fortified cities.
I will send fire on their cities, † and it will consume their citadels.

8:1-3 Israel's cries to God were not genuine (v. 2; see the note on 4:1-6; 7:14), as evidenced by their transgression of his covenant and law (v. 1; 5:5-7). Rejection of what is good (v. 3; Mc 6:8) is linked to evil (7:1-3,15; 9:15; 10:15), idolatry (4:13), and to rejection of God himself (3:5; 4:6).

8:4 The kings and leaders of Israel were not only wicked (5:1; 7:3-7), but they never should have been given those positions in the first place (see 13:10-11; Is 30:1).

8:5-6 Samaria's calf either refers to the two golden calves set up by Jeroboam for the northern kingdom (1Kg 12:28-33), or it is analogous to them. The Israelites had combined the worship of the Lord with that of the local Canaanite deities.

8:7 The sowing of wind and reaping the whirlwind is a picture foolishness, futility, and destruction (see the note on 4:10-12; also 12:1; Jr 4:11-13; Am 1:14). It contrasts with wise planting (10:12).

8:8 Israel being swallowed up refers to conquest, domination, and exile by other nations. It echoes other prophetic passages (Jr 51:34; Jnh 2:1; Hab 1:13), as does the nation's likeness to discarded pottery (Jr 19:10-11; 48:38).

8:9-10 Going to Assyria for help continues the theme of depending on foreign nations instead of God (see 7:11).

8:13 As in 5:6 and 6:6, Israel's sacrifices would not be accepted by God because of their guilt and sins (see 9:4).

8:14 The construction of palaces and multiplication of fortified cities in Israel is associated with forgetting their Maker (see v. 11; Is 17:7). His sending fire to consume the fortifications of a wicked nation is repeated in Amos 1:7,10,12,14 and 2:2,5.

THE COMING EXILE

9 Israel, do not rejoice jubilantly as the nations do, † for you have acted promiscuously, † leaving your God.
You love the wages of a prostitute on every grain-threshing floor. † 2 Threshing floor and wine vat will not sustain them, † and the new wine will fail them.
3 They will not stay in the land of the LORD.
Instead, Ephraim will return to Egypt, † and they will eat unclean food † in Assyria. †

4 They will not pour out their wine offerings to the LORD, † and their sacrifices will not please him.

Their food will be like the bread of mourners; all who eat it become defiled. †
For their bread will be for their appetites alone; it will not enter the house of the LORD.

5 What will you do on a festival day, † on the day of the LORD's feast? †

6 For even if they flee from devastation, Egypt will gather them, and Memphis will bury them. †
Thistles will take possession of their precious silver; thorns will invade their tents. †

7 The days of punishment have come; † the days of retribution have come. † Let Israel recognize it!

The prophet is a fool, † and the inspired man is insane, † because of the magnitude of your iniquity and hostility. †

8 Ephraim's watchman is with my God.

Yet the prophet encounters a bird trap on all his pathways. † Hostility is in the house of his God!

9 They have deeply corrupted themselves † as in the days of Gibeah. †

He will remember their iniquity;

he will punish their sins. †

EPHRAIM BEREAVED OF OFFSPRING

10 I discovered Israel like grapes in the wilderness. †
I saw your fathers

like the first fruit of the fig tree in its first season. †

But they went to Baal-peor, † consecrated themselves to Shame, † † and became abhorrent, † like the thing they loved.
11 Ephraim's glory will fly away like a bird: † no birth, no pregnancy, no conception. † 12 Even if they raise children, I will bereave them of each one.
Yes, woe to them when I depart from them! †
13 I have seen Ephraim like Tyre, † planted in a meadow,
so Ephraim will bring out his children to the executioner.
14 Give them, LORD — What should you give?
Give them a womb that miscarries and breasts that are dry! †

15 All their evil appears at Gilgal, † for there I began to hate them.
I will drive them from my house because of their evil, wicked actions. †
I will no longer love them;
all their leaders are rebellious. † 16 Ephraim † is struck down; their roots are withered; they cannot bear fruit. †
Even if they bear children,
I will kill the precious offspring of their wombs. †
17 My God will reject them because they have not listened to him; †
they will become wanderers among the nations. †

9:1-3 Here Israel's promiscuity is emphasized again (1:2; 8:9) with the result that they will not dwell in the land of the LORD (v. 3). The places of their exile will include Egypt and Assyria (see 7:11; 8:9,13), where they will be defiled by unclean food (vv. 3,4; 5:3; 6:10).

9:6 Thorns and thistles are a sign of judgment (see 10:8), as shown by other OT passages (Gn 3:18; Is 5:6; 7:23-25).

9:7-8 Israel's judgment would come, and the people's guilt was shown through their disregard for the true prophet and the inspired man.

9:9 As in 6:7 (see note), a past failure is overlaid with Israel's current sins. The notorious episode at Gibeah is recorded in Judges 19–21 and involved failure to show hospitality, intent to engage in homosexual acts, sexual immorality, cutting a woman into pieces, and civil war which resulted in the near-extermination of the tribe of Benjamin (see notes).

9:10 Another past failure is brought up here. Despite a promising beginning in the wilderness (see 2:14-15), Israel worshiped Baal-peor. This was the incident when the women of Moab seduced the Israelites to sexual relations and the worship of their gods (see Nm 25:3). The people involved thus became abhorrent, like the thing they loved (see 2Kg 17:15; Jr 2:5).

9:12-14 God's judgment of Ephraim included the killing of their children by enemies (vv. 12-13; 10:14; 13:16). The prophet Hosea calls on God to give Israel a miscarrying womb and dry breasts, signifying the removal of fertility in response to their worship of fertility deities.

9:15-17 Based on 4:15 and 12:11, the wickedness at Gilgal seems to have involved false worship in the name of God (see Am 4:4; 5:5). God's hate and refusal to love them (v. 15) would not be permanent (3:1; see the note on 14:4) but corresponds to 1:6. He would punish Israel by driving them away from the temple and into the nations (vv. 15,17) and by bereaving them of their children (vv. 12-13,16).

THE VINE AND THE CALF

10 Israel is a lush † vine; † it yields fruit for itself.
The more his fruit increased,
the more he increased the altars. †
The better his land produced, the better they made the sacred pillars. †
2 Their hearts are devious; † † now they must bear their guilt. †
The LORD will break down their altars † and demolish their sacred pillars.
3 In fact, they are now saying, "We have no king!
For we do not fear the LORD. †

What can a king do for us? ”

4 They speak mere words, taking false oaths while making covenants. †
So lawsuits break out like poisonous weeds in the furrows of a field. †

5 The residents of Samaria † will have anxiety over the calf † of Beth-aven. † Indeed, its idolatrous priests rejoiced over it; the people will mourn over it, over its glory. †

It will certainly go into exile.

6 The calf itself will be taken to Assyria † as an offering to the great king. † †

Ephraim will experience shame; †

Israel will be ashamed of its counsel. †

7 Samaria’s king will disappear † †

ISRAEL’S DEFEAT BECAUSE OF SIN

9 Israel, you have sinned since the days of Gibeah; † they have taken their stand there.
Will not war against the unjust overtake them in Gibeah?

10 I will discipline † them at my discretion; † nations will be gathered against them to put them in bondage † for their double iniquity. †

11 Ephraim is a well-trained calf † that loves to thresh,

but I will place a yoke on † her fine neck. †
I will harness Ephraim; † Judah will plow;
Jacob will do the final plowing.
12 Sow righteousness for yourselves † and reap faithful love;
break up your unplowed ground. †
It is time to seek the LORD † until he comes † and sends righteousness on you like the rain. †

13 You have plowed wickedness and reaped injustice; † you have eaten the fruit of lies. † Because you have trusted in your own way † and in your large number of soldiers, † 14 the roar of battle will rise against your people, and all your fortifications will be demolished † in a day of war, like Shalman's destruction of Beth-arbel.
Mothers will be dashed to pieces along with their children. † 15 So it will be done to you, Bethel, † because of your extreme evil.
At dawn the king of Israel will be totally destroyed.

10:1-3 The increase of Israel's crops had resulted in increased idolatry, and God would destroy their altars and sacred pillars (see the notes on 2:5-13; 3:4; 8:11). Combined with the absence of a king (v. 3; see vv. 7,15; 7:7), the portrait of judgment matches 3:4.

10:4 Their empty words (see 8:2) contrasts the genuine "words" of confession in 14:2-3.

10:5-6 This calf is the golden calf at Bethel (meaning "house of God"; see v. 15; the note on 8:5-6; 1Kg 12:28-33), which is sarcastically called Beth-aven ("house of wickedness"; see 4:15). This idol will be taken to Assyria in exile as an offering to the great king (v. 6; 5:13).

10:8 The judgment as described above would be so terrible that people will wish for death (see Rv 6:16).

10:9 Israel had not only sinned as in the days of Gibeah (9:9) but they had continued in that sinful pattern.

10:10 God would discipline Israel (see 7:12,15) through the foreign peoples taking them captive.

10:11 Ephraim was similarly compared to a "cow," though a stubborn one, in 4:16.

10:12 Sowing and reaping clearly refer to spiritual realities here (see 6:11; 8:7; 9:16), just as the related name "Jezreel" is used in 1:11 and 2:21-23 (see notes). The frequent references to physical agriculture (vv. 4,8; 2:5,8,9,12,15; 4:3,11; 5:7, 7:14; 9:1-2) are thus linked to the spiritual. Along these lines, the coming of God to bring righteousness . . . like the rain parallels 6:1-3 (see note; Jl 2:28).

10:13-15 Contrary to the exhortation of verse 12, Israel had plowed wickedness and reaped injustice. Their trust in themselves and in their own army would bring humiliation at the hands of enemy armies (v. 14; 1:7; Ps 20:7; Jr 17:5). The identity of Shalman is uncertain, with some scholars suggesting Shalmaneser I or V and others suggesting a Moabite king called Sal[a]manu. The Hebrew verb translated destroyed in verse 15 was used regarding the people in 4:5-6.

THE LORD'S LOVE FOR ISRAEL

11 When Israel was a child, I loved him, † and out of Egypt I called my son. † 2 Israel called to the Egyptians † even as Israel was leaving them. †
They kept sacrificing to the Baals † and burning offerings to idols. † 3 It was I who taught Ephraim to walk, † taking them † by the hand, † †
but they never knew that I healed them. †
4 I led them with human cords, with ropes of love. †
To them I was like one who eases the yoke from their jaws; †
I bent down to give them food. †
5 Israel will not return to the land of Egypt and Assyria will be his king, † because they refused to repent. †

6 A sword will whirl through his cities; † it will destroy and devour the bars of his gates, † † because of their schemes. †

7 My people are bent on turning from me. †
Though they call to him on high,
he will not exalt them at all.

8 How can I give you up, Ephraim? †
How can I surrender you, Israel?
How can I make you like Admah? †
How can I treat you like Zeboiim? †
I have had a change of heart;
my compassion is stirred!

9 I will not vent the full fury of my anger; †
I will not turn back to destroy Ephraim. † For I am God and not man, the Holy One among you; †
I will not come in rage. †

10 They will follow the LORD; † he will roar like a lion. †
When he roars, his children will come trembling from the west. †

11 They will be roused like birds from Egypt and like doves † from the land of Assyria. †
Then I will settle them in their homes. †

This is the LORD's declaration.

12 Ephraim surrounds me with lies, † the house of Israel, with deceit.
Judah still wanders with God and is faithful to the holy ones. †

11:1 The preceding has emphasized the destruction of Israel (vv. 2,8,10, especially that of their king (vv. 3,7,15). This chapter begins a new section in the book describing the hope of restoration. God's favor toward Israel when he was a child agrees with 2:15 and 9:10a. This is a backward-looking allusion to the exodus, when God brought Israel out of Egypt. The allusion to this in Matthew 2:15 likely refers to all of Hosea 11 and therefore identifies Jesus as the means by which God will restore his people. The book of Hosea does have "second exodus" themes (vv. 10-11; 2:14-15; 12:9; 13:14), and sometimes this eschatological deliverance is explicitly linked to the Messiah's rule (1:11; 3:5) or a prophet like Moses (12:13). The book also has several passages in which the past as recorded in Scripture is similarly seen as a pattern for the future (2:23; 6:7; 9:9-10; 10:9; 12:2-4,12).

11:2-7 Despite God's tender love for Israel (vv. 1,3-4), the people turned to idols (v. 2), refused to repent, and would be overthrown by Assyria (vv. 5-7).

11:8-9 The destruction of the king of Israel (10:15) would result in Assyria being Israel's king (v. 5). This sad state, however, would not persist forever (3:5). This verse personifies God as conflicted: though he must judge sin, he is unwilling to let judgment be the final word on his people. Admah and Zeboiim were sister cities of Sodom and Gomorrah, here symbolizing total destruction (Gn 19:24-25; Dt 29:23). God's compassion is in keeping with his covenant with Abraham and with David, and as such is evidence for his faithfulness as God and not man (see Nm 23:19; 1Sm 15:29).

11:10 Israel will at last follow the LORD, instead of going after her own "lovers" (2:5,13). His resemblance to a lion who leads children out of captivity parallels the "single ruler" who leads exiles home (1:11). The imagery of God roaring like a lion reappears in Joel 3:16 and Amos 1:2; 3:8. The returnees' trembling matches their awe in 3:5.

11:11 Although exiles will also return "from the west" (v. 10; Is 11:11-12), their return from Egypt and Assyria resolves the problem of Israel's entanglement with these nations (vv. 1,5; 7:11,16; 8:9,13; 9:3,6; 10:6).

GOD'S CASE AGAINST JACOB'S HEIRS

12 Ephraim chases † the wind † and pursues the east wind. †
He continually multiplies lies and violence.
He makes a covenant with Assyria, † and olive oil is carried to Egypt. †

2 The LORD also has a dispute with Judah.
He is about to punish Jacob according to his conduct; †
he will repay him based on his actions.
3 In the womb he grasped his brother's heel, † and as an adult he wrestled with God. †
4 Jacob struggled with the angel and prevailed; he wept and sought his favor. †
He found him at Bethel, † and there he spoke with him. † †
5 The LORD is the God of Armies; the LORD is his name. †
6 But you must return to your God. † Maintain love and justice, † and always put your hope in God. †

7 A merchant loves to extort † with dishonest scales in his hands. † 8 But Ephraim thinks, "How rich I have become; †
I made it all myself.
In all my earnings,
no one can find any iniquity in me † that I can be punished for! " †

JUDGMENT ON APOSTATE ISRAEL

9 I have been the LORD your God ever since † the land of Egypt. †
I will make you live in tents again, †
as in the festival days.
10 I will speak through the prophets † and grant many visions;
I will give parables through the prophets. † 11 Since Gilead is full of evil, †

they will certainly come to nothing.
They sacrifice bulls in Gilgal; † even their altars will be like piles of rocks † on the furrows of a field.

FURTHER INDICTMENT OF JACOB'S HEIRS

12 Jacob fled to the territory of Aram. † Israel worked to earn a wife; †
he tended flocks for a wife. † 13 The LORD brought Israel from Egypt by a prophet, † and Israel was tended by a prophet.

14 Ephraim has provoked bitter anger, † so his Lord will leave his bloodguilt on him † and repay him for his contempt. †

12:1 Ephraim's chasing the wind is as futile as sowing the same (8:7). "Wind" may be another reference to the spirit of the age ("spirit" and "wind" translate the same Hebrew word; see the note on 4:10-12). The context connects this foolish act to lies (see v. 11) and relying on foreign nations (see 8:9,13).

12:2 The name Jacob is the subject of wordplay, referring to the nation of Israel and to the patriarch and father of the nation (vv. 3-4). The names of Gomer's three children were similarly employed (1:4–2:1,22-23). Simultaneously, Israel's past as recorded in Scripture again serves as a pattern for the future (see 2:23; 6:7; 9:9; 10:9; see the note on 11:1). Just as Jacob had been a deceiver (v. 3; Gn 25:26; 27:36), so Ephraim his offspring, "multiplies lies" (v. 1; see 11:12).

12:3-4 Given that Jacob is a pattern for the nation of Israel (see previous note), it is significant that the patriarch is not only cast as a deceiver (v. 3a) but also as someone who as an adult (v. 3b) struggled with the angel and prevailed (v. 4; Gn 32:24-30). This victory came about through humble supplication (see Gn 32:9-12). The deceiver Jacob was at that time renamed Israel (see v. 12). The sinful nation, therefore, also should have hope for such transformation. Another episode in Jacob's life explains the origin of Bethel as the site of a revelation of the covenant-keeping God (Gn 28:10-19; 31:13; 35:1-15), not as a place to worship a golden calf (see the note on 10:5-6) or to seek God in vain (see 5:6).

12:5-6 The message concerning the exclusive devotion to God alone and repentance toward him is primarily for Israel the nation (see 2:16; 3:5; 5:4,15; 7:10; 13:4; 14:1-2). The simple instructions to maintain love and justice and to hope in God parallel 6:6 and Micah 6:8.

12:7-8 Ephraim is the merchant who has enriched himself through dishonest scales yet claims innocence. Such scales were forbidden in Leviticus 19:36 (see Pr 11:1; 16:11; 20:23; Am 8:5; Mc 6:11). The Hebrew word translated "merchant" (see Ezk 16:29; 17:4; Zph 1:11; 2:5; Zch 14:21) in other contexts is the proper noun for "Canaan" (e.g., Gn 9:18); thus, the effect is to liken Israel to the wicked inhabitants of this land. This is in harmony with Israel's resemblance to Sodom and Gomorrah (see the notes on 9:9; 10:9; 11:8-9) and to other wordplays in this book (see the notes on 1:11; 2:21-23).

12:9-10 The exodus again serves as a pattern for the future (see the notes on 1:11; 2:14-15; 9:10; 11:1,10-11), this time with a prophecy that Israel will live in tents again. Fittingly, God's messages through prophets are characterized as visions and parables (see the notes on vv. 2-8,12-13; 1:11; 2:21-23; 6:7; 9:9-10; 10:9,12-15).

12:12-13 In yet another parable (see previous note), Jacob's faithfulness despite having to flee into exile suggests that the nation of Israel can do the same (v. 12; see 3:4-5).

13 When Ephraim spoke, † there was trembling; he was exalted in Israel. †
But he incurred guilt through Baal † and died.

2 Now they continue to sin and make themselves a cast image, † idols skillfully made from their silver, † all of them the work of craftsmen. † People say about them,
"Let the men who sacrifice † kiss the calves." †
3 Therefore, they will be like the morning mist, † like the early dew that vanishes, like chaff blown from a threshing floor, † or like smoke from a window. †

DEATH AND RESURRECTION

4 I have been the LORD your God † ever since † the land of Egypt; you know no God but me, † and no Savior exists besides me. † 5 I knew † you in the wilderness, †

in the land of drought.

6 When they had pasture, they became satisfied; † they were satisfied, and their hearts became proud. †
Therefore they forgot me. †

7 So I will be like a lion † to them; I will lurk like a leopard † on the path.

8 I will attack them like a bear robbed of her cubs and tear open the rib cage over their hearts.
I will devour them there like a lioness, † like a wild beast that would rip them open.

9 I will destroy you, Israel; you have no help but me. † †

10 Where now is your king, † † that he may save you in all your cities, and the † rulers † † you demanded, saying, “Give me a king and leaders”?

11 I give you a king in my anger † and take away a king in my wrath. †

12 Ephraim’s guilt is preserved; his sin is stored up. †

13 Labor pains come on him. †
He is not a wise son; †
when the time comes,
he will not be born. † †

14 I will ransom them from the power of Sheol.
I will redeem † them from death. †
Death, where are your barbs?
Sheol, where is your sting? †
Compassion is hidden from my eyes. †

THE COMING JUDGMENT

15 Although he flourishes among his brothers, † † an east wind will come, † a wind from the LORD rising up from the desert.

His water source will fail, and his spring will run dry. †
The wind † will plunder the treasury † of every precious item.

16 Samaria † will bear her guilt † because she has rebelled against her God. †
They will fall by the sword; † their children will be dashed to pieces, † and their pregnant women ripped open. †

13:1 The wages of Ephraim's sin of Baal worship was guilt and death (see Rm 6:23).

13:3 Ephraim's loyalty had been compared to the "morning mist" and to the "early dew" (6:4), but here it is the people and their lives that will be like these fleeting things (see Ps 1:4).

13:4 God repeats that he has been the people's true LORD and Savior ever since the land of Egypt (see 12:9).

13:5-6 Israel had responded well to God early on when they were in the wilderness (2:15; 9:10; 11:1), but their prosperity resulted in forgetting him (2:5,13; 4:6; 8:14).

13:7-8 God acting like a wild beast tearing Israel apart parallels 5:14 (see the notes on 2:18; 11:10).

13:10-11 The destruction of Israel included the fall of their king (see 7:7; 10:3,7,15). He would not save them (v. 10) because there is no savior besides God (v. 4). The people's request for a king as well as God's displeasure refers to 1 Samuel 8:4-9,19-20 and 12:6-17 (see notes). In contrast with the house of David (3:5), these kings were given in anger and taken away in wrath (8:4).

13:13 The reason for Israel's sin and judgment was the people's own foolishness, as emphasized earlier in 2:5-8; 4:1,6,11-12.

13:14 The focus on judgment in the surrounding context is suddenly interrupted with this important and climactic promise of deliverance from death itself (see 1Co 15:55). The preceding has emphasized the consequences of Israel's sin being death (vv. 1,3,7-9; see Rm 6:23; 1Co 15:55), which itself is related to defeat by foreign armies (2:18; 9:12-14,16; 10:8,14-15; 11:6). An expanded scope for this eschatological salvation is also seen in Micah 7:15-20.

A PLEA TO REPENT

14 Israel, return to the LORD your God, † for you have stumbled in your iniquity. † 2 Take words of repentance with you † and return to the LORD.
Say to him: "Forgive all our iniquity and accept what is good,
so that we may repay you with praise † from our † lips. † 3 Assyria will not save us, † we will not ride on horses, † and we will no longer proclaim, 'Our gods! ' † to the work of our hands. †
For the fatherless receives compassion in you." †

A PROMISE OF RESTORATION

4 I will heal their apostasy; †
I will freely love them, †
for my anger will have turned from him. † 5 I will be like the dew to Israel; † he will blossom like the lily † and take root like the cedars of Lebanon. † 6 His new branches will spread, and his splendor will be like the olive tree, † his fragrance, like the forest of Lebanon. †
7 The people will return and live beneath his shade. †
They will grow grain † and blossom like the vine.

His renown will be like the wine of Lebanon.

8 Ephraim, why should I † have anything more to do with idols? †
It is I who answer and watch over him.
I am like a flourishing pine tree; † your fruit comes from me. †

9 Let whoever is wise † understand these things, and whoever is insightful recognize them.
For the ways of the LORD are right, † and the righteous walk in them, † but the rebellious stumble in them. †

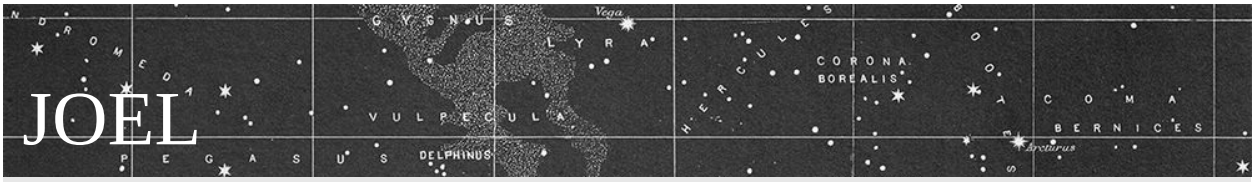
14:1-3 A final appeal to Israel to return to the LORD [their] God is given (see the notes on 7:10; Is 10:20-22). They had indeed stumbled (v. 1; see 4:5; 5:5). In verses 2-3, Hosea suggests what Israel should say to God. These words include a genuine request for forgiveness (see 5:6; 10:4) and the renunciation of all other forms of security, including alliances with foreign nations, military might, and idols (vv. 2-3; 3:5; 5:15). These sources of security have been repeatedly mentioned in the book (see the notes on 1:6-7; 2:5-8,9-13; 7:11; 9:1-3). The fatherless finding compassion in the Lord ties back to 1:6-7; 2:1,23.

14:4 When Israel repents, God will heal their waywardness; apostasy was their root problem (4:12,16; 5:4; 11:7). His love for them will flow freely (see 2:14-20; 3:1; 11:1), and his fierce anger will have ceased (see 5:10; 8:5; 11:9; 13:11).

14:5-7 The imagery of dew (v. 5; Ps 133:3; Mc 5:7) bringing growth to a majestic tree relates to agricultural imagery elsewhere in the book (see the note on 10:12), especially God planting Israel (2:23) and coming like rain (6:3). The nation taking root contrasts with 9:16 and is the result of God's doing (vv. 3,8; Is 11:1,10). The splendor of this tree and its provision of shelter (vv. 6-7) match that of Ezekiel 17:22-24, where it is a picture of the messianic reign (see note). All of this imagery of fertility and flourishing is significant; it shows that it is God—not idols—who brings these things to Israel. He did so all along.

14:9 Like the book of Daniel (see Dn 12:8-10), the book of Hosea closes with an appeal for wisdom so that its contents will be understood. This wisdom is centered on upright living (see the note on 13:13; Pr 1:7) unto the comprehension of prophetic visions and parables (12:10; Jos 1:8; Ps 1:2).



JOEL

INTRODUCTION

The book of Joel is one of the shortest in the OT. The first part (1:1–2:17) describes a terrible locust plague concluding with a plea for confession of sins. The second part (2:18–3:21) proclaims hope for the repentant people coupled with judgment upon their enemies. Circumstances of writing CIRCUMSTANCES OF WRITING

AUTHOR: Joel ("Yahweh is God") is identified as the son of Pethuel. He is not easily identified with the other Joels of Scripture (1Sm 8:2; 1Ch 4:35; 6:33; 11:38; 15:7; Ezr 10:43; Neh 11:9), leaving us only his book to know him, his calling from God, and his work. The book itself gives no biographical information other than his father's name.

BACKGROUND: Dating the book of Joel has always been difficult and mainly conjecture, with suggestions ranging as widely as premonarchial Israel to the postexilic period, sometimes well into the Hellenistic period.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE BIBLE

The book of Joel shows us the Creator and Redeemer God of all the universe in complete control of nature. Joel made clear that the God of judgment also is a God of mercy who stands ready to redeem and restore when his people come before him in repentance. Joel points to a time when the Spirit of God would be present upon all people. On the day of Pentecost, Peter proclaimed that the new day of Spirit-filled discipleship, foretold by Joel, had arrived (Ac 2:17-21).

STRUCTURE

Joel's use of repetition gives the book the appearance of a series of folding doors, in some cases doors within doors. The overall structure balances the section on God's judgment through the locust plague (1:1-20) with a section on the land's physical restoration (2:21-27). The prophecy of an invading army (2:1-11) is balanced by a prophecy on the destruction of this army (2:20). In the center is the highly prominent call to repent and the promise of renewal (2:12-19). But this balanced structure overlaps with another. The prophecy of the destruction of the invading army (2:20) is also balanced with the final prophecy of the Lord's vengeance against all the nations (3:1-21). Finally, the assurance of the land's physical restoration through rain (2:21-27) is balanced by the promise of the people's spiritual restoration through the outpouring of God's Spirit (2:28-32).

CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW ELEMENTS

TEACHINGS ABOUT GOD

God is a righteous Judge, and in the coming "day of the LORD" (Jl 1:15;2:1) he will bring sure and swift devastation on all who have opposed him. Yet he also "spared his people" (2:18).

TEACHINGS ABOUT HUMANITY

Joel explicitly denied the tendencies of God's people to presume that they are immune from God's judgment. Although God's judgment will utterly destroy the pagan nations (3:1-13), it will also be a decisive turning point that his people must go through—on the way to ultimate blessing.

TEACHINGS ABOUT SALVATION

This short book contains two profound passages on salvation. First, "everyone who calls on the name of the LORD will be saved" (2:32; see Rm 10:13). Second, Joel describes repentance as a tearing of one's heart rather than external actions such as tearing one's clothes (Jl 2:12-14).

JOEL TIMELINE

750–700 BC

Alliance between Syria and Israel collapses with the fall of Damascus (732) and the fall of Samaria (722).

Joel's prophecy likely occurred between 722 and 605 or after the Babylonian exile. (See events under 450 for possible later date.) Greeks establish trading posts in Philistine territory along the Mediterranean coast. 700

700–600 BC

Philistines and Phoenicians sell the people of Judah and Jerusalem as slaves to the Greeks (3:6). 700

God delivers Jerusalem from the Assyrian forces. 701

Ashurbanipal (668–631) rules over a declining Assyrian Empire that experiences revolts in 642, contributing to the assassination of Amon of Judah (641) and the rise of his son Josiah. 641–609

Josiah killed by the Egyptians at Megiddo 609

Babylonians defeat Pharaoh Neco of Egypt at Carchemish. 605

600–450 BC

Second temple construction begins under Zerubbabel's and Joshua's leadership. 536

Haggai and Zechariah encourage the people to finish rebuilding the temple. 520–518

Second temple is dedicated. 515

Events in Esther 486–465

Greek victory over Persians in Battle of Salamis, 480, and Plain of Plataea, 479, thwarted Persian expansion into Europe and were keys to Greek hegemony in the Mediterranean Basin and Europe.

Ezra goes to Jerusalem. 458

450–400 BC

Joel's prophecy occurred sometime after 445 when Jerusalem's walls had been rebuilt. (See events under 725 for a different view of when Joel prophesied.) Events in Nehemiah 445–430

Nehemiah's ministry 445–420?

Nehemiah in Jerusalem 445–432

Jerusalem's walls rebuilt 445

The Peloponnesian War between Sparta and Athens 431–404

1 The word of the LORD that came † to Joel son of Pethuel:

A PLAGUE OF LOCUSTS

2 Hear this, † you elders; listen, all you inhabitants of the land.
Has anything like this ever happened in your days †
or in the days of your ancestors?
3 Tell your children about it, † and let your children tell their children, and their children the next generation.
4 What the devouring locust † has left, the swarming locust has eaten;
what the swarming locust has left, the young locust † has eaten; and what the young locust has left, the destroying locust † has eaten.

5 Wake up, you drunkards, † and weep; wail, all you wine drinkers, because of the sweet wine,
for it has been taken from your mouth.
6 For a nation has invaded my land, † powerful and without number;
its teeth are the teeth of a lion, and it has the fangs of a lioness. †
7 It has devastated my grapevine and splintered my fig tree.
It has stripped off its bark and thrown it away; its branches have turned white.
8 Grieve like a young woman dressed in sackcloth, † mourning for the husband of her youth.
9 Grain and drink offerings have been cut off † from the house of the LORD; the priests, who are ministers of the LORD, mourn. † 10 The fields are destroyed; † the land grieves;
indeed, the grain is destroyed; the new wine is dried up; † and the fresh oil fails. † 11 Be ashamed, you farmers, † wail, you vinedressers, †

over the wheat and the barley, because the harvest of the field has perished. † 12 The grapevine is dried up, † and the fig tree is withered;
the pomegranate, † the date palm, † and the apple † — all the trees of the orchard — have withered.
Indeed, human joy has dried up. †

13 Dress in sackcloth and lament, † you priests; † wail, † you ministers of the altar.
Come and spend the night in sackcloth, †
you ministers of my God, because grain and drink offerings are withheld from the house of your God.
14 Announce a sacred fast; †
proclaim an assembly!
Gather the elders † and all the residents of the land at the house of the LORD your God, † and cry out to the LORD. †

THE DAY OF THE LORD

15 Woe because of that day! †
For the day of the LORD is near and will come as devastation from the Almighty. † 16 Hasn't the food been cut off before our eyes, † joy and gladness †
from the house of our God?
17 The seeds lie shriveled in their casings. † †
The storehouses are in ruin, and the granaries are broken down, because the grain has withered away.
18 How the animals groan! †
The herds of cattle wander in confusion since they have no pasture.
Even the flocks of sheep and goats suffer punishment.

19 I call to you, LORD, † for fire has consumed the pastures of the wilderness, † and flames have devoured all the trees of the orchard.
20 Even the wild animals cry out to † you, † for the river beds are dried up, † and fire has consumed
the pastures of the wilderness.

1:2-3 The severity of the imminent disaster would be such that elders had never heard of anything like it even in earlier generations, and it would be worth remembering for future generations (see v. 14; 2:2; Ex 10:14).

1:4 Locusts were one of the forms of divine judgment used against Egypt (Ex 10:4-6,12-15). Such insects could also come against Israel if they were disobedient (Dt 28:38; 1Kg 8:37). In the Minor Prophets, locusts are also mentioned in Amos 4:9 and Nahum 3:15-17.

1:6 The incoming locust swarm is related to a nation overtaking the land, thus hinting that an invading army is also in view (see 2:2-9). Other passages similarly describe mighty armies (Jdg 6:5; 7:12; Is 33:4; Jr 46:23; 51:14). The mention of teeth relates to locusts devouring crops, which they do voraciously.

1:7-13 Like a locust swarm, the incoming nation will devour all plant-life, including the grapevine and the fig tree (v. 7). This will cause grief for the people like that experienced by a young widow (v. 8; Hs 2:2,15-16). Sorrow will be upon “drunkards” deprived of their drink (v. 5), the priests who do not see grain and drink offerings brought to the temple (vv. 9,13), and the farmers who have lost their harvest (v. 11). Indeed, the joy of the people will have dried up (v. 12; 2:6). Such loss of crops matches other passages in the Minor Prophets (see the notes on Hs 2:5-13; 10:12) and fits with the desolation to be brought by a foreign army (Hab 3:16-17).

1:14 The situation will be so dire that the priests (v. 13) are to call everyone together for a fast and an assembly at the temple in order to cry out to the LORD.

1:15 The preceding has depicted the day of the LORD, a reference to the time when God breaks into human history to save his people and destroy his enemies. In this case, it is a day of his fierce judgment on his own people because they have broken the covenant relationship with him. This phrase occurs more often in the Minor Prophets (2:1,11,31; 3:14; Am 5:18,20; Ob 15; Zph 1:7,14; Mal 4:5) than in any other corpus in Scripture (see Is 13:6,9; Jr 46:10; Ezk 13:5; 30:3).

1:19-20 The prophet perceives the dangers and calls out to God (see vv. 13-14). The destruction of the land is described here as resulting from consuming fire and flames (see 2:3,5; the note on Hs 8:14; Am 5:6; 7:4; Nah 1:6), such that the animals have no food and the streams are dried up.

2 Blow the horn in Zion; † sound the alarm on my holy mountain!

Let all the residents of the land tremble, for the day of the LORD is coming; † in fact, it is near —

2 a day of darkness and gloom, † a day of clouds and total darkness, † like the dawn spreading over the mountains; a great and strong people † appears, such as never existed in ages past † and never will again in all the generations to come. †

3 A fire devours in front of them, † and behind them a flame blazes.
The land in front of them is like the garden of Eden, † but behind them, it is like a desert wasteland; †
there is no escape from them.
4 Their appearance is like that of horses, † and they gallop like war horses.
5 They bound on the tops of the mountains.
Their sound is like the sound of chariots, † like the sound of fiery flames consuming stubble, † like a mighty army deployed for war.

6 Nations writhe in horror before them; †
all faces turn pale.
7 They attack as warriors attack; they scale walls as men of war do.

Each goes on his own path, † and they do not change their course.
8 They do not push each other; each proceeds on his own path.
They dodge the arrows, never stopping.
9 They storm the city; they run on the wall;
they climb into the houses; †
they enter through the windows like thieves. †

10 The earth quakes before them; †
the sky shakes.
The sun and moon grow dark, † and the stars cease their shining. † 11 The LORD makes his voice heard † in the presence of his army. †
His camp is very large;
those who carry out his command are powerful. † Indeed, the day of the LORD is terrible and dreadful † — who can endure it? †

GOD'S CALL FOR REPENTANCE

12 Even now — this is the LORD's declaration — turn to me with all your heart, † with fasting, weeping, and mourning. † 13 Tear your hearts, † not just your clothes, † and return to the LORD your God.
For he is gracious and compassionate, slow to anger, abounding in faithful love, and he relents from sending disaster. † 14 Who knows? He may turn and relent † and leave a blessing behind him, † so you can offer grain and wine to the LORD your God. †

15 Blow the horn in Zion! †

Announce a sacred fast; †
proclaim an assembly.
16 Gather the people; sanctify the congregation; † assemble the aged; † † gather the infants,
even babies nursing at the breast.
Let the groom leave his bedroom, † and the bride her honeymoon chamber.
17 Let the priests, † the LORD's ministers, weep between the portico and the altar. †
Let them say:
"Have pity on your people, LORD, † and do not make your inheritance a disgrace, † an object of scorn among the nations.
Why should it be said among the peoples, 'Where is their God?' " †

GOD'S RESPONSE TO HIS PEOPLE

18 Then the LORD became jealous for his land † and spared his people. † 19 The LORD answered his people:

Look, I am about to send you grain, new wine, and fresh oil. †
You will be satiated with them, and I will no longer make you a disgrace among the nations. †

20 I will drive the northerner far from you † and banish him to a dry and desolate land, his front ranks into the Dead Sea, † and his rear guard into the Mediterranean Sea. †
His stench will rise;
yes, his rotten smell will rise, † for he has done astonishing things.

21 Don't be afraid, land; † rejoice and be glad,

for the LORD has done astonishing things. † 22 Don't be afraid, wild animals, for the wilderness pastures have turned green, † the trees bear their fruit, and the fig tree and grapevine yield their riches.
23 Children of Zion, † rejoice and be glad in the LORD your God, † because he gives you the autumn rain for your vindication. † † He sends showers for you,
both autumn and spring rain † as before.
24 The threshing floors will be full of grain, † and the vats will overflow with new wine and fresh oil.

25 I will repay you for the years that the swarming locust ate, † the young locust, the destroying locust, and the devouring locust — my great army that I sent against you.
26 You will have plenty to eat and be satisfied. †
You will praise the name of the LORD your God, † who has dealt wondrously with you. †
My people will never again be put to shame. †
27 You will know that I am present in Israel † and that I am the LORD your God, and there is no other. †
My people will never again be put to shame. †

GOD'S PROMISE OF HIS SPIRIT

28 After this † I will pour out my Spirit † on all humanity; † then your sons and your daughters will prophesy, your old men will have dreams, and your young men will see visions.
29 I will even pour out my Spirit on the male and female slaves in those days. †

30 I will display wonders in the heavens and on the earth: † blood, fire, and columns of smoke.
31 The sun will be turned to darkness and the moon to blood † before the great and terrible day of the LORD comes. † 32 Then everyone who calls on the name of the LORD will be saved, † for there will be an escape for those on Mount Zion and in Jerusalem, as the LORD promised, † among the survivors the LORD calls.

2:1-2 The emphasis on the temple continues (1:9,13-14,16) with this first of two commands to blow the horn in Zion (vv. 1,15). The day of the LORD is further described as a day of darkness (see the note on Ezk 30:2-3), which involves the invasion of an unprecedented army (v. 2; see 1:2-3).

2:3 The transformation of an Eden-like land into a desert wasteland shows the fearsome power of the invading army (v. 2).

2:4-9 The blurring of the distinction between the swarm of locusts and an invading army has already begun with the references to a “great and strong people” in verse 2 and to a “nation” in 1:6. The lines are blurred even further with the blending of war imagery and locust imagery here (see Rv 9:3-11). The horror that comes upon peoples and upon every face shows that the “day of the LORD” concerns not only Israel but the whole earth (v. 6; see vv. 31-32; 3:9-16; the note on Ezk 30:2-3).

2:10 The quaking of heaven and earth is associated with eschatological events in Isaiah 13:10-13 (see note) and Haggai 2:6-9,21-23. Other prophetic texts similarly predict an earthquake (see the notes on Is 24:18-20; Jr 4:23-26).

2:11 The very large force (see v. 2) is called God’s army because it is the instrument of his judgment (see v. 25).

2:12-14 Reinforcing the earlier call to the priests to gather the people and “cry out to the LORD” in 1:13-14,

God directly calls for wholehearted repentance on the basis of his mercy (vv. 12-13), which was revealed to Moses long ago (Ex 34:6-7). Out of concern for his glory and his covenant, he did relent from bringing disaster on the Israelites for worshiping the golden calf (Ex 32:12-14). He could act similarly again (v. 14; 2Sm 24:16; Jr 18:8; Jnh 3:9).

2:15-17 Picking up on God's preceding call for repentance, everyone is to be called together to Zion to plead for God to have pity on his people (v. 17; see Jnh 4:11) and spare them from disgrace (see v. 1; 1:13-14; Ps 79:10).

2:18-19 In answer to prayer (v. 17), God indeed will be jealous for his land and have mercy on his people (Dt 32:43). Whereas their crops had been devoured previously (v. 3; 1:4-13,17), they would be satisfied with grain, new wine, and fresh oil and would no longer be a disgrace among the nations (see vv. 26-27).

2:20 The invading army comes from the north, in agreement with related prophetic passages (see the notes on Jr 3:12-13; 50:41; Ezk 38:4-13).

2:21-24 The enemy's mighty acts will be overshadowed and undone by God's (v. 21; Nm 23:23). Joy and gladness will return as God restores abundance to the land. Rain is also an image of restoration in the book of Hosea, where it is connected to God's coming (see Hs 6:3; 14:5) and to "righteousness" (Hs 10:12). Vindication in verse 23 can also be translated "righteousness."

2:25 The various types of locusts that consumed everything (1:4) would not only be banished (v. 20) but the years lost to them would be repaid by God.

2:26-27 God's deliverance will unmistakably demonstrate his presence in Israel and that he alone is God (see 3:17; Hs 12:10; 13:4).

2:28-29 The Spirit will be poured out not only on Israel but on all humanity (see v. 32; Is 40:5; 66:23). Outward signs that often accompany the Spirit coming upon a person are prophesying, dreams, and visions (see Ac 2:4). This fulfills Moses's wish in Numbers 11:29 and resolves the root problem in the hearts of sinners (Ezk 36:26-27; Hs 4:12; 5:4). The outpouring of the Spirit is associated with rain in Isaiah 32:15, and the same association seems to be present here (see v. 23; Hs 6:3; 10:12) 2:30-32 Despite the terrifying wonders (see vv. 2,3,10; 3:15; Nah 2:14), everyone who calls on the name of the LORD will be saved and find escape (Is 37:31-32; Ob 17). Utter destruction will be avoided by those who humbly repent and cry out to God (see vv. 12-17; 1:14). References to "nations" (v. 6; Ex 15:14), "humanity" (v. 28), and "human" (1:12) reinforce the worldwide scope of this passage.

JUDGMENT OF THE NATIONS

3 Yes, in those days and at that time, when I restore the fortunes of Judah and Jerusalem, †
2 I will gather all the nations † and take them to the Valley of Jehoshaphat. † †
I will enter into judgment with them there † because of my people, my inheritance Israel.
The nations have scattered the Israelites in foreign countries † and divided up my land. †

3 They cast lots for my people; †
they bartered a boy for a prostitute and sold a girl for wine to drink. †

4 And also: Tyre, † Sidon, and all the territories of Philistia † — what are you to me? Are you paying me back or trying to get even with me? I will quickly bring retribution on your heads. † 5 For you took my silver and gold and carried my finest treasures † to your temples. 6 You sold the people of Judah and Jerusalem to the Greeks † to remove them far from their own territory. 7 Look, I am about to rouse them up from the place where you sold them; † I will bring retribution on your heads. 8 I will sell your sons and daughters to the people of Judah, † and they will sell them to the Sabeans, † † to a distant nation, for the LORD has spoken.

9 Proclaim this among the nations: † Prepare for holy war; † rouse the warriors; †
let all the men of war advance and attack!
10 Beat your plows into swords and your pruning knives into spears. †
Let even the weakling say, “I am a warrior.”
11 Come quickly, † all you surrounding nations; gather yourselves. †
Bring down your warriors there, LORD. †

12 Let the nations be roused and come to the Valley of Jehoshaphat, for there I will sit down to judge all the surrounding nations. † 13 Swing the sickle because the harvest is ripe. †
Come and trample the grapes because the winepress is full; † the wine vats overflow because the wickedness of the nations is extreme. †

14 Multitudes, multitudes †

in the valley of decision!
For the day of the LORD is near †
in the valley of decision.
15 The sun and moon will grow dark, and the stars will cease their shining. † 16 The LORD will roar from Zion † and make his voice heard from Jerusalem; † heaven and earth will shake. †
But the LORD will be a refuge for his people, † a stronghold for the Israelites. †

ISRAEL BLESSED

17 Then you will know that I am the LORD your God, † who dwells in Zion, my holy mountain. † Jerusalem will be holy, † and foreigners will never overrun it again. † 18 In that day the mountains will drip with sweet wine, † and the hills will flow with milk. †
All the streams of Judah will flow with water, † and a spring will issue from the LORD's house, † watering the Valley of Acacias. † † 19 Egypt will become desolate, and Edom a desert wasteland, because of the violence done to the people of Judah †
in whose land they shed innocent blood.
20 But Judah will be inhabited forever, † and Jerusalem from generation to generation.
21 I will pardon their bloodguilt, † † which I have not pardoned, for the LORD dwells in Zion.

3:1 The references to those days and that time indicate that the outpouring of the Spirit on all flesh and salvation from destruction for all who call on God (2:28-32) will take place in the same general time period that God restores the fortunes of Judah and Jerusalem (see the notes on Jr 30:1-3; 33:11; Ezk 16:53).

3:2-8 Related to the restoration of Judah and Jerusalem (v. 1) will be judgment on the enemies who had scattered them (vv. 2-4). These were also guilty of looting the temple (v. 5; Hg 2:7-8) and selling the people of Judah to the Greeks (v. 6). Nevertheless, God would bring his people back from the place to which they were sold (v. 7). As retribution, the children of enemy nations will be sold to Judah, who will in turn sell them to a distant nation (v. 8; Ob 15-18). For more on the Valley of Jehoshaphat (v. 2), see the note on verse 12.

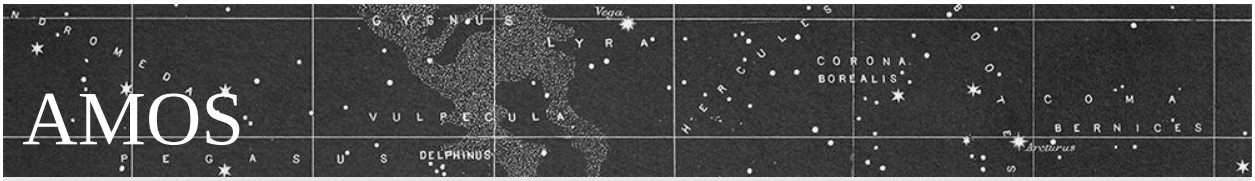
3:9-11 The gathering of the nations for war against God will be futile (see vv. 12-14). The transformation of farming tools into weapons (v. 10) will ultimately be reversed (Is 2:4).

3:12 The Valley of Jehoshaphat is not referred elsewhere in Scripture and appears to be a wordplay on the name Jehoshaphat, which means “the Lord judges” (see v. 14; see Hs 1:4-5,11; 2:2). His judgment of the nations (see v. 2) parallels prophetic passages such as Isaiah 2:4 and Ezekiel 38:22.

3:13 The bloodbath that results from God’s wrath is represented by the treading of grapes, a full winepress, and overflowing wine vats (see Is 63:1-3).

3:14-16 The darkening of heavenly bodies and the shaking of heaven and earth, which were also mentioned earlier (see 2:10,30-31), coincide with God’s judgment on the nations on the day of the LORD. Whereas his roaring like a lion shakes the universe (see Hs 11:10; Am 1:2), he will be a refuge for his people (v. 16; 2:32).

3:17-21 The dramatic judgment and salvation on the “day of the LORD” will result in knowledge of him who dwells in Zion (vv. 17,21). Holiness and fruitfulness will characterize Judah and Jerusalem (vv. 17-18; 2:18-27; Am 9:13-15; Zch 14:20-21). The spring that goes out from the temple parallels the life-giving river of Ezekiel 47:1-12. The secure, eternal dwelling of God’s people is explicitly linked to the messianic kingdom in Jeremiah 23:5-6; Ezekiel 37:25, and Amos 9:11-15.



AMOS

INTRODUCTION

Amos is the first of the four eighth-century BC prophets, which also included Hosea, Isaiah, and Micah. Along with Hosea, Amos's ministry was to Israel even though he was from Judah. He was a layman who did not consider himself a professional prophet (7:14-15). Through words and visions, Amos spoke against the superficial religious institutions of his day.

CIRCUMSTANCES OF WRITING

AUTHOR: Amos was a shepherd from Tekoa, a village about ten miles south of Jerusalem. He received a call from God to go north and prophesy against Samaria and the kingdom of Israel around 760 BC. We do not know how long he actually was in the north; it appears to have been a fairly short time. He provoked a great deal of opposition and anger, as illustrated by his encounter with Amaziah, the priest of Bethel (7:10-17). He wrote his book, a summary of his prophecies, after his return to Judah. He probably wrote it with the aid of a scribe.

BACKGROUND: Amos prophesied during the reigns of Uzziah of Judah (792–740 BC) and Jeroboam II of Israel (793–753 BC). This was a time of great prosperity and military success for both nations, as all their traditional enemies were in a weakened condition. Samaria, the capital city of Israel, enjoyed enormous wealth, and luxuries flowed into the city.

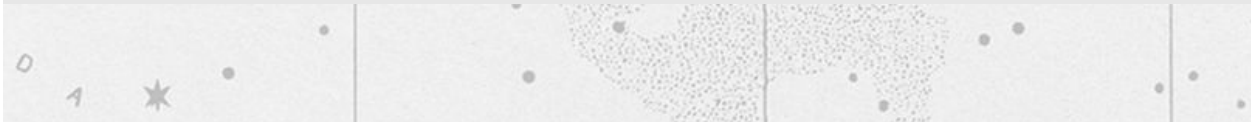
At the same time, decades of struggle with Damascus had left the population exhausted. Many farmers were reduced to poverty. Their more affluent neighbors, and especially the aristocracy, swooped in with loans that the poor could not repay and then reduced the debtors to slavery and seized their lands. The leaders of society believed they had no reason to fear for the future. Their city had high walls and fortified citadels, and their army was everywhere victorious. They were the chosen people of God, and they considered themselves immune from judgment.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE BIBLE

Amos reminds us of the sovereignty of God in his involvement with his people. God will bring his judgment, a reality that certainly came to pass. Amos's emphasis on the day of the Lord had implications for Amos's contemporaries, but it also reminds the modern reader of a coming day referred to repeatedly in the NT—the day of Christ's return.

STRUCTURE

After the superscript (1:1), the book of Amos is divided into seven parts. The first part, the introduction, is a single verse (1:2). This is followed by six major divisions: 1:3–2:16; 3:1-15; 4:1-13; 5:1–6:14; 7:1–8:3; 8:4–9:15. Remarkably, formulas of divine speech (statements such as, "the LORD says," "the LORD has spoken," and "the LORD's declaration") are evenly distributed in these sections. Amos 1:3–2:16 has fourteen such formulas, and each of the following sections have seven each, for a total of forty-nine. The basic structure and content of each section is described in the notes.



CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW ELEMENTS

TEACHINGS ABOUT GOD

God is absolutely sovereign. He raises up and puts down nations. He is also a God who reveals himself and his plans to "his servants the prophets" (Am 3:7). Therefore, he has revealed himself to be the Judge of all, pagan and people of God alike. He is also—and not least—a God who has a wonderful future for his people when they are restored at last (9:11-15).

TEACHINGS ABOUT HUMANITY

The people of Amos's day showed the universal human tendency to do the wrong thing rather than the right thing. In particular, this often evidences itself in perfunctory rituals (4:4-5). On the other hand, humanity will be salvaged. Both Israel and "all the nations that bear my name" (9:12) will one day experience unmeasured blessings. (James declared that this prophecy began to be fulfilled by Gentiles turning to Jesus, Ac 15:15-18.) TEACHINGS ABOUT SALVATION
In Amos redemption is based entirely on God's initiative. God reminded them that they were "the entire clan that I brought from the land of Egypt" and that "I have known only you out of all the clans of the earth" (Am 3:1-2). What God desires from redeemed people is righteous living and obedience. Religious rituals and festivals, even those that God commanded, cannot substitute for a right relationship with him (5:21-24).

JUDGMENT ON ISRAEL'S NEIGHBORS

3 The LORD says:

I will not relent from punishing Damascus † for three crimes, even four, † because they threshed Gilead with iron sledges.

4 Therefore, I will send fire against Hazael's palace, and it will consume Ben-hadad's † citadels.

5 I will break down the gates † † of Damascus.
I will cut off the ruler from the Valley of Aven, and the one who wields the scepter from Beth-eden.

The people of Aram will be exiled to Kir. †
The LORD has spoken.

6 The LORD says:

I will not relent from punishing Gaza †
for three crimes, even four, because they exiled a whole community, handing them over to Edom.
7 Therefore, I will send fire against the walls of Gaza, and it will consume its citadels.
8 I will cut off the ruler from Ashdod, † and the one who wields the scepter from Ashkelon. †
I will also turn my hand against Ekron, and the remainder of the Philistines † will perish.
The Lord GOD has spoken.

9 The LORD says:

I will not relent from punishing Tyre †
for three crimes, even four,
because they handed over a whole community of exiles to Edom and broke † a treaty of brotherhood. †
10 Therefore, I will send fire † against the walls of Tyre, and it will consume its citadels.

11 The LORD says:

I will not relent from punishing Edom †
for three crimes, even four, because he pursued his brother with the sword. †
He stifled his compassion, his anger tore at him † continually, and he harbored his rage incessantly.
12 Therefore, I will send fire against Teman, † and it will consume the citadels of Bozrah.

13 The LORD says:

I will not relent from punishing the Ammonites †
for three crimes, even four,
because they ripped open the pregnant women of Gilead † in order to enlarge their territory. † 14 Therefore, I will set fire to the walls of Rabbah, † and it will consume its citadels.
There will be shouting on the day of battle † and a violent wind on the day of the storm. †
15 Their king and his princes will go into exile together. †

1:1 Like Hosea (see Hs 1:1), Amos focuses his message on the northern kingdom of Israel (see 7:12-15). The Jeroboam referred to here is Jeroboam II (see 2Kg 14:23-29).

1:2 For the third time in the Minor Prophets, God is compared to a roaring lion (see Hs 11:10; Jl 3:16). Each time his power is dramatically displayed over created things.

1:3-5 The mere fact that God judges Gentile nations here and in the following verses shows that they are accountable to him for their rebellion (see Is 13–23; Jr 46–51; Ezk 25–32). This first oracle is against Damascus, the capital city of Syria (also called Aram), Israel's neighbor to the north. For three crimes, even four (v. 3) is an idiom, which means "more than enough" (see Pr 6:16-19; 30:18-19,21-23,29-31). Gilead was Israelite territory (see v. 13; Nm 26:29; 32:40), which had been treated with cruelty by Damascus (see 2Kg 13:7). Hazael was a king of Aram, as was his son Ben-hadad (v. 4; see 1Kg 19:15-17; 2Kg 13:3). Like Israel, they too would be exiled (v. 5; see the notes on Jr 46:17-19; Jr 48:7; 49:3).

1:6-8 The second oracle is against the Philistines, represented by the cities of Gaza, Ashdod, Ashkelon, and Ekron. This nation was guilty of handing over a whole community to Edom (v. 6; Ex 21:16). This was probably an Israelite community (see the note on v. 11). As in the previous oracle (v. 5), the king (the one who wields the scepter) will be cut off (v. 8).

1:9-10 The third oracle is against Tyre, an ancient city on the coast in modern Lebanon. It was known for trade and wealth. Its people were guilty of the same thing as Philistia (v. 6). God's judgment repeatedly consists of consuming fire that destroys cities and important buildings (vv. 4,7,12,14; 2:2,5).

1:11-12 The fourth oracle is against Edom, which was located southeast of Jerusalem in modern Jordan. Edom originated with Esau, Jacob's twin brother (cp. Gn 36); thus, that nation had a particularly close relationship to Israel. Nevertheless, Edom was cruel to his brother Israel (see Ob 10-14), provoking the wrath of God.

1:13-15 The fifth oracle is against the Ammonites, a nation situated to the east of Israel. The prophet states that they were also guilty of violence against Gilead (v. 13) and would also go into exile with their king and princes (see the note on vv. 3-5).

2 The LORD says:

I will not relent from punishing Moab †
for three crimes, even four, because he burned the bones of the king of Edom to lime. †
2 Therefore, I will send fire against Moab, and it will consume the citadels of Kerioth. †
Moab will die with a tumult, † with shouting and the sound of the ram's horn.
3 I will cut off the judge † from the land and kill all its officials † with him.
The LORD has spoken.

JUDGMENT ON JUDAH

4 The LORD says:

I will not relent from punishing Judah †
for three crimes, even four, because they have rejected the instruction of the LORD † and have not kept his statutes. †
The lies † that their ancestors followed † have led them astray.
5 Therefore, I will send fire † against Judah, and it will consume the citadels of Jerusalem.

JUDGMENT ON ISRAEL

6 The LORD says:

I will not relent from punishing Israel †
for three crimes, even four,
because they sell a righteous person for silver and a needy person for a pair of sandals. †

7 They trample the heads of the poor † on the dust of the ground and obstruct the path of the needy. †
A man and his father have sexual relations with the same girl, †
profaning my holy name. † 8 They stretch out beside every altar † on garments taken as collateral, † and in the house of their God they drink wine obtained through fines. †

9 Yet I destroyed the Amorite † as Israel advanced; his height † was like the cedars, and he was as sturdy as the oaks;
I destroyed his fruit † above and his roots beneath.
10 And I brought you from the land of Egypt † and led you forty years in the wilderness † in order to possess the land of the Amorite. † 11 I raised up some of your sons as prophets † and some of your young men as Nazirites. †
Is this not the case, Israelites?

This is the LORD's declaration.

12 But you made the Nazirites drink wine and commanded the prophets,
"Do not prophesy." †
13 Look, I am about to crush † you in your place †
as a wagon crushes when full of grain.
14 Escape will fail the swift, † the strong one will not maintain his strength, † and the warrior will not save his life.

15 The archer will not stand his ground, † the one who is swift of foot will not save himself, and the one riding a horse will not save his life. †

16 Even the most courageous of the warriors will flee naked on that day † —

this is the LORD's declaration.

2:1-3 The sixth oracle is against Moab, also east of Israel and to the south of Ammon (see 1:13-15). God holds the nations accountable not only for sins committed against Israel but also for sins committed against one another. Moab was guilty for having burned the bones of the king of Edom to lime (v. 1) and would die in tumult with her leaders (vv. 2-3).

2:4-5 The seventh oracle is against Judah, the sister nation of Israel that had been divided from it after the reign of Solomon. Judah was guilty of having rejected the instruction of the LORD and breaking his commandments. God's impartial justice is shown through sending fire against Judah's land and citadels (v. 5; see 3:11; Hs 8:14), just as he would do to other nations (v. 2; 1:4,7,10,12,14).

2:6-8 To this point, Amos's oracles have been directed at all of the nations (including Judah), which surrounded Israel. Now he adds Israel, his primary audience, to the list. This rhetorical move shows that Israel is no different than any of the other nations, even though they are the special people of God. As a prophet to the northern kingdom of Israel (1:1; 7:12-15), Amos proclaimed their judgment at greater length (vv. 6-16). They had brazenly oppressed the righteous and needy (v. 6; 4:1; 5:12; 8:6), engaged in sexual immorality (v. 7; Lv 18:15), and held on to garments as collateral (v. 8; Ex 22:26-27; Dt 24:12-13). All the while they maintained a superficial association with religion (4:4-5; 5:21-24). Whereas Gaza and Tyre had handed over Israelites to Edom (1:6,9,11), the Israelites were selling one another. Israel and the nations thus share the same essential problem of sin, and God's dealings with them share many commonalties (see the notes on 9:7-8; Jr 3:14-18; 48:45-47; 49:3).

2:12 Despite God's grace in bringing Israel out of Egypt to their own land and raising up godly prophets and Nazirites (vv. 9-11), the nation rejected God's authority by attempting to silence the prophets and to cause the Nazirites to violate their vows.

2:13-16 As a result of Israel's rejection of prophets and Nazirites (see the note on v. 12), God would bring crushing judgment on Israel (v. 13). Neither human strength nor military strength would be of any help (vv. 14-16).

GOD'S REASONS FOR PUNISHING ISRAEL

3 Listen to this message that the LORD has spoken against you, Israelites, against the entire clan that I brought from the land of Egypt: †

2 I have known only you † out of all the clans of the earth;
therefore, I will punish you for all your iniquities. † 3 Can two walk together † without agreeing to meet?
4 Does a lion roar † in the forest when it has no prey?
Does a young lion growl from its lair unless it has captured something?
5 Does a bird land in a trap on the ground if there is no bait for it?
Does a trap spring from the ground
when it has caught nothing?
6 If a ram's horn † is blown in a city, aren't people afraid? †
If a disaster † occurs in a city, hasn't the LORD done it? †
7 Indeed, the Lord GOD does nothing without revealing his counsel to his servants the prophets. † 8 A lion has roared; † who will not fear?
The Lord GOD has spoken; †
who will not prophesy? †

9 Proclaim on the citadels in Ashdod † and on the citadels in the land of Egypt: Assemble on the mountains of Samaria, † and see the great turmoil in the city and the acts of oppression within it. † 10 The people are incapable of doing right † — this is the LORD's declaration — those who store up violence and destruction † in their citadels.

11 Therefore, the Lord GOD says:

An enemy † will surround the land; he will destroy † your strongholds and plunder your citadels. †

12 The LORD says:

As the shepherd snatches two legs or a piece of an ear from the lion's mouth, †
so the Israelites who live in Samaria will be rescued with only the corner of a bed † or the † cushion † of a couch. † †

13 Listen and testify † against the house of Jacob — this is the declaration of the Lord GOD, the God of Armies.

14 I will punish the altars of Bethel † on the day I punish Israel for its crimes; the horns of the altar † will be cut off and fall to the ground. †

15 I will demolish the winter house † and the summer house; †
the houses inlaid with ivory † will be destroyed, and the great houses † will come to an end.

This is the LORD's declaration.

3:1-2 This new section (see Am 1–2) continues with judgment on Israel, whom God had chosen out of all the clans of the earth (see Gn 12:3; Ex 19:5) and brought up from the land of Egypt (see 2:10). Although the sins of the nations would also be punished, Israel had been given much (see Hs 2:20); much would be expected of them (Lk 12:48).

3:3-6 Each of these rhetorical questions expects a negative response and builds toward the implicit declaration that the coming disaster is the work of God (v. 6). The preceding imagery of a lion roaring over prey, a young lion having captured its food, a bird being caught in a trap, and the sound of a ram's horn depict destruction with increasing clarity (see Is 8:14; 24:17-18; Hs 5:14; 13:7-8; Jl 2:1,15). The two who walk together (v. 3) alludes to the special relationship between God and Israel (vv. 1-2). The Hebrew verb translated meet is used of God meeting with the Israelites at the tabernacle (Ex 25:22; 30:6), sometimes also referred to as a "tent of meeting" (Ex 29:42-43; 30:36; 40:2,6; not to be confused with Ex 33:7-11 [see note]).

3:7-8 God reveals his counsel to the prophets in advance so that they may prophesy. Another use of lion imagery in this context (see vv. 4,12) reinforces its earlier use to illustrate the overwhelming power and majesty of God (see the note on 1:2).

3:9-12 Samaria became the capital of the northern kingdom (see the note on 1Kg 16:23-26). The city was guilty of oppression (v. 9) and storing up violence and destruction in their citadels (v. 10; see v. 15), which themselves would be plundered by an enemy (v. 11; see the note on 2:4-5). Their devastation would be nearly complete (v. 12). All of this is proclaimed in Ashdod and Egypt (v. 9). Israel has no claim on moral superiority; the pagan nations watch as God judges his own people.

3:14-15 The altars of Bethel were related to the worship of a golden calf, as instituted by Jeroboam I (1Kg 12:28-29). Israel's "oppression" (v. 9) of the righteous and the poor (see the note on 2:6-8) was so that the rich could live in luxury. Their great houses would be destroyed (5:11; see Is 5:8; Hab 2:9-13).

SOCIAL AND SPIRITUAL CORRUPTION

4 Listen to this message, you cows of Bashan † who are on the hill of Samaria, women who oppress the poor and crush the needy, † who say to their husbands,
"Bring us something to drink." †

2 The Lord GOD has sworn † by his holiness: †

Look, the days are coming † when you will be taken away with hooks, † every last one of you with fishhooks. † 3 You will go through breaches in the wall, † each woman straight ahead, and you will be driven along toward Harmon.
This is the LORD's declaration.

4 Come to Bethel and rebel; rebel even more at Gilgal! † Bring your sacrifices every morning, † your tenths every three days.
5 Offer leavened bread as a thank offering, † and loudly proclaim your freewill offerings, † for that is what you Israelites love to do! †

This is the declaration of the Lord GOD.

GOD'S DISCIPLINE AND ISRAEL'S APOSTASY

6 I gave you absolutely nothing to eat † † in all your cities,
a shortage of food in all your communities, yet you did not return to me. †
This is the LORD's declaration.

7 I also withheld the rain from you † while there were still three months until harvest.
I sent rain on one city but no rain on another. † One field received rain
while a field with no rain withered. † 8 Two or three cities staggered to another city to drink water † but were not satisfied, †
yet you did not return † to me.
This is the LORD's declaration.

9 I struck you with blight and mildew; † the locust devoured † your many gardens and vineyards, your fig trees and olive trees, †
yet you did not return to me. †
This is the LORD's declaration.

10 I sent plagues like those of Egypt; †
I killed your young men with the sword, † along with your captured horses. †
I caused the stench of your camp to fill your nostrils, †
yet you did not return to me. †
This is the LORD's declaration.

11 I overthrew some of you as I † overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah, † and you were like a burning stick snatched from a fire, † yet you did not return to me † — This is the LORD's declaration.

12 Therefore, Israel, that is what I will do to you, and since I will do that to you, Israel, prepare to meet your God! †
13 He is here: the one who forms the mountains, † creates the wind, † and reveals his thoughts to man, † the one who makes the dawn out of darkness and strides on the heights
of the earth. †
The LORD, the God of Armies, is his name. †

4:1 Some women were complicit in oppressing the poor and needy (see the note on 2:6-8; 3:15; Is 3:16–4:1), while indulging their own appetites. Bashan was a prime region for cattle to the northeast. Amos calls the women cows as an insulting rebuke for their lazy lifestyle built on the backs of others.

4:2 Being caught with hooks is also a picture of judgment in Isaiah 37:29; Ezekiel 19:4,9; 29:4 and 38:4. Fish are also mentioned in several other passages in the Minor Prophets (Hs 4:3; Jnh 1:17; 2:10; Hab 1:14; Zph 1:3,10).

4:4-5 Bethel had historically been an important place in the history of Israel's relationship with God (cp. Gn 12:8; 28:10-22). Now it was the site of one of the golden calves (see the note on 3:14-15). Gilgal was a place to rebel even more (see the note on Hs 9:15-17). The sacrifices, tithes, and offerings offered at these places were useless and made for show (see 2:6-8; 5:21-24; Mt 6:1; 23:5).

4:6-11 Despite God sending famine, drought, blight, mildew, locusts, ruthless foreign armies, and destruction (see Dt 28:15-68), Israel still did not return to him.

4:12-13 Israel's stubborn refusal to repent would result in the mighty and majestic God himself coming to meet them directly (see 1:2; 5:8-9,16-20; Jb 28:25-28; Mc 1:3).

LAMENTATION FOR ISRAEL

5 Listen to this message that I am singing for you, a lament, † house of Israel:

2 She has fallen; Virgin Israel † will never rise again. †
She lies abandoned on her land with no one to raise her up. †

3 For the Lord GOD says:

The city that marches out a thousand strong will have only a hundred left, † and the one that marches out a hundred strong will have only ten left † in the house of Israel.

SEEK GOD AND LIVE

4 For the LORD says to the house of Israel:

Seek me and live! †
5 Do not seek Bethel † or go to Gilgal † or journey to Beer-sheba, † for Gilgal will certainly go into exile, and Bethel will come to nothing.
6 Seek the LORD † and live, or he will spread like fire † throughout the house of Joseph;
it will consume everything with no one at Bethel to extinguish it. † 7 Those who turn justice into wormwood †

also throw righteousness to the ground.

8 The one who made the Pleiades and Orion, † who turns darkness † into dawn † and darkens day into night, † who summons the water of the sea † and pours it out over the surface of the earth † — the LORD is his name. † 9 He brings destruction † on the strong, † † and it falls on the fortress. †

10 They hate the one who convicts the guilty † at the city gate,
and they despise † the one who speaks with integrity.
11 Therefore, because you trample on the poor † and exact a grain tax from him, you will never live in the houses of cut stone †
you have built;
you will never drink the wine from the lush vineyards
you have planted. †
12 For I know your crimes are many and your sins innumerable.
They oppress the righteous, † take a bribe, and deprive the poor of justice †
at the city gates.
13 Therefore, those who have insight will keep silent † † at such a time,
for the days are evil.

14 Pursue good and not evil so that you may live, and the LORD, the God of Armies, will be with you as you have claimed. † 15 Hate evil and love good; † establish justice in the city gate. †

Perhaps the LORD, the God of Armies, will be gracious † to the remnant of Joseph. †

16 Therefore the LORD, the God of Armies, the Lord, says:

There will be wailing in all the public squares; †
they will cry out in anguish † in all the streets.
The farmer will be called on to mourn, † and professional mourners † † to wail.
17 There will be wailing in all the vineyards, † for I will pass among you. †
The LORD has spoken.

THE DAY OF THE LORD

18 Woe to you who long for the day of the LORD! †
What will the day of the LORD be for you?
It will be darkness and not light. †
19 It will be like a man who flees from a lion † only to have a bear confront him.
He goes home and rests his hand against the wall only to have a snake bite him.
20 Won't the day of the LORD be darkness rather than light, † even gloom without any brightness in it? † 21 I hate, I despise, your feasts! †
I can't stand the stench of your solemn assemblies. †
22 Even if you offer me your burnt offerings and grain offerings, †
I will not accept them; †
I will have no regard for your fellowship offerings of fattened cattle. † 23 Take away from me the noise of your songs!
I will not listen to the music of your harps. †

24 But let justice flow like water, and righteousness, like an unfailing stream. †

25 "House of Israel, was it sacrifices and grain offerings that you presented to me during the forty years in the wilderness? † 26 But you have taken up † Sakkuth your king and Kaiwan your star god, † images you have made for yourselves. † 27 So I will send you into exile beyond Damascus." † The LORD, the God of Armies, is his name. † He has spoken.

5:2 The depiction of Israel as a fallen, helpless, and lonely woman parallels that of Jerusalem in Lamentations 1:1-2. It also looks forward to the restoration of "the fallen shelter of David" in Amos 9:11.

5:4-6 God calls Israel to seek him and live (Hs 10:12), rather than seeking the idolatrous shrines at Bethel, Gilgal, and Beer-sheba (see the notes on 3:14-15; 8:14; Hs 9:15-17). The Hebrew phrase translated will certainly go into exile is a wordplay on the name "Gilgal." The Hebrew word translated nothing is 'awen and relates to references to Bethel as Beth-Aven (Hs 4:15; 5:8; 10:5,8).

5:10-13 Israel's rejection of "justice" and "righteousness" (v. 7; 6:12) is detailed further here (see the note on 2:6-8). The people hated the upright and oppressed the poor, while indulging in luxury (vv. 10-12; 3:15–4:1; 6:4-6,11). Their corrupt acts of building and planting, however, would be futile (see 9:11-15; Hs 2:23; Jr 24:6).

5:14-15 Closely related to seeking God unto life (vv. 4,6) is seeking good and not evil so that you may live (see Hs 3:5). To do so is also to hate evil, love good, and establish justice in the city gate (see vv. 10,12).

5:16-17 Despite the wish for divine grace on "the remnant of Joseph" (v. 15) and its eventual bestowal (9:14), mourning would come first. The reference to God passing among you echoes the Passover (Ex 12:12), except this time it will be Israel being judged (see Jl 1:9-13; 2:12).

5:18-20 As in Joel (see Jl 1:15; 2:1,11,31; 3:14), the catastrophic day of darkness and destruction is called the day of the LORD. This is the first mention of this concept in Amos. It is the time in the indeterminate future when God breaks into history to bring judgment on his enemies and salvation for his people. In this case, however, Amos states that it is not good news for Israel. Because of the people's sin, it will be a time of darkness and not light; a time of judgment and doom. Multiple beasts are also related to the defeat of Israel in Hosea 13:7-8.

5:21-24 Israel hated justice (v. 10) rather than evil (v. 15), and God aptly declares that he hates their religious gatherings (v. 21). Their sacrifices and their songs are also distasteful to him (vv. 22-23; Hs 6:6; Mc 6:6-8) because they had forsaken justice and righteousness (v. 24; see v. 7; Is 9:7; Jr 23:5-6). The desire that these flow like water and an unfailing stream echoes passages such as Hosea 10:12 (see note), Joel 2:21-24,28-29 (see notes), and Habakkuk 2:14.

5:25-27 The point of the rhetorical question in verse 25 is that Israel did not offer such sacrifices while in the wilderness, despite the many instructions concerning them. Hence, in and of themselves, apart from an obedient relationship with God, they are of no value in pleasing him (see Gn 4:3-5; 1Sm 15:22-23; Jr 7:21-23; Hs 6:6; Mc 6:6-7), especially for idolaters (vv. 26-27; Ac 7:42-43).

WOE TO THE COMPLACENT

6 Woe to those who are at ease in Zion † and to those who feel secure on the hill of Samaria — the notable people in this first of the nations, those the house of Israel comes to.

2 Cross over to Calneh † and see; go from there to great Hamath; † then go down to Gath † of the Philistines.
Are you better than these kingdoms?
Is their territory larger than yours?

3 You dismiss any thought of the evil day † and bring in a reign of violence. †

4 They lie on beds inlaid with ivory, † sprawled out on their couches, † and dine on lambs from the flock † and calves from the stall.

5 They improvise songs † to the sound of the harp † and invent † their own musical instruments like David. †

6 They drink wine by the bowlful † and anoint themselves with the finest oils but do not grieve over the ruin of Joseph. †

7 Therefore, they will now go into exile as the first of the captives, † and the feasting † of those who sprawl out will come to an end.

ISRAEL'S PRIDE JUDGED

8 The Lord GOD has sworn by himself † — this is the declaration of the LORD,
the God of Armies:

I loathe Jacob's pride † and hate his citadels, †
so I will hand over the city † and everything in it.

9 And if there are ten men left in one house, they will die. † 10 A close relative † and burner † † will remove his corpse † from the house. He will call to someone in the inner recesses of the house, "Any more with you? "
That person will reply, "None."
Then he will say, "Silence, because the LORD's name must not be invoked." †
11 For the LORD commands:

The large house will be smashed to pieces, and the small house to rubble. †

12 Do horses gallop on the cliffs?
Does anyone plow there with oxen? †
Yet you have turned justice into poison † and the fruit of righteousness into wormwood † — 13 you who rejoice over Lo-debar † and say, "Didn't we capture Karnaim for ourselves by our own strength? " † 14 But look, I am raising up a nation against you, house of Israel † — this is the declaration of the Lord, the GOD of Armies — and they will oppress you from the entrance of Hamath † † to the Brook of the Arabah. †

6:1-7 Zion is a name for the temple mount in Jerusalem and sometimes, by metonymy, a reference to Jerusalem itself. It is the epicenter of God's salvific work and victory. Yet here it is confronted for sin along with the northern kingdom's capital, Samaria (v. 1). Neither kingdom was any better than Gentiles kingdoms that had already fallen (v. 2; see the note on 2:4-5; Is 10:9; 37:13). In their complacency and excess that came from oppression (vv. 4-6; 3:15; 4:1; 5:11), they dismissed warnings of the evil day (v. 3; see 5:18-20), but they would indeed go into exile (v. 7; 5:27).

6:8 This time using an oath (see 4:2), God declares that he also hates Israel's citadels (see the notes on 2:4-5; 3:9-12; 5:21-24). The people's pride can be seen in passages such as verses 3-6,13.

6:12 Israel's perversion of justice and righteousness is highlighted again (5:7,21).

6:14 The entrance of Hamath and the Brook of the Arabah were the northern and southern boundaries of Israel, respectively, during the reign of Jeroboam II (see 1:1; 2Kg 14:25).

FIRST VISION: LOCUSTS

7 The Lord GOD showed me this: He was forming a swarm of locusts † at the time the spring crop first began to sprout — after the cutting of the king's hay. 2 When the locusts finished eating the vegetation of the land, † I said, "Lord GOD, please forgive! † How will Jacob survive since he is so small? " †

3 The LORD relented concerning this. † "It will not happen," he said.

SECOND VISION: FIRE

4 The Lord GOD showed me this: The Lord GOD was calling for a judgment by fire. † It consumed the great deep and devoured the land. 5 Then I said, "Lord GOD, please stop! † How will Jacob survive since he is so small? "

6 The LORD relented concerning this. † "This will not happen either," said the Lord GOD.

THIRD VISION: A PLUMB LINE

7 He showed me this: The Lord was standing there by a vertical wall with a plumb line in his hand. 8 The LORD asked me, "What do you see, Amos? " †
I replied, "A plumb line."

Then the Lord said, "I am setting a plumb line among my people Israel; † I will no longer spare them: †

9 Isaac's high places † will be deserted, and Israel's sanctuaries will be in ruins; †
I will rise up against the house of Jeroboam with a sword."

AMAZIAH'S OPPOSITION

10 Amaziah the priest † of Bethel sent word to King Jeroboam of Israel, saying, "Amos has conspired against you † right here in the house of Israel. The land cannot endure all his words, 11 for Amos has said this: 'Jeroboam will die by the sword, and Israel will certainly go into exile from its homeland.' " †
12 Then Amaziah said to Amos, "Go away, you seer! † Flee to the land of Judah. Earn your living † and give your prophecies there, 13 but don't ever prophesy † at Bethel again, for it is the king's sanctuary † and a royal temple."
14 So Amos answered Amaziah, "I was † not a prophet or the son of a prophet; † † rather, I was † a herdsman, † and I took care of sycamore figs.
15 But the LORD took me from following the flock † and said to me, 'Go, prophesy to my people Israel.' " †
16 Now hear the word of the LORD. You say:

Do not prophesy † against Israel; do not preach † against the house of Isaac.

17 Therefore, this is what the LORD says:

Your wife will be a prostitute in the city, † your sons and daughters will fall by the sword, † and your land will be divided up with a measuring line.
You yourself will die on pagan † soil, † and Israel will certainly go into exile † from its homeland.

7:1-9 In response to Amos's intercession, God relented from bringing locusts and fire upon Israel (v. 6). Nevertheless, he used the image of a plumb line (v. 7) to show that Israel was not in compliance with his covenant expectations. Therefore, judgment would not be held back (v. 8) so that Israel's idolatrous high places and sanctuaries would be destroyed (v. 9). The use of an instrument of measurement suggests that punishment cannot be avoided because of the fixed standard of God's justice and holiness.

7:10-17 Amos's message of doom (see v. 9) led to accusations of conspiracy (vv. 10-11) and to rejection (vv. 12-13). As priest of Bethel, a major site of idolatry and faithlessness to God (v. 10; see the note on 4:4-5), Amaziah was naturally threatened by the prophet's message. Amos explains that God's calling to prophesy specifically to Israel had come while he was still a herdsman (vv. 14-15). His point is that the message is not his own. It comes from God and is thus authoritative. He then responds with yet another prophetic message that reaffirmed impending exile and pronounced judgment on Amaziah (vv. 16-17; see v. 9; 5:27; 6:7).

FOURTH VISION: A BASKET OF SUMMER FRUIT

8 The Lord GOD showed me this: a basket of summer fruit. 2 He asked me, "What do you see, Amos? " †
I replied, "A basket of summer fruit." † †
The LORD said to me, "The end has come for my people Israel; † I will no longer spare them. † 3 In that day the temple † songs † will become wailing" † — this is the Lord GOD's declaration. "Many dead bodies, thrown everywhere! † Silence! " †

4 Hear this, you who trample on the needy † and do away with the poor of the land, † 5 asking, "When will the New Moon be over so we may sell grain, † and the Sabbath,
so we may market wheat? †
We can reduce the measure while increasing the price † and cheat with dishonest scales. † 6 We can buy the poor with silver and the needy for a pair of sandals † and even sell the chaff! "

7 The LORD has sworn † by the Pride of Jacob: † †

I will never forget all their deeds. †
8 Because of this, won't the land quake † and all who dwell in it mourn? †
All of it will rise like the Nile; † it will surge and then subside like the Nile in Egypt. †

9 And in that day — this is the declaration of the Lord GOD — I will make the sun go down at noon; †
I will darken the land in the daytime. †
10 I will turn your feasts into mourning † and all your songs into lamentation; †
I will cause everyone † to wear sackcloth † and every head to be shaved. †
I will make that grief like mourning for an only son † and its outcome like a bitter day.

11 Look, the days are coming — this is the declaration of the Lord GOD — when I will send a famine through the land: not a famine of bread or a thirst for water, but of hearing the words of the LORD. †
12 People will stagger from sea to sea and roam from north to east seeking the word of the LORD, † but they will not find it.
13 In that day the beautiful young women, † the young men also, will faint from thirst. † 14 Those who swear by the guilt of Samaria † and say, "As your god lives, Dan," † or, “As the way † † of Beer-sheba lives” † — they will fall, never to rise again. †

8:1-2 The Hebrew word for summer sounds like the word for end (see Ezk 7:2-6; Dn 11:35; 12:4; Hab 2:3). The resulting wordplay is poignant: what should be a celebration for the time of harvest will instead be a time of destruction (5:17-20,27; 6:7; 7:9,17).

8:3 God’s displeasure with such songs was mentioned in 5:27 (see 6:5; 8:10). Corpses everywhere and silence also appear together in 6:9-10 (see Hab 2:20; Zph 1:7; 2:13).

8:4-10 Israel’s oppression of the poor along with dishonest business practices are again cited as the reason for the coming catastrophic judgment (vv. 4-7; see the notes on 2:6-8; 4:1; 5:10-13). The description of this day as one of darkness and mourning (vv. 8-10) matches that of the “day of the LORD” in 5:16-20 (see Jl 1:5-13; 2:31). Likewise, the land will quake on that day (v. 8; see the notes on Jl 2:10; 3:14-16). Such intense mourning like that over an only son also appears in Zechariah 12:10.

8:11-12 The famine that Israel had experienced (4:6-9; see Hs 2:9-12; Jl 1:4-12) would be projected onto the spiritual plane through a famine in hearing the words of the LORD (see the note on Hs 10:12). Such judgment was fitting for a nation that had repeatedly rejected the prophets (2:12; 7:10-13).

8:14 Jeroboam had set up one of the golden calves in Dan (1Kg 12:29-30). Beer-sheba (in Judah) was also a site of deviant worship (see the note on 5:4-6; 2Kg 23:8).

FIFTH VISION: THE LORD BESIDE THE ALTAR

9 I saw the Lord standing beside the altar, † and he said:

Strike the capitals of the pillars † so that the thresholds shake;
knock them down on the heads of all the people.
Then I will kill the rest of them with the sword. †
None of those who flee will get away; †
none of the fugitives will escape.
2 If they dig down to Sheol, † from there my hand will take them;

if they climb up to heaven, †
from there I will bring them down.
3 If they hide on the top of Carmel, from there I will track them down † and seize them;
if they conceal themselves from my sight on the sea floor, † from there I will command
the sea serpent to bite them. † 4 And if they are driven by their enemies into captivity, † from there I will command
the sword to kill them. †
I will keep my eye on them for harm and not for good. †

5 The Lord, the God of Armies — he touches the earth; † it melts, and all who dwell in it mourn; all of it rises like the Nile and subsides like the Nile of Egypt. † 6 He builds his upper chambers in the heavens † and lays the foundation of his vault on the earth. †
He summons the water of the sea and pours it out over the surface of the earth. †
The Lord is his name. †

ANNOUNCEMENT OF JUDGMENT

7 Israelites, are you not like the Cushites to me? †
This is the Lord's declaration.
Didn't I bring Israel from the land of Egypt, the Philistines from Caphtor, † † and the Arameans from Kir? † 8 Look, the eyes of the Lord God are on the sinful kingdom, † and I will obliterate it from the face of the earth. †

However, I will not totally destroy the house of Jacob † — this is the LORD's declaration — 9 for I am about to give the command, and I will shake the house of Israel † among all the nations,
as one shakes a sieve,
but not a pebble will fall to the ground.
10 All the sinners among my people † who say: "Disaster will never overtake † or confront us," †
will die by the sword.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF RESTORATION

11 In that day I will restore the fallen shelter † of David: † I will repair its gaps, restore its ruins, † and rebuild it as in the days of old, † 12 so that they may possess the remnant of Edom † and all the nations that bear my name — † †
this is the declaration of the LORD; he will do this.

13 Look, the days are coming — this is the LORD's declaration — when the plowman will overtake the reaper † and the one who treads grapes,
the sower of seed.
The mountains will drip with sweet wine, and all the hills will flow with it. †
14 I will restore the fortunes of my people Israel. † †
They will rebuild and occupy ruined cities, † plant vineyards and drink their wine, make gardens and eat their produce. † 15 I will plant them on their land, and they will never again be uprooted from the land I have given them. †
The LORD your God has spoken.

9:1 Amos sees a vision of God standing beside the altar to announce the destruction of the temple at Bethel. This will put an end to Israel's sins at such places (2:8; 3:14; 5:22; see Hab 2:20; Mal 3:1) 9:2-4 The inability of anyone to escape death (v. 1) is reinforced through this passage (see Ob 3-4). For a second time, Israel's judgment is compared to being bitten by a serpent (v. 3; 5:19; see Nm 21:6; Mc 7:17). God's setting his eye on them for harm and not for good (v. 4) parallels Jeremiah 21:10; 39:16; and 44:27.

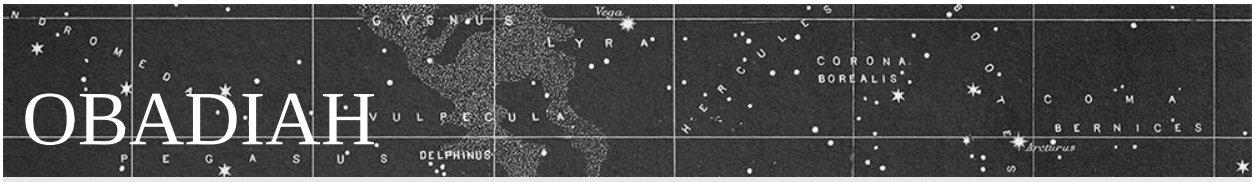
9:5-6 God's majesty and power over creation were also the subject of 4:13 and 5:8-9.

9:7-8 In the eyes of God, Israel was essentially no different from the surrounding nations (see the note on 2:4-5; 6:2). Just as he brought Israel out of Egypt, so he had brought the Philistines from Caphtor and the Arameans from Kir. Israel was a sinful kingdom and would be destroyed, though not completely (v. 8).

9:9 The restoration of Israel will involve shaking the house of Israel among all the nations. This is similar to Haggai 2:6-7.

9:11-12 Although "the sinful kingdom" of Israel would be destroyed (v. 8; 7:11; Hs 7:7; 10:3,7,15), God would restore the fallen shelter of David. Judah and the house of David would also fall in conquest, but God would bring the Messiah in faithfulness to his covenant with David (2Sm 7:12-16; Is 11:1-4). The repair of breaches and rebuilding of ruins echoes other important prophetic passages (Is 61:4; Jr 1:10; 24:6; Ezk 13:5; 22:30). Edom may represent all humanity here (see the notes on Is 34:5; 63:1), especially in view of its association with all the nations (v. 12; Ob19-21). Israel was "called by my name" (2Ch 7:14), as was the temple (Jr 7:10-11,14), and Jerusalem (Jr 25:29). The nations being similarly called suggests their salvation through the Messiah (see Is 11:10; 43:6-7; 56:3-7).

9:13-15 The future salvation of Israel is again depicted with images of a fruitful land (see Hs 2:15; Jl 2:22-26). This resolves the punishment of a barren land (4:6-9), while simultaneously relating to the permanent "planting" of Israel (v. 15; Jr 24:6; see the notes on Hs 2:21-23; 10:12; 14:5-7). Elsewhere in the Minor Prophets, God also promises to restore the fortunes (v. 14) of his people (see Hs 6:11; Jl 3:1; Ob 1:11).



OBADIAH

INTRODUCTION

Many Prophetic Books contain prophecies against several nations, but the book of Obadiah focuses exclusively on the nation of Edom. Obadiah's short message centers on the approaching day of the Lord and the promise that Israel will possess the land of Edom.

CIRCUMSTANCES OF WRITING

AUTHOR: Presumably Obadiah (v. 1) was the author of this book, but nothing else is known about him. His common Hebrew name, denoting "servant of the Lord," is shared by at least a dozen persons in the OT.

BACKGROUND: The time of writing of Obadiah is disputed, with a wide variety of proposed dates from the tenth to the fifth centuries BC, depending on when the invasion and plunder of Jerusalem (vv. 11-14) occurred. The two most popular views are during the reign of King Jehoram of Judah (ca. 848–841 BC) and shortly after the final destruction of Jerusalem by the Babylonians (587/586 BC).

The former date (ca 845 BC) was when the Philistines and Arabs plundered Judah (2Ch 21:16-17) and the Edomites revolted (2Kg 8:20), presumably then becoming allies of the invaders. Since the text does not explicitly indicate the cooperation of the Edomites with the Philistines and Arabs, the latter date (mid-sixth or even fifth century BC) fits the biblical data better, including Ob 20 (the dispersed exiles of the Israelites and of Jerusalem to be restored), as opposed to dates before the dispersion of Israel (by 722 BC) or of Judah (605–586 BC). This postexilic view is also supported by the mention of Edomite involvement in Jerusalem's downfall (Ob 10-14, gloating over the fall of Jerusalem, as in other sixth-century BC texts—Lm 4:21a; Ezk 35:15; cp. Lm 2:15-17—and participating in the plunder) which would result in the Lord's promised justice ("As you have done, it will be done to you" on their heads, Ob 15).

CONTRIBUTION TO THE BIBLE

Like the book of Revelation, which proclaims the downfall of the persecuting Roman Empire, the book of Obadiah sustains faith in God's moral government and hope in the eventual triumph of his just will. It brings a pastoral message to aching hearts that God is on his throne and he cares for his own.

STRUCTURE

The text declares the book of Obadiah is a prophetic "vision" from the Lord (v. 1) which also appears to be a war oracle (v. 1) communicating the Lord's imminent judgment upon Edom (v v. 2-9). As a subtype of the prophetic "oracle against foreign nations" (Is 13–23; Jr 46–51; Ezk 25–32; Am 1–2; Zph 2:4-15), it is typical in announcing judgment on a foreign power (specifically Edom; see also Lm 4:21-22) to bring deliverance for Judah (Ob 17-20; see Jr 46:25-28; Nah 1:1-15; Zph 3:14-20). Yet it, like Nahum and Jonah, is atypical in focusing solely on judgment for a foreign nation, rather than specifying judgment for Israel as well.

This shortest OT book consists of several parts. A war oracle from the Lord announces certain judgment on Edom for their arrogant presumption and self-deception (v. 3) that they were immune from divine intervention (v v. 1-9). Next is an explanation of the further cause for coming judgment on Edom (v v. 10-14)—a lack of brotherly commitment (v v. 10-11) in gloating over the day of disaster for God's people Judah (v v. 12-13) and cooperating with Judah's enemies in her destruction (v v. 10-11,13-14). Then the text focuses on the day of the Lord (v v. 15-21) in which imminent judgment on the historical nation of Edom (v v. 15-16), followed by ultimate judgment on “Edom” as representative of Israel’s end-time enemies (v. 16), would result in the deliverance of both Judah and Israel (v v. 17-21).

CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW ELEMENTS

TEACHINGS ABOUT GOD

God’s justice in dealing with human sin is displayed in Obadiah. His promised destruction of Edom will be based on the criterion in verse 15.

TEACHINGS ABOUT HUMANITY

On one hand, Obadiah continues the biblical emphasis that there are only two kinds of people: those who belong to “Mount Zion” (God’s covenant people) and all the rest. On the other hand, the book shows that when God judges people and nations, he will have enough evidence to condemn them based on their (mis)treatment of others.

TEACHINGS ABOUT SALVATION

In Obadiah salvation is thought of in terms of God’s ultimate deliverance of his people based on his sovereign care: “There will be a deliverance on Mount Zion” (v. 17). Nothing is said about personal conversion.

OBADIAH TIMELINE

1900–1000 BC

Edomites are descendants of Esau and seen as “brothers of Israel.” 1900

The Edomites refused the Israelites’ passage through their land as Israel journeyed from Egypt to Canaan. 1406

Egyptian texts from about 1300–1100 refer to Shasu, apparently semi-nomadic tribes, from Seir and Edom.

Saul delivers Israel from the hands of neighbors on almost all sides, including Edom. 1020

1000–900 BC

David resisted Edom’s encroachment on Israel by striking down 18,000 Edomites in the region of the Dead Sea. To further secure Israel’s southeastern flank, David builds garrisons throughout Edom, which are then subject to David. 982

Hadad, a member of Edom’s royal family, flees to Egypt during the time David subjected Edom. When Solomon was king, God brought Hadad back as an enemy of Solomon, a disciplinary measure for Solomon’s turning away from God. 940

During Jehoram’s reign as king of the southern kingdom, Edom begins to rebel against domination by Judah and becomes an independent state with its own king. 848–841

Some interpreters place Obadiah's prophecy in the ninth century when Edom rebelled against Judah. 848–841

600–500 BC

Edom puts aside its hostilities toward Judah during the reign of Zedekiah. 594

Edom becomes Judah's ally in resisting the Babylonians. 594

Edom soon commits an act of hostility against Judah that brings impassioned denunciation of Edom from Jeremiah, a psalmist (Ps 137), and Ezekiel. 586

The more likely setting of Obadiah's prophecy is in this era surrounding the Babylonian devastation of Jerusalem and the temple. 586

The vision of Obadiah.

1 EDOM'S CERTAIN JUDGMENT

This is what the Lord GOD has said about Edom: †

We have heard a message from the LORD; †
an envoy has been sent † among the nations: "Rise up, † and let us go to war against her." †

2 Look, I will make you insignificant †
among the nations;
you will be deeply despised.

3 Your arrogant heart has deceived you, † you who live in clefts of the rock † † † in your home on the heights, who say to yourself,
"Who can bring me down to the ground? " †

4 Though you seem to soar † like an eagle † and make your nest among the stars, † even from there I will bring you down.
This is the LORD's declaration.

5 If thieves came to you, † if marauders by night —
how ravaged you would be! — wouldn't they steal only what they wanted?
If grape pickers came to you, wouldn't they leave some grapes? †

6 How Esau will be pillaged, † his hidden treasures searched out! † 7 Everyone who has a treaty with you † will drive you to the border; everyone at peace with you will deceive and conquer you.
Those who eat your bread † will set † a trap for you.
He will be unaware of it. †
8 In that day — this is the LORD's declaration — will I not eliminate the wise ones of Edom † and those who understand from the hill country of Esau?
9 Teman, † † your warriors † will be terrified so that everyone from the hill country of Esau will be destroyed by slaughter. †

EDOM'S SINS AGAINST JUDAH

10 You will be covered with shame and destroyed forever because of violence done to your brother Jacob. † 11 On the day you stood aloof, † on the day strangers captured his wealth, † while foreigners entered his city gate and cast lots for Jerusalem, † you were just like one of them. † 12 Do not † gloat over your brother † in the day of his calamity; do not rejoice over the people of Judah † in the day of their destruction; do not boastfully mock † † in the day of distress. †
13 Do not enter my people's city gate in the day of their disaster. †
Yes, you — do not gloat over their misery in the day of their disaster, and do not appropriate their possessions † in the day of their disaster.

14 Do not stand at the crossroads † † to cut off their fugitives, and do not hand over their survivors in the day of distress.

JUDGMENT OF THE NATIONS

15 For the day of the LORD † is near, against all the nations. †
As you have done, † it will be done to you; what you deserve will return on your own head. † 16 As you have drunk on my holy mountain, † so all the nations will drink continually. †
They will drink and gulp down and be as though they had never been.
17 But there will be a deliverance on Mount Zion, † and it will be holy; † the house of Jacob will dispossess †
those who dispossessed them. † † 18 Then the house of Jacob will be a blazing fire, † and the house of Joseph, a burning flame, but the house of Esau will be stubble;
Jacob † will set them on fire and consume Edom. † Therefore no survivor will remain † of the house of Esau,
for the LORD has spoken.

FUTURE BLESSING FOR ISRAEL

19 People from the Negev will possess † the hill country of Esau; †
those from the Judean foothills will possess the land of the Philistines. †
They † will possess the territories of Ephraim and Samaria, † while Benjamin will possess Gilead.
20 The exiles of the Israelites who are in Halah † and who are among the Canaanites as far as Zarephath † as well as the exiles of Jerusalem who are in Sepharad will possess the cities of the Negev. †

21 Saviors † will ascend Mount Zion † to rule over the hill country of Esau, but the kingdom will be the LORD's. †

1 The subject of this brief book is the judgment of Edom. This nation was descended from Jacob's twin brother Esau (see v. 6; Gn 25:23-30) and was in longstanding conflict with Israel (e.g., Ex 15:15; Nm 20:14-21; Ezk 35:5). A messenger is sent among the nations to call them to fight against Edom (see Jr 49:14).

2-4 Edom was proud of its strength but would be deeply despised by the nations. This people's belief that they were out of the reach of harm (vv. 3-4) was mistaken (see Am 9:2-4).

7 Edom would be defeated despite their treaties with others.

8 Edom was also known for its wisdom (Jr 49:7; see Jb 2:11), but this too would perish on the day of their judgment.

10-14 Edom's sin that receives the greatest attention is their violence against their brother Jacob (v. 10). When Jerusalem fell, not only did they not help but they were like one of the attacking foreigners (v. 11). They gloated over Judah and even handed over their survivors to the enemy (vv. 12-14). Other passages in the Minor Prophets confirm this portrait of Edom (Jl 3:19; Am 1:6-12).

15-16 The reason why Edom should neither rejoice nor assist in the destruction of Judah is because the day of the LORD is near, when all the nations will be judged (see the notes on Ezk 30:2-3; Jl 2:4-9). Just recompense will be dealt to Edom on that day (Lm 1:21-22; 4:21-22). Edom had drunk in triumph on [God's] holy mountain, but all the nations will drink the wine of divine wrath until they are destroyed (see the notes on Jr 25:15-17,27-29). Here Edom is a symbol for all the nations of the earth with eschatological significance. Just as Edom was judged in history for its rebellion against God, in the last days all nations who have set themselves against God will be judged.

17-18 Despite the attempt to cut off survivors (v. 14) and the humiliation of God's holy mountain (v. 16), there will be a holy remnant on Mount Zion (Is 37:31-32; Jl 2:32). Isaiah 4:2 connects this to the reign of the Messiah. Whereas Israel had been possessed by foreigners, on that day they will possess those who had defeated them (see Am 9:11-12). Likewise, the temple and other important buildings had been burned down (vv. 10-14; 2Kg 25:9), but Israel would become a fire that consumes Edom (v. 18) in such a way as resembles divine judgment (see Am 1:4,7,10,12,14; 2:2,5). Whereas there would be a remnant of Israel, there will be no survivor for Esau (see v. 10; the notes on Is 34:1-5,8-15; Ezk 35:2-4,14-15).

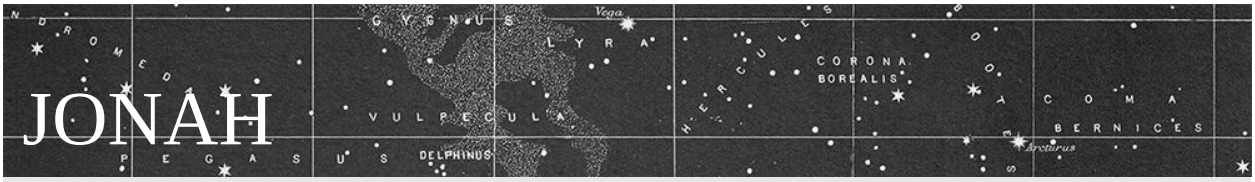
19-21 Israel will take possession of both their own land and their enemies' lands. This will be fulfilled when God's kingdom is perfectly established (v. 21; Ex 15:18) through the Messiah (see Nm 24:17-19; Am 9:11-12). The defeat of the hill country of Esau (vv. 8-9,19,21) contrasts with the glory of Mount Zion (vv. 17,21), much like in Ezekiel 34–36 (see the note on 35:2-4).



JONAH

INTRODUCTION

The book of Jonah, the fifth of the Minor Prophets, is more like the stories of the prophets found in the Historical Books in both form and content. The book gives us a brief glimpse into the life of Jonah, the "wrong-way prophet," who ran from God and was swallowed by a fish. Throughout the book, we see evidence of God's grace and his love for all people.

CIRCUMSTANCES OF WRITING

AUTHOR: The book is an anonymous narrative about Jonah.

BACKGROUND: Jonah appears in 2 Kings 14:25 as a prophet from Gath-hepher in the territory of Zebulun in northern Israel. He was active around the first half of the eighth century BC. Jonah predicted the restoration of the northern kingdom's boundaries. This occurred during the reign of Jeroboam II (ca. 793–753 BC). This book about Jonah could have been composed at any time from the eighth century to the end of the OT period.

Jonah preached to the city of Nineveh. Nineveh was a major city of the Assyrians, a cruel and warlike people who were longtime enemies of Israel. This explains Jonah's reluctance to preach to the infamous city of Nineveh.

The key debate about the book of Jonah is the question of its genre. Is Jonah history or parable? The parable view argues that Jonah is a fictional story or fable made up to convey a theological point about God's attitude toward Gentiles. Proponents of the parable view argue that the ironic and fantastic events described by the book is the author's way of tipping the reader off that this is not literal history. There are also historical difficulties that the fictional view would resolve: the exaggerated size of Nineveh (3:3) and the lack of extrabiblical, Assyrian evidence to confirm that the city ever repented.

Five considerations suggest taking the book of Jonah as genuine history. First, Jonah was a real historical figure, said to be a prophet in 2 Kings 14:25. The book of Jonah portrays Jonah as a flawed character. Were the book of Jonah a piece of fiction, it would be guilty of slander, saying something derogatory and untrue about a real person who is elsewhere presented positively.

Second, Jonah is part of the collection of twelve Minor Prophets. All the other books of this collection convey prophecies by genuine, historical prophets. By placing Jonah in this collection, the compiler of the Minor Prophets signaled that he considered Jonah to be an historical account.

Third, the miracles in Jonah are not impossible for the God of the Bible. Presuming otherwise, some interpreters allow their antisupernaturalism to drive them to the parable view of Jonah.

Fourth, Jesus spoke of Jonah being in the fish and preaching in Nineveh as real events (Mt 12:39-41; Lk 11:29-32). In particular, Jesus's statement that "the men of Nineveh will stand up at the judgment with this generation and condemn it, because they repented at Jonah's proclamation" (Mt 12:41; Lk 11:32) makes little sense if the people of Nineveh never actually repented due to Jonah's preaching. Unless one is willing to affirm that Jesus was wrong, it is best to say that the book of Jonah is historical.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE BIBLE

The book of Jonah shows God's gracious concern for the whole world, his power over nature, and the futility of running from him. In addition, it foreshadows Jesus's burial and resurrection. Matthew 12:38-45 and Luke 11:24-32 compare the ministry of Jesus with that of Jonah, Jesus being the greater. Both texts see Jonah's great fish as a foreshadowing of Jesus's burial in the tomb, making Jonah a "type" of Christ. If Jonah actually died in the fish (see note at Jnh 2:1-2), then his resurrection further parallels the resurrection of Jesus.

STRUCTURE

The book of Jonah exhibits a high degree of Hebrew literary excellence. Its style is rich and varied, considered a masterpiece of rhetoric. There is symmetry and balance in the book, and it can be divided into two sections of two chapters each. The peak of the first discourse is marked by its poetic form, which has a higher prominence in narrative than prose. The peak in the second discourse is marked by the dialogue between Jonah and God. The Lord and Jonah are indicated as the two main characters of the story by being the only ones who are named; the other characters are anonymous.

Phenomena of nature also serve in each half as props: wind, storm, sea, dry land, and fish in the first half; herd and flock, plant, worm, sun, and wind in the second half. Therefore, chapters 1 and 3 and chapters 2 and 4 can be seen as parallel. Finally, both chapters 1 and 3 begin with Jonah receiving a word from the Lord consisting of a call to go to Nineveh.

CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW ELEMENTS

TEACHINGS ABOUT GOD

Jonah reveals God as Creator. He is sovereign over the storms and fish of the sea, as well as the plants and worms of the land. The book also shows God as loving and compassionate. God's unanswered question that ends the book (see 4:11) is meant to provoke readers to think about how his mercy relates to "the nations."

TEACHINGS ABOUT HUMANITY

God's enumeration of the vast city of Nineveh shows that each human life is valuable in the eyes of God. Jonah was personally a mass of contradictions—a prophet known mainly for disobeying God; a preacher angry at the success of his ministry; a believer more concerned about "creature comforts" than about people dying without knowing God. As such, he certainly demonstrates that God may use imperfect and reluctant individuals to accomplish his plans.

TEACHINGS ABOUT SALVATION

Jonah demonstrates the principle that those whom God saves find deliverance in response to hearing the word of God. No salvation occurs apart from the proclamation—whether willingly or reluctantly, partially or completely—of a word from God. The apostle Paul (who also knew about storms on the Mediterranean Sea) would later ask, "How, then, can they call on him they have not believed in? And how can they believe without hearing about him? And how can they hear without a preacher?" (Rm 10:14).

JONAH TIMELINE

5000–1000 BC

5000–1000 BC

Earliest settlement of Nineveh 5000

Three major Assyrian cities, Nineveh, Asshur, and Calah, engage in vigorous trading as far as Cappadocia. 1900

An expanding Assyria wars with Babylon's King Hammurabi shortly before breaking up into smaller city-states. 1700

Adad-nirari establishes the first Assyrian Empire. 1307

Tiglath-pileser I is monarch of the second Assyrian Empire. 1115–1077

At Tiglath-pileser's death the empire falls into a 166-year decline. 1077–911

1000–850 BC

Neo-Assyrian Empire established by Ashur-dan II, lays the foundation for a unified rule in the ancient Near East from Egypt to the Caspian Sea. 934

Adad-nirari II (911–891) and his grandson, Ashurnasirpal II (883–859) lead a resurgent Assyria.

Ashurnasirpal's son, Shalmaneser III (859–824), fights a coalition of 12 kings including Ben-Hadad of Aram-Damascus and Ahab of Israel at Qarqar in north Syria. 853

Shalmaneser defeats Hazael of Damascus and receives tribute from Israel's King Jehu. (841) This scene is carved in relief on the Black Obelisk of Shalmaneser, unearthed at Nimrud, Iraq, in AD 1846.

With the death of Shalmaneser III, Assyrian expansion is held in check. 824–745

Jonah prophesies that the Lord will restore the border of Israel from Lebo-hamath as far as the Sea of the Arabah.

Jeroboam II strengthens Israel. 793–753

God calls Jonah to go to Nineveh and preach repentance.

During its time of weakness, Assyria experiences two severe plagues (765 and 759) and a total eclipse (763).

750–700 BC

Tiglath-pileser III checks the aggression of the Kingdom of Urartu on Assyria's north and leads an expansion of Assyria, conquering Babylon and greatly reducing Israel's territory. 745–727

Assyria's Shalmaneser V besieges Samaria. 725–722

Samaria falls to Assyria's Sargon II; nearly 28,000 Israelites are sent into exile, and Gentiles from Assyrian-controlled territories are resettled into what was the northern kingdom. 722

JONAH'S FLIGHT

1 The word of the LORD came to Jonah son of Amittai: † 2 "Get up! † Go to the great city † of Nineveh † and preach against it † because their evil † has come up before me." † 3 Jonah got up to flee to Tarshish † from the LORD's presence. † He went down † to Joppa † and found a ship going to Tarshish. He paid the fare and went down into it to go with them to Tarshish from the LORD's presence.

4 But the LORD threw † a great wind onto the sea, † and such a great storm arose on the sea that the ship threatened to break apart. 5 The sailors were afraid, and each cried out to his god. † They threw the ship's cargo into the sea to lighten the load. † Meanwhile, Jonah had gone down to the lowest part of the vessel and had stretched out and fallen into a deep sleep. † 6 The captain approached him and said, "What are you doing sound asleep? Get up! Call to your god. † † Maybe this god will consider us, † and we won't perish."
7 "Come on! " the sailors said to each other. "Let's cast lots. † Then we'll know who is to blame for this trouble we're in." So they cast lots, and the lot singled out Jonah. † 8 Then they said to him, "Tell us who is to blame for this trouble we're in. † What is your business, † and where are you from? What is your country, and what people are you from? " 9 He answered them, "I'm a Hebrew. † I worship † the LORD, † the God of the heavens, † who made the sea † and the dry land."
10 Then the men were seized by a great fear and said to him, "What is this you've done? " The men knew he was fleeing from the LORD's presence † because he had told them. 11 So they said to him, "What should we do to you so that the sea will calm down for us? " For the sea was getting worse and worse.
12 He answered them, "Pick me up and throw me into the sea so that it will calm down for you, for I know that I'm to blame † for this great storm that is against you." 13 Nevertheless, the men rowed hard to get back to dry land, but they couldn't because the sea was raging against them more and more.
14 So they called out to the LORD: † "Please, LORD, don't let us perish because of this man's life, and don't charge us with innocent blood! For you, LORD, have done just as you pleased." † 15 Then they picked up Jonah and threw him into the sea, and the sea stopped its raging. † 16 The men were seized by great fear of the LORD, † and they offered a sacrifice to the LORD and made vows. † 17 The LORD appointed a great fish † to swallow Jonah, and Jonah was in the belly of the fish three days and three nights. †

1:1 The prophet Jonah preached to the northern kingdom of Israel (2Kg 14:25). The book of Jonah stands out among the Minor Prophets that precede and follow it because it is primarily narrative (though see Haggai, Zechariah, and Malachi). It contains only one prophetic oracle consisting of five words in Hebrew (3:4). Jonah is not primarily the deliverer of a message from God. Rather, he is the message, serving as a negative example of a faulty perspective. This book focuses on the nature and extent of God's grace.

1:2 Nineveh was the capital of Assyria (2Kg 19:36; see Gn 10:10-11), the nation that would eventually take the northern kingdom of Israel into exile (2Kg 17:1-6,23). Jonah's calling to go to a foreign country to preach is unusual in the context of the OT but fits perfectly with Matthew 28:19-20. God knew of their evil and was about to punish them (see Am 1:3–2:3).

1:3 Jonah rebelled against God's calling and boarded a boat headed for Tarshish, which was evidently a port city (see Is 2:16; 23:1). Nineveh was in the opposite direction. We are not told why Jonah runs from God's calling. Is it because he was afraid of the people there? The answer comes at the end and climax of the book in 4:2.

1:4 Through sending this great storm, God showed his opposition to Jonah's flight. But the storm put the sailors in danger as well.

1:5-6 The pagan sailors were desperate and each cried out to his [own] god. Jonah was called to help in the hope that his God would consider the ship so that its crew and passengers would not perish (3:9). The prophet's slumber reflects his apathy.

1:9 Jonah's response (I worship the LORD) is ironic because although he technically did follow God, he was currently rebelling against him. The response is also informative since it helps the sailors understand the reason for the storm (vv. 7-8,10-11).

1:12-13 Jonah could have stopped the storm and brought an end to the danger by repenting. He refuses to do so and also unnecessarily places guilt on the sailors by asking them to kill him. The pagan sailors cared more about Jonah's life than he did (see 4:3,8).

1:14-16 The sailors are more concerned about God's values than Jonah, and they are afraid of being held accountable for Jonah's life (v. 14). Their calling out to the LORD (Jl 1:14; 2:32), fear of him, sacrifice, and vows show that they had experienced a conversion (see v. 5; Ps 107:23-30). This understanding of God had not come through Jonah the prophet, but in spite of him.

1:17 God rescued Jonah from drowning by sending a great fish to swallow him. Large sea creatures appear in other parts of the OT (see Gn 1:21), where they often represent an overpowering evil force (see the notes on Jb 3:8; 41:1-11; Is 27:1; Jr 51:34-35; Ezk 29:3). The sea creature here is linked to death by the phrase "deep inside Sheol" in 2:2 (see Is 25:7-8; Pr 1:12; Hab 2:5). Jesus refers to Jonah's stay in the fish's belly for three days and three nights and compares it to his own death and resurrection (Mt 12:40). The main point of this reference (Mt 12:39-42) is the Pharisees' hard hearts. The people of Nineveh understood grace, but Jonah did not; neither do the Pharisees.

JONAH'S PRAYER

2 Jonah prayed to the LORD his God from the belly of the fish: †

2 I called to the LORD in my distress, † and he answered me.
I cried out for help from deep inside † Sheol; †
you heard my voice. † 3 You threw me into the depths, † into the heart of the seas, † and the current † overcame me.
All your breakers and your billows swept over me. †
4 But I said, "I have been banished † from your sight, † yet I will look once more † toward your holy temple. †
5 The water engulfed me up to the neck; † †
the watery depths overcame me; seaweed was wrapped around my head. † 6 I sank to the foundations of the mountains, † the earth's gates shut behind me forever! †
Then you raised my life † from the Pit, LORD my God! †
7 As my life was fading away, †
I remembered the LORD, † and my prayer came to you, † to your holy temple. †
8 Those who cherish worthless idols † abandon their faithful love, †
9 but as for me, I will sacrifice † to you with a voice of thanksgiving. †

I will fulfill † what I have vowed.
Salvation † belongs to the LORD." †

10 Then the LORD commanded the fish, † and it vomited Jonah onto dry land.

2:2 Jonah's cry and God's answer closely resemble Pss 3:5; 20:1; and 120:1. They also recall many other prayers of thanksgiving in the Psalter (e.g., 22:11). The focus of the prayer is deliverance from death (see the note on 1:17).

2:3-6 The saving of the prophet's life from the depths and seas parallels Psalm 18:16, a psalm which also concerns David's deliverance from Sheol (18:5) resulting from a distressed prayer (vv. 4,7; Ps 18:6). Other passages in Davidic psalms that describe rescue from drowning include Pss 69:1-2 and 144:7. As in Jonah's case (v. 6), salvation from such trouble impacts "foundations of the mountains" and the "earth" itself in Pss 18:7-15 and 144:5-6. In the exodus, Israel had also been delivered from the "depths" (Ex 15:5,8,10) and the "earth" (Ex 15:12), and their sins will ultimately be cast into these depths (Mc 7:19). The raising of Jonah's life from the Pit (v. 6) also parallels descriptions of deliverance in many Davidic psalms (e.g., Pss 16:10; 30:3,10).

2:7 Psalms 142:3 and 143:4 similarly describe David's life fading away (see Ps 61:2). Throughout the prayer, Jonah's words are obtuse and inappropriate. In 2:3, Jonah says that God "threw" him into the sea; in reality, Jonah refused to submit to God and asked to be thrown in. In 2:4, Jonah states that he was "banished" from God's sight, when in reality he ran away. In the present verse, he states that he remembered the LORD when he was close to death. But his entire reason for the situation was his conflict with God. The words of the prayer sound typical of piety and faith on the surface, but in context, they demonstrate Jonah's lack of understanding.

2:8 Jonah's rejection of worthless idols is ironic in the context of chapter 1. There it was the pagan, idol-worshiping sailors who had the spiritual sensitivity to turn to the Lord, while Jonah refused to submit and obey.

2:9 Jonah concludes his prayer with the statement, Salvation belongs to the LORD. On a surface reading, this is true and significant. But within the book, the subtext is that Jonah appreciates God's salvation when it is given to him, but is dismayed when it is given to pagans like the sailors or people of Nineveh (cp. 4:1-3).

JONAH'S PREACHING

3 The word of the LORD came to Jonah a second time: † 2 "Get up! Go to the great city of Nineveh † and preach † the message that I tell you."

3 Jonah got up and went to Nineveh according to the LORD's command.
Now Nineveh was an extremely great city, † † a three-day walk. 4 Jonah set out on the first day of his walk in the city and proclaimed, † "In forty days Nineveh will be demolished!" 5 Then the people of Nineveh believed God. They proclaimed a fast † and dressed in sackcloth — from the greatest of them to the least.
6 When word reached the king of Nineveh, he got up from his throne, took off his royal robe, put on sackcloth, † and sat in ashes. 7 Then he issued a decree † in Nineveh:
By order of the king and his nobles: No person or animal, herd or flock, is to taste anything at all. They must not eat or drink water. 8 Furthermore, both people and animals must be covered with sackcloth, and everyone must call out earnestly to God. † Each must turn from his evil ways † and from his wrongdoing. † 9 Who knows? † God may turn and relent; he may turn from his burning anger so that we will not perish. †
10 God saw their actions — that they had turned from their evil ways † — so God relented from the disaster † he had threatened them with. And he did not do it.

3:1-3 Having been delivered from a great sea creature and from death (see the notes on 1:17; 2:2-6), Jonah this time obeyed God's instruction to preach to Nineveh.

3:5-10 Nineveh's response of fasting, mourning, prayer, and repentance (vv. 5-8) was exactly what was called for in Joel 1:14; 2:12-13,32. Their hope that God would relent (v. 9) also parallels Joel 2:14. His decision not to bring disaster on a genuinely repentant people is consistent with his character (4:2; Ex 34:6-7; Jl 2:13) and his dealings with Israel (see Ex 32:14; Jr 18:8). God is thus merciful to the nations, just as he is to Israel.

JONAH'S ANGER

4 Jonah was greatly displeased and became furious. † 2 He prayed to the LORD: † "Please, LORD, isn't this what I thought while I was still in my own country? That's why I fled toward Tarshish in the first place. † I knew that you are a gracious and compassionate God, † slow to anger, abounding in faithful love, and one who relents from sending disaster. † 3 And now, LORD, take my life from me, † for it is better for me to die than to live." †

4 The LORD asked, "Is it right for you to be angry? "
5 Jonah left the city and found a place east of it. † He made himself a shelter there and sat in its shade to see what would happen to the city. 6 Then the LORD God appointed a plant, and it grew over Jonah to provide shade for his head to rescue him from his trouble. † Jonah was greatly pleased with the plant. 7 When dawn came the next day, God appointed a worm that attacked the plant, and it withered. †
8 As the sun was rising, God appointed a scorching east wind. † The sun beat down on Jonah's head † so much that he almost fainted, and he wanted to die. He said, "It's better for me to die than to live." † 9 Then God asked Jonah, "Is it right for you to be angry about the plant? "
"Yes, it's right! " he replied. "I'm angry enough to die! "
10 So the LORD said, "You cared about the plant, which you did not labor over and did not grow. It appeared in a night and perished in a night. 11 But may I not care about the great city of Nineveh, † which has more than a hundred and twenty thousand people who cannot distinguish between their right and their left, † as well as many animals? " †

4:6 Or disaster, or evil

4:1 Jnh 4:9; Mt 20:15; Lk 15:28 4:2 Jr 20:7 4:2 Jnh 1:3 4:2 Ex 34:6; Nm 14:18; Ps 86:5,15; Jl 2:13 4:2 Neh 9:17 4:3 1Kg 19:4; Jb 6:8-9 4:3 Jb 7:15-16; Ec 7:1 4:5 1Kg 19:9,13 4:7 Jl 1:12 4:8 Ezk 19:12; Hs 13:15 4:8 Ps 121:6; Is 49:10 4:8 Jnh 4:3 4:11 Jnh 3:10 4:11 Dt 1:39; Is 7:16 4:11 Ps 36:6

4:1-2 Jonah's hatred for Nineveh is now on full display. He had fled for Tarshish because he was afraid the city would be spared. His worst fears were realized, since God's grace and compassion is for all nations, not only for Israel (v. 11; Ex 34:6-7; Jl 2:13).

4:3-4 God showed his mercy and patience not only to the sailors and the people of Nineveh but also to Jonah. He saved him from drowning (1:17) and afterwards patiently reasoned with him.

4:5-7 God continued to work with Jonah (1:4,17; 2:10; 3:1), this time through trying to teach him a lesson through a plant and a worm. Jonah's selfishness is shown even more clearly through his happiness about the plant, especially when this is related to his great displeasure over the sparing of Nineveh (v. 1).

4:8-9 Jonah still wanted to die (see v. 3), and God tried again to get him to deal with his anger (see v. 4).

4:10-11 If Jonah cared about the plant that was here today and gone tomorrow (vv. 6,10), how much more does God have pity on Nineveh and its hundred and twenty thousand confused people and the area’s animals? This is one of the clearest verses in Scripture concerning God’s love for the lost cities of the nations. Also see “Animal Rights,” p. 21.

MICAH

INTRODUCTION

Micah's name, "Who is like Yahweh?," found at the beginning of the book (1:1) and the question Micah asked at the book's end, "Who is a God like you?" (Mc 7:18), sum up the book's overall message: People should ponder the person, acts, and character of the incomparable "Lord of the whole earth" (4:13). He is incomparable in his holiness, power, and love. All people answer to this sovereign God for their worship and the kind of lives they lead. The rebellious and sinful will meet his judgment (1:5), but those who earnestly watch and wait for him will find his listening ear (7:7).

CIRCUMSTANCES OF WRITING

AUTHOR: Micah's hometown of Moresheth-gath (1:1,14) was about twenty-five miles southwest of Jerusalem. The fact that his hometown is mentioned probably means that Micah ministered elsewhere, including Jerusalem. He was a skilled orator, a master of metaphors with a genius for wordplay and blunt, vivid imagery. Few prophets saw the future more clearly. Micah prophesied the fall of Samaria (1:5-9), Jerusalem's destruction (1:1-16; 3:12), the Babylonian captivity and return from exile (4:6-10), as well as the birth of God's future Davidic ruler in Bethlehem (5:2).

Micah's ministry probably began late in Jotham's reign and ended early in Hezekiah's, dating between 730 and 690 BC. As such, Micah's ministry overlapped Isaiah's. The elders in Jeremiah's day remembered Micah's prophecy as having spurred Hezekiah's religious reform (Jr 26:17-19).

BACKGROUND: Both Israel and Judah experienced affluence and material prosperity in the late eighth century BC. In the south, King Uzziah's military victories brought wealth for some. A wealthy merchant class developed, and many poorer farmers found themselves at the mercy of government-supported businessmen.

Judah's commercial and secular culture replaced God's covenant ideal. The rich became wealthy at the expense of the poor. God's people were to be different socially and economically. They were stewards of God's land (Lv 25:23) that he had allotted to each family (Jos 13–19). God's law protected family property rights (Lv 25:1-55) and provided for the poor and less fortunate (Dt 14:28-29; 15:7-11). But growing affluence in Micah's day led to increasing callousness toward the weak (Mc 2:1-2) and a blatant disregard for God's foundational laws (6:10-12).

At this time the ancient Near East experienced an international power shift. Assyria was ascending, becoming one of the most evil empires of the ancient world. Four Assyrian kings made military inroads into Palestine during Micah's ministry, taking Samaria in 722 BC and making Israel an Assyrian province. In 701 BC Sennacherib took 46 Judean towns and villages and besieged Jerusalem. King Hezekiah had allied with Egypt and Babylon against Assyria, for which both Micah and Isaiah urged him to repent. God miraculously spared Jerusalem (2Kg 19:35-36; 2Ch 32:22-23; Is 37:36-37), and according to Micah the Jerusalem siege was both an act of God's judgment and an occasion for God's deliverance.

The people of Judah wavered between faith and apostasy and suffered many crises. Micah preached to people who had long since abandoned covenant loyalty, including the king, the royal court, judges, and religious leaders. As the rulers proved increasingly unfaithful, Micah prophesied Judah's destruction and exile by the Babylonians (586 BC). Beyond that, however, he saw a future restoration for a remnant of the people (539 BC).

CONTRIBUTION TO THE BIBLE

Micah's holy and just God demands holiness and justice from all people. This is the "good" he requires (6:8). The people had grown content with going through the religious motions while practicing very little genuine spiritual devotion. As such, religion and ethics are inseparable.

STRUCTURE

Structured thematically as a balanced chiasm, the book highlights the central and final sections. Each matching section reflects on the other. This literary structure emphasizes Micah's main themes of Judah's social sins, the moral failure of its leadership, and the establishment of God's kingship over the land.

CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW ELEMENTS

TEACHINGS ABOUT GOD

God's wrath in response to idolatry and all forms of human sin against others (violence, corruption, exploitation) is manifest in this book. The Assyrian and Babylonian captivities were the result of God's justice. Yet he is also a merciful God who does not retain anger forever. He will ultimately "cast all our sins into the depths of the sea" (Mc 7:19). Christ's birth in Bethlehem is specifically prophesied (5;2). The Spirit of God was present to empower the prophet (3:8).

TEACHINGS ABOUT HUMANITY

Micah painted a dark picture of humanity as all too prone to wickedness. People from small to great were lying awake at night planning evil (2:1). The only hope was divine intervention, which will happen when God personally takes over shepherding his flock (2:12).

TEACHINGS ABOUT SALVATION

In Micah, salvation is mainly corporate. It is based on God forgiving sins (7:18-20) and restoring his people under the coming King. There is, however, an individual dimension. Those in a right relationship with God in this lifetime show it in the way they live now, reflected in perhaps the most beloved text from this book: "Mankind, he has told each of you what is good and what it is the LORD requires of you: to act justly, to love faithfulness, and to walk humbly with your God" (6:8).

1 The word of the LORD that came † to Micah † the Moreshite † — what he saw regarding Samaria and Jerusalem in the days of Jotham, † Ahaz, † and Hezekiah, † kings of Judah.

COMING JUDGMENT ON ISRAEL

2 Listen, all you peoples; † pay attention, earth † and everyone in it! †
The Lord GOD will be a witness against you, † the Lord, from his holy temple. †

3 Look, the LORD is leaving his place † and coming down to trample the heights † of the earth. † 4 The mountains will melt beneath him, and the valleys will split apart, like wax near a fire, †
like water cascading down a mountainside.
5 All this will happen because of Jacob's rebellion and the sins of the house of Israel.
What is the rebellion of Jacob?
Isn't it Samaria? †
And what is the high place of Judah? †
Isn't it Jerusalem?
6 Therefore, I will make Samaria a heap of ruins † in the countryside, a planting area † for a vineyard.
I will roll her stones † into the valley and expose her foundations. † 7 All her carved images will be smashed † to pieces; all her wages † will be burned in the fire, and I will destroy all her idols.
Since she collected the wages of a prostitute, † they will be used again for a prostitute.

MICAH'S LAMENT

8 Because of this I will lament and wail; I will walk barefoot and naked. † I will howl like the jackals † and mourn like ostriches. † 9 For her wound is incurable † and has reached even Judah; † it has approached my people's city gate, † as far as Jerusalem.

10 Don't announce it in Gath, †
don't weep at all.
Roll in the dust in Beth-leaphrah.

11 Depart in shameful nakedness, † you residents of Shaphir;
the residents of Zaanan † will not come out.
Beth-ezel is lamenting;
its support † is taken from you.
12 Though the residents of Maroth anxiously wait for something good, † disaster has come from the LORD † to the gate of Jerusalem.
13 Harness the horses to the chariot, you residents of Lachish. †
This was the beginning of sin for Daughter Zion because Israel's acts of rebellion † can be traced to you.
14 Therefore, send farewell gifts † to Moresheth-gath; the houses of Achzib † are a deception † to the kings of Israel.
15 I will again bring a conqueror against you who live in Mareshah. †
The nobility † of Israel will come to Adullam. † 16 Shave yourselves bald and cut off your hair †
in sorrow for your precious children; make yourselves as bald as an eagle, for they have been taken from you into exile. †

1:1 Micah's messages confronted Samaria and Jerusalem, the respective capitals of the northern and southern kingdoms (see v. 5). His ministry overlapped with that of Isaiah (see Is 1:1). The prophet Micah and his prophecy in 3:12 are mentioned in Jeremiah 26:18.

1:2-4 Though the judgment will soon focus on Samaria (vv. 5-7), all . . . peoples are to take notice of God's exit from his holy temple (see vv. 10-15). This displays his majesty and power (see Jnh 2:4,7; Hab 2:20; Zch 6:12-15; Mal 3:1). His place (v. 3) is also mentioned in Hosea 5:15.

1:5 God's coming in judgment is in response to the sins of Israel and Judah, especially their respective capital cities of Samaria and Jerusalem (see v. 1).

1:6-7 Samaria would become desolate ruins because of her idolatry. Her comparison to a prostitute echoes Hosea 1:2 (see note).

1:8-9 Micah's grief over divine judgment parallels that of other prophets (e.g., Is 21:3-4; 22:4; Jr 9:1-2). Isaiah had also gone about naked (Is 20:2-4). Jackals and ostriches are associated with a desolate land in Isaiah 13:21-22; 34:13; and 43:20. Such an incurable wound would also be dealt to Judah and Jerusalem (see Jr 17:9; 30:12-17).

1:10-14 Jerusalem's downfall (v. 12) meant trouble for other cities in the vicinity.

1:15 The helpless "kings of Israel" (v. 14) contrast with the coming again of a conqueror, who is associated with the nobility of Israel (see 1Sm 4:21-22; 15:29).

1:16 The reference is probably to Zion mourning over her exiled children (see Lm 1:17-18).

OPPRESSORS JUDGED

2 Woe to those who dream up wickedness and prepare evil plans † on their beds!
At morning light † they accomplish it because the power is in their hands. †
2 They covet fields † and seize them; †
they also take houses.
They deprive a man of his home, †
a person of his inheritance. †

3 Therefore, the LORD says:

I am now planning † a disaster against this nation; †
you cannot free your necks from it. † Then you will not walk so proudly † because it will be an evil time. † 4 In that day one will take up † a taunt against you and lament mournfully, † saying, "We are totally ruined! †
He measures out the allotted land of my people.
How he removes it from me!
He allots our fields † to traitors."

5 Therefore, there will be no one in the assembly of the LORD to divide the land by casting lots. † †

GOD'S WORD REJECTED

6 "Quit your preaching," † they † preach.
"They should not preach these things; † shame will not overtake us." † †
7 House of Jacob, should it be asked, "Is the Spirit of the LORD impatient? † Are these the things he does? "
Don't my words bring good † to the one who walks uprightly? †
8 But recently my people have risen up like an enemy: †
You strip off the splendid robe † from those who are passing through confidently, † like those returning from war.
9 You force † the women of my people out of their comfortable homes, and you take my blessing † † from their children forever.
10 Get up and leave, for this is not your place of rest † because defilement † brings destruction — a grievous destruction! † 11 If a man comes and utters empty lies — †
"I will preach to you about wine and beer" — †
he would be just the preacher for this people! †

THE REMNANT REGATHERED

12 I will indeed gather † all of you, Jacob; I will collect the remnant of Israel. †
I will bring them together like sheep in a pen, like a flock in the middle of its pasture.
It will be noisy with people. † 13 One who breaks open the way will advance before them;

they will break out, pass through the city gate, and leave by it.
Their King will pass through before them, the LORD as their leader.

2:1-5 In response to those who planned evil against their neighbor (vv. 1-2), God was planning a disaster against this nation (v. 3). The Hebrew word translated "disaster" is the same one recently used in Jonah 3:10; 4:2. The Hebrew word for "clan" or "family" was also used in Amos 3:1-2 of God's gracious choice of Israel out of "all the clans of the earth" (see Gn 12:3). The people's pride would be turned into humiliation, sorrow, and devastation (vv. 3-5).

2:6-11 Opposition to the prophetic message (v. 6) parallels Amos 2:12; 7:10-13 and contrasts with the favorable Ninevite response in Jonah 3:5-9. The Spirit of the LORD was not dealing impatiently with them (v. 7) but justly responding to their oppression of their fellow man (vv. 8-9). The defilement of the people meant that they would not have a place of rest (v. 10). The kind of prophet they would have liked would be one who would tell lies about wine and beer (v. 11; 3:5-7).

2:12-13 Despite Israel's exile (v. 10; 1:16), God promises to gather the remnant like sheep (Jr 23:3-4). The Messiah in 5:2-4 is likewise described as one who will "shepherd" the people (see Ezk 34:23; 37:24). He is also their King (Hs 3:5) and their leader (see Hs 1:11 and note).

UNJUST LEADERS JUDGED

3 Then I said, "Now listen, † leaders of Jacob, you rulers of the house of Israel.
Aren't you supposed to know what is just? † 2 You hate good and love evil.
You tear off people's skin † and strip their flesh from their bones.
3 You eat the flesh † of my people after you strip their skin from them and break their bones.
You chop them up † like flesh for the cooking pot, like meat in a cauldron."

4 Then they will cry out † to the LORD, but he will not answer them.
He will hide his face from them at that time † because of the crimes they have committed.

FALSE PROPHETS JUDGED

5 This is what the LORD says concerning the prophets who lead my people astray, † who proclaim † peace when they have food to sink their teeth into but declare war against the one who puts nothing in their mouths.
6 Therefore, it will be night † for you — without visions;
it will grow dark for you — without divination. †
The sun will set † on these prophets, and the daylight will turn black over them.
7 Then the seers will be ashamed † and the diviners disappointed. †
They will all cover their mouths † † because there will be no answer from God. †

8 As for me, however, I am filled with power † by the Spirit of the LORD, with justice and courage, to proclaim to Jacob his rebellion and to Israel his sin. †

ZION'S DESTRUCTION

9 Listen to this, leaders of the house of Jacob, † you rulers of the house of Israel, who abhor justice † and pervert everything that is right, 10 who build Zion with bloodshed † and Jerusalem with injustice.
11 Her leaders issue rulings for a bribe, † her priests teach for payment, † and her prophets practice divination for silver.

Yet they lean on the LORD, saying, “Isn’t the LORD † among us?
No disaster will overtake us.”
12 Therefore, because of you, Zion will be plowed like a field, Jerusalem will become ruins, † and the temple’s mountain † will be a high thicket. †

3:1-4 The wicked leaders (see vv. 9,11; 2:13) should have known justice but instead hate[d] good and love[d] evil (2:1; Am 5:14-15). They oppressed the people (v. 3; 2:1-2,8-9) and would have their prayers ignored by God (v. 4; Is 1:15; 8:17).

3:5-7 False prophets proclaimed peace even though God had not (Jr 6:14; 8:11; Ezk 13:10). As a result, night and dark would come upon them (v. 6; Is 8:19-22; 29:10; Jl 2:31). There will be no answer from God (see v. 4; Am 8:11-12).

3:8 In contrast with false prophets (vv. 5-7; 2:11), Micah was filled with . . . the Spirit (see 2:7) and with justice to declare the truth concerning Israel’s sins.

3:9-12 The leaders and rulers had abhorred justice and were confronted again (v. 9; see v. 1). Their building Jerusalem with bloodshed and injustice (v. 10) parallels one of the sins of Babylon (Hab 2:12). The spiritual leaders, such as priests and prophets, had also been corrupted (see vv. 5-7; 2:11). Despite an appearance of piety (v. 11; 2:4), Zion would be destroyed (v. 12; 1:12; Jr 26:18) and made into a field and ruins just like Samaria (1:6,9).

THE LORD’S RULE FROM RESTORED ZION

4 In the last days † the mountain of the LORD’s house † will be established at the top of the mountains and will be raised above the hills.
Peoples will stream to it, †
2 and many nations will come and say, † “Come, let us go up to the mountain of the LORD, † to the house of the God of Jacob.

He will teach us about his ways †
so we may walk in his paths.”

For instruction will go out of Zion †
and the word of the LORD from Jerusalem.

3 He will settle disputes among many peoples † and provide arbitration for strong nations that are far away.
They will beat their swords into plows and their spears into pruning knives.
Nation will not take up the sword against nation, and they will never again train for war.

4 But each person will sit under his grapevine † and under his fig tree

with no one to frighten him. †

For the mouth of the LORD † of Armies has spoken.

5 Though all the peoples each walk in the name of their gods, †

we will walk † in the name of the LORD our God forever and ever. †

6 On that day — this is the LORD’s declaration — I will assemble the lame and gather the scattered, † those I have injured.

7 I will make the lame into a remnant, † those far removed into a strong nation.

Then the LORD will reign over them † in Mount Zion from this time on and forever.

8 And you, watchtower for the flock, † fortified hill † of Daughter Zion, the former rule † will come to you; sovereignty will come to Daughter Jerusalem.

FROM EXILE TO VICTORY

9 Now, why are you shouting loudly? †
Is there no king with you?

Has your counselor perished †

so that anguish grips you like a woman in labor?
10 Writhe and cry out, † † Daughter Zion, like a woman in labor, for now you will leave the city † and camp in the open fields.
You will go to Babylon;
there you will be rescued; †
there the LORD will redeem you † from the grasp of your enemies!
11 Many nations have now assembled against you; † they say, “Let her be defiled, and let us feast our eyes on Zion.”
12 But they do not know the LORD’s intentions † or understand his plan, that he has gathered them like sheaves to the threshing floor.
13 Rise and thresh, † Daughter Zion, for I will make your horns iron and your hooves bronze so you can crush many peoples. †
Then you † will set apart their plunder † for the LORD, their wealth for the Lord of the whole earth.

4:1-4 The devastation of Zion and the hill of the temple mount (3:12) set the stage for this prophecy of the exaltation of the mountain of the LORD’s house, which will bring blessing to the whole world. In the last days, the nations will gather there to receive instruction from God (v. 2; 7:11-12). He will judge them and establish permanent, worldwide peace and prosperity (vv. 3-4; 5:4-5; Zch 3:10). Israel had experienced such an era, but it was limited to Solomon’s reign (1Kg 4:25). Verses 1-3 are similar to Isaiah 2:2-4.

4:5 The present idolatry of all the peoples (see Jnh 1:5) contrasts with those among them who will join those faithful to God (vv. 1-3; Is 2:5).

4:6-8 The exaltation of Zion, the worldwide rule of God, and the salvation of the nations (vv. 1-4) are related to the gathering of a remnant (v. 6-7). God’s eternal reign at this mount matches Isaiah 9:7 (see Ex 15:17-18; Jl 3:16-17). The lame are similarly mentioned in Zephaniah 3:19, and both texts recall Jacob's injury in Genesis 32:32 (see the notes on Hs 12:2-4).

4:9-11 The eschatological certainty of God's rule coupled with the exaltation of Zion over the nations (vv. 1-8) contrasts with Israel's loss of their king, their exile to Babylon, and their humiliation before many nations (vv. 9-10). A similar contrast between God as leader (2:13) and their own wicked leaders appeared earlier (see 3:1,9,11; the note on 5:2-4). God's redemption of Israel from there (i.e., Babylon) was foretold in Deuteronomy 30:1-4 (see Dt 4:28-31; Is 48:20; 52:11-12).

4:12-13 What the "nations" (v. 11) did not understand was that the humiliation of Israel was part of God's plan (see Is 25:1; 40:13; 55:8-9). In due time, Israel will be delivered (v. 10) and thresh her enemies like an ox (see 5:8; Nm 23:22-24; Ps 60:12; Is 41:15; Jr 51:33).

FROM DEFEATED RULER TO CONQUERING KING

5 Now, daughter who is under attack, you slash yourself in grief;
a siege is set against us!
They are striking the judge † of Israel on the cheek with a rod.

2 Bethlehem Ephrathah, † you are small among the clans of Judah; one will come from you † to be ruler over Israel for me. † His origin † is from antiquity, †
from ancient times.

3 Therefore, Israel will be abandoned † until the time when she who is in labor † has given birth; then the rest of the ruler's brothers † will return to the people of Israel. †

4 He will stand and shepherd them † in the strength of the LORD, in the majestic name of the LORD his God.
They will live securely, for then his greatness will extend to the ends of the earth. †

5 He will be their peace. †
When Assyria invades our land, † when it marches against our fortresses, we will raise against it seven shepherds, even eight leaders of men.

6 They will shepherd † the land of Assyria with the sword, the land of Nimrod † with a drawn blade. †
So he will rescue us † from Assyria when it invades our land, when it marches against our territory.

THE GLORIOUS AND PURIFIED REMNANT

7 Then the remnant of Jacob † will be among many peoples like dew from the LORD, † like showers on the grass, † which do not wait for anyone or linger for mankind.
8 Then the remnant of Jacob will be among the nations, among many peoples, like a lion among animals of the forest, † like a young lion among flocks of sheep, which tramples † and tears † as it passes through, and there is no one to rescue them. † 9 Your hand will be lifted up against your adversaries, † and all your enemies will be destroyed.

10 In that day — this is the LORD's declaration — I will remove your horses from you †
and wreck your chariots.
11 I will remove the cities of your land † and tear down all your fortresses. † 12 I will remove sorceries from your hands, † and you will not have any more fortune-tellers.
13 I will remove your carved images † and sacred pillars from you so that you will no longer worship the work of your hands.
14 I will pull up the Asherah poles † from among you † and demolish your cities. † 15 I will take vengeance in anger and wrath † against the nations that have not obeyed me.

5:2-4 Although the punishment of Israel would include "striking the judge of Israel" (v. 1; i.e., the king), the promised Messiah from the tribe of Judah will be ruler over Israel (v. 2; Gn 49:8-12; 2Sm 23:3-4). His birth in Bethlehem Ephrathah assumes at least a partial return to the land and links him to David (1Sm 16:1; 17:12; Ru 1:1-2; 4:11) and the fulfillment of the Davidic covenant (see Gn 15:4; 2Sm 7:12-13). His going forth from antiquity suggests his eternal existence and hence divinity (see Is 9:6; Hab 1:12). Just as Israel's judgment was like labor pains (4:9-10), the new age of salvation would begin with a birth (v. 3; Is 7:14). Scattered Israelites (his brothers, v. 3) will return (see Is 10:21), and he will shepherd them (v. 4; see the notes on 2:12-13; 4:6-8; 7:14). His rule over Israel and the ends of the earth matches 4:1-8 and fulfills Genesis 27:29; 49:8-10; Pss 2:6-8; and 72:8.

5:5 In contrast with the false prophets' empty promises of peace (3:5), he will be their peace. This fits with the picture painted in 4:3-4 and with Isaiah 9:6-7.

5:6 The Messiah's deliverance of Israel from Assyria agrees with Isaiah 7:14-25 and 8:6-10. Assyria and Babylon are also prominent enemies of Israel in the book of Isaiah (see the note on 4:9-11).

5:7-9 The likening of the remnant of Jacob (see v. 3; 2:12; 4:7) to dew from the LORD like showers (v. 7) suggests that the nation has become a channel of divine blessing to many peoples (see Dt 32:2; 2Sm 23:4; Pss 72:6; 133:3; Hs 6:3; 14:5). They hope not in man but in God (7:7; Pss 27:14; 131:3; Hs 12:6; Hab 2:3). On the other hand, the "remnant" will also be an instrument of divine judgment to "many peoples" (v. 8). Their comparison to an overpowering lion recalls their earlier association with a threshing ox (4:13; see Nm 23:22,24). Those who had formerly been "scattered" and "lame" have been made by the Messiah into a "strong nation" (4:6-7). The deciding factor between receiving blessing or judgment will be whether one submits to God or not (v. 15; 4:1-5).

5:10-15 Continuing the theme of judgment (vv. 8-9) but now focusing on sinful Israel, God will destroy their military might (v. 10; Ex 15:1; Hs 1:5,7; Zch 9:10), fortifications (v. 11; Hs 10:14; Am 5:9), and false religion (vv. 12-14; Hs 3:4). The humiliation of these sources of confidence is necessary in view of 4:1-5 and resembles Isaiah 2:12-18. Such judgment will come not only upon Israel but on nations that have not obeyed [God] (v. 15; see Is 14:24-26; 61:2).

GOD'S LAWSUIT AGAINST JUDAH

6 Now listen to what the LORD is saying:

Rise, plead your case before the mountains, and let the hills hear your complaint. †

2 Listen to the LORD's lawsuit, †

you mountains and enduring foundations of the earth, †

because the LORD has a case against his people, † and he will argue it against Israel.

3 My people, † what have I done to you, † or how have I wearied you? † Testify against me!

4 Indeed, I brought you up † from the land of Egypt and redeemed you † from that place of slavery. †
I sent Moses, † Aaron, and Miriam † ahead of you.

5 My people, remember what King Balak of Moab † proposed, what Balaam son of Beor answered him, † and what happened from the Acacia Grove † † to Gilgal † so that you may acknowledge the LORD's righteous acts. †

6 What should I bring before the LORD † when I come to bow before God on high?
Should I come before him with burnt offerings, † with year-old calves?

7 Would the LORD be pleased with thousands of rams † or with ten thousand streams of oil?
Should I give my firstborn for my transgression, †
the offspring of my body for my own sin?

8 Mankind, he has told each of you what is good † and what it is the LORD requires of you: † to act justly, † to love faithfulness, † and to walk humbly with your God. †

VERDICT OF JUDGMENT

9 The voice of the LORD calls out to the city †
(and it is wise to fear your name): "Pay attention to the rod and the one who ordained it. †

10 Are there still † the treasures of wickedness † and the accursed short measure † in the house of the wicked?

11 Can I excuse wicked scales or bags of deceptive weights? †

12 For the wealthy of the city are full of violence, † and its residents speak lies; † the tongues in their mouths are deceitful. †

13 "As a result, I have begun to strike you severely, † † bringing desolation because of your sins. †

14 You will eat but not be satisfied, † for there will be hunger within you.
What you acquire, you cannot save, † and what you do save,
I will give to the sword. †

15 You will sow but not reap; † you will press olives
but not anoint yourself with oil; and you will tread grapes but not drink the wine. †

16 The statutes of Omri and all the practices of Ahab's house have been observed; you have followed their policies. †
Therefore, I will make you a desolate place † and the city's † residents an object of contempt; † † you will bear the scorn of my people." † †

6:1-5 The summoning of mountains and enduring foundations of the earth (v. 2) to hear God's lawsuit against his people resembles Isaiah 1:2. He had not only brought them out of Egypt (v. 4) but also protected them when Balak hired Balaam to curse Israel (v. 5; Nm 22–24).

6:6-7 In these verses, the prophet quotes a hypothetical response from his audience. He is, in effect, putting words in their mouths so that he can respond to them in turn. They describe possible ways to please God with increasing intensity, from presenting burnt offerings to ten thousand streams of oil to sacrificing their firstborn. Yet all of these are attempted substitutes for true submission and obedience to God. Even religious worship can be a means of attempted manipulation.

6:8 The prophet responds that God has told them all along what he really requires: a life of justice, steadfast love, and walking humbly with God (see v. 5; Gn 5:22; 17:1). The sacrifices and rituals were a component of true relationship with God, but they were not designed to be a substitute for it. They were worthless if not accompanied by covenant faithfulness demonstrated in obedience, fidelity, and kindness to their fellow countrymen. This is the good that should be sought (see 2:1; 3:2; 7:3; Am 5:14-15), which agrees with Hosea 6:6; 12:6; and Amos 5:24. The addressee, mankind, shows that this instruction is not only for Israel but for humanity generally (see the note on 5:10-15).

6:10-15 Israel had not followed the requirements of verse 8 and instead were guilty of greed, corrupt business practices, violence, lies, and idolatry. As a result, God would strike them (v. 13), and they would eat but not be satisfied and sow but not reap (vv. 14-15). The sword (v. 14) and desolation (vv. 13,16) awaited them.

ISRAEL'S MORAL DECLINE

7 How sad for me!
For I am like one who — when the summer fruit has been gathered after the gleaning of the grape harvest † — finds no grape cluster to eat, no early fig, which I crave. †
2 Faithful people have vanished from the land; † there is no one upright among the people. †
All of them wait in ambush to shed blood; † they hunt each other with a net. †
3 Both hands are good † at accomplishing evil: the official and the judge demand a bribe; † when the powerful man communicates his evil desire, they plot it together.
4 The best of them is like a brier; †

the most upright is worse than a hedge of thorns. †
The day of your watchmen, the day of your punishment, is coming; † at this time their panic is here. † 5 Do not rely on a friend; † don't trust in a close companion.
Seal your mouth
from the woman who lies in your arms.
6 Surely a son considers his father a fool, † a daughter opposes her mother, and a daughter-in-law is against her mother-in-law; a man's enemies are the men of his own household.
7 But I will look to the LORD; †
I will wait for the God of my salvation. †
My God will hear me. †

ZION'S VINDICATION

8 Do not rejoice over me, † my enemy!
Though I have fallen, I will stand up; † though I sit in darkness, the LORD will be my light. †
9 Because I have sinned against him, I must endure the LORD's rage until he champions my cause † and establishes justice for me. †
He will bring me into the light; †
I will see his salvation. † †
10 Then my enemy will see, and she will be covered with shame, the one who said to me, "Where is the LORD your God? " †
My eyes will look at her in triumph; at that time she will be trampled like mud in the streets. †

11 A day will come for rebuilding your walls; † on that day your boundary will be extended. † 12 On that day people will come to you † from Assyria and the cities of Egypt, even from Egypt to the Euphrates River and from sea to sea and mountain to mountain.
13 Then the earth will become a wasteland † because of its inhabitants and as a result of their actions. †

MICAH'S PRAYER ANSWERED

14 Shepherd your people † with your staff, †
the flock that is your possession.
They live alone † in a woodland surrounded by pastures.
Let them graze in Bashan and Gilead †
as in ancient times. †

15 I will perform miracles for them † as in the days of your exodus from the land of Egypt. †
16 Nations will see and be ashamed of † all their power.
They will put their hands over their mouths, † and their ears will become deaf.
17 They will lick the dust like a snake; † they will come trembling out of their hiding places † like reptiles slithering on the ground. †
They will tremble in the presence of the LORD our God; † they will stand in awe of you.

18 Who is a God like you, † forgiving iniquity and passing over rebellion †

for the remnant of his inheritance? †
He does not hold on to his anger forever † because he delights in faithful love. †
19 He will again have compassion on us; he will vanquish our iniquities. †
You will cast all our † sins into the depths of the sea. † 20 You will show loyalty to Jacob † and faithful love to Abraham, as you swore to our fathers † from days long ago.

7:1-2 Scarcity of harvest (v. 1; 6:14-15) corresponds to the scarcity of the godly (v. 2). There were no upright among the people.

7:5-7 As a result of widespread wickedness, neither friend, spouse, nor family member could be trusted. In such times, the faithful must look to the LORD and wait for him alone (5:7; Hab 2:1; 3:16-18).

7:8-10 The speaker is now Zion, who has fallen and sits in darkness because of her sins (v. 8; 4:9-10; Is 9:2; Lm 1:1). Nevertheless, in due time, God will take up her cause so that she experiences light and salvation (v. 9; Ps 27:1; Is 60:1). God had a "case" for judging Israel (6:1-2; see 1:2-5), but Zion also had one—especially on the grounds of God's glory (v. 10; 4:11; Is 49:4). The tables will be turned, and Israel will glory while her enemies are trampled (v. 10; 4:13; 5:8-9; Nm 24:18; Pss 44:5; 60:12).

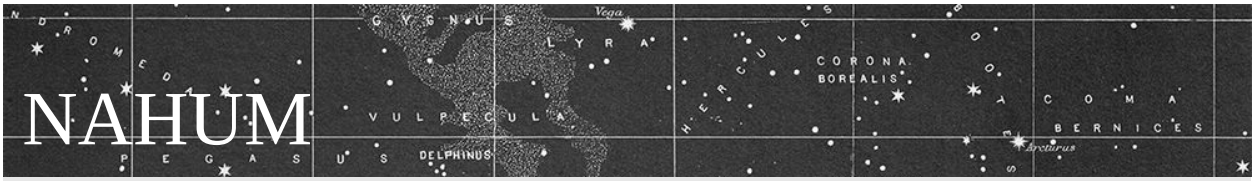
7:11-13 Jerusalem's walls would be destroyed, but they would ultimately be rebuilt (v. 11; Is 58:12; Am 9:11). The extension of her boundary parallels Isaiah 54:2-3. People coming to Zion from every direction (v. 12) fits with 4:1-3. Assyria, Egypt, the Euphrates River, and the phrase from sea to sea also tie to prophetic passages elsewhere (Ps 72:8; Is 11:11-12; 19:23-25; Hs 11:10-11). The salvation of Zion contrasts with the destruction of the earth's wicked (v. 13; Is 24:1-5).

7:14 The Messiah was described above as one who will shepherd the people (see the note on 5:2-4). The Hebrew word translated staff appears in several significant messianic prophecies, such as Genesis 49:10; Numbers 24:17; and Psalms 2:9 (see the notes on Ezk 19:10-12,14; 20:33-38). The picture of a holy people dwelling alone matches Numbers 23:9.

7:15-17 The eschatological deliverance accomplished by the Messiah (see the notes on v. 14; 2:12-13; 5:2-

4) will be a second exodus (v. 15; see the notes on Is 11:11-16; Hs 11:10-11; 13:14). The humiliation and silence of the nations (v. 16) parallels Exodus 15:14-16 and Isaiah 52:15. Israel also trembles before God in Hosea 3:5, but this experience is related to divine goodness as well. The nations' experience here is contrasted with Israel's and is depicted in terms of only shame, silence, and fear.

7:18-20 Along with Hosea 13:14 (see note), this concluding passage to the book of Micah clearly ties the second exodus to key new covenant themes. Rather than defeating Pharaoh and his army, God decisively deals with a greater enemy, sin (vv. 18-19; Gn 4:7). Resembling what he had done in the past, God casts all the sins of his people into the depths of the sea (see Ex 15:5; Jnh 2:3). The divine attributes of mercy, patience (v. 18), compassion (v. 19), loyalty, and faithful love (v. 20) draw on Exodus 34:6-7. This classic expression of God's character is also alluded to elsewhere in the Minor Prophets (Jl 2:13; Jnh 4:2; Nah 1:3). Forgiveness of sin under the new covenant (see Jr 31:34; Ezk 36:25; Zch 3:9) is thus tied to the Abrahamic covenant (v. 20).



NAHUM

INTRODUCTION

The book of Nahum dramatically portrays God overwhelming Assyria to relieve his oppressed people. It was certainly a harsh message for Israel's enemies, but for the people of Judah it was a message of hope.

CIRCUMSTANCES OF WRITING

AUTHOR: The presumed author Nahum (1:1) is the only person with that name in the OT. Like Jonah in the previous century, Nahum prophesied judgment upon Nineveh. The Ninevites in Jonah's time had repented (Jnh 3). But now that Nineveh's leaders had resumed their wicked actions, the Lord called Nahum to reaffirm his coming judgment. Ironically Nahum's Hebrew name means "comfort"—comfort for Judah (1:12-15) because its cruel overlord Assyria would be punished without any "comforters" (3:7). Except for the name of his hometown Elkosh (1:1), nothing certain is known about Nahum.

Two events circumscribe the earliest and latest possible dates for the composition of the book of Nahum: the capture and downfall of Thebes in about 663 BC and the announcements of Nineveh's certain destruction (1:1; 2:8; 3:7) which would happen in 612 BC. The book's emphasis on the fall of Thebes, seemingly a recent event, would favor a date shortly after 663 BC, during the reign of the notoriously wicked King Manasseh (ca. 686–642 BC) and/or his evil son Amon (642–640 BC). Certainly Nahum 1:12 (Assyria was still "strong [or at full strength] and numerous") suggests a time before the decline of that empire. This fits the reign of cruel Ashurbanipal (ca. 668–627 BC) when Assyria was at the pinnacle of its power.

BACKGROUND: The Assyrian capital Nineveh was located about 220 miles north of the modern Iraqi capital of Baghdad. By Nahum's time, Israel and Judah had experienced long and distressing affliction by the Assyrians. As early as Shalmaneser III (858–824 BC), King Jehu paid tribute to the Assyrians. The Lord often used Assyria as "the rod of my anger" (Is 10:5) to punish his people. Shalmaneser V (727–722 BC) and his successor Sargon II (722–705 BC) besieged and destroyed Samaria, taking the northern kingdom of Israel into captivity (2Kg 17:3-6). Similarly, Sennacherib captured and devastated Judah, besieging Jerusalem by 701 BC (2Kg 18–19; Is 36–37). By Ashurbanipal's reign (ca. 669–627 BC) Assyrian rulers were infamous for their cruelty (see notes at 3:10 and 3:18-19).

CONTRIBUTION TO THE BIBLE

The book of Nahum provides a great view of a powerful, just God who maintains his absolute moral standards and offers hope to those who are despised and downtrodden. Nahum teaches us to trust God. Even when we despair of any help, we can know that God will stand with those who belong to him.

STRUCTURE

Nahum interweaved typical prophetic strands such as judgment songs against God's enemies (1:9-11,14; cp. 2:13; 3:5-7), a woe oracle or mock lament (3:1-7), salvation oracles for his people Judah (1:12-15), a victory hymn to Yahweh the divine warrior (1:2-8; cp. Ex 15; Ps 98), and a sarcastic "word vision" of imminent enemy invasion (Nah 2:1-10; cp. 3:2-3). He colored this literary tapestry with satirical "taunt songs" mocking Nineveh's soon-coming role reversal (2:11-12; 3:8-19; cp. 2:1-2; 3:4-5). He ridiculed Nineveh's practice of scattering of peoples to other nations by announcing that God's "scatterer" (2:1-2; 3:18-19) would pay her back in like manner. He taunted that her lion's lair of military booty would soon be looted (2:11-13). He also mocked her as a witch-prostitute condemned to appropriate punishment: nakedness exposed with shame (3:4-7).

Using psychological warfare (as the Assyrians had used against Judah), Nahum taunted Nineveh's dependence on allies and other supposed defenses (3:8-10; cp. Is 36:4-20). Esar-haddon, father of Ashurbanipal, had threatened King Manasseh of Judah in 672 BC with treaty curses from the gods if they rebelled. The Lord converted borrowed treaty terminology to reverse this curse on Judah. It would not be Judah but Assyria's military men who would become defenseless like women (Nah 3:13). The Assyrians' ravaging of the land like a swarming army of locusts (cp. Jl 1:4-12; 2:4-9) was evoked and modified in order to mock Nineveh's merchants and military personnel, comparing them to harmless locusts on a wall, easily frightened and scattered (Nah 3:15-18). The incurable disease threatened from their gods would boomerang and inflict Assyria instead (3:19).

Yahweh as the caring warrior who would bring vengeance on his enemies, especially Nineveh, in order to save Judah, forms the backbone not only of Nahum's purpose statement but also of the book's literary structure.

CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW ELEMENTS

TEACHINGS ABOUT GOD

God's wrath against every affront to his holiness is on full display in Nahum. He is patient, but this should not be misunderstood as weakness. His promised destruction of Nineveh was necessary because of the divine attributes noted in 1:2.

TEACHINGS ABOUT HUMANITY

On one hand, this book shows that human beings can achieve a great deal apart from God. The Assyrian civilization was highly advanced economically and militarily. On the other hand, the Assyrians were cruel and evil, an abomination to God. The book shows that God does not recognize as great (or good) any person or nation that measures success apart from obedience to him.

TEACHINGS ABOUT SALVATION

In Nahum, salvation is presented as God's final rescue of his people based on his sovereign care: "The LORD is good, a stronghold in a day of distress; he cares for those who take refuge in him" (1:7).

800–705 BC

At a time the Assyrian Empire is in decline, God calls Jonah to go to Nineveh and preach repentance. This was likely during the reigns of Uzziah of Judah (792–740) and Jeroboam II of Israel (793–753).

During its time of weakness, Assyria experiences two severe plagues (765 and 759) and a total eclipse (763).

Nineveh repents in response to Jonah's preaching and is spared God's judgment.

Nineveh repents in response to Jonah's preaching and is spared God's judgment.

Assyria's Shalmaneser V besieges Samaria. 725–722

Samaria falls to Assyria's Sargon II; nearly 28,000 Israelites are sent into exile. 722

705–675 BC

Sennacherib establishes Nineveh as the capital of the Assyrian Empire. 705–681

Sennacherib captures and devastates Judah, besieging but not capturing Jerusalem. 701

When Babylon rebels against Sennacherib, he destroys the city. 689

Sennacherib is murdered by his two sons, one of whom, Esar-haddon (681–669), succeeds him as king. 681

Esar-haddon immediately begins the rebuilding of Babylon, an act that wins the allegiance of the local populace.

675–610 BC

Nahum (675–612) prophesies that just as Assyria destroyed Thebes, Nineveh (Assyria's capital) will be destroyed.

Esar-haddon invades Egypt. 671

Egypt rebels (669) and Esar-haddon's son, Ashurbanipal (668–627), sets out to reconquer Egypt. 667

Egypt rebels again, so Ashurbanipal destroys Thebes. 665

Calah is destroyed and the combined armies of the Babylonians and the Medes lay siege to Nineveh. After two months, the city falls. 612

610–600 BC

An Assyrian general claims the throne and rallies what is left of the Assyrian army in Haran. An alliance with Egypt brings a few troops to Assyria's aid, but as the Babylonians approach, Haran is abandoned. 610

The last remnants of the battered Assyrian Empire, along with their recent Egyptian allies, are defeated at the Battle of Carchemish, bringing the Assyrian Empire to an end. 605

GOD'S VENGEANCE

2 The LORD is a jealous and avenging God; the LORD takes vengeance and is fierce in † wrath.

The LORD takes vengeance against his foes; †

he is furious with his enemies. †

3 The LORD is slow to anger but great in power; the LORD will never leave the guilty unpunished. †

His path is in the whirlwind and storm, † and clouds are the dust beneath his feet. †

4 He rebukes the sea and dries it up, and he makes all the rivers run dry. † Bashan and Carmel wither; †
even the flower of Lebanon withers.
5 The mountains quake before him, and the hills melt;
the earth trembles † † at his presence — the world and all who live in it. † 6 Who can withstand his indignation?
Who can endure his burning anger? †
His wrath is poured out like fire; † even rocks are shattered before him.

DESTRUCTION OF NINEVEH

7 The LORD is good, a stronghold in a day of distress; he cares for those who take refuge † in him.
8 But he will completely destroy Nineveh † with an overwhelming flood, † and he will chase his enemies into darkness.

9 Whatever you † plot against the LORD, he will bring it to complete destruction; † oppression will not rise up a second time.
10 For they will be consumed like entangled thorns, † like the drink of a drunkard and like straw that is fully dry. † 11 One has gone out from you, † who plots evil against the LORD, and is a wicked counselor.

PROMISE OF JUDAH'S DELIVERANCE

12 This is what the LORD says:

Though they are strong † and numerous, they will still be mowed down, and he † will pass away.
Though I have punished you, † †

I will punish you no longer. †
13 For I will now break off his yoke from you and tear off your shackles.

THE ASSYRIAN KING'S DEMISE

14 The LORD has issued an order concerning you:

There will be no offspring to carry on your name. † †
I will eliminate the carved idol and cast image from the house of your gods; †
I will prepare your grave, for you are contemptible.

15 Look to the mountains — the feet of the herald, †
who proclaims peace.
Celebrate your festivals, Judah; fulfill your vows.
For the wicked one will never again march through you;
he will be entirely wiped out.

1:1 The Assyrian capital Nineveh had been spared in Jonah 3 but is an example of God's judgment in this book. This city is thus used to demonstrate both divine mercy and divine justice. Likewise, the repentant in Zion would be saved but its sinners destroyed (Is 1:27-28). As with Edom in Obadiah, God's judgment on his enemies and vindication of his people in history is used as a pattern for his ultimate, eschatological victory.

1:2-3 Whereas the conclusion of the book of Micah had emphasized God's forgiveness, compassion, faithfulness, and love from Exodus 34:6-7 (see the note on Mc 7:18-20), the book of Nahum opens with an emphasis on his jealousy, vengeance, and wrath toward his foes (v. 2; Ex 20:5; 34:14; Dt 32:41-43; Is 59:17-18). While it is true that he is slow to anger (v. 3; Ex 34:6), it is also true that he will never leave the guilty unpunished (see Ex 34:7).

1:4-6 God's mighty power in judgment is shown not only through "whirlwind and storm" (v. 3; Is 66:15; Jr 23:19; Zch 9:14; see Jnh 1:4) but also through drying up bodies of water (v. 4; Ex 14:21-22), causing plants to wither (v. 4; Is 33:9), shaking mountains (v. 5; Ps 46:4; Mc 1:4), and shattering rocks (v. 6; Jr 23:29). The judgment on Nineveh represents what God will do to all of his "enemies" (vv. 2,8) in "the world" (v. 5; Is 24:1-6).

1:7 God judges evil (1:4-6), so his people find that he is good and a stronghold to those who take refuge in him (Pss 2:12; 28:8; 34:8; Is 25:4; Hs 3:5).

1:8 The enemies' fate in darkness contrasts with Zion going into "light" in Micah 7:8-9 (see Is 9:2; 49:6; 60:1). Ironically, Assyria's power is likened to "flood" in Isaiah 8:7-8.

1:9-11 God's enemies had plotted against him and were led by one wicked counselor in particular (see Is 10:7).

1:12-13 Israel had been afflicted before by the Assyrians, but this would not happen again (vv. 9,12). The breaking of the Assyrian yoke and shackles here parallels Isaiah 9:4 (see Jr 30:8).

1:14 The lack of a name contrasts with promises made to Abraham and David (Gn 12:2; 2Sm 7:9). Nineveh's idols will also be judged.

1:15 Judgment of the wicked is again juxtaposed with the salvation of God's people (see vv. 7,12-13; Is 52:7). Judah could celebrate festivals and fulfill vows (see Jnh 1:16; 2:9; Zch 14:16-19) because of the permanent peace (see Mc 5:5; Hg 2:9; Zch 9:10). The wicked one may refer back to "the wicked counselor" in verse 11.

ATTACK AGAINST NINEVEH

2 One who scatters is coming up against you. †
Man the fortifications!
Watch the road!
Brace † yourself!
Summon all your strength! †

2 For the LORD will restore the majesty of Jacob, † yes, † the majesty of Israel, though ravagers have ravaged them † and ruined their vine branches. †

3 The shields of his † warriors are dyed red; the valiant men are dressed in scarlet. †
The fittings of the chariot flash like fire † on the day of its battle preparations, and the spears are brandished.
4 The chariots dash madly through the streets; they rush around in the plazas.
They look like torches;
they dart back and forth like lightning.

5 He gives orders to his officers; they stumble as they advance.
They race to its wall;
the protective shield is set in place.
6 The river gates are opened, and the palace erodes away. †

“Stop! Stop! ” they cry, but no one turns back.
9 “Plunder the silver! Plunder the gold! ” †
There is no end to the treasure, an abundance of every precious thing. †
10 Desolation, decimation, devastation!
Hearts melt, † knees tremble, † insides churn, †
every face grows pale! †

11 Where is the lions’ lair, † or the feeding ground of the young lions, where the lion and lioness prowled, and the lion’s cub, with nothing to frighten them away? †
12 The lion mauled whatever its cubs needed and strangled prey for its lionesses.
It filled up its dens with the kill, and its lairs with mauled prey. †
13 Beware, I am against you. †
This is the declaration of the LORD of Armies.
I will make your chariots go up in smoke, † and the sword will devour your young lions. †

I will cut off your prey from the earth, and the sound of your messengers will never be heard again. †

2:3-10 An invading army will overrun the city, recalling Joel 2:1-10. The color red (v. 3) also is associated with an army in Zechariah 1:8; 6:2. Nineveh (v. 8) is explicitly mentioned for the first time since 1:1. The erosion of the palace (v. 6; see 1:5; Am 9:5) and plundering of every precious thing (v. 9) contrasts with the latter glory of the temple (Hg 2:7-9).

2:11-13 Mighty Nineveh is compared to a lions' lair where they strangled prey (vv. 11-12), but God would bring a sword to devour [their] young lions (v. 13). Elsewhere in the Minor Prophets, God himself is likened to a lion (Hs 5:14; 11:10; 13:7-8; Jl 3:16; Am 1:2; 3:8).

3:1 Zion and Babylon are also condemned for their bloodshed (Mc 3:10; Hab 2:12).

3:3 Seeing corpses lying everywhere was also experienced in Israel (see Am 8:3).

3:4-7 Like Israel (see Hs 1:2), Nineveh is called a prostitute (v. 4). She was guilty of dragging down nations through sorcery, which may refer to her trade (v. 16; see Ezk 27–28), wealth (2:9), and idolatry (1:14). The shame and devastation to be suffered by Nineveh (vv. 5-7) parallels that of Israel (Jr 13:26; Hs 2:3), though the key difference is that the latter is ultimately restored (1:15; 2:2).

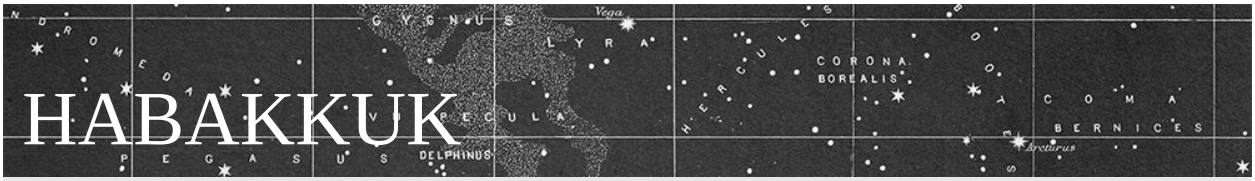
3:8-11 God's judgment on Nineveh was consistent with his dealing with other cities, such as Thebes (v. 8). Despite the advantages of being surrounded by water and having many allies, Egypt went into exile and captivity (v. 10), just like Nineveh would (v. 11). The consistency of God's dealings with all nations was similarly emphasized to Israel in Amos 9:7-8 (see note). The only adequate refuge is God himself (1:7).

3:12 Nineveh's fortresses will be useless on the day of judgment and will be so weak that they will fall like a ripe fig from a tree.

3:13 The opening of gates was also mentioned in 2:6 and depicts the vulnerability of the city.

3:16 Nineveh's merchants likely relate to her entrapment of the nations (v. 4) and her wealth (2:9). Tyre is similarly described in Ezekiel 27:3,12-27.

3:18-19 The conclusion to the book of Nahum addresses the king of Assyria. His people would be scattered across the mountains (see v. 10; 1:15; Mc 2:12; 4:6). He would be devastated and humiliated forever when God brings vengeance (v. 19; see v. 7; 1:8,14). In contrast, Israel's afflictions will eventually end (1:12-13,15; 2:2).



HABAKKUK

INTRODUCTION

One of the Minor Prophets, the book of Habakkuk is unique in its style. Rather than speaking to the people on God's behalf, Habakkuk spoke to God on behalf of the people. Habakkuk struggled with how to understand God's actions in history, especially his use of an unrighteous nation as the instrument of his justice. God's answer to Habakkuk's objection was that "the righteous one will live by his faith" (2:4).

CIRCUMSTANCES OF WRITING

AUTHOR: Habakkuk is not mentioned anywhere else in the Bible. His name is thought to derive from the Hebrew word chabaq, "to embrace," but its form appears non-Hebraic. More likely the name is related to habbaququ, a word found in the related Semitic language of Akkadian. It denotes a species of garden plant or fruit tree.

BACKGROUND: Habakkuk predicted the invasion of Judah by the Chaldeans (1:6). The term Chaldean (Hb kasdim; Akk kaldu) was originally used of an ethnic group that appeared in southern Babylonia in the ninth century BC. In the eighth century BC, Chaldeans began to rise to power in Babylon. Among the early Chaldean kings was Merodach-baladan II (2Kg 20:12; Is 39:1), who twice in the late eighth century took (and lost) Babylon's throne. The Chaldean Nabopolassar (626–605 BC) began to dismantle the Assyrian Empire with help from the Medes and founded the Neo-Babylonian Empire. By the time of Habakkuk "Chaldean" had come to be a synonym for "Babylonian."

These world events came to affect Judah. Pharaoh Neco of Egypt passed through Palestine in an attempt to support the remnant of the Assyrians in northern Syria against Babylon. The godly King Josiah confronted him at Megiddo but was killed by Neco in 609 BC. Judah then fell into the hands of Egypt from 609–605 BC.

Judah's fortunes changed again when Nabopolassar's son Nebuchadnezzar II defeated Neco at the battle of Carchemish (May/June 605 BC) on the Euphrates River northeast of Aleppo and succeeded his father on the throne of Babylon in September of that year. The Babylonian army pursued Neco back to Egypt. This led to Judah falling under control of the Babylonians by 604 BC.

Habakkuk predicted the Chaldean devastation of Judah (1:5-11), but that does not seem to have been fulfilled by the relatively bloodless Babylonian occupation in 604 BC. But when Jehoiakim, whom Neco had placed on Judah's throne in 609 BC, rebelled against Babylon in roughly 600 BC, Nebuchadnezzar eventually invaded the land and besieged Jerusalem from 598 to 597 BC. This led to Jehoiakim being deposed and killed in 598 BC and his son Jehoiachin going into Babylonian exile in 597 BC. The last king of Judah, Zedekiah, brought even more devastation upon Judah by rebelling against Babylon in 588 BC. When Judah fell to the Babylonians in August of either 587 or 586 BC, Nebuchadnezzar devastated Jerusalem and destroyed the temple. And yet as Habakkuk predicted (2:6-20), Babylon had its own day of reckoning in 539 BC when Cyrus of Persia conquered it.

These historical events help us to attach a date to the book of Habakkuk. Habakkuk probably wrote his prophecy during the time of trouble after the death of King Josiah of Judah in 609 BC but before the devastations of Judah in 598/597 BC and 587/586 BC by the Chaldeans. That places the prophecy during the reign of Jehoiakim (ca. 609–599 BC), probably in the period of Egyptian domination before Babylon invaded Judah (609–605 BC).

CONTRIBUTION TO THE BIBLE

The book of Habakkuk looks at an issue that often confronts people: trying to discern God's purposes in the midst of this world. There is a realization of the will of God for this world. This truth is seen throughout the Scripture: God's promises to Abraham; God's desire for us to have life abundantly; and God's will for a human community of joy, security, and righteousness. We ultimately triumph in the world and live abundantly only through faith. Habakkuk's message that the righteous will live by faith prepared the way for the greater understanding of this truth in the NT, which emphasizes salvation through faith in Christ (Rm 1:17; Gl 3:11; Heb 10:38-39).

STRUCTURE

The first two chapters consist of a dialogue between the prophet and God. Habakkuk first complained of injustice in Judah (1:2-4). God responded by announcing that he was sending the Chaldeans to punish Judah (1:5-11). Habakkuk then complained about God's answer, arguing that it seemed unfair for God to use the more wicked Babylonians to punish the less wicked Judeans (1:12–2:1). God responded that the Babylonians were indeed arrogant and would ultimately be punished; nonetheless, God would use the Babylonians just as he had determined (2:2-20). The final chapter consists of a psalm in which Habakkuk reflected on this dialogue with God.

CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW ELEMENTS

TEACHINGS ABOUT GOD

The answers God gave the prophet show him as the Revealer of truth. The revelations God made focus on his absolute sovereignty over human history. Habakkuk's own passion was a concern for the glory of God's name to be known among all people: "His splendor covers the heavens, and the earth is full of his praise" (3:3).

TEACHINGS ABOUT HUMANITY

Apart from divine revelation, human reasoning will never understand the ways of God. They will always be a mystery. It is fitting for people to ask God for revelation, but they must wait for the divine answers to their questions. When God reveals himself, people are to acknowledge his perfections by worship and praise.

TEACHINGS ABOUT SALVATION

The apostle Paul quoted Habakkuk 2:4 ("the righteous one will live by his faith") twice as OT evidence of the doctrine of justification by faith (Rm 1:17; Gl 3:11). Steadfast, persevering trust in God for deliverance has always been the hallmark of God's people. The final verses of the book, a hymn of faith in the God who saves, include the remarkable confession, "yet I will celebrate in the LORD; I will rejoice in the God of my salvation!" (Hab 3:18).

HABAKKUK TIMELINE

630–605 BC

Jeremiah is called to be a prophet; he warns of invasion from the north. 626

Second phase of King Josiah's reforms when the book of the law is found in the temple 622

Jeremiah's temple sermon 609

Judah's King Josiah seeks to block the movement of Pharaoh Neco II's Egyptian troops as they pass through territory north of Judah en route to join forces with Assyria. Josiah is killed by the Egyptians at Megiddo. 609

Josiah's son, Jehoahaz II, succeeds him and is deposed, replaced by his brother, Jehoiakim. 609

605–600 BC

Pharaoh Neco II presses on to engage the Babylonian army at Carchemish with the aim of saving what is left of the Assyrian Empire. Nebuchadnezzar leads the Babylonians to defeat Neco at Carchemish. 605

Habakkuk prophesies shortly before or after the battle at Carchemish to point out what the growing Babylonian strength means for Judah. 605

Jehoiakim makes a decision to turn from his alliance with Egypt and submit to Nebuchadnezzar. 604

Jehoiakim ignores Jeremiah's warning and turns back to Egypt for support after Egypt defeats Babylon at Migdol. 601

600–590 BC

Nebuchadnezzar attacks Jerusalem and leads the citizens of Judah into exile. 605, 597, 586

A reinforced Babylonian army approaches Judah; Jehoiakim dies. 598

Nebuchadnezzar plunders the temple, takes Jehoiachin and the royal family into exile, and Zedekiah becomes king. 597

Ezekiel begins to prophesy. 593

587–580 BC

Zedekiah rebels against Babylon and is taken to Riblah along with his family. At Riblah he witnesses the executions of his sons, before his own eyes are blinded. Then Zedekiah is taken to Babylon. He apparently dies in captivity. 587

Gedaliah is appointed governor of Judah by Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon in 587. He is soon assassinated.

As punishment for the uprising against Gedaliah, Nebuchadnezzar deports more citizens. 582

HABAKKUK'S FIRST PRAYER

2 How long, † LORD, must I call for help † and you do not listen or cry out to you about violence † and you do not save?
3 Why do you force me to look at injustice? †

Why do you tolerate † wrongdoing?
Oppression and violence are right in front of me.
Strife is ongoing, and conflict escalates.
4 This is why the law is ineffective and justice never emerges.
For the wicked restrict † the righteous; therefore, justice † comes out perverted.

GOD'S FIRST ANSWER

5 Look at the nations † † and observe † — be utterly astounded! †
For I am doing something in your days that you will not believe † when you hear about it. †
6 Look! I am raising up † the Chaldeans, † that bitter, † impetuous nation that marches across the earth's open spaces to seize territories not its own.
7 They are fierce † and terrifying; their views of justice and sovereignty stem from themselves.
8 Their horses are swifter † than leopards † and more fierce † than wolves of the night.
Their horsemen charge ahead; their horsemen come from distant lands.
They fly like eagles, swooping to devour. †
9 All of them come to do violence; their faces † are set in determination. †
They gather † prisoners like sand. †
10 They mock † kings, and rulers are a joke to them.
They laugh † at every fortress and build siege ramps to capture † it.
11 Then they sweep † by like the wind and pass through.
They are guilty; † their strength is their god.

HABAKKUK'S SECOND PRAYER

12 Are you not from eternity, LORD my God? †
My Holy One, † you † will not die.

LORD, you appointed them to execute judgment; my Rock, † you destined them to punish us.
13 Your eyes † are too pure † to look on evil, and you cannot tolerate wrongdoing.
So why do you tolerate those who are treacherous? †
Why are you silent while one † who is wicked swallows up one † who is more righteous than himself?
14 You have made mankind like the fish of the sea, † like marine creatures that have no ruler.
15 The Chaldeans pull them all up with a hook, catch them in their dragnet, † and gather them in their fishing net; that is why they are glad and rejoice.
16 That is why they sacrifice to their dragnet and burn incense to their fishing net, for by these things their portion is rich and their food plentiful. † 17 Will they therefore empty their net and continually slaughter nations without mercy?

1:1 The book of Habakkuk consists of a dialogue between the prophet and God. Habakkuk's struggles center on God's justice in a fallen world (see following notes). The book concludes with a prayer of praise and confidence (3:1-19). Whereas the preceding book, Nahum, focuses on judgment on Nineveh and Assyria, the present one deals with judgment on Judah and Babylon.

1:2-4 The prophet had been crying out to God about the violence in Judah but to no avail (v. 2). Because God is sovereign and had not taken action, Habakkuk saw him as tolerating such injustice and wrongdoing (v. 3). The wicked restricting the righteous (v. 4) is also referenced elsewhere in the Minor Prophets (Am 2:6; 5:10-13; Mc 7:2-6). The uselessness of the law and the perversion of justice are familiar themes (Hs 4:6; 8:1; Am 2:4; 5:7; Mc 3:9).

1:5-11 God's response was that he did intend to bring judgment on Judah and was raising up the Chaldeans as his instrument (v. 6). Judah would believe this when they heard of it (v. 5; Ac 13:41; see Is 52:15). The powerful army described in verses 6-11 recalls Joel 2:1-10 and Nahum 2:1-10. Their power and pride is shown through their likeness to eagles (v. 8; see 2:9; Ex 19:4; Ob 4), gathering captives like sand (v. 9; see Gn 22:17; Hs 1:10), mockery of kings (v. 10; see Pss 2:4; 59:8), and worship of their own strength (v. 11).

1:12-13 Habakkuk recognized that God had appointed the Babylonians to execute judgment on Judah, but the broader issues regarding "justice" and "violence" (vv. 2-4) were only compounded (vv. 7,9). God's holiness coupled with his use of the wicked for his purposes generated even more questions for the prophet (v. 13; see vv. 2-3).

1:14-17 From the prophet's perspective, it was as though God was not ruling over the affairs of men, who are compared to the fish of the sea. Instead, the powerful Babylonian simply does as he pleases (v. 15) and worships idols (v. 16; see v. 11) with no end in sight (v. 17).

HABAKKUK WAITS FOR GOD'S RESPONSE

2 I will stand at my guard post and station myself on the lookout tower. †
I will watch to see what he will say to me † and what I should † reply about my complaint.

GOD'S SECOND ANSWER

2 The LORD answered me:

Write down this vision; †
clearly inscribe it on tablets so one may easily read it. † 3 For the vision is yet for the appointed time; †
it testifies about the end and will not lie.
Though it delays, wait for it, since it will certainly come and not be late. † 4 Look, his ego is inflated; †
he is without integrity.
But the righteous one will live by his faith. † †
5 Moreover, wine † betrays; an arrogant man is never at rest. †
He enlarges his appetite like Sheol, and like Death he is never satisfied. †
He gathers all the nations to himself; † he collects all the peoples for himself.

THE FIVE WOE ORACLES

6 Won’t all of these take up a taunt against him, † with mockery and riddles about him?
They will say:

Woe to him who amasses what is not his — how much longer? † — and loads himself with goods taken in pledge. †

7 Won’t your creditors suddenly arise, and those who disturb you wake up?
Then you will become spoil for them. †

8 Since you have plundered many nations, † all the peoples who remain will plunder you † — because of human bloodshed and violence † against lands, cities, and all who live in them. †

9 Woe to him who dishonestly makes wealth for his house † † to place his nest on high, to escape the grasp of disaster! †

10 You have planned shame for your house by wiping out many peoples and sinning against your own self.

11 For the stones will cry out † from the wall, and the rafters will answer them from the woodwork.

12 Woe to him who builds a city with bloodshed and founds a town with injustice! †

13 Is it not from the LORD of Armies that the peoples labor only to fuel the fire and countries exhaust themselves for nothing? †

14 For the earth will be filled with the knowledge of the LORD’s glory, as the water covers the sea. †

15 Woe to him who gives his neighbors drink, pouring out your wrath † and even making them drunk, in order to look at their nakedness!

16 You will be filled with disgrace instead of glory.
You also — drink,
and expose your uncircumcision! †
The cup in the LORD’s right hand will come around to you, and utter disgrace will cover your glory. † 17 For your violence against Lebanon will overwhelm you; the destruction of animals will terrify you † because of your human bloodshed and violence against lands, cities, and all who live in them.

18 What use is a carved idol after its craftsman carves it?
It is only a cast image, a teacher of lies.
For the one who crafts its shape trusts in it and makes idols that cannot speak.
19 Woe to him who says to wood: Wake up!
or to mute stone: Come alive!
Can it teach?
Look! It may be plated with gold and silver, yet there is no breath † in it at all.

20 But the LORD is in his holy temple; † let the whole earth be silent in his presence. †

2:1 As the prophet awaited God's response (see Mc 7:7), he also anticipated how he would reply to it. The change in perspective in Habakkuk 3 suggests that his actual response was different from what he had thought at this moment.

2:2-3 God's first response (1:5-11) was not the full story. At the appointed time, a vision would be fulfilled. This prophetic message needed to be both clearly inscribed (see Dt 27:8) and proclaimed (see Nah 1:15). The Babylonian army would come (1:8-9), but even more importantly, this vision will certainly come (v. 3). It concerns the end (see Dn 11:35; 12:4,9), and the faithful are to wait for it (see Dn 12:12; Zph 3:8).

2:4 The Lord begins his explanation by declaring his knowledge of the Babylonians' wickedness, which speaks to Habakkuk's struggle with divine justice (see 1:2-3,13). But he also implicitly calls the prophet to exercise patient faith. By this, the righteous will live instead of die (see v. 5; 1:17). God indeed will make a distinction between the righteous and the wicked (see 1:4,13; Ps 1:6; Mal 3:18).

2:5 The proud Babylonian is compared to Sheol and Death because both have an insatiable appetite and are never satisfied with killing (see Pr 1:12). Likewise, the prophet had earlier lamented that "the wicked swallows up one who is more righteous than himself" (1:13). The Babylonian's gathering all the nations and collecting all the peoples to himself (see 1:9,15) directly opposes the eschatological promises of Micah 2:12-13 and 4:1-4,6-8 (see notes).

2:8 The many nations and peoples that Babylon plundered will plunder Babylon (see vv. 5,10). The violence Habakkuk had lamented would be avenged (see the notes on 1:12-17).

2:9 The setting of his nest on high alludes to his likeness to an "eagle" in 1:8 and to the very origins of Babylon (see the note on Gn 11:1-9). Edom had acted similarly (see Ob 3), but such exaltation is reserved for God alone (see Mc 1:3; 4:1-2; 6:6).

2:12-14 Babylon's bloodshed against others is again condemned (vv. 8,12). Nineveh (Nah 3:1) and Zion were guilty of the same (Mc 3:10), but the latter will be ultimately redeemed with justice and righteousness (Is 1:27; 9:7). Thus, the godless efforts of the peoples and countries are for nothing (v. 13), since it is the knowledge of the LORD's glory that will fill the earth (v. 14; see Jl 2:28-32; Am 9:11-12; Jnh 3:5; Mc 4:1-4; 5:4).

2:15-17 Whereas God's "glory" will cover the world (v. 14), Babylon will be utterly humiliated when the Lord's wrath and justice overwhelm them (v. 17; "cover" and "overwhelm" translate the same Hebrew word in these verses). Their violence and bloodshed committed against humanity are cited again (see vv. 5,8,10; 1:9,17). The probably senseless destruction of animals contrasts with God's concern for such creatures in Jonah 4:11.

2:18-20 The downfall of Babylon also includes the judgment of idols (vv. 18-19; see Is 46:1-2) and the vindication of God himself (v. 20). Whereas idols teach lies and are actually mute and lifeless (since they have no breath or spirit), God reveals truth (vv. 2-3). His Spirit is active and powerful (see Jl 2:28-29; Mc 3:8). Therefore, idols should not be trusted, and the whole earth should be silent in [God's] presence (v. 20; see Mc 1:2; Am 8:3; Jnh 2:4,7; Zph 1:7; 2:17; Mal 3:1).

HABAKKUK'S THIRD PRAYER

3 A prayer of the prophet Habakkuk. According to Shigionoth. † †

2 LORD, I have heard the report about you; LORD, I stand in awe of your deeds. † Revive your work in these years; make it known in these years.
In your wrath remember mercy! †

3 God comes from Teman, the Holy One from Mount Paran. †
Selah His splendor covers the heavens, and the earth is full of his praise. †

4 His brilliance is like light; rays are flashing from his hand.
This is where his power is hidden.

5 Plague goes before him, and pestilence follows in his steps.

6 He stands and shakes † the earth; †
he looks and startles the nations.
The age-old mountains break apart; the ancient hills sink down. †
His pathways are ancient. †

7 I see the tents of Cushan † in distress; the tent curtains of the land of Midian tremble.

8 Are you angry at the rivers, LORD?
Is your wrath against the rivers?
Or is your rage against the sea when you ride on your horses, your victorious chariot? †

9 You took the sheath from your bow; the arrows are ready † to be used with an oath. † †

Selah You split the earth with rivers.

10 The mountains see you and shudder; † a downpour of water sweeps by.
The deep roars with its voice † and lifts its waves † high.

11 Sun and moon stand still in their lofty residence, † at the flash of your flying arrows, at the brightness of your shining spear.

12 You march across the earth with indignation; you trample down the nations in wrath. †

13 You come out to save your people, † to save your anointed. †
You crush the leader of the house of the wicked and strip him from foot † to neck.

Selah 14 You pierce his head with his own spears;
his warriors storm out to scatter us, gloating as if ready to secretly devour the weak.

15 You tread the sea with your horses, stirring up the vast water. †

HABAKKUK'S CONFIDENCE IN GOD EXPRESSED

16 I heard, and I trembled within; † my lips quivered at the sound.
Rottenness entered my bones; I trembled where I stood.
Now I must quietly wait for the day of distress † to come against the people invading us.
17 Though the fig tree does not bud and there is no fruit on the vines, though the olive crop fails and the fields produce no food, though the flocks disappear from the pen and there are no herds in the stalls, 18 yet I will celebrate in the LORD; I will rejoice in the God of my salvation! † 19 The LORD my Lord is my strength; † he makes my feet like those of a deer † and enables me to walk on mountain heights! †

For the choir director: on † stringed instruments.

3:1 God's second response (2:2-20) drastically changed Habakkuk's mindset, as can be seen by the content of his psalm-like prayer (see Pss 7; 17; 86; 90; 102; 142). Gone are laments concerning God's slowness to act against violence and wickedness (1:2-4,12-17). They are replaced by a declaration of God's coming judgment and salvation.

3:2 The prophet now is in awe of God's deeds (see 1:5; 2:20). For God to make it known contrasts with mute idols (2:18-19). His wrath will be poured out on Judah and Babylon, but Habakkuk prays for mercy (see the notes on Jl 2:12-14; Jnh 3:5-10).

3:3 In keeping with the vision that will certainly come (2:3; see LXX; Heb 10:37), God will come from Teman, which is associated with Edom. As such, this recalls other passages in the Minor Prophets concerning Edom (Jl 3:19; Am 1:6,9,11-12; 9:11-12; Ob 1). Mount Paran was the home of Ishmael (Gn 21:21) but is similarly mentioned along with "Seir" (Edom) in Deuteronomy 33:2. The covering of the heavens with divine splendor and the filling of the earth with praise anticipate the fulfillment of 2:14 when God comes. The Hebrew term for God used here is atypical, occurring mostly in Job (forty-one times) and seventeen times elsewhere in the OT (e.g., Dt 32:15,17).

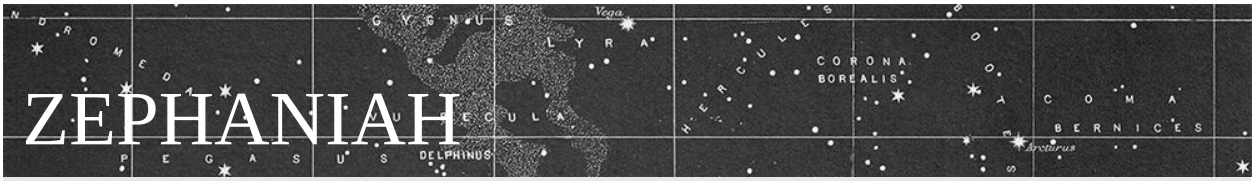
3:4-6 The Hebrew words for brilliance and light (v. 4) appear together in other prophetic passages (2Sm 23:4; Is 60:3; see Is 9:2; 50:10; 62:1). God's coming in power (vv. 5-6) parallels Joel 3:16 and Micah 1:3-4; 4:1 in the Minor Prophets and 2 Samuel 22:8-14 and Pss 18:7-13; 46:2-3. Plague and pestilence are means of his judgment (see Ex 9:3; Lv 26:25; Dt 32:24).

3:7-12 God's coming in power to judge (vv. 3-6) will recall his victory over the Egyptian army at the Red Sea (Ex 15:1-3; see the notes on Hs 13:14; Mc 7:15-20). Peoples had trembled then (Ex 15:14), and they will tremble again (v. 7). This judgment concerns not only Babylon but the nations (vv. 6,12). God will ride on his horses and chariot of salvation (v. 8) and will even shoot arrows (vv. 9,11), which are symbols of his power as a divine warrior. God's threshing of the nations in indignation (v. 12) parallels Isaiah 63:1-6. In other passages, Israel does this (Mc 4:13; 5:8; see Is 26:6) because of God's salvation (Pss 44:5; 60:12; 108:13).

3:13-15 Whereas "the nations" experience divine wrath (v. 12), God will save his people and his anointed (v. 13; see Dt 33:7; 2Sm 22:51; Ps 20:6). The latter is sometimes translated Messiah (Dn 9:25-26), and the underlying Hebrew word only appears here in the Minor Prophets. Salvation from such vast water (v. 15; see previous note) foregrounds second exodus themes in the Minor Prophets again (see the notes on 2:5; Hs 1:11; 11:1; 13:14; Mc 7:15-20).

3:16 Habakkuk trembled but would wait for God to judge the Babylonians and save his people (see v. 13). The prophet's laments had been answered (1:2-4,12-17), and he obeyed the implicit directive to wait in faith in 2:2-4.

3:17-19 Despite material lack (v. 17; see Hs 2:9,12; Jl 1:4), Habakkuk's faith gave him confidence and joy in God (v. 18; Mc 7:7), who is his strength (Ex 15:2; Is 12:2). God causes the prophet to walk on mountain heights (see Dt 32:13; 2Sm 22:34; Is 58:14; Mc 1:3).



ZEPHANIAH

INTRODUCTION

One of the Minor Prophets, Zephaniah focuses on the need to live in righteousness before God. Of all the prophets, Zephaniah probably gave the most forceful description of judgment, but he also lifted up the possibility of restoration for those who repented and turned to righteousness.

CIRCUMSTANCES OF WRITING

AUTHOR: Zephaniah's lengthy genealogy (1:1, four generations back to Hezekiah) suggests he was of royal lineage. Why list four generations (other prophets, at most, listed two generations; see Zch 1:1) unless this final name was significant? Perhaps because his father's name was "Cushi," people tended to suspect that Zephaniah was of mixed ancestry, including Cushite bloodlines. In fact, Zephaniah twice mentions the Cushites/Cush ("Ethiopians") in his short prophecy (2:12; 3:10), possibly suggesting his Cushite roots.

Internal evidence indicates the book of Zephaniah was written sometime between 640 and 612 BC. Zephaniah 1:1 refers to King Josiah's reign (ca. 640–609 BC), and 2:13-15 prophesies Nineveh's fall. Since Nineveh fell in 612 BC, Zephaniah's prophecy would have been given prior to that time. Furthermore, existing idolatrous practices in Judah (1:4-6) imply Zephaniah's ministry began before Josiah's reforms in roughly 621 BC (2 Kg 23).

BACKGROUND: King Josiah's father, King Amon (1:1), was a wicked man, as was his father before him, King Manasseh (2Kg 21:1-7,11,16,20-22). This heritage of wickedness helps explain the rampant idolatry in the land when Josiah inherited the throne in 640 BC. Josiah struggled to squelch idolatry in Judah (Zph 1:4-9). Together pagan and "orthodox priests" led worship of the Lord while also bowing before Baal, Molech, and other pagan gods (1:4-6). The public reading of the book of the law (ca. 621 BC) helped spawn the reforms of Josiah as people repented and tore down the numerous altars (cp. Jr 11:13) and other idolatrous paraphernalia of Baal and Molech (2Kg 23:1-14; cp. Zph 1:3-4). This included abolishing the false priests (2Kg 23:5).

CONTRIBUTION TO THE BIBLE

The promise of a remnant illustrates God's amazing grace counterbalancing his jealous wrath and blazing fury against the wicked (Nah 1:2-8). He would judge the proud nations (Zph 2:8-11,13-15) and purge the haughty braggarts from his people (3:11) to preserve the humble. Thus Zephaniah invited everyone who humbly obeyed the Lord to seek him for possible deliverance (2:2-3). The NT highlights the wonderful truth that all of us can find salvation through faith in Christ. Paul underscored the idea of the Jewish remnant and reminded us that the remnant is "chosen by grace," not by works (Rm 11:5-6).

STRUCTURE

"The word of the LORD" (1:1a) and "the LORD has spoken" (3:20b) frame the whole book of Zephaniah to emphasize crucial complementary messages: imminent, universal judgment (1:1–3:8) but eventual blessing for the remnant (3:9-20). The chiastic first section, interlaced by the reinforcing refrain "this is the LORD's declaration" (see 1:2-3,10a; 2:9a; 3:8a; cp. 2:5, "word of the LORD"), highlights an all-inclusive judgment.

Zephaniah 3:8 is a transitional exhortation that looks both backward ("therefore," v. 8a) and forward (wait patiently for God to consummate judgment which will yield salvation for the remnant; v v. 9-13, introduced by Hebrew ki, "for/because" v v. 9,11). To offer hope during judgment in 3:8-13 may synthesize two exhortations: 1:7 (hush/wait for the day of the Lord's "cutting off " the wicked) and 2:1-3 (pivotal invitation to seek him for possible salvation).

CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW ELEMENTS

TEACHINGS ABOUT GOD

God is righteous and jealous for his people. In the coming "day of the LORD," he will bring about justice on all who have shown their opposition to him by living in violence and treachery, including those who claimed to belong to him. Although there is no direct prediction of Christ or the coming of the Holy Spirit, Christians have understood Zephaniah's prediction of the day when "the King of Israel, the LORD, is among you" (3:15) to refer to Jesus.

TEACHINGS ABOUT HUMANITY

Zephaniah shows the universal tendency among humans toward evil. All kinds of people—Jerusalemites, Philistines, Moabites, Assyrians, and Ethiopians—will alike be condemned because of their sins against God. Arrogance, oppression, and violence deserve God's judgment, no matter what persons or nations have committed them.

TEACHINGS ABOUT SALVATION

Because of Zephaniah's emphasis on the "day of the LORD," his understanding of salvation focuses on God's subsequent blessing on the righteous remnant of Israel. God's restoration of the covenant people, however, also means that all the nations of the earth will know him: "all of them may call on the name of the LORD and serve him with a single purpose" (3:9; see Rv 21:24-26).

ZEPHANIAH TIMELINE

800–725 BC

Amos is called to travel from Judah to Israel to prophesy in Samaria. 783

Jonah is called to go to Nineveh and preach repentance.

Hosea's prophetic ministry 750–722?

Micah begins his prophetic ministry. 750

Assyria emerges from years of decline as Tiglath-pileser III invades Israel and other territories in the region. 745–727

Isaiah is called to be a prophet. 740

725–640 BC

Assyria's Shalmaneser V besieges Samaria. 725–722

Samaria falls to Assyria's Sargon II, nearly 28,000 Israelites are sent into exile, and Gentiles from Assyrian-controlled territories are resettled into what was the northern kingdom. 722

Third temple reform under Hezekiah 715

Years of prophetic silence (698–626) in Judah coincides with some of Judah's darkest years under the rule of Manasseh (697–642) and Amon (642–640).

640–615 BC

Josiah is placed on Judah's throne at the age of eight when his father, Amon, is assassinated. 640

Initial reforms of Josiah 631

Zephaniah's years of prophecy range between 626 and 612.

Jeremiah called to be a prophet; warns of invasion from the north 626

The book of the law is found and read publicly, spurring additional reform under Josiah. 621

Zephaniah and Nahum both prophesy the fall of Nineveh that occurred in 621.

615–580 BC

With the fall of Nineveh, the Babylonian Empire succeeds the Assyrian Empire as the dominant force in the ancient Near East. 612

Josiah killed in battle by Pharaoh Neco 609

Habakkuk prophesies shortly before or after the battle at Carchemish (605) to point out what the growing Babylonian strength means for Judah.

Nebuchadnezzar attacks Jerusalem and leads citizens of Judah into exile. 605, 597, 586, 582

1 The word of the LORD that came to Zephaniah son of Cushi, son of Gedaliah, son of Amariah, son of Hezekiah, † in the days of Josiah † son of Amon, † king of Judah.

THE GREAT DAY OF THE LORD

2 I will completely sweep away everything from the face of the earth † — this is the LORD's declaration.

3 I will sweep away people and animals; †
I will sweep away the birds of the sky and the fish of the sea, and the ruins † along with the wicked. †
I will cut off mankind
from the face of the earth.
This is the LORD's declaration.

4 I will stretch out my hand † against Judah and against all the residents of Jerusalem.

I will cut off every vestige of Baal †
from this place,

the names of the pagan priests †
along with the priests;
5 those who bow in worship on the rooftops † to the stars in the sky;
those who bow and pledge loyalty to the LORD †
but also pledge loyalty to Milcom; † † 6 and those who turn back from following the LORD, who do not seek the LORD or inquire of him.
7 Be silent in the presence of the Lord GOD, †
for the day of the LORD is near. † Indeed, the LORD has prepared a sacrifice; †
he has consecrated his guests. †

8 On the day of the LORD's sacrifice I will punish the officials, the king's sons, and all who are dressed in foreign clothing.
9 On that day † I will punish all who skip over the threshold, † † who fill their master's house with violence and deceit.

10 On that day — this is the LORD's declaration — there will be an outcry from the Fish Gate, † a wailing from the Second District, † and a loud crashing from the hills.
11 Wail, you residents of the Hollow, † for all the merchants † will be silenced; all those loaded with silver will be cut off.

12 And at that time I will search Jerusalem with lamps and punish those who settle down comfortably, † † who say to themselves:
The LORD will not do good or evil. †
13 Their wealth will become plunder and their houses a ruin.
They will build houses but never live in them, plant vineyards but never drink their wine. †

14 The great day of the LORD is near, † near and rapidly approaching.
Listen, the day of the LORD — then the warrior's cry is bitter.
15 That day is a day of wrath, a day of trouble and distress, a day of destruction and desolation, a day of darkness † and gloom, a day of clouds and total darkness, † 16 a day of trumpet blast and battle cry against the fortified cities, and against the high corner towers.
17 I will bring distress on mankind, and they will walk like the blind † because they have sinned against the LORD.
Their blood will be poured out like dust and their flesh like dung.
18 Their silver and their gold will be unable to rescue them on the day of the LORD's wrath. †
The whole earth will be consumed by the fire of his jealousy, † for he will make a complete, yes, a horrifying end of all the inhabitants of the earth.

1:1 An Israelite king had not been mentioned since the book of Micah, whose ministry took place during the reigns of Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah (Mc 1:1). Since then, the northern kingdom had fallen to Assyria. Zephaniah's ministry took place during the latter period of the kingdom of Judah, during the reign of Josiah (see 2Kg 22–23).

1:2-3 God's coming judgment will be against everything: man and animals of the land, sky, and sea (see Jl 3:2). The use of the Hebrew word 'adam (man or mankind) shows that all humanity is in view, not only Israel (v. 3). This will take place on the "day of the LORD" (vv. 7,14). In some prophetic books, such as Amos, that phrase refers to God's actions in the near future. Zephaniah's references to this day are more eschatological in character, describing God's final judgment and vindication at the end of time.

1:4-6 The focus narrows to Judah and Jerusalem, which was guilty of idolatry while simultaneously paying lip service to God (Hs 5:4-6). Indeed, the people did not seek or inquire him (v. 6; see Dt 4:29; Hs 3:5; 5:15; Am 5:4-6). Baal worship had also been condemned in Hosea 2:8,13,17; 11:2; 13:1.

1:7 The preceding will be fulfilled on the day of the LORD, an important theme in the Minor Prophets (see the note on Jl 1:15) and in Zephaniah in particular. The call for silence in God's presence recalls Habakkuk 2:20. His preparation of a sacrifice for his guests is an ominous way of alluding to their deaths (see Jl 3:9-14).

1:8-13 Judgment day is again referred to as a day of sacrifice (vv. 7,8). Mentioned first is the house of David, the king's sons, whose guilt may have included maintaining close relations with foreign nations. Skipping over the threshold may be a reference to pagan superstition (v. 9; 1Sm 5:5). The sins of violence, deceit, and greed (vv. 9,11-13) recall social justice themes elsewhere in the Minor Prophets (e.g., Am 5:10-15; Mc 6:10-12; Hab 1:2-4). The Hebrew phrase translated all the merchants (v. 11), if taken in isolation, could be translated "all the people of Canaan," thus linking the judgment of these traders to the destruction of the Canaanites (see 2:5; the note on Hs 12:7-8). The presumptuous belief that God will not do anything (v. 12) resembles Amos 5:18. The inability to enjoy houses and vineyards (v. 13) fulfills Deuteronomy 28:30 (see Am 5:11; Mc 6:14-15) and contrasts with Micah 4:4.

1:14 In response to the claim that God will not do anything (v. 12), the day of the LORD is said two more times to be near (see v. 7), even rapidly approaching (see Hab 2:3). The bitter cry of the warrior shows that he has been overpowered by God, the Almighty warrior (3:17; see Ex 15:3; Is 9:6; 42:13).

1:15-18 Parallel to other passages in the Minor Prophets, the day of the LORD is characterized as day of distress (v. 15; Nah 1:7; Hab 3:16) and of darkness (Jl 2:2,31; Am 5:18,20). The sounds of a trumpet and shouting (v. 16) are linked to war (Hs 5:8; Jl 2:1; Am 1:14; 2:2; 3:6). Judgment of fortified cities and high corner towers relates to Hosea 8:15 and Isaiah 2:15. Although verses 4-13 focused on Judah and Jerusalem, the scope of this doomsday is mankind and the whole earth (vv. 17-18), as it was in verses 2-3. The blindness that plagues sinful humanity is characteristic of Israel in Deuteronomy 28:29; Isaiah 42:18-19; 43:8; and 59:10. The uselessness of silver and gold on the day of judgment parallels Ezekiel 7:19; these may be related also to idolatry (Is 2:20; 31:7; Hs 8:4; Hab 2:19).

A CALL TO REPENTANCE

2 Gather yourselves together; gather together, undesirable † nation, 2 before the decree † takes effect and the day passes like chaff, before the burning of the LORD's anger † overtakes you, before the day of the LORD's anger overtakes you. † 3 Seek the LORD, † all you humble † of the earth, who carry out what he commands.
Seek righteousness, seek humility; perhaps you will be concealed † on the day of the LORD's anger.

JUDGMENT AGAINST THE NATIONS

4 For Gaza will be abandoned, and Ashkelon will become a ruin.

Ashdod will be driven out at noon, and Ekron will be uprooted. †

5 Woe, inhabitants of the seacoast, nation of the Cherethites! † †
The word of the LORD is against you, †
Canaan, land of the Philistines: I will destroy you until there is no one left. † 6 The seacoast will become pasturelands with caves for shepherds and pens for sheep.
7 The coastland will belong to the remnant of the house of Judah; they will find pasture there.
They will lie down in the evening among the houses of Ashkelon, for the LORD their God will return to them and restore their fortunes. †

8 I have heard the taunting † of Moab and the insults of the Ammonites, † who have taunted my people and threatened their territory.
9 Therefore, as I live — this is the declaration of the LORD of Armies, the God of Israel — Moab will be like Sodom † and the Ammonites like Gomorrah: † a place overgrown with weeds, a salt pit, and a perpetual wasteland.
The remnant of my people will plunder them; the remainder of my nation will dispossess them.
10 This is what they get for their pride, because they have taunted and acted arrogantly † against the people of the LORD of Armies.
11 The LORD will be terrifying to them when he starves all the gods of the earth.
Then all the distant coasts and islands of the nations will bow in worship to him, each in its own place.

12 You Cushites will also be slain by my sword. †

13 He will also stretch out his hand against the north and destroy Assyria; he will make Nineveh a desolate ruin, †
dry as the desert.
14 Herds will lie down in the middle of it, every kind of wild animal. †

Both eagle owls † and herons † will roost in the capitals of its pillars.
Their calls will sound † from the window, but devastation † will be on the threshold, for he will expose the cedar work. † 15 This is the jubilant † city that lives in security, that thinks to herself:
I exist, and there is no one else.
What a desolation she has become, a place for wild animals to lie down!
Everyone who passes by her scoffs † and shakes his fist.

2:1-3 The undesirable nation is Judah (v. 1), and the call for its people to gather together is similar to Joel 1:14; 2:15-16. As in 1:15,18, the dominant characteristic of the day of the LORD is that of wrath (vv. 2-3). The only hope for escaping this holy anger is to seek the LORD, righteousness, and humility (v. 3; Nah 1:7). These simple instructions resemble those given in Hosea 6:6; 12:6; Amos 5:4-6,14-15; Micah 6:8; and Habakkuk 2:3-4. Verse 3 represents a turning point in the book. The "day of the Lord" is a terrifying day of judgment for those who are guilty, but this verse suggests a way to escape: turning to God in humility.

2:4-6 The alternation between the nations and Israel (see 2:1; 1:2,4,17-18) continues with the reference to these Philistine cities. The Philistines are also called Cherethites in Ezekiel 25:16.

2:7 Although Judah would also be judged severely (vv. 1-2; 1:4-13), they would be left a remnant, unlike the Philistines (see Ezk 25:16). This remnant will possess the land of the Philistines, as foretold also in Obadiah 19. The phrases find pasture and lie down echo others in the Minor Prophets that describe Israel's eschatological salvation in terms of shepherding language (see 3:13; Mc 2:12; 4:8; 5:4; 7:14; Zch 13:7). All this will be fulfilled when the Lord restore[s] their fortunes (see Hs 6:11; Jl 3:1; Am 9:14). Thus, the day of the LORD is very good news for those whole belong to him, even while it is very bad news for those who do not.

2:8-10 Like the Philistines (see vv. 4-7), the Moabites and Ammonites will also be punished, and the remnant of [God's] people will possess their land (vv. 8-9), as Obadiah 17-21 likewise foretells. The permanent and complete destruction of these two peoples is likened to that of Sodom and Gomorrah. The sin that they were especially guilty of was arrogant boasting over Israel (vv. 8,10; Is 16:6; Jr 48:29; Ob 12-13; Mc 4:11).

2:11 God's judgment on the nations will also include judgment against all the gods of the earth. As a result, all the distant coasts and islands will worship him (see Gn 10:5; Is 42:4; Am 9:11-12; Mc 5:4; Hab 2:14). Each person giving glory from his own place relates to Micah 4:4 and to the use of this word elsewhere in the Minor Prophets (see 1:4; Hs 1:10; Jl 3:7; Mal 1:11).

2:13-15 After a brief mention of the judgment of Cush (v. 12), the destruction and humiliation of Nineveh is proclaimed. The downfall of this Assyrian capital was the focus of the book of Nahum. The judgment on Assyria is mentioned in Micah 5:4-5 and Zechariah 10:11. The desolation of the land (v. 14) and the arrogant boast I exist, and there is no one else (v. 15) respectively parallel Edom in Isaiah 34:11 and Babylon in Isaiah 47:8,10 (see 14:23).

WOE TO OPPRESSIVE JERUSALEM

3 Woe to the city that is rebellious † † and defiled, † the oppressive city!
2 She has not obeyed; †
she has not accepted discipline. †
She has not trusted † in the LORD; she has not drawn near to her God.
3 The † princes within her are roaring lions; † her judges are wolves of the night, † which leave nothing for † the morning.
4 Her prophets are reckless † — treacherous men.
Her priests profane the sanctuary; they do violence to instruction. †
5 The righteous LORD is in her; †
he does no wrong. †
He applies his justice morning by morning; he does not fail at dawn, yet the one who does wrong knows no shame. †

6 I have cut off nations; their corner towers † are destroyed.
I have laid waste their streets, with no one to pass through.
Their cities lie devastated, without a person, without an inhabitant. † 7 I thought: You will certainly fear me and accept correction.
Then her dwelling place † would not be cut off based on all that I had allocated to her.
However, they became more corrupt in all their actions.

8 Therefore, wait for me † — this is the LORD's declaration — until the day
I rise up for plunder. †
For my decision is to gather nations, to assemble kingdoms, in order to pour out my indignation † on them, all my burning anger; for the whole earth will be consumed by the fire of my jealousy. †

FINAL RESTORATION PROMISED

9 For I will then restore pure † speech to the peoples so that all of them may call on the name of the LORD and serve him with a single purpose. † 10 From beyond the rivers of Cush † my supplicants, my dispersed people, will bring an offering to me.
11 On that day you † will not be put to shame † because of everything you have done in rebelling † against me.
For then I will remove from among you your jubilant, † arrogant people, and you will never again be haughty on my holy mountain. † 12 I will leave a meek and humble people † among you, and they will take refuge in the name of the LORD.
13 The remnant † of Israel will no longer do wrong or tell lies;
a deceitful tongue will not be found in their mouths.
They will pasture and lie down, with nothing to make them afraid. †

14 Sing for joy, Daughter Zion; shout loudly, Israel!
Be glad and celebrate with all your heart, Daughter Jerusalem!
15 The LORD has removed your punishment; he has turned back your enemy.
The King of Israel, the LORD, is among you; you need no longer fear harm.
16 On that day it will be said to Jerusalem: "Do not fear;
Zion, do not let your hands grow weak. †
17 The LORD your God is among you, a warrior † who saves.
He will rejoice over you † with gladness.
He will be quiet † in his love.

He will delight in you with singing.” †

18 I will gather those who have been driven † from the appointed festivals; they will be a tribute from you † and a reproach on her. † 19 Yes, at that time I will deal with all who oppress you.
I will save the lame † and gather the outcasts; †
I will make those who were disgraced throughout the earth receive praise and fame.
20 At that time I will bring you † back, yes, at the time I will gather you.
I will give you fame and praise among all the peoples of the earth, when I restore your fortunes † before your eyes.
The LORD has spoken.

3:1-2 The self-assured city of Nineveh was guilty (2:13-15), but so was Jerusalem, a rebellious, defiled, and oppressive city. She was disobedient and had not trusted in the LORD (see Hs 10:13; Am 6:1; Mc 7:5; Hab 2:18). Referring to him as her God parallels 2:7 and emphasizes the relationship between God and his people, as is common in Hosea (see the note on Hs 7:10).

3:3-5 Jerusalem’s civic leaders were ruthless (v. 3), and her spiritual leaders were corrupt (v. 4; Jr 2:8; Ezk 22:26; Hab 1:4). There is a wordplay in this section: wicked princes are within her (v. 3), but the righteous LORD is also in her (the same word in Hebrew), carrying forth his justice every morning (v. 5).

3:6-8 Despite God’s judgment on the nations and their cities (v. 6), Judah had not learned (v. 7; see v. 2). Consequently, the people were to wait for him to pour out his wrath on the whole earth (v. 8; Hab 2:3). God’s decision to gather and assemble the nations is for the purpose of punishing them, as in 1:2-3 (see Hb); Joel 3:2,11; and Zechariah 14:2. These two verbs are used elsewhere of regathering God’s people from exile (Mc 2:12; 4:6), so these actions seem to carry notes of both salvation and judgment. Incidentally, Judah was exhorted to gather together and seek God in 2:1-3 (see note).

3:9-13 The outpouring of wrath on the nations is not the whole story (v. 8; Hs 5:10), however, because at that time God will also cause the peoples, all of them, to call on his name and serve him together (v. 9; see 2:11; Ps 67:3; Jl 2:28-32; Am 9:11-12; Mc 4:1-4). The day of the LORD is good news for those who seek the LORD (2:3). Cush was slain by God’s “sword” in 2:12 but is now linked to those who will bring an offering to him (v. 10; Is 18:7; 60:5; Hg 2:7). The destruction of the arrogant, especially those who were so on [God's] holy mountain (v. 11; Ob 16; see Jl 3:17), concerns both Israelites (1:12; Am 6:8) and Gentiles (1:16; 2:8,10,15; Is 2:11-17; Ob 3-4,12-13; Zch 9:6; 10:11). The people who remain will be humble (v. 12; 2:3; Am 8:4; Hab 3:14; Mt 5:5) and take refuge in the name of the LORD (v. 12; Jl 2:32; Mc 4:5; Nah 1:7). Fittingly, the king of this saved people is also "humble" (Zch 9:9). Included in this international group (v. 9; Is 19:25; Zch 2:11) is the remnant of Israel, who will be like flock well-cared for (v. 13; 2:7).

3:14-17 The salvation of not only Judah (2:7) but of Israel (vv. 13-14) is cause for celebration. The Hebrew words and phrases translated "humble" (v. 12), Daughter Zion; shout loudly, Israel (v. 14), King (v. 15), and delight (v. 17) are also found in Zechariah 9:9, which predicts the coming of the Messiah who brings salvation. The implication is that the righteous King of Israel in their midst (vv. 5,15,17) is actually the Messiah. The Hebrew word translated warrior is part of the Hebrew name translated "Mighty God" in Isaiah 9:6.

3:18-20 God promises to save the lame and gather the outcasts (v. 19; see the note on Mc 2:12-13). These two groups were mentioned together in Micah 4:6 (see the note on Mc 4:6-8). The shame of his people had been known to the whole earth (see 2:8,10; Ob 12-16; Mc 4:11) but will be turned to fame and praise among all the peoples (Dt 26:19; Is 4:2; 55:13; Jr 33:9).

HAGGAI

INTRODUCTION

Haggai challenged the discouraged people in Jerusalem to examine the way they were living and to set new priorities that would please God. They must remember that God was with them; he controls their future and wants his people to be holy.

CIRCUMSTANCES OF WRITING

AUTHOR: There is no statement that strictly identifies who wrote this book, but the words recorded are repeatedly connected to what God spoke to the prophet Haggai (1:1,3,13; 2:1,10,14,20).

BACKGROUND: In 587 BC Nebuchadnezzar came to Jerusalem for the third time, this time destroying the walls, the temple, and the city (2Kg 25:8-21; Jr 39–40). Most of the people were taken into Babylonian captivity for seventy years (Jr 25:11-12; 29:10), although Jeremiah and a few survivors stayed in Jerusalem (Jr 41–43). God predicted through Isaiah that the strong king named Cyrus (Is 44:24–45:2) would defeat Babylon and her gods (Is 46–47). After the Persian king Cyrus defeated Babylon, he issued a decree in 538 BC that allowed the exiled nations in Babylon to return to their homelands (Ezr 1:1-4; Cyrus Cylinder). Sheshbazzar (Ezr 1:8-11) led about 43,000 Jewish pilgrims back to the state of Yehud (Judah) to rebuild the temple in Jerusalem (Ezr 2:64-65). In the seventh month the governor Zerubbabel and the high priest Joshua led the people in building an altar to worship God (Ezr 3:1-7), then in their second year the people laid the foundation of the new temple (Ezr 3:8-10). But this effort was stopped for the next sixteen years because the Samaritan people who lived north of Jerusalem frustrated these rebuilding efforts, plus they hired lawyers to cause the Persian authorities to stop supporting the work on this temple (Ezr 4:1-5). This led to a period of great discouragement. Apathy set in because many of the hopes of the Jewish people were unfulfilled. The walls of the city were not repaired, the temple was not rebuilt, there was a famine in the land (Hg 2:9-11), and the people were still under Persian control. They could do nothing without the approval of Tattenai, the governor of the "region west of the Euphrates River," and his officials (Ezr 5:3-5). There seemed to be no way to move forward and rebuild the temple.

After the death of Cyrus, his son Cambyses became king (530–522 BC). He marched through Judah and conquered most of Egypt, but on his way home he died (possibly an assassination). A high army official named Darius took control of the Persian army, marched back to Babylon, defeated a rebel force led by Gaumata, and became king in 522 BC. Darius put down several revolts and then reformed the satrapy administrative system, with the result that by 520 BC the Persian Empire was at peace.

In the second year of Darius (520 BC; Hg 1:1; Ezr 4:24–5:2) when the conflict over political control of the empire was over, God directed Haggai to encourage the leaders in Jerusalem to rebuild the temple. When governor Tattenai heard about this rebuilding, he questioned the plan's legitimacy and wrote to Darius to find out whether the government was sanctioning this project (Ezr 5:3-17). Darius approved the rebuilding campaign and even supported it through the royal treasury, as was confirmed by the discovery of Cyrus's original decree in a palace at Ecbatana (Ezr 6:1-12). Consequently, the temple rebuilding was completed in four years (Ezr 6:15).

CONTRIBUTION TO THE BIBLE

Throughout the Bible, there is a call and a reminder to place God first. The period following the return from exile was no exception. Haggai's challenge was to call the postexilic community of Jews living in Jerusalem not simply to focus on their own creature comforts but to honor God. This commitment would be reflected in their work on the temple. Haggai's call was later reflected in the words of Jesus: "Seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all these things will be provided for you" (Mt 6:33).

Haggai's call for the people to get their priorities in order and place God first by rebuilding his temple was of great importance. For the people to return to this task was a sign of their priorities. It also showed that God was with the remnant and that his promises of restoration had begun to be fulfilled. Their obedience in this matter declared God's glory and thus brought him pleasure. It served to vindicate the Lord since the temple's destruction had disgraced the Lord's name. Finally, their obedience to Haggai's words served as a pledge of the new covenant and the messianic age. The restoration of the temple was a sign that God had not revoked his covenant with Levi or his covenant with David. He would provide cleansing and restoration through a glorious temple and a messianic ruler.

STRUCTURE

The book of Haggai contains four short confrontational speeches in chronological order that identify ways the leaders and people in Jerusalem should change their theological thinking and behavior. There is a logical progression in the structure. People must glorify God (1:1-15), stay committed to God's plans (2:1-9), please God by living holy lives (2:10-19), and serve him faithfully (2:20-23).

CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW ELEMENTS

TEACHINGS ABOUT GOD

God desires to be honored by his people (see 1:8). Because of this, he has the right to prescribe what pleases him. His concern in the time of Haggai was to be worshiped properly in his temple.

TEACHINGS ABOUT HUMANITY

On one hand, the people whom Haggai addressed needed to be rebuked. They were under a divine curse because of their inactivity concerning the things of God. It was not so much that they were actively evil but that they were passive when they should have been passionate. On the other hand, the book shows that people can be moved to do right things, but even this must be at God's initiative: "The LORD roused . . . the spirit of all the remnant of the people" (1:14).

TEACHINGS ABOUT SALVATION

The people who returned from exile were cured of the idolatry that took their ancestors into captivity. Haggai revived an emphasis from the era of the Davidic monarchy: the need for a temple as a place for redeemed people to worship.

COMMAND TO REBUILD THE TEMPLE

1 In the second year of King Darius, † † on the first day of the sixth month, the word of the LORD came through the prophet † Haggai to Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, † the governor of Judah, and to Joshua son of Jehozadak, the high priest: † 2 "The LORD of Armies says this: These people say: The time has not come for the house of the LORD to be rebuilt." † 3 The word of the LORD came through the prophet Haggai: 4 "Is it a time for you yourselves to live in your paneled houses, † while this house † lies in ruins?"
5 Now, the LORD of Armies says this: "Think carefully † about † your ways:

6 You have planted much but harvested little.

You eat
but never have enough to be satisfied.
You drink
but never have enough to be happy.
You put on clothes
but never have enough to get warm.
The wage earner puts his wages into a bag with a hole in it.” †

7 The LORD of Armies says this: “Think carefully about your ways. 8 Go up into the hills, bring down lumber, and build the house; and I will be pleased with it and be glorified,” says the LORD. 9 “You expected much, but then it amounted to little. When you brought the harvest to your house, I ruined † it. Why? ” This is the declaration of the LORD of Armies. “Because my house still lies in ruins, while each of you is busy with his own house.

10 So on your account, †
the skies have withheld the dew and the land its crops. † 11 I have summoned a drought on the fields and the hills, on the grain, new wine, fresh oil, and whatever the ground yields, on man and animal, and on all that your hands produce.”

THE PEOPLE’S RESPONSE

12 Then Zerubbabel † son of Shealtiel, the high priest Joshua son of Jehozadak, and the entire remnant of the people † obeyed the LORD their God and the words of the prophet Haggai, because the LORD their God had sent him. So the people feared the LORD. †
13 Then Haggai, the LORD’s messenger, delivered the LORD’s message to the people: “I am with you † — this is the LORD’s declaration.”
14 The LORD roused the spirit † of Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, governor of Judah, the spirit of the high priest Joshua son of Jehozadak, and the spirit of all the remnant of the people. They began work on the house of the LORD of Armies, their God, 15 on the twenty-fourth day of the sixth month, in the second year of King Darius.

1:1 The book of Haggai begins the final section of the Minor Prophets, consisting of three books that concern the postexilic period. The prophetic ministries of Haggai, Zechariah, and Malachi were directed toward the Israelites who had returned to the land from exile in Babylon (see Ezr 1:1-5). The prophets Haggai and Zechariah are also mentioned in Ezra 5:1 and 6:14. Zerubabbel was from the royal line of David (1Ch 3:17-19; Mt 1:12) but was only a governor because the returnees were still under foreign rule (Neh 9:36-37). Joshua son of Jehozadak was the high priest (see 1Ch 6:1-15 for his lineage). These two represented the royal and priestly leadership of Israel and are frequently referred to in the postexilic books (e.g., Ezr 3:2,8; Neh 12:1; Zch 3:1-9; 4:6-10; 6:11). Note that Haggai's prophetic word in this book is especially addressed to the political and religious leaders.

1:2-4 Haggai's first message concerns the people neglecting to build the house of the LORD (v. 2) while themselves living in paneled houses (v. 4). The people (or perhaps the leaders) were pouring resources into their own dwellings for the purpose of luxury while the temple was still in ruins. A similar situation had troubled David's conscience (2Sm 7:2). Solomon's temple was paneled with cedar (1Kg 6:9,15).

1:5-11 Haggai charges them twice to consider their ways (vv. 5,7). Their neglect of God's house (i.e., temple), which was in ruins (vv. 4,9), had not glorified God (v. 8; 2:9) and had brought about consequences in the form of small harvests and drought (vv. 6,10-11)—just like what they experienced before the exile (e.g., Hs 2:9; 8:7; Jl 1:4; Am 5:11; Zph 1:13). Such were covenant curses (see Dt 28:23,31,38-40) and demonstrate that the return of some Israelites to the land fell far short of fulfilling the glorious promises of salvation (Jl 2:23-26; Am 9:13-14). These promises are also linked to grain, new wine, and fresh oil (v. 11) in Hosea 2:22; Joel 2:19.

1:12-15 Twenty-three days later (vv. 1,15), Zerubbabel, Joshua, and the entire remnant of the people responded in obedience to the word of God shared through Haggai (v. 12). He assured them of God's presence with them (v. 13; 2:4). This encouraging response came about because God roused their spirit to this end (v. 14), similar to what was done in Exodus 35:21-29 and Ezra 1:1,5.

ENCOURAGEMENT AND PROMISE

2 On the twenty-first day of the seventh month, † the word of the LORD came through the prophet Haggai: 2 "Speak to Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, governor of Judah, to the high priest Joshua son of Jehozadak, and to the remnant of the people: 3 'Who is left among you who saw this house in its former glory? How does it look to you now? Doesn't it seem to you like nothing by comparison? † 4 Even so, be strong, Zerubbabel — this is the LORD's declaration. † Be strong, Joshua son of Jehozadak, high priest. Be strong, all you people of the land — this is the LORD's declaration. Work! For I am with you † — the declaration of the LORD of Armies. 5 This is the promise I made to you when you came out of Egypt, † and my Spirit is present among you; don't be afraid.' " 6 For the LORD of Armies says this: "Once more, in a little while, I am going to shake the heavens and the earth, † the sea and the dry land. † 7 I will shake all the nations so that the treasures of all the nations will come, and I will fill this house with glory," † says the LORD of Armies. 8 "The silver and gold belong to me" — this is the declaration of the LORD of Armies. 9 "The final glory of this house † will be greater than the first," † says the LORD of Armies. "I will provide peace in this place" † — this is the declaration of the LORD of Armies.

FROM DEPRIVATION TO BLESSING

10 On the twenty-fourth day of the ninth month, in the second year of Darius, the word of the LORD came to the prophet Haggai: 11 "This is what the LORD of Armies says: Ask the priests for a ruling. † 12 If a man is carrying consecrated meat in the fold of his garment, and it touches bread, stew, wine, oil, or any other food, does it become holy? " †
The priests answered, "No."
13 Then Haggai asked, "If someone defiled by contact with a corpse touches any of these, does it become defiled? " †
The priests answered, "It becomes defiled."
14 Then Haggai replied, "So is this people, and so is this nation before me — this is the LORD's declaration. And so is every work of their hands; even what they offer there is defiled.
15 "Now from this day on, think carefully: Before one stone was placed on another in the LORD's temple, 16 what state were you in? † When someone came to a grain heap of twenty measures, it only amounted to ten; when one came to the winepress to dip fifty measures from the vat, it only amounted to twenty. 17 I struck you — all the work of your hands — with blight, mildew, † and hail, † but you didn't turn to me — this is the LORD's declaration. 18 "From this day on, think carefully; † from the twenty-fourth day of the ninth month, from the day the foundation of the LORD's temple was laid; think carefully. 19 Is there still seed left in the granary? The vine, the fig, the pomegranate, and the olive tree have not yet produced. But from this day on I will bless you." †

PROMISE TO ZERUBBABEL

20 The word of the LORD came to Haggai a second time on the twenty-fourth day of the month: 21 "Speak to Zerubbabel, governor of Judah: I am going to shake the heavens and the earth. † 22 I will overturn royal thrones and destroy the power of the Gentile kingdoms. † I will overturn chariots and their riders.
Horses and their riders will fall, each by his brother's sword. 23 On that day" — this is the declaration of the LORD of Armies — "I will take you, Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, my servant" — this is the LORD's declaration — "and make you like my signet ring, † for I have chosen you." † This is the declaration of the LORD of Armies.

2:1-5 Almost one month later (v. 1; 1:15), Zerubbabel, Joshua, and the remnant were encouraged to be strong and continue to work even though this house they were rebuilding paled in comparison to the former glory of Solomon's temple (vv. 2-4; Jos 1:6-9; Zch 4:10). God again assured them of his presence (v. 4; 1:13; Jos 1:5,9; Is 35:4; 43:5), especially of his Spirit in their midst since the exodus from Egypt (v. 5; Neh 9:20; Is 63:11).

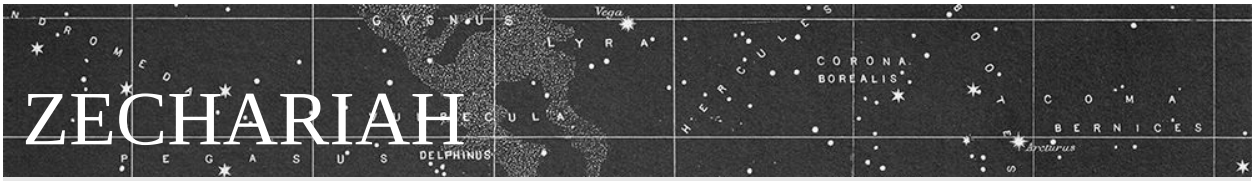
2:6-9 Despite the present humble state of God's temple (v. 3), its latter glory will exceed its former glory (v. 9). This will happen when God shakes the heavens and the earth. Such a shaking is associated with eschatological events in verses 21-22; Isaiah 13:13; Joel 2:10; and 3:16. The nations too will be shaken and will bring their treasures to the temple (v. 7; Is 60:5-7; Hs 13:15; Nah 2:9; Zph 3:10). The picture of the nations coming to worship at Zion parallels Isaiah 2:2-4; Jeremiah 3:17; Micah 4:1-4; Zechariah 2:10-12; and 8:20-23. The filling of the temple with glory parallels Habakkuk 2:14. While contrasting with Zephaniah 1:4, the granting of peace in this place echoes Isaiah 66:1 and Micah 5:5.

2:10-14 The prophetic word that begins here came a little more than two months after the previous one (v. 10; see v. 1). Although holiness cannot be transmitted (vv. 11-12), uncleanness is transmitted (v. 13). Sadly, the point is that this people is defiled and likewise the work of their hands and even their offerings are too (v. 14). Despite their return to the land from exile, this longstanding spiritual problem had not yet been resolved (see the note on 1:5-11; Hs 5:3; 6:10; 9:3-4; Ezk 36:25).

2:15-19 The prophetic message continues and is explicitly described as having been given on the day the foundation of the LORD's temple was laid (v. 18; Zch 4:9; 8:9). This momentous day will mark a dramatic transition from being cursed (vv. 16-17; 1:6,9-11; Am 4:9) and unclean (v. 14) to being blessed (v. 19). This future hope related to the temple picks up on that of verses 6-9 (see Zch 4:6-10; 6:12-15).

2:20-23 The focus on the priests in verses 10-13 is followed by another message on the same day to the royal, Davidic representative Zerubbabel (vv. 20-21; see the note on 1:1). The eschatological shaking of heavens and earth is repeated (see the note on vv. 6-9) but this time with reference to the downfall of the Gentile kingdoms (v. 22), including their armies (see the notes on Hab 3:7-15). In such a context, the favor shown to Zerubbabel takes on messianic implications (v. 23), much like David does in Jeremiah

30:9; Ezekiel 34:23-24; 37:24; and Hosea 3:5. Haggai announces that Zerubbabel will be like a signet ring (v. 23), a deliberate allusion to Jeremiah 22:24-30 which shows that God is reversing his earlier judgment on the Davidic line. Zerubbabel will reinstate the Davidic, messianic line. Thus, Haggai points to Zerubbabel as a symbol of hope for the future.



ZECHARIAH

INTRODUCTION

Zechariah prophesied to a group of discouraged Israelites, announcing that it was a new day for God's chosen people. He sought to inspire those who had returned from captivity to rebuild the temple and rededicate their lives to the Lord. The message of encouragement involved surrealistic visions and vivid poetic images, focused on a reversal of God's judgment, and called for a reversal of the people's behavior.

CIRCUMSTANCES OF WRITING

AUTHOR: Zechariah returned to Judah with the former exiles and was apparently a priest (Neh 12:16). He was a contemporary of Haggai. Though nothing is known of cooperation between the two prophets, they had similar missions and are credited with the successful reconstruction of the temple (Ezr 5:1-2; 6:14). Zechariah gave dates for two periods of his prophetic ministry (520 and 518 BC; Zch 1:1,7; 7:1). Whether he was the author of the entire book is debated. Many scholars, impressed with the differences between chapters 1–8 and 9–14, conclude that Zechariah did not write the last six chapters. The concept of authorship at the time of the Bible, however, was different from modern standards. In the OT, there is evidence of portions of books under a single author's name that were not written by that author (Nm 12:3; Dt 34:5-12; Jr 51:64c).

BACKGROUND: A key moment in the history of the Israelites came after King Cyrus of Persia granted the captives permission to return to Palestine (538 BC). The chosen people had just come through one of the worst experiences possible in the ancient world. Their homeland was devastated by invading armies, their capital city and temple were plundered and flattened, many of their people and leaders were killed, and most of the rest were carried off into pagan lands. The returnees who made the long trek back to Judah were faced with the challenge of reestablishing Jerusalem and the temple. Based on the account in the book of Ezra, work began immediately. But after the altar was rebuilt and the foundation stones were laid, problems arose and the work stopped (Ezr 3:1–4:24). Though sacrifices were offered on the altar, the temple continued to lie in ruins for almost two more decades.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE BIBLE

The book of Zechariah is full of the language of judgment, but it is also full of God's promises. The Lord challenged his people to undertake an overwhelmingly difficult task, and he assured them of their success through his power. But the nature of these promises extended beyond rebuilding the temple. From beginning to end, the Bible tells the story of God's redemptive plan, culminating in God's triumph over evil and salvation for sinners. Zechariah's prophecies anticipate this grand culmination of history, describing a coming glorious king, a God who triumphs over all, and a world with all wrongs corrected. These promises set the stage for God's future kingdom, as evidenced by the quotes and allusions to Zechariah in the NT.

STRUCTURE

The book of Zechariah is complex, sometimes with seemingly disjointed units, like a series of snapshots that need to be put in order. The apparent lack of organization may reflect the oral origin of the book, a collection of sermons that were patched together in written form. But it may also have been intentional. With the goal of shocking the hearers and bringing them to their senses, rapid-fire movement from one thought to another may have been part of Zechariah's technique. Chapters 1–8 contain carefully dated visions and sermons, while chapters 9–14 consist of undated poetic oracles and narrative descriptions of judgment and blessing.

Zechariah used a mix of genres. His sermons, poetry, and oracles of judgment and salvation were typical of the prophetic genre. But his visions had similarities with apocalyptic literature, best represented in the OT by the book of Daniel. The content of some of his oracles, describing divine intervention and a radically different world, are also typical of apocalyptic literature. Thus, Zechariah may represent a stage of development between a prophetic form and an apocalyptic form.

CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW ELEMENTS

TEACHINGS ABOUT GOD

Zechariah emphasizes God's mercy—for his name's sake—on his beloved people. For this reason they will one day dwell in security and blessing in Jerusalem forever. God's Spirit is present to enable his servants (4:6). Jesus is predicted in a number of places: his royal entrance into Jerusalem (9:9); his betrayal for thirty silver pieces (11:12); and his role as Shepherd (13:7) and Branch (3:8; 6:12).

TEACHINGS ABOUT HUMANITY

In general, Zechariah looks forward to the time that God's people—having been punished for their sins—will be restored in righteousness. In particular, the book shows what God can accomplish through individuals committed to obedience. These exemplary persons are Zechariah the prophet, Joshua the priest (chap. 3), and Zerubbabel the governor (4:6-10). These men foreshadow the coming of the Messiah, the greatest Prophet, Priest, and King.

TEACHINGS ABOUT SALVATION

Zechariah draws attention to the future redemption of God's people corporately, as they live safely in the land and he lives among them (chap. 8). This salvation will follow the horrible "day belonging to the LORD" (14:1) when God will defeat the nations that have come against Jerusalem (chap. 14). All those who share in this salvation "will be holy to the LORD of Armies" (14:21).

A PLEA FOR REPENTANCE

1 In the eighth month, in the second year of Darius, † the word of the LORD came to the prophet Zechariah † son of Berechiah, son of Iddo:
2 "The LORD was extremely angry with your ancestors. † 3 So tell the people, 'This is what the LORD of Armies says: Return to me — this is the declaration of the LORD of Armies — and I will return to you, says the LORD of Armies. † 4 Do not be like your ancestors; † the earlier prophets proclaimed to them: † This is what the LORD of Armies says: Turn from your evil ways and your evil deeds. † But they did not listen or pay attention to me — this is the LORD's declaration. 5 Where are your ancestors now? And do the prophets live forever? 6 But didn't my words and my statutes that I commanded my servants the prophets overtake your ancestors? ' "

So the people repented and said, "As the LORD of Armies decided to deal with us for our ways and our deeds, so he has dealt with us." †
The Night Visions 7 On the twenty-fourth day of the eleventh month, which is the month of Shebat, in the second year of Darius, the word of the LORD came to the prophet Zechariah son of Berechiah, son of Iddo:

FIRST VISION: HORSEMEN

8 I looked out in the night and saw a man riding on a chestnut † horse. † He was standing among the myrtle trees in the valley. † Behind him were chestnut, brown, and white horses. 9 I asked, "What are these, my lord? "
The angel who was talking to me replied, "I will show you what they are."
10 Then the man standing among the myrtle trees explained, "They are the ones the LORD has sent to patrol the earth." 11 They reported to the angel of the LORD standing among the myrtle trees, "We have patrolled the earth, and right now the whole earth is calm and quiet." † 12 Then the angel of the LORD responded, "How long, LORD of Armies, will you withhold mercy from Jerusalem and the cities of Judah that you have been angry with these seventy years? " † 13 The LORD replied with kind and comforting words to the angel who was speaking with me.
14 So the angel who was speaking with me said, "Proclaim: The LORD of Armies says: I am extremely jealous † for Jerusalem and Zion. 15 I am fiercely angry with the nations that are at ease, † for I was a little angry, but they made the destruction worse. † 16 Therefore, this is what the LORD says: In mercy, I have returned to Jerusalem; my house will be rebuilt within it — this is the declaration of the LORD of Armies — and a measuring line will be stretched out over Jerusalem. †
17 "Proclaim further: This is what the LORD of Armies says: My cities will again overflow with prosperity; the LORD will once more comfort Zion and again choose Jerusalem." †

SECOND VISION: FOUR HORNS AND CRAFTSMEN

18 Then I looked up and saw four horns. † 19 So I asked the angel who was speaking with me, “What are these? ”
And he said to me, “These are the horns that scattered Judah, Israel, and Jerusalem.”
20 Then the LORD showed me four craftsmen. 21 I asked, “What are they coming to do? ”
He replied, “These are the horns that scattered Judah so no one could raise his head. These craftsmen have come to terrify them, to cut off † the horns of the nations that raised a horn against the land of Judah to scatter it.”

1:1 Like his contemporary and colleague Haggai (see the note on Hg 1:1), Zechariah was a prophet to the post-exilic community that had returned to the land under Zerubabbel and Joshua. The date of his first message in the eighth month of Darius’s second year puts it between Haggai’s messages beginning in 2:1 and 2:10.

1:2-6 The ancestors refer to previous generations of Israelites, especially those who had been exiled (v. 2). Despite the present generation’s return to the land, their continuing need was, as God says, to return to [him] so that [he] will return to [them] (v. 3; Dt 30:2-3; Is 10:21; Jl 2:12; Mal 3:7). The earlier prophets had called previous generations to repent but to no avail (v. 4; 7:7,12; 2Kg 17:13; 2Ch 7:14). Although those prophets had since died, God’s words through them continue on and had overtaken the people’s ancestors (vv. 5-6; Is 40:6-8). Awareness of existing prophetic writings and their enduring significance is thus implied (see 2Ch 20:20). The confession of the people recognizes God’s justice and gives hope for the future (see Neh 9:33; Dn 9:5-7).

1:7 Following the introductory message in verses 1-6, Zechariah was given a series of visions three months later (1:8–6:15).

1:8-17 This is Zechariah’s first vision. The horses had gone throughout the earth and found it calm and quiet (vv. 8-11). The unfavorable response of the angel of the LORD indicates that God had not yet redeemed Jerusalem and Judah (v. 12). Jeremiah had said that the duration of the exile would last seventy years (v. 12; see 2Ch 36:21; Jr 25:11-12; 29:10; Dn 9:2,24). God’s kind and comforting reply (v. 13) relates to his great jealousy for Zion (v. 14) and his purpose to judge the nations of the earth (v. 15). His return to Jerusalem (see v. 3; 8:3,15; Ezk 43:2-5) in mercy (see Hs 1:7; 2:1,19,23; Mc 7:19) will include the building of his house (i.e. temple), the construction of Jerusalem, and the growth of his cities (vv. 16-17; 2:1-5; Ezk 40:3). God’s purpose to comfort Zion and choose Jerusalem (v. 17) is a major theme in Zechariah (see 2:12; 8:2-3,15; 9:9; Dt 12:5; Pss 78:68; 132:13).

1:18-21 Zechariah’s second vision. The nations that afflicted Israel (1:11,15) are represented by four horns that scattered them (vv. 18-19; 2:6). Such would include Babylon (2:7). Four kingdoms likewise rule over God’s people in Daniel 2:31-45 and 7:2-27 prior to the establishment of the messianic kingdom. These horns, however, would be defeated by four craftsmen (vv. 20-21; Jr 50:14). The craftsmen may relate to the emphasis on the temple in Zechariah (see v. 16; the note on 3:8-10; 4:1-3; Ex 35:30-35; 38:22-23). They may also represent the Persian Empire and its ability to restrain the destructive power of other nations. In any case, the overall point is that Israel's enemies will be punished in fulfillment of verses 12-17.

THIRD VISION: SURVEYOR

2 I looked up and saw a man with a measuring line in his hand. 2 I asked, "Where are you going?"

He answered me, "To measure Jerusalem to determine its width and length."

3 Then the angel who was speaking with me went out, and another angel went out to meet him. 4 He said to him, "Run and tell this young man: Jerusalem will be inhabited without walls because of the number of people and livestock in it." † 5 The declaration of the LORD: "I myself will be a wall † of fire around it, and I will be the glory within it."

6 "Listen! Listen! Flee from the land of the north" † — this is the LORD's declaration — "for I have scattered you like the four winds of heaven" — this is the LORD's declaration. 7 "Listen, Zion! Escape, you who are living with Daughter Babylon." 8 For the LORD of Armies says this: "In pursuit of his glory, he sent me against the nations plundering you, for whoever touches you touches the pupil † of my † eye. 9 For look, I am raising my hand against them, and they will become plunder for their own servants. † Then you will know that the LORD of Armies has sent me.

10 "Daughter Zion, shout for joy and be glad, for I am coming to dwell among you" — this is the LORD's declaration. 11 "Many nations will join themselves to the LORD on that day and become my † people. † I will dwell among you, and you will know that the LORD of Armies has sent me to you. 12 The LORD will take possession of Judah as his portion in the Holy Land, and he will once again choose Jerusalem. † 13 Let all people be silent † before the LORD, for from his holy dwelling he has roused himself."

2:1-5 Zechariah's third vision is recorded in 2:1-13. The measuring line for Jerusalem (vv. 1-2) refers back to the promise in 1:16 (see Ezk 40:3), but the unfolding of these visions reveals that the city is so spread out because of its overflowing population that it cannot be measured (vv. 3-4; 10:8; Is 54:2-3). The lack of typical city walls is a non-issue because God will be a wall of fire surrounding her (see Ex 14:19-20) and glory within her (v. 5; Is 4:2).

2:6-9 The future glory of Jerusalem is naturally coupled with the return of God's people from the north (v. 6; Jr 3:18). Zion is depicted as being in exile in Babylon, which she must escape (v. 7; Is 48:20; 52:11-12). Her prior scattering to the four winds of heaven connects back to the "four horns" in 1:18-19. This deliverance will be tied to the judgment of Babylon and enemy nations (vv. 8-9; see 1:15,21).

2:10-13 The eschatological salvation of the daughter of Zion (vv. 7,10) will result in Zion's great joy (see 9:9; Zph 3:14). God will dwell in her midst (vv. 5,10-11; Ezk 48:35; Zph 3:15,17), and many nations will become [his] people (v. 11; Is 56:3-7; Jr 3:17; Mc 4:1-4; Zph 3:9). His favor toward Judah and Jerusalem in the Holy Land (v. 12) picks up on 1:16-17. The worldwide scope of this passage is reinforced through the call to all people to be silent before the LORD (v. 13; Hab 2:20; Zph 1:7).

FOURTH VISION: HIGH PRIEST AND BRANCH

3 Then he showed me the high priest Joshua † standing before the angel of the LORD, † with Satan † † standing at his right side to accuse him.
2 The LORD † said to Satan: "The LORD rebuke you, Satan! May the LORD who has chosen Jerusalem rebuke you! Isn't this man a burning stick snatched from the fire?" †
3 Now Joshua was dressed with filthy † clothes † as he stood before the angel. † 4 So the angel of the LORD † spoke to those † standing before him, "Take off his filthy clothes!" Then he said to him, "See, I have removed your iniquity from you, † and I will clothe you with festive robes."
5 Then I said, "Let them put a clean turban † on his head." So a clean turban was placed on his head, and they clothed him in garments while the angel of the LORD was standing nearby.
6 Then the angel of the LORD charged Joshua: 7 "This is what the LORD of Armies says: If you walk in my ways and keep my mandates, you will both rule my house and take care of my courts; I will also grant you access among these who are standing here.
8 "Listen, High Priest Joshua, you and your colleagues sitting before you; indeed, these men are a sign that I am about to bring my servant, the Branch. †
9 Notice the stone † I have set before Joshua; on that one stone are seven eyes. † I will engrave an inscription on it" — this is the declaration of the LORD of Armies — "and I will take away the iniquity of this land in a single day.

10 On that day, each of you will invite his neighbor to sit under his vine and fig tree." † This is the declaration of the LORD of Armies.

3:1-5 Zechariah's fourth vision is presented in 3:1-10. The following two visions relate to Joshua (v. 1) and Zerubbabel (4:6-10), two key leaders in the post-exilic community (see the note on Hg 1:1). The accusations made against the high priest were at least partially justified as implied by his filthy clothes (vv. 1-3; Dt 23:13; 2Kg 18:27; Ezk 4:12). His guilt, however, was taken away as his garments were changed and a clean turban put on his head (vv. 4-5).

3:8-10 After charging Joshua to be obedient (vv. 6-7), the broader significance of the preceding is explained. Just as the high priest was cleansed from his iniquity (vv. 4-5) so would the iniquity of this land be removed in a single day (v. 9; 13:1-2; 14:7-8). This both recalls the Day of Atonement and surpasses it (Lv 16:29-34). This will come about through God's servant, the Branch (v. 8), who is also the stone with seven eyes (v. 9). Both are references to the Messiah (4:7,10; 6:12-13; Is 4:2; 28:16; Jr 23:5-6), whose rule ushers in permanent peace and prosperity (v. 10; Mc 4:4; 5:4-5).

FIFTH VISION: GOLD LAMPSTAND

4 The angel who was speaking with me then returned and roused me as one awakened out of sleep. 2 He asked me, "What do you see? "

I replied, "I see a solid gold lampstand with a bowl at the top. The lampstand also has seven lamps at the top with seven spouts for each of † the lamps. 3 There are also two olive trees beside it, one on the right of the bowl and the other on its left."

4 Then I asked the angel who was speaking with me, "What are these, my lord? "

5 "Don't you know what they are? " replied the angel who was speaking with me.

I said, "No, my lord."

6 So he answered me, "This is the word of the LORD to Zerubbabel: 'Not by strength or by might, but by my Spirit,' † says the LORD of Armies. 7 'What are you, great mountain? † Before Zerubbabel you will become a plain. † And he will bring out the capstone accompanied by shouts of: Grace, grace to it! ' "

8 Then the word of the LORD came to me: † 9 "Zerubbabel's hands have laid the foundation of this house, † and his hands will complete it. Then you will know that the LORD of Armies has sent me to you. 10 For who despises the day of small things? † These seven eyes of the LORD, which scan throughout the whole earth, will rejoice when they see the ceremonial stone † in Zerubbabel's hand." †

11 I asked him, "What are the two olive trees on the right and left of the lampstand?" 12 And I questioned him further, "What are the two streams † of the olive trees, from which the golden oil is pouring through the two golden conduits?"

13 Then he inquired of me, "Don't you know what these are?"

"No, my lord," I replied.

14 "These are the two anointed ones," † † he said, "who stand by the Lord of the whole earth." †

4:1-3 Zechariah's fifth vision is presented in 4:1-14. Temple imagery continues in this vision of a gold lampstand (Ex 25:31-35; 37:21-20). Its seven lamps and seven spouts seem related to "the seven eyes of the LORD" mentioned in verse 10, which themselves echo the "stone" with "seven eyes" in the previous vision (3:9).

4:6-7 In an indirect response to the prophet's question (vv. 4-5), the angel declares God's word that he works not by strength or by might, but by [God's] Spirit (12:9; Hs 1:7; Jl 2:28). This especially pertains to the temple. Even a great mountain would not stop Zerubbabel (Is 40:4; Mc 1:4; 4:1; Hab 3:6). The capstone that receives praise (or grace; see the note on 12:10; Ps 118:26) is the key part of the temple as is the cornerstone in Isaiah 28:16 and Psalm 118:22. Messianic overtones are likewise found in the surrounding context of the recent mention of "one stone" in 3:9 (see 14:9).

4:8-10 The focus on temple construction continues with the prediction that Zerubbabel will finish building the temple (v. 9). The laying of its foundation was a significant moment (see 8:9; Ezr 3:10-12; Hg 2:18-19). Although the structure was unimpressive (see Hg 2:3), its completion would bring joy to many (v. 10). The completion of the temple takes on messianic overtones in relation to verses 6-7 (see note) and 6:12-13. This is consistent with Hg 2:6-9,20-23 (see notes), which uses the name "Zerubbabel" representatively. The names "David" and "Elijah" are likewise used to represent someone else in Hosea 3:5 and Malachi 4:5, respectively.

4:11-14 The two olive trees (vv. 3,11) are two anointed ones who stand by the Lord (v. 14). Based on 3:7, they faithfully serve God (see 6:5). Some commentators believe they represent Zerubbabel and Joshua; others opt for Haggai and Zechariah.

SIXTH VISION: FLYING SCROLL

5 I looked up again and saw a flying scroll. † 2 “What do you see? ” he asked me.

“I see a flying scroll,” I replied, “thirty feet † long and fifteen feet † wide.” †

3 Then he said to me, “This is the curse † that is going out over the whole land, for everyone who is a thief, contrary to what is written on one side, has gone unpunished, † and everyone who swears falsely, contrary to what is written on the other side, has gone unpunished. 4 I will send it out,” † — this is the declaration of the LORD of Armies — “and it will enter the house of the thief and the house of the one who swears falsely by my name. It will stay inside his house and destroy it along with its timbers and stones.” †

SEVENTH VISION: WOMAN IN THE BASKET

5 Then the angel who was speaking with me came forward and told me, “Look up and see what this is that is approaching.”

6 So I asked, “What is it? ”

He responded, “It’s a measuring basket † that is approaching.” And he continued, “This is their iniquity † in all the land.” 7 Then a lead cover was lifted, and there was a woman † sitting inside the basket. † 8 “This is Wickedness,” he said. He shoved her down into the basket and pushed the lead weight over its opening. 9 Then I looked up and saw two women approaching with the wind in their wings. Their wings were like those of a stork, † and they lifted up the basket between earth and sky.

10 So I asked the angel who was speaking with me, “Where are they taking the basket? ”

11 “To build a shrine for it in the land of Shinar,” † he told me. “When that is ready, the basket will be placed there on its pedestal.”

5:1-4 This is Zechariah’s sixth vision. As his experience continues, the focus turns from the temple, Joshua, and Zerubbabel (Zch 3–4) to the judgment of sinners. Theft and swearing falsely (vv. 3-4) are cited several times in the Minor Prophets (Hs 4:2,15; 7:1; Zph 1:5; Mal 3:5).

5:5-11 The seventh vision. Whereas the previous scene showed the punishment of sinners, this one depicts the removal of iniquity and wickedness (vv. 6,8; see 3:9; Mal 1:4). The land of Shinar is the land of Babylon (v. 11; Gn 10:10; 11:2; Dn 1:2), which is contrasted with Jerusalem and Israel through its building a shrine for such evil (see 2:7; 6:10).

EIGHTH VISION: FOUR CHARIOTS

6 Then I looked up again and saw four chariots coming from between two mountains. The mountains were made of bronze. [2] The first chariot had chestnut † horses, † the second chariot black horses, † [3] the third chariot white horses, † and the fourth chariot dappled † horses — all strong horses. [4] So I inquired of the angel who was speaking with me, "What are these, my lord? "

[5] The angel told me, "These are the four spirits † † of heaven going out after presenting themselves to the Lord of the whole earth. [6] The one with the black horses is going to the land of the north, the white horses are going after them, but the dappled horses are going to the land of the south." [7] As the strong horses went out, they wanted to go patrol the earth, and the LORD said, "Go, patrol the earth." So they patrolled the earth. [8] Then he summoned me saying, "See, those going to the land of the north have pacified my Spirit in the northern land."

CROWNING OF THE BRANCH

[9] The word of the LORD came to me: † [10] "Take an offering from the exiles, from Heldai, Tobijah, and Jedaiah, who have arrived from Babylon, and go that same day to the house of Josiah son of Zephaniah. [11] Take silver and gold, make a crown, † and place it on the head of Joshua son of Jehozadak, the high priest.
[12] You are to tell him: This is what the LORD of Armies says: Here is a man whose name is Branch; † he will branch out from his place and build the LORD's temple. [13] Yes, he will build the LORD's temple; he will be clothed in splendor † and will sit on his throne and rule. There will also be a priest on his throne, and there will be peaceful counsel between the two of them. † [14] The crown will reside in the LORD's temple as a memorial to Heldai, Tobijah, Jedaiah, and Hen † son of Zephaniah. [15] People who are far off will come and build the LORD's temple, and you will know that the LORD of Armies has sent me to you.
This will happen when you fully obey the LORD your God." †

6:1-8 This is Zechariah's eighth vision. The four chariots (v. 1) are the four spirits of heaven (v. 5) that have gone throughout the earth (vv. 6-7). Whereas the horses in 1:8-11 had "patrolled the earth" and found it at ease, those who went to the north gave rest to God's Spirit (v. 10; 1:12-17). This region must be punished (Nah 2:13) so that the remnant can return from there (2:6; Jr 3:18).

6:9-13 This prophetic word continues the train of thought in verses 1-8 (see note). Exiles from Babylon had begun to return, and they were to offer silver and gold to make a crown for Joshua the high priest (vv. 10-11). Picking up on language and themes from 3:8-10 and 4:6-10, this act represents that the messianic Branch will be a priest-king who will build the house of God (vv. 12-13; Ps 110:1-4). The vision for the temple in the books of Haggai and Zechariah thus clearly exceeds that of the historical second temple. This building was founded in the days of Zerubbabel (4:9; 8:9; Hg 2:18), but the relative silence concerning its completion (see 11:13) allows its construction to merge into eschatological realities.

6:15 The construction of the temple will not be a solo effort by the Branch (vv. 12-13), since others will help (see Ex 35:10,25; 36:1). Their coming from far off relates to the return of exiles (2:6) and perhaps also to the nations (2:11; 8:20-23; 9:9-10; Is 46:12; 49:1). As with the gathering of the nations to serve God in 2:15 and the completion of the temple by Zerubbabel in 4:9, these remarkable things will confirm that the LORD of Armies has sent Zechariah.

DISOBEDIENCE AND FASTING

7 In the fourth year of King Darius, † the word of the LORD came to Zechariah on the fourth day of the ninth month, which is Chislev. 2 Now the people of Bethel had sent Sharezer, Regem-melech, and their men to plead for the LORD's favor † 3 by asking the priests who were at the house of the LORD of Armies as well as the prophets, "Should we mourn and fast in the fifth month as we have done these many years?"

4 Then the word of the LORD of Armies came to me: 5 "Ask all the people of the land and the priests: When you fasted and lamented in the fifth and in the seventh months for these seventy years, did you really fast for me? † 6 When you eat and drink, don't you eat and drink simply for yourselves? † 7 Aren't these the words that the LORD proclaimed through the earlier prophets when Jerusalem was inhabited and secure, † along with its surrounding cities, and when the southern region and the Judean foothills were inhabited?"

8 The word of the LORD came to Zechariah: 9 "The LORD of Armies says this: 'Make fair decisions. † Show faithful love and compassion † to one another. 10 Do not oppress the widow or the fatherless, the resident alien or the poor, † and do not plot evil in your hearts against one another.' † 11 But they refused to pay attention † and turned a stubborn shoulder; they closed their ears so they could not hear. † 12 They made their hearts like a rock so as not to obey the law or the words that the LORD of Armies had sent by his Spirit through the earlier prophets. † Therefore intense anger came from the LORD of Armies. 13 Just as he had called, and they would not listen, so when they called, I would not listen, says the LORD of Armies. 14 I scattered them with a windstorm over all the nations that had not known them, and the land was left desolate behind them, with no one coming or going. They turned a pleasant land into a desolation."

7:1-7 Zechariah 7–8 are a unit, as shown by the discussion of fasting that is begun here and concluded in 8:19-23. The ninth month of the fourth year of Darius (7:1) is about two years since the visions introduced in 1:1,7. The question about whether times of fasting should continue (vv. 2-3) was met with a rebuke from God, who confronted their selfish motives (vv. 4-6). The earlier prophets had spoken about this already (Is 58:3-7). The enduring importance of their words was cited in 1:2-6 (see note), and the time period of seventy years appeared in 1:12.

7:8-14 The fasts of "these seventy years" (v. 5) did not change the ongoing, underlying problems of the people. As the earlier prophets had said (vv. 7,12), what God seeks is not fasting in and of itself but justice, faithful love, and compassion (v. 9)—especially for the needy (v. 10). This simple ethic commonly appears in the Minor Prophets (Hs 6:6; 12:6; Am 5:14-15,24; Mc 6:8; Zph 2:3). The present generation, however, had not obeyed (v. 6), just like their fathers who were stubborn and hardened (vv. 11-12; Is 6:9-10; Jr 7:24; Hs 4:16). Rejection of God's word through the prophets resulted in divine displeasure, exile, and desolation (vv. 12-14; 1:2).

OBEDIENCE AND FEASTING

8 The word of the LORD of Armies came: 2 The LORD of Armies says this: "I am extremely jealous † for Zion; I am jealous for her with great wrath." 3 The LORD says this: "I will return to Zion and live in Jerusalem. Then Jerusalem will be called the Faithful City; † the mountain of the LORD of Armies will be called the Holy Mountain." 4 The LORD of Armies says this: "Old men and women will again sit along the streets of Jerusalem, each with a staff in hand because of advanced age. 5 The streets of the city will be filled with boys and girls playing in them." 6 The LORD of Armies says this: "Though it may seem impossible to the remnant of this people in those days, should it also seem impossible to me? " — this is the declaration of the LORD of Armies. 7 The LORD of Armies says this: "I will save my people from the land of the east and the land of the west. † 8 I will bring them back † to live in Jerusalem. They will be my people, and I will be their faithful and righteous God." † 9 The LORD of Armies says this: "Let your hands be strong, you who now hear these words that the prophets spoke when the foundations were laid for the rebuilding of the temple, the house of the LORD of Armies. 10 For prior to those days neither man nor animal had wages. There was no safety from the enemy for anyone who came or went, for I turned everyone against his neighbor. 11 But now, I will not treat the remnant of this people as in the former days" — this is the declaration of the LORD of Armies. 12 "For they will sow in peace: the vine will yield its fruit, the land will yield its produce, and the skies will yield their dew. I will give the remnant of this people all these things as an inheritance. †

13 As you have been a curse among the nations, † house of Judah and house of Israel, so I will save you, and you will be a blessing. † Don't be afraid; let your hands be strong." 14 For the LORD of Armies says this: "As I resolved to treat you badly when your fathers provoked me to anger, and I did not relent," says the LORD of Armies, 15 "so I have resolved again in these days to do what is good to Jerusalem and the house of Judah. † Don't be afraid. 16 These are the things you must do: Speak truth to one another; make true and sound decisions within your city gates. 17 Do not plot evil † in your hearts against your neighbor, † and do not love perjury, † for I hate all this" — this is the LORD's declaration.
18 Then the word of the LORD of Armies came to me: 19 The LORD of Armies says this: "The fast of the fourth month, † the fast of the fifth, the fast of the seventh, and the fast of the tenth † will become times of joy, gladness, and cheerful festivals for the house of Judah. Therefore, love truth and peace."
20 The LORD of Armies says this: "Peoples will yet come, the residents of many cities; 21 the residents of one city will go to another, saying: Let's go at once to plead for the LORD's favor and to seek the LORD of Armies. I am also going.
22 Many peoples and strong nations will come to seek the LORD of Armies in Jerusalem and to plead for the LORD's favor." † 23 The LORD of Armies says this: "In those days, ten men from nations of every language will grab the robe of a Jewish man tightly, urging: Let us go with you, † for we have heard that God is with you."

8:1-8 The emphasis on judgment in Zechariah 7 sets up God's promises of salvation in Zechariah 8. In another reference to Zechariah 1 (see the note on 7:1-7), God declares that he is extremely jealous for Zion (v. 2; 1:14). This will include the outpouring of great wrath (v. 2; 1:15) along with his returning to Zion to dwell in the midst of Jerusalem (v. 3; 1:3,16; 2:10-11; Jl 3:17,21; Ezk 43:7,9). Calling Jerusalem the Faithful City and Zion the Holy Mountain show that cleansing and thorough transformation have taken place (3:9; 13:1-2; Is 1:26; 4:2-4) such that the people now keep the ethic of 7:9-10 (see 8:16-17). At that time, the city will be filled with both the old and young living in peace (vv. 4-5; Jl 2:28). This wonder will result from God saving his people from east and west (Mal 1:11) and bringing them to live in Jerusalem (vv. 6-8; 2:11; the note on 6:15; Is 9:6).

8:9-12 The encouragement to be strong in response to the prophetic word (v. 9) recalls Haggai 2:4. As in Haggai 2:15-19 (see note), the laying of the foundations of the temple is a major turning point in God's dealings with his people (see the notes on 4:8-10; 6:9-13). The former days having passed (v. 11; see v. 15), henceforth the land will be fruitful for the remnant to enjoy (v. 12).

8:13-15 The repetition of let your hands be strong (vv. 9,13) maintains the connection between the building of the temple and the other glorious promises of salvation in this context (see 4:6-10; 6:12-15). Whereas Judah and Israel had been a curse among the nations, God would save them so that they become a blessing (v. 13; Gn 12:2-3; Dt 30:1). His purpose to afflict them in wrath because of the sins of their fathers (v. 14) has changed in these days to one of doing good to Jerusalem (v. 15; 1:14-17; 2:12; 3:8-10; Jr 24:6; 29:11).

8:16-17 The ethic of truth, justice, and not plotting evil against one's neighbor is essentially the same as in 7:9-10, which demonstrates its enduring importance.

8:18-23 The climactic conclusion of Zechariah 7–8 picks up on the initial question about fasting, which was met with a displeased response from the Lord (7:2-7). It declares that such will become instead cheerful festivals (v. 19). Furthermore, peoples and nations will seek God in Jerusalem (vv. 20-23; see v. 3). On that day, people everywhere—not just a few Israelites—will plead for the LORD's favor (v. 21; see 7:2). The joy of Zion and the salvation of the nations also appear together in 2:10-13 and 9:9-10.

JUDGMENT OF ZION'S ENEMIES

A pronouncement:

9 The word of the LORD is against the land of Hadrach, and Damascus † is its resting place — for the eyes of humanity and all the tribes of Israel are on the LORD † — 2 and also against Hamath, † which borders it, as well as Tyre † and Sidon, †

though they are very shrewd.
3 Tyre has built herself a fortress; she has heaped up silver like dust and gold like the dirt of the streets.
4 Listen! The Lord will impoverish her and cast her wealth into the sea; she herself will be consumed by fire. † 5 Ashkelon will see it and be afraid; Gaza too, and will writhe in great pain, as will Ekron, for her hope will fail.
There will cease to be a king in Gaza, and Ashkelon will become uninhabited.
6 A mongrel people will live in Ashdod, and I will destroy the pride of the Philistines. †
7 I will remove the blood from their mouths and the abhorrent things † from between their teeth.
Then they too will become a remnant for our God; they will become like a clan in Judah and Ekron like the Jebusites. † 8 I will encamp at my house as a guard, against those who march back and forth, and no oppressor will march against them again, for now I have seen with my own eyes.

THE COMING OF ZION'S KING

9 Rejoice greatly, Daughter Zion!
Shout in triumph, Daughter Jerusalem!
Look, your King is coming to you; he is righteous and victorious, † humble and riding on a donkey, on a colt, the foal of a donkey. †
10 I will cut off the chariot from Ephraim and the horse from Jerusalem.
The bow of war will be removed,
and he will proclaim peace to the nations.
His dominion will extend from sea to sea, from the Euphrates River to the ends of the earth. †
11 As for you, because of the blood of your covenant, †
I will release your prisoners from the waterless cistern. † 12 Return to a stronghold, you prisoners who have hope;

today I declare that I will restore double to you. † 13 For I will bend Judah as my bow; I will fill that bow with Ephraim.
I will rouse your sons, Zion, against your sons, Greece. † †
I will make you like a warrior's sword.
14 Then the LORD will appear over them, and his arrow will fly like lightning.
The Lord GOD will sound the trumpet and advance with the southern storms. † 15 The LORD of Armies will defend them.
They will consume and conquer with slingstones; they will drink and be rowdy as if with wine. †
They will be as full as the sprinkling basin, † like those at the corners of the altar. † 16 The LORD their God will save them on that day as the flock of his people; † for they are like jewels in a crown, † sparkling over his land.
17 How lovely and beautiful!
Grain will make the young men flourish, and new wine, the young women.

9:1-8 This oracle begins a new section in the book of Zechariah. It concerns God's judgment and salvation of the nations. In particular, the wisdom, strength, and wealth of Tyre will be taken away (vv. 2-4; Ezk 26–28). The Hebrew verb translated impoverish in verse 4 could instead be translated "possess" (e.g., Gn 15:7-8). Either way, this word is likewise strategically used elsewhere in the Minor Prophets (Am 9:12; Ob 17,19-20; Mc 1:15). The phrase cast her wealth into the sea could instead be translated "strike her army in the sea," which would resemble Exodus 15:4 and pick up on second exodus themes (see 10:11; the notes on Is 11:11-16; Hab 3:7-15). The Philistines will also be judged (vv. 5-6; Ezk 25:15-7; Zph 2:4-7), but a remnant of them will become part of God's people (v. 7; 2:11; 8:20-23). He will protect his house from any oppressor (v. 8; 2:5).

9:9-10 The judgment of the nations and the establishment of the temple (vv. 1-8) is inextricably linked to the coming of the Messiah. He is the King who brings joy and salvation to Israel (v. 9; 2:10; 8:7,13,20; Zph 3:17,19). His righteous and humble character echoes Zephaniah 3:5,12. The cutting off of chariot, horse, and bow of war is necessary for the establishment of peace to the nations (v. 10; Hs 1:7; Mc 4:1-4; 5:5; Is 9:6; 42:1). The reach of his dominion from sea to sea, and from the Euphrates River to the ends of the earth is identical to Psalm 72:8 and also resembles other messianic predictions (Ps 2:8; Mc 5:4).

9:11-12 The you and your are feminine and refer to Zion and Jerusalem (see v. 9). The coming of the Messiah in the preceding verses evidently leads to the institution of a covenant (v. 11; Is 42:6; 49:8; Jr 31:31-34), sealed in blood like some previous covenants (Gn 15:9-10,18; Ex 24:5-8). In Zechariah, this seems to relate thematically to the atonement foretold in 3:9 and even to the piercing of God in 12:10 (see Jn 19:37; Heb 9:22). The blood results in the release of Zion's prisoners, which alludes to a second exodus (Ex 5:1-2; Ps 69:33; Is 10:4; 14:17; 42:7). Like Joseph and David, they were in a pit, a cistern (Gn 37:20-29; 40:15; 41:14; Pss 30:3; 40:2). Nevertheless, their hope will be fulfilled (see Jr 29:11; Hs 2:15) because today (see Pss 2:7; 95:7; 118:24) God will restore double to them (v. 12; Is 61:7; Jl 2:25).

9:13-17 Conventional warfare having been done away with (v. 10), the instrument of God's judgment on Greece is his own people (v. 13). The dramatic defeat of his enemies (v. 14) parallels other passages in the Minor Prophets (see the note on Hab 3:4-6), and his defense of his people (v. 15; 12:8) parallels 2 Kings 19:34; 20;6; Isaiah 31:5; 37:35; and 38:6. In verse 16, the salvation of the LORD their God is similarly predicted in Hosea 1:7, and the mention of the flock of his people ties to Micah 5:4; 7:14; and Zephaniah 2:7 (see note). Jewels in a crown play on priestly imagery in 3:9; 6:11-14; Ex 28:36; 29:6; and 39:30.

THE LORD RESTORES HIS PEOPLE

10 Ask the LORD for rain in the season of spring rain.
The LORD makes the rain clouds, and he will give them showers of rain and crops in the field for everyone. †

2 For the idols speak falsehood, and the diviners † see illusions; they relate empty dreams and offer empty comfort.
Therefore the people wander like sheep; they suffer affliction because there is no shepherd.

3 My anger burns against the shepherds, so I will punish the leaders. †
For the LORD of Armies has tended his flock, the house of Judah;
he will make them like his majestic steed in battle.

4 The cornerstone † will come from Judah. †
The tent peg † will come from them and also the battle bow † and every † ruler.
Together 5 they will be like warriors in battle trampling down the mud of the streets.
They will fight because the LORD is with them, and they will put horsemen to shame.

6 I will strengthen the house of Judah and deliver the house of Joseph. †
I will restore † them because I have compassion on them, and they will be as though I had never rejected them. †

For I am the LORD their God, and I will answer them.

7 Ephraim † will be like a warrior, and their hearts will be glad as if with wine.
Their children will see it and be glad; † their hearts will rejoice in the LORD.

8 I will whistle † and gather them because I have redeemed † them; they will be as numerous as they once were.

9 Though I sow † them among the nations, they will remember † me in the distant lands; they and their children will live and return.

10 I will bring them back from the land of Egypt and gather them from Assyria.
I will bring them to the land of Gilead † and to Lebanon,
but it will not be enough for them.

11 The LORD † will pass through the sea of distress and strike the waves of the sea; all the depths of the Nile will dry up. †
The pride of Assyria will be brought down, and the scepter of Egypt will come to an end.

12 I will strengthen † them in the LORD, and they will march † in his name —

this is the LORD's declaration.

10:1 The fruitfulness of the land (9:17) and the giving of rain pick up on familiar themes in the Minor Prophets (see the notes on Hs 6:1-3; 10:12; Jl 2:21-24; Am 9:13-15).

10:2-3 God's ability to bring rain (v. 1) contrasts with the impotence of idols and those who speak for them (v. 2). The situation is like that of sheep without a shepherd (v. 2), or similarly of having wicked shepherds (v. 3). As in Jeremiah 23:1-6 and Ezekiel 34:1-24, the solution is for God himself to shepherd his people. Both passages also involve the Messiah in this task (Jr 23:5-6; Ezk 34:23-24; see the note on Mc 5:2-4; Zch 13:7).

10:4 In view of the preceding verses as well as Psalm 118:22 and Isaiah 28:16, the cornerstone seems to be an allusion to the Messiah. The Hebrew text can also be interpreted to mean that this stone comes "from him," that is, from God. Stones were similarly mentioned in 3:8-10 and 4:6-7 (see notes). A tent peg is used to bear a load in Isaiah 22:23-25 and to fix the edges of the tabernacle (Ex 27:19; 35:18; 38:20,31) or the tent of Zion (Is 33:20; 54:2). It could also be used as a weapon (Jdg 4:21-22; 5:26). Based on 9:13, the battle bow refers to Judah (see Gn 49:8-12).

10:5-7 The shame brought upon horsemen (v. 5) along with the joy of Israel (v. 7) relate back to the peace ushered in by the Messiah in 9:9-10 (see note; Is 7:14). Israel's salvation is restored in such a way that their former judgment is forgotten (v. 6), likewise recalls 9:11-12 (see note).

10:8-11 God's redemption and regathering of his people here parallels 2:6 and 8:7-8 (see the note on Hs 13:14). Egypt and Assyria (vv. 10-11) are similarly mentioned together in Isaiah 11:11-16 and Hosea 11:11 (see notes). Crossing a body of water not only reinforces second exodus themes (v. 11; see the notes on Hab 3:7-15) but declares that God himself will pass through the sea of distress and depths (see 9:4; 12:10; Is 63:9). The thought seems to be that he will lead the way for his people (see the notes on Hs 1:11; 11:10; 12:12-13; Mc 2:12-13), who will walk about "in his name" (v. 12; Mc 4:5; Hab 3:19).

ISRAEL'S SHEPHERDS: GOOD AND BAD

11 Open your gates, Lebanon, and fire will consume your cedars. †
2 Wail, cypress, † for the cedar has fallen; the glorious trees are destroyed!
Wail, oaks of Bashan, † for the stately forest has fallen!
3 Listen to the wail † of the shepherds, † for their glory is destroyed.
Listen to the roar of young lions, † for the thickets of the Jordan † are † destroyed.

4 The LORD my God says this: "Shepherd the flock intended for slaughter.
5 Those who buy them slaughter them but are not punished. † Those who sell them say: Blessed be the LORD because I have become rich! Even their own shepherds have no compassion for them. 6 Indeed, I will no longer have compassion on the inhabitants of the land" — this is the LORD's declaration. "Instead, I will turn everyone over to his neighbor and his king. They will devastate the land, and I will not rescue it from their hand." †
7 So I shepherded the flock intended for slaughter, the oppressed of the flock. †
I took two staffs, calling one Favor † and the other Union, and I shepherded the flock. 8 In one month I got rid of three shepherds. I became impatient with them, and they also detested me. 9 Then I said, "I will no longer shepherd you. Let what is dying die, and let what is perishing perish; let the rest devour each other's flesh." 10 Next I took my staff called Favor and cut it in two, annulling the covenant I had made with all the peoples. [11] It was annulled on that day, and so the oppressed of the flock † who were watching me knew that it was the word of the LORD. [12] Then I said to them, “If it seems right to you, give me my wages; but if not, keep them.” So they weighed my wages, thirty pieces of silver. †

[13] “Throw it to the potter,” † the LORD said to me — this magnificent price I was valued by them. So I took the thirty pieces of silver and threw it into the house of the LORD, to the potter. † † [14] Then I cut in two my second staff, Union, annulling the brotherhood between Judah and Israel.

[15] The LORD also said to me: “Take the equipment of a foolish shepherd. [16] I am about to raise up a shepherd in the land who will not care for those who are perishing, and he will not seek the lost † or heal the broken. He will not sustain the healthy, † but he will devour the flesh of the fat sheep † and tear off their hooves.

[17] Woe to the worthless shepherd who deserts the flock! †
May a sword strike † his arm and his right eye!
May his arm wither away and his right eye go completely blind! ”

11:3-14 Israel’s wicked shepherds were cited again in v. 3. Although in 10:3 this grim reality sets up the promise that God will ultimately shepherd his people to their salvation, the focus of the present passage is mutual displeasure between God and his own flock, as enacted by Zechariah (see 3:6-10; 6:10-15). Evidently his judgment on Israel included handing them over to evil leaders (vv. 5-6), including their king (see 1Sm 8:18). Shepherding as a metaphor for rule is also apparent in Micah 5:2-4 (see note), where it concerns the Messiah. The flock itself was guilty and worthy of slaughter (v. 4) because it rejected God’s appointed shepherd who had done them good (vv. 7-8; 13:7). Consequently, this shepherd resigned his position (v. 9). The flock’s utter lack of appreciation for this shepherd is sealed by the insultingly low wage they paid him (vv. 12-13). The rejection of a benevolent shepherd appointed by God is also hinted at in 12:10 and 13:7, and it is directly foretold in Isaiah 53:1-3.

11:15-17 The rejection of a good shepherd leads to the flock being ruled by a foolish shepherd (v. 13). He will not care for the lost or the broken (v. 16; Ezk 34:3-4,16), but he will ultimately meet his end (v. 17).

JUDAH'S SECURITY

12 A pronouncement:
The word of the LORD concerning Israel.
A declaration of the LORD, who stretched out the heavens, † laid the foundation of the earth, † and formed the spirit of man within him.

2 "Look, I will make Jerusalem a cup that causes staggering † for the peoples who surround the city. The siege against Jerusalem will also involve Judah. † 3 On that day I will make Jerusalem a heavy stone for all the peoples; all who try to lift it will injure themselves severely when all the nations of the earth gather against her. † 4 On that day" — this is the LORD's declaration — "I will strike every horse with panic and its rider with madness. † I will keep a watchful eye on † the house of Judah but strike all the horses of the nations with blindness. 5 Then each of the leaders of Judah will think to himself: The residents of Jerusalem are my strength through the LORD of Armies, their God.
6 On that day I will make the leaders of Judah like a firepot in a woodpile, † like a flaming torch among sheaves; they will consume all the peoples around them on the right and the left, while Jerusalem continues to be inhabited on its site, in Jerusalem. 7 The LORD will save the tents of Judah first, so that the glory of David's house and the glory of Jerusalem's residents may not be greater than that of Judah. 8 On that day the LORD will defend the inhabitants of Jerusalem, † so that on that day the one who is weakest among them will be like David on that day, and the house of David will be like God, like the angel of the LORD, before them. † 9 On that day I will set out to destroy all the nations that come against Jerusalem.

MOURNING FOR THE PIERCED ONE

10 "Then I will pour out a spirit † † of grace and prayer on the house of David and the residents of Jerusalem, and they will look at † me whom they pierced.
They will mourn for him as one mourns for an only child and weep bitterly for him as one weeps for a firstborn. † 11 On that day the mourning in Jerusalem will be as great as the mourning of Hadad-rimmon in the plain of Megiddo.

12 The land will mourn, every family by itself: the family of David's house by itself and their women by themselves; the family of Nathan's † † house by itself and their women by themselves; 13 the family of Levi's house by itself and their women by themselves; the family of Shimei † † by itself and their women by themselves; 14 all the remaining families, every family by itself, and their women by themselves.

12:1 The section beginning in 9:1 was similarly prefaced as a pronouncement.

12:2-9 The repetition of the phrase on that day (vv. 3-4,6,8-9) directs attention to a future deliverance of Jerusalem and Judah from peoples and nations gathered against them (vv. 2-3; see 14:2; Is 7:1; 36:1-2). Such a picture contrasts with 2:11 and 8:20-23, thus showing God's judgment on and salvation of the nations (see Is 13–23; Jr 46–51). Joel 3:9-16 describes a similar scene of nations gathering for war against God. The defeat of horse and rider (v. 4) recalls 9:10 and 10:5, and blindness likewise recalls 11:17. The people of Jerusalem will find strength in the LORD . . . their God (v. 5; 9:16; 10:6; note on Hs 7:10), who will make them like a fire to their enemies (v. 6; 2:5; note on Mc 4:12-13). The tents of Judah will share equally in this glorious deliverance (v. 7).

12:10 The repentance of the people of Zion is the basis for God's defeat of the nations who attack Jerusalem (v. 9). Having rejected God's shepherding previously (11:7-14), they will mourn deeply over their sin (see the notes on Jl 2:12-14; Jnh 3:5-10). Piercing clearly implies death in 13:3, thus suggesting the death of the Messiah (Gn 3:15; Ps 22:16; Is 53:5; Dn 9:26; Jn 19:37). Along with the house of David becoming like God (v. 8), the comparison of this pierced one to an only child and a firstborn son reinforces messianic overtones (Gn 22:2,12,16; Ex 12:29-30; Pss 2:7; 89:27; Am 8:10).

GOD'S PEOPLE CLEANSED

13 "On that day a fountain † will be opened for the house of David and for the residents of Jerusalem, to wash away sin and impurity. † 2 On that day" — this is the declaration of the LORD of Armies — "I will remove the names of the idols from the land, and they will no longer be remembered. † I will banish the prophets † and the unclean spirit from the land. 3 If a man still prophesies, his father and his mother who bore him will say to him: You cannot remain alive because you have spoken a lie in the name of the LORD. When he prophesies, his father and his mother who bore him will pierce him through. †

4 On that day every prophet will be ashamed of his vision when he prophesies; they will not put on a hairy cloak † in order to deceive. 5 He will say: I am not a prophet; I work the land, for a man purchased † me as a servant since my youth. † 6 If someone asks him: What are these wounds † on your chest? † — then he will answer: I received the wounds in the house of my friends.

7 Sword, awake against my shepherd, against the man who is my associate — this is the declaration of the LORD of Armies.
Strike the shepherd, and the sheep will be scattered; †
I will turn my hand against the little ones.
8 In the whole land — this is the LORD's declaration — two-thirds † will be cut off and die, but a third will be left in it.
9 I will put this third through the fire; I will refine them as silver is refined and test them as gold is tested. †
They will call on my name, and I will answer them. †
I will say: They are my people, and they will say: The LORD is our God." †

13:1-2 The genuine repentance of the house of David and Jerusalem is followed by their being cleansed from sin and impurity through a fountain (14:8; Jl 3:18). In 3:8-10 (see note), such purification was related to a "stone with seven eyes" and the removal of "iniquity" in "a single day." Idols and false prophets and the unclean spirit will be no more (see Hs 4:12; 5:4).

13:7 The striking of God's shepherd relates to the rejection of the good shepherd in 11:7-8 and the piercing of the Messiah in 12:10 (see Ex 17:6; Is 53:4).

13:9 The result of the refining process will be that people will call on [God's] name in truth (see 5:4; Jl 2:32; Zph 3:12-13) and will be his people (see 2:11; 8:8; Hs 2:1). The cleansing of God's people is similarly described in Isaiah 1:22-27; Ezekiel 22:18-22; Daniel 11:35; and 12:10.

THE LORD'S TRIUMPH AND REIGN

14 Look, a day belonging to the LORD is coming † when the plunder taken from you will be divided in your presence. 2 I will gather all the nations against Jerusalem for battle. † The city will be captured, the houses looted, and the women raped. Half the city will go into exile, but the rest of the people will not be removed from the city.
3 Then the LORD will go out to fight against those nations as he fights on a day of battle. † 4 On that day his feet will stand on the Mount of Olives, † which faces Jerusalem on the east. The Mount of Olives will be split in half from east to west, forming a huge valley, so that half the mountain will move to the north and half to the south. 5 You will flee by my mountain valley, † for the valley of the mountains will extend to Azal. You will flee as you fled † from the earthquake in the days of King Uzziah of Judah. † Then the LORD my God will come and all the holy ones † with him. † † 6 On that day there will be no light; the sunlight and moonlight will diminish. † † † 7 It will be a unique day known only to the LORD, † without day or night, but there will be light at evening.
8 On that day living water will flow out from Jerusalem, † half of it toward the eastern sea † and the other half toward the western sea, † in summer and winter alike. 9 On that day the LORD will become King over the whole earth † — the LORD alone, and his name alone. † 10 All the land from Geba † to Rimmon † south of Jerusalem will be changed into a plain. But Jerusalem will be raised up and will remain † on its site from the Benjamin Gate † to the place of the First Gate, † to the Corner Gate, and from the Tower of Hananel to the royal winepresses. † 11 People will live there, and never again will there be a curse of complete destruction. So Jerusalem will dwell in security.
12 This will be the plague with which the LORD strikes all the people who have warred against Jerusalem: their flesh will rot while they stand on their feet, their eyes will rot in their sockets, and their tongues will rot in their mouths. 13 On that day a great panic from the LORD will be among them, so that each will seize the hand of another, and the hand of one will rise against the other. 14 Judah will also fight at Jerusalem, and the wealth of all the surrounding nations will be collected: gold, silver, and clothing in great abundance. † 15 The same plague as the previous one will strike † the horses, mules, camels, donkeys, and all the animals that are in those camps.

16 Then all the survivors from the nations that came against Jerusalem will go up year after year to worship the King, the LORD of Armies, and to celebrate the Festival of Shelters. † 17 Should any of the families of the earth not go up to Jerusalem to worship the King, the LORD of Armies, rain will not fall on them.
18 And if the people † of Egypt will not go up and enter, then rain will not fall on them; this will be the plague the LORD inflicts on the nations who do not go up to celebrate the Festival of Shelters. 19 This will be the punishment of Egypt and all the nations that do not go up to celebrate the Festival of Shelters.
20 On that day, the words HOLY TO THE LORD will be on the bells of the horses. † The pots in the house of the LORD will be like the sprinkling basins before the altar. 21 Every pot in Jerusalem and in Judah will be holy to the LORD of Armies. All who sacrifice will come and use the pots to cook in. And on that day there will no longer be a Canaanite † in the house of the LORD of Armies.

14:1-3 Reference to a day on which all the nations fight against Jerusalem only to be defeated by God takes the reader back to 12:2-9 (see note). The afflictions that come on the city prior to its deliverance (v. 2) may relate to the refining process in 13:9 (see note).

14:4-5 The moving of mountains and of the earth itself is also linked to eschatological events in Isaiah 2:2-4; 40:2-5; and Haggai 2:6-9 (see note). Centuries later, Jesus would speak of the end times while sitting on the Mount of Olives (Mt 24:3; Mk 13:3). God and his holy ones also appear together in Deuteronomy 33:2-3 and Psalm 89:5-8.

14:6-7 The unusual character of this day related to having no light but light at evening echoes descriptions of the "day of the LORD" in Joel 2:1-2,30-31; and Amos 5:18-20. That it will be one literal day links this eschatological battle to the removal of sin "on one day" in 3:9 (lit).

14:8 The living water flowing from Jerusalem echoes the cleansing "fountain" in 13:1 and strongly resembles the river of life in Ezekiel 47. "Living water" refers to water that is moving as opposed to stagnant water.

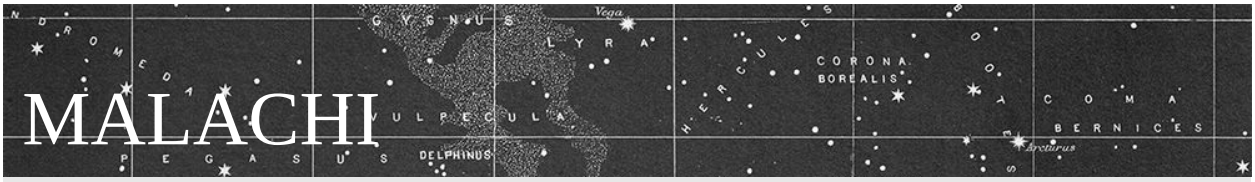
14:9 God's worldwide rule is tied to the messianic kingdom (see the notes on 9:9-10; Zph 3:14-17) and the fulfillment of Deuteronomy 6:4-5 by the whole earth.

14:11 The Hebrew word translated curse of complete destruction is also found in Malachi 3:24 and relates to things devoted to destruction (Dt 7:2,26; Jos 7:1). The secure dwelling of Jerusalem is a frequent theme in the Prophets (Hs 2:18; Jr 23:6; 32:37; 33:16; Ezk 34:25-28; 39:26).

14:12-15 Those peoples that fight against Jerusalem will be struck with a gruesome plague (vv. 12,15; see vv. 2-3). The Hebrew verb translated rot is typically used of rotting away because of sin (Lv 26:39; Ps 38:5; Ezk 4:17; 24:23; 33:10). The enemies will also destroy one another (v. 13), as in Judges 7:22 and 2 Chronicles 20:23. The collection of the wealth of all the surrounding nations (v. 14) agrees with Haggai 2:6-9 (see note).

14:16-19 Despite their defeat, there will be survivors from all the nations who will go up to Jerusalem yearly to worship the king, the LORD of Armies (vv. 16-17; the notes on v. 9; 9:9-10). This suggests that there will be a remnant of the nations that is saved in addition to a remnant of Israel (see the notes on Am 9:11-12; Zph 3:9-13). These are all the true people of God who repent and respond to him in faith. The nations coming to worship at Jerusalem had been directly foretold in 2:10-13 and 8:18-23 (see notes). The latter associates this with the transformation of fasts into joyful gatherings, which in turn relates to the Festival of Shelters (see the notes on Lv 23:1-2; Nah 1:15). This feast originally began five days after the Day of Atonement (see the note on 3:8-10; Lv 23:27,34) and was to be a time of rejoicing (Lv 27:40; Dt 16:13-15). The punishment for resisting the Lord is once again described as a plague (v. 18; see also vv. 12,15). The parallel with the exodus is strengthened through the dual mention of Egypt in verses 18-19 (Ex 9:14; 11:1).

14:20-21 In contrast with the spread of uncleanness in Haggai 2:10-14 (see note), holiness will spread beyond the temple to even the bells of the horses and every pot in Jerusalem and in Judah (see 2:16; 8:3). The future glory will thus exceed anything that had ever been experienced in the past (see 13:8; Hg 2:6-9). The absence of a Canaanite in the temple concerns the banishment of the wicked (see Dt 7:1-2). Since the Hebrew word used can also mean “merchant” (Ezk 17:4), it may simultaneously speak of those greedy for money (see 11:5,12-13; the notes on Hs 12:7-8; Nah 3:16; Zph 1:8-13).



MALACHI

INTRODUCTION

Malachi is the last prophetic message from God before the close of the OT period (although non-prophetic books such as Ezra-Nehemiah and Chronicles may have been written later). This small book captures the essential message of the OT and shows the reader the nature of God and our relationship and responsibility to him and to others in the covenant community.

CIRCUMSTANCES OF WRITING

AUTHOR: Nothing is known about the author except his name. The book emphasizes the message rather than the messenger; God is the speaker in about forty-seven of the fifty-five verses. The one prophesied in 3:1 to "clear the way" for God to come to his temple is identified as (Hb) malakiy, "my messenger," a word identical to the name of the book's author.

BACKGROUND: Although the book is not dated by a reference to a ruler or a specific event, internal evidence, as well as its position in the canon, favors a postexilic date. Reference to a governor in 1:8 favors the Persian period when Judah was a province or sub-province of the Persian satrapy Abar Nahara, which included Palestine, Syria, Phoenicia, Cyprus, and, until 485 BC, Babylon. The temple had been rebuilt (515 BC) and worship reestablished there (1:6-11; 2:1-3; 3:1,10). But the excitement and enthusiasm for which the prophets Haggai and Zechariah were the catalysts had waned. The social and religious problems that Malachi addressed reflect the situation portrayed in Ezra 9 and 10 and Nehemiah 5 and 13, suggesting dates not long before Ezra's return to Judah (ca. 460 BC) or Nehemiah's second term as governor of Judah (Neh 13:6-7; ca. 435 BC). Linguistic data favors the earlier date.

CONTRIBUTION TO THE BIBLE

Malachi was the last prophetic message from God before the close of the OT period. This book is a fitting conclusion to the OT and a transition for understanding the kingdom proclamation in the NT. Malachi spoke to the hearts of a troubled people whose circumstances of financial insecurity, religious skepticism, and personal disappointments were similar to those often experienced by God's people today. The book contains a message that must not be overlooked by those who wish to encounter God and his kingdom and to lead others to a similar encounter. We have a great, loving, and holy God, who has unchanging and glorious purposes for his people. Our God calls us to genuine worship, fidelity to himself and to one another, and to expectant faith in what he is doing and says he will do in this world and for his people.

God's love is paramount. It is expressed in Malachi in terms of God's election and protection of Israel above all the nations of the world. Since God had served the interests of Judah out of his unchanging love, he required Judah to live up to its obligations by obedience, loyalty, and sincere worship. This love relationship between God and Judah is the model for how people were expected to treat other members of the redeemed community. They were required to be faithful in all their dealings with one another.

As a community devoted to God, his people enjoy his protection and provision. But failure to live right before God and one another will bring God's judgment. Thus, God's people could not expect the joy of his blessings if they continued to fail in their duties to him and to one another. Before God would hold Judah in the balance of judgment, he would grant one last call for repentance. A forerunner would precede the fearsome day of the Lord and herald the coming of God's kingdom on earth.

STRUCTURE

Malachi's message is communicated in three interrelated addresses. Each address contains five sections arranged in a mirror-like repetitive structure surrounding a central section (a-b-c-b-a). The first two addresses begin with positive motivation or hope (1:2-5; 2:10a) and end with negative motivation or judgment (2:1-9; 3:1-6). In between is God's indictment (1:6-9 and 1:11-14; 2:10b-15a and 2:17) surrounding his commands (1:10; 2:15b-16). The final climactic address begins and ends with commands to repent (3:7-10a; 4:4-6). In between are sections of motivation (3:10b-12; 3:16–4:3) surrounding the indictment (3:13-15).

CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW ELEMENTS

TEACHINGS ABOUT GOD

Malachi presents God's immutability. He does not change. For this reason, his promises are enduring. Further, he is One who judges rightly, beginning with his own people. The eternal God, moreover, is personal, as frequent use of the pronoun "I" in this book emphasizes. Christ is prophesied as the Messenger who will purify priests and people alike (3:1-5). The Holy Spirit is not mentioned.

TEACHINGS ABOUT HUMANITY

God's people were addressed in this book, yet they were disheartened and disillusioned. The promises that earlier prophets had made of a coming golden age seemed empty. These people illustrate that in times when God does not appear to be acting on behalf of his people, it is easy for them to become complacent. It is even easy for them to be apathetic about obeying God's specific moral commands. This book offers God's cure for such doubtful people.

TEACHINGS ABOUT SALVATION

Redemption in Malachi has two aspects. First is the notion of the covenant (mentioned six times). Salvation comes because God has initiated it in his covenant. Second is the work of the coming Messenger. Malachi predicted that his coming would bring cleansing: "He will be like a refiner's fire and like launderer's bleach" (3:2). The implications of this prophecy would not be entirely clear until Jesus fulfilled it by his atoning death.

THE LORD'S LOVE FOR ISRAEL

1 A pronouncement: †
The word of the LORD † to Israel through † Malachi. †
2 "I have loved you," † says the LORD.
Yet you ask, "How have you loved us?"
"Wasn't Esau Jacob's brother?" † This is the LORD's declaration. "Even so, I loved Jacob, 3 but I hated Esau. † I turned his mountains into a wasteland, and gave his inheritance to the desert jackals." † 4 Though Edom says: "We have been devastated, but we will rebuild † the ruins," the LORD of Armies says this: "They may build, but I will demolish. They will be called a wicked country † and the people the LORD has cursed † forever. † 5 Your own eyes will see this, and you yourselves will say, 'The LORD is great, even beyond † the borders of Israel.' †

DISOBEDIENCE OF THE PRIESTS

6 "A son honors his father, and a servant his master. But if I am a father, where is my honor? And if I am a master, where is your fear of me? † says the LORD of Armies to you priests, who despise my name."
Yet you ask: "How have we despised your name? "
7 "By presenting defiled food on my altar."
"How have we defiled you? " you ask. †
When you say: "The LORD's table is contemptible." †
8 "When you present a blind animal for sacrifice, is it not wrong? And when you present a lame or sick animal, is it not wrong? † Bring it to your governor! Would he be pleased with you or show you favor? " asks the LORD of Armies.
9 "And now plead for God's favor. Will he be gracious to us? † Since this has come from your hands, will he show any of you favor? " † asks the LORD of Armies. 10 "I wish one of you would shut the temple doors, † so that you would no longer kindle a useless fire on my altar! † I am not pleased with you," says the LORD of Armies, "and I will accept † no offering from your hands. †
11 "My name will be great among the nations, † from the rising of the sun to its setting. Incense † and pure offerings will be presented in my name in every place because my name will be great among the nations," † says the LORD of Armies.
12 "But you are profaning it † when you say: 'The Lord's table is defiled, and its product, its food, is contemptible.' 13 You also say: 'Look, what a nuisance! ' And you scorn † it," † † says the LORD of Armies. "You bring stolen, † † lame, or sick animals. You bring this as an offering! Am I to accept that from your hands? " asks the LORD.
14 "The deceiver is cursed who has an acceptable male in his flock and makes a vow but sacrifices a defective animal to the Lord. † For I am a great King," says the LORD of Armies, "and my name will be feared among the nations.

1:1 The name Malachi means “my messenger.” The prophet’s name thus relates to the messengers in 2:7 and 3:1. The reference to Israel serves as a reminder of God’s continuing concern for the whole nation (see vv. 2-5).

1:2-5 Despite a return from exile that was disappointing in some ways (Ezr 3:12-13; Hg 2:3,14; Zch 4:10), God still loved Israel (v. 2; Jr 31:3)—as shown through his gracious choosing of Jacob (the ancestor of Israel) instead of Esau (v. 3; Gn 25:23). Love and hate are used similarly of choosing and rejecting in Matthew 6:24 and Luke 14:26. Edom had been made a wasteland and would never recover (vv. 3-4), whereas Israel had also been devastated but would be restored (Is 1:7; Jr 24:6; 31:28; Ezk 36:34-35; Mc 3:12–4:4). The description of Edom as wicked (v. 4) parallels Zechariah 5:8 and relates to its broader role as a foil for Israel (see the notes on Is 63:1,3-6; Ob10-21). God’s judgment of this nation demonstrates that his greatness and rule extend beyond Israel to the whole earth (Zch 9:9-10; 14:9; see Am 1:13).

1:6-10 The priests had not rendered to God the glory and awe he deserved (v. 6), as shown by their offering of blind, lame, and sick animals for sacrifices instead of animals without defect (vv. 7-10,12-14; see Lv 22:18-25; Hg 1:2-4).

1:11 Despite the actions of the priests, who should have been setting a good example, God will one day be worshiped rightly in every place (see Hs 1:10; Hab 2:14; Zph 2:11; Zch 8:7). His name will be great among the nations because he is “a great King” (v. 14; Zch 9:9; 14:9,16-17).

WARNING TO THE PRIESTS

2 “Therefore, this decree † is for you priests: 2 If you don’t listen, and if you don’t take it to heart † to honor my name,” says the LORD of Armies, “I will send a curse among you, and I will curse your blessings. † In fact, I have already begun to curse them because you are not taking it to heart.

3 “Look, I am going to rebuke your descendants, † and I will spread animal waste † over your faces, the waste from your festival sacrifices, † and you will be taken away with it. 4 Then you will know that I sent you this decree, so that my covenant with Levi † may continue,” says the LORD of Armies. 5 “My covenant with him was one of life and peace, † and I gave these to him; it called for reverence, and he revered me and stood in awe of my name. † 6 True instruction was in his mouth, and nothing wrong was found on his lips. He walked with me † in peace and integrity and turned many from iniquity. † 7 For the lips of a priest should guard knowledge, and people should desire instruction from his mouth, because he is the messenger of the LORD of Armies. †

8 "You, on the other hand, have turned from the way. † You have caused many to stumble † by your instruction. You have violated † the covenant of Levi," says the LORD of Armies. 9 "So I in turn have made you despised † and humiliated before all the people because you are not keeping my ways but are showing partiality in your instruction." †

JUDAH'S MARITAL UNFAITHFULNESS

10 Don't all of us have one Father? † Didn't one God create us? † Why then do we act treacherously against one another, † profaning † the covenant of our fathers? † 11 Judah has acted treacherously, and a detestable † act has been done in Israel and in Jerusalem. For Judah has profaned † the LORD's sanctuary, † † which he loves, † and has married the daughter of a foreign god. † † 12 May the LORD cut off † from the tents of Jacob the man who does this, whoever he may be, † † even if he presents an offering to the LORD of Armies.

13 This is another thing you do. You are covering the LORD's altar with tears, with weeping and groaning, † because he no longer respects your offerings or receives them gladly from your hands. †

14 And you ask, "Why? " Because even though the LORD has been a witness † between you and the wife of your youth, † you have acted treacherously against her. She was your marriage partner † and your wife by covenant. † 15 Didn't God make them one and give them a portion of spirit? What is the one seeking? † Godly offspring. So watch yourselves carefully, † † so that no one acts treacherously against the wife of his † youth.

16 "If he hates † and divorces his wife," † says the LORD God of Israel, "he † covers his garment with injustice," † says the LORD of Armies. Therefore, watch yourselves carefully, † and do not act treacherously.

JUDGMENT AT THE LORD'S COMING

17 You have wearied the LORD † with your words.
Yet you ask, "How have we wearied him? "
When you say, "Everyone who does what is evil is good in the LORD's sight, and he is delighted with them, † or else where is the God of justice? " †

2:1-3 The call for priests to obey God and the prophecy that God will defile them parallels Zechariah 3:1-7 (see Hg 2:14). Their failure is again characterized as a failure to honor God (v. 2; 1:6). The presence of a curse instead of blessings shows Israel's continuing need for redemption (see Dt 28:15-68), even in the postexilic period (see the notes on Hg 1:5-11; Zch 1:2-6).

2:5-9 The priests were part of the tribe of Levi, which had been specially set apart to serve God (Ex 32:26-29; Nm 3:12-13). Rather than imparting truth, knowledge, and instruction as God's messengers (vv. 6-7), however, the priests had caused others to stumble (v. 8) and would be despised and humiliated as a result (v. 9).

2:10-13 As in 1:6, God is referred to as a Father (v. 10). Whereas the "covenant" with Levi was discussed above (vv. 4-5,8), here it is the covenant of our fathers, which refers to God's covenant with Israel at Mount Sinai. Judah acted treacherously by marrying the daughter of a foreign god (v. 11). The problem here is not ethnic intermarriage. Rather, to marry a foreign woman was to join with a foreign god and thus to mix idol worshipers in among the community of God's people. As a result, their offerings were useless (vv. 12-13; 1:7-14).

2:14-16 Parallel and related to their unfaithfulness to God (vv. 10-13), the people had also acted treacherously against the wife of their youth (v. 14; see "A Biblical View of Marriage," p. 1449). Such was contrary to God's own faithfulness to Israel (Hs 2:14-16; 3:1-5) and may have related to problems with intermarriage to foreigners in the postexilic period (Ezr 9:1-2; Neh 10:30; 13:23-27). For a third time in this context, a covenant has been violated (vv. 8,10,14).

3 “See, I am going to send my messenger, † and he will clear the way before me. † Then the Lord you seek † will suddenly come to his temple, † the Messenger of the covenant you delight in — see, he is coming,” says the LORD of Armies. 2 But who can endure the day of his coming?
And who will be able to stand when he appears? † For he will be like a refiner’s fire † and like launderer’s bleach. † † 3 He will be like a refiner and purifier of silver; he will purify the sons of Levi and refine them like gold and silver. † Then they will present offerings to the LORD in righteousness. 4 And the offerings of Judah and Jerusalem will please the LORD as in days of old † and years gone by.
5 “I will come to you in judgment, and I will be ready to witness against sorcerers and adulterers; against those who swear falsely; against those who oppress the hired worker, the widow, and the fatherless; and against those who deny justice to the resident alien. † They do not fear me,” † says the LORD of Armies. 6 “Because I, the LORD, have not changed, † you descendants of Jacob have not been destroyed. † †

ROBBING GOD

7 “Since the days of your fathers, you have turned from my statutes; you have not kept them. † Return to me, † and I will return to you,” † says the LORD of Armies.
Yet you ask, “How can we return? ”
8 “Will a man rob † God? Yet you are robbing me! ”
“How do we rob you? ” you ask.
“By not making the payments of the tenth and the contributions. † 9 You are suffering under a curse, yet † you — the whole nation — are still robbing me.
10 Bring the full tenth into the storehouse † so that there may be food in my house. † Test me in this way,” † says the LORD of Armies. “See if I will not open the floodgates of heaven † and pour out a blessing for you without measure. † 11 I will rebuke the devourer † † for you, so that it will not ruin the produce of your land and your vine in your field will not fail to produce fruit,” says the LORD of Armies. 12 “Then all the nations will consider you fortunate, for you will be a delightful land,” says the LORD of Armies.

THE RIGHTEOUS AND THE WICKED

13 “Your words against me are harsh,” † says the LORD.
Yet you ask, “What have we spoken against you? ” 14 You have said: “It is useless to serve God. What have we gained by keeping his requirements † and walking mournfully † before the LORD of Armies? 15 So now we consider the arrogant † to be fortunate. † Not only do those who commit wickedness prosper, they even test God † and escape.” † 16 At that time those who feared the LORD spoke to one another. The LORD took notice and listened. So a book of remembrance † was written before him for those who feared the LORD and had high regard for his name. 17 “They will be mine,” says the LORD of Armies, † “my own possession on the day I am preparing. I will have compassion on them as a man has compassion on his son who serves him. † 18 So you will again see the difference between the righteous and the wicked, between one who serves God and one who does not serve him.

3:1-4 The complaint against God’s justice (2:17) will be finally put to rest on the day the Lord’s coming, which will be like a refiner’s fire and launderer’s bleach (v. 2; see the note on Zch 3:1-5,8-10; 13:9). Then the uncleanness of Levi and Judah (see 1:6–2:16) will be removed so that they present offerings to the LORD in righteousness (vv. 3-4). The messenger who precedes God will clear the way for him (v. 1). This person is called Elijah in 4:5 which, along with 1:1 (see note; Hg 1:13), implies that he is primarily a prophetic figure. Indeed, John the Baptist, the “Elijah who is to come” (Mt 11:13-14), fits this description (Lk 1:5,13,17).

3:5 The judgment of sorcerers, adulterers, and oppressors of the weak parallels the sins addressed at greater length in 2:10-16. The longed-for justice (2:17) would indeed come.

3:7 Like the priests (2:8), the people had turned away from God's statutes. Despite their return to the land and participation in the temple worship, they needed to return to him (see the note on Zch 1:2-6).

3:8-12 Rebellion against God once again manifests itself through improper worship and disregard for the temple (see 1:6-14; 2:10-13; Neh 13:10-12; Hg 1:2-4). The law commanded that tithes and a contribution be paid by the Israelites (v. 8; Lv 27:30-33; Nm 18:21-28; Dt 12:6,11,17). The failure of the postexilic community to do so brought a curse (v. 9; 1:14; 2:2). The promises of blessing for obedience in terms of opening the floodgates of heaven and the fruitfulness of the land in verses 10-11 echo Genesis 7:11; Joel 2:19-29; Amos 9:13-15; and Haggai 2:18-19. At that time, all the nations will bless them (v. 12), just as they will the Messiah (Ps 72:17). God's people being a delightful land contrasts with the fate of Edom in 1:4.

3:13-18 Similar to 2:17, the people complained concerning God's justice because there seemed to be no benefit to those who serve and obey God (vv. 13-14). The arrogant were prospering and were apparently getting away with wickedness (v. 15). Nevertheless, God took notice of those who feared him and promised that they would be his own possession (vv. 16-17; Ex 19:5; Dt 7:6). His fatherly compassion in verses 17 draws upon 1:6 and 2:10 (see Dt 1:31; 8:5). When God comes in judgment (see 3:1-5), he will make a clear distinction between the righteous and the wicked (v. 18; Ps 1:6; Hab 2:4).

THE DAY OF THE LORD

4 "For look, the day is coming, burning like a furnace, when all the arrogant and everyone who commits wickedness will become stubble. The coming day will consume them," says the LORD of Armies, "not leaving them root or branches. 2 But for you who fear my name, the sun of righteousness will rise with healing in its wings, † and you will go out and playfully jump like calves from the stall. † 3 You will trample the wicked, for they will be ashes under the soles of your feet on the day I am preparing," says the LORD of Armies.

A FINAL WARNING

4 "Remember the instruction of Moses my servant, the statutes and ordinances I commanded him at Horeb † for all Israel. 5 Look, I am going to send you the prophet Elijah † before the great and terrible day of the LORD comes. † 6 And he will turn the hearts of fathers to their children and the hearts of children to their fathers. † Otherwise, I will come and strike the land † with a curse."

4:2 Or like stall-fed calves 4:6 Or earth

4:2 Ps 37:6; Is 58:8 4:4 Dt 4:10,15; 5:2 4:5 Mt 11:13-14 4:5 Jl 2:31; Ac 2:20 4:6 Lk 1:17

4:1-3 The coming day of judgment is again described in terms of fire (v. 1; see 3:2-3), in this case a furnace. The prosperity of the arrogant and those who do wickedness had been a source of discontent earlier (3:15). The litmus test for survival is whether one fears God's name (v. 2; see 1:14; 3:6,16). The joy of the redeemed recalls Zephaniah 3:14 and Zechariah 2:10; 9:9. Their trampling of the wicked likewise echoes Genesis 3:15; Psalms 44:5; 60:12; and 91:13.

4:4-5 The conclusion to the Minor Prophets (see the note on Hs 1:1) and to the Prophets in general reaffirms the continuing importance of the instruction of Moses (see Jos 1:8; Zch 1:4; 7:7,12). It also issues a warning concerning the future great and terrible day of the LORD (Jl 2:11). This day will be preceded by the coming of Elijah (see 1Kg 17:1; 2Kg 2:1-12).

4:6 The turning of the hearts of fathers to their children and vice versa is a concrete example of inner transformation, which is promised in the new covenant (see Dt 30:6; Jr 31:33; Ezk 36:26-27).

THE NEW TESTAMENT

MATTHEW

INTRODUCTION

This Gospel was written from a strong Jewish perspective to show that Jesus truly is the Messiah promised in the OT.

CIRCUMSTANCES OF WRITING

AUTHOR: The author did not identify himself in the text. However, the title that ascribes this Gospel to Matthew appears in the earliest manuscripts and is possibly original. Titles became necessary to distinguish one Gospel from another when the four Gospels began to circulate as a single collection. Many early church fathers (Papias, Irenaeus, Pantaenus, and Origen) acknowledged Matthew as the author. Papias also contended that Matthew first wrote in Hebrew, implying that this Gospel was later translated into Greek.

Many modern scholars dispute these traditional claims. For instance, against Papias they argue that this Gospel was not originally written in Hebrew since the Greek of Matthew does not appear to be translation Greek. However, the excellent Greek of Matthew could have been produced by a skilled translator of an original Hebrew text. Furthermore, there are many hints of Hebraic influence in this Gospel (see notes at 1:17, 1:21, and 2:22-23). Finally, since Hebrew quickly ceased to be the dominant language of early Christians as the church expanded into Gentile territories, requiring the Gospel to circulate in a Greek translation, the absence of ancient Hebrew texts of Matthew is not surprising.

The early church unanimously affirmed that the Gospel of Matthew was authored by the apostle Matthew. It would require impressive evidence to overturn this early consensus.

Clues from the Gospel itself support its ascription to Matthew. First, both Mark 2:14 and Luke 5:27 identify the tax collector whom Jesus called to be his disciple as “Levi.” This Gospel, however, identifies Levi as “Matthew.” Matthew, a Hebrew name meaning “gift of God,” appears to be the apostolic name that Jesus gave to Levi after he chose to follow Christ, much like Simon was named “Peter” by Jesus after his confession of faith (16:18). The use of “Matthew” in this Gospel may be Matthew’s personal touch, a self-reference that gives us a clue about authorship.

BACKGROUND: Most scholars believe that Matthew utilized Mark’s Gospel in writing his own Gospel. If this is correct, Matthew’s Gospel must postdate Mark’s. Irenaeus (ca. AD 180) seems to claim that Mark wrote his Gospel after Peter’s death in the mid-60s. However, Clement of Alexandria, who wrote only twenty years after Irenaeus, claimed that Mark wrote his Gospel while Peter was still alive. Given the ambiguity of the historical evidence, a decision must be based on other factors.

The date of composition for Mark is best inferred from the date of Luke and Acts. The abrupt ending of Acts which left Paul under house arrest in Rome implies that Acts was written before Paul’s release. This evidence dates Acts to the early 60s. Luke and Acts were two volumes of a single work, as the prologues to these books demonstrate. Luke was written before Acts. Given the amount of research that Luke invested in the book, a date in the late 50s is reasonable. If Luke used Mark in writing his own Gospel, as seems likely, Mark was written some time before the late 50s, perhaps the early to mid-50s. Thus, despite Matthew’s dependence on Mark, Matthew may have been written any time beginning in the mid-50s once Mark was completed. The earliest historical evidence is consistent with this opinion, since Irenaeus (ca. AD 180) claimed that Matthew wrote his Gospel while Peter and Paul were preaching in Rome (early 60s).

CONTRIBUTION TO THE BIBLE

As the first book in the NT, the Gospel of Matthew serves as a gateway between the two testaments. Of the NT books, and certainly of the four Gospels, Matthew has the strongest connections to the OT. Matthew looked back and referred to Hebrew prophecies about sixty times ("was fulfilled" and "so that what was spoken . . . might be fulfilled").

STRUCTURE

Matthew divided his Gospel into three major sections. He introduced new major sections with the words "from then on Jesus began to" (4:17; 16:21). These transitional statements divide the Gospel into the introduction (1:1–4:16), body (4:17–16:20), and conclusion (16:21–28:20). Matthew also divided his Gospel into five major blocks of teaching, each of which concludes with a summary statement (8:1; 11:1; 13:53; 19:1; 26:1). Some scholars believe these five major discourses were meant to correspond to the five books of Moses and to confirm Jesus's identity as the new Moses.

CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW ELEMENTS

TEACHINGS ABOUT GOD

The First Gospel shows God in action, taking the initiative in fulfilling the Scriptures about the coming Messiah. It teaches about the Trinity, and it contributes greatly to the Christian understanding of the deity of Christ. Jesus's constant reference to himself as the Son of Man plays a key role in understanding Jesus's earthly mission.

TEACHINGS ABOUT HUMANITY

The author documented the sinfulness of humans in stark terms: Both Jews and Romans were responsible for Jesus's crucifixion. Yet he also showed that humans committed to following Jesus can accomplish great good. Matthew noted the importance of people putting faith in Jesus; he also showed Jesus's criticism of those with little faith.

TEACHINGS ABOUT SALVATION

Salvation is presented mainly in terms of belonging to the kingdom of God that arrived in a fresh way in the person of Jesus (12:28). The death and resurrection of Jesus were the divine means by which God provided salvation. Although Jesus took the message of the kingdom only to Jews during his lifetime, his last act in this Gospel was to commission his followers to go to Gentiles ("all nations") as well (28:18-20).

THE GENEALOGY OF JESUS CHRIST

1 An † account † of the genealogy of Jesus Christ, the Son of David, † the Son of Abraham: †

FROM ABRAHAM TO DAVID

2 Abraham fathered † Isaac,
Isaac fathered Jacob,
Jacob fathered Judah and his brothers, †
3 Judah fathered Perez and Zerah by Tamar, Perez fathered Hezron,
Hezron fathered Aram, †
4 Aram fathered Amminadab, Amminadab fathered Nahshon, Nahshon fathered Salmon,
5 Salmon fathered Boaz by Rahab, Boaz fathered Obed by Ruth,
Obed fathered Jesse, †
6 and Jesse fathered King David.

FROM DAVID TO THE BABYLONIAN EXILE

David fathered Solomon † by Uriah's wife, †
7 Solomon fathered Rehoboam, Rehoboam fathered Abijah, Abijah fathered Asa, †
8 Asa † fathered Jehoshaphat,

Jehoshaphat fathered Joram, †
Joram fathered Uzziah, †
9 Uzziah fathered Jotham, Jotham fathered Ahaz, Ahaz fathered Hezekiah,
10 Hezekiah fathered Manasseh, Manasseh fathered Amon, †
Amon fathered Josiah, †
11 and Josiah fathered Jeconiah and his brothers at the time of the exile to Babylon. †

FROM THE EXILE TO THE CHRIST

12 After the exile to Babylon
Jeconiah fathered Shealtiel, Shealtiel fathered Zerubbabel,
13 Zerubbabel fathered Abiud, Abiud fathered Eliakim,
Eliakim fathered Azor, †
14 Azor fathered Zadok, Zadok fathered Achim,
Achim fathered Eliud,
15 Eliud fathered Eleazar, Eleazar fathered Matthan, Matthan fathered Jacob,
16 and Jacob fathered Joseph the husband of Mary, who gave birth to Jesus who is called the Christ. †

17 So all the generations from Abraham to David were fourteen generations; and from David until the exile to Babylon, fourteen generations; and from the exile to Babylon until the Christ, fourteen generations. †

THE NATIVITY OF THE CHRIST

18 The birth of Jesus Christ came about this way: After his mother Mary had been engaged † to Joseph, it was discovered before they came together that she was pregnant from the Holy Spirit. † 19 So her husband Joseph, being a righteous man, † and not wanting to disgrace her publicly, decided to divorce her secretly. †

20 But after he had considered these things, an angel of the Lord appeared to him in a dream, saying, "Joseph, son of David, don't be afraid to take Mary as your wife, because what has been conceived in her is from the Holy Spirit. † 21 She will give birth to a son, and you are to name him Jesus, † because he will save his people from their sins." †

22 Now all this took place to fulfill what was spoken by the Lord through the prophet:

23 See, the virgin will become pregnant and give birth to a son, and they will name him Immanuel, † which is translated "God is with us." †

24 When Joseph woke up, he did as the Lord's angel had commanded him. He married her † 25 but did not have sexual relations with her until she gave birth to a son. † And he named him Jesus. †

1:1 Matthew begins his Gospel with the title, An account of the genealogy of Jesus Christ, the Son of David, the Son of Abraham. Genealogies were important to Jewish people; they recorded a person's ancestry and were often used to establish matters of legitimacy and inheritance. This genealogy offers a preview of what Matthew does throughout the Gospel—he demonstrates that Jesus is the Christ, the Messiah promised throughout the OT. The Jews of Jesus's day were expecting a descendant of King David to rescue his people. Jesus was that expected heir.

1:17 The genealogy of Jesus in Matthew 1:2-16 is not intended to be exhaustive. The lists of names are divided into three sets of fourteen generations. To keep the lists of equal length, a number of OT kings are omitted. Matthew's three sets of names highlight three major turning points in the history of God's people: the anointing of King David (Mt v. 6), the fall of Israel into captivity (Mt v. 11), and the coming of Jesus the Messiah (Mt v. 16). Though scholars disagree as to why Matthew chose the number fourteen for the length of each set, the story he tells is clear. David was God's anointed king, but God's people still fell into sin and captivity. Thus, God sent David's greatest Son into the world: Jesus the Messiah rescued his people from their sins once and for all.

1:18-19 Engagement in the ancient Jewish world was strict by modern standards. Couples were betrothed by contract and were often called "husband and wife" even before the wedding. Sexual contact between the betrothed was forbidden, and infidelity—even during the engagement period—was considered adultery and was grounds for divorce or, in some places in Israel, public stoning.

1:21 The angel instructs Joseph to name Mary's son Jesus, the Greek form of the Hebrew name Joshua. It means "the Lord saves," furthering Matthew's argument that Jesus is the Messiah of the OT—the One God promised to send to save his people from their sins.

WISE MEN VISIT THE KING

2 After Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judea in the days of King Herod, wise men from the east arrived in Jerusalem, † 2 saying, "Where is he who has been born king of the Jews? † For we saw his star at its rising † and have come to worship him." † 3 When King Herod heard this, he was deeply disturbed, and all Jerusalem with him. 4 So he assembled all the chief priests and scribes † of the people and asked them where the Christ would be born.
5 "In Bethlehem of Judea," they told him, "because this is what was written by the prophet:
6 And you, Bethlehem, in the land of Judah, are by no means least among the rulers of Judah:
Because out of you will come a ruler who will shepherd my people Israel." † † 7 Then Herod secretly summoned the wise men and asked them the exact time the star appeared. 8 He sent them to Bethlehem and said, "Go and search carefully for the child. When you find him, report back to me so that I too can go and worship him.” † †

9 After hearing the king, they went on their way. And there it was — the star they had seen at its rising. It led them until it came and stopped above the place where the child was. 10 When they saw the star, they were overwhelmed with joy. 11 Entering the house, they saw the child with Mary his mother, and falling to their knees, they worshiped him. † Then they opened their treasures and presented him with gifts: gold, frankincense, and myrrh. † 12 And being warned † in a dream not to go back to Herod, they returned to their own country by another route.

THE FLIGHT INTO EGYPT

13 After they were gone, an angel of the Lord appeared to Joseph in a dream, saying, “Get up! Take the child and his mother, flee to Egypt, and stay there until I tell you. For Herod is about to search for the child to kill him.” † 14 So he got up, took the child and his mother during the night, and escaped to Egypt. 15 He stayed there until Herod’s death, so that what was spoken by the Lord through the prophet might be fulfilled: Out of Egypt I called my Son. † †

THE MASSACRE OF THE INNOCENTS

16 Then Herod, when he realized that he had been outwitted by the wise men, flew into a rage. He gave orders to massacre all the boys in and around Bethlehem who were two years old and under, in keeping with the time he had learned from the wise men. † 17 Then what was spoken through Jeremiah the prophet was fulfilled:

18 A voice was heard in Ramah, weeping, † and great mourning, Rachel weeping for her children; and she refused to be consoled,
because they are no more. † †

THE RETURN TO NAZARETH

19 After Herod died, an angel of the Lord appeared in a dream to Joseph in Egypt, † 20 saying, “Get up, take the child and his mother, and go to the land of Israel, because those who intended to kill the child are dead.” 21 So he got up, took the child and his mother, and entered the land of Israel. 22 But when he heard that Archelaus was ruling over Judea in place of his father Herod, he was afraid to go there. And being warned in a dream, he withdrew to the region of Galilee. † 23 Then he went and settled in a town called Nazareth to fulfill what was spoken through the prophets, that he would be called a Nazarene. †

2:1-2 The wise men from the east were most likely magi, astrologers from Persia or Babylon (or perhaps Arabia), who had some exposure to Judaism and were following up on OT prophecies (e.g., Nm 24:17). Though Matthew is not explicit about the how, the magi respond to their astronomical observations (we saw his star at its rising) and travel to Jerusalem looking for he who has been born king of the Jews. When they find Jesus, they offer him kingly gifts and worship him. Though the theology of these particular magi is unknown, Matthew is clear that even pagan astrologers ought to pay homage to God's Son. The significance of Jesus for the Gentiles is a constant theme throughout Matthew's Gospel.

2:5 In Bethlehem of Judea. The prophet Micah located the birthplace of the expected Messiah in Bethlehem (Mc 5:2). Though a small village, Bethlehem was the birthplace of King David and was home to his ancestors.

2:11 Gold, frankincense, and myrrh. Gifts were offered to royalty or people of high political or religious status. Gold was a highly precious metal, used for jewelry and ornaments. Frankincense was a type of incense that released a sweet fragrance when burned. Myrrh was a perfume made from the gum resin of certain trees.

THE HERALD OF THE CHRIST

3 In those days John the Baptist came, † preaching in the wilderness of Judea † 2 and saying, "Repent, because the kingdom of heaven has come near! " † 3 For he is the one spoken of through the prophet Isaiah, who said:

A voice of one crying out in the wilderness:
Prepare the way for the Lord;
make his paths straight! † †

4 Now John had a camel-hair garment with a leather belt around his waist, and his food was locusts and wild honey. 5 Then people from Jerusalem, all Judea, and all the vicinity of the Jordan were going out to him, 6 and they were baptized by him in the Jordan River, confessing their sins. †

7 When he saw many of the Pharisees and Sadducees † coming to his baptism, he said to them, “Brood of vipers! Who warned you to flee from the coming wrath? † 8 Therefore produce fruit † consistent with † repentance. 9 And don’t presume to say to yourselves, ‘We have Abraham as our father.’ † For I tell you that God is able to raise up children for Abraham from these stones. 10 The ax is already at the root of the trees. Therefore, every tree that doesn’t produce good fruit will be cut down and thrown into the fire. †

11 “I baptize you with † water for repentance, † but the one who is coming after me is more powerful than I. I am not worthy to remove † his sandals. He himself will baptize you with the Holy Spirit and fire. † 12 His winnowing shovel is in his hand, and he will clear his threshing floor and gather his wheat into the barn. But the chaff he will burn with fire that never goes out.” †

THE BAPTISM OF JESUS

13 Then Jesus came from Galilee to John at the Jordan, to be baptized by him. †

14 But John tried to stop him, saying, “I need to be baptized by you, and yet you come to me? ”

15 Jesus answered him, “Allow it for now, because this is the way for us to fulfill all righteousness.” Then John allowed him to be baptized.

16 When Jesus was baptized, he went up immediately from the water. The heavens † suddenly opened for him, † and he saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove and coming down on him. † 17 And a voice from heaven said: “This is my beloved Son, with whom I am well-pleased.” †

3:2 Repent. Repentance in the OT meant turning back to God. It involved change in specific actions as well as in the direction of a person's life. Repentance includes a massive shift in one's worldview, demonstrated in confession of sin, prayer, and rejection of sinful practices.

3:4 John, in his unusual dress, activity, and message, presented himself like an OT prophet (specifically Elijah—e.g., 2Kgs 1:8), who prophesied that God would send his Messiah to save the world. Jesus frequently compares John the Baptist with Elijah (e.g., 11:14; 17:12), and the people of Jesus's day readily identify John as one of the prophets (e.g., 14:5).

3:12 John the Baptist illustrates his message of judgment with a description of the Messiah with a winnowing shovel in his hand and ready to clear his threshing floor. In Jesus's day, farmers used pitchfork-like shovels to throw harvested grain into the air to allow the wind to separate the grain from the chaff. The grain was then put into the barn, and the chaff was burned for fuel. John described the judgment activity of the Messiah at his coming in such terms. Those who receive the Messiah are the grain that will be saved. Those who reject the Messiah are the chaff that he will burn with fire that never goes out.

3:13 Baptism—the use of water in religious rituals, frequently by immersion—was relatively common in the ancient Jewish world. Since water often symbolized religious purity (e.g., Ps 51:1-2), immersion in water was used to mark religious revival, the conversion of a non-Jew to Judaism, or identification with a particular religious movement. John baptized Jewish people to identify them with the repentance of sins and the coming of the Messiah. Jesus personally participated in this baptism to demonstrate that he is the Messiah at the center of that movement (Jn 1:31). See also "The Holy Trinity," p.xxx.

THE TEMPTATION OF JESUS

4 Then † Jesus was led up by the Spirit into the wilderness to be tempted by the devil. † 2 After he had fasted forty days and forty nights, † he was hungry. 3 Then the tempter approached him and said, "If you are the Son of God, tell these stones to become bread." † 4 He answered, "It is written: Man must not live on bread alone but on every word that comes from the mouth of God." † † 5 Then the devil took him to the holy city, had him stand on the pinnacle of the temple, † 6 and said to him, "If you are the Son of God, throw yourself down.
For it is written:

He will give his angels † orders concerning you, and they will support you with their hands
so that you will not strike your foot against a stone." † †

7 Jesus told him, "It is also written: Do not test the Lord your God." † † 8 Again, the devil took him to a very high mountain and showed him all the kingdoms of the world and their splendor. 9 And he said to him, "I will give you all these things if you will fall down and worship me.” †

10 Then Jesus told him, “Go away, † Satan! For it is written: Worship the Lord your God, and serve only him.” † †

11 Then the devil left him, and angels came and began to serve him. †

MINISTRY IN GALILEE

12 When he heard that John had been arrested, † he withdrew into Galilee. †

13 He left Nazareth and went to live in Capernaum † by the sea, in the region of Zebulun and Naphtali. 14 This was to fulfill what was spoken through the prophet Isaiah:

15 Land of Zebulun and land of Naphtali, along the road by the sea, beyond the Jordan, Galilee of the Gentiles.

16 The people who live in darkness have seen a great light, and for those living in the land of the shadow of death, a light has dawned. † † †

17 From then on Jesus began to preach, “Repent, because the kingdom of heaven † has come near.”

THE FIRST DISCIPLES

18 As † he was walking along the Sea of Galilee, † he saw two brothers, Simon (who is called Peter), and his brother Andrew. They were casting a net into the sea — for they were fishermen. 19 “Follow me,” he told them, “and I will make you fish for † people.” 20 Immediately they left their nets and followed him.

21 Going on from there, he saw two other brothers, James the son of Zebedee, and his brother John. They were in a boat with Zebedee their father, preparing their nets, and he called them. 22 Immediately they left the boat and their father and followed him.

TEACHING, PREACHING, AND HEALING

23 Now Jesus began to go all over Galilee, † teaching in their synagogues, preaching the good news of the kingdom, and healing every † disease and sickness † among the people. † 24 Then the news about him spread throughout

Syria. † So they brought to him all those who were afflicted, those suffering from various diseases and intense pains, the demon-possessed, the epileptics, and the paralytics. † And he healed them. 25 Large crowds followed him from Galilee, the Decapolis, Jerusalem, Judea, and beyond the Jordan. †

4:1 A parallel exists between Israel's testing in the wilderness (e.g., Nm 14:1-4) and Jesus's temptation in the wilderness. The purpose of the temptations is not to find out if Jesus can resist sin. It is to demonstrate that God's Messiah is the sinless Son of God who succeeds where God's people failed. It is part of Matthew's presentation of Jesus as the true Israel.

4:11 See "A Biblical View of Angels," p.1531.

4:23 Synagogues were the local religious gatherings of Jews. From the time of the Babylonian captivity onward, Jews gathered regularly in synagogues for prayer and Scripture study. In some places synagogue meetings also served civil and judicial functions.

The Sermon on the Mount

5 When he saw the crowds, he went up on the mountain, † and after he sat down, his disciples came to him. 2 Then † he began to teach them, saying: †

THE BEATITUDES

3 "Blessed are the poor in spirit, † for the kingdom of heaven † is theirs.
4 Blessed are those who mourn, † for they will be comforted.
5 Blessed are the humble, † for they will inherit the earth.
6 Blessed are those who hunger and thirst for righteousness, † for they will be filled.

7 Blessed are the merciful, for they will be shown mercy. †
8 Blessed are the pure in heart, for they will see God. †
9 Blessed are the peacemakers, for they will be called sons of God. †
10 Blessed are those who are persecuted because of righteousness, for the kingdom of heaven † is theirs.

11 "You are blessed when they insult you and persecute you and falsely say every kind of evil against you because of me. 12 Be glad and rejoice, because your reward is great in heaven. For that is how they persecuted † the prophets who were before you. †

BELIEVERS ARE SALT AND LIGHT

13 "You are the salt of the earth. But if the salt should lose its taste, how can it be made salty? † It's no longer good for anything but to be thrown out and trampled under people's feet. †
14 "You are the light of the world. A city situated on a hill cannot be hidden. † 15 No one lights a lamp † and puts it under a basket, but rather on a lampstand, and it gives light for all who are in the house. † 16 In the same way, let your light shine before others, so that they may see your good works and give glory to your Father in heaven. †

CHRIST FULFILLS THE LAW

17 "Don't think that I came to abolish the Law or the Prophets. I did not come to abolish but to fulfill. † 18 For truly I tell you, until heaven and earth pass away, not the smallest letter † or one stroke of a letter will pass away from the law until all things are accomplished. 19 Therefore, whoever breaks one of the least of these commands and teaches others to do the same will be called least in the kingdom of heaven. But whoever does and teaches these commands will be called great in the kingdom of heaven. † 20 For I tell you, unless your righteousness surpasses that of the scribes and Pharisees, you will never get into the kingdom of heaven.

MURDER BEGINS IN THE HEART

21 “You have heard that it was said to our ancestors, Do not murder, † † and whoever murders will be subject to judgment. † 22 But I tell you, everyone who is angry with his brother or sister † will be subject to judgment. Whoever insults † his brother or sister, will be subject to the court. † Whoever says, ‘You fool! ’ will be subject to hellfire. † † 23 So if you are offering your gift on the altar, and there you remember that your brother or sister has something against you, 24 leave your gift there in front of the altar. First go and be reconciled with your brother or sister, and then come and offer your gift. 25 Reach a settlement quickly with your adversary while you’re on the way with him to the court, or your adversary will hand you over to the judge, and the judge to † the officer, and you will be thrown into prison. † 26 Truly I tell you, you will never get out of there until you have paid the last penny. †

ADULTERY BEGINS IN THE HEART

27 “You have heard that it was said, Do not commit adultery. † † 28 But I tell you, everyone who looks at a woman lustfully has already committed adultery with her in his heart. † 29 If your right eye causes you to sin, † gouge it out and throw it away. For it is better that you lose one of the parts of your body than for your whole body to be thrown into hell. † 30 And if your right hand causes you to sin, cut it off and throw it away. For it is better that you lose one of the parts of your body than for your whole body to go into hell.

DIVORCE PRACTICES CENSURED

31 “It was also said, Whoever divorces † his wife must give her a written notice of divorce. † † 32 But I tell you, everyone who divorces his wife, except in a case of sexual immorality, causes her to commit adultery. And whoever marries a divorced woman commits adultery. †

TELL THE TRUTH

33 “Again, you have heard that it was said to our ancestors, You must not break your oath, but you must keep your oaths to the Lord. † † 34 But I tell you, don’t take an oath at all: either by heaven, because it is God’s throne; 35 or by the earth, because it is his footstool; or by Jerusalem, because it is the city of the great King. † 36 Do not swear by your head, because you cannot make a single hair white or black. 37 But let your ‘yes’ mean ‘yes,’ and your ‘no’ mean ‘no.’ Anything more than this is from the evil one. †

GO THE SECOND MILE

38 “You have heard that it was said, An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth. † † 39 But I tell you, don’t resist † an evildoer. On the contrary, if anyone slaps you on your right cheek, turn the other to him also. † 40 As for the one who wants to sue you and take away your shirt, let him have your coat as well. 41 And if anyone forces you to go one mile, go with him two. 42 Give to the one who asks you, and don’t turn away from the one who wants to borrow from you. †

LOVE YOUR ENEMIES

43 “You have heard that it was said, Love your neighbor † † and hate your enemy. 44 But I tell you, love your enemies † and pray for those who † persecute you, † 45 so that you may be † children of your Father in heaven. For he causes his sun to rise on the evil and the good, and sends rain on the righteous and the unrighteous. † 46 For if you love those who love you, what reward will you have? Don’t even the tax collectors do the same? 47 And if you greet only your brothers and sisters, what are you doing out of the ordinary? † † Don’t even the Gentiles † do the same? 48 Be perfect, † therefore, as your heavenly Father is perfect.

5:1 Matthew 5–7 is frequently referred to as the Sermon on the Mount. This seminal sermon of Jesus is the first major discourse in Matthew and is the foundational declaration of Jesus's ethic for how his followers are to live. The sermon covers the blessings of living in the kingdom of God (e.g., 5:1-12; 6:25-34) and the practice of religious faith by the genuinely repentant (e.g., 6:5-24). At the center of the Sermon on the Mount is Jesus as the fulfillment of all the OT Law and Prophets (e.g., 5:17-48).

5:8 Blessed are the pure in heart. Rabbis developed a system of ceremonial purification, but this could not secure inner purity of heart. Such purity involves genuine devotion to God.

5:13 Salt was an essential element for life in the ancient world, serving many functions in Jesus's day: it added flavor, preserved, fertilized, and was an ingredient in curing techniques. It is unclear which of these functions Jesus intends when describing his followers as the salt of the earth, but his larger meaning is obvious. Followers of Jesus are to be as beneficial and essential to the world as salt is—otherwise they are no longer good for anything.

5:16 See "Chief Purpose of Humanity," p. 1464.

5:17-18 See "Biblical Inspiration and Inerrancy," p. XXXI.

5:20 The scribes and Pharisees were among the most religious people in Jesus's day, but they did not accept Jesus. They sought to obey the Law of God at an external level. Thus, Jesus says that to get into the kingdom of heaven, a different kind of obedience to the Law and a different kind of righteousness is required—an obedience and righteousness that begins with genuine faith.

5:22 The court, or Sanhedrin, was the Jewish judicial body that operated with Roman permission under strict regulations. Jesus's point in invoking the judgment, the Sanhedrin, and hellfire is to demonstrate that God judges the heart and that sins of the heart (e.g., hatred) are no less damaging than overt sins (e.g., name calling and murder).

5:31-32 In Deuteronomy 24:1, the passage Jesus quotes in 5:31, Moses says divorce is allowed if a spouse does something indecent. Consequently, there was debate in Jesus's day as to the exact biblical grounds for divorce. Many men used the perceived ambiguity in the Mosaic law to divorce their wives for trivial reasons. Jesus argued that the only legitimate grounds for divorce is sexual immorality (Gk pornea). Thus, anyone who marries a divorced woman is guilty of adultery since she is still regarded as married to her first husband.

5:33-37 Jews in Jesus's day followed a complex system of oaths and vows to give assurance of their sincerity. The OT allows for careful oath taking (e.g., Dt 23:21-23), but Jesus instructed his disciples to tell the truth in a straightforward manner without invoking God's name, or his glory, in order to establish sincerity.

5:38-42 The issues at stake here are matters related to personal honor. An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth are references to the OT system of crime and punishment (i.e., the punishment should fit the crime; Ex 21:23-25). Unlike in the legal system, however, Jesus's followers are to show mercy instead of responding in kind when their personal honor is affronted. The follower of Jesus has already set aside his own life to follow the Messiah (16:25). He has no need to defend his own honor. If he is insulted with a slap in the face, a frivolous lawsuit, a legal compulsion to do labor, or a request for help, he should respond with kindness, without retaliation. Jesus set the ultimate example of this idea in his suffering and death on the cross for the sins of the world.

HOW TO GIVE

6 “Be careful not to practice your righteousness † in front of others to be seen by them. Otherwise, you have no reward with your Father in heaven. 2 So whenever you give to the poor, don’t sound a trumpet before you, as the hypocrites do in the synagogues and on the streets, to be applauded by people. Truly I tell you, they have their reward. † 3 But when you give to the poor, don’t let your left hand know what your right hand is doing, 4 so that your giving may be in secret. And your Father who sees in secret will reward you. † †

HOW TO PRAY

5 “Whenever you pray, you must not be like the hypocrites, because they love to pray standing in the synagogues and on the street corners to be seen by people.
Truly I tell you, they have their reward. † 6 But when you pray, go into your private room, shut your door, and pray to your Father who is in secret. And your Father who sees in secret will reward you. † † 7 When you pray, don’t babble like the Gentiles, since they imagine they’ll be heard for their many words. † 8 Don’t be like them, because your Father knows the things you need before you ask him. †

THE LORD’S PRAYER

9 “Therefore, you should pray like this: †

Our Father in heaven, your name be honored as holy. † 10 Your kingdom come.
Your will be done
on earth as it is in heaven. †
11 Give us today our daily bread. †

12 And forgive us our debts, as we also have forgiven our debtors. † 13 And do not bring us into † temptation, † but deliver us from the evil one. † †

14 “For if you forgive others their offenses, your heavenly Father will forgive you as well. † 15 But if you don’t forgive others, † your Father will not forgive your offenses.

HOW TO FAST

16 “Whenever you fast, don’t be gloomy like the hypocrites. For they make their faces unattractive † † so that their fasting is obvious to people. Truly I tell you, they have their reward. 17 But when you fast, put oil on your head and wash your face, † 18 so that your fasting isn’t obvious to others but to your Father who is in secret. And your Father who sees in secret will reward you. †

GOD AND POSSESSIONS

19 “Don’t store up for yourselves treasures † on earth, where moth and rust destroy and where thieves break in and steal. † 20 But store up for yourselves treasures in heaven, † where neither moth nor rust destroys, and where thieves don’t break in and steal. 21 For where your treasure is, there your heart will be also.
22 “The eye is the lamp of the body. If your eye is healthy, your whole body will be full of light. 23 But if your eye is bad, your whole body will be full of darkness. So if the light within you is darkness, how deep is that darkness! †
24 “No one can serve two masters, since either he will hate one and love the other, or he will be devoted to one and despise the other. You cannot serve both God and money. †

THE CURE FOR ANXIETY

25 “Therefore I tell you: † Don’t worry about your life, what you will eat or what you will drink; or about your body, what you will wear. Isn’t life more than food and the body more than clothing? † 26 Consider the birds of the sky: They don’t sow or reap or gather into barns, yet your heavenly Father feeds them.

Aren't you worth more than they? † 27 Can any of you add one moment to his life-span † by worrying? 28 And why do you worry about clothes? Observe how the wildflowers of the field grow: They don't labor or spin thread. 29 Yet I tell you that not even Solomon in all his splendor was adorned like one of these. 30 If that's how God clothes the grass of the field, which is here today and thrown into the furnace tomorrow, won't he do much more for you — you of little faith? † 31 So don't worry, saying, 'What will we eat? ' or 'What will we drink? ' or 'What will we wear? ' 32 For the Gentiles eagerly seek all these things, and your heavenly Father knows that you need them. 33 But seek first the kingdom of God † † and his righteousness, † and all these things will be provided for you. † 34 Therefore don't worry about tomorrow, because tomorrow will worry about itself. Each day has enough trouble † of its own.

6:1-18 In Jesus's day, good deeds were commonly performed in public in order to show allegiance to Judaism so that the practitioner would be respected within society. Jesus teaches that his followers should strive to do righteous acts in secret in order to avoid the dangers of human recognition. Jesus addresses three popular acts of righteousness—charity giving, prayer, and fasting—to represent a variety of good deeds. He draws the same conclusion about each: the blessing of God does not fall on hypocrites, on those who make a show of their good deeds in order to receive the praise of others. Jesus wants his followers to love and serve God in such a way that even when knowledge of their righteousness becomes public, God receives the glory for it (e.g., 5:16).

DO NOT JUDGE

DO NOT JUDGE

7 “Do not judge, so that you won’t be judged. † 2 For you will be judged by the same standard with which you judge others, and you will be measured by the same measure you use. † 3 Why do you look at the splinter in your brother’s eye but don’t notice the beam of wood in your own eye? † 4 Or how can you say to your brother, ‘Let me take the splinter out of your eye,’ and look, there’s a beam of wood in your own eye? 5 Hypocrite! First take the beam of wood out of your eye, and then you will see clearly to take the splinter out of your brother’s eye. 6 Don’t give what is holy to dogs or toss your pearls before pigs, † or they will trample them under their feet, turn, and tear you to pieces.

ASK, SEARCH, KNOCK

7 “Ask, † and it will be given to you. † Seek, and you will find. Knock, and the door † will be opened to you. 8 For everyone who asks receives, and the one who seeks finds, † and to the one who knocks, the door will be opened. 9 Who among you, if his son asks him for bread, will give him a stone? 10 Or if he asks for a fish, will give him a snake? 11 If you then, who are evil, † know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more will your Father in heaven give good things to those who ask him. 12 Therefore, whatever you want others to do for you, do also the same for them, for this is the Law and the Prophets. †

ENTERING THE KINGDOM

13 “Enter through the narrow gate. † For the gate is wide and the road broad that leads to destruction, † and there are many who go through it. 14 How narrow is the gate and difficult the road that leads to life, and few find it.
15 “Be on your guard against false prophets † who come to you in sheep’s † clothing † but inwardly are ravaging wolves. † 16 You’ll recognize them by their fruit. † Are grapes gathered from thornbushes or figs from thistles? † 17 In the same way, every good tree produces good fruit, but a bad tree produces bad fruit. 18 A good tree can’t produce bad fruit; neither can a bad tree produce good fruit. 19 Every tree that doesn’t produce good fruit is cut down and thrown into the fire. † 20 So you’ll recognize them by their fruit. †

21 “Not everyone who says to me, ‘Lord, Lord,’ will enter the kingdom of heaven, † but only the one who does the will † of my Father in heaven. † 22 On that day many will say to me, ‘Lord, Lord, didn’t we prophesy in your name, drive out demons † in your name, and do many miracles in your name?’ † 23 Then I will announce to them, ‘I never knew you. Depart from me, you lawbreakers!’ † † †

THE TWO FOUNDATIONS

24 “Therefore, † everyone who hears these words † of mine and acts on them will be like a wise man who built his house on the rock. 25 The rain fell, the rivers rose, and the winds blew and pounded that house. Yet it didn’t collapse, because its foundation was on the rock. 26 But everyone who hears these words of mine and doesn’t act on them will be like a foolish man who built his house on the sand. 27 The rain fell, the rivers rose, the winds blew and pounded that house, and it collapsed. It collapsed with a great crash.”

28 When Jesus had finished saying these things, † the crowds were astonished at his teaching, † 29 because he was teaching them like one who had authority, and not like their scribes.

7:6 Dogs was a derogatory term for Gentiles. In the ancient world, dogs were scavengers, often living in squalor. Pigs were also scavenging animals, regarded as unclean. Jewish rejection of pork was a symbol of Israel’s distinctiveness.

7:12 See “Biblical Models for Business,” p. 782.

7:24-29 In concluding the Sermon on the Mount, Jesus pronounces judgment on those who hear but do not obey his words. Jesus’s audience would never expect a rabbi to say such a thing about his own words.

Nevertheless, the crowds were astonished because of the authority with which Jesus taught. Jesus is God's Messiah and no mere rabbi.

A MAN CLEANSED

8 When he came down from the mountain, large crowds † followed him.
2 Right away † a man with leprosy † came up and knelt before him, † saying, "Lord, if you are willing, you can make me clean."
3 Reaching out his hand, Jesus touched him, saying, "I am willing; be made clean." Immediately his leprosy was cleansed. 4 Then Jesus told him, "See that you don't tell anyone; † but go, show yourself to the priest, and offer the gift that Moses commanded, as a testimony to them." †

A CENTURION'S FAITH

5 When he entered Capernaum, † a centurion came to him, pleading with him,
6 "Lord, my servant is lying at home paralyzed, in terrible agony."
7 He said to him, "Am I to come and heal him? " † 8 "Lord," the centurion replied, "I am not worthy to have you come under my roof. But just say the word, and my servant will be healed. † 9 For I too am a man under authority, having soldiers under my command. † I say to this one,
'Go,' and he goes; and to another, 'Come,' and he comes; and to my servant,
'Do this! ' and he does it."
10 Hearing this, Jesus was amazed and said to those following him, "Truly I tell you, I have not found anyone in Israel with so great a faith. 11 I tell you that many will come from east and west to share the banquet † with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob in the kingdom of heaven. † 12 But the sons of the kingdom will be thrown into the outer darkness where there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth." † 13 Then Jesus told the centurion, "Go. As you have believed, † let it be done for you." And his servant was healed that very moment. †

HEALINGS AT CAPERNAUM

14 Jesus went into Peter's house † and saw his mother-in-law lying in bed with a fever. 15 So he touched her hand, and the fever left her. Then she got up and began to serve him. 16 When evening came, they brought to him many who were demon-possessed. He drove out the spirits † with a word and healed all who were sick, † 17 so that what was spoken through the prophet Isaiah might be fulfilled:

He himself took our weaknesses and carried our diseases. † †

THE COST OF FOLLOWING JESUS

18 When Jesus saw a large crowd † † around him, he gave the order to go to the other side of the sea. 19 A scribe approached him and said, † "Teacher, I will follow you wherever you go."

20 Jesus told him, "Foxes have dens, and birds of the sky have nests, but the Son of Man † has no place to lay his head."

21 "Lord," another of his disciples said, "first let me go bury my father."

22 But Jesus told him, "Follow me, and let the dead bury their own dead."

WIND AND WAVE OBEY JESUS

23 As he got into the boat, † his disciples † followed him. 24 Suddenly, a violent storm arose on the sea, so that the boat was being swamped by the waves — but Jesus kept sleeping. 25 So the disciples came and woke him up, saying, "Lord, save us! We're going to die! "

26 He said to them, "Why are you afraid, you of little faith? " Then he got up and rebuked the winds and the sea, † and there was a great calm.

27 The men were amazed and asked, "What kind of man is this? Even the winds and the sea obey † him! "

DEMONS DRIVEN OUT BY JESUS

28 When he had come to the other side, † to the region of the Gadarenes, † two demon-possessed men met him as they came out of the tombs. They were so violent that no one could pass that way. 29 Suddenly they shouted, "What do you have to do with us, † Son of God? Have you come here to torment us before the time? " †

30 A long way off from them, a large herd of pigs was feeding. 31 "If you drive us out," the demons begged him, "send us into the herd of pigs."

32 "Go! " he told them. So when they had come out, they entered the pigs, and the whole herd rushed down the steep bank into the sea and perished in the water. 33 Then the men who tended them fled. They went into the city and reported everything, especially what had happened to those who were demon-possessed. 34 At that, the whole town went out to meet Jesus. When they saw him, they begged him to leave their region. †

8:1 Matthew 8–9 contain ten miracles performed by Jesus. These miracles were carefully selected by Matthew to make the case that Jesus is the miracle-working Messiah of OT expectation. He does things only God can do. He heals the sick, raises the dead, commands creation, and casts out demons.

8:2 The Greek word translated leprosy (lepros) here was a broad term used to describe a number of serious and often-contagious skin conditions. Matthew highlights these cases because of the discussion of them in Leviticus 13–14 and because those afflicted were considered ceremonially unclean by Jewish society. The use of lepros does not exclusively indicate (but may include) Hansen's Disease, known today as "leprosy."

8:5-13 Matthew records several incidents in which Gentiles demonstrate profound faith in Jesus (e.g., 15:21-31) in order to indicate that the good news about Jesus ought to go to all the nations. Jesus's words in verse 11 look to the day when Jews and Gentiles will celebrate together in the kingdom of heaven. See also "The Eternal State," p. 1622.

8:21-22 Likely the disciple's father had died some time ago, or was dying. The disciple is essentially using family obligation to excuse himself from following Jesus immediately. Jesus's response is direct and harsh: Follow me, and let the (spiritually) dead bury their own dead (i.e., attend to family obligations). Following Jesus means prioritizing him and his kingdom above all else.

THE SON OF MAN FORGIVES AND HEALS

9 So he got into a boat, crossed over, and came to his own town. † 2 Just then † some men † brought to him a paralytic lying on a stretcher. Seeing their faith, Jesus told the paralytic, "Have courage, son, your sins are forgiven." †

3 At this, some of the scribes said to themselves, "He's blaspheming! " †

4 Perceiving their thoughts, † Jesus said, "Why are you thinking evil things in your hearts? † 5 For which is easier: to say, 'Your sins are forgiven,' or to say,
'Get up and walk'? 6 But so that you may know that the Son of Man has authority on earth to forgive sins" — then he told the paralytic, "Get up, take your stretcher, and go home." 7 So he got up and went home. 8 When the crowds saw this, they were awestruck † † and gave glory † to God, who had given such authority to men.

THE CALL OF MATTHEW

9 As Jesus went on from there, † he saw a man named Matthew sitting at the toll booth, and he said to him, "Follow me," and he got up and followed him. † 10 While he was reclining at the table in the house, many tax collectors and sinners came to eat with Jesus and his disciples. † 11 When the Pharisees saw this, they asked his disciples, "Why does your teacher eat with tax collectors and sinners? " †
12 Now when he heard this, he said, "It is not those who are well who need a doctor, but those who are sick. † 13 Go and learn what this means: I desire mercy and not sacrifice. † † For I didn't come to call the righteous, but sinners." †

A QUESTION ABOUT FASTING

14 Then John's disciples came to him, saying, "Why do we and the Pharisees fast often, but your disciples do not fast? " † 15 Jesus said to them, "Can the wedding guests † be sad while the groom is with them? The time † will come when the groom will be taken away from them, and then they will fast. 16 No one patches an old garment with unshrunk cloth, because the patch pulls away from the garment and makes the tear worse.
17 And no one puts † new wine into old wineskins. Otherwise, the skins burst, the wine spills out, and the skins are ruined. No, they put new wine into fresh wineskins, and both are preserved."

A GIRL RESTORED AND A WOMAN HEALED

18 As he was telling them these things, † suddenly one of the leaders came and knelt down before him, saying, “My daughter just died, † but come and lay your hand on her, and she will live.” † 19 So Jesus and his disciples got up and followed † him.

20 Just then, a woman who had suffered from bleeding for twelve years approached from behind and touched the end of his robe, † 21 for she said to herself, “If I can just touch his robe, I’ll be made well.” † †

22 Jesus turned and saw her. “Have courage, daughter,” he said. “Your faith has saved you.” † † And the woman was made well from that moment. †

23 When Jesus came to the leader’s house, he saw the flute players and a crowd lamenting loudly. † 24 “Leave,” he said, “because the girl is not dead but asleep.” † And they laughed at him. 25 After the crowd had been put outside, he went in and took her by the hand, and the girl got up. † 26 Then news of this spread throughout that whole area. †

HEALING THE BLIND

27 As Jesus went on from there, two blind men followed him, calling out, “Have mercy on us, Son of David! ” †

28 When he entered the house, the blind men approached him, and Jesus said to them, “Do you believe † that I can do this? ”

They said to him, “Yes, Lord.”

29 Then he touched their eyes, saying, “Let it be done for you according to your faith.” 30 And their eyes were opened. Then Jesus warned them sternly, “Be sure that no one finds out.” † 31 But they went out and spread the news about him throughout that whole area.

DRIVING OUT A DEMON

32 Just as they were going out, a demon-possessed man who was unable to speak was brought to him. † 33 When the demon had been driven out, the man who had been mute spoke, and the crowds were amazed, saying, “Nothing like this has ever been seen in Israel! ”

34 But the Pharisees said, “He drives out demons by the ruler of the demons.” †

THE LORD OF THE HARVEST

35 Jesus continued going around to all the towns and villages, teaching in their synagogues, preaching the good news of the kingdom, † and healing every † disease and every sickness. † † 36 When he saw the crowds, he felt compassion for them, because they were distressed and dejected, † like sheep without a shepherd. † 37 Then he said to his disciples, † "The harvest is abundant, but the workers are few. 38 Therefore, pray to the Lord of the harvest to send out workers into his harvest."

9:9-11 Tax collectors were universally reviled in Jesus's day because they were seen as traitors to their people and extortionists of the worst kind. Typically, Jews were chosen to collect Roman taxes in Jewish areas, and tax collectors were primarily paid from the excess money they extracted from their fellow Jews. They often grew quite wealthy.

9:15-17 Just as no one puts on a sad face at a wedding, so no one patches an old garment with unshrunk cloth or puts new wine into old wineskins. It would be inappropriate for Jesus's disciples to fast while he was with them. Rather, the presence of the Messiah is a time to celebrate. There will, however, come a day when the Messiah will be taken away from them, and temporary mourning and fasting will be appropriate.

9:20 The woman who had suffered from bleeding was most likely afflicted with some type of menstrual disorder that rendered her ceremonially unclean. Anyone who touched her would also become ceremonially unclean. When she touched Jesus, however, he was not made unclean; rather, she was healed. Likewise, Jesus did not become unclean when he touched a corpse (see v. 25); instead, the girl returned to life. Matthew highlights these miracles to show that Jesus came into the world to bring cleanness out of uncleanness and life out of death. See "Equality of the Sexes," p. 1434.

COMMISSIONING THE TWELVE

10 Summoning his twelve disciples, † he gave them authority over unclean spirits, to drive them out and to heal every † disease and sickness. † † 2 These are the names of the twelve apostles: † First, Simon, who is called Peter, and Andrew his brother; James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother; 3 Philip and Bartholomew; Thomas and Matthew the tax collector;
James the son of Alphaeus, and Thaddaeus; † 4 Simon the Zealot, † and Judas Iscariot, who also betrayed him. † 5 Jesus sent out these twelve after giving them instructions: "Don't take the road that leads to the Gentiles, and don't enter any Samaritan † town. 6 Instead, go to the lost sheep † of the house of Israel. † 7 As you go, proclaim: 'The kingdom of heaven has come near.' † 8 Heal the sick, raise the dead, cleanse those with leprosy, † drive out demons. † Freely you received, freely give. 9 Don't acquire gold, silver, or copper for your money-belts. † 10 Don't take a traveling bag for the road, or an extra shirt, sandals, or a staff, for the worker † is worthy of his food. 11 When you enter any town or village, find out who is worthy, and stay there until you leave. 12 Greet a household when you enter it, † 13 and if the household is worthy, let your peace be on it; but if it is unworthy, let your peace return to you. † 14 If anyone does not welcome you or listen to your words, shake the dust off your feet † when you leave that house or town. 15 Truly I tell you, it will be more tolerable on the day of judgment † for the land of Sodom and Gomorrah than for that town. †

PERSECUTIONS PREDICTED

16 "Look, I'm sending you out like sheep among wolves. Therefore be as shrewd as serpents and as innocent as doves. † 17 Beware of them, because they will hand you over to local courts † and flog you in their synagogues. † 18 You will even be brought before governors and kings because of me, to bear witness to them and to the Gentiles. † 19 But when they hand you over, don't worry about how or what you are to speak. † For you will be given what to say at that hour, [20] because it isn't you speaking, but the Spirit † of your Father is speaking through you. † [21] "Brother will betray brother to death, and a father his child. Children will rise up against parents and have them put to death. † [22] You will be hated by everyone because of my name. † But the one who endures to the end will be saved. † [23] When they persecute you in one town, flee to another. † For truly I tell you, you will not have gone through the towns of Israel before the Son of Man comes. [24] A disciple † is not above his teacher, or a slave above his master. † [25] It is enough for a disciple to become like his teacher and a slave like his master. If they called the head of the house 'Beelzebul,' how much more the members of his household! †

FEAR GOD

[26] "Therefore, † don't be afraid of them, since there is nothing covered that won't be uncovered and nothing hidden that won't be made known. † [27] What I tell you in the dark, speak in the light. What you hear in a whisper, † proclaim on the housetops. † [28] Don't fear those who kill the body but are not able to kill the soul; † rather, fear him who is able to destroy both soul and body in hell. †
[29] Aren't two sparrows sold for a penny? † Yet not one of them falls to the ground without your Father's † consent. † [30] But even the hairs of your head have all been counted. † [31] So don't be afraid; you are worth more than many sparrows. †

ACKNOWLEDGING CHRIST

[32] "Therefore, everyone who will acknowledge me before others, I will also acknowledge him before my Father in heaven. † [33] But whoever denies me before others, † I will also deny him before my Father in heaven. [34] Don't assume that I came to bring peace on the earth. I did not come to bring peace, but a sword. † [35] For I came to turn a man against his father, a daughter against her mother,
a daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law;

36 and a man's enemies will be the members of his household. † † 37 The one who loves a father or mother more than me is not worthy of me; † the one who loves a son or daughter more than me is not worthy of me. 38 And whoever doesn't take up his cross and follow me is not worthy of me. 39 Anyone who finds his life will lose it, † and anyone who loses his life because of me will find it. †

10:4 The Zealots were a social and political group that promoted aggressive resistance against the occupation of the Roman Empire. Scholars disagree as to whether Matthew is describing Simon as zealous or indicates that Simon was connected to the Zealot movement. If the latter, then he was almost certainly a former Zealot, as the teachings of Jesus were contrary to most Zealot teaching (e.g., 5:38-42).

10:14 Shake the dust off your feet was a symbolic gesture of separation. Those who refuse to hear the message of Jesus separate themselves from God's kingdom, and the disciples were to declare that reality openly with this symbolic act.

10:25 On several occasions, the religious leaders accuse Jesus of being in league with Satan (e.g., 9:34), Beelzebul (lit "master of the house"), who was thought to be the ruler of the demons (12:24). Jesus warns his disciples that if the Pharisees think that he is the leader of demons, his followers should not be surprised when they too are accused of being in league with demons.

10:29 See "A Biblical View of History," p. 525.

10:38 When Jesus says a disciple must take up his cross and follow him, he is drawing on crucifixion—the torturous Roman method of execution—to illustrate true discipleship. Genuine belief in Jesus produces followers who are willing to lay down their lives, even in crucifixion, for the Messiah and the kingdom of God.

JOHN THE BAPTIST DOUBTS

11 When Jesus had finished giving instructions to his twelve disciples, he moved on from there to teach and preach in their towns. † 2 Now when John heard in prison what the Christ was doing, he sent a message through his disciples † 3 and asked him, "Are you the one who is to come, or should we expect someone else? " † 4 Jesus replied to them, "Go and report to John what you hear and see: 5 The blind receive their sight, the lame walk, those with leprosy † are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead are raised, and the poor are told the good news, † 6 and blessed is the one who isn't offended by me." † 7 As these men were leaving, Jesus began to speak to the crowds about John:
"What did you go out into the wilderness to see? A reed swaying in the wind? † 8 What then did you go out to see? A man dressed in soft clothes? See, those who wear soft clothes are in royal palaces. 9 What then did you go out to see? A prophet? Yes, I tell you, and more than a prophet. † 10 This is the one about whom it is written:
See, I am sending my messenger ahead of you;
he will prepare your way before you. † † 11 "Truly I tell you, among those born of women no one greater than John the Baptist has appeared, † but the least in the kingdom of heaven is greater than he.

12 From the days of John the Baptist until now, the kingdom of heaven has been suffering violence, † and the violent have been seizing it by force. 13 For all the prophets and the law prophesied until John. 14 And if you're willing to accept it, he is the Elijah who is to come. † 15 Let anyone who has ears † listen. †

AN UNRESPONSIVE GENERATION

16 "To what should I compare this generation? It's like children sitting in the marketplaces who call out to other children:

17 We played the flute for you, but you didn't dance;
we sang a lament,
but you didn't mourn! †

18 For John came neither eating nor drinking, and they say, 'He has a demon! ' † 19 The Son of Man came eating and drinking, and they say, 'Look, a glutton and a drunkard, † a friend of tax collectors and sinners! ' † Yet wisdom is vindicated † by her deeds." †

20 Then he proceeded to denounce the towns where most of his miracles were done, because they did not repent: 21 "Woe to you, Chorazin! † Woe to you, Bethsaida! † For if the miracles that were done in you had been done in Tyre and Sidon, † they would have repented in sackcloth and ashes long ago. 22 But I tell you, it will be more tolerable for Tyre and Sidon on the day of judgment † than for you. 23 And you, Capernaum, will you be exalted to heaven? No, you will go down to Hades. † For if the miracles that were done in you had been done in Sodom, it would have remained until today. 24 But I tell you, it will be more tolerable for the land of Sodom on the day of judgment than for you."

THE SON GIVES KNOWLEDGE AND REST

25 At that time Jesus said, † "I praise you, Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because you have hidden these things from the wise and intelligent and revealed them to infants. † 26 Yes, Father, because this was your good pleasure. † 27 All things have been entrusted to me by my Father. No one knows the Son except the Father, and no one knows the Father except the Son and anyone to whom the Son desires † to reveal him. †

28 “Come to me, all of you who are weary and burdened, and I will give you rest. † 29 Take up my yoke and learn from me, † because I am lowly and humble in heart, and you will find rest for your souls. † 30 For my yoke is easy and my burden is light.”

11:7 The metaphor of a reed swaying in the wind describes a person who is weak and unsure. Jesus’s questions are rhetorical; John the Baptist was obviously neither weak nor unsure. He was the prophet who heralded the coming of the Messiah to God’s people (3:1-12).

11:28-30 It was common in Jesus’s day to refer to Jewish religious duty as a yoke, a wooden frame joining two animals for the purpose of hard labor. The term was used metaphorically to describe someone’s subjection to another. Consequently, Jesus describes the yoke of the Pharisees and all the religious obligations they placed on people as wearying and burdensome. In contrast, faith in Jesus not only provides a righteousness that exceeds the righteousness of the Pharisees (5:20), but his yoke is easy and his burden is light.

LORD OF THE SABBATH

12 At that time Jesus passed through the grainfields on the Sabbath. † His disciples † were hungry and began to pick and eat some heads of grain.
2 When the Pharisees saw this, they said to him, “See, your disciples are doing what is not lawful † to do on the Sabbath.”
3 He said to them, “Haven’t you read what David did when he and those who were with him were hungry: 4 how he entered the house of God, and they ate † the bread of the Presence — which is not lawful for him or for those with him to eat, but only for the priests? † 5 Or haven’t you read in the law that on Sabbath days the priests in the temple violate the Sabbath and are innocent? † 6 I tell you that something greater than the temple is here. † 7 If you had known what this means, I desire mercy and not sacrifice, † † you would not have condemned the innocent. 8 For the Son of Man is Lord of the Sabbath." †

THE MAN WITH THE SHRIVELED HAND

9 Moving on from there, he entered their synagogue. † 10 There he saw a man who had a shriveled hand, and in order to accuse him they asked him, "Is it lawful to heal on the Sabbath? " †

11 He replied to them, "Who among you, if he had a sheep that fell into a pit on the Sabbath, wouldn't take hold of it and lift it out? † 12 A person is worth far more than a sheep; † so it is lawful to do what is good on the Sabbath."

13 Then he told the man, "Stretch out your hand." So he stretched it out, and it was restored, † as good as the other. 14 But the Pharisees went out and plotted against him, how they might kill him. †

THE SERVANT OF THE LORD

15 Jesus was aware of this and withdrew. Large crowds † followed him, and he healed them all. † 16 He warned them not to make him known, † 17 so that what was spoken through the prophet Isaiah might be fulfilled:

18 Here is my servant whom I have chosen, my beloved in whom I delight;
I will put my Spirit on him, and he will proclaim justice to the nations. †

19 He will not argue or shout, and no one will hear his voice in the streets.

20 He will not break a bruised reed, and he will not put out a smoldering wick, until he has led justice to victory. †

21 The nations will put their hope in his name. † †

A HOUSE DIVIDED

22 Then a demon-possessed man † who was blind and unable to speak was brought to him. He healed him, so that the man † could both speak and see. †

23 All the crowds were astounded and said, "Could this be the Son of David? " †

24 When the Pharisees heard this, they said, “This man drives out demons only by Beelzebul, the ruler of the demons.” †

25 Knowing their thoughts, † he told them: “Every kingdom divided against itself is headed for destruction, and no city or house divided against itself will stand. 26 If Satan † drives out Satan, he is divided against himself. How then will his kingdom stand? 27 And if I drive out demons by Beelzebul, by whom do your sons drive them out? For this reason they will be your judges. † 28 If I drive out demons by the Spirit of God, then the kingdom of God has come upon you. † 29 How can someone enter a strong man’s house and steal his possessions unless he first ties up † the strong man? Then he can plunder his house. 30 Anyone who is not with me is against me, † and anyone who does not gather with me scatters. 31 Therefore, † I tell you, people will be forgiven every sin and blasphemy, † but the blasphemy against † the Spirit will not be forgiven. † 32 Whoever speaks a word against the Son of Man, † it will be forgiven him; but whoever speaks against the Holy Spirit, it will not be forgiven him, either in this age or in the one to come. †

A TREE AND ITS FRUIT

33 “Either make the tree good and its fruit will be good, or make the tree bad † and its fruit will be bad; for a tree is known by its fruit. † 34 Brood of vipers! How can you speak good things when you are evil? For the mouth speaks from the overflow † of the heart. 35 A good person produces good things from his storeroom of good, and an evil person produces evil things from his storeroom of evil. † 36 I tell you that on the day of judgment † people will have to account † for every careless † word they speak. † 37 For by your words you will be acquitted, and by your words you will be condemned.”

THE SIGN OF JONAH

38 Then some of the scribes and Pharisees said to him, “Teacher, we want to see a sign from you.” †

39 He answered them, † “An evil and adulterous generation demands a sign, but no sign will be given to it except the sign of the prophet Jonah. † 40 For as Jonah was in the belly of the huge fish † † three days and three nights, † so the Son of Man will be in the heart of the earth three days and three nights. 41 The men of Nineveh will stand up at the judgment with this generation and condemn it, † because they repented at Jonah's preaching; and look — something greater than Jonah is here. † 42 The queen of the south † will rise up at the judgment with this generation and condemn it, because she came from the ends of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon; and look — something greater than Solomon is here.

AN UNCLEAN SPIRIT'S RETURN

43 "When an unclean spirit comes out of a person, it roams through waterless places looking for rest but doesn't find any. † 44 Then it says, 'I'll go back to my house that I came from.' Returning, it finds the house vacant, swept, and put in order. 45 Then it goes and brings with it seven other spirits more evil than itself, and they enter and settle down there. As a result, that person's last condition is worse than the first. † That's how it will also be with this evil generation."

TRUE RELATIONSHIPS

46 While he † was still speaking with the crowds, his mother and brothers were standing outside wanting to speak to him. † 47 Someone told him, "Look, your mother and your brothers are standing outside, wanting to speak to you." †
48 He replied to the one who was speaking to him, "Who is my mother and who are my brothers?" 49 Stretching out his hand toward his disciples, † he said, "Here are my mother and my brothers! 50 For whoever does the will of my Father in heaven is my brother and sister and mother." †

12:6 Three times in this chapter Jesus points to key concepts from the OT and compares himself to them, concluding that he is greater. Jesus is greater than the temple. He is greater than Jonah, the prophet sent to a Gentile nation (12:41). And he is greater than Solomon, the wise king of Israel (12:42). Jesus is the ultimate place where people meet God (cp. the temple). He is the final good news to the Gentiles (cp. Jonah), and he is the wisest King of Israel (cp. Solomon).

12:13-14 Matthew highlights irony here. It was a crime worthy of death to say stretch out your hand on the Sabbath, but the Pharisees have no qualms about plotting the murder of an innocent man on the Sabbath.

12:25 See also "Satan and Demons," p. 1611.

12:43-45 Jesus compares his generation to a man possessed by an evil spirit. The spirit is exorcised, but since the exorcist apparently has no real power over the demon, it returns to its victim who is then much worse off. In the same way, the religious practices of the Pharisees gave the appearance of godliness, and of making life better for their practitioners, but it had no real power to fix what is truly wrong with humankind. As a result, they fared worse than if they had no religion at all.

THE PARABLE OF THE SOWER

13 On that day Jesus went out of the house and was sitting by the sea. †
2 Such large crowds gathered around him that he got into a boat and sat down, while the whole crowd stood on the shore. †
3 Then he told them many things in parables, † saying: "Consider the sower who went out to sow. 4 As he sowed, some seed fell along the path, and the birds came and devoured them. 5 Other seed fell on rocky ground where it didn't have much soil, and it grew up quickly since the soil wasn't deep. 6 But when the sun came up, it was scorched, and since it had no root, it withered away. 7 Other seed fell among thorns, and the thorns came up and choked it. 8 Still other seed fell on good ground and produced fruit: some a hundred, some sixty, and some thirty times what was sown. † 9 Let anyone who has ears † listen." †

WHY JESUS USED PARABLES

10 Then the disciples † came up and asked him, “Why are you speaking to them in parables? ” †
11 He answered, “Because the secrets of the kingdom of heaven have been given for you to know, † but it has not been given to them. 12 For whoever has, more will be given to him, and he will have more than enough; but whoever does not have, even what he has will be taken away from him. † 13 That is why I speak to them in parables, because looking they do not see, † and hearing they do not listen or understand. † 14 Isaiah’s prophecy is fulfilled in them, which says:
You will listen and listen,
but never understand;
you will look and look,
but never perceive. † 15 For this people’s heart has grown callous;
their ears are hard of hearing,
and they have shut their eyes;
otherwise they might see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and understand with their hearts, and turn back — and I would heal them. † †
16 “Blessed are your eyes † because they do see, and your ears because they do hear. † 17 For truly I tell you, many prophets and righteous people longed to see the things you see but didn’t see them, to hear the things you hear but didn’t hear them. †

THE PARABLE OF THE SOWER EXPLAINED

18 “So listen to the parable of the sower: † 19 When anyone hears the word about the kingdom and doesn’t understand it, the evil one comes and snatches away what was sown in his heart. This is the one sown along the path. † 20 And the one sown on rocky ground — this is one who hears the word and immediately receives it with joy. † 21 But he has no root and is short-lived. When distress or persecution † comes because of the word, immediately he falls away. 22 Now the one sown among the thorns — this is one who hears the word, but the worries of this age † and the deceitfulness † of wealth † choke the word, and it becomes unfruitful. 23 But the one sown on the good ground — this is one who hears and understands the word, who does produce fruit and yields: some a hundred, some sixty, some thirty times what was sown."

THE PARABLE OF THE WHEAT AND THE WEEDS

24 He presented another parable to them: "The kingdom of heaven may be compared to a man who sowed good seed in his field. † 25 But while people were sleeping, his enemy came, sowed weeds among the wheat, and left. 26 When the plants sprouted and produced grain, then the weeds also appeared. 27 The landowner's servants † came to him and said, 'Master, didn't you sow good seed in your field? Then where did the weeds come from? '
28 " 'An enemy did this,' he told them.
" 'So, do you want us to go and pull them up? ' the servants asked him.
29 " 'No,' he said. 'When you pull up the weeds, you might also uproot the wheat with them. 30 Let both grow together until the harvest. At harvest time I'll tell the reapers: Gather the weeds first and tie them in bundles to burn them, but collect the wheat in my barn.' "

THE PARABLES OF THE MUSTARD SEED AND OF THE LEAVEN

31 He † presented another parable to them: "The kingdom of heaven † is like a mustard seed that a man took and sowed in his field. 32 It's the smallest of all the seeds, but when grown, it's taller than the garden plants and becomes a tree, so that the birds of the sky come and nest in its branches." †

33 He told them another parable: "The kingdom of heaven is like leaven † that a woman took and mixed into fifty pounds † of flour until all of it was leavened." †

USING PARABLES FULFILLS PROPHECY

34 Jesus told the crowds all these things in parables, and he did not tell them anything without a parable, † 35 so that what was spoken through the prophet might be fulfilled:
I will open my mouth in parables;
I will declare things kept secret from the foundation of the world. † † †

JESUS INTERPRETS THE PARABLE OF THE WHEAT AND THE WEEDS

36 Then he left the crowds and went into the house. His disciples approached him and said, “Explain to us the parable of the weeds in the field.” † 37 He replied: “The one who sows the good seed is the Son of Man; 38 the field is the world; and the good seed — these are the children of the kingdom. The weeds are the children of the evil one, † 39 and the enemy who sowed them is the devil. The harvest is the end of the age, and the harvesters are angels. † 40 Therefore, just as the weeds are gathered and burned in the fire, so it will be at the end of the age. † 41 The Son of Man will send out his angels, and they will gather from his kingdom all who cause sin † and those guilty of lawlessness. † † 42 They will throw them into the blazing furnace † where there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth. † 43 Then the righteous will shine like the sun in their Father’s kingdom. Let anyone who has ears † listen. †

THE PARABLES OF THE HIDDEN TREASURE AND OF THE PRICELESS PEARL

44 “The kingdom of heaven is like treasure, buried in a field, that a man found and reburied. Then in his joy he goes and sells everything he has and buys that field. †
45 “Again, the kingdom of heaven is like a merchant in search of fine pearls.
46 When he found one priceless † pearl, he went and sold everything he had and bought it. †

THE PARABLE OF THE NET

47 “Again, the kingdom of heaven is like a large net thrown into the sea. It collected every kind of fish, † 48 and when it was full, they dragged it ashore, sat down, and gathered the good fish into containers, but threw out the worthless ones. 49 So it will be at the end of the age. The angels will go out, separate the evil people from the righteous, † 50 and throw them into the blazing furnace, where there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth. †

THE STOREHOUSE OF TRUTH

51 “Have you understood all these things?” †
They answered him, “Yes.”
52 “Therefore,” he said to them, “every teacher of the law † who has become a disciple in the kingdom of heaven is like the owner of a house who brings out of his storeroom treasures new and old.” †

REJECTION AT NAZARETH

53 When Jesus had finished these parables, he left there. 54 He went to his hometown † and began to teach them in their synagogue, so that they were astonished and said, “Where did this man get this wisdom and these miraculous powers? † 55 Isn’t this the carpenter’s son? † Isn’t his mother called Mary, and his brothers James, † Joseph, † Simon, and Judas? † 56 And his sisters, aren’t they all with us? So where does he get all these things?” 57 And they were offended by him.
Jesus said to them, “A prophet is not without honor except in his hometown and in his household.” † 58 And he did not do many miracles there because of their unbelief.

13:1 Because many in Israel openly rejected Jesus's claims to be the Messiah, he began to teach the crowds in parables that could only be interpreted correctly when Jesus and his kingdom were properly understood (vv. 10-17). Jesus did, however, use parables on other occasions (e.g., 7:24-27) and sometimes spoke openly to skeptical and hostile crowds (e.g., 15:1-20). Jesus's parables in Matthew 13 are mostly natural analogies designed to explain to his disciples how God could have come to earth in the person of the Messiah, and yet people still reject him.

13:19 See also "Satan and Demons," p. 1611.

13:31-32 Calling the mustard seed the smallest of all the seeds is intentional hyperbole—exaggeration for emphasis or effect—a technique that Jesus frequently used in teaching (e.g., 11:23; 19:24; 23:24). Jesus's point is that the kingdom he is offering will grow into the mighty, all-encompassing kingdom of heaven even though it appears to have a modest start—a Messiah born in a small town, rejected by his people, and executed.

13:41-42 See "The Eternal State," p. 1622.

JOHN THE BAPTIST BEHEADED

14 At that time † Herod the tetrarch † heard the report about Jesus.
2 "This is John the Baptist," he told his servants. "He has been raised from the dead, and that's why miraculous powers are at work in him." † 3 For Herod had arrested John, chained † him, and put him in prison on account of Herodias, his brother Philip's wife, † 4 since John had been telling him, "It's not lawful † for you to have her." 5 Though Herod wanted to kill John, he feared the crowd since they regarded John as a prophet. † 6 When Herod's birthday celebration came, Herodias's daughter danced before them † and pleased Herod. 7 So he promised with an oath to give her whatever she asked. 8 Prompted by her mother, she answered, "Give me John the Baptist's head here on a platter." 9 Although the king regretted it, he commanded that it be granted because of his oaths and his guests. 10 So he sent orders and had John beheaded in the prison. 11 His head was brought on a platter and given to the girl, who carried it to her mother. 12 Then his disciples came, removed the corpse, † buried it, and went and reported to Jesus.

FEEDING OF THE FIVE THOUSAND

13 When Jesus heard about it, † he withdrew from there by boat to a remote place to be alone. When the crowds heard this, they followed him on foot from the towns. 14 When he went ashore, † he saw a large crowd, had compassion on them, and healed their sick. †

15 When evening came, the disciples † approached him and said, “This place is deserted, and it is already late. † Send the crowds away so that they can go into the villages and buy food for themselves.”

16 “They don’t need to go away,” Jesus told them. “You give them something to eat.”

17 “But we only have five loaves and two fish here,” they said to him.

18 “Bring them here to me,” he said. 19 Then he commanded the crowds to sit down on the grass. He took the five loaves and the two fish, and looking up to heaven, he blessed them. He broke the loaves and gave them to the disciples, and the disciples gave them to the crowds. † 20 Everyone ate and was satisfied. They picked up twelve baskets full of leftover pieces. † 21 Now those who ate were about five thousand men, besides women and children.

WALKING ON THE WATER

22 Immediately † he † made the disciples get into the boat and go ahead of him to the other side, while he dismissed the crowds. 23 After dismissing the crowds, he went up on the mountain by himself to pray. Well into the night, he was there alone. † 24 Meanwhile, the boat was already some distance † from land, † battered by the waves, because the wind was against them. 25 Jesus came toward them walking on the sea † very early in the morning. † 26 When the disciples saw him walking on the sea, they were terrified. “It’s a ghost! ” they said, and they cried out in fear.

27 Immediately Jesus spoke to them. “Have courage! It is I. Don’t be afraid.” †

28 “Lord, if it’s you,” Peter answered him, “command me to come to you on the water.”

29 He said, “Come.”

And climbing out of the boat, Peter started walking on the water and came toward Jesus. 30 But when he saw the strength of the wind, † he was afraid, and beginning to sink he cried out, “Lord, save me! ”

31 Immediately Jesus reached out his hand, caught hold of him, and said to him, “You of little faith, why did you doubt? ” †

32 When they got into the boat, the wind ceased. 33 Then those in the boat worshiped him and said, “Truly you are the Son of God.” †

MIRACULOUS HEALINGS

34 When they had crossed over, † they came to shore at Gennesaret. † 35 When the men of that place recognized him, they alerted the whole vicinity and brought to him all who were sick. 36 They begged him that they might only touch the end of his robe, and as many as touched it were healed. †

14:2 Herod knew enough of the OT to know that God sometimes brings people back from the dead (e.g., 1Kg 17:17-24; 2Kg 4:32-35). In his guilt and superstition, Herod feared God brought John back to life to condemn Herod for his sins.

THE TRADITION OF THE ELDERS

15 Then † Jesus was approached by Pharisees and scribes from Jerusalem, who asked, † 2 “Why do your disciples † break the tradition of the elders? For they don’t wash their hands when they eat.” † † 3 He answered them, “Why do you break God’s commandment because of your tradition? 4 For God said: † Honor your father and your mother; † † and, Whoever speaks evil of father or mother must be put to death. † † 5 But you say, ‘Whoever tells his father or mother, “Whatever benefit you might have received from me is a gift committed to the temple,” 6 he does not have to honor his father.’ † In this way, you have nullified the word of God † because of your tradition. 7 Hypocrites! Isaiah prophesied correctly about you when he said:
8 This people † honors me with their lips,
but their heart is far from me.

9 They worship me in vain, teaching as doctrines human commands.” † †

DEFILEMENT IS FROM WITHIN

10 Summoning the crowd, he told them, “Listen and understand: 11 It’s not what goes into the mouth that defiles † a person, but what comes out of the mouth — this defiles a person.” †

12 Then the disciples came up and told him, “Do you know that the Pharisees took offense when they heard what you said? ”

13 He replied, “Every plant that my heavenly Father didn’t plant will be uprooted. † 14 Leave them alone! They are blind guides. † And if the blind guide the blind, both will fall into a pit.” †

15 Then Peter said, “Explain this parable to us.” †

16 “Do you still lack understanding? ” he † asked. 17 “Don’t you realize † that whatever goes into the mouth passes into the stomach and is eliminated? †

18 But what comes out of the mouth comes from the heart, and this defiles a person. † 19 For from the heart come evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, sexual immoralities, thefts, false testimonies, † slander. † 20 These are the things that defile a person; but eating with unwashed hands does not defile a person.” †

A GENTILE MOTHER’S FAITH

21 When Jesus left there, † he withdrew to the area of Tyre and Sidon. † 22 Just then a Canaanite woman from that region came and kept crying out, † “Have mercy on me, Lord, Son of David! My daughter is severely tormented by a demon.” †

23 Jesus did not say a word to her. His disciples † approached him and urged him, “Send her away because she’s crying out after us.”

24 He replied, “I was sent only to the lost sheep of the house of Israel.” †

25 But she came, knelt before him, and said, “Lord, help me! ”

26 He answered, “It isn’t right to take the children’s bread and throw it to the dogs.” †

27 “Yes, Lord,” she said, “yet even the dogs eat the crumbs that fall from their masters’ table.”
28 Then Jesus replied to her, “Woman, your faith is great. Let it be done for you as you want.” And from that moment † her daughter was healed. †

HEALING MANY PEOPLE

29 Moving on from there, † Jesus passed along the Sea of Galilee. † He went up on a mountain and sat there, 30 and large crowds came to him, including the lame, the blind, the crippled, those unable to speak, and many others. They put them at his feet, and he healed them. 31 So the crowd was amazed when they saw those unable to speak talking, the crippled restored, the lame walking, and the blind seeing, † and they gave glory to the God of Israel.

FEEDING OF THE FOUR THOUSAND

32 Jesus called his disciples and said, † “I have compassion on the crowd, because they’ve already stayed with me three days and have nothing to eat. I don’t want to send them away hungry, otherwise they might collapse on the way.”
33 The disciples said to him, “Where could we get enough bread in this desolate place † to feed such a crowd? ”
34 “How many loaves do you have? ” Jesus asked them.
“Seven,” they said, “and a few small fish.”
35 After commanding the crowd to sit down on the ground, 36 he took the seven loaves and the fish, gave thanks, broke them, and gave them to the disciples, and the disciples gave them to the crowds. † 37 They all ate and were satisfied. They collected the leftover pieces — seven large baskets full. 38 Now there were four thousand men who had eaten, besides women and children. 39 After dismissing the crowds, he got into the boat and went to the region of Magadan. † †

15:2-9 Hand washing here is ceremonial in nature, not related to hygiene. It was a tradition of the elders, not a biblical command. Jesus condemns the Pharisees and scribes for constantly putting their traditions above Scripture. He focuses on corban (cp. Mk 7:11), the practice of dedicating money to the temple instead of using it to care for aging parents.

15:22-28 The woman who approached Jesus was a Canaanite from a Gentile region north of Galilee. She knows something about Judaism because she calls Jesus Son of David, an exclusively Jewish messianic term. Though Jesus appears to dismiss her pleas rather harshly at first, her persistence demonstrates faith. Jesus calls her faith great and heals her daughter. This woman is one of many believing Gentiles whom Matthew highlights to show God's grace to the whole world.

THE LEAVEN OF THE PHARISEES AND THE SADDUCEES

16 The Pharisees and Sadducees approached, † and tested him, asking him to show them a sign from heaven. † 2 He replied, "When evening comes you say, 'It will be good weather because the sky is red.' 3 And in the morning, 'Today will be stormy because the sky is red and threatening.' You † know how to read the appearance of the sky, but you can't read the signs of the times. † 4 An evil and adulterous generation demands a sign, but no sign will be given to it except the sign of † Jonah." † Then he left them and went away.
5 The disciples reached the other shore, † and they had forgotten to take bread.
6 Then Jesus told them, "Watch out and beware of the leaven † of the Pharisees and Sadducees." †
7 They were discussing among themselves, "We didn't bring any bread."
8 Aware of this, Jesus said, "You of little faith, † why are you discussing among yourselves that you do not have bread? 9 Don't you understand yet? Don't you remember the five loaves for the five thousand and how many baskets you collected? 10 Or the seven loaves for the four thousand and how many large baskets you collected? † 11 Why is it you don't understand that when I told you, 'Beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and Sadducees,' it wasn't about bread?” † 12 Then they understood that he had not told them to beware of the leaven in bread, but of the teaching of the Pharisees and Sadducees. †

PETER’S CONFESSION OF THE MESSIAH

13 When Jesus came to the region of Caesarea Philippi, † † he asked his disciples, “Who do people say that the Son of Man is?” † 14 They replied, “Some say John the Baptist; others, Elijah; still others, Jeremiah or one of the prophets.” † 15 “But you,” he asked them, “who do you say that I am?”
16 Simon Peter answered, “You are the Messiah, the Son of the living God.” †
17 Jesus responded, “Blessed are you, Simon son of Jonah, † † because flesh and blood did not reveal this to you, but my Father in heaven. † 18 And I also say to you that you are Peter, and on this rock I will build my church, † and the gates of Hades will not overpower it. 19 I will give you the keys of the kingdom of heaven, † and whatever you bind on earth will have been bound † in heaven, and whatever you loose on earth will have been loosed † in heaven.” 20 Then he gave the disciples orders to tell no one that he was † the Messiah. †

HIS DEATH AND RESURRECTION PREDICTED

21 From † then on Jesus began to point out to his disciples that it was necessary for him to go to Jerusalem and suffer many things from the elders, chief priests, and scribes, be killed, and be raised the third day. † 22 Peter took him aside and began to rebuke him, “Oh no, † Lord! This will never happen to you!”
23 Jesus turned and told Peter, “Get behind me, Satan! You are a hindrance to me because you’re not thinking about God’s concerns † but human concerns.” †

TAKE UP YOUR CROSS

24 Then Jesus said to his disciples, “If anyone wants to follow after me, let him deny himself, take up his cross, and follow me. † 25 For whoever wants to save his life will lose it, but whoever loses his life because of me will find it. † 26 For what will it benefit someone if he gains the whole world yet loses his life? Or what will anyone give in exchange for his life? † 27 For the Son of Man is going to come with his angels in the glory of his Father, † and then he will reward each according to what he has done. 28 Truly I tell you, there are some standing here who will not taste death until they see the Son of Man coming in his kingdom." †

16:1-4 The religious leaders wanted Jesus to show them a sign from heaven, but Jesus had already revealed himself to them and they rejected him. Just as Jonah had proclaimed God's judgment on Nineveh, so Jesus, one greater than Jonah (12:41), declared judgment on that evil and adulterous generation.

16:6 Leaven (or yeast) typically represents sin and corruption. Just as a little yeast will spread throughout an entire loaf of bread to leaven it, so the corrupting influence of the Pharisees and Sadducees—those in the best position to recognize the Messiah—had permeated the community. The disciples needed to be wary of them.

16:18 Jesus uses the word church here, and in Matthew 18:17, to mean the "gathering" or "community" of his followers. Such gatherings around popular teachers were common in Jesus's day. His use of "church," however, both foreshadows and informs Paul's use of the word to describe the churches of Gentile believers (e.g., Gl 1:2; 1Th 1:1).

16:18-19 The gates of Hades was a common expression for death in Jesus's day. Jesus uses it to explain the work of the Messiah: God is establishing a people of faith whom even death cannot overcome, because he will die and rise again, conquering death (see 16:21). The language of keys and binding and loosing reflects the duty of the apostles—to take the truth of Jesus to the nations and to open the kingdom of heaven to the whole world.

16:20 Jesus's disciples still do not understand that the Messiah did not come to restore Israel to its former military and economic glory; rather, he came to rescue humankind from sin and death by dying and rising again (e.g., vv. 22-23). Jesus instructs them to tell no one that he is the Messiah—until they understand this properly.

16:23 Jesus strongly rebukes Peter by calling him Satan (lit adversary). Peter had insisted that the Messiah cannot suffer and die when that is the very thing Jesus came to do. Peter's thinking is shaped by Jewish expectation of a political messianic figure, who will deliver Israel from Roman oppression. Such an expectation did not involve the suffering and death of Israel's political savior.

16:27 See "A Biblical View of Angels," p. 1531.

THE TRANSFIGURATION

THE TRANSFIGURATION

17 After six days † Jesus took Peter, James, and his brother John and led them up on a high mountain by themselves. † 2 He was transfigured in front of them, and his face shone like the sun; his clothes became as white as the light. † 3 Suddenly, Moses and Elijah appeared to them, talking with him.
4 Then Peter said to Jesus, “Lord, it’s good for us to be here. I will set up † three shelters here: one for you, one for Moses, and one for Elijah.” † 5 While he was still speaking, suddenly a bright cloud covered † them, and a voice from the cloud said: “This is my beloved Son, with whom I am well-pleased. Listen to him!” † 6 When the disciples † heard this, they fell facedown and were terrified.
7 Jesus came up, touched them, and said, “Get up; don’t be afraid.” † 8 When they looked up they saw no one except Jesus alone.
9 As they were coming down the mountain, Jesus commanded them, † “Don’t tell anyone about the vision until the Son of Man is raised † from the dead.” 10 So the disciples asked him, “Why then do the scribes say that Elijah must come first?” † 11 “Elijah is coming † and will restore everything,” he replied. † † 12 “But I tell you: Elijah has already come, and they didn’t recognize him. On the contrary, they did whatever they pleased to him. In the same way the Son of Man is going to suffer at their hands.” † 13 Then the disciples understood that he had spoken to them about John the Baptist.

THE POWER OF JESUS OVER A DEMON

14 When they reached the crowd, † a man approached and knelt down before him. 15 “Lord,” he said, “have mercy on my son, because he has seizures † and suffers terribly. He often falls into the fire and often into the water. 16 I brought him to your disciples, but they couldn’t heal him.” † 17 Jesus replied, “You unbelieving and perverse generation, how long will I be with you? How long must I put up with you? Bring him here to me.” † 18 Then Jesus rebuked the demon, † and it † came out of him, † and from that moment † the boy was healed.

19 Then the disciples approached Jesus privately and said, “Why couldn’t we drive it out? ”
20 “Because of your little faith,” he † told them. “For truly I tell you, if you have faith the size of † a mustard seed, you will tell this mountain, ‘Move from here to there,’ and it will move. † Nothing will be impossible for you.” † †

THE SECOND PREDICTION OF HIS DEATH

22 As † they were gathering together † in Galilee, Jesus told them, “The Son of Man is about to be betrayed into the hands of men. 23 They will kill him, and on the third day he will be raised up.” And they were deeply distressed.

PAYING THE TEMPLE TAX

24 When they came to Capernaum, those who collected the temple tax approached Peter and said, “Doesn’t your teacher pay the temple tax? ” †
25 “Yes,” he said.

When he went into the house, Jesus spoke to him first, † “What do you think, Simon? From whom do earthly kings collect tariffs or taxes? From their sons or from strangers? ” † †

26 “From strangers,” he said. †
“Then the sons are free,” Jesus told him. 27 “But, so we won’t offend them, go to the sea, cast in a fishhook, and take the first fish that you catch. When you open its mouth you’ll find a coin. † Take it and give it to them for me and you.” †

17:2 Like Moses on Mount Sinai, those in the presence of God experience a dazzling countenance. In his transfiguration, Jesus gives the disciples a preview of his glory.

17:3 The appearance of Moses and Elijah, two of the greatest figures in Israel's history, probably represents Jesus's fulfillment of the Law and the Prophets (5:17). They also point to Jesus's significance, since Moses was regarded as the model prophet (Dt 18:18) and Elijah was the forerunner of the Messiah (11:7-10; Mal 4:5-6).

17:5 No Jew could miss the significance of the voice from the cloud: This is my beloved Son, with whom I am well-pleased. Listen to him! The voice draws attention only to God's Son, Jesus, rather than to Moses and Elijah, two of Israel's greatest figures who were also present. He alone is described as the Son, and it is to Jesus alone that God says to listen.

17:23 The disciples still did not understand what kind of Messiah Jesus was. They were hoping for a military and economic restoration for Israel, and thus were deeply distressed when Jesus taught that his kingdom is not founded on economic or military power but on the death and resurrection of the Messiah.

17:24 The OT instructed everyone over the age of twenty to pay an offering in support of the tabernacle (Ex 30:11-16). In Jesus's day, representatives of the Jerusalem priesthood traveled throughout Palestine collecting the temple tax.

WHO IS THE GREATEST?

18 At that time † † the disciples † came to Jesus and asked, "So who is greatest in the kingdom of heaven? " † 2 He called a child and had him stand among them. 3 "Truly I tell you," he said, "unless you turn and become like children, † you will never enter the kingdom of heaven. † 4 Therefore, whoever humbles himself like this child — this one is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven. 5 And whoever welcomes † one child like this in my name welcomes me.
6 "But whoever causes one of these little ones who believe in me to fall away — it would be better for him if a heavy millstone were hung around his neck and he were drowned in the depths of the sea. † 7 Woe to the world because of offenses. For offenses will inevitably come, but woe to that person by whom the offense comes. † 8 If your hand or your foot causes you to fall away, cut it off and throw it away. It is better for you to enter life maimed or lame than to have two hands or two feet and be thrown into the eternal fire. † 9 And if your eye causes you to fall away, gouge it out and throw it away. It is better for you to enter life with one eye than to have two eyes and be thrown into hellfire. † †

THE PARABLE OF THE LOST SHEEP

THE PARABLE OF THE LOST SHEEP

10 “See to it that you don’t despise one of these little ones, † because I tell you that in heaven their angels † continually view the face of my Father in heaven. † † 12 What do you think? † If someone has a hundred sheep, and one of them goes astray, won’t he leave the ninety-nine on the hillside and go and search for the stray? † 13 And if he finds it, truly I tell you, he rejoices over that sheep † more than over the ninety-nine that did not go astray. 14 In the same way, it is not the will of your Father in heaven that one of these little ones perish.

RESTORING A BROTHER

15 “If your brother sins against you, † go and rebuke him in private. † If he listens to you, you have won your brother. † 16 But if he won’t listen, take one or two others with you, so that by the testimony † of two or three witnesses every fact may be established. † † 17 If he doesn’t pay attention to them, tell the church. † † If he doesn’t pay attention even to the church, let him be like a Gentile and a tax collector to you. † 18 Truly I tell you, whatever you bind on earth will have been bound † in heaven, and whatever you loose on earth will have been loosed † in heaven. † 19 Again, truly I tell you, if two of you on earth agree about any matter that you † pray for, it will be done for you † by my Father in heaven. 20 For where two or three are gathered together in my name, I am there among them.”

THE PARABLE OF THE UNFORGIVING SERVANT

21 Then Peter approached him and asked, “Lord, how many times shall I forgive my brother or sister who sins against me? As many as seven times? ” †

22 “I tell you, not as many as seven,” Jesus replied, “but seventy times seven. † 23 “For this reason, the kingdom of heaven can be compared to a king who wanted to settle accounts with his servants. 24 When he began to settle accounts, one who owed ten thousand talents † was brought before him. 25 Since he did not have the money to pay it back, his master commanded that he, his wife, his children, and everything he had be sold to pay the debt. †

26 “At this, the servant fell facedown before him and said, ‘Be patient with me, and I will pay you everything.’ 27 Then the master of that servant had compassion, released him, and forgave him the loan.
28 “That servant went out and found one of his fellow servants who owed him a hundred denarii. † † He grabbed him, started choking him, and said, ‘Pay what you owe! ’
29 “At this, his fellow servant fell down † and began begging him, ‘Be patient with me, and I will pay you back.’ 30 But he wasn’t willing. Instead, he went and threw him into prison until he could pay what was owed. 31 When the other servants saw what had taken place, they were deeply distressed and went and reported to their master everything that had happened. 32 Then, after he had summoned him, his master said to him, ‘You wicked servant! I forgave you all that debt because you begged me. 33 Shouldn’t you also have had mercy on your fellow servant, as I had mercy on you? ’ † 34 And because he was angry, his master handed him over to the jailers to be tortured until he could pay everything that was owed. 35 So also my heavenly Father will do to you unless every one of you forgives his brother or sister † from your † heart.” †

THE QUESTION OF DIVORCE

19 When Jesus had finished saying these things, † he departed from Galilee and went to the region of Judea across the Jordan. † 2 Large crowds followed him, and he healed them there. † 3 Some Pharisees approached him to test him. They asked, “Is it lawful for a man to divorce his wife on any grounds?” †

THE MIND-BODY PROBLEM

Self-consciousness is a blessing of being human—and an aspect in which the burden of sin may be felt acutely. The capacity to reflect on one’s own existence and actions and to make rational choices based on such reflection distinguishes humans from other living creatures. In this way, human beings have the privilege of bearing a unique likeness to the Creator and enjoying communication and friendship with him.

Yet where harmony originally existed in God’s good creation, the effects of sin have produced tension, shaking human self-perception. For example, the error of materialism reduces the mind and soul to physical existence. On the other hand, some worldviews identify the self entirely with the spiritual aspect of human nature and see it as alien to or conflicting with the body. At the level of individual experience, such body-self dualism can lead to doubts about the objective reality, integrity, and goodness of one’s bodily identity. Interpersonally, it can lead to denying the dignity of all humans at all stages of life.

Both personally and relationally, the temptation is to treat the body as a means to the end of self-gratification, ignoring its status as an integral part of human nature and denying the moral implications of choices about bodily actions. Such views are at odds with the biblical account of the nature of the human as a union of body and soul, created in the image of God, and designed to represent his glory.

THE GOOD OF CREATION AND THE IMAGE OF GOD

The created, material world is a result of God’s good design, intended to display his glory (Pss 8:1-4; 19:1). Sin has marred that goodness and distorted that reflection, and no part of creation has escaped the curse of the fall. But this does not destroy the reality of God’s design. Nor should humans ignore God’s purposes in creation, or treat the physical world with moral ambivalence. This is especially true when it comes to the physical aspects of human nature itself.

To be human, the Bible teaches, is to be made in the image of God (Gn 1:26-28; 5:1-2; 9:6). Distinctive aspects of this representation of the glory of God are illuminated in the details about God’s creation of Adam and Eve (Gn 1:26-28; 2:7,21-22). Genesis 1:26 presents God’s deliberation about his intention in creating the human race: “Then God said, ‘Let us make man in our image, according to our likeness.’” No other part of the creation account discloses this divine reasoning and intention, and in the forming of no creature other than humans is analogous rational deliberation found. Previously in the creation account, God had simply commanded the earth to bring forth living plants and animals. When he makes Adam, by contrast, God takes earthly matter, fashions it into human form and breathes life into it: “Then the LORD God formed the man out of the dust from the ground and breathed the breath of life into his nostrils, and the man became a living being” (Gn 2:7).

The spiritual nature and rationality of humans reflect attributes of God in ways that other creatures do not, but the image of God is not limited to these or any particular part or capacity of a person. The totality of what humans were created to be represents God, in body, soul, intellect, will, and all faculties and capacities. The body, like the soul, is essential to human nature (Jb 10:8-12; Is 64:8). That the body is an integral aspect of the image of God is confirmed in the creation account of God’s forming humanity of matter and spirit, the incarnation of Christ (whom to see is to see the Father, according to Jn 14:9), and the promise of a bodily resurrection after death (1Co 15:44-45,49).

Once again, no part of any person remains untouched by the effects of sin. But neither can sin obliterate the image of God (Gn 9:6). Redemption reaches far as the curse is found and restores believers in the image of God (Eph 4:24; Col 3:10).

Scripture repeatedly conveys that God's design of humans in general and each human life in particular is deliberate and full of care. Psalms 8 and 139 especially highlight this, as these excerpts from Psalm 139:13-16 illustrate: "For it was you who created my inward parts; you knit me together in my mother's womb. . . . My bones were not hidden from you when I was made in secret. . . . Your eyes saw me when I was formless; all my days were written in your book and planned before a single one of them began."

IMPLICATIONS

God's purposeful creation of humans in his image as a union of body and soul has many implications. Because human existence entails both body and soul, it is the organic unity, the whole person, that makes all human choices and takes all human actions. God's design of this reality shapes norms for self-perception and personal conduct, as well as interpersonal relations and social ethics.

One important aspect of imaging God is the charge to exercise leadership and stewardship of creation according to God's purposes, reflecting his authority over all the earth (Gn 1:27). This includes the responsibility to make choices with one's own body in keeping with God's design and to submit all of one's existence to the lordship of Christ (1Co 6:19-20).

To be made in the image of God means that each person is created male or female (Gn 1:28; 2:20-22; 5:1-2). Sex is a created biological reality, not a construct of human socialization. The suggestion that gender identity exists as a category different from or even at odds with biological sex assumes an opposition between body and self that is contrary to what Scripture teaches about God's design of humans. An individual bodily reality, including being created male or female, is one of the most particularized forms of God's good provision for each person. The experience of this gift may be troubled by sin but God's design is not the source of such grief, and his redemption offers the hope of overcoming it.

These truths about the nature of persons also have implications for how we treat others. For example, some perspectives in ethical debates suggest that human dignity depends on the presence of particular attributes, such as a certain level of rationality or functionality. Such arguments have been used to justify abortion in the case of severe abnormalities in unborn children or assisted suicide for those whose mental or physical incapacities have become exceptionally burdensome. But to determine a person's right to life on such variable characteristics of human existence is arbitrary. Rather than the presence of a spectrum of particular attributes, the definitive fact of human nature created in the image of God is the biblical basis of human dignity.

Only after crowning creation with humanity, does God declare all he has made "very good" (Gn 1:31). Humans have unique dignity as the image of God in body and soul and unique responsibility to bring him glory in every thought, word, and deed.

JENNIFER A. MARSHALL

4 "Haven't you read," he replied, "that he who created † them in the beginning made them male and female, † † 5 and he also said, 'For this reason a man will leave his father and mother and be joined to his wife, and the two will become one flesh'? † † 6 So they are no longer two, but one flesh. Therefore, what God has joined together, let no one separate."

7 “Why then,” they asked him, “did Moses command us to give divorce papers † and to send her away? ”
8 He told them, “Moses permitted you to divorce your wives because of the hardness of your hearts, but it was not like that from the beginning. 9 I tell you, whoever divorces his wife, except for sexual immorality, and marries another commits adultery.” † †
10 His disciples † said to him, “If the relationship of a man with his wife is like this, it’s better not to marry.”
11 He responded, “Not everyone can accept this saying, but only those to whom it has been given. † 12 For there are eunuchs who were born that way from their mother’s womb, there are eunuchs who were made by men, and there are eunuchs who have made themselves that way because of the kingdom of heaven. The one who is able to accept it should accept it.”

BLESSING THE CHILDREN

13 Then children were brought to Jesus for him to place his hands on them and pray, but the disciples rebuked them. † 14 Jesus said, “Leave the children alone, and don’t try to keep them from coming to me, because the kingdom of heaven belongs to such as these.” † † 15 After placing his hands on them, he went on from there.

THE RICH YOUNG RULER

16 Just then someone came up and asked him, † “Teacher, what good must I do to have eternal life? ” †
17 “Why do you ask me about what is good? ” † he said to him. “There is only one who is good. † If you want to enter into life, keep the commandments.” †
18 “Which ones? ” he asked him.
Jesus answered: Do not murder; do not commit adultery; do not steal; do not bear false witness; † 19 honor your father and your mother; and love your neighbor as yourself. † †
20 “I have kept all these,” † the young man told him. “What do I still lack? ”
21 “If you want to be perfect,” † Jesus said to him, “go, sell your belongings and give to the poor, † and you will have treasure in heaven. Then come, follow me.”

22 When the young man heard that, he went away grieving, because he had many possessions.

POSSESSIONS AND THE KINGDOM

23 Jesus said to his disciples, “Truly I tell you, it will be hard for a rich person to enter the kingdom of heaven. † 24 Again I tell you, it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich person to enter the kingdom of God.” †
25 When the disciples heard this, they were utterly astonished and asked, “Then who can be saved?”
26 Jesus looked at them and said, “With man this is impossible, but with God all things are possible.” †
27 Then Peter responded to him, “See, we have left everything and followed you. So what will there be for us?”
28 Jesus said to them, “Truly I tell you, in the renewal of all things, † when the Son of Man sits on his glorious throne, † you who have followed me will also sit on twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel. 29 And everyone who has left houses or brothers or sisters or father or mother † or children or fields because of my name will receive a hundred times more and will inherit eternal life. † 30 But many who are first will be last, and the last first. †

19:4-6 See “Christian Worldview and Same-Sex Marriage,” p. 1499.

19:3-9 This is the second time Jesus comments on divorce in Matthew (see the note at Mt 5:32). Here Jesus expands on his earlier comments. God never intended for anyone to divorce—what God has joined together, let no one separate. (See "The Christian Worldview and the Early Chapters of Genesis," p. 32.) But because sinful people are prone to victimize the weak, in cases of sexual immorality, God allows for divorce and requires those seeking a divorce to conform to certain legal requirements (see Dt 24:1-4).

19:12 Jesus uses the term eunuchs to describe someone who does not engage in normal marital sexual relations. Just as some people cannot have such relations because of congenital defects, and others cannot because their genitals have been mutilated (e.g., by castration), so there are some who voluntarily abstain from marriage and sex in order to focus on serving the kingdom of heaven.

19:24-26 Jesus engages in hyperbole—exaggeration for emphasis—when he says it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich person to enter the kingdom of God. Rich people can follow Jesus, but being wealthy makes it much more difficult because of the lure of greed, idolatry, and the false sense of security riches create. Jesus's humorous image emphasizes this point. Consequently, the disciples begin to despair of anyone being saved, to which Jesus responds that with God all things are possible.

THE PARABLE OF THE VINEYARD WORKERS

20 "For the kingdom of heaven is like a landowner who went out early in the morning to hire workers for his vineyard. † 2 After agreeing with the workers on one denarius, † he sent them into his vineyard for the day.
3 When he went out about nine in the morning, † he saw others standing in the marketplace doing nothing. 4 He said to them, 'You also go into my vineyard, and I'll give you whatever is right.' So off they went. 5 About noon and about three, † he went out again and did the same thing. 6 Then about five † he went and found others standing around † and said to them, 'Why have you been standing here all day doing nothing? ' 7 " 'Because no one hired us,' they said to him.
" 'You also go into my vineyard,' he told them. † 8 When evening came, the owner of the vineyard told his foreman, 'Call the workers and give them their pay, † starting with the last and ending with the first.' 9 "When those who were hired about five came, they each received one denarius. 10 So when the first ones came, they assumed they would get more, but they also received a denarius each. 11 When they received it, they began to complain to the landowner: 12 'These last men put in one hour, and you made them equal to us who bore the burden of the day's work and the burning heat.' † 13 "He replied to one of them, 'Friend, I'm doing you no wrong. Didn't you agree with me on a denarius? † 14 Take what's yours and go. I want to give this last man the same as I gave you. 15 Don't I have the right to do what I want with what is mine? Are you jealous † because I'm generous? ' † † 16 "So the last will be first, and the first last." † †

THE THIRD PREDICTION OF HIS DEATH

17 While going up to Jerusalem, † Jesus took the twelve disciples aside privately and said to them on the way, 18 "See, we are going up to Jerusalem. The Son of Man will be handed over to the chief priests and scribes, and they will condemn him to death. † 19 They will hand him over to the Gentiles † to be mocked, flogged, † and crucified, and on the third day he will be raised. " †

SUFFERING AND SERVICE

20 Then the mother of Zebedee's sons approached him with her sons. † She knelt down to ask him for something. † 21 "What do you want? " he asked her.
"Promise," † she said to him, "that these two sons of mine may sit, one on your right and the other on your left, in your kingdom." † 22 Jesus answered, "You don't know what you're asking. Are you able to drink the cup that I am about to drink? " † †
"We are able," they said to him.
23 He told them, "You will indeed drink my cup, † but to sit at my right and left is not mine to give; instead, it is for those for whom it has been prepared by my Father." †
24 When the ten disciples heard this, they became indignant with the two brothers. 25 Jesus called them over and said, "You know that the rulers of the Gentiles lord it over them, and those in high positions act as tyrants over them. 26 It must not be like that among you. On the contrary, whoever wants to become great among you must be your servant, † 27 and whoever wants to be first among you must be your slave; 28 just as the Son of Man did not come to be served, but to serve, † and to give his life as a ransom for many." †

TWO BLIND MEN HEALED

29 As they were leaving Jericho, a large crowd followed him. † 30 There were two blind men sitting by the road. When they heard that Jesus was passing by, they cried out, “Lord, have mercy on us, Son of David!” 31 The crowd demanded that they keep quiet, but they cried out all the more, “Lord, have mercy on us, Son of David!” †

32 Jesus stopped, called them, and said, “What do you want me to do for you?”
33 “Lord,” they said to him, “open our eyes.” 34 Moved with compassion, Jesus touched their eyes. Immediately they could see, and they followed him.

20:20-28 Traditionally, the seat directly to the right of a judge, king, or any important official, was reserved for the honored guest, trusted advisor, or beloved family member. The seat directly to the left was of only a little less importance. The mother of Zebedee’s sons asks that Jesus make her two sons, James and John, the highest-ranking officials in his coming kingdom. She misunderstands that the kingdom of God is not founded on political and economic power, but is inaugurated by the life, death, and resurrection of the Messiah. Jesus says that the highest-ranking people in his kingdom will be marked by suffering and service, not elevation and privilege.

THE TRIUMPHAL ENTRY

21 When they approached Jerusalem † and came to Bethphage at the Mount of Olives, † Jesus then sent two disciples, 2 telling them, “Go into the village ahead of you. At once you will find a donkey tied there with her foal. Untie them and bring them to me. 3 If anyone says anything to you, say that the Lord needs them, and he will send them at once.”

4 This took place so that what was spoken through the prophet might be fulfilled:

5 Tell Daughter Zion, “See, your King is coming to you, gentle, and mounted on a donkey,
and on a colt,
the foal of a donkey.” † †

6 The disciples went and did just as Jesus directed them. 7 They brought the donkey and its foal; then they laid their clothes on them, and he sat on them. 8 A very large crowd spread their clothes on the road; others were cutting branches from the trees and spreading them on the road. 9 Then the crowds who went ahead of him and those who followed shouted:
Hosanna to the Son of David!
Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord! †
Hosanna in the highest heaven! † 10 When he entered Jerusalem, the whole city was in an uproar, saying, "Who is this?" 11 The crowds were saying, "This is the prophet Jesus † from Nazareth in Galilee."

CLEANSING THE TEMPLE

12 Jesus went into the temple † † and threw out all those buying and selling. He overturned the tables of the money changers and the chairs of those selling doves. † 13 He said to them, "It is written, my house will be called a house of prayer, † but you are making it a den of thieves!" † †

CHILDREN PRAISE JESUS

14 The blind and the lame came to him in the temple, and he healed them.
15 When the chief priests and the scribes saw the wonders that he did and the children shouting in the temple, "Hosanna to the Son of David!" they were indignant 16 and said to him, "Do you hear what these children are saying?"
Jesus replied, "Yes, have you never read:
You have prepared † praise †
from the mouths of infants and nursing babies?" † 17 Then he left them, went out of the city to Bethany, † and spent the night there.

THE BARREN FIG TREE

18 Early in the morning, † as he was returning to the city, he was hungry.
19 Seeing a lone fig tree by the road, he went up to it and found nothing on it except leaves. And he said to it, “May no fruit ever come from you again!” At once the fig tree withered.

20 When the disciples saw it, they were amazed and said, “How did the fig tree wither so quickly?”
21 Jesus answered them, “Truly I tell you, if you have faith and do not doubt, you will not only do what was done to the fig tree, but even if you tell this mountain, ‘Be lifted up and thrown into the sea,’ it will be done. † 22 And if you believe, you will receive † whatever you ask for in prayer.”

THE AUTHORITY OF JESUS CHALLENGED

23 When he entered the temple, † the chief priests and the elders of the people came to him as he was teaching and said, “By what authority are you doing these things? Who gave you this authority?” †
24 Jesus answered them, “I will also ask you one question, and if you answer it for me, then I will tell you by what authority I do these things. 25 Did John’s baptism come from heaven, or was it of human origin?”
They discussed it among themselves, “If we say, ‘From heaven,’ he will say to us, ‘Then why didn’t you believe him?’ † 26 But if we say, ‘Of human origin,’ we’re afraid of the crowd, † because everyone considers John to be a prophet.” † 27 So they answered Jesus, “We don’t know.”
And he said to them, “Neither will I tell you by what authority I do these things.

THE PARABLE OF THE TWO SONS

28 “What do you think? A man had two sons. He went to the first and said, ‘My son, go work in the vineyard today.’ † 29 “He answered, ‘I don’t want to,’ but later he changed his mind and went.
30 Then the man went to the other and said the same thing. ‘I will, sir,’ he answered, but he didn’t go. 31 Which of the two did his father’s will?”
They said, “The first.”
Jesus said to them, “Truly I tell you, tax collectors and prostitutes are entering the kingdom of God before you. 32 For John came to you in the way of righteousness, † and you didn’t believe him. Tax collectors and prostitutes did believe him; but you, when you saw it, didn’t even change your minds then and believe him.

THE PARABLE OF THE VINEYARD OWNER

33 “Listen † to another parable: † There was a landowner, who planted a vineyard, put a fence around it, dug a winepress in it, and built a watchtower. †
He leased it to tenant farmers and went away. † 34 When the time came to harvest fruit, he sent his servants to the farmers to collect his fruit. 35 The farmers took his servants, beat one, killed another, and stoned a third. † 36 Again, he sent other servants, more than the first group, and they did the same to them. 37 Finally, he sent his son to them. ‘They will respect my son,’ he said.
38 “But when the tenant farmers saw the son, they said to each other, ‘This is the heir. Come, let’s kill him and take his inheritance.’ † 39 So they seized him, threw him out of the vineyard, and killed him. 40 Therefore, when the owner of the vineyard comes, what will he do to those farmers? ” 41 “He will completely destroy those terrible men,” they told him, “and lease his vineyard to other farmers who will give him his fruit at the harvest.” † 42 Jesus said to them, “Have you never read in the Scriptures:
The stone that the builders rejected has become the cornerstone. †
This is what the Lord has done and it is wonderful in our eyes? † † 43 Therefore I tell you, the kingdom of God will be taken away from you and given to a people producing its fruit. 44 Whoever falls on this stone will be broken to pieces; † but on whomever it falls, it will shatter him.” † 45 When the chief priests and the Pharisees heard his parables, † they knew he was speaking about them. 46 Although they were looking for a way to arrest him, they feared the crowds, because the people regarded him as a prophet. †

21:6-11 Jesus's intentional and public fulfillment of the messianic prophecy in Zechariah 9:9 sparks an outbreak of messianic fervor in Jerusalem. Crowds line the streets and shout Hosanna to the Son of David! as he enters the city. As Matthew has repeatedly made clear, they misunderstand the nature of Jesus's kingdom, expecting the Messiah to deliver them from Roman oppression. When Jesus does not live up to their expectations, they quickly turn on him (e.g., 27:20-23).

21:12 The money changers exchanged currencies to allow foreign Jews to buy and make the appropriate sacrifices in the temple. They had reduced the worship of God to a financial transaction and were notorious for gouging pilgrims and the poor.

21:42 The cornerstone was the stone at the top of an arch or at the top corner of a building. Scripture uses it as a figure of speech that means "crucial" or "most important." Though Israel rejected the Messiah, the life, death, and resurrection of Jesus is still the foundation on which the kingdom of God is built.

THE PARABLE OF THE WEDDING BANQUET

22 Once more Jesus spoke to them in parables: 2 "The kingdom of heaven † is like a king who gave a wedding banquet for his son. † 3 He sent his servants to summon those invited to the banquet, † but they didn't want to come. 4 Again, he sent out other servants and said, 'Tell those who are invited: See, I've prepared my dinner; my oxen and fattened cattle have been slaughtered, and everything is ready. Come to the wedding banquet.' † 5 "But they paid no attention and went away, one to his own farm, another to his business, 6 while the rest seized his servants, mistreated them, and killed them.
7 The king † was enraged, and he sent out his troops, killed those murderers, and burned down their city.
8 "Then he told his servants, 'The banquet is ready, but those who were invited were not worthy. † 9 Go then to where the roads exit the city and invite everyone you find to the banquet.' † 10 So those servants went out on the roads and gathered everyone they found, both evil and good. The wedding banquet † was filled with guests. † 11 When the king came in to see the guests, he saw a man there who was not dressed for a wedding. † 12 So he said to him, 'Friend, † how did you get in here without wedding clothes?' The man was speechless.

13 “Then the king told the attendants, ‘Tie him up hand and foot, † and throw him into the outer darkness, where there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.’
14 “For many are invited, but few are chosen.” †

GOD AND CAESAR

15 Then the Pharisees went and plotted how to trap him by what he said. † †
16 So they sent their disciples to him, along with the Herodians. † “Teacher,” they said, “we know that you are truthful and teach truthfully the way of God.
You don’t care what anyone thinks nor do you show partiality. † † 17 Tell us, then, what you think. Is it lawful to pay taxes to Caesar † or not? ” 18 Perceiving their malicious intent, Jesus said, “Why are you testing me, hypocrites? 19 Show me the coin used for the tax.” They brought him a denarius. † 20 “Whose image and inscription is this? ” he asked them.
21 “Caesar’s,” they said to him.
Then he said to them, “Give, then, to Caesar the things that are Caesar’s, and to God the things that are God’s.” † 22 When they heard this, they were amazed.
So they left him and went away.

THE SADDUCEES AND THE RESURRECTION

23 That same day some Sadducees, † who say there is no resurrection, came up to him and questioned him: † 24 “Teacher, Moses said, if a man dies, having no children, his brother is to marry his wife and raise up offspring for his brother. † † 25 Now there were seven brothers among us. The first got married and died. Having no offspring, he left his wife to his brother. 26 The same thing happened to the second also, and the third, and so on to all seven. 27 Last of all, the woman died. 28 In the resurrection, then, whose wife will she be of the seven? For they all had married her.” † 29 Jesus answered them, “You are mistaken, because you don’t know the Scriptures or the power of God. 30 For in the resurrection they neither marry nor are given in marriage but are like † angels in heaven. † 31 Now concerning the resurrection of the dead, haven’t you read what was spoken to you by God: 32 I am the God of Abraham and the God of Isaac and the God of Jacob? † †

He † is not the God of the dead, but of the living."
33 And when the crowds heard this, they were astonished at his teaching.

THE PRIMARY COMMANDS

34 When † the Pharisees heard that he had silenced the Sadducees, they came together. 35 And one of them, an expert in the law, asked a question to test him: †

CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW, THE GREAT COMMANDMENT,AND THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

Becoming a Christian who holds to a biblical worldview means learning to think well and to think Christianly. And in noting these two points, we want to say that they must be both at once. Making this observation recognizes that it is possible to be quite thoughtful without being Christian, and that it is possible to be a Christian without being thoughtful. Frankly, in our current duality-promoting context, either of these would be easier for most people to contemplate. What is challenging is to love God with our minds in vigorous and vital ways, without failing to love God with our hearts, while also loving others. We believe, however, that such holistic living is precisely what is needed at this time in the church and in our culture.

To be a thoughtful Christian does not mean that one only thinks about Christian matters, though the way one thinks should be thoroughly shaped by Christian teaching, the pattern of Christian truth. A person holding a biblical worldview will explore a wide, complex, and diverse range of topics, through the lens of the Christian faith as illustrated in the notes of this study Bible. Such exploration implies more than being a serious-thinking person about life in general, even by a person who claims to follow Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior, for unfortunately, it is quite possible to be a Christ-follower without thinking faithfully or consistently in Christian categories. We also recognize that there are times, even when we want to be faithful believers holding to a Christian worldview that we, like the apostle Paul, often do not do the good we want to do (Rm 7:14-16). Being a Christian who thinks in light of a worldview framework, then, has more to do with the intentional way we process ideas, issues, and information and learn to think in a Christian manner on a consistent basis.

THE CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW AND THE GREAT COMMANDMENT

We certainly want to love God with our hearts and our souls. We must, however, as Christ-followers who desire to be Great Commandment Christians living in line with the teaching of Jesus (Mt 22:37-39), love God with our minds as well. Learning to be a Christian holding a biblical worldview, or, to express it differently, to think in Christian categories, will shape the way we think about all aspects of life—whether we are talking about businesses, health care agencies, governments, social structures, recreational activities, and our homes and churches, too. To hold a truly Christian worldview means that we seek to think differently about the way we live and love, the way we worship and serve, the way we work to earn our livelihood, and the way we learn and teach.

More than just new ideas and enhanced programs for churches and Christian organizations, the need of the hour is for Christ-followers who reflect distinctively Christian thinking, the kind of serious-minded thinking that results in faithful engagement with the great ideas of history and the issues of our day. Such thinking means seeing all of life and learning from a Christian vantage point; this is thinking shaped by the Christian faith.

Beginning with these commitments to the Great Commandment that shape our thinking, Christians holding a biblical worldview recognize that even though it may not be readily apparent at first glance, there is a unity of all knowledge that can be observed, because all true knowledge flows from the one Creator to his one creation. Thus, all truth has its source in God, composing a single universe of knowledge. This approach to worldview thinking involves the development and construction of a convictional way of seeing the world by which we can see, learn, and interpret life from the vantage point of God's revelation to us. Christians are encouraged to be intellectually curious and to grow in their understanding and appreciation of God, of his creation and grace, and of humanity's place of privilege and responsibility in God's world.

Christian worldview thinking involves the renewal of the mind by God's Spirit (Rm 12:1-2), for such thinking is shaped by God's revelation to us as we contemplate God and his creation. In doing so, we recall Augustine's model of faith, seeking understanding, acknowledging that wherever we find truth, it is the Lord's, even as faithful believers struggle with issues and carry on debate in pursuit of truth. In doing so, we will hear afresh the admonition of the apostle Paul to "take every thought captive to obey Christ" (2Co 10:5).

Christians having a biblical worldview recognize their dependence on God in seeking to follow this course, for such a lofty calling can only take place as our minds are renewed by God's Spirit (Rm 12:2). A serious commitment to Christian worldview thinking and to the renewing of minds, esteems exploration and genuine intellectual struggle while wrestling with the culture-shaping ideas and issues of the past and the present. We do so with faith commitments, seeking to discover and expound God's truth as it has been revealed in creation and redemption, and as it has been made alive and understandable for us by the ministry of God's Spirit.

THE CHRISTIAN WORLDVIEW AND THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

To the extent we succeed in putting these important tenets into practice, we will begin to see holistic development of the intellectual, spiritual, moral, and character formation among thoughtful Christians. At the heart of this development is the belief that God has revealed himself in creation, in history, in our consciences, and ultimately in Christ, and that this revelation is now primarily available to us in Holy Scripture. This revealed truth is the foundation of all we believe, teach, and do. We have observed that this God-revealed truth provides the framework for understanding and interpreting our world and the events of human history, as well as our responsibilities toward God and one another in this world, helping us know how to love God with our hearts, souls, minds, and strength.

We believe that a person who thinks deeply about the things of God and applies these truths wisely will be equipped to live well in relation to others in the world, thus being prepared to lead others in thoughtful ethical and moral reflection. We also recognize that the fullest embodiment of good, love, holiness, grace, and truth is found in Jesus Christ (Jn 1:14-18). Right thinking, as important as it may be, is not all there is to the Christian faith; we must also mind the heart.

Thoughtful Christians will seek to initiate spiritual transformation through the renewing of minds (Rm 12:2) and the doing of the Word (Jms 1:22). We are to love our neighbor and care for orphans and widows (Jms 1:27). We are to be agents of reconciliation in the church and in society, building bridges where there are walls—particularly with reference to the need for ethnic reconciliation (Eph 2:11-18).

This is what it means to love our neighbors, to be doers of the Word. We are normally hearers of the Word, thinkers about and students of the Word, but doing the Word puts a different shape on what it means for us to apply Christian teaching to all aspects of life. Reflective Christian thinking, therefore, points to ethics. Certainly it is possible to act one way and to think another, but it is not possible to do so for long (Pr 23:7). Since one of the goals for helping Christ-followers who become thoughtful Christians involves helping them live with a lifestyle that issues in glory to God, then we must think—and think deeply—not only of personal ethics, but also of the implications of the biblical faith for social, economic, and political ethics.

We need to seek God's guidance in how we can best contribute to constructive exercises that will help us honor, respect, and love one another. We want to model the love and forgiveness of Christ in relationships, in the home, in local churches, and in the marketplace. We desire to be quick to offer forgiveness when we have been wronged. At the same time, we want to claim responsibility and seek forgiveness when we have wronged others. We will ask God to help us become agents of reconciliation to a broken and hurting world, which remains in dysfunctional disorder as a result of the presence of sin since the fall. We trust that God will give us grace to be agents of redemption in this broken world and to embrace one another regardless of national, ethnic, or socioeconomic background.

Thinking Christians should also be kind and considerate Christians. Humility, gentleness, love, and kindness are virtues of thoughtful believers. We are to speak in ways that are helpful in building up others. In our actions we are to be kind and loving, reflecting the character of God who has forgiven us in Christ (Eph 4:32). This results in lives that encourage harmony in relationships and sensitivity to the needs of others.

On this foundation can be built authentic Christian communities characterized by "love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, and self-control" (Gl 5:22-23). Divine love issues in interpersonal love, influencing even the most basic elements of life. If we do not show love to one another, the world will question the truth claims and authenticity of the Christian faith. Christians holding to a worldview based on Scripture need to be convictional, but also civil and conciliatory at the same time. Ultimately the love and grace that has been lavished on us will lead us to lives of dependence on God and thoughtfulness toward others. With wisdom, humility, and hope, let us recognize that the calling to be faithful and thoughtful Christians involves being ready to provide an answer for the hope that is ours through Jesus Christ the Lord (1Pt 3:15).

RELIGIOUS HYPOCRITES DENOUNCED

23 Then † Jesus spoke to the crowds and to his disciples: † 2 “The scribes and the Pharisees are seated in the chair of Moses. † 3 Therefore do whatever they tell you, and observe it. But don’t do what they do, because they don’t practice what they teach. † 4 They tie up heavy loads that are hard to carry † and put them on people’s shoulders, but they themselves aren’t willing to lift a finger to move them. † 5 They do everything † to be seen by others: They enlarge their phylacteries † and lengthen their tassels. † †
6 They love the place of honor at banquets, the front seats in the synagogues, †
7 greetings in the marketplaces, and to be called ‘Rabbi’ by people.
8 “But you are not to be called ‘Rabbi,’ because you have one Teacher, † and you are all brothers and sisters. † 9 Do not call anyone on earth your father, because you have one Father, who is in heaven. † 10 You are not to be called instructors either, because you have one Instructor, the Messiah. 11 The greatest among you will be your servant. † 12 Whoever exalts himself will be humbled, and whoever humbles himself will be exalted. † 13 “Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! You shut the door of the kingdom of heaven in people’s faces. For you don’t go in, and you don’t allow those entering to go in. † † 15 “Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! You travel over land and sea to make one convert, † and when he becomes one, you make him twice as fit for hell † as you are!
16 “Woe to you, blind guides, † who say, ‘Whoever takes an oath by the temple, it means nothing. But whoever takes an oath † by the gold of the temple is bound by his oath.’ † 17 Blind fools! For which is greater, the gold or the temple that sanctified the gold? 18 Also, ‘Whoever takes an oath by the altar, it means nothing; but whoever takes an oath by the gift that is on it is bound by his oath.’ 19 Blind people! † For which is greater, the gift or the altar that sanctifies the gift? † 20 Therefore, the one who takes an oath by the altar takes an oath by it and by everything on it. 21 The one who takes an oath by the temple takes an oath by it and by him who dwells † in it. 22 And the one who takes an oath by heaven takes an oath by God's throne † and by him who sits on it. † 23 "Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! You pay a tenth of † mint, dill, and cumin, and yet you have neglected the more important matters of the law — justice, † mercy, and faithfulness. † These things should have been done without neglecting the others. 24 Blind guides! † You strain out a gnat, but gulp down a camel!

25 "Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! You clean the outside of the cup and dish, but inside they are full of greed † and self-indulgence. † 26 Blind Pharisee! First clean the inside of the cup, † so that the outside of it † may also become clean.
27 "Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! You are like whitewashed tombs, † which appear beautiful on the outside, but inside are full of the bones of the dead and every kind of impurity. 28 In the same way, on the outside you seem righteous to people, but inside you are full of hypocrisy and lawlessness.
29 "Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! You build the tombs of the prophets and decorate the graves of the righteous, 30 and you say, 'If we had lived in the days of our ancestors, we wouldn't have taken part with them in shedding the prophets' blood.' 31 So you testify against yourselves that you are descendants of those who murdered the prophets. 32 Fill up, then, the measure of your ancestors' sins! †
33 "Snakes! Brood of vipers! How can you escape being condemned to hell? † † 34 This is why I am sending you prophets, † sages, and scribes. Some of them you will kill and crucify, and some of them you will flog in your synagogues † and pursue from town to town. 35 So all the righteous blood shed on the earth will be charged to you, † from the blood of righteous Abel to the blood of Zechariah, † son of Berechiah, whom you murdered between the sanctuary and the altar. † 36 Truly I tell you, all these things will come on this generation. †

JESUS'S LAMENTING OVER JERUSALEM

37 “Jerusalem, Jerusalem, † who kills the prophets and stones those who are sent to her. How often I wanted to gather your children together, as a hen gathers her chicks † under her wings, but you were not willing! † 38 See, your house is left to you desolate. † 39 For I tell you, you will not see me again until you say, ‘Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord’!” † †
